

LUBBOCK WINS TECH ON THE FIRST BALLOT

Locating Committee Went into Executive Session in the Texas Hotel at Fort Worth at Nine O'clock and after Five Hours Deliberation Unanimously Designated Lubbock as the Official Location for the Technological College

Special to the Avalanche

Fort Worth, August 8.—Lubbock was Unanimous Choice of the Locating Board for the Texas Technological College on the First Ballot at the five hour Session of the Board here today. The Decision was made following a six months study of the briefs of the 35 applicant towns and a three weeks tour of inspection of the territory. At 1:42 o'clock Wednesday afternoon one of the members of the Board whose name was not divulged moved that a ballot be taken and his motion prevailed. The roll was then called and every member voted for Lubbock. The Board had been in session practically continuous since 9:00 o'clock Wednesday morning and during that time various other towns were discussed.

MEXICAN FEDERAL TROOPS BEGINNING BANDIT FIGHT

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—Federal troops are ordered to begin an expedition against bandits in North Durango, who are still holding Robert Newman, an American rancher prisoner. Newman was captured April 26 this year by outlaws and lead by Juan Galino who has been terrorizing upper Durango for some time.

NILES CITY INCLUDED IN FORT WORTH'S EXPANSION

By the United Press. FORT WORTH, Aug. 8.—Niles City, former 'richest city in the world' and a suburb of Fort Worth, is now a part of this city. Expansion of Fort Worth to include Niles City was accomplished when aldermen of the latter place gave up their fight against annexation. Niles City was incorporated in 1911 when the packing industry here wanted to keep out of Fort Worth and set up a city of their own. For ten years the suburb was known as the 'richest city in the world' with wealth measured in proportion to population. Property values in the suburb are estimated at $30,000,000. Tax assessments by the former Niles City government totalled $8,000,000.

That was the message that set Lubbock, the Plains and West Texas on fire. And that is the message that is being carried in every newspaper in the United States, Canada and in many foreign countries today. For the Texas Technological College is no ordinary, one horse institution. It is a state, a national and an internationally known institution already. It starts with the most brilliant promises and possibilities that have ever accompanied the founding of a like institution in America and the realization of those promises and possibilities are so closely tied and woven into the promises and possibilities of Lubbock that every sane thinking citizen has a right to stop and think upon the inestimable importance of the events of the past 24 hours and wonder how Lubbock is going to measure up to the great future that is hers for the making.

These are understood to be bandits who surrendered on condition that they be allowed to join the army.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—The scheduled set up match Wednesday night between Luis Angel Firpo and Joe Donney, at Columbus, Ind., has been cancelled by Governor Macomber following a strong protest against holding the fight before the funeral of President Harding at Marion, Friday. "It would be a disgrace to the name of Indiana to have an affair like this happen while the body of our President lies unburied," McCray said. The sheriff will leave Washington at 6:05 a. m. today. Mrs. Harding is beating up well, though she is showing signs of the great suffering she has been through.

TECH COLLEGE COMMITTEE SENDS OUT WRITTEN ANNOUNCEMENT OF THEIR DECISION

By the United Press. FORT WORTH, August 8.—The Texas Technological College will be located at Lubbock. This was decided following a meeting of the locating board in session late today. The decision was unanimous. The announcement was signed by S. B. Cowell, chairman of the board; Dr. W. B. Bizzell, Dr. F. M. Bralley, Dr. W. S. Sutton, Prof. S. M. N. Marrs and W. R. Nabors, Secretary for the board. The announcement read: "Having made a careful study of the original and supplemental briefs and having visited and inspected all the sites offered by thirty-six applicant towns and having given consideration to relative merits of the propositions submitted by the several towns, we hereby elect and designate Lubbock, in Lubbock County, Texas, as the official location of Texas Technological College."

DRIVE BEGINS TODAY FOR NEW MEMBERSHIP IN THE WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, FOR 1923

"Your West Texas Chamber of Commerce has taken an unequivocal stand against all attempts to remove the Texas Common Point Freight Rate situation now existing and we view with displeasure any move that is made to disrupt the existing situation even in Fort Worth, the strongest supporter of the organization."

This was the sum and substance of A. B. Spencer's remarks today at the Rotary luncheon and later before a special called meeting of the Board of Directors and others at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Under the proposed plan Fort Worth and Dallas would receive a reduction of approximately 20 per cent. in their freight rates. With the railroads of Texas already failing to carry the 5-1-2 per cent. allowed by the government on their investment that will mean that West Texas towns will, thru an increase freight rate pay not only the difference but make up the small profits now being enjoyed by the railroads of Texas. "The fight will be a long hard one and I cannot see any possible solution under many months—even years but the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is in the fight and in there to stay—else the development of the section will be retarded from ten to fifty years. "The unequal valuation of taxable properties in the State of Texas, is a matter that must be adjusted and your West Texas Chamber of Commerce is backing that fight along side with other organizations and many fair minded individuals in the state. West Texas is paying an unfair portion of the taxes of the state in proportion to what they get in return and the comparative values of her lands and properties. And we are not getting there!

