The Cotton Pageant

The first episode in the cotton pageant, called the "Lubbock Episode," will perhaps be the most interesting incident in the first day of the fair.

The fact that local people will make it the more interesting due to the excellent opportunities to participate in the Pageant array in dazzling beautiful costumes for us at home, and to the visitors this episode will carry enchantment for "parts" offered the local players, all of whom are talented and have had a great deal of experience.

Without doubt this will be one of the most spectacular features of the fair, and to fall to witness it would be to miss the part of the fair that has been given the most time and talent of the program committee.

Synopsis.

Robert Caveller de la Salle, with soldiers, sailors and priests, sets up a cross and the standard of France at the mouth of the Mississippi River. This will be the Gate of Empire, this the Seat of Commerce, is his prophecy. The priests march and chant and the sailors and soldiers execute a military drill.

Native Indians appear and look on with curiosity. The Indians engage in a dance suggestive of hostility and barbarism.

La Salle summons King Agriculture, with his children, Corn, Oats, Wheat, Tobacco, Cane, Livestock, Fruit, Vegetables, and Cotton, and commissions the ruler to make good his prophecy. All the children present tokens to the Indians which are received with indifference, until Prince Cotton, attended always by Peace and Plenty, makes presents of gay-colored cloth to the Indians, and delights them.

La Salle and his company depart with satisfaction, leaving Agriculture in charge. The latter commends Prince Cotton, Peace and Plenty perform a dance of triumph. La Salle, Curtis Keen, Prince Cotton, Harrold Griffith, King Agriculture, Neal Wright, Indian Chief, L. S. Harkey, Peace and Plenty.

Attendants of King Cotton, Misses Council and Harkey. Mrs. Logan of Waxahachie is director of the entire Pageant and Mrs. Sid Wells is director of the "Lubbock Episode, with Mrs. Roger

EVER-READY CLASS OF THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAS PICNIC

One of the most enjoyed picnics recently given was held at the County Club house by the Ever-ready Class of the Sunday School of the First Christian Church. The entire class met at the church at six o'clock and went in cars to the picnic grounds where fried chicken and all that goes with it were enjoyed by about forty members of the class and their friends. About ten o'clock the crowd came home. Mrs. J. H. Lowrey is the capable and appreciated teacher of this class.

THE LUBBOCK MUSIC CLUB

The Lubbock Music Club wishes to thank the other clubs and the many individuals for their co-operative presence and earnest appreciation on the evening of September the second, especially would it have the Avalanche, the Plains Journal and Mrs. Curtis Keen, know of its appreciation and gratitude for the generous help and criticism given so graciously by them. PERSONALS

Mrs. G. E. Lockhart and family, of Tahoka, were shopping in Lubbock Thursday. The friends of Mrs. S. H. Stewart will be sorry to learn that she has been quite ill for the past two days, although her illness is not believed to be of a serious nature. Mr. Max Morris returned to Austin Thursday where he will take up his studies in the University of Texas. Mr. Allie Hunt left Lubbock Thursday morning, for a trip to Cisco and other cities in that part of the state.

which were made by the boosters. Crosbyton people are ready for the fair and declare that they will cop the agricultural exhibit this year. They have always boosted the Panhandle South Plains Fair and declare themselves in favor of it again this year.

The Lubbock aggregation began to get hungry as they left Crosbyton for a forty-five mile drive to Post. Many of them were so hungry that they thought that they would never find Post. But they seemed to be elated when the twenty-five cars approached the breaks and Post. All of the boosters made a B-line for the hotel Algeria where they were to be fed. On entering the lunch room and dining room they were greeted by Vernon Brown and wife and Dick Jarrot and wife, all of whom were formerly of Lubbock. This seemed to be like home to eat a real meal with home folks. "Brownie" was for one time rushed. But he stayed in there and fed the boosters in order that they might be ready for more boosting. The Lubbock Band could not play better after the oats so they marched down the streets of Post and gave a band concert. Rye got up and shot his same line of "stuff" to the Post people. The Lubbock quartet, composed of I. F. Holland, Brooks, Wendell and Dyess, rendered a selected musical fete which met with the approval of all the Post people.

After a good meal and a good rest the boosters set out again for the Plains. After reaching the Plains the first stop was Southland. Here Curtis Keen gave an invitation to the Southland people to attend the South Plains Fair. He told them that this fair was what the people of Southland, Lamesa, Tahoka, Brownfield, and others made of it. He said that this is your fair and we want you there. One of Southland's prominent citizens responded to Keen's address and stated that they would be there, that they had arranged to be there without their invitation, but since they had taken the trouble to come to Southland to invite them that they would be sure and be here on hand during the fair. The Lubbock Band quartet rendered their selections and the boosters started out for their last stop before reaching home. On arriving in Slaton about six o'clock the delegation made plenty of noise and raised sand in general. Everybody came to town to see what was the matter down there. On reaching town the people saw that it was those H— Raising Boosters that had come to Slaton every year to create more interest in the attendance at the fair. Owen McWhorter gave the people of Slaton a most cordial invitation which was responded to by R. J. Ross, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce. Ross said that in behalf of the Slaton citizens that he would say that they would be there one hundred per cent. He also gave to the people of Lubbock an invitation to attend the Slaton Fair which will be held on the 26th and 27th of September.

After the band had played one or two selections the boosters departed for home. All got back alive and had a fine trip. The next booster trip will be made next Thursday. The fair officials and the Junior Chamber of Commerce desire more interest in these trips and it is hoped that the next trip will be more lively than this one. The boosters will have to hand it to the Lubbock band for they were there all the time and produced the goods. The band was the greatest asset to the booster trip that could have been had. They tooted the horns and beat their drums for the fair and were real boosters. Then the Lubbock quartet will have to be given much credit for the life of the boosters for they got much response for their talented singing in every town.

Get ready for the next booster trip, Thursday, September 18th. This trip will cover Lamesa, Tahoka, and Brownfield territory.

sists among great masses of people as a safeguard, the American citizen feels that he is to face with a danger to the liberties of our people from organized forces of minority under sinister leadership. "We have seen in this country tremendous power wielded by certain leaders who understood mob psychology. We have seen the great influence of certain leaders who understood mob psychology and who following the le bon formula of violent affirmation and indulging in no appear to their reason, lead the masses of people to lawless action. "The depths of suffering endured by the world during the ages as the result of mob leadership history only too well records. LaFolletteism in this campaign represents the quintessence of demagogism animated by the virtues purpose of undermining the constitutional foundation of this republic. "Taking up the LaFollette Labor day speech, what do we find, violence and unsupported affirmations—references in a general way to eventual supremacy of so-called interests; their wickedness; Wall street; the down-trodden condition of labor and the farmers; the hopeless slavery of the American people, crushed under the heel of monopolies. "In its strong appeal to the prejudices and the passions of the people, the speech is unequalled but in no other way. Never in the history of the United States has the common sense of the average individual received a greater affront. LaFollette's speech should raise the question in the mind of the American people 'does he consider us a race of fools?' Dawes closed his speech with an appeal to a full vote of the registered voters of Wisconsin to stand on the rock of law and order, and the constitution with the stars and stripes."

FRANKS SLAYERS BEGIN SERVING LIFE SENTENCE

meant separation from each other for the master and the slave. Under the prison rules, prisoners in crime never placed together. Loeb will be placed in one wing of the cell building and Leopold in the other. They will be assigned to different shops and every effort will be made to keep them apart.

The driving of the slayers car at Willow Springs was the climax of a hectic automobile drive from Chicago to Joliet, the pilot car causing most of the trouble. Speeding through the outlying streets of Chicago, at 45 miles an hour, the leading car came to an abrupt stop before a gasoline station, take on water. The other cars jammed their brakes just in time to avoid a series of collisions. One of the press cars could not stop and went into a ditch but suffered nothing more than loss of time. Before leaving the city trip, Thursday, stood all afternoon. The procession of machines caused a more serious smash-up. Two automobiles driving on a boulevard swerved into the curb to avoid the speeding procession. They collided, one of the cars turning completely over and both of them being wrecked. The transporting party did not check its speed for the accident, but continued the rush to Joliet.

