Panhandle-P. V. League Closes Season

PANHANDLE-PECOS VALLEY LEAGUE CLOSED ITS PLAYING SEASON AUG. 14TH—PRESIDENT GIVES STATEMENT

Mr. S. D. Hunter, President of the Panhandle Pecos Valley League handed out the following statement and schedule of the program of the league, which is the way the season of the Panhandle Pecos Valley League will be wound up. Mr. Hunter says: The Panhandle Pecos Valley League closed their playing season with games yesterday at Roswell and Clovis.

The league as a whole is in splendid shape and all teams going good, but it was thought best by the management to close the season on account of business reasons local to some of the clubs.

Lubbock won the First Half of the playing season and Amarillo won the second half, and a play off, schedule has been arranged between these two clubs for the Pennant.

They will play nine games if necessary to decide the Pennant Winner. They will play as follows:

Saturday and Sunday, August 18th and 19th at Amarillo.
Monday, August 20th lay off day.
Tuesday and Wednesday, August 21st and 22nd at Lubbock.

Thursday, August 23rd, lay off day.
Friday and Saturday, August 24th and 25th at Amarillo.

Sunday and Monday, August 26th and 27th at Lubbock.
Tuesday, August 28th (Tech Celebration Day) at Lubbock.

This is the schedule, provided games are necessary.

Each team is allowed to select one player in addition to the present roster of his club, but this player must be selected from players now in this league.

Amarillo management says they will make no change at all, Lubbock will likely take advantage of this privilege on account of their pitching staff being considerable crippled.

This circuit this year has played exceptionally fast ball and these two teams have been fighting for position during the entire season.

It is expected that large crowds will witness the games as the rivalry between the two cities dates back much further than their entrance into League Base Ball.

The games during this series will be conducted in big league style, no ranting or contentions will be allowed.

Roy Reeves, who has had three years experience as Umpire in the western league, will be umpire-in-chief, with C. M. Chesher as assistant.

These umpires have been given strict instructions to run the game as base ball law requires and each of the club managements have been requested to have ample police protection on hand at all times should they be needed.

The winner of this series will likely arrange with the Texas Association for an inter-League Series to decide the Championship in Class D base ball for Texas.

$300,000 DEFICIENCY SHOWN IN THE STATE UNIVERSITY FUNDS

AUSTIN, August 16.—A conference between Attorney General Keeling and H. A. Wroom, member of the board of regents of the State University, was held today to discuss the deficiency in University appropriations fund, which totals more than three hundred thousand dollars.

There is no relief in sight and University employes must discount their warrants at five percent.

TO REDUCE THE COST OF DYING IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16. (United Press)—A group of residents of Oklahoma City have banded together to reduce the cost of funeral expenses, adopting as their motto: "It costs too much to live and too much to die."

Twenty attended the organization meeting where it was voted to form the "Sensible Burying Club" which will endeavor to have members leave their worldly wealth to relatives instead of paying for costly funerals. "We expect one member to start co-operative undertaking establishment," said Mrs. Kate Stafford, organizer. Another will make coffin and sell them at a reasonable price and we may obtain a burying ground later where lots may be had at cost.

Man Ninety-One Years Old Helped Locate the "Tech"

J. J. Coffee, aged ninety-one years, doesn't like the idea of being left out on any proposition designed to better West Texas in any way.

After all of the members of his family had contributed liberally to the Tech, location fund the committee had charge of the work failed to solicit Mr. Coffee's assistance, believing that the family had done all that should be expected of them.

A phone call was received at the office of Mr. Kimbro requesting that a member of the committee call at the Coffee home, and on arriving there he was presented with a check for twenty-five dollars from the aged Texan, who stated that he had as much right to help put that splendid school in Lubbock as anyone, and that he "wanted to help in any way he could."

The check was accepted, and this donation should be an example worthy of being followed by all of the people of Lubbock.

POLICE NAB YOUNG MAN CHARGING FORGERY OF LEGION AUTHORITY

HOUSTON, Aug. 16.—The police department announces today that the charges of forgery in connection with the arrest of a young man in this city yesterday, who was reported to be soliciting funds for the American Legion without a permit, states that he was arrested when he was attempting to cash a check amounting to several hundred dollars which was made out to the Legion. At the same time a plea was made that the State Department use possible power to bring to justice the super-slacker who has brazenly flouted the authority of the United States.