The entire population of the City of Lubbock is expected and requested to meet them upon their arrival as a fitting demonstration of our appreciation of their untiring efforts. Be there!

BUILDING HOMES BY "BILL"

Copyright 1923, F. W. Mozart.

"I feel all puffed up today" said "Bill" Dollar, because I have heard so much talk about the building that is going on in Lubbock and the important part that the Dollar family plays in this work of making Lubbock a better city in which to live.

"The men who build their own homes in Lubbock are the backbone of this city. Every house that is built makes the city just so much stronger. The man who builds a house is the man who spends his money in our city with his own merchants and helps Lubbock while Lubbock helps him.

"The Dollars earned in Lubbock and kept in circulation in Lubbock are the ones that have made Lubbock a city of fine homes. The dollars that are spent in other cities by Lubbock people are the ones that help those cities to grow," continued "Bill" Dollar.

"To build a home is a dollars and cents proposition. It takes lots of "Bill" Dollars and to build means to spend money that has been saved or else to save money that would have to be spent.

"If some men who are busy paying rent year in and year out would analyze the matter they would find the reason they haven't the courage to build is because they haven't the courage to save.

"Many a man who is now paying rent can save enough to make the first payment on a home, and if Lubbock money is kept circulating in Lubbock plenty of opportunities will be found to make the future payments very easy.

"If a man who pays rent regularly were to be asked how much rent he had paid in ten years he would not be able to answer the question without a lot of figuring.

"Rent is a debt which is never paid. Every dollar paid to the landlord is lost as far as the renter is concerned. Not a penny can be borrowed on it. The man who rents makes a present of the house he lives in to the landlord about every ten years. When old age or sickness comes along, and the rent can't be paid out goes Mr. Tenant.

"Too late comes the realization that some of the pleasures of the earlier years might have been foregone for the comfort that would have been his heritage had he planned a trifle more wisely in his youth.

"My brothers and I" continued "Bill" Dollar, "want to do everything we can for Lubbock and home building is one of the really important things we do. A man should prepare himself for the time when his earning capacity will diminish and before that day arrives, should find himself in his own home with a little money in the bank, so that he won't suffer, or have to ask for help from those who had more sense than he had. By doing this he will save his independence and self respect.

There is also another side of the matter, outside of the money end of it which is worth considering. Men of families are the ones who are home and house builders. They have to think of something else besides the money saved and the money earned. Men with a family growing up have to think of the human side of the question.

"One of the best influences for good is the home. The young people who grown up in it look back at it in after life, and the memory of it is an actual moral influence. The kind of a person a boy is when he becomes a man depends a good deal on the kind of a home he had when he was a boy.

In looking back at a rented house there is no feeling of pride because it was home in name only. There never was any stability to it, for it is hard to have recollections of a rented house that would ever make him straighten up with pride about the house I was born and reared in."

"Life in a rented house" said Lubbock "Bill", "can best be likened to the "Bill" Dollars that are sent scurrying all over the country and not kept at home. There is no sureness to any of them. This constant changing is bound to breed the desire to keep moving in any boy or girl. It doesn't teach them to settle down or settle up.

"In building a home a person is not only made happier, but he does something to assure or at least make likely, the happiness of his children. The father who builds a home builds more than a home. He builds character in his children and a competence for his old age. No man is too poor to build as long as he is spending money for some luxury he could deny himself.

"Do you wonder," said "Bill" Dollar in conclusion, "that I am enthusiastic over such a proposition as home building? It not only brings peace and contentment to a community, but it also assures the loyal members of the Dollar family a good home among their friends who keep them circulating back and forth for the benefit of the people who call this city home."

FINDS RICH RELIC OF ANCIENT CLIFF DWELLERS

By the United Press
DURANGO, Colo., Aug. 8.—The only life-sized idol of the ancient cliff dwellers of America ever known to have been discovered, was recently found by Laurin Crandall on his ranch, near the Aztec ruins.

Along with the perfectly preserved image were priceless bits of pottery, household implements and farming tools, lying just as they had been left when the cliff-dwellers disappeared from the earth thousands of years ago.

Crandall is said to have refused large sums of money for the baked clay idol and pottery. Bowls unearthed retain their original coloring, delicately traced in numerous fantastic shapes. One piece has a perfectly formed swastika (emblem

A number of skulls and bones of human beings show that Crandall had penetrated an ancient cliff-dwellers graveyard. The custom of idol-worshipping races burying their choicest works with the craftsmen may account for his unusually valuable discoveries.

Boy's Dollar Started State-Wide War On All Gambling In Ohio

By the United Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—This is the story of a small boy who started something big.