By HAROLD ANDREWS. CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—With secrecy almost impossible because of the vigilant mob that hovers about the county jail, and with threats of violence streaming into his offices almost constantly, Sheriff Peter Hoffman, was waiting hopefully late Thursday for the moment when the dash to Joliet prison with Richard Loeb, and Nathan Leopold Jr., could be made in safety.

Outside in the grey court yard of the jail, three big automobiles heavily crumpled, stood all afternoon. A few feet away in a long dimly lighted hallway which leads to the court yard, a dozen deputy sheriffs heavily armed together with a squad of crack shots from the police department paced nervously waiting.

Waiting for the moment that the slayers of Robert Franks would be hustled down the hallway out into the courtyard and into one of the automobiles. Each moment was expected to bring the word to go, but hours had dragged by without that signal. Sheriff Hoffman was to lead the dash to the prison, but he kept the exact hour and the exact route a dark secret.

Threats to lynch the murderers of Robert Franks and threats to rescue them have reached the sheriff and the state's attorney and the clerk of the criminal courts were unable to agree about the transfer which was scheduled a dozen different times since the sentence was pronounced. The delays, the half-hourly statements and the general hubbub incident to the imprisonment of the youthful slayers, were tedious. The officials concerned dashed from jail to court house and back again with long, solemn faces while their platoons and regiments and brigades of men, armed like pirates stepped on one another's toes, on the lookout for trouble makers.

Sheriff Hoffman was on the job long before daylight. A mysterious stranger woke him up at midnight at his home and told him the jail would be blown up instanter. "I jumped into my car, and raced into the city," the sheriff said. "I wasn't taking any chances."

The excitement and the fanciful precautions which could not have been more elaborate for a box car load of blackbeards, made it a great day for "Dickie" whose dreams of criminal fame were revealed at the hearing. It seemed that Dickie's dream to become the great and terrible criminal had come true, else why all these armed men and these crowds and this excitement?

Leopold seemed to be undergoing a strain, despite himself a weariness had set in.

DUKES IN ENGLAND HAVE HAD TO SELL THEIR PROPERTY

By United Press. LONDON, Sept. 11.—Since the war, five dukes have had to sell, in whole or in part, their landed estates in England.

The five crippled noblemen are: The Dukes of Richmond and Gordon, Rutland, Sutherland, Westminster and Marlborough. And now along comes the Marquess of Cholmondeley whose position is said to be "desperate." In order to raise funds to meet the death duties levied upon the 34,000 acres which he inherited from his father in March, 1923, he is breaking up the ancestral estate and—like the five dukes—tossing a big chunk of it upon the market.

His tenants are begging for the privilege of purchase on time payments but the Marquess doubts whether this will be possible. The Hungarian peasant woman believes in the "cave man" theory, and is disappointed if her husband fails to treat her rough. When a woman is dissatisfied with her husband she exclaims, "He did not even beat me once."

HISTORY OF FRANKS MURDER CASE

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The disappearance of Robert Franks, 14-year-old schoolboy, was first brought to light on the evening of May 21, 1924, when Jacob Franks, Robert's father, reported to police that his son had not returned home from school.

Later that same evening Franks received a telephone call from a man who said he was "George Johnson," instructing him how to proceed in finding little Robert. The next morning's mail brought a letter which gave more complete instructions. Both the telephone call and the letter assured Franks that his son was safe and was being held for the $10,000 which his kidnappers were demanding.

On the morning of May 22—about 18 hours after Robert disappeared—a railroad worker found the nude body of a boy, partly covered with water, lying under a railroad culvert near the southern city limits. Police were at once notified and Franks was called to the morgue. He identified the body as that of Robert. Robert had been beaten to death with a chisel.

An intensive search for the slayer was started at once. Two people said they saw a man loitering around the Harvard private school which Robert attended on the afternoon he disappeared. This man was said to have been driving up and down the streets in an automobile.

Great Notoriety.
The wealth and social position of the Franks family—Franks is said to be many times a millionaire—gave the case great notoriety.

Several instructors at the Harvard school were held in custody for a number of days on suspicion that they knew of or were connected with the murder.

Not until a week after the boy was murdered were Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, both sons of millionaires and both precocious college graduates, arrested and held in connection with the crime. Leopold was traced by means of a pair of horn rimmed spectacles which were found near the lonely currier.

Leopold stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime. Leopold said he must have dropped the glasses while on a bird hunt in that vicinity. He said he was a student of ornithology and had often visited the culvert. Both boys gave meagrely substantiated alibis. They told of driving in Leopold's automobile on the afternoon and evening of the murder, of "picking up" two girls, and of dining and drinking at a notorious cabaret.

Then Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur, was called in. He told State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe the machine named by the boys was in the Leopold garage on the day of the crime.

Loeb Confessed First
Confronted with their shattered alibi, Loeb was the first to break. He made a full confession, implicating Leopold. Leopold quite calmly made a similar confession when he was told his companion had broken down.

The amazing confession of the two young intellectuals, in which they admitted there was no motive for the crime except "the adventure of it," were given attaches of the state's attorney's office as dawn was breaking on the morning of May 21. They told of the boys' desire to commit the "perfect crime," of their longing for a thrill, of their careful plans, of their search for a victim, and finally how they enticed Robert Franks into a rented automobile, bent him over the head with a chisel, took the body to a remote place on the south side, undressed it, poured acid on the face to prevent identification, hid the body under the culvert, and then addressed the ransom letter to the victim's father.

Unique Ransom Plan
Their plan for collecting the $10,000 ransom in itself was unique. Franks was to place the money in a cigar box, board a certain train on a certain day, sit in a specified seat, find a further note of instructions in a telegraph blank receptacle, proceed to the rear platform of the train and when he reached a specified advertising sign some distance from Chicago was to throw the money off. The boys planned to be waiting nearby, seize the package and escape. They planned a trip to Europe. Franks was preparing to follow these instructions when he found his son had been slain.

Nathan Leopold, Sr., millionaire head of the Morris Paper Box company; and Albert R. Loeb, multi-millionaire vice-president of Sears Roebuck and company, fathers of the two confessed slayers, engaged Clarence Darrow, Benjamin and Walter E. Sachse to prepare their sons' defense.

After several weeks, attorneys and members of the two families decided Nathan and Richard were unfit to mingle in society and decided to make no attempt to set them free. This decision, however, was not made public until July 21 when the attorneys were called before Chief Justice John R. Caverly to enter preliminary motions. Then it was that Darrow sprang his great surprise, changing the boys' plea from not guilty to guilty. In so doing, Darrow admitted the boys were legally sane, and his efforts were confined to saving his clients from the gallows, and the insane asylum.

Jury Not Necessary.
By the boys' pleas of guilty, a jury was not necessary and upon Judge Caverly alone rested the fate of Leopold and Loeb. He ordered attorneys for the state and defense to present evidence "in aggravation and in mitigation" of the punishment.

State's Attorney Crowe, insisting that the slayers should be hanged for what he termed "Chicago's direst murder," placed more than 90 witnesses on the stand, relating in detail the murder and the confessions that followed.

Darrow, arguing only that Leopold and Loeb should be sent to prison, called a group of noted alienists and psychiatrists to the stand in an attempt to show that the boys—although legally sane—were "mentally irresponsible."

Bitter Legal Battle
Only after a bitter legal battle with State's Attorney Crowe was Darrow allowed to enter this medical testimony "in mitigation of punishment" for the two slayers. In admitting the experts' testimony, Justice Caverly ruled that they would not be permitted to testify relative to the sanity of the defendants but would tell of any "conditions of the mind" which might be considered in mitigation.

Dr. William A. White, of Washington, D. C., was the first of the defense alienists. He told of his examinations of Leopold and Loeb and declared his opinion was that both were mentally sane.

Dick Loeb it was, according to Dr. White, who contributed the criminalistic tendency to the murder compact. Leopold, he said, was simply the "slave" of Loeb.

In one of the most amazing defenses ever entered for murderers in any court, Dr. White said that Leopold and Loeb were victims of childhood fantasies. Loeb's fantasy, he said, led towards the criminalistic. He imagined himself a great criminal, leader of a large and desperate band. He pictured himself in jail, stripped of his clothing and tortured before the public gaze. This torture, the doctor said, gave Loeb a "thrill." His ambition was to commit "the perfect crime."