CITIZENS CLASH RECOGNITION OF IN BATTLE WITH MEXICO CERTAIN KLANS IN OHIO AT EARLY DATE

RESULT OF CITY ELECTION CAUSED ATTACK ON KLANSMEN.

STUBBLEVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 16.—One man is near death and fifty others are injured as the result of a spectacular battle in the streets between Klansmen and non-Klansmen of the Ku Klux Klan. The fighting is said to be the outgrowth of the city election, which was held Tuesday, in which four Klansmen were successful in their election to office.

The mob attacked the Klansmen as the latter came out of their hall. Marvin L. Gibson, a bystander is probably fatally wounded by a gunshot. There were a large number of Klansmen reported to have been present at the meeting in Stubbleville, from other towns. About twenty-five automobile loads are reported to have been there from Wierston, West Va. The Klansmen were reported to have been heavily armed by the police who finally took charge of the situation, and got the visitors out of town.

UNDAUNTED THE RUM SHIP CONTINUES PREPARATION FOR OPENING

HOUSTON, Aug. 16.—The opinion of Federal Judge Woodruff in New York that ships bearing cargoes of liquor, hovering outside the three mile limit is liable to seizure, will not halt the preparations for putting in operation the Rum Palace on the schooner Atlantic, off Galveston, according to an announcement made today by Captain Copeland, who will have the Rum Palace in charge. He says that the decision will not effect his plans in any way. He says the vessel is not in commission, hence is not under the rule of ships.

Much interest is being manifested in the outcome of this case, as it seems to have some exceedingly technical points connected with it that will have to be thrashed out through the Federal courts, National and International, in all probability.

THREE THOUSAND FARMERS AND BUSINESS MEN MEET IN DODGE CITY AND PLAN SEED ARRANGEMENTS

KANSAS CITY, Kansas, Aug. 16.—Many of the Kansas farmers are busy breaking their land for fall planting of wheat, but they are very uncertain as to the acreage that will be planted, as they do not know where the seed is coming from, and they are greatly discouraged over the present prices of wheat, and the future outlook for that crop.

More than three thousand farmers and business men held a meeting in Dodge City last night in an effort to solve the problem of getting seed for planting, which representations covered more than sixteen counties in the vicinity of this place. Plans were suggested to form a pool whereby millers, bankers and grain dealers might furnish seed with the understanding that if the crop produced next year those in the pool would receive two bushels of grain next August for each bushel furnished the farmers this year.

Last season the sixteen counties represented in this proposed pool arrangement sowed more than a million acres of wheat which only 26,029 acre produced a crop worth harvesting.

Warren, the American Commissioner, who has been present at the conference just closed, be appointed Ambassador to Mexico from the United States.

Warren is extremely popular in Mexico, and is thoroughly familiar with the laws of Mexico. The people of Mexico have expressed themselves pleased with his attitude in his conference discussions and describe them as being "generous and unselfish." "Better times for Mexico" are freely forecasted by the leaders of Mexico since the favorable recommendations of the conference that has been in session here for the past few days. A heavy influx of foreign capital, especially from England, France and the United States, is expected and in fact there is much evidence of its presence in Mexico.

The eight year old daughter of Marty, his third marriage, was awarded to him in divorce proceedings, but before could get possession of the child, Mrs. Marty disappeared taking the girl with her. She had lived here about three months, and while the child was playing with chips in the yard Marty and Daniel are said to have driven up in an automobile, seized the child and sped away.

Just outside the city limits Marty and the child were joined by a woman, who was waiting there in an automobile according to Daniel's statement.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE TEXAS TECHNOLOGICAL COLLEGE WILL MEET IN EXECUTIVE SESSION HERE AUG. 28

Curtis A. Keen, secretary of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has just received a letter from Amos G. Cattrer, vice-president and general manager of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and who is also chairman of the board of directors of the Texas Technological college, stating that he will be in Lubbock for the celebration on the 28th of this month.

Mr. Cattrer stated that the board will meet in executive session while here, and that in all probability the president of the college will be selected at this meeting.

In pointing out the important position the president to be selected will hold Mr. Cattrer said: "This is one of the most important things before the board at this time, as notwithstanding Lubbock's loyalty and enthusiasm for the school as well as the interest of the entire board, in the final analysis it is going to involve on the president of this institution the greatest responsibility of its establishment.

