

ADVENTISTS ARE TO CONVENE IN DES MOINES, IOWA

Seventh-day Adventist leaders throughout the Southwestern Section of the country will attend the biennial convention of the General Conference of the denomination in Des Moines, Iowa, October 11-23.

Under the leadership of Rev. M. B. Van Kirk, president of the Southwestern Union Conference, every local conference president in the states of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and New Mexico will go, together with representatives of the educational and medical institutions in this territory. Every one of the several hundred local churches in these states will be represented. The leaders of the state delegations will be as follows:

Rev. H. M. J. Richards, president of the Arkansas Conference; J. E. Wright, president of the North Texas Conference; W. H. Clark, president of the Oklahoma Conference; R. F. Montgomery, president of the South Texas Conference; R. L. Benton, president of the Texas Conference, which embraces New Mexico and the western section of Texas; H. R. Gay, manager of the publishing house in Fort Worth, Texas; and A. E. Harrison, secretary of the Publishing Department.

This gathering will be to the Adventists what a meeting of the Board of Bishops would be to the Methodist Episcopal Church. It will bring all the officers of the World's General Conference, together with departmental secretaries of this organization, which has its headquarters in Washington, D. C. It will also bring the leading representatives of the church from Central America, and some other parts of the world, South America, foreign countries.

The purpose of the convention is to make plans for the advancement of the denomination in all parts of the world. W. A. Spicer, president of the World's General Conference, will be the chairman, and the vice-presidents of the divisional conferences of the world will be associate chairmen.

Only Long Haired Bride for Prince Of Wales, Rumor

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—If the Prince of Wales has set the style for American men, as clothiers believe, at least he intends to have his modest word regarding the girls, too.

And the womenfolk hate.

During his recent visit in New York, he was virtually mobbed day after day by enraptured, palpitating feminine admirers. Subtle, delectable, married women from Long Island's most exclusive smart sets all flocked around the young Mr. Dave Windsor. At the race track, during a chucker of polo, even at intimate little house party dances, the girls wouldn't leave him alone.

And so—

The secret came out. His royal highness is dead set against bobbed hair. No, young lady; it doesn't matter whether your lovely oval face is wreathed in a shingle, boyish bob, King Tut or sleek Dutch. Walces does NOT like it.

An American Bride?

And if, as gossip among horrified court attachés in Buckingham Palace has it, the Prince is not adverse to entertaining the notion of marrying an American maiden, even though she be a commoner, you'd better let that hair grow quick, girls, should you have any royalistic ambitions in the way of engagement rings.

A smartly bobbed and shingled young woman, a novelist and newspaper "special writer," discovered the Prince of Wales' aversion to mutilated locks as he was embarking for his ranch in Canada. She

"Oh, Boy! a Brownie!"

Your Youngster wants a Brownie—

And since they cost as little as $2.00 he can have one.

See, for example—The No. 2 Brownie Pictures 2 1/4 x 3 1/2.

Beautifully finished in imitation leather and equipped with tested lenses and rotary shutter at $2.75 it's a lot for a little.

BILL WILL BE FRAMED AGAINST USE OF PUBLIC CUPS

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—The recent crusade in Dallas against unclean drinking places as found in soda fountains, restaurants and other public places has once more directed attention to the common drinking cup as an agent in the spread of infectious diseases. Recognition of the danger of these containers in communicating such diseases as tuberculosis, typhoid fever, measles, pneumonia, influenza, diphtheria, measles, infantile paralysis and other serious maladies has aroused medical officers to demand general legislation for the abolition of the common cup.

Various municipalities there are local ordinances and regulations which prohibit the common cup but there is no State law on the subject. Texas is one of the 170 States that has failed to enact a statute on this subject, although when he moved to the common cup was first brought to public attention one of the earliest bills offered to meet the condition was drafted by Senator Warren.

His bill forbade the promiscuous use of a common drinking cup, glass or other vessel for water drinking purposes in railway trains, in railway stations, in schools, churches, theatres or any other public place. This bill was reported favorably but died on the calendar.

Since that time all but Texas and one other State have framed adequate legislation so that now the common drinking cup generally is banned. Certain towns, particularly in North Carolina, have gone a step farther and have abolished glasses and cups in all public places. Because of the marked favorable results in State and community health improvement through prohibitory measures sanitation in Texas are hopeful that the next Legislature will pass a suitable law against the common drinking cup.