Foreman Leopold and Allen Loeb, older brothers of the two slayers, and Jacob Loeb, Dickie's uncle, each testified briefly, each showing that Nathan and Richard had plenty of money to spend and that they did not, therefore, commit the crime for the ransom money. This, the defense considered, showed that the two boys killed Robert Franks just as they said themselves—"for a thrill!"

Crowe placed his own alienists on the stand to level the defense medical structure. Among them were Dr. Hugh T. Patrick and Dr. Archibald Church, who testified there was nothing about the youths to uphold the defense theory of abnormality. Nathan and Richard while of high intellectual attainments, are ordinary youths with extra-ordinary criminalistic leanings, the state held.

Following Dr. White on the witness stand was Dr. William Healy of Boston, who corroborated in detail the testimony and conclusions of the Washington alienist.

Dr. Healy told the court that both Leopold and Loeb in his opinion were victims of psychosis—an unbalanced mind.

Dr. Bernard Glueck, of New York City, was the third defense alienist. He likewise corroborated the testimony of Dr. White and said the boys in his opinion were suffering from "split personalities." He explained this by saying that in both cases their intellect and their emotional powers were at such great disparity that the personality was "divided or split."

Last Expert Witness
Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, of Chicago, who with Dr. Karl M. Bowman, of Boston, conducted the first and most thorough examinations of the two boys, was the last defense expert witness. Following closely the outline of the Hulbert-Bowman report which had been submitted to the other alienists, Dr. Hulbert went deeply into the physical examination of the defendants.

Dr. Hulbert said he found young Loeb was strikingly immature—that he still has three of his "baby" teeth, that he has to shave only twice a week, and that his pituitary glands were functioning subnormally.

Leopold, he said, was precociously developed. His glands of internal secretion are over-functioning; his body is too heavily covered with hair, and his feet are flat.

From these facts and many others which he related, Dr. Hulbert said he came to the conclusion that both Leopold and Loeb were mentally abnormal.

Calls College Students
In addition to these four doctors, Darrow called a group of college students—friends and former companions of Leopold and Loeb. They testified concerning the habits of the two murderers—testimony intended to show that Leopold evoked his life to the philosophy of the super-man, declaring that the super-man was above the law, and that Loeb was exceedingly nervous as a college student, often fainting, and read "cheap detective stories."

Plans for the Lubbock County commissioners court to attend the state convention of Commissioners at El Paso Friday and Saturday, September 19th and 20th, are being made, and due to the fact that Judge Brown will probably go out of the office Monday to accept his duties as superintendent of public instruction, he will perhaps be the only superintendent of schools to make such long trip to attend the convention.

STATE CONVENTION COUNTY JUDGES IN EL PASO

DALLAS, Sept. 11.—County judges and members of Commissioners Courts from all sections of Texas are to gather in El Paso the latter part of this week for the annual convention of the County Judges and Commissioners' Association. The convention dates are Sept. 18 and 19.

A busy program of business and entertainment has been arranged for those who attend, according to advice received here from E. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls, president of the association.

County Judge Arch C. Allen of Dallas and County Judge O. C. Daney of Brownsville will attend the convention and will represent the Texas Highway Association. Both are vice-presidents of the latter organization. Allen is immediate past president of the judges' association.

An invitation is to be extended to the county officials during their meeting to attend the convention of the highway association which will be held in Houston September 22. Many of them already have indicated that they will attend the Houston meeting and are arranging for round trip tickets to El Paso for return via Houston.

Although they are now separate and distinct organizations, there is a close relationship between the Texas Highway Association and the association of county judges and commissioners, and it is recalled that the highway body grew out of a suggestion made at one of the county judges' annual meetings. According to the secretary-treasurer, Wm. T. Wheeler of Fort Worth, date of the highway association convention was set for Sept. 22 to enable the county officials to attend it after their El Paso meeting.

APARTMENT HOUSE IS TO BE BUILT AT PLAINVIEW

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 11.—Plainview is to have a modern apartment house and work of construction will begin within the next two weeks. It will be erected across the street east of the auditorium, on Broadway.

Messrs. R. H. Knoohuizen and A. E. Boyd have bought lots from S. L. & Jacob, and had the plans for the building prepared. It will be two stories of brick and tile, and be modern throughout. There will be about 7,500 square feet of floor space, divided into 14 apartments, four of four rooms each, eight of three rooms and two of two rooms.

FIELD DAY IS ANNOUNCED FOR AMARILLO THE PLAINVIEW ELKS.
PLAINVIEW, Sept. 11.—Members of the Plainview club E. P. O. E. will go to Amarillo on Sept. 16 to engage Amarillo Elks in a general sports day. In a contest held recently between the Plainview and Lubbock clubs the locals had it over their hub-city brethren like a tent. They hope to win in Amarillo likewise.

Contests in baseball, tennis, checkers, poker, dominos, 42, bridge, mah jong, mumblepuzze, pool, billiards and many other games will be staged. A delightful visit with the Amarillo club is expected.

General Passenger Agent T. E. Gallaher has agreed to furnish a special train, at one and a half fare for the round trip, if as many as 12 tickets can be sold. The local committee must have assurance by Saturday in order to contract for the train, and a canvas is now being made of all Elks.

The city of Portland, Oregon, will erect a statue of Joan of Arc in a public park in honor of the French patriots that settled in that section. The statue will be a replica of the noted figure modeled by Fremiet, now standing in Paris.

WEST TEXAS IS GROWING

West Texas is growing faster than ever before. Scarcely a county that is not showing remarkable growth all down the line—new towns springing up, thousands of acres of new land being put under the plow, and hundreds of homeseekers coming in from all directions.

With a splendid crop this year already in sight, this growth and expansion is due to continue for at least eighteen months longer. Those who have faith in West Texas will tell you that the present pace will continue for years, and there is no legitimate reason to doubt that view of it.

As the country grows, so will the towns and cities grow. Somewhere in West Texas a big city will be built. Will it be Abilene, or Lubbock, or Amarillo, or Stamford, or Sweetwater, or San Angelo? The next ten years will answer that question.

This much is certain: A real city is going to be built in West Texas. In a few years more the larger cities of East Texas which now claim close kinship with the West will no longer be able to make that claim stick. They have no real or legitimate hold on West Texas, and as West Texas develops its own metropolis West Texas will cease altogether to look to these older cities for anything.

This is no propaganda or sour grapes, or anything of the kind. It is merely recognition of an economic law as fixed as that of gravitation. Distance alone will change the present state of affairs, and cause the building up in West Texas of a real city.

Does Abilene see her opportunity? Do the other cities of West Texas see theirs? The next ten years will tell the tale. In twenty years West Texas will have a city as large as Dallas is today. Will it be Abilene?

It will be Abilene if the people of Abilene of today make up their minds to it.—Abilene Reporter.

The Reporter is dead right. There is going to be a big city some where in the West. Nearly all of us think our town is to be that city. But not all of us are working to that end. It is well enough to rear back and say that our town is going to be that city, but that will not build it. You are going to have to put feet to your beliefs, and your shoulder to the wheel, and do a lot of pushing if your town is going to make that city. You are going to have to do a lot of things before that comes to pass. The fact that you may Lubbock is going to be a city of a hundred thousand people in twenty-five years will not make it such, if you do not co-operate in the building of the town. You can stand on the corner of the square and say there is going to be a ten story building on the Lubbock State Bank site, but if brick and mortar is not put there by somebody, you will die of old age before the foundation is even started. It takes action. It takes a lot of the "sticktogetherness" that is sometimes called co-operation to put it over. The same is true with the building of the town. We must all work together, understand each other, and have something definite in view, if we are to accomplish the things that we believe will come to pass and for which we are hoping for.

We must build the foundation well and wisely. We must see to it that the walls are built straight and that the material that goes into them is of the highest class and the mixture is ok. We must all do our part whatever that part may be. If may only be to pay taxes, and it may be that you are gifted with some specific qualification in the building of the town. We can all be good citizens, however, and that means that we will help to boost the town along. We can tell folks about it, and encourage those who have capital to invest to come here if there is a legitimate opening here for them to come. We can back up the builders, and encourage them to go forward in the planning, and the people should have a part in the program of building. It very often causes much trouble by big programs being outlined without the people knowing the intentions of those in the lead, and they do not know whether to follow them or not, and causes divisions that would not be if the propositions were understood.

