England Has 1,180,000 Idle Men And Is Worried Over the Winter Outlook; Statesmen Blame France's Ruhr Policy

By the United Press.
LONDON, July 26.—Despite the customary summer easing of the industrial situation, unemployment is still a serious problem in England, and responsible leaders of British statecraft and industry are worried, as the coming fall and winter will almost certainly aggravate the situation.

Sporadic strikes and labor troubles cannot be blamed for the state of affairs, as this year such disturbances have been fewer than usual.

Yet, on a recent count there were 1,180,000 persons officially registered as unemployed and in receipt of the government's "dole."

Politicians, labor men, and industrialists do not hesitate to place the blame largely on the French occupation of the Ruhr district, which, apart from its paralyzing effect on German industry has seriously affected European trade and industry. Britain, which in pre-war days had the largest share of Germany's trade, has been affected more than most countries, and in nearly every branch of industry the repercussions of France's Ruhr policy is seen.

Premier Baldwin himself a business man as well as a statesman, was one of the first to see this, and he has been working might and main to ease the situation, although naturally hampered by the usages of diplomacy and the necessity of preserving European political balance.

Blames Trouble on France.
Some of the leaders of British industry have been very outspoken on the subject, a notable example being Mr. W. Clare Lees, the Manchester cotton operator. Lees, in a speech before the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, while scoring Germany's truculence, evasions and procrastination on the subject of reparations, and voicing Britain's sympathy towards France, roundly denounced the Ruhr adventure, and pointed out that the whole of Europe and, in fact, the world, was suffering from the Franco-German "blood feud."

He told France that she was treading the road to destruction. Not only German destruction, but French destruction, British destruction and European destruction.

"You cannot pursue a policy of destruction and reconstruction at one and the same time," he said. And he insisted that the continued ferment in which the world was kept was due to fear, racial animosities, duplicity of heart and purpose.

Dealing with the effect of the Franco-German impasse on British industry, he instances his own trade—cotton—which was suffering severely thru lack of German markets, and holding up of the intricate system of exchange on which the trade depends for its existence.

He pointed out that as a result the American section of the cotton trade was suffering more from lack of employment than any other trade in the country.

While the statesmen and politicians are endeavoring to settle the Ruhr deadlock, some relief has been obtained thru emigration—many thousands having emigrated to Canada, Australia and other countries, but it is pointed out that these are the most desirable type of artisans, agriculturalists and general workers, who are not to be confused with hardened recipients of the unemployment "dole."

Large sums have been spent on relief works, but with the continual drain on the countries taxable resources, such temporary palliatives cannot be increased and, in fact, must be steadily reduced.

Thus, while the unemployment problem is more or less "routine" and fails to attract much attention during the summer, it is clear that it will become a very serious one with the approach of winter.

Labor declares that absolute bedrock has been reached as regards wages scales, and the taxpayer is equally insistent that further subsidies or relief schemes are impossible.

Hence the importance attached to the Ruhr deadlock by British politicians, and the insistence of industrialists and workers on a speedy rehabilitation of European trade and industry.

The smartest dog we know of bark at every man he sees carrying a walking stick.

S. M. U. SUMMER SCHOOL TO START SECOND TERM

DALLAS, July 25.—Thirty-five courses will be offered at Southern Methodist University during the second term of the summer session, beginning Wednesday, it was announced by Registrar Robert Lee Brewer. The first term ends Tuesday and the second will end Sept. 4. The regular school year will begin Sept. 26.

Included in the curriculum for the second term are courses in biology, chemistry, accounting, banking and finance, economics, education, English, English Bible, French, history, mathematics, philosophy and psychology, physics, political science, sociology and Spanish.

There will be special courses for those teachers who wish to continue building toward higher certificates, and at the same time to obtain credit toward their college degrees. Educational psychology, introduction to secondary education, the administrative problems of the high school, administration and the teaching of high school English are some of the courses particularly designed for teachers.

Re-medical students will find work offered them in biology, chemistry and physics during the second term. The school of business administration will continue at normal, all of the Federal vocational board students remaining for the full session.

Methodist University Will Continue Employment Bureau

Special to the Avalanche.
DALLAS, July 26.—To make it possible for any student, no matter how poverty-stricken, to attend college, will be the aim of the employment bureau which is to be initiated at Southern Methodist University this fall, according to an announcement by Dr. Charles C. Sealeman, president.

Vice-President H. M. Whaling, Jr. will be in charge of the bureau. He has announced plans for making it the most comprehensive student labor exchange possible.

There will be made a survey of the student body, classifying each student according to his capacities and his requirements. Corresponding to this survey will be one of the business houses in Dallas and vicinity. The purpose of the bureau will be to find for each student the kind of work for which he is most fitted, and to attempt to find for as many employers as possible, the type of student labor which will not only be satisfactory, but will help to remove the misapprehension still prevailing in some mind, that college students are averse to toil.

This year the bureau is to be organized on a strictly business basis. The school has shown its sincere intentions in the announcement of President Sealeman that in the future student help will be used in the University dining halls instead of waiters employed from outside as heretofore.

President Sealeman has appealed to the faculty and to all friends of the school to find as many places for student-workers as possible. He suggested that in many cases housewives now employing maids and yard boys might find it convenient and desirable to give students the chance to do this work. Many girls students would be glad of the opportunity, said Dr. Sealeman, to do housework for the change to attend college.

Last year S. M. U. ran an employment bureau on a small scale, and succeeded without special effort in placing several hundred students in remunerative positions. Two hundred of more boys and girls are earning virtually all their expenses while attending S. M. U.

Some of the places filled satisfactorily by students, and illustrating the wide diversity of opportunities open to ambitious students in a University located at S. M. U. in the heart of the most populous district of Texas, are: stenographers, waiters, salesmen, billing clerks, filing clerks, shipping clerks, chauffeurs, truck drivers, auto mechanics, postal employees, tutors, newspaper reporters, district circulation managers for newspapers, carpenters, janitors, caretakers, printers, dairymen, soda jerkers, nurserymen, hotel clerks and so on.