Girls That He Likes.

"I like the sort of girl who has a charming, lady-like appearance in the evening," he confided to an American friend, a polo player star. "At a dance I hate to fox-trot with a bobbed-haired girl. She always makes me feel as if I'd robbed the nursery. She doesn't look well-groomed. Bobbed hair destroys personality, don't you think?"

And that is why, perhaps, fashionable women in New York have suddenly appeared, at evening functions, with their bobbed hair coiffured with the aid of transformations. They seemed more fashionable, more possessed of individual appeal to practice of "doing up the hair" is spreading across the country.

Indeed, girls, the Prince started something.

CAR OVERTURNS TWICE WITH CANYON BOY

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 6.—Calvin Myers of this city seems to think that turning his father's Ford over is merely an incident of the day. Friday, while driving rapidly he struck a pocket of soft dirt; the car turned over twice, leaving him nearly dead, but uninjured. Road workers righted the car and he drove into town. Monday he again started for town and while coming down a hill locked the brakes, the car again overturned and Calvin landed on his feet, clear of the car. In the accidents only the windshield and the top of the car were broken.

109 UNIVERSITY STUDENTS NOT RESIDENTS OF TEXAS

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—Among the 4,110 students in the University of Texas this year, only 109 are not residents of Texas. Of this number, eighteen students are residents of foreign countries.

Mexico sends annually more students to the University of Texas than any other foreign country. This year 109 students in school this year from Mexico, England, Japan, China and Persia have one representative from each country in the University.

Louisiana has sent more students to the University of Texas this year than any other neighboring state. There are twenty students from Louisiana, twelve from New Mexico, ten from Oklahoma, eight from Missouri, five Illinois, five from California, four from Arkansas, four from Mississippi and three from Tennessee.

There are two students from each of the following states: Georgia, Virginia, New York and South Carolina. One student is registered from each of the following: Florida, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Washington, Michigan, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana.

HOUSTON DEMOCRAT WILL SUPPORT REPUBLICANS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Browning Green of Houston, Texas, as when seen at the Hotel Commodore yesterday, said that she and many of her friends in the South had decided to support Coolidge and Dawes. "I feel as a Southern Democrat that my vote is necessary for Coolidge and Dawes to save the Constitution and the Supreme Court."

Mrs. Green is the daughter of William R. Nash, a prominent Texas Democrat, ranch owner and oil man.

She enrolled today as a member of the "Southerners-for-Coolidge and Dawes Club."

GROWTH PANHANDLE TOWNS VERY RAPID

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 7.—Rapid growth in the population of this Panhandle town is reflected in the call sent to the West Texas Teachers' College here by school principals in adjacent districts asking for additional teachers to handle the overflow attendance.

School superintendents at Mullens, Tulia, Happy and Shamrock have put in calls for more teachers. Many teachers in the section expect to add more teachers at the close of the cotton picking season.

ENROLLMENT OF W. T. S. T. C. INCREASED 28.2 PERCENT.

CANYON, Oct. 6.—With a record enrollment of 997 students, the West Texas State Teachers' College authorities find many of their classes overflowing. The departments of English, History, and Mathematics are larger than ever before.

So many students wished to enroll for Manual Training work that all of them could not be accommodated at the beginning of the college year. 88 students are enrolled in this department.

The departments of Music, Expression and Education are so full that it is difficult for Registrar D. A. Shirley to find rooms in which they can hold their classes.

The college has an increased enrollment of 28.2 percent over that of last year at this time.

FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS WILL BE AWARDED BY MUSIC SOCIETY

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—The Phi Epsilon, honorary musical sorority of the University of Texas, has announced that four musical scholarships will be awarded this year through four of their members. The scholarships will be awarded by Mrs. Charles Sander, voice teacher; Mrs. Miriam Landrum, piano; Miss Beulah Beaver, organ; Miss Edith Nelson, piano. Applications should be made to Miss Beulah Beaver, of Austin, secretary, not later than October 10.

PROF. CLARK WILL SPEAK AT SLATON NOVEMBER 6

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 6.—Wallace R. Clark, head of the music department of the West Texas State Teachers' College will be one of the speakers at the meeting of the South Plains Music Teachers' Association which takes place at Slaton, November 6. Mr. Clark will discuss Music Teachers and the Certificate Laws of Texas. The music department of the Teachers' College here has been designated by the Board of Regents to do special work in the training of teachers of this subject.