Lubbock is right now probably spoken of more favorably than any city in the West. Go where you will and the name Lubbock commands the attention of the people. They at once become very much interested in what is going on, and they want to know the true situation around here. They at once begin to question you about the town, and the price of property, what there is here and what the people are really doing; there is a general interest manifested in the town.

Lubbock, then, should be in position to give the inquirers intelligent information. They should be answered in a clear positive manner. That Lubbock is building for the future, that Lubbock is going forward on a safe and sane basis. That Lubbock has in mind a big city. That Lubbock is not going to make the mistake of putting a one-story foundation for a twenty story building. In other words, what we are doing is being done in a permanent way, and the people are confident that there is to be the big city here that the Abilene Reporter has suggested, and that the people can be assured of this by the manner in which the Lubbock folks take hold of affairs. We have many big things to contend with. We have propositions that the amount of money that will be required to put over would stagger Wall Street, but then these things must be done, and as long as we go forward and make a good job of it and are confident that we are going to succeed in every one of our undertakings, there will be many willing helpers, who will join us and put the city over the hundred thousand mark even before the next quarter century has been marked up.

There is every logical reason for this making a city. It is located right to begin with. It has been taken care of nicely by the progressive citizens of the country. Lubbock has never been stunted. She has always been thrifty, and very much alive. Even when but a few years old and further away from a railroad than any other town in the United States she had three daily mail lines from three different railroad points, and although it took two days to make the trip there was every day service and that is more than many places have even within a few miles of the railroad.

This county has more brick school houses in the rural districts than any other county, and she will continue to build them for the country is rich in agricultural lands, and the people will take hold of this land, and will make it a home, and where there is a home there must be educational institutions and churches, and that will increase the number of people here rapidly. Thousands of acres will be put in cultivation and the richness of the soil and the uniformity of the land will furnish a place for more people to the square mile than any other part of the state, and this will mean more people, which will demand a large city, and as Lubbock is in the center of the rich cotton belt and has many railroad outlets, this is the logical place for building that big city, but we must all carry brick, and mortar, and we must carry on. Then take a big dose of compound sticktogetherness—co-operation and get in shape to do the big things that the people are expecting of us.

WHEN DOES LUBBOCK GET STREET MAIL BOXES?

There is constant demand for street mail boxes and we see no reason why Lubbock should not have them. Lubbock is getting possibly less consideration from the government in postal efficiency than any town in the United States considering the amount of business that she is giving in return and why this is so we do not know. Is it because Lubbock people are just sitting still and not making any special efforts to obtain the things that she is justly entitled to, or is it because there is an indifference on the part of the fellows at Washington? We feel that it is largely the fault of the people of this city that they are not receiving many of the things that we are entitled to. Lubbock needs letter mail boxes all over the city, and we believe that we are entitled to it. We need an extension of the free delivery service, and an increase of the carriers. We need an adequate building. In fact, we should never be satisfied till we have secured a post office building that will belong to the government and is built for that purpose. Lubbock is growing rapidly. She cannot be accommodated by the small buildings that have heretofore been provided for a postoffice, and which is now contemplated. We must have a real postoffice building.

Lubbock, no doubt, is the biggest distributing point for mail west of Abilene and south of Amarillo, or east of El Paso between these points, so there is real demand for this equipment and with the revenues that the government is receiving from this postoffice there should be no hesitations in placing a building here that will do the postal department honor, and be a credit to our city.

Every other business in town is spreading out to take care of the increased demands, and everything that tends to serve the public is exerting every effort to furnish adequate equipment for not only the present, but future needs as nearly as they can be estimated. Surely Uncle Sam is not going to give us cross roads postal service in a city of more than ten thousand, and in ten years twenty thousand, and so on.

STOP YOUR PROFANITY, MR. DAWES

That Major-General Charles G. Dawes, republican vice-presidential nominee, is a man of ability with many sound convictions and the courage to express them will be accepted by his enemies as well as by his friends, but General Dawes is making a very great mistake in the profanity which he is distributing so freely around the country.

There is no justification on the part of any man for the use of profanity, more especially for a man standing in a high position like General Dawes. The influence of such profanity is evil, and especially upon the young. It is so entirely contrary to President Coolidge that we imagine it must be extremely distasteful to him. The language used by General Dawes as reported in the daily papers from time to time is cheap and common and vulgar, and unless he changes his language he will prove a heavy handicap to the Republican ticket. Usually it is true that profanity is merely the proof of mental inferiority.

If one must really poke a frog to make it jump, then for obvious reasons—real worthy reasons—by all means poke it from a distance.

There was never a plant so hard to get rooted as is charity. Always it has to contend with drought, cold wind or poor soil.

Life is most precious of all our possessions. Yet we worry more over the loss of money than of days.

No work can be well done except it be inspired by a purpose intrinsically unselfish; a purpose which of itself has an appealing significance.

In the old days of strong men there may have been strong vices; but there were also strong virtues.

But a few years ago the cry was "save Europe from Germany." Now it is "Save Europe by saving Germany."

THE ARMY

Yes, I am strong for the Army. We are strong for the Army because the Army is strong for us.

The ultimate aim or end of the Army is peace, it matters not how much fighting has to be done, and peace is what we are fighting for; because peace is what we want, and because peace is what we must have; therefore I am strong for the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army is an army that universal Christianity has universally and unceasingly recognized. It is our Army that the world is ready to entrust with enlarged armaments—the longer the better.

Does Lubbock need the Salvation Army? Why does Lubbock need the Salvation Army? Because the Salvation Army has done, from its very beginning an organization, a kind and grade of work that the churches and other religious organizations have not done. Not only so; it has done this long felt and needed work on a larger and better scale than the churches under present conditions, are able to do it. We need the churches and nothing else can take the place of the churches. We also need the great, world-wide Salvation Army that has embodied and is giving expression to the great Christian passion for service to men and salvation of the world, just as truly and as completely and unselfishly as any other organized branch of the Christian brotherhood of the world.

Because it has done this under all conditions at home and abroad, and in peace and in war, and for all classes and conditions of men wherever found, therefore the world is ready to take of its part in the Salvation Army as to no other single religious organization in the world. Not because it is any more religious or any more Christian perhaps, but because it has gotten down more closely to the real needs of the world's need, and comes here directly into contact with sin and sinner of the world, than does the average Minister of the Gospel and the average social and religious worker in the various churches. From the standpoint of real Christian service and the purpose for which Christ came, namely, "To seek and to save that which was lost," the Salvation Army is "first Aid in the great Christian church."

The Salvation Army was organized by its founder, Rev. William Booth, on Military principles with a view to reaching the vast, un-church'd masses, especially in our great cities. Lubbock has now reached that stage in its development where these unchurch'd masses have already begun to become one of our social problems. The average business man and the average member of the church does not know how many of these so called "in-down-and-outs" are in Lubbock. They are already here and will increase rather than decrease. The Methodist Church is not fitted up to minister in an adequate way to the needs of all who shall come to Lubbock and be forced to call upon some individual or organization for help. I do not believe any of the other churches are any better equipped or any more able to meet their needs than is the Methodist Church. This is one of the specific missions of the Salvation Army. The Army specializes along this line. It is organized and equipped to do this kind of work, along with other needed and important work that it is doing with marked efficiency.

So from the standpoint of a practical, immediate and business-like solution of some of our growing social moral and industrial problems I think we could do no better than to get behind the proposed movement and put the Salvation Army work in Lubbock on a safe, modern, business-like basis.

BOY MINISTER RAPS YOUTH FOR THEIR "CUTE" WAYS

By United News.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 11.—J. Paul Fountain, 11 year old boy, and the world's youngest licensed minister, often disagreed with his dad, the Rev. A. W. Fountain, of Sulphur Springs, Mo., and doesn't hesitate to admit it.

Coming to Kansas City where he is to occupy the pulpit of the local Methodist churches on Sunday the youth launched an attack on boys and girls who slip from the straight and narrow path because they think it "cute."