Fort Worth will be well represented at the celebration as the chamber of commerce officials are planning to have the delegation come in one body. That that city is with the remainder of West Texas in welcoming the establishment of the school on the south plains is evidenced by the keen interest her citizens have shown in the celebration that will be held here on the 28th.

ARE FARMERS RAINBOW CHASERS?

With the farmers of the country in revolt against Republican reactionism, the officials of the administration and other Old Guard spokesmen are now trying to blame the farmer for the present distressful condition of agriculture. According to an interview with Secretary Wallace in the Washington publication, the Spotlight (formerly the Searchlight), the leaders of the farmers are called "mushy" and the farmers themselves are ridiculed as "rainbow chasers." We quote from the interview:

"If farmers leaders would stop shouting about the farmer's sacred duty to feed and clothe the world, farmers would be better off." The Secretary indicated that this sort of talk was pretty soft, girly-girly stuff.

"They ought to have more of the iron that labor leaders have in their make up," he said.

"Farmers, generally speaking, are in pretty desperate straits; is there anything they can do, collectively which will help them out?" I suggested.

"You know them and their leaders, as well as I do," the Secretary replied; "they won't pull together; they go off chasing rainbows and get side tracked too easily."

"No, the problem is only for the individual farmer to solve by studying the situation; increasing his per acre production and decreasing his unit of cost; hiring less help, and doing everything he can by his own efforts and that of his family," he said.

"You know the problem is really solving itself," he continued.

"How? Mr. Secretary," I asked.

Whereupon, Secretary Wallace explained as follows:

"The marginal farmer, that is, the farmer who is on the narrow fringe of solvency, either through disadvantageous location, climatically, or with reference to market, or the farmer with poor soil, or the inefficient farmer—farmers like these are being crowded out and are going into the cities."

"This means that labor wages are going to come down, due to keener competition, and in this way a proper ratio between the farmer and the industrial worker will be brought about."

There you have the solution of the agricultural problem from the highest administration authority. When enough farmers have been driven from their farms to the cities by failure to make a living, then farm production will decrease to the point where the surviving farmers will get a higher price for their products and labor will get lower wages by reason of the increased supply of labor provided by the impoverished farmers.

What will the farmers think of this solution by the Cabinet Officers of the Harding administration in charge of their interests, and how does it harmonize with the promises of agricultural prosperity made to the farmers in the campaign of 1920 and repeated in 1922?

We had not observed that farmers are "rainbow chasers," but we had observed that they are a hard-working class of people, and that they bear the brunt of price-dropping in farm commodities, and the raise of prices in the production of many other articles, and the government should certainly take care of the farmer if any class on earth should be taken care more than the other.

Whether Republican or Democratic, when the political leaders treat with little concern, or contempt, the tillers of the soil they are not giving them a fair and square deal, and not deserving of their support.

The Democratic party has always been more generous toward the farmer than any other party ever in power, and for that reason they should have, and deserve, the support of the farmer class of people. Of course, at times there comes conditions that no one party can control, and there comes calamities that are hard to overcome, but if the farmers of America will stand by the Democrats and their democratic principles there will be more uniformity of prosperity, and the farmer will realize more for his products and have to pay less for his machinery and equipment.

LITTLE AVALANCHES

From the wise opinions on baseball heard in the bleachers, it is strange that some of these folks aren't earning $10,000 a year managing big teams.

Some men who run their automobiles in an extremely noisy way, will yet kick on publicity if you put their names in the paper.

If the crops are good this fall both political parties will claim credit, and if they are bad, neither one was responsible in any way.

The principal summer work in the big cities about now consists in attending the league ball games.

ROTARY NOTES

Wednesday's program was one of those well-balanced, entertaining, enlightening kind that makes a fellow feel that Rotary is a tangible thing and has more place in our everyday life than we are willing to credit it with.

The committee is to be congratulated upon having included among the participants in this program Miss Edith Carter, soloist, who, accompanied by Miss Margaret Robbins on the piano, pleased the Rotarians with a beautiful selection, and represented to a hearty encore with an appropriate and well received number.

L. M. Brooks, well known in Rotary circles as a member of the famous "Rotary Quartette," assisted by Mrs. Frank Barclay, pianist, sang in his usual pleasing manner and was instantly encored. Brook's voice has become the voice of Rotary, and his appearance on the program is expected when the secretary puts out a notice that the entertainment features will be worth while.