The boy is twelve years old and his name is Alvin Victor Donahay, Jr. He lives in the big brick house on East Broad street, the one that is pointed out to visitors as the "executive mansion." People call the house that because Alvin's father is governor of Ohio.

And the big thing that Alvin started is the greatest anti-gambling crusade this state has ever known.

It may end in the calling of a special session of the Ohio legislature, and of course that would be a bigger thing than the crusade itself.

The men who like to gamble don't blame Alvin for taking their sport away from them, because they know Alvin started it quite innocently. All he did was to "invest" one of his dollars in a baseball pool. There wouldn't have been any trouble if Alvin had won. But he didn't win and consequently he was one-dollar shy when he came up for more allowance money the next week end.

Issued Proclamation.
Father Donahay, the governor, then heard all about the baseball pool where little boys lost dollars. Of course he knew there were such things but he had never realized before that they were "roping in" the small boys. So the governor issued a proclamation and it said in effect that:

This gambling has got to stop. The proclamation was addressed to all the mayors and sheriffs and county and city prosecutors all over the State.

It told them about the anti-gambling law and said the law must be enforced. Several of the mayors and sheriffs around here Ohio had had some experience with Alvin's father and they knew that when he issued a proclamation he meant business.

It was only a little while then until the baseball pools in billiard halls and other places began closing down. Sometimes the police had to come and help out but eventually they all stopped running.

Then Governor Donahay, his interest once whetted, started after the slot machines, those innocent looking little contrivances which produce candy mints and chips, the latter of which, not very often but sometimes are redeemable at a profit.

Threatens Legislation.
The judge of the municipal court in Cleveland heard a case on the subject and ruled that the slot machines were legal. That was a blow to the campaign. Donahay came right back with the announcement that he proposed calling a special session of the legislature to pass laws against slot machines. No one doubts that he'll do it too, if he decides it's necessary to put the machines out of business.

The other hard blow to gambling in Ohio was directed at the pari-mutuels at Maple Heights race track. Alvin wasn't directly responsible for this, but it is plain that the general anti-gambling campaign which Alvin did start had a lot to do with the Maple Heights affair.

A writ of mandamus from the state supreme court ordered the mayor of Maple Heights to knock out betting at the track. He has recognized the writ and when the next racing meet opens at Maple Heights, the pari-mutual betting machines won't be present.

Only Six States Without Workmen's Compensation Laws

By the United Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The National Industrial Conference board has just completed an exhaustive survey on the medical phase of workmen's compensation acts in the United States.

Summing up its investigations, the report shows that both interest parties to compensation laws, the workers and the employers, have accepted as just the principle that one group should be charged with major responsibility for injuries suffered by another group. Differences which have appeared are not of sufficient importance to cast doubt on the value of the work as a whole, the report concludes.

The only states which have no workmen's compensation laws are Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Missouri, and North and South Carolina.

Some interesting information is contained in the report. It says:

"Various state courts and commissions have answered in various ways the question: 'What is the human body worth?' For example, a thumb is worth $225 in Wyoming, $600 in Oregon and in New York and Alabama the legal compensation for 60 weeks. Wyoming holds a human hand worth $1,000, while its value rises to $1,600 in Washington, $1,900 in Oregon, and 244 weeks' compensation in New York, and it is worth 104 weeks' compensation in Colorado. Similar variations occur with reference to the loss of an eye, a toe, a foot and fingers.

His Face Damaged.
"New York holds that when a worker is injured so that only his good looks are impaired, he may collect from his employer owing to the humiliation entailed. In New York and Michigan compensation is awarded when horses bite ears of workers. One worker collected in New York because he was unable to replace his lost eye with one of glass, and a drooping eyelid which made the injured person appear to be winking at whatever he observed, resulted in another award. Another New York workman whose nose was bitten off by a horse, received $2,500 from the compensation board. Deafness has been valued at $3,000 in Oklahoma, and deafness in one ear at $1,500. In Washington the loss of hearing is only compensable at $1,900 and of one ear's deafness at $500.

"Pennsylvania has held in the case of an automat lunch counter attendant, that heat prostration at work causing death was an accident, while in Connecticut frostbite was similarly judged. In New York, however, the courts held that a sunstruck brewery wagon driver was not entitled to compensation.

"Persons bitten by insects, when spotted fever has resulted, are not entitled to damages in the opinion of the Idaho Industrial Accident Board. However, New Jersey authorities held that a pinch by a lobster was entitled to five weeks' disability award for the infection. In California, on the other hand a farm hand bitten on the leg by a spider failed to get damages. Poison by injuries have been held compensable in New York, and Massachusetts.

"Montana, Idaho, Utah and Wisconsin allow 20 weeks' more compensation for the removal of an eye than for blindness in one eye without removal. Pennsylvania however holds that where there is blindness the removal of the eye makes no difference, and allows nothing additional."