"Boys and girls need a good deal of urging to keep them good," the boy minister said solemnly. "But a great deal of good can be done in the homes by the parents."

"And about my sermon. Lots of people think they aren't original but they are. Why shouldn't I take my father's sermon? I have opinions of my own and besides a great many of my topics are too dry for me."

MAN IS WOUNDED AS CAR DOOR FIRES GUN

International News Service.

CLEBURNE, Texas, Sept. 11.—Raymond R. Massey, prominent Ft. Worth business man may not lose his right leg from injuries sustained when his program exploded accidentally while hunting, contrary to the first reports. The gun was discharged when the wind suddenly slammed the door of his automobile.

It was at first reported the leg would be amputated but physicians now believe the member may be saved.

TOURIST IS INJURED NEAR PLAINVIEW YESTERDAY

International News Service.

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 11.—J. L. Flowers of Sneedville received a smashed leg and injuries to his ribs when the Chevrolet touring car in which he and several companions were traveling turned turtle, caught fire and burned up. The party was on its way to points in New Mexico on a prospecting trip.

The accident occurred 15 miles west of Plainview on the Otton road. The cause of the car turning over was not known. Mr. Flowers was brought here for treatment. No bones were broken.

VATICAN DUTY BOUND TO ENTER POLITICS, POPE SAYS

By United News.

ROME, Sept. 10.—The Roman press notes in emphasizing the importance of the declaration of the pope that the Vatican and the church are in duty bound to exert their influence on politics when politics involve religious matters.

The newspapers point out that his holiness usually speaks only in general terms on such subjects but that in addressing the catholic university federation Tuesday he went so far as to quote the criticism of the Vatican which catholics have raised by virtue of "Jus munerandi."

This fact, it is declared, shows that the situation of Italian catholics in political life is so confused

AUGUST MOON

The moon comes up on schedule
Time. In ages yet to be
The self same curve of sky she'll climb
For other eyes to see.

At nine o'clock some lovely night
Ten thousand years away
She'll spill the self-same flood of light
Across the rippling bay.

Some other August, when we're gone
The molten moon will rise
And shed her mellow light upon
The foolish and the wise.

And some will see the lady fair
And some will find the man
As Eve and Adam found them there
When first the world began.

And each shall dream as now we dream
And wonder whence and why,
And live and love and work and scheme,
Marry, grow old and die.

But still on every August night
That God permits to be,
At nine o'clock, this flood of light
Who follows them shall see.

Nor ever late, nor ever soon,
But promptly to the time,
This self-same lovely August moon
The self-same sky will climb.

TEXAS TAKES A TRAINLOAD OF SKINNER MACARONI PRODUCTS

Establishes a New World's Record

This record-breaking shipment of Skinner Macaroni Products just sent to Texas is the first trainload of macaroni products ever shipped from any macaroni manufacturer as far as is known. If an expert spaghetti eater started on one end of a 127,780,400 foot string of spaghetti, nearly enough to reach around the world, how long would it take him to eat it all? That's a mythical problem but it gives you a concrete example of how much spaghetti is represented in this single record breaking shipment from the Skinner Manufacturing Co., of Omaha, to Texas. Twenty-four thousand miles of spaghetti is certainly impressive and tasty mileage.

This record shipment is of significance to the business man. It shows that Texas is a prosperous market and that the great Southwest is fast emerging from the business depression. It is also evidence that the consumption of macaroni products is on the increase in this country. Finally, it shows that the Skinner Macaroni factory is maintaining its production of the highest quality facturing plants in the country. Texas can now banquet on Skinner Macaroni products. The accompanying sketch is from an actual photograph of the train load as it left Omaha. Walter Platter Grocery Co., of Lubbock, one of the leading distributors of Skinner's Products, participated in this trainload shipment.

WILLS OUTPOINTS LUIS FIRPO IN 12-ROUND BOUT

FIRPO LACKED PUNCH EXHIBITED IN DEMPSEY BOUT WHILE WILLS' PERFECT DEFENSE AND PUNCHES SMOTHERED HIM

BOYLES THIRTY ACRES, N. J., Sept. 11.—Before a crowd that approached 80,000, Harry Wills, the New Orleans stevedore, clearly outpointed Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight champion in a 12-round, no-decision bout here tonight. It complies with the New Jersey boxing law in permitting no official decision after the contest, but there was no doubt in the immense gathering that jammed Rickard's arena that Wills was the winner.

Firpo, blocked on all his wild swings, and pounded savagely about the body, failed to win a single round. He was saved from a knockout only by the same tactics and the same ability to take punishment that he showed in his fight last summer with Jack Dempsey.

In the second round, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, ninth and eleventh rounds, Wills put Firpo back on his heels with terrific right hooks to the jaw. It seemed certain that the South American was gone and the immense crowd rose to its feet cheering wildly for Wills. But Firpo only shook his great head and tore back with wild right swings, but Wills, with a perfect defense completely smothered him.

Firpo seemed to lack the steam in his punches that put Dempsey to his knees and knocked him out of the ring last summer. Four times the South American landed his right hook on the jaw, and the only response he got was a wide New Orleans dock smile.

When Wills found that he had nothing to fear from the right swings of the South American, he became more aggressive but he, too, found that the best punches he had were failing to make an impression on the South American.

Wills boxed beautifully, although he kept persistently near the border line of the rules. Wills was warned repeatedly for holding and hitting on the breakaway and Firpo and his seconds protested in vain. Firpo was out-clasped from the first go to the last and blew away every chance he had for a return bout with the champion.

Although Wills made a good showing, he did not boost his stock in his campaign for a championship bout, as he displayed little more than ability to smother the wild swings of a novice boxer. Firpo was floored for the count of six in the second round. He went right on his face from a right to the jaw, but he came up fighting as he did in the Dempsey fight, and recovered by launching a savage attack.

In the first preliminary, Charlie McKenna and Mike Ferraz staged through four rounds and were followed by Carl Johnson and Joe Silvan. The latter was the world's heavyweight champion, and Johnson won their bouts.

Bill Tate, the negro, dropped John Cassava, a Porto Rican, two minutes after the first round. The house was filled with pugilistic celebrities among whom were Jack Dempsey the world's heavy weight champion, Mike McTear, world's light-heavyweight champion, Mike McTear, world's light-heavyweight champion, Benny Leonard, light-heavyweight champion and Abe Goldstein, bantamweight champion.

Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, with Frank Plourney, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, also circled around the ringside, announcing that Gibbons will stage a fight between Wills and Firpo.

Wills entered the ring at 9:58 p. m. The South American was underneath his loud yellow and black dressing robe. He went to his corner and danced around, shadow boxing while the crowd laughed. With him were Dan Washington, his bald-headed trainer, Bill Tate, his chief trainer, and a fellow countryman, Julio Ibarra.

Wills entered at 9:55 and stretched on the ropes. He wore a faded blue bath robe tightly bound about the middle. Dan Sullivan, the referee, stood in the center of the ring with the two fighters' hands with the gloves. In Wills' corner were Paddy Mullins, his manager and Jack Dougherty, and Jeff Clark, his seconds helped him on with his gloves.

wrestled him to the ropes. Firpo missed a left jab and they clinched. Firpo missed a hard right swing and Wills went back to the ropes as the gong sounded.

ROUND FIVE—Firpo came out with a left and missed. Wills jabbed a right to the body. Firpo missed a wild right swing and Wills held him at close quarters. Wills was short with a left jab. Firpo shot two rights to the neck. Firpo jabbed a clumsy left to the head and Wills landed a short right to the body. Firpo rocked Wills with a hard right to the jaw but Wills tore in with two right swings. Firpo backed Wills to the ropes with hard rights. Wills out scored Firpo repeatedly with short blows to the body they were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND SIX—Firpo tried a left jab and missed. Wills skidded a left hook off the jaw and followed it with a short right to the body. Firpo missed a wild right swing and Wills clinched. At close quarters Wills socked two hard rights to the head in return. A group at the ringside shouted wildly for Wills. Firpo tried a shift and missed a right for the head. Wills worked in close and landed two rights to the body. Firpo's left side was red and bruised from the continued right-hand punches of Wills. Wills blocked a right swing and countered with a right hook to the jaw. Firpo rushed Wills to the ropes, and they were ordered out of a clinch. The referee was trying to tear them apart when the gong sounded.