Copas Brown, son of Rotarian Woody, gave a report on the scout encampment which he headed last week, and after he had told of the many interesting incidents enjoyed by the boys, the Rotarians felt that they were more than repaid for having financed the trip. He told how the boys were under strict military discipline, how they had played the role of good scouts throughout the week, and in fact his narrative of the trip gave hi shearers a keener insight into the true worth of a scout organization in Lubbock.

Richard L. Douglass was the two-minute man for the day and gave commendable ideas regarding the educational features of Rotary membership.

"Do one thing at a time and do it well," was well handled by Rotarian Woody, who insisted that it is better for all of the people of Lubbock to concentrate upon one undertaking and complete it with credit to the town than for several special committees to be working on many different objectives with the strength of the town only partly placed against each thing.

His talk was indeed interesting and the instructions he gave were based upon experiences.

"Butterflake" had as his guest S. P. Smith, of Stamford, representative of the Great West Mills, of Vernon. Mr. Smith was formerly of Lubbock, and his visit to the city was appreciated by his friends here. He has kinda lost out on talking "flour" as fluently as he used to, for with every few words now he has to bring in something about a seven weeks old boy who has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith. He is, according to his dad, one of the finest youngsters in the state, and a fit applicant for enrollment in the Texas Tech.

Other guests were J. W. Walters, Slaton, and J. B. Maxey, Plainview, of L. C. Montgomery; R. C. Smith, Amarillo, of Jed Rix; P. B. Randolph, of A. W. May, and J. H. Houston, of the Citizens National Bank, of Oscar Nislar.

Rush to Movieland Is Checked; Movie-struck Girls Are Now Behind Store Counters; Problem Is Now Lots Easier

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (United Press)—The department stores of Los Angeles are filled with pretty clerks who thought they were potential Mary Pickfords. Many a "second Gloria Swanson" is now chewing gum and punching a typewriter, as a stenographer in the office of a studio where she first went hoping to win her way to fame and fortune on the silver screen.

Fortunately, however, the tide of screen struck girls who come from all parts of the country to Hollywood has been checked.

Despite reports from tourists that everywhere girl hikers are "on their way to Hollywood" less of them are arriving than ever before in the history of the movie game.

Apparently, the recent widespread publicity given to the small chance that a girl has to win fame in the movies and the starvation facts which usually confront her on arriving in Hollywood, have taken effect.

Swamped With Girls

During the war and after the war up to the big movie slump of 1920, Hollywood and Los Angeles were literally swamped with would-be movie queens. New Companies were springing up like mushrooms and many of these aspirants to film fame actually found places where they obtained some degree of recognition. In some cases they became stars. But the "roaring twenties" have gone, and the movies are now on a different and very much more efficient basis.

Casting directors and welfare workers are unanimous in declaring that, with the greatest talent and the best of looks and the rarest of luck, no unknown girl nowadays can hope to make even a small reputation in Hollywood inside of two years.

The Y. W. C. A., the city police mothers, and similar organizations obtained many of them jobs in department stores, in stores and offices, or, if they knew typing, as stenographers. Others were rescued by friends or parents who sent the price of a return ticket back home.

Since that time producers have aimed to spread the truth over the country that the average unknown girl has only about one chance in a thousand to make a living in the movies.

"Our problems have greatly decreased in the last two years," said one police mother. "Before that morals were lax in the movies, and besides, so many girls came who, unable to make a living in the movies, took in desperation what they believed to be an easier way. Now movie morals have improved somewhat, and the girls are arriving in smaller numbers and I believe are of a better type."

"Heartbreak House" Has Big Waiting List; There Come Youths and Girls Who Aspire to Shine on Silver Screen

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (United Press)—It is estimated that about 500 flappers a year desert their homes in the middle west and east and come to Hollywood, fluttering like moths about a brilliant flame of movie fame.

At present about five a week apply for work at "Heartbreak House."

"Heartbreak House" is an old decayed, bare-walled structure downtown in Los Angeles, which houses the powerful Service Bureau. Practically all of the big producing companies are members of the Service Bureau, and hire their extras through it. Butterfly girls and handsome boys, who apply for work at the studio wickets, are referred to the Service Bureau.

But the Service Bureau limits the number of extras it will register. At present the limitation is 1,200, and this must include all kinds of character people and comedy freaks.