One of the most important phases of the report is that which shows the widely varying amounts expended for medical treatment under the awards of various states. For instance, in Wyoming in one year allowed only 3.6 percent of the total awards was for medical expense, while the percentage in Connecticut for two years was 38.2 percent, totaling $1,663,107.08 and in Massachusetts where industrialism has reached one of the highest points of development, the percentage was 29.8 percent with medical expenses of $1,602,057.74.

House Stenogs Have To Hop; Two Wanted

By the United Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Speaker Gillett and officials of the House of Representatives are now confronted with the difficult problem of selecting two official stenographers of debates to fill vacancies caused by the death of two veteran reporters.

The shorthand reporters who cover the house debates for the Congressional Record must be expert stenographers and must be able quickly to learn and remember all members of the house by sight so they can correctly record the speaker, a house official explained to the United Press.

Unlike the senate, where senators have regular desks and a reporter who is speaking, the members of the house take any seat they please, and it is difficult to "learn" the hundreds of representatives.

A reporter in the house is always "on the go," because members engaged in debate are scattered over a large floor and do not always speak in tones audible through the chamber, making it necessary for the shorthand reporter to jump about the floor to catch every word.

"In selecting two men for these important positions," the house official said, "we have to put the applicants thru numerous speed and endurance tests, because the reporters work on ten-minute 'takes' and a man must be able to work the whole ten minutes to top speed. Fast shorthand writing is the dominant factor in qualifying for the job," he said.

It is believed that because of their acquaintance with a majority of the members, Speaker Gillett will appoint two house committee stenographers to the jobs. They are experienced in the work, know the congressional style and are able shorthand men.

Members of the House have mourned the loss of Fred Ireland, dean of the staff of stenographers, and Samuel Gray, both of whom died shortly after Congress adjourned last month.

Ireland had been a reporter in the house for more than 25 years. He was rated as one of the best five stenographers in the world. Often while "taking" debate he would engage in conversation, but never miss a word of the speech.

Gray was a stenographer in the house for nearly eighteen years.

LUBBOCK AND THE TECH COLLEGE

Lubbock reached up and pulled down one of the most luscious plums that any town in the state of Texas has ever had the honor of getting its fingers on. It was the big juicy, fine flavored Technological College variety, a specie that is not very plentiful in Texas, or in fact in the United States, and a variety that does not produce a crop very often, but large in size and greatly to be desired when a crop is produced. Lubbock got it.

Lubbock won on her merits. Never was a game played more fair than this one; never during the long fight for the school did Lubbock take to trickery or misrepresentations of other places, or belittling other communities in order to land the school, but put forth a vigorous campaign strictly on the merits of Lubbock and her surrounding territory, making it a fight for the location of the school on the plains believing that this section of the state was entitled to it, and set forth argument in black and white that was convincing, that was reasonable, and logical, that the committee could easily figure out to their own satisfaction, which was proven when the vote was taken at Fort Worth Wednesday and every member of the committee of five voted for Lubbock the hub of the plains. It is clear to see that they had figured the proposition and checked up the figures and arguments in the Lubbock briefs with the situation as they found it, and arrived at the conclusion from an unselfish, unbiased view point and for that reason Lubbock is doubly proud of the vote cast and we are confident that under the circumstances that we are entitled to arrive at the conclusion that The Plains section of the state has at last come into its own, and that it is being recognized as never before as the coming agricultural section of the great State of Texas or at least that portion that is included within the bounds of the bill that gave West Texas this magnificent educational institution.

Now that we have got it, let us be sensible about it. Just because the biggest institution of learning in Texas or we might say the entire Southland is being located here we should keep our heads and not go "hog wild" and get it into our system that there is no limit to the value of property in this city, and the surrounding country. To make this school the success that the state of Texas would have if we must cooperate in doing so by being satisfied with a good living profit on the things we have to sell. Keep town lots and land values at a reasonable price, and practice the doctrine of live and let live, and encourage people to come to our city by selling property at a price that will enable them to come and have something left to buy groceries and clothes after they have bought lots and built a home on them. Do not get it into your head either that money is going to drop into your hands like corn out of a sheller, and remember that this great school cannot be built in a week or a month, but it will take years to get it to running at full blast, and that there is plenty of time for a lot of people to go broke before they can realize returns on property that is bought at too high price. There is not so much danger of people being hurt by prices if they do not buy too much at a dollar down and owe for the balance. Buy what you can pay for, and be satisfied with turning it at a reasonable profit, and Lubbock will enjoy a healthy growth; and no body will be hurt. The reputation of the town will be better, and people will be happy.

We just drop these few thoughts in hopes that there will be no unjustified boom. Make Lubbock a good place to live in. A city of home owners, and happy contented people. Make it the city that we have told you about in years passed—the hub of the plains, the biggest city on the plains, and the most important in the southwest.