PARIS OVERRUN BY AN ARMY OF BIG RATS

By the United Press.
PARIS, July 26.—Paris needs a Pied Piper.

"Go la la!" cries the boulevard maiden frequently as she jumps on top of her table, kicking over a hundred fives worth of drinks and pulling her skirt up to her knees.

The only thing wrong with the picture is that a big rat—one of an army of hundreds that has invaded Paris—has scampered thru the terrace of a cafe.

Discussion of the rodent invasion has broken out in the Chamber of Deputies.

M. De Lasteyrie, the finance minister, let the rats out of the bag when he disclosed that they had eaten a mass of war records in the basement of the ministry building.

"I'm glad they did," he cried, "because it would have taken thirty years to audit the 1,500,000,000 documents. We did our best to save the papers, though. We put cats in to chase the rats away but they fraternized."

Officials of the Louvre complain that rats in the basement of the historic building are gnawing at the foundation and express the fear that if they are not expelled they must eat the other arm off the Venus de Milo.

We would hate to be a collector because they must think everybody stays mad all the time.

American Women to Attempt to Amend U. S. Constitution

By the United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Woman is coming nearer to full equality with man as far as the law is concerned.

Thirty-nine bills, designed to create in various respects equality between men and women, were passed in 24 state legislatures at their last sessions, according to a tabulation made here by Miss Emma Wold, local woman attorney, for the National Woman's Party.

All together, 251 bills were introduced aimed at equality. In Tennessee, no bills effecting women were introduced. A bill in Maine, concerning "all wives" was at first thought to be another forward step in the women's fight for recognition. Later inspection proved that it was a measure regulating the fishing industry.

Miss Wold, however, is not at all satisfied with these results. She says that the analysis shows that the number of equal rights bills introduced is small compared with the total mass presented to legislatures and that great discrimination still exists against women in many states.

"The proposition of equal rights bills passed is not satisfactory from the point of view of the Woman's Party and of other believers in legal equality for men and women," she said.

The Woman's Party has farmed an amendment to the constitution which reads "Men and women shall have equal rights thruout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction." They are planning an active campaign to have it made a part of the constitution.

INCREASING THE FARM YIELD

America's cereal yield annually is 12 tons per worker, as against 1-1/2 tons per worker for the rest of the world.

It may be accurately calculated that the wheat crop of America today, requires the equivalent of seven million working days, while if that crop were produced today on the methods used before the invention of the harvester and its succeeding devices, it would require one hundred and thirty million total working days. This reduction in three generations, of human effort devoted to a single crop, releasing one hundred and twenty-three million working days to other production, typifies the constant progress of American industry. There are countries in the world, competitors with America in the production of cereals for sale in Europe's important markets, still producing their crops with the hand methods of three generations ago.

This particular phase of agricultural production helps to explain why the streets of America's western towns are lined with automobiles, while peasant labor still ekes out a bare existence in Argentina, India and Russia.

A generation ago, a single horse, with a single plow, guided by a single man, plowed a single acre in a single day. Today, the American tractor, with a single man, will plow 8 to 10 acres in a single day.

A generation ago an industrious farmer could plant by hand 2 acres of corn each day. Today the check-rower, guided by the same single worker, will seed to 20 acres day by day.—Julius Barnes in The Nation's Business.

Lubbock Kiwanis Club Grows More Influential; Wedding Ceremony Performed at the Regular Meeting Thursday

Lubbock has a real Kiwanis club. The program committee has been so very alert during the past several meetings that they are giving the club a rep that is hard to beat.

Thursday's luncheon was one of the most enjoyed affairs of the season, as the eats were prepared by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church, were splendid and the program was a live one throughout.

President Mullican was given a real blow when he introduced Mrs. C. J. Wagner, who he said had a message for the Kiwanians that was indeed worth hearing. The president, used to having reports made to the club by members of the various ladies clubs of Lubbock, took it for granted that Mrs. Wagner was to tell the members of some civic enterprise, and naturally boosted her talk, declaring that it would be well for the members to keep both ears open and take special notice of Mrs. Wagner instead of giving such report as was expected by the president, told the Kiwanians how she had talked with Judge Mulligan's orderly who accompanied him home from France while he was in service, and repeated the nice thing the orderly had said of the officer.

The Kiwanians readily realized that the Judge had caught himself in an uncomfortable circumstance, but nevertheless didn't show a great deal of sympathy for him. Possibly there is not another more popular man in the club than Judge Mullican, and all members appreciated Mrs. Wagner's account of her conversation with one of his men.

Prof. M. M. Dupre, superintendent of Lubbock Schools, was on the program to speak on "Education" and his hearers were brought into a clearer realization of the responsibilities as Kiwanians. Prof. Dupre is well versed in Kiwanis principles, and his interpretation of Kiwanis education was to the point and instructive.

Judge P. F. Brown also spoke on Kiwanis education and pleased the Kiwanians with a powerful message. He told of the need of cooperation among all the civic bodies of Lubbock, and how Kiwanis helped in the making of a worth while community.

Rev. Chas. Ferguson, acting pastor of the First Methodist church, had the distinction of having performed the first wedding ceremony in the Kiwanis Club.

The ring ceremony was used. Miss Kiwanis was beautiful in a bride's gown of blue, crepe romaine with accessories to match. Owen McWhorter, the groom, was dressed in conventional black, and took the solemn vows while Lonnie Montgomery, J. H. Haskins and Arthur Adams as best men were solemnly pledged to also bow to the dictates of Miss Kiwanis.

The solemn ceremony pronounced by the minister is as follows:

Dearly beloved we are gathered together here in the presence of these witnesses to join together this man and this organization in the bonds of an indissoluble union, which is an honorable estate, instituted by Ivan Petrovsky Skivah at the time of man's innocency signifying the mystical union that exists between man and his Kiwanian brothers, which bloody estate Abdul Di Buhl De Mere adorned and beautified with his presence in the first wonder that he wrought, and which estate is commended to be honorable among all men by the program committee, and therefore is not by any to be enterprised or taken in hand unadvisedly, but relevantly, discreetly, advisedly and in fear of the consequences. Into which bloody estate this person and this organization come now to be joined.