ROUND SEVEN—Firpo missed again with a left and they clinched. Firpo protested that Wills was holding him. Wills went in close but Firpo held him and they clinched. Wills missed a left for the body and hooked a right to the head while he was holding. Wills shot a hard left to the stomach, and Firpo dropped his guard. Firpo came close and Wills stopped him with a short right to the head. Firpo stepped away from a left and missed a right. Firpo jolted Wills with a right to the head. Firpo stepped back from a right hook. Wills shook Firpo again with a right to the jaw but Firpo plunged back with a right swing. Wills landed right to the body. Wills put Firpo back on the ropes with a right. Firpo retreated before Wills' left hook as the round ended.

Dempsey departed after the seventh round.

ROUND EIGHT—Firpo came out and sparred for the first time. Wills landed a left to the body, and a hard right to the head. Firpo jabbed a left to the body and skidded a right off Wills head. Firpo landed a right to the head and took a hard left to the body in return. Wills countered Firpo again with two rights to the body, and laughed when Firpo missed a right for the head. Wills danced away from another right swing, and blocked a right hook for the jaw. Wills skidded a left off Firpo's stomach, and hooked a right to the head at close quarters. Firpo got a right swing but Wills danced away. Wills landed a long right to the shoulder, and stepped away from a right swing. Wills missed a left and they clinched. Wills was short with a right for the head and they clinched. Firpo missed a right to the head and Wills clinched at the end of the round.

ROUND NINE—Wills led a left for the head, and they clinched. Firpo tried to wrestle and yelled "hey" at the referee when Wills held him. Wills spread a broad smile and stepped back. Wills blocked a rabbit punch and Firpo complained, as Wills landed a right to the body. Wills hooked Firpo with another right to the jaw but Firpo stood up. Wills blocked another short right to the jaw, but Firpo came right ahead, and swung his wild right but missed. Wills led with a left and hooked a right to the body while Firpo clinched. Firpo missed a right to the body. Wills shook Firpo again with a right to the jaw but Firpo blocked a right for the same spot. Wills missed with a right swing.

ROUND TEN—They sparred around in the center and Wills landed a right to the body. Firpo showed a right to the head. They exchanged a few words. Wills pounded Firpo savagely to the body at close quarters. Firpo was shaken up by a hard right to the jaw and Wills blocked his right uppercut counter. Firpo was helpless before Wills when he tried. Wills held Firpo when he tried a right and jabbed for the body. Fighting at close quarters, Wills hooked two hard short rights to the head. Firpo stepped back from a long right for the body. Firpo glanced left off Wills' nose and swung a hard right to the body. Wills broke the skin on Firpo's back with a right swing. Firpo was protesting about Wills close fighting when the round ended.

ROUND ELEVEN—Firpo missed a left and they clinched. Wills danced away and pounded his right to the body, and right to the head at close quarters. Firpo protested but the referee ordered them to continue. Wills continued a savage attack for the body. Wills blocked Firpo's every lead and countered with a right to the head and body. Wills moved his head just away from a hard right swing and got two rights to the body. Wills jabbed Firpo with two rights to the body and Wills pointed the right to the body. Wills landed a short right to the body. Wills was warned for hitting on the breakaway. Firpo missed a left for the head and Wills clinched. Firpo missed a wild right swing and Wills held him at close quarters. Fighting in close, they exchanged rights to the body. Firpo landed a right to the body and took a feebly right to the head in return. A group at the ringside shouted wildly for Wills. Firpo tried a shift and missed a right for the head. Wills worked in close and landed two rights to the body. Firpo's left side was red and bruised from the continued right-hand punches of Wills. Wills blocked a right swing and countered with a right hook to the jaw. Firpo rushed Wills to the ropes, and they were ordered out of a clinch. The referee was trying to tear them apart when the gong sounded.

ROUND SEVEN—Firpo missed again with a left and they clinched. Firpo protested that Wills was holding him. Wills went in close but Firpo held him and they clinched. Wills missed a left for the body and hooked a right to the head while he was holding. Wills shot a hard left to the stomach, and Firpo dropped his guard. Firpo came close and Wills stopped him with a short right to the head. Firpo stepped away from a left and missed a right. Firpo jolted Wills with a right to the head. Firpo stepped back from a right hook. Wills shook Firpo again with a right to the jaw but Firpo plunged back with a right swing. Wills landed right to the body. Wills put Firpo back on the ropes with a right. Firpo retreated before Wills' left hook as the round ended.

ROUND TEN—They sparred around in the center and Wills landed a right to the body. Firpo showed a right to the head. They exchanged a few words. Wills pounded Firpo savagely to the body at close quarters. Firpo was shaken up by a hard right to the jaw and Wills blocked his right uppercut counter. Firpo was helpless before Wills when he tried. Wills held Firpo when he tried a right and jabbed for the body. Fighting at close quarters, Wills hooked two hard short rights to the head. Firpo stepped back from a long right for the body. Firpo glanced left off Wills' nose and swung a hard right to the body. Wills broke the skin on Firpo's back with a right swing. Firpo was protesting about Wills close fighting when the round ended.

FINAL PLANS MADE FOR THREE GRID GAMES IN CONNECTION WITH SOUTH PLAINS FAIR HERE, GOODMAN SAYS

J. H. Goodman, director of athletics for the Panhandle and South Plains Fair to be held here October 1, 2, 3 and 4, announced Thursday that final arrangements had been made and the schedule had been arranged for a football game here on the last three days of the fair.

The first game will be played Thursday, October 2nd, and the second day of the fair at four o'clock in the afternoon, between the Post and Slaton high school teams. This is the only game to be played during the fair the results of which will count on the intercollegiate league schedule, and that the two teams will do their dead level best to win is assured thereby. The Post City and Slaton teams played to a tie last year, and this game will have a great deal to do in creating odds between the teams.

Mr. Goodman, who has been interested in football for several years, declared Thursday that with these teams to open the football program such interest will be aroused as to make these games real drawing cards for the fair. No admission will be charged due to the fact that the games will be played within the fair grounds and the general admission to the grounds will entitle one to see these games.

The grandstand is being turned around to face the north and a new football field is being built west of the women's building and north of the baseball diamond that when completed will be one of the best fields ever built here. All games played by the Lubbock high school team this year will be played on this field.

On Friday, October 3rd, at four o'clock in the afternoon, the high school teams of Floydada and Lubbock, which divided winners last year, will offer an exhibition that will be enjoyed and appreciated by all fans. These teams are composed of good material and fighting for every inch of the field is a characteristic of the women's building and north of the baseball diamond that when completed will be one of the best fields ever built here.

On Saturday, October 4th, at four o'clock in the afternoon, the high school teams of Amarillo and Lubbock will offer an exhibition that will be enjoyed and appreciated by all fans. These teams are composed of good material and fighting for every inch of the field is a characteristic of the women's building and north of the baseball diamond that when completed will be one of the best fields ever built here.

WHAT WOULD YOU HAVE DONE IN HER PLACE?

Two Dates the Same Night—Which One? She was puzzled. The telephone bell rang. Another chance to go to the movies. This young man always wore his clothes well and was so neat about his appearance. She was proud to be seen in his company. The other fellow was always carelessly dressed. What would you have done?—Well, so did she!

Rufus B. Daves, multi-millionaire Chicago oil magnate, brother of General Charles O. Daves, Vice-Presidential candidate and the man who, with Owen D. Young, drew up the reparations agreement, is on his way to France. It is suggested that he will become the Agent General of the Reparations Commission. Edward O. Leasler, former athletic star of the University of Washington, who took a demoralized Yale crew and in two years turned out the world's champion Olympic eight, has signed a new five-year contract to coach the Blue teams. Jack Kearns, Jack Dempsey's man Friday, had followed his chief into a Los Angeles hospital to have his nose straightened. Miss Abby Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose suspended sentence on a second conviction of speeding caused a sensation in New York City police courts, has returned from Europe, silent on the episode.