It is now the home of the Tech College. "Where else could they put it?"

The Town With The Goods

There is nothing on earth that can prevent Lubbock from becoming a great city! The spirit and ambition of her people is such to overcome great obstacles—to portray great opportunities as a commercial city and as a city of good homes.

It's the Quality of Things and Their Usefulness That Counts Most

In the manufacture of Butterflake Bread, the same spirit that distinguishes Lubbock's citizenship, that makes it stand out head and shoulders above its rivals, is exemplified. The same ambition inherent in the hearts of Lubbock people to make a great city is in the manufacturers of Butterflake whose ambition is directed to building a great business.

The Ups and Downs Will be Met With Smiling Determination for Better Things

In the season's flight as marked by time conditions come that would break the spirit of a less hardy people than the citizenship of Lubbock. Proudly we look upon our co-workers as they resolutely "bow their necks" in renewed determination to make for greater things civically.

BUTTERFLAKE BREAD

Is a Quality Bread and its Quality is Leading it on to Higher Records.

Beginning with a great ambition to bake a loaf of bread in Lubbock the quality of which was surpassed by no other anywhere, Martin Baking Company have stood the ups and downs, each bringing about greater resolutions to build soundly on quality, fairness and the true West Texas spirit of co-operation in building our town, our county and section. We are firm believers in the things we work for because we have great faith in the power of quality.

COTTON

Table with market prices for Cotton, Butter, Eggs, and Poultry. Columns include item names, units, and prices.

MARKET LETTER

KANSAS CITY STOCK YARDS. Aug. 8. Cattle steady to higher hogs five to fifteen higher, lambs steady to lower.

The market opened for the week with receipts about like a year ago, with exception of the sheep receipts, which were some higher. Good cattle were scarce, selling strong to 25 cents higher, the best offered bringing $11.40.

Today's Receipts

Receipts today were 39,000 cattle, 10,900 hogs, 8,000 sheep compared with 25,825 cattle, 12,533 hogs and 9,084 sheep last week and 23,311 cattle, 11,728 hogs and 4,350 sheep a year ago.

Stockers and Feeders

Stockers and feeders were active and unevenly higher, desirable kinds selling 15 to 25 cents higher, others generally steady. Indications are that there will be an increasing demand for stockers and feeders from now on.

Hogs

The hog market opened stronger than the close of last week. The top $7.75 was paid by shippers, packers top $7.50. Packing sows advanced 10 to 25 cents ranging from $5.75 to $6.00. Pigs sold for $6.25 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs

Lamb prices developed some weakness, selling steady to 25 cents lower, while sheep were steady to 25 cents higher. Colorado lambs sold for $12.25, ewes for $7.10.

Horses and Mules

The horse and mule receipts were light, with prices unchanged. There is a good demand for cotton mules, exceeding the supply, with offerings limited.

Scientists To See Sun Hide Face

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—Scientists of the world are flocking to Southern California making preparation for the most complete scientific observations of a total eclipse of the sun thus far known.

The eclipse will occur September 10. It is the first total eclipse in this district for nearly 120 years, and will be the last until 2045 A. D.

The total eclipse will only clip the extreme southwest portion of the United States, beginning a little north of San Diego.

Many of the scientists are preparing to take their instruments to the little seacoast town of Eureka, in Lower California, Mexico, where the total eclipse will last the greatest length of time.

Many Nations Represented. Groups of scientists from England, France, Belgium, Italy, Spain, Germany, Japan and other countries are planning to view the eclipse, take photographs and make ocular observations of widespread character.

Most important among the photographs to be taken and the observations to be made will be those tending to confirm or disprove the Einstein theory.

Photographs of the light rays of stars, which Einstein claims are bent by the action of gravity when passing a mass such as that of the sun, will be taken, as will photographs of what are known as the "Einstein group."

Similar photographs taken last year during a total eclipse in the South Seas by scientists who went to Wallall Beach, Australia, and Christmas Island, in the South Pacific, confirmed the Einstein contention, they reported.

Scientists at Work. Numerous scientists will take the observations at San Diego, where the eclipse will be visible in totally 3 minutes and 35 seconds, they will go to San Clemente Island, off the coast between San Diego and Los Angeles, and others will go to the Coronado Islands, off San Diego, which are really in Mexico, and are reported to be the headquarters for a big Pacific rum smuggling group.

Many scientists, who do not need to view the eclipse in totality to make their observations, will go to Mount Wilson Observatory, near Pasadena. Observations will be taken from Mount Hamilton, south of San Francisco. At Pasadena the eclipse will be 89 percent in total, at San Francisco 95 per cent.

out the luncheon. Jimmie Dow covered in a short running address, the early life of President Harding from his birth in a two room log house on his grandfather's farm to his inauguration as President of the United States—dwelling particularly upon his newspaper life and work. It was interesting to learn that until the day of his death Mr. Harding carried a newspaper rule in his pocket—the sign of an active newspaper man throughout the world.