Therefore if any can show any just cause why they may lawfully be joined together, let him now speak or else hereafter for ever gossip.

Wilt thou have this organization to be thy pet hobby, to live in it after Ivan Petrovsky Skivah's ordinance in the high estate of membership. Wilt thou love it, support, comfort her, attend her in sickness or in health, forsaking all lingering love for the Rotary Club and keep thee unto her only so long as you both shall live? (answer must be given in 12 words). Wilt thou have this bird to be thy member? To endure him after Abdul DeBul's ordinance? Wilt thou see that he obeys thee, put him on the program in sickness or in health, and causing him to forsake the Ku Klux Klan and I. W. W. keep him only unto thee, so long as both live? (answer in word of seven syllables).

With this ring I thee wed. With all my worldly goods, a lot in weeds, an overdrawn account, one cow, I thee endow, in the name of Kiwanis.

(The ring was that of a small bell which swung nervously in the hands of the best men).

The meeting was closed with an impressive talk by Mr. Mozart, of the Houston Post.

L. C. Ellis announced that the expense of the 4th of July picnic had been taken from the general fund.

At the close of the games a most tempting salad course was served and to the surprise of the guests, the hostess announced we would now celebrate the birthday of one of our members.

We were each requested to return to childhood as we were going to celebrate for little Miss Francis Rix, a little winsom lass of four years. The folding doors were thrown open and there, behold, the birthday cake with four lighted tapers.

The laughter and joy on this occasion but befitting our return to childhood, each little girl made a wish for the honoree and the tapers were extinguished by little Miss

Francis Rix, each little girl in turn cut the cake. Little Miss Lillie Stevens cut the dime, Ann Mae Dennman, the ring and Lucile Wright the thimble, Nannie Conley the button. Our little hostess, Carey Price, then presented the birthday gift, a box containing various articles dear to a little girl's heart. Much merriment was created when each package was unwrapped, the doll, thimble, vanity, purse, handkerchief, beads and bell were all found in the box and little Miss Francis was the happiest one.

Joe Griffith Put Over Big Program For Rotary Club

Joe Griffith, of the Avalanch, put over a mighty good program at the Rotary Club Wednesday.

The National Defense Program, as instituted during the latter part of 1922 and in 1923 was the topic of the day, and Griffith's knowledge of this program came in for a good part on the program.

H. H. Griffith, of the Rix Furniture and Undertaking Company, and who is also an officer of Battery C, 131st Field Artillery, explained the part the local battery has to play in the program, and told of the vast stores of equipment that has been placed at the disposal of the officers and men by the government.

Of course Griffith is slated over the army of the seventeen cavalry horses which were received last week, and told him the work can be carried on with the addition to the facilities for promoting the activities of the battery.

Lieutenant Griffith was followed by Captain Ernest Conley who gave an accurate account of the trip the battery members had taken to Camp Stanley, San Antonio, and of some of the work that was engaged in by them.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the Lubbock Rotary Club has enough young members on its roster to keep it in a state of youthfulness for some time, and certainly this fact was demonstrated on this occasion, as the three members above mentioned have only a few years to their credit past the teen, and Duke Germany, another participant in the program, is still young enough to be funny. "Duke" was assigned the subject "The Funny Things That Happened During My Days in Service," but frankly admitted that he failed to observe any incidents that could be listed among the "funny" ones.

He declared, however, that after returning home he got enough run out of naarin Curtis Keen tell how he won "the war" to fill a six-able scrap book.

Benny Hilburn spoke on the same subject, but he had a little edge on Duke, as he was Captain of a negro regiment and told many laughable incidents that occurred in the training camps, and by singing out a few of the funniest incidents of which he made record he made his portion of the program nothing short of a scream.

All in all the program was one of the best that has been held this month and the chairman received many congratulations in the manner in which it was put over.

NOTICE—It is not the intention of the Avalanche to cast reflection upon the character of anyone knowingly, and if through error we should, the management will appreciate having our attention called to same, and will gladly correct any erroneous statement made.

SPEND YOUR DOLLARS IN LUBBOCK.

The Avalanche in an effort to provide Lubbock citizens with an object lesson in what a dollar will do in Lubbock if kept with in the city, is circulating "Bill" Dollar. The inference is plain. If "Bill" Dollar circulates in Lubbock exclusively it means that it is duplicating itself many times in the course of a month through the usual percentage of profit each merchant has a right to expect.

The whole situation revolves about civic spirit, and it is no idle preaching to say that the civic spirit of a city is the sum of the spirit of the citizens. A citizen of Lubbock is an integral part of the city and it incumbent upon each of us to display our own civic patriotism in our individual lives.

The future growth of Lubbock depends entirely on the part that the citizens play in its everyday life. A high spirit of loyalty must be developed and maintained. Civic patriotism is the cornerstone of loyalty, and that is not anything more than right living and right doing. Cooperation among ourselves for the benefit of Lubbock will make us grow.

Two things will determine Lubbock's future—citizens and money. The loyalty of both to Lubbock will be the determining factor in its expansion. Every dollar earned in Lubbock should be spent in Lubbock. Each should be kept in Lubbock to circulate for the benefit of all.

A Lubbock dollar which goes away from this city to purchase goods elsewhere that can be bought here, weakens the resources of Lubbock and gives the other city the advantage that the purchasing power of a dollar shows.

Benefits that citizens of Lubbock enjoy in the way of good streets, good schools, fire and police protection, street lighting—as well as the comforts and pleasures of life—are contributed to in a large way by our own merchants.

If we spend our money away from our own community, we are providing funds for the merchants of that city to contribute to their city—which, of course, is without benefit to Lubbock. The merchants of Lubbock are working together for its expansion and we owe them support in the measure that they are deserving of it.

To re-create the spirit of loyalty to home institutions and to keep Lubbock dollars in Lubbock, the Avalanche will observe Monday, Aug. 13 as "Buy-at-Home" day.