HUNT LEADING FOR FIFTH TERM

PRESENT ARIZONA GOVERNOR LEADING OPPONENT BY OVER TWO TO ONE

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 10.—Gov. W. P. Hunt, candidate for his fifth term as Arizona's governor, piled up a big lead for the democratic nomination in the tabulation Wednesday of Tuesday's primary vote. Returns received here show that Hunt has polled 13,684 votes, while Sidney Osborne has secured 6,592, and E. W. Samuel 4,412. Osborne's candidacy was centered in a campaign against the Ku Klux Klan, while Samuel is understood to have been supported by the Klan vote. A close race for the republican nomination for governor has developed between Dwight B. Heard and Thomas Maddock. Hunt ran off Wednesday returns showed him with 4,091 votes against 4,050 for Maddock. In Arizona, the democratic nomination is usually equivalent to election and Gov. Hunt's majority is taken here as an indication of approval of his previous administration. Gov. Hunt throughout his terms in office has opposed the Colorado river compact, an agreement by which the states of the southwest and southern California hoped to join in the development of water power from that source. His re-election will continue Arizona's stand against the project, it is believed.

K. K. K. Wins in Georgia. ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—U. S. Senator Wm. J. Harris, who had the support of the K. K. K. was re-nominated overwhelmingly in the Georgia democratic primary Wednesday. Incomplete returns from all parts of the state indicated Wednesday night.

result declaring they are now confident of winning the state ticket and both seats in the senate that must be chosen this fall. Numerous republicans, who toured the state scoring the masked order during the primary campaign are expected to openly support the democratic ticket or possibly run independent candidates to assure defeat of the Klan candidates.

DAVIS INITIATED BY BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

By United Press. ESTES PARK, Colo., Sept. 10.—Its trooper John W. Davis of the boy scouts now is a member of the movement for better citizenship in America. In a natural amphitheatre set among the snow-capped peaks of the Rockies the democratic standard bearer Wednesday became a member of the movement for better citizenship in America. The initiation was an extremely informal affair and the boy scouts directors in bi-annual conference here took many liberties with the democratic candidate but he seemed to enjoy it. A two-guy man wearing hairy chaps representing the western boy scouts led a whooping crew of boy scout "cowboys" which bore down on Davis, lassoed him, jammed a crowned sombrero on his head and tied a yellow bandana about his neck. "Hide him cowboy" yelled 600 boy scout directors standing in a circle about the former ambassador to the Court of St. James. Davis had his hair mussed but his dignity was unscathed. In a brief speech to the directors Davis promised the movement and especially the drive being made by the organization to encourage all voters to go to the polls. He said that unless the people of this country accept the responsibilities of citizenship, democratic institutions are doomed. "Uncle Dan" Beard, national scout commissioner, thanked Davis for his visit which was merely a personal greeting with politics banned. Later Davis shook hands with several hundred summer colonists in Estes park, where he was hailed as "our next president" by scores who greeted him. Davis will go to Denver where he will remain until Friday leaving in time to fill an engagement in Cheyenne Friday night. Sunday he will speak at Topeka, Kansas.

IMPRISONED MAN CONFESSES TO SLAYING

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 10.—Officers are checking up on the confession of C. E. Price, made by the warden of the Utah penitentiary that he killed a man about 65 years of age on April 1, 1917, between El Paso and Alamogordo. The information was received Wednesday at the sheriff's office from Warden James Devine, of the Utah prison, according to the information Price was known by as "C. King" and is now serving a term in the Utah penitentiary. White Devine's letter expressed some doubt as to the story, because of the man's mental condition, deputy sheriff D. H. Gatum, detailed to investigate the case, says that he has received some information that such a crime was committed.

ALL CONGRESSMEN IN WASHINGTON RE-NOMINATED

By United Press. SEATTLE, Sept. 10.—All of Washington's representatives in congress appeared to be safely re-nominated on the basis of returns from Tuesday's primaries as compiled Wednesday night. Congressman John F. Miller, I. H. Handley, and John W. Summers successfully out-distanced all opposition in their respective districts while representative Albert Johnson, republican, and Sam E. Hill, democrat, were unopposed for nomination. Col. Roland H. Hartley continued to lead the field of ten candidates for repub-

TENNESSEANS TO MEET AT PICNIC HERE TWO DAYS

All is in readiness for one of the biggest picnics to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday of next week that was ever held by Tennesseans in this section, declared R. A. Davidson yesterday. Davidson is expecting Tennesseans from all over the state and from western Oklahoma to attend the picnic which will be given at the Fair Park. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological college, who has pleaded guilty of having resided in Tennessee at one time and who like the remainder of the folks from that grand old state, is a big proponent of it, will deliver the principal address during the first day. Other prominent speakers, among whom will be men who were once prominent in Tennessee politics and who held offices in that state, will attend the picnic and will be heard. An old fiddlers contest will be an outstanding feature of the program that will link the present with the past for the Tennesseans, and rumors have it that there will be more participants in this contest than in any ever held in this section.

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 10.—White Leghorns of other states swept into the lead of the Texas National Egg Laying Contest being conducted at the A. and M. College of Texas during the past month. L. C. Beall, Jr., of Vashon, Washington, had the highest pen of five which set a record of 119 eggs and Alexander Stewart, of Santa Cruz, California, had the highest individual, his bird having laid 97 eggs in ten 21 day periods. Mr. Beall's White Leghorns are now leading all other pens for contest honors and his individual is leading in that class also. In spite of the hot weather which has prevailed without the increase of cooling rain for three months, the contest had a very good month in August. The average monthly production was 44 per cent and the monthly average of all hens 13.6 eggs a day. Japan has purchased $2,000,000 worth of American electric locomotives and substation power equipment recently, in connection with railway electrification projects.

GEORGE D. ARMISTED QUILTS AS MEMBER OF STATE HIGHWAY BODY

AUSTIN, Sept. 10.—Governor Neff has accepted the resignation of George D. Armisted of San Antonio as a member of the State Highway Commission. Mr. Armisted retiring to give his entire time to his work in journalism. The new appointee will serve until February 15, 1925, under the new law, as the present statute is repealed and another law becomes effective on that date. It gives annual salaries of $2,500 to each of the three commissioners and provides that they shall serve six-year terms, thus having two members overlap with the beginning of each new State administration.

MARKETS

STOCKS OVERCOME DEADLOCK LAST HALF HOUR

By EDWARD J. CONDON, NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The tussle between the bear contingent and those interested on the constructive side of the stock market resulted in a deadlock up to the final half hour of business when gains in the oil shares seemed to lift the industrial section of the list out of the lethargy which had prevailed since the late morning and higher prices were recorded for the day. Not a little credit goes to the commodity markets for the weakening of support. From the standpoint of the turnover, the stock market on Thursday was one of the dullest sessions in more than a fortnight.

The drive of preferentials to force security prices low was frustrated by the attitude of the public in the market. However pressure was exerted trading turned dull and the short interest began to retreat as gracefully as possible. In fact professional sales formed a large percentage of the offerings. There was a noticeable tendency to cover stocks which led the decline a week ago, such as American cables, Cabotage, Food and Iron, and Davis Chemical.

The oil stocks bubbled late in the session on what appeared to be a renewal of pool efforts. The inference is that oil stocks did not figure very prominently in the progress advance and are in a such better position than other groups in the general list to hold out against recorded at this time.

A stronger foreign exchange market was the natural result of the Paris dispatch relating to the renewal of the $100,000,000 Morgan credit to France. Storing at one time showed a net advance of a half cent but sold off in a quarter of a cent from the peak. Belgian Francs were pushed above the five cent level, for a brief interval with the French Franc maintaining a 33 point differential. The far eastern exchange rates were easier with the tone of Japanese exchange heavy.

The gain in silver prices in New York was offset by the decline in London with the subsequent selling of the Asiatic exchange rates.

COTTON AND GRAIN

Published by Fenner & Beane

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 11.—Jackson Bros. letter this afternoon says: WHEAT: Buying by houses with foreign connections. Good with selling pressure and local contracts early but it provided an outlet for all offerings and prices advanced rapidly later on an estimate that an amount somewhere around seven million bushels of wheat taken for export the last two days. There was a big trade but the market was strong throughout with selling largely confined to limited orders. Rains were reported in the Argentine but this was forgotten in the effect of the bullish Canadian government report. The market closed at the high point of the day with a noticeable increase in outside trade as prices advanced. Sentiment is largely bullish tonight and talking higher prices.