No matter how much ability a pretty girl or striking youth may have, he or she doesn't get a chance if the registration is filled up—as it usually is.

The idea of the Service Bureau, which sends extras out on calls for certain types or for certain scenes from studios to give a decent living to a group of established extras by providing fairly steady work. The Service Bureau does the hiring and also does the paying, deducting a commission from the extra's pay for placing them.

Girls who come to Hollywood, hoping to win recognition, sometimes wait for months before there is an opening in the registration book of the bureau.

Work's Irregular

Wages range from $5 to $10 a day, with the average about $7.50. Some character players get as much as $15 a day. Work is very irregular. Sometimes an extra will work in half a dozen pictures a week at as many studios, sometimes working at one studio in the daytime and at another at night. And again an extra will sometimes not get a single call for three or four weeks.

Extras must at all times be provided with a good wardrobe of street, sport, and evening clothes in good condition. Only clothes for special character parts of costume pictures are furnished by the studios. Character actors and actresses obtain steadier work than ordinary extras.

"The least-wanted type in the movies is the jazz baby," one of the hiring experts at the Service Bureau told the United Press. "There is no call for them. Bobbed-haired girls also earn a scant living in the movies. Stars are the only ones who seem to have the privilege of bobbing their hair and getting away with it."

Leave the Movies

Some extras make a permanent profession of the work but most of the would-be Mary Pickfords eventually think things over and in from six months to two years leave the movies for more substantial lines of work. The same is true of the handsome youths.

One of the most successful sales men on an automobile row today is a wavy-haired youth who once aspired to be a movie hero. He half-stayed the deep hatred and bitter revenge of an extra for two years, and that came down to earth, and got a job as an auto salesman for a during the years following the Civil sporty-looking make of car. Using his tight speaking acquaintance with the real stars of studios he specialized in a movie clientele and he has established a record of having sold more cars in the movie colony than any other one salesman in town.

Mr. Burrus is having a mighty hard time explaining that he moved to Abilene for Mrs. Burrus' health, in view of the fact that the splendid educational institutions of that city were attended by his children.

"THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE" IS OLD STORY

June Tolliver, eighteen and strikingly pretty, believed her sweetheart had been killed. She was a simple girl of the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky and had fallen in love with John Hale, a coal mining engineer and officer of the law. He risked his life in an effort to stop a feud that had endured for years between two clans, the Talms and the Tollivers, of the Kentucky-Tennessee Cumberland mountains.

Just as she is on the point of swooning and had accused her own relatives of killing the man she loved, it develops that Hale, although badly wounded, is still alive.

This situation strikes home a most dramatic climax in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," a Paramount picture starring Mary Miles Minter, which will be shown at the R and R Theatre Friday.

Miss Minter, as June Tolliver, is the girl in this fine mountain story. As John Hale, whose duty it was to bring law into the Cumberlands and to enforce it, Antonio Moreno, leading man, makes a powerful and exceedingly good looking hero, and Ernest Torrence, also featured, has a strong character role.

The scene described is but one of many moments of suspense and romance that go to make "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" one of the finest photoplays ever flashed on the screen. None of the beauty of the South has been overlooked by Charles Maigne, who directed Miss Minter in this picture. In addition, to be a movie hero. He half-stayed the deep hatred and bitter revenge of an extra for two years, and that came down to earth, and got a job as an auto salesman for a during the years following the Civil

Von Oldenburg Has Told the Former Crown Prince To Wait In the Interest of His 17-Year-Old Son