He started into the newspaper business on less than $200 in a bankrupt plant and steadily grew in influence and ability until at his death was the owner of a complete modern plant and the nation's most influential man.

Charlie Ferguson outlined briefly the major factors dealt with by the Harding Administration and some of the comments both pro and con upon these factors as affecting not only the present United States but the world. Among those named and discussed were the tariff question, the migration question, the labor question, the disarmament conference, development of natural resources, farm credit expansion under War Finance control, the proposition and other major factors that go to make up the history of the Harding Administration.

ROTARY HAS MOST INTERESTING MEETING

What is said to have been the most interesting luncheon ever held by the Lubbock Rotary Club was enjoyed Wednesday at the Elk Cafe. A few more than 50 were present, including several visitors of note from the city and South Plains section. Not only was the dinner exceptionally good but the program, thruout, was pleasing and worth while.

The Lubbock County winners in the recent state meet held at College Station for the Boys and Girls Club members and county and home demonstration agents from all over Texas were introduced as guests of the club. There a misunderstanding Miss Marsh was not present. J. W. Jennings, County Agent was first place in the Poultry Judging Contest and 5th place in all County Agent contests. Miss Marsh won second place in home demonstration agent poultry judging contest. Curtis Grimes and Mary Bowles, Lubbock County poultry judging team trained by Miss Marsh won third place in this contest and Curtis Grimes won first as an individual.

These facts are interesting in that the contest was participated in by more than 350 county agents and club members from all over Texas—and more interesting because Lubbock county won more different events than any other county in the state—as usual we must add.

President Spencer of West Texas Chamber of Commerce Speaks. The Honorable A. B. Spencer of Crosbyton, President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and well known Plains builder gave an interesting discussion of the work of that organization and the policies and plans that it is to pursue during the coming year. The organization has become recognized, not only in Texas, but thruout the United States as a great factor in the development of all of West Texas and the largest commercial organization in the world outside of the United States Chamber of Commerce—nation wide in its scope.

A detailed report of his speech is made in another section of the paper under the heading of West Texas Chamber of Commerce Drive Starts. Memorial Service in Honor of Rotarian Warren G. Harding. Thruout the United States this week Rotary Clubs are holding memorial services in honor of Rotarian Warren G. Harding, late President of the United States. The entire memorial programme was beautifully impressive as well as interesting. A miniature silk flag was draped at half-mast in the center of the long table and the breeze from the electric fan kept it gently waving thru-

The Man and His Death in the Service of His Country. To be appreciated this address would not only have to be read but heard as well. It was a most fitting climax to a well executed programme and left the club hushed in appreciation of the great responsibilities that are a part of the chief executive's office in our nation and in appreciation of Warren G. Harding's integrity in endeavoring to fulfill those obligations and responsibilities.

The Moulting Season is Here!

When hens moult in late summer and early fall, they are obliged to grow an entirely new coat of feathers. Unless the laying hen receives in her feed the material from which feathers are made, she will be obliged to draw on her body for this material.

This means that her system will be in a run-down condition and that the chances are she will not lay any eggs until winter or early spring.

SERVICES FOR PRESIDENT HARDING CONSUMED ONLY A FEW MINUTES THOUSANDS TRY TO SEE REMAINS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The late president Warren G. Harding made his last solemn progress down Pennsylvania Avenue. At 10:19 a Marine bugler called beneath the portico of the president's mansion and the flag-draped casket borne out to the caisson by twelve soldiers. General Pershing was at the head of the procession which was a mile long. The cortege got under way just as Mrs. Harding started for the Whitehouse, and as she entered the carriage a low moan was heard to come from her lips. Company after company of artillery and infantry marched to the solemn dirge of the funeral march and hymns played by the army and the marine bands. Thousands upon thousands of persons pressed against the wires stretched along the route. Terrible heat caused more than two hundred prostrations. President Coolidge rode in an automobile with his head bowed upon his chest, and Woodrow Wilson in his automobile looked gaunt and old. Old familiar hymns and memory of loved ones caused many senators to weep openly as the black draped casket rumbled by. All during the march, minute guns boomed at Fort Myer, Virginia, across the Potomac and could be faintly heard. The casket arrived at the capitol plaza at eleven twenty-one and was borne tenderly into the rotunda where many notables were assembled for the services.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Within the rotunda, the casket was placed on a catafalque, while a quartette sang "Lead Kindly Light." Mrs. Harding heavily veiled took a seat at the head of the casket, with Secretary George Christian on one side, and Dr. Sawyer on the other. The officiating ministers were Rev. A. Freeman Anderson and Rev. James Montgomery. The latter pronounced invocation prayer and quoted a number of passages from the Bible, read the Twenty-second Psalm and pronounced the benediction, as follows: "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: The Lord make His face to shine upon thee and give thee peace." The services only lasted a few minutes. The chief mourners filed past the casket and departed and vast throngs were permitted to look for the last time on the president.