CORN: Locals sold freely early, but the market met with substantial commission houses support and reflected strength in wheat during the closing hour. Volume of business only moderate. Weather forecast is generally cool and unsettled, with light frost tonight over parts of Nebraska and the Dakotas. Corn was affected by strength in wheat. Unfavorable crop reports continue to come.

OATS: Trading continued and

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 11.—The market gave a better account of itself today in face of bearish flows and considerable hedging and ended the day with a fair sized advance.

A good Liverpool spread of the holding movement and probability of rains in Texas and Oklahoma, were the stimulating influences. Reports of easier spot basis and evidence that spot people were taking advantage of the balnea to hedge was the chief bearish argument though slack mill demand played a part.

Wires from every part of Texas saying farmers were unwilling to accept present prices and were holding attracted considerable attention and went a long way toward offsetting reports of easier basis.

Reports of rains in Southwest Texas and wires from other points in that state saying rain was necessary were responsible for the late buying, most of which appeared to be covered.

The advance in grain was helpful. The general opinion is that rains at this time will be unfavorable and they may change sentiment as well as the course of the market if they materialize.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Much better cables than expected gave rise to hopes of the much desired rally but so much cotton was for sale on the opening there was no response to the strength in Liverpool which was attributed to one large operator covering.

Many telegrams were received from the South telling of farmers refusing to sell cotton but as a general thing spot people reported that more cotton was offered than demand would absorb. Continued good weather would increase the movement and with mills indifferent buyers probably bring on more cotton than the trade could absorb.

A spell of bad weather would cause short covering but aside from such aptures continue to believe that prices are in a downward trend.

380 at Lamar, besides that at Seth Ward.

In high school there were about 30 enrolled in the senior class, 103 in the junior, 110 in the sophomore and 125 in the freshman classes. The increase is so large this year that another teacher will have to be employed.

Central school is crowded and changes and adjustments will have to be made to accommodate the pupils. The increase at Lamar is nearly 50 more than that of last year.

The school board will possibly have to employ additional teachers as the year advances, as so many new people are coming in to the community to make their homes.

Miss Dorothy Porter a few days ago resigned as supervisor of music in the schools in order to take a similar position in Tyler. Miss Milton Maxwell, primary teacher in Lamar was transferred to that position, she having last year been supervisor of music in the Cisco schools. Mrs. Laura Beuting of Dallas, has been employed to take the vacancy caused by the transfer of Miss Maxwell.

DEMONSTRATION OF TRACTORS GIVEN HERE THURS.

A tractor demonstration was given at the Tech View addition to Lubbock southwest of Lubbock Thursday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock, by the Lubbock Auto Company.

Hobson Hill, representing the Ford Motor Company, and John Albright, representing the Oliver Plow Company, helped to conduct the demonstration.

Fordson tractor and Oliver plows were used and the land was first flat broke with thrillle and double disc plows. A Fordson which has been in service three years pulled the thrillle disc plow and this feature of the demonstration was commented on favorably by the farmers.

The double disc plow, which is a new model and from which the right front wheel has been eliminated, proved to be very effective and due to the fact that the tractor was not loaded to capacity road time was made in getting over the ground.

This disc threw the dirt clear of the furrow and the usual unbroken corners were eliminated, as a steering device which could be worked from the tractor kept it into the furrow on the turns.

A tandem disc, double row lister, cultipacker and a three row cultivator were demonstrated, and proved to be capable of taking care of the work assigned them.

The demonstration was attended by farmers of Lubbock and adjoining counties, and according to George Benson of the Lubbock Auto Company this was one of the largest crowds to attend a tractor demonstration here.

The following were present and witnessed all demonstrations: D. N. Stokes, Route A, Lubbock; J. D. Cannon, Route 2, Lubbock; E. W. Baudin, Route 3, H. O. Cannon, Route 4, Schroeder, Lubbock; Capps, Lubbock, Route A; B. M. Foster, Lubbock, Route A; G. C. Davis, Lubbock, Route 1; A. Z. McDonald, Lubbock, Route A; W. M. Ross,

NO CEREMONY TO MARK ACCEPTANCE BY U. S. OF GIANT DIRIGIBLE BUILT BY GERMANY AS PART PAYMENT WAR DEBT

By WILLIAM J. MEVOY WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—No ceremony is to mark acceptance of the ZR-3, the world's largest airship when it is formally turned over to the United States by the German Government.

Delivery of the dirigible is regarded by Navy Department officials as the payment of a war debt and they do not believe there should be any show for such an occasion.

Early arrangements provide that the ZR-3 be met at sea by the Shenandoah and a squadron of airplanes and conveyed to the Lakehurst, N. J., landing field.

A small group of naval officers will be on the ground there officially to take over the airship on behalf of the United States government. Secretary Wilbur's presence at Lakehurst is contingent upon his arrival from the Pacific coast.

Built by Zeppelin Company. The ZR-3 was constructed by the Zeppelin Company at Friedrichshaven, Germany, under the watchful eye of three United States Navy experts. The Navy Department stationed Capt. George W. Steele, Lt. Commander Sidney M. Kraus, and Commander Fulton Garland to follow the construction.

The ZR-3 was constructed for the United States under special authorization from the allied and associated powers. After the war, the Zeppelin company was restricted by the powers from building other than commercial airships of a capacity not greater than 30,000 cubic meters.

Under the negotiations entered into by the Navy Department and the Zeppelin Company, the ship upon completion must be delivered to the U. S. Naval Air Station, Lakehurst.

The ZR-3 has been designed especially to accommodate passengers, and special attention has been directed to all factors involving convenience, strength and safety.

The general dimensions of the ship are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Dimensions and Meters. Rows include Overall length (200), Maximum diameter (27.64), Maximum width (27.64), and Maximum height (31.00).

The huge size of the ZR-3 may be pictured by considering the dimensions of the hangar at Lakehurst where it will be housed together with the Shenandoah. This hangar is the largest in the world and is of such enormous size that the capital building here could be placed inside except for a small portion of the dome.

The ship has many refinements of design, the result of almost 25 years continuous effort on the part of the Zeppelin company. The equipment and accommodations for passengers are complete and comfortable. The vessel has space for 30 passengers. Sleeping accommodations compare favorably with the finest American Pullman cars.

HIGHWAY CONVENTION TO MEET IN HOUSTON

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 11.—Detailed reports on the progress made in the maintenance of highways since this work was taken over by the State Highway Commission are to be made at the annual convention of the Texas Highway Association in Houston September 22.

Much interest will attach to these reports according to Wheeler, because it is upon their general tone that the future program of the Texas Highway Association will be based. The association is certain to make recommendations to the next session of the legislature, which meets in January, and the reports to the Houston convention will be largely a comparison of the present condition of the road with the condition a year ago.

Much interest will attach to these reports according to Wheeler, because it is upon their general tone that the future program of the Texas Highway Association will be based.

The ZR-3 will pass through the quarantine and customs just as a surface as a craft. An executive order by the President was necessary to take care of the situation, without precedent of aliens entering the country as members of a crew of a foreign commercial airship.

Likened to Ocean Ship. The ZR-3 will pass through the quarantine and customs just as a surface as a craft. An executive order by the President was necessary to take care of the situation, without precedent of aliens entering the country as members of a crew of a foreign commercial airship.

Based upon information from representatives at Friedrichshaven, Navy Department officials believe that ZR-3 will be able to make the air voyage from Germany to Lakehurst in about two and one-half days, should there be no great headwind.

The President's executive order of July 14 provides that the same conditions that obtain in the case of aliens entering this country on a surface vessel shall obtain in the case of a foreign commercial airship.

W. Husband, Commissioner-General of immigration, said that special representatives of the Bureau of Immigration will be at the Naval Air Station upon its arrival and that they will scrutinize the crew list and see that in all ways the law as interpreted by the executive order has been obeyed.

The film sensation of the year. A thrilling, throbbing tale of wild horses and racing hearts. He leaps a gap no other horse has leaped to escape his pursuer—hated man.