Berlin, Aug. 16. (United Press)—The advice of one man is the sole thing that keeps former Crown Prince Wilhelm chained to his desert island off the Dutch coast, instead of returning to his homeland. Not cowardice, as some say, nor lack of affection for his fatherland or his family, nor the opposition of certain of his countrymen are continuing him in his exile. The man whose counsel keeps him there is the 68-year-old castle lord of Januschan in Ostelbigen near Oldenburg. This man, known even before the war in the Reichstag as the bete noir of the radical parties has told Wilhelm to bide his time. Rather live a few years more in the pitiable isolation of Oesterland, on the Isle of Wieringen, in the Zuiderzee. Oldenburg has told him that he must now come back to his wife, his children, his beautiful castle Caeslshof, near Potsdam, to his horses and his sports. Some German say the Crown Prince is a coward, but his friends who knew his daring in peace and in war say that is a lie. The Time Not Yet. But Oldenburg, from his little-known castle beyond the Elbe, has told the Crown Prince that he must let time run its course in his own interest and in the interest of his 17-year-old son, who is living with the Crown Princess Caeslde in Potsdam. And Oldenburg has made it clear to him that his return now—it could not be hindered—would mean the unchaining of internal troubles which could lead to desperate consequences for the fatherland. Oldenburg knows and he convinced the Crown Prince that many of the young hot-spurs among the former officer corps would take his return as a signal for many ill-considered deeds, which in turn, would be answered by communists attempts to proclaim a Bolshevik terror in Germany. Oldenburg has been a friend of the Kaiser's family throughout his life. He is owner of a castle and a large estate in Ostelbigen and is one of the leaders in the monarchistic movement, which has its breeding ground among the Junker estates of East Prussia and Pomerania. Objected To Marriage. Oldenburg is counted as one of the sharpest opponents of the ex-Kaiser's marriage to Princess Hermine, but the fact that he disliked the father's action only served to bind him closer to the Kaiser's son. Even before the war, Oldenburg was in the position to counsel the crown prince and his weird influence—an influence surpassing even the ordinary influence of friendship—makes it possible for him to keep the youthful Hohenzollern patiently in exile. Meantime while many monarchists wait for the return of the Crown Prince, others are setting their hopes in the prince's oldest son Wilhelm, a boy 17, who is being educated by his mother, the former crown princess of Potsdam. His well-bred manner, and other good qualities inherited from his mother make him an especially popular figure for many who want to see the Hohenzollern regime restored.

CONFISCATES TOBAGO FROM COURT SPECTATORS

CANYON, Aug. 16.—Sheriff J. A. Grigsby of Floyd County is making enemies in his rigid search of spectators entering the court room for the Payne murder trial, his friends here today claim. Grigsby is on one of the doors leading into the court room and searches all persons entering. The main trouble seems to be that he is taking certain brands of chewing tobacco from some who enter the room. This accusation was made by officials today. Grigsby has a special list for certain brands of tobacco and those who happen to have any of that particular brand are "out of luck," it is said. One man complained of having been relieved of a 15-cent cut by the Floyd County officer. Other officers discussed the case today with a view of filing charges.

Club Boys and Girls Will Meet in Annual Encamp't Aug. 21-23

The Annual Club Boys and Girls Encampment for Lubbock county will be held August 23, 24 and 25 at Silver Lake Falls on the Canyon east of Crosbyton, with the boys and girls from Crosby and Dickens counties. All members of the Lubbock County Clubs are urged to attend and let's make this encampment the best we have ever had. Everyone will have to make his own arrangements for transportation. It is suggested that each community arrange to get their folks over there. However, there will be some spare room in the cars that go and any boy or girl who does not have a way to go may meet us at the court house and we will arrange for them to go. A program has been arranged that will furnish the most pleasure possible. Among the visitors present will be Mr. Sterling Evans, Boys Club Leader from the A. & M. College, Mrs. Carl Goodman from Plainview, and Hon. A. B. Spencer, President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The parents and other members of the family and friends are especially invited to attend the encampment and enjoy the sport with the boys and girls. REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS. Lub-Tex Motor Co. to C. T. LAMESA, Aug. 16.—A very enthusiastic Farm Bureau Drive is being waged in Dawson county for the last ten days by Mr. H. E. Lewellen of Nolan county. There has been approximately 100 members signed up to date and with the business men and bankers giving their full support as they are doing, it is possible that there will be some 500 members secured. The Dawson Farm Bureau will probably ship to the State Farm Bureau Cotton Association this fall several thousand bales of cotton. ARRANGEMENTS PERFECT. ED FOR SCRIPTURAL DEBATE HERE AUG. 29-31. Final arrangements for the debate between Evangelist J. A. Bentley of Waco, Tex and Welton Winn of this city has been consummated. The Church of Christ on Broadway is the place secured for the discussion, the parties failed to secure the court house as was desired for this discussion specially, but thru the kindness of the officials of the church mentioned the discussion will proceed on the evenings of Aug. 29, 30 and 31, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. The first subject will be: "The Scriptures clearly teach that man is wholly mortal and that he remains unconscious from death until the resurrection. Affirmative—Welton Winn. Negative—J. K. Bentley. Second: The scriptures clearly teach a "Hell" of endless torture for the incorrigible Wicked. Affirmative—J. K. Bentley. Negative—Welton Winn. Third: The Scriptures clearly teach that the kingdom of Christ is fully set up or established. Affirmative—J. K. Bentley. Negative—Welton Winn. This last proposition is not fully agreed on yet, but will likely be discussed also on the last night or on the 31st, notice will be given later. DEAF SMITH COUNTY TO EXHIBIT AT TRI-STATE FAIR