"Bill" Dollar left the office of the Avalanche on July 27 for his trip among the merchants and workers of Lubbock. He carries his own record with him, showing every place in which he was spent. Every merchant who received him got his legitimate profit, and no matter how far or how fast he travels within the buying radius of this city he will be doing good for Lubbock. This is the time to make a good resolution. If anyone has been sending out of town to buy goods that can be bought in Lubbock now is the time to resolve that we will, in future, buy everything in the city and keep "Bill" Dollar and his brothers at home to work for Lubbock.

"He profits most who spends his dollars at home."

COMMON SENSE DECISIONS.

During the Great War, costs of production and manufacture increased rapidly and still remain far above pre-war figures. Farmers, manufacturers and producers covered their increased costs through increased prices to the public.

Public utility companies were not so fortunate. Public sentiment was at first adverse to allowing increased rates to meet increased cost of utility operation.

Public utility commissions were unjustly criticized for advancing rates as the public did not understand that the "value" upon which a public utility corporation should be permitted to receive a fair return is the "fair value" of properties of the utility devoted to public service, and that in ascertaining such "fair value" present high prices—date of determination of "fair value"—in the guise of increased cost of constructing the utility's property, must be given proper consideration.

The United States Supreme Court now holds that unless the reproduction cost of a utility's property, as of the date of the determination of "value," is given full and conscientious consideration, confiscation of that property will be the inevitable result. In plain English, the Court says that present day reproduction costs must be considered in determining the "value" of public utility property for rate making purposes.

This was held in the case of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company vs. Missouri Public Service Commission et al. The Missouri Commission made an order in December, 1919, by which it undertook (1) to reduce rates for exchange service of the telephone company, and (2) to abolish installation and moving charges.

The Commission valued property of the company without according any weight to enhanced cost of material, labor and supplies over those prevailing in 1913, 1914 and 1916. The Supreme Court decided that "present costs," that is, the cost of labor, supplies, etc., at time investigation is made, "must be given consideration in ascertaining what will amount to a fair return upon properties devoted to public service;" otherwise, says the Court, the action of any regulatory body will be confiscatory and in conflict with Fourteenth Amendment to the constitution. The Commission's order was annulled as it failed to give consideration to "present costs."

Reaffirming its decision in Southwestern Bell Telephone case, the Court on June, 11, 1923, annulled an order of the public Service Commission of West Virginia which valued property of the Bluefield Water Works and Improvement Co. for rate making purposes without according "proper, if any, weight to the greatly enhanced costs of construction in 1920 over those prevailing about 1915 and before the war."

The Supreme Court of the United States has twice, within 30 days, announced the doctrine that present costs must be given fair and just consideration in arriving at the value of a public service corporation's property for rate making purposes.

TYPHOID IS FILTH.

The Star-Telegram in an editorial along the line of health says if the public generally understood that there is a direct connection between typhoid fever and filth there would be less need to urge cleanliness and sanitation. There is but one source of typhoid, and that is the human intestines, and they have but one point for attack, and that is the human stomach. The colon bacillus which carries typhoid is bred in the bowels of the sufferers of the disease, and, being discharged, becomes an active menace to health if there is the remotest possibility of its again finding entry in to a human stomach.

The substances habitually taken into the stomach are water and food. Either of these, in any form, may carry the typhoid germ. Of course, it should not be necessary to warn against drinking surface water unless it has been boiled, but the colon bacillus, being remarkably long-lived, may find its way into unsuspected drinking water seepage into well streams and into springs. Boiling of water, pasteurization, is a simple and sure preventive against infection from this avenue.

But the matter of food does not offer a safeguard so simple. Into the problem of milk, a highly frequent channel of infection, enters the question of sanitary dairies and proper handling before the product reaches the home. In the case of other foods, household sanitation becomes paramount. If there is a source of infection nearby, flies may carry the bacillus and deposit it in foods.

Dwellers of cities as a whole are fairly well safeguarded as to the most prolific highways of typhoid infection. Their water supply is constantly tested and purified, and the milk sold by responsible dairies is usually pasteurized. Sewers dispose of filth that might become sources of germs which, through the agency of flies, might be transplanted into foods awaiting consumption. But the rural districts do not have all these protections, and there are sections of cities where sewers are not accessible and where the water supply comes from wells and springs. These are the danger spots of typhoid.

From these latter, proper precaution might be defined in three rules:

Abolish surface toilets either connecting with sewers or installing septic tanks to be properly disinfected at intervals.

Keep drinking water clean.

Keep flies away from foods.

Keeping clean is one of the best safeguards against typhoid. Lubbock is cleaner now than she ever been, but that should not own the story. We should KEEP HER CLEAN.

THE TAX PROBLEM.

We believe the greatest problem before the American people today is the problem of taxation, says the Shenandoah, Ia., Sentinel Post. Two sane methods of relief are open. First discourage new governmental facts and fancies which add unnecessary laws to our statute books with increased numbers of employes and more government overhead. Officialism spreads like the green bay tree if left to its own course, so trim it down to essentials.

Second, see that all property pays taxes equally, which it does not do at present. Under our existing laws any person is at liberty to convert his property into non-taxable bonds and thus escape all forms of taxation.

The necessity (if it ever existed) for tax-exempt bond is past and the day is here when no such loophole as this should remain to enable those most able to pay to escape taxation.

Every dollar that tax-exempt bonds absorb cuts two ways—it doubles the tax on other people and removes a dollar from industries which need it for expansion and development.

Little Avalanches

Big demand for "country clubs" where people can go in their city clothes and enjoy fashionable society.

Pretty hard to convince the college students of Lubbock that a scholastic degree is the equivalent of a numeral in the base hits column.

The people who are paying regular interest on their automobile mortgage feel they are showing splendid thrift.

Some of these fellows who used watch very carefully to see that their automobile engine is not running low on oil, never used to think whether their horses needed water.

The pictures of the summer resort cottages present romantic likenesses of the wildwood scenes, but they do not contain any diagrams of the jump that won't work.