CANYON EAGLES TO PLAY TULIA HIGH SCHOOL

CANYON, Oct. 6.—The Canyon High School Eagles will play their next game with Tulia High School, October 10. Canyon recently defeated Hereford 46 to 6. Hereford held Tulia in a 6 to 6 game. So the Eagle fans believe their team will easily defeat Tulia next Friday.

"The girl in the witchen" is a play that didn't take. It wasn't true to life.

HOME ECONOMIC MEETING IS HELD AT UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—With about 75 active members this year, the Home Economics Club of the University of Texas recently held its first meeting for the term. Inez Ahopf, of San Antonio, was elected president. The purpose of the club is to encourage scholarship and good fellowship among the students of the department. A loan fund and scholarship fund is also maintained by the club for the benefit of students in financial need.

HOUSTON DEMOCRAT WILL SUPPORT REPUBLICANS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Browning Green of Houston, Texas, as when seen at the Hotel Commodore yesterday, said that she and many of her friends in the South had decided to support Coolidge and Dawes. RIX GO INTO NEW BUILDING AT LAMESA

LAMESA, Oct. 6.—The Rix Furniture Co. are this week moving into their beautiful new building on the South Side. This is one of the handsomest buildings that has ever been erected here and it is especially arranged with a display frontage that fits it splendidly for the furniture business. This, coupled with their manager, Mr. Brannon is going to mean a monster business when they are fully opened for business again. They are on the South Side of the Public Square.

MIDLAND FARMERS PICK STRAWBERRIES

MIDLAND, Oct. 6.—West Texas doesn't have to send to California or the Rio Grande Valley for its fresh fruits. Strawberries, peaches, pears and apples are being plucked from vines and trees in Midland and on the nearby ranches and farms every day. Orchardists of Midland say everything but bananas and grapefruit grow here. This year's crop of fruits and melons included peaches, pears, apples, quinces, grapes, apricots, plums, cherries, strawberries, blackberries, Japanese persimmons, pecans, walnuts, watermelons, cantaloupes, Honey Dew melons, Hyatt melons, Honey-Hall melons and others.

Miss Dottie Davis, of New York City, arrived here Sunday morning and is spending the week at Bowen's Drug Store helping to advance the distribution of the Woodworth Finance and Karsess lines of toilet articles.

PROMINENT IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY

Because "Jimmy" O'Connell, centre fielder of the New York Giants, confessed he tried to bribe Heinie Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia Nationals, to "throw" a game and clinch the pennant for the Giants, Dan B. Johnson, president of the American League, and Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, demanded that the World Series with Washington be called off. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, who escaped from a Federal prison when he was permitted to go to Maryland to seek gold he had "buried" there, has been missing from his German haunts since April 6, and his friends declare he has returned to America and is in hiding. The watchfulness of Governor Alfred E. Smith probably averted another calamity such as the death of young Calvin Coolidge, Jr. Governor Smith discovered that his youngest son, Walter, was suffering from a stiff arm. Physicians found serious blood poisoning, and an immediate operation saved the lad's life.

TEXAS IS GOOD PLACE TO "MARRY A FARM"

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.—If you want to marry a farm, Texas offers splendid opportunities. Over six per cent of the Plainsmen of the Lone Star state have acquired their lands by matrimony, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, based on a survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Texas is almost as good a hunting ground for the land-eyed suitor as the five North Central states, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota, known as the "Farm by Marriage" group. In these states an average of 8.4 per cent of the farm owners have taken a farm along with a wife. In Kentucky and Tennessee, of the 875 farmers interviewed, 8.9 owed their farm to cupid.

Of 109 Texas farm owners, 88.2 per cent purchased their land outright, while 5.7 per cent acquired it by inheritance. This survey included 18,544 acres. For the United States as a whole, 79 per cent of the farm acreage was acquired by purchase, 16 per cent by inheritance, 3.3 per cent by marriage and 2.4 per cent in other ways, principally by homesteading. These percentages vary according to location and the type of farming.

As might be expected in an old state like Massachusetts, a high percentage of the farms were acquired by inheritance. Among the 716 transfers examined in that state 2.8 per cent represented inheritance. Western Nebraska still has many farms occupied by the original homesteaders. Approximately 19 per cent of the farm owners in one section of western Nebraska, where these figures were gathered stated that they were the original homesteaders.