HEREFORD, Aug. 16.—According to a letter just received from Secretary R. E. Bray, of Hereford Chamber of Commerce at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Deaf Smith county will put on a splendid county exhibit at the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo and probably from there will go to the Dallas State Fair. Many counties of West Texas that heretofore have overlooked the advertising advantages of their territory with agricultural exhibits are now waking up to the cheapness as well as the direct effect to be obtained by showing the agricultural production of the county. Mr. I. M. Frank says: "All institutions are not in vaudeville—many are in everyday life." Chestnut Charley says: "Chickens in the ear have wrecked a lot more autos than chickens in the road."

Glue Finally Discovered That Will Resist Water, Free

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 16.—For four thousand years man has been trying to discover a glue which will resist the action of water. Recently scientists at the federal forest products laboratory have derived a simple formula for manufacture of glue from the blood of animals. Pieces of wood held together by this glue required a pressure of 300 pounds to break them apart after they had been soaked in water for a month. United States navy tests require only a strength of 180 pounds after a two-days soaking. In every age man has made use of the coagulating properties of blood for making glue. The Egyptians slaughtered oxen on bridges when they desired to fasten timbers together, so that they would resist the action of water. All other blood glues had to be used while fresh or required high temperatures to restore adhesive qualities. This new glue requires no heat for application. It may be put on with a brush or a mechanical glue spreader. The glue is made by the addition of a complex chemical substance, paraformaldehyde, on sale at all drug stores, and ammonia to blood albumin. The blood albumin comes in a powdered form and is a by-product of slaughterhouses. The ingredients must be carefully weighed and stirred together, but aside from these precautions any inexperienced person may make it. The glue has proved extremely successful not only with thin veneer, but with thick wood of light lumber such as spruce. It cannot yet be recommended for gluing thick veneer or for dense lumber, such as ash, maple, birch and oak, but further tests in the laboratory are expected to develop it for these uses. It is hoped that it may be developed ultimately for such purposes as coating airplane wings, raincoats and other materials which must be waterproof. Numerous synthetic gums and rubbers are now used for this purpose. This new glue formula is dedicated to the free use of the public. As is the case with all other discoveries made at the forest products laboratory, a patent has been taken out by a member of the staff. This, however is merely to prevent private firms from securing patent rights. The formula and directions for making the glue will be sent free to anyone desiring it. In Brittany the family cow actually "Commutes" across channels in flat-bottomed boats, morning and night, to and from the most favorable grazing grounds.

Has A Million But No Way to Spend it; Soldier of Fortune

PARIS (By mail to the United Press)—What would you do with a million dollars? The question, causing visions of undreamed of happiness to day dreamers, is nothing compared to the one which Sergeant Pierre Rascalou, of the Fourth Colonial Infantry, stationed at Toulon, is asking himself since he has learned he had won a million francs in the periodical lottery drawing for holders of national bonds. Pierre, his obligatory of military service finished, decided to enlist for five years more because he could not make a living in his native village. He has four years to serve and there is no way out. His fifty-franc bond brought him a million. He's all tuned up to spend it, but— "Allez! Hept! Oh, there Rascalou, don't think because you're a millionaire you can do any 'soldiering' around here!" This, at least ten times a day, from his sous-lieutenant. "Why, the last five rounds are on Rascalou, of course! He's a millionaire!" This, from his regimental pals, every time they visit a cafe. Weak-kneed and haggard, Rascalou gets back to the barracks at 5 a. m. Then he gets this: "Sergeant, the jig is yours. A millionaire, eh? That makes of nothing here. You're going just like the rest."

Amarillo scored in the first after two men were down when Providence Doubled, advanced to third on an error, and scored on Farley's single. Commercialism May Threaten Fighting More Than Realized

Commercialism is, of course, the greatest evil that any commission in supervision of boxing has to combat. There is no way to legislate strong enough to kill the evil. It can only be curbed. In New York it was thought that the exorbitant demands of boxers could be regulated by prohibiting the giving of guarantees by promoters and passing rules to force the boxers to fight for a percentage not to exceed fifty percent of the purse between them. With the support of the promoters this would have become a practical as well as the best of theoretical solutions, but the promoters get away with it by reaching a private understanding on a guarantee.