The Health of All the People

By Harold S. Buttenheim, Editor, The American City Magazine

The average child born today in a progressive American community will live at least five years longer than a child who was born at the beginning of the present century. Census Bureau statistics show that the expectation of life of a baby boy at birth had increased from 48.2 years in 1901 to 60.2 in 1910, and to 53.9 years in 1920. The girls have even a better chance, their expectation of life having increased from 51.0 years in 1901 to 53.6 years in 1910, and to 56.3 years in 1920. These figures are the Federal Census Bureau statistics for the so-called original registration States—the only ones for which comparative figures are available for the twenty-year period. The annual death rate for the entire registration area in the United States shows a decrease from 17.6 per thousand in 1901 to 11.6 per thousand in 1921.

To what causes may this fine showing be attributed? Partly, of course, to the fact that the average individual has learned to take a saner life, mentally and physically. Partly, of course, to the increased skill of physicians, surgeons and mental practitioners. But in a very large measure it is due to the constructive work of our sanitary engineers and public health departments. We are gradually learning that the best way to cure many of the ills that afflict our race is to prevent them from getting into the body in the first place.

The reduction in the typhoid fever death rate is an excellent case in point. In the good old days, before the installation of municipal filtration and chlorination plants, the typhoid germ took itself unmolested into our public water supplies. But by employing sanitary engineers to remove the filth from the water and to kill any of the typhoid germs that might have been left in it, the typhoid fever in the registration area has decreased from 33.9 per 100,000 in 1906 to 6.0 in 1921. Some of the more progressive cities have brought the typhoid fever death rate down to the point where it is less than 100,000. In such cases, the people enjoy the same water which they drink, but the typhoid fever has been almost entirely eliminated from the community. Yellow fever has been almost unknown in the United States since the result of the work of sanitary engineers in the port of San Francisco in 1907.

Other diseases which are being eliminated are cholera, typhus, and malaria. In many cases, the work of sanitary engineers is being done in the most efficient manner. In the case of typhoid, the death rate in the registration area was 201.9 per 100,000 in 1906, and in 1921 it was under the one hundred mark for the first time—99.4 to be exact. Recognizing as we must, the community's responsibility for the public health, how shall we proceed to translate our faith into action?

An honest study and fearless publication of the facts are the first steps. If the vital statistics are being properly recorded in your community, you can tabulate the general death rate and the diseases which contribute to that death rate and compare the figures with those of other communities. Suppose they are unfavorable. This is the best possible reason why your newspapers should have the courage to publish the facts instead of avoiding the issue. Let the facts thus published be discussed before city officials and civic and social welfare agencies in the community, and some sort of action is inevitable. But suppose you discover that your city is below the general rate for municipalities in the registration area. What ought your attitude to be? In answering that question recently, Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, said: "Your attitude ought to be, 'We have done better than other municipalities. Now we will go on doing better still, and show other municipalities what can be accomplished when a really enlightened and energetic and devoted community undertakes to make for all the men, women and children who live in it.' Another thing to do is to see that adequate appropriations are provided for public health administration. It is perfectly absurd to see the amounts that are provided in some communities. It is estimated that from fifty cents to one dollar per capita per year will provide a fairly good ordinary public health administration."

In planning your public health programs, don't forget the children. It is a very reasonable fact, and one little complementary to human intelligence, that until recent years there was no such thing as child support, or child workers, undertakings, and more than ten million children were left to fend for themselves on the surface. The saying "As the twig is bent the tree is inclined" was never so apt as at the everlasting hills in 1912, when the first public agency in the world was established to consider as a whole the problems of childhood, the United States Children's Bureau. It was not that people did not believe the old saying, but apparently they didn't care enough to apply it intelligently, or didn't know how to do so.

Ohio Governor Demands Enforcement of Prohibition Law

COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—The sources of prohibition enforcement have been strapped, on the backs of local officials. The State Government, through the policy initiated by Governor Vix Donahy, is the club behind the door. It swings effectively against local officials who wink at the law. Already mayors of thirteen Ohio cities have felt the point of the government's prod, and four counties' sheriffs have been threatened with removal from office under charges of lax law enforcement.

Reports to the capitol from communities where investigations have been made and whose officials have received Donahy's now proverbial "thirty days to clean up or get out of office," indicate the method has brought results.

Early in his administration Donahy startled the state by calling upon his executive carpet Mayor Herbert Vogt of Massillon. Vogt's administration had been criticized to the governor for winking at the liquor law and Donahy proceeded to investigate. The probe resulted in Vogt's removal from office.

Since then Donahy's office has become the scene almost daily of a conference between the governor and some "citizen's committee" complaining of insufficient vigilance on the part of its city administration.

Three other mayors, under fire for similar offenses, have had to come before the governor to show cause why they should not be removed from office under charges of lax law enforcement. Donahy has given them the benefit of the doubt, however, and now mayors of twelve Ohio cities, including New Philadelphia, are serving on probation.

Recently Governor Donahy sent letters to six mayors and four county sheriffs, telling them that unless their local enforcement conditions improved at once the state executive would deal with them severely.

EL PASO OFFICERS TOO TENDER HEARTED TO KILL

By the United Press. EL PASO, July 26.—Police officers are "chicken hearted"—sometimes. Patrolman Griffin and McClellan "arrested" three cats on the complaint of persons who were annoyed by the midnight serenades. The officers were asked to kill the kittens.

But no one at headquarters had the heart to shoot the "prisoners" and they now have the run of the jail kitchen.

GAS DISPATCHER'S JOB NEXT TO WEATHER MAN'S

By the United Press. RANGER, July 26.—The most ticklish job in the world, next to the weatherman's, is that of gas dispatcher for a large gas company, according to William A. Moorehead, of the Lone Star Gas Company. Moorehead said that the gas dispatcher must outguess the weatherman, knowing how much gas to have at a certain place and being able to decide instantly where gas is needed at various points served by the company, depending upon the weather.

MILLION POUNDS FOR PALESTINE FOUNDATION FUND

NEW YORK, July 26.—A large delegation of Hebrews are enroute for Carlsbad, where the world Zionist conference will meet August 5. One of the features of the congress it is announced here, will be the report that one million pounds has been received from Jews all over the world for the Palestine foundation fund. It is said that of this amount over 60 percent has been contributed by American Jews.

Editorial Opportunity Never Hides From nor Goes in Search of Men

The Unit Rule

By Daniel F. Cohalan, Supreme Court Justice, State of New York.