LUBBOCK WINS TEXAS TECH ON FIRST BALLOT

Lou, Ralls, Shallowater, Brownfield, Big Spring—were all represented. Where they came from or how they got here no one knew but they were here when the band started playing the National Anthem of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce—"The Old Gray Mare." Big Stunt Celebrations. Telegrams of congratulations poured in from all over the state. Abilene was first with "The people of Abilene extend heartfelt congratulations to the people of Lubbock on their victory and predict for Texas Tech a glorious future. One hundred and fifty Abilene businessmen will visit you on August 24th to shake hands and help you celebrate." Plainview was second with a telegram from Secretary Boswell to Secretary Keen that read "Congratulations old boy." It was followed a few minutes later by an official telegram signed Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce that read "Plainview takes its hat off to you and sincerely and heartily congratulates you on securing the Tech College. We want to help you make it the greatest institution in the state. It's a great victory for the Plains." Sweetwater, Big Springs, Colorado, Post City, Vernon—oh well just all of the rest of the towns in West Texas sent similar messages—always pledging to Lubbock and the Plains their fullest support and co-operation in making the Texas Tech the greatest institution in Texas. The Board of Trustees Pleased. Messages were received from Clifford Jones, J. E. Nunn, Mr. Carter and other members of the Board of Trustees congratulating Lubbock upon winning the location for the college and expressing pleasure at the decision of the board. "The Committee made an excellent selection" said Mr. Nunn of Amarillo. Clifford Jones of Spur, wired, "Please accept for your citizenship my warmest congratulations and my assurance that it will be a labor of love to assist in creating in your progressively splendid community one of the greatest educational institutions of the South." Such a spirit of good will, of co-operation and fellowship can hardly be realized as has been shown by everyone of the contending towns. The standing of the locating board, the efficiency of their plan of operation and reputation of the individual members that composed the board, and the open and above board campaign that has been waged by every

West Texas town for this college are matters that have been commented upon most favorably before and are deserving of the highest praise. "There is great satisfaction," said Mr. Slaton in speaking of the result of the great race. "In knowing that, although the other 36 towns of West Texas are disappointed in losing the college, not one of them—so far as we know or have heard—holds the least bit of hard feeling toward Lubbock on account of our good fortune or in any way has criticized the tactics used in getting the college. The fight all over West Texas has been clean, above board and worthy of the citizenship of this great West Texas section and these facts only make it the more necessary that Lubbock shall accept the college with a sense of responsibility and an appreciation of the obligations that go with it. We have a great section to serve and a section made up of the highest type of people. Lubbock must guard well the trust that has been placed in her in the location of this college with us and fulfill the obligations that go with its location."

Sane, Sensible Viewpoint Taken by Businessmen. Fifteen minutes after the announcement came over the phone from the Star Telegram office that Lubbock had the college the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce and a half dozen of the leaders of Lubbock were gathered in the Chamber of Commerce offices discussing the problems presented by the location of the college. How to best express the appreciation of the city to the surrounding towns who have so faithfully and effectively labored in the interest of Lubbock and the Plains as the location for the Tech College, how to express to the State of Texas our appreciation of the responsibility that goes with the school and how to prevent the possibility of things getting entirely out of control. The one thing stressed was that the college did not complete Lubbock but rather that it was merely the beginning of what the city and section must do to be worthy of its location. "We have been working," said Jed Rix, former president of the Chamber of Commerce and a man who works for Rix Furniture Company only when there is nothing to be done for the general good of Lubbock and the South Plains. "But we have just gotten started. Lubbock has her opportunity presented to her in the form of a million dollar educational institution—and that million dollars is just a starter. Now it is just put up to Lubbock and the Plains section to make good with this opportunity. It will take work. It will take time and money and sweat and co-operative effort and a spirit of progress that cannot and will not become discouraged with a little dry spell, a sand storm or some other passing inconvenience."

State Papers Carry a Card of Thanks. The Fort Worth Star Telegram, Fort Worth Record and Dallas News each carry a three column ten inch card of thanks to the people of Texas thanking them for the great honor that has been given Lubbock and the South Plains and pledging our word that we will fulfill the obligation that goes with that honor with credit to the state, to the Honorable Locating Board and the rest of West Texas. The word of Lubbock has been pledged, verbally, thru the brief, thru the state press, and in the great celebration held on the court lawn Wednesday night and it is up to Lubbock to not only fulfill that obligation and that promise but to overflow a dozen times the broadest pledges we have ever made. And there is only one way that that can be done and that is thru a combined, united co-operation on the part of every individual citizen in Lubbock and the Plains section. If there is a man in the city or the section that is not ready and willing to show that spirit of service and co-operation now is the best time that he can leave and it is a moral obligation of every working citizen to tell him so whenever he shows the slightest inclination to bow his neck or lay down on his job.