On the 845 farms examined in Kentucky and Tennessee involving a total of 71,495 acres, 81.2 per cent of the farmers had purchased outright, 12.3 per cent had acquired possession by inheritance, less than one per cent by gift, and none by homesteading.

In the five North Central states called the "Farm by Marriage" group, only 64.1 per cent owned a farm by purchase. Almost 25 per cent had inherited their land, while 2.1 per cent had homesteaded.

DR. WORK MAKES REPORT OF TEXAS SCHOOL SURVEY

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6.—Texas ranks 44th in per capita state and local expenditures for all public purposes, including schools and state and local government. Texas ranks 37th in per capita state and local expenditures for all forms of public education, despite the fact that she ranks second in the proportion of state and local expenditures that go for public education. The per capita percentages were made on the basis of total population.

These conditions have just been made public by Dr. George A. Works, director of the Texas School Survey. In a letter to the Texas State Teachers' Association offices in this city, Dr. Works said that one means by which the people of Texas can get some idea of what they are doing for education is by comparing their expenditures with those made by other states. He stated that the Survey workers had made a study of 48 states and of the District of Columbia, so the reader will know that 49 units are being compared in the study.

In per capita state and local expenditures for all public purposes, including all forms of public education, it is found that Texas spends $49.42, for a rank of 44. Nevada in first place, spends $102.26 per capita; while Alabama, the lowest, spends $12.13. In per capita state and local expenditures for all forms of public education, Texas spends $8.41. Montana leads the list with a per capita expenditure of $24.46, while Kentucky is lowest with $4.36. In the proportion of its state and local expenditures that go for public education, the rank of Texas is second.

These facts, said Dr. Works, justify the conclusion that Texas maintains an inexpensive public service, including schools and state and local government, as compared with her sister states. Further, it is concluded that Texas is more generous to education than to other lines of public service, but even here so far as current per capita expenditures are concerned Texas ranks far below the average in the per capita of combined state and local support.

GARZA COUNTY MAN RAISES A LARGE WATERMELON

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 7.—John P. Carter of Garza near here is the unofficial champion watermelon grower in Texas, according to melon experts here.

In 1923 Carter grew a melon which tipped the beams at 123 pounds and was rated as the largest of its kind ever produced.

Dry weather, however, intervened—the past season and Carter was forced to be content with producing one melon weighing 108 pounds and two others "hefting" 105 pounds each. Ten melons out of Carter's patch totaled 1,020 pounds and twenty-four pushed the scale weight down to the 2,300 pound mark.

CLARION CHRISTIAN TO READ AVALANCHE AT HOME IN LAWRENCE

The Avalanche is in receipt of a letter from Clarion Christian, former student in Lubbock High School, who is now making his home at Lawrence, Kansas, stating that he wished to subscribe for the Avalanche in order to keep up with happenings in the old home town.

Clarion was one of the most popular members of the graduating class of 1924 and was one of the most active members of the athletic team, having won first places in three field events in the district meet and was a contender in the state basketball.

Friends of the former Lubbock man now pleased to know that he is still interested in happenings here.

HOW COMMUNITIES CAN RAISE HEALTH STANDARDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—How communities can raise the health standards of their children will be outlined by the group of eminent specialists attending the Second Annual Meeting of the American Child Health Society in attendance here, October 14-16. This association under the presidency of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, has within the last two years accomplished several outstanding pieces of child health work, the most conspicuous being the child health survey of 86 cities of 40,000 to 70,000 population. Authorities on every phase of child health will be in attendance at the Kansas City meeting. Practically every state will be represented by state officials, educators, physicians, nurses and community organizers. Because the Association has been working so closely with state and local governmental and private agencies in the organization and execution of their health programs the subject of "Community Organization for Child Health" will be featured. To discuss this topic the men and women representing the best thought and most recent scientific training and knowledge have been asked to participate in the program. Several sessions will be held in conjunction with the Kansas City Clinical Society, also meeting this week.

WILSON BUILDING INSURANCE RATE LOWEST HERE

When Fire Prevention Week was observed in Monday morning it found the Wilson-Abstract Company building of Lubbock leading the list in Lubbock in maintaining a record showing the home to be rated at only 26c, the lowest fire insurance rate made on any building in Lubbock.