Attention has been called to the two-thirds rule by which a junta of bosses representing the worst forces of organized machine politics are able to exercise a veto power on the activities of the Democratic National Convention. Through that rule a small clique of men can defeat public opinion. They can wear down the majority of the delegates and compel them in despair to take the candidate of the bosses. However, there is another device of bossism that must be examined before the palm is given to this as the chief evil. And that is the unit rule.

This is the means by which a great minority of a delegation—any number short of one-half—can be made effectively non-existent. It is the weapon dearest to the heart of the boss because through it that opposition which is closest to him—which comes from his own State—which knows his weaknesses and his failings—can be silenced.

There have been times in the New York delegation, for instance, when forty of the representative men of the party from the State, have been made through the unit rule simply the tools of a party boss whom they despised, and the assets of a system of control against which their judgment revolted. Yet because the boss had a majority—it may be only of one vote in the delegation—he has assumed the right to vote the entire delegation and has been permitted to do so by the Convention.

No man named by such a body represents anything but the will of the bosses—which is another way of saying he has been chosen only by the masters of the bosses. The unit rule is a relic of the stone age in politics and it should be discarded.

Citrus Advertising a Success

The Florida Citrus Exchange is making an appeal to the growers of grape fruit to co-operate instead of compete in the marketing of their product, and states that the keynote of its success up to date has been found in newspaper advertising. Ten years ago, the exchange says, it started to educate the American housewives to the food and health values of grape fruit. Today, as a result of newspaper advertising, one-fourth of the American people eat grape fruit. There remain, however, three-fourths of the people yet to be reached.

The potential market for the canned grape fruit alone is staggering to contemplate. The canning of grape fruit now has been perfected.

All that remains is to have the people told about it. The citrus exchange is to be complimented on its vision in seeing that only newspaper advertising can accomplish such mutually beneficial education. The housewives of every small town in the country will be reached through advertising in the newspapers all about grape fruit. Then everybody will praise

CRADLE OF RED

The Reds are all evolutionists. Evolution has given them their program and method. They got their incentive of practical evolution from Karl Marx, who got it from Haeckel, who got it from Spinoza, who got it from the Greek philosophers, who got it from the Egyptian priestcraft, who got it from the Babylonian priestcraft, who taught the transmigration of souls and the transmutation of species.

The Reds believe that all who preach and teach evolution are working for the world wide cause of the Reds. They look at the rich and watch them pay. They know if evolution, and collectivism are taught in all grades of our schools that the masses will become Reds and will rise up and take possession of all property and natural resources. The end of a road tells you where it ends.

Whenever you claim that the state is everything and the individual is nothing you have determined on a program of confiscation.

When you say that man's origin is in the lower elements of life, you thereby repudiate the sovereignty of God and His creative hand, and you have licensed the world to do as it pleases. If man is not the creature of the creative hand of Almighty God, then responsibility and accountability are gone. If you destroy man's accountability to God, you destroy discipline in government, wreck society, and perpetuate an orgy of crime and death.

The rationalist in the church and the red radical in the economic world are twin brothers. They had their origin in the same bed of infamy, and their common destiny is hell.

HUBBERS TAKE 12-INNING BATTLE 5 TO 4

SWENSON GOES GOOD FOR ENTIRE ROUTE AND DEAN'S CIRCUIT DRIVE IN TWELFTH BREAKS UP AFFAIR

AMARILLO, July 26.—It took the Hubbers twelve innings to win the series here today in a 5 to 4 contest in which Thomas and Swenson fought a pitchers battle with Dean ending the affair by a home run in the twelfth, giving the Hubbers three out of four of the series. The game was tied up almost the entire way and in the ninth a near riot ensued from a mixup in some decisions by Umpire Chesher. Burleson relieved Thomas for two-thirds of an inning, after Dean had lifted the game over the left field wall for the winning run. Swenson plays here beginning Saturday.

DOUBLE WIN OF CUBS MAKES SWEEP OF SERIES

ROSWELL, N. M., July 26.—Clovio won a twin bill from the Giants today making a clean sweep of the series. Clovio won the first game by a score of 13 to 8 and in the second by a score of 3 to 0. In the first game Shaw was bawling from the field for attacking Murphy in the dugout, but returned and caught the second game. Bobby Clary was the outstanding star of the second contest having a perfect day at the bat and in the field, hit safely four, two of them doubles, and accepted five chances and made two put outs without an error.

 DO YOU KNOW?

By the United Press.
 Q. Where is the American Olympic team to be quartered at the Paris games next year?
 A. Arrangements are being made to quarter the team at a chateau about nine miles from the stadium and about six miles from the heart of Paris.

Q. Was the failure of Walter Hagen to win the British open championship due to the poor sportsmanship of the British gallery?
 A. Statements credited to Hagen that had been treated unfairly and that poor sportsmanship, caused him to lose were later denied by him. He said he had no alibi.

Q. Miller if gains seems to be having no trouble with the New York Yanks this season. Has he more authority than he had in the past?

 A. Since Col. Ruppert became sole owner of the Yanks, it is generally believed that Huggins has complete and final control of the team and he has been getting results. Ruppert has always been a great Huggins admirer, but Capt. Huston, former partner in the team, never liked the little manager.

CRIQUE LOSES TO JOHNNY DUNDEE DECISION BOUT

By the United Press.
 POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, July 26.—Fighting with all the courage that he showed at Verdun when he stood up before a shell that shattered his jaw, Eugene Criqui went down gamely in a battle here tonight, and dropped the featherweight championship to Johnny Dundee in a fifteen round decision bout.
 Criqui was floored in the first round for the count of nine, was floored three times in the second round taking the same count, and was battered around for the entire fifteen rounds until the blood poured from his mouth and nose, but all the way the former champion kept gamely fighting back, only one of the stoutest hearts being able to withstand the punishment which was administered to the Frenchman.
 The decision was fair, as Criqui did not have even an edge on a round out of the fifteen, and a crowd estimated at thirty-five thousand stood up and cheered at the end of the fight.
 Dundee proved his superiority in every way, and was never in danger, for the punches of the Frenchman lacked stamania after the terrible beating he took in the first two rounds. The former champion was more or less bloated and his left eye was closed when the fight ended.