Business As Usual. The college was located Wednesday. The celebration started forthwith immediately—if not sooner. It lasted until the wee small hours of this morning and the spirit is still here. But let's get back down to business. It will be several months before the appropriation is available. Several more months before the college is open. There will be little change in the volume of business to be done in Lubbock for the next year or so. Few salaries will be automatically raised as a result of the location of the college. The old alarm clock will go off just as disconcertantly and you will hate to get out of bed just as badly. So, as a city, let's buckle down to business and don't let our enthusiasm run away with our good judgment and try to remake the world in a day. Lubbock has a wonderful opportunity to Make a City—but as has been said before "Cities Do Not Happen—They Are Built" and just because the college has been located at Lubbock does not make it a city. There is a long, laborious process yet to be gone thru with. A lot of small town, country ideas have to be worked out of the folks that live here. Sound prosperity must be maintained upon a basis of property values commensurate with the actual value of the properties in the city and section and not be artificially inflated to the breaking point. Just because we have gotten started on the road to leadership don't automatically make us the whole cheese. Our enthusiasm must be tempered with common sense and our determination to lead all of West Texas cement us together for the hard fights yet to come before we can rear back on our dignity and call Lubbock a finished town. (And then we will start to decay—for that word FINISHED is well taken). Business as usual—with a constructive optimism tempered with commonsense must be the goal sought after by every sane thinking businessman in Lubbock for the next six months or so and folks get their bearing again. Big street celebration. Wednesday evening, after a whole afternoon spent in rejoicing the streets of Lubbock were cleared and a crowd estimated at 4,000 thronged the courthouse lawn and square to hear speeches by representative businessmen and citizens of Lubbock, Slaton and the other South Plains towns. Roscoe Wilson, the self appointed mayor of Lubbock, made the opening speech and was followed by General Rah Murray of Slaton, Col. L. Slaton, the only member of the Steering Committee tonight thanked the crowd for the co-operation given the committee at all times by the individual citizens of the city and section. Representative Baldwin of Slaton briefly reviewed the history of the college bill and expressed satisfaction in its present form and the location of the college. Mr. Hatchett from Tahoka urged the encouragement of more settlers for the South Plains sections and pledged the support of his town and county in all things progressive. After the speaking, the Lorenzo Concert Band played some mighty good music and dancing was enjoyed until nearly one o'clock by more than 200 couples. The street was used and a real party was had. Thus did Lubbock complete the day's celebration.

confronted him throughout the fight he has made for a college of first class in West Texas. Mrs. Bledsoe assured an Avalanche reporter Wednesday afternoon that she is exceedingly happy that Senator Bledsoe's desire to have the school located in Lubbock has been gratified. To give vent to the enthusiasm that enveloped her upon receiving the decision of the locating board, Mrs. Bledsoe fired several shots from the forty-five caliber pistol which was presented to Senator Bledsoe by the Rangers of Texas two years ago after he had staged a sensational fight in the senate in their behalf. The gun is an elaborate affair the frame being of the finest metal, trimmed with gold. The handle bears the head of a Texas long-horn steer, set with rubies and a diamond. Senator and Mrs. Bledsoe To Celebrate 6th Wedding Anniversary. The sixth wedding anniversary of Senator and Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe will be celebrated at their home here on Broadway today after his arrival from Fort Worth where he had been in interest of the Texas Technological College, and where he heard the final results of a fight in which he has been engaged for the past seven years. When the locating board designated Lubbock as the location of the college, they met the highest expectations of Senator and Mrs. Bledsoe, and the celebration which will be held at their home will be the first social function the Senator has attended without being more or less burdened with the problems that LADDIE BOY MOURNS DEATH OF HIS MASTER AT CAPITOL. WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 8.—His master dead in a flag draped casket in the east room, Laddie Boy, the pet of the late president is locked in a separate room of the Whitehouse. Twice during the night he howled mournfully. As the body was brought up to the Whitehouse last night the only sound was the gentle sobs of old Charlie Patton, President Harding's gardener, who the President brought to Washington with him. "I never thought I would live to see this day" he cried.

If You Are Tall and Slender. It is graceful to be tall and slender when we are well proportioned. But if we are not careful, as we grow older, we are apt to develop angles instead of curves, and unkind people call us not "slim" but "thin." The cure for this tendency is the persuasive moulding of those GOSSARD CORSETS designed to give youthful roundness to those lines of the tall, slender figures that are not sufficiently curved. Understanding your type is one of the most important aids to beauty you will ever find. Remember that whatever your figure may be there are Gossard Corsets with just the support you need at your age and weight to give you the proper proportions.