The rule in New York limiting the top price of seats to $25, and the law in New Jersey making $15 the maximum that can be charged for admission, ought to back up the percentage rule. But it doesn't. Some promoters get around the price limitation by turning over most of the choice seats to scalpers and taking a cut of their profits.

From past experiences and from what is going on around New York it is apparent that boxing cannot be cured by law. Regulations only serve as medicine to keep the patient alive and the game no doubt will end like it has many times before, by killing itself when it all becomes incurable.

Commercialism is not only considered the biggest factor of the game among the boxers and their managers, but it has become recognized as a legitimate right of the boxers by the fans.

When Criqui lost his featherweight championship to Dundee in his first fight after winning the title, the fans mourned not that he had been badly beaten and humiliated as a champion, but because: "He didn't have a chance to pull in a pile of dough."

There remains much yet to be accomplished and the commission might as well devote a little time to the "class jumping" champions. It has become the popular custom for a new champion to seek competition in a heavier class no sooner than he has reached the top of the boxers at his own weight.

Pancho Villa won the flyweight championship and then started campaigning among the bantamweights and announced himself as ready to fight Joe Lynch. Lynch ignores the challenges of bantams and seeks works among featherweights. Benny Leonard, although he may be excused because of the wide margin by which he outclassed all lightweights, wants to fight Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship. Walker, although he would be in danger with several welterweights seeking matches with him, has expressed his willingness to fight Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, and Harry Greb, former light-weight champion. Greb ducks matches at his own weight and shouts his desire to fight Jack Dempsey.

The way the "money-first" champions have fallen into can be shown well by two utterances of Johnny Dundee.

Hardly had Dundee won the featherweight championship from Eugene Criqui when he said: "I want to be a fighting champion! I will meet all challengers as fast as they come!"

The next day, Dundee announced that he would start a drive after a lightweight championship bout with Benny Leonard and a return bout with Jack Bernstein, who took Dundee's trick junior lightweight title away from him on a decision some time back.

Dundee wants to hold three titles at once, and every one but Jack Dempsey whose weight confines him to only one class, aspire to hold two titles.

Dundee is not to be picked out for criticism, but his is the most recent case of "class jumping." Lynch said the same thing about "meet 'em all," when he won his title, so did Walker; so did Wilson, and all of them.

There are only two big figures in the boxing game now who have been sports enough to take a chance. Gene Tunney, the American lightweight champion, gave Harry Greb a chance at his title within six months after he had won it, and Criqui, the former featherweight champion of the world defended his title less than two months after he had knocked Killbane out. Both Tunney and Criqui did not dodge the toughest man in their class, and both lost. Tunney had a little better fortune than the Frenchman had, as Tunney won his title back, but Criqui has a slight chance to get back under the crown.

American Finds Brazil Is Full of Diamond Deposits

RIO DE JANEIRO, (United Press).—"The diamond deposits in Brazil are more widely scattered than in any other country where diamonds are to be found," said Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, curator of geology in the field museum of Natural History of Chicago.

Dr. Farrington has carried on his research work in the Brazilian mineral districts for some time. He is now planning a trip through the state of Bahia, in the north central part of Brazil, in order to look for certain diamond deposits in that state which have as yet received little attention from experienced geologists.

"The peculiar thing about the diamond deposits in this country," continued the geologist, "is the absence of the sedimentary magnesian rock which in most cases accompanies the diamonds in their natural state in other continents. The diamond mines of Minas Geraes, more especially those around Diamantina, are absolutely free from any showing of this strata which has generally served as a guide to geologists and miners, in determining the localities where diamonds are to be found."

"The deposits of Diamantina are somewhat disappointing, and it is obvious that other deposits far richer than these already exploited, exist, but they are so widely scattered that it is only a matter of chance as to whether or not they will ever be found."

Dr. Farrington was reminiscient of his recent visit to the iron regions of Minas Geraes, where he found great hillocks of iron in bold relief against the skyline.

When asked if he had seen any indications of oil strata during his jaunts through the interior he replied that he had not seen anything to lead him to believe that petroleum existed in the central part of Brazil.