Against Dundee, Criqui will have a different fight to carry. Dundee hasn't been out of the ring. He is about the 'fittestest' boxer in the business, and when he leads he will not miss like Idd. When Criqui cocks his right hand he will not find Dundee standing in the way of it, like he caught me. Dundee has a tricky style, and if he fights his usual fight Criqui may find so many gloves in his face that he cannot set himself for his right-hand punch.

Dundee isn't a great hitter, or at least he hasn't shown any terrific punch in his more recent fights. However, against a man his own weight, the little Italian may get more results from his punches. Criqui can hit. That is a sure thing.
 Against Dundee, the punches of the Frenchman will not be so effective, however, and the Italian will be moving when they get over and punches are always lost on a moving target.

Dundee and Criqui Fight Will Be A Big 1923 Ring Feature

By the United Press.
 NEW YORK, July 26.—The iron jaw of France and the rubber punch of America will meet at the Polo Grounds tonight to decide the featherweight championship of the world.
 Eugene Criqui, with the serious case and the crooked jaw, will defend the title he won some time ago with a great victory over the venerable Johnny Kilbane against Johnny Dundee, one of the greatest little fighters that ever swung a glove.
 Dundee, one of those Italians who sent the poets into reveries about the fighting blood of Caesar, will be at least the sentimental favorite. He has a tremendous following in New York and his partisans are not confined to the Italian colony.
 Criqui proved in the Kilbane fight that he is a worthy champion and a great fighter. He had proved it before, in Europe, but Americans are skeptical about the class of fighters on the other side who helped to give the gallant French war hero of Verdun an impressive list of knockouts.

 Dundee is, beyond doubt one of the greatest little fighters that ever lived. He has been nearer to various championships than any other fighter, with the possible exception of Charlie White. He has battled them all, and in most of his fights he was forced to give away pounds and pounds of weight to his opponents.

Various opinions have been expressed on the outcome of the fight, but there is one that should carry weight because he has met them both and he knows both.
 Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion, leans toward Dundee as the victor, and he predicts that Criqui will have the fight of his life on his hands.
 "Criqui is a great fighter," Kilbane says. "He keeps coming in all the time and he is always hitting. He hits better the style of Dempsey, and he is hard to reach on the jaw. He is not an extremely clever fighter, but he has a heart that never comes back all the time. I had no trouble out boxing him and I found that he was easy to hit."
 "However, when I found openings I missed many of them. I had been out of the ring too long and my timing was way off. I was short with punches that I felt sure were going right to the button, and every time I missed I got a good one back. That French boy can counter."

Against Dundee, Criqui will have a different fight to carry. Dundee hasn't been out of the ring. He is about the 'fittestest' boxer in the business, and when he leads he will not miss like Idd. When Criqui cocks his right hand he will not find Dundee standing in the way of it, like he caught me. Dundee has a tricky style, and if he fights his usual fight Criqui may find so many gloves in his face that he cannot set himself for his right-hand punch.

Dundee has been fighting for a long time, and it may be that he has passed his best day, but there is no reason to feel sure of that. He has always been a clean liver and has never been bothered with the burning-out necessity of making weight. He will have to trim off a few pounds for Criqui, but it ought not to hurt him.

Regardless of the winner, it will be a popular victory. While Dundee has thousands of partisan admirers, they are all of the type who respect and admire Criqui for his war record.

The Frenchman was almost overwhelmed by the ovation that fell upon him when he won the title from Kilbane. Of course, Kilbane was not overly popular in New York, but there were tear-dimmed eyes among the shouters, and it was plain to see that the boy who had survived a shell at Verdun and lost half of his jaw went to the heart of the fight crowd that is always a little chicken-hearted even under its rough-coated veneer.

MULLINS ELECTED PRESIDENT BAPTIST WORLD ALLIANCE THURS.

By the United Press.
 STOCKHOLM, N. Y., July 26.—Dr. E. Y. Mullins, President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville, was elected president of the Baptist World Alliance, succeeding Dr. R. S. McArthur, who died last February, it was announced here today.

MUCH WORK BEING DONE ON COURTHOUSE LAWN

The courthouse lawn is being put into fine shape again, and a great deal of work has been done by the keeper, assisted by county prisoners—who have been used to a good advantage.
 Due to the fact that the many large trees on the lawn kept the sun away from the grass, it has been very difficult to keep it growing, however, the keeper is exerting every effort to overcome these disadvantages.

By mid-October, of this year, our domestic market without special inducement or special stimulation has absorbed twice as many cars as in previous years.

between $375,000,000 and $400,000,000. As shown by these reports the railroads are doing their utmost to better transportation facilities, and the work which they are now doing is indicative of their appreciation of the need of enlarged facilities and their determination to the utmost extent to do business may justify them in providing these facilities to handle the ever increasing volume of traffic.

What the railroads are doing is suggestive of and indicative of the activity in other lines of work throughout the South. For instance, Tulsa, Okla., is spending $6,800,000 on the enlargement of its water supply. In the same state Chicago interests are building two large electric power stations.

Plans are under way for the construction in Kentucky of an $8,000,000 hydro-electric plant and the preliminary permit has been granted Eastern capitalists to develop about $40,000 horse power on the Susquehanna River, partly in Maryland and partly in Pennsylvania at an estimated outlay of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

In Texas a plan is being organized to develop a levee system on the Rio Grande River for reclaiming 340,000 acres of land at an estimated outlay of over $12,000,000.

Work is actively being pushed on a sugar refinery at Texas City, Texas, which is to have a daily capacity of 1,000,000 pounds of refined sugar, the capital of the company being $5,500,000.

Atlanta is proposing the issuing of several million dollars of bonds for municipal improvements. At Eastland, Texas work has begun on a carbon black plant at an estimated cost of $900,000. Contract has been awarded at Memphis for a cotton exchange building to cost $700,000.

Options have been secured in West Virginia for a site for the construction of a natural gas piping plant estimated to cost about a million dollars. Reports from Nashville indicate the purchase of the old Hickory plant, built by the Government during the war, for the establishment of a fiber silk mill at an estimated cost of $4,000,000.

The Arkansas Cotton Mills Company is being organized at Little Rock for the purpose of building a 20,000 spindle mill. In Texas, a large number of cotton mill companies are being projected and several of them will probably materialize within the next few weeks.

Messages are contemplating the building of two Portland cement plants at a cost of about $2,000,000 to provide cement for the heavy highway construction work under way.

In the Dayton, Florida section a thirty-mile ocean front boulevard is to be built at a cost of about $500,000, one half to be paid for in bonds, which have been voted and the balance to be paid by taxation on the abutting property.

A gypsum plant to cost about $1,000,000 is to be established in Sweetwater, Texas by Chicago capitalists. Contract has been awarded by Birmingham for an $800,000 apartment house.

Special activity is noted in the building of new hotels and the enlargement of existing structures and in the building of apartment houses. Considerable activity is noted in the building of one-quarter of a million up to a million or more, and all the demand for hotels and apartment houses seems to be great.

Many even these many new ones will be able to meet. This hotel and apartment building activity added to the remarkable activity in the building of schools and the expansion of railroad facilities indicates that in these times the South has entered upon an entirely new epoch surpassing anything which this section has ever before known.

It is easy to get too sick to work and still well enough to go fishing.

U. S. UPHELD AS LESSON TO EUROPE

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 26.—If the European nations would heed the lessons of the United States and Canada, they would strike at the root of their own disagreements, and forget to constantly attack with harsh criticism, the policies and activities of America, President Harding today told high officials of the Canadian Government in the first speech ever made by an American President acting in an official capacity on Canadian soil. The relations between these two countries proves that peace can be kept, regardless of controversies between the people that wish to keep the peace, and the compact between the two nations is one, included in which are fair and honorable dealings.

I WANT TO STAY AT HOME

(Continued from Page One) charges when you are not satisfied with what you have bought. "He is the fellow who stands behind his guaranty and makes restoration for all losses you may sustain on the goods you buy. "He is the fellow who meets you at the door with a hand-hake and lets you out again with a real come again goodby. "He is the fellow who meets and greets you on the street every day in the year and takes a neighborly interest in your family and your affairs.

"He is the fellow whose clerks and bookkeepers and other employees live in Lubbock and spend their money with you and other Lubbock people.

"He is the fellow who pays heavy taxes to help support Lubbock schools and build Lubbock streets and maintain Lubbock police and fire departments, and parks and lighting and water service.

"He is the fellow who helps support Lubbock churches and hospitals and lodges, and talks for Lubbock and boosts for Lubbock every day in the year.

"He is the fellow who visits you when sick and sends flowers to your family when you die, and follows your body as far as human feet can travel with the dead.

"He is the Lubbock merchant—your neighbor—your friend—your helper in time of need."

"Don't you think that you should buy from him and die his friend and his helper?"

"Don't you know that every dollar you send out of Lubbock for groceries and supplies of any kind is sent to strangers—to men who never spend a dollar in Lubbock; to men who would not trust you for a box of matches?"

"You don't save much, frequently nothing, when you send your money out of Lubbock, and you take all the risk yourself of short weight or measure and of getting damaged or inferior goods.

"And don't you know that the growth and prosperity of Lubbock depends very largely upon the success and prosperity of Lubbock merchants."

Out-of-town people judge our city by the appearance of our stores and our merchants.

"I hope," said "Bill" in conclusion, "that I won't fall into the hands of some disloyal citizen who will send me away from Lubbock for I like it here, and I want as many of my brothers to settle in Lubbock as quickly as she can. I was made to work and I want to work in Lubbock. Will you keep me here?"

Paris Physician Has Devised New Way Save Human Life

PARIS, July 26.—Instead of being a profession to save the lives of persons in danger of death from cholera, Dr. Henri Durville presented to the congress of experimental psychology here a new method by which vitality from a healthy person is transmitted to the averted. He cites many cases in which patients given up by specialists have been practically brought back to life.

Dr. Durville gave details of two cases in which he was especially interested, because the persons affected were members of his own family. One was his nephew, aged seven, stricken with double pneumonia. Two specialists, members of the academy of medicine, informed Dr. Durville that they saw no hope of saving the boy's life. Dr. Durville explained to the congress how he succeeded where the specialists failed.

"The method," he said, "is simple. Take a piece of flannel or linen and place it over the affected organ. Take a deep breath and apply the flannel, the mouth well open, over the cloth. Expel the breath with the greatest energy with the will to make it enter the patient's body. When all the air in the lungs has been exhaled draw another deep breath and repeat the operation. This must be kept up at intervals of five minutes for several hours. It is fatiguing but effective."

Dr. Durville declared he continued this operation for twelve hours a day for three days in the case of his nephew, saving the child's life.

The other patient was the doctor's wife who was suffering from blood poisoning after childbirth. Two specialists also had abandoned hope. The doctor and his brother took turns at employing the same method and at the end of ten days the specialists who had said she could not be saved were invited to return and see her in full convalescence.

"It is a miracle," was their verdict, according to Dr. Durville.

It is not against the law to think your neighbors are awful, but it is a terrible waste of time.

Cattle Men of Old Mexico May Buy Cattle at State Fair

By The United Press. FORT WORTH, July 26.—Progressive cattlemen of Mexico will have an opportunity to purchase the prize-winning livestock from the State Fair of Texas this year, if plans now being made are carried to completion.

The tentative plan is to take the cattle on a special train similar to the one operated following the 1921 Fair for exhibition through the Southern Republic.

J. E. Borg Scott, chairman of the livestock sanitary commission of Texas has conferred with representatives of the Mexican National Railroad and with Agricultural agents of Texas roads regarding the proposed train.

C. M. Evans of the extension department of the Texas A. & M. College has been assisting in mapping out plans for the proposed train.

Strong Friendly Helpful

Regardless of the amount of resources a bank has, its strength depends mostly upon the ability to protect its depositors. Most people know that banks, like other businesses, are operated for profit, and though it is the duty of a bank to first protect its owners—stockholders, it could not profit without giving its customers a strong, helpful and friendly service.