Ira Wilson, owner of the building, stated that he had received a report from the Fire Rating Board at Austin, stating that his building was given the best insurance rating of any in Lubbock, and that inasmuch as this is Fire Prevention Week, he is well pleased with the manner in which the building was constructed, being made of reinforced concrete throughout.

Lubbock builders are looking to the future in constructing the very best class of buildings possible, and Mr. Wilson is to be congratulated upon the place his building occupies in Lubbock during fire prevention week.

MAN WAS NEARLY KILLED IN AN EXPLOSION

TYLER, Texas, Oct. 7.—Failure of Carter Howard, truck driver, to lower a small chain to the ground from his truck nearly cost him his life.

Carter was filling his tank truck with gasoline when a spark of static electricity ignited the tank wagon. The explosion seriously burned Carter and destroyed his truck.

DR. SPLAWN RETURNS FROM VISIT TO U. OF T. OIL FIELD

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—In order to ascertain for himself the status and prospects of oil development operations upon lands owned by the University of Texas in Reagan county, Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, president of that institution, visited the new field there this week. He returned very optimistic as to the prospects of the University obtaining a considerable amount of revenue from the oil royalty of the wells already drilled upon its lands.

"There is no doubt about there being oil on the University lands at Reagan," Dr. Splawn said. "There are about eleven wells now which are producing. Some of them are very small producers. Most of them are being pumped. However, there are two big gushers each of which will flow from two to three thousand barrels a day. Enough wells have been drilled to make it practically certain that the royalty which the University will receive will amount to something like $250,000 to $500,000. Just how extensive the field is has not yet been determined, and one man's guess is perhaps as good as another's."

"Under the laws of Texas, the royalty from the sale of oil off the University lands goes into the permanent endowment, and will not be available for any other purpose. The interest from it will be used toward the construction of buildings. Some

MRS. BLEDSOE HAS NOT YET RECOVERED FROM AC. INCIDENT INJURIES

Senator W. H. Bledsoe and family returned to their home here Saturday after having spent the past several days at Breckenridge and Mineral Wells under care of physicians.

The Bledsoe family was in a serious automobile accident near Cisco a week from last Friday when a large sedan in which they were riding turned upside-down, inflicting painful injuries upon all of them.

Senator Bledsoe was able to leave his office Monday, but Mrs. Bledsoe is still in serious condition and it will perhaps be two weeks before she has sufficiently recovered from the injuries received in the accident to be about.

Their little son, Billie, sustained an ugly gash across the top of his head which is healing satisfactorily, while their little grand-daughter, who was making the trip with them, sustained only slight injury, is thoroughly recovered.

Senator Bledsoe stated Monday that the accident occurred when the car was running at a slow speed, and that he is unable to account for the construction of buildings. Some

To win new friends

100 Lucky Strikes - TAX FREE

We invite every smoker in this city to take advantage of this startling offer.

We've told you about Lucky Strike superiority.

Your friends have told you. Now know for yourself the value of the toasting process!

We make this proposition to win new friends.

The regular price of a tin of 100 Lucky Strikes is 75c
You pay the dealer only 45c
We pay the Government Tax of 30c
Act quickly, as the dealer's allotment at this price is limited.
Get one tin for home or for office.
The regular price will be in effect when the dealer's supply on this offer is sold.

Smoke these 100 Lucky Strikes. Then you'll know how the 45-minute toasting process adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

LUCKY STRIKE

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

We call particular attention to the statements made in the advertisement adjoining this editorial column.

This advertisement, the purpose of which is to win new friends for Lucky Strike cigarettes, incidentally emphasizes the matter of high taxes on cigarettes.

To those who are intimate with such matters there is of course, no surprising statement made.

To the general public, though, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

No nearly fifty cents out of every dollar you spend for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last fiscal year it amounted to $200,014,624.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.91 or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

The immediately important point of the foregoing is the following: We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public generally appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins New Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy, nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it exceptionally generous so as to attract attention.

We are not giving money away for the offer accomplishes its purpose, Lucky Strike "Wins New Friends." Our volume increases.

Super-quality

It is only by immense volume that we can produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly, extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobacco that are used in Lucky Strikes.

We urge you to participate in this offer—we want you to get acquainted with Lucky Strike.

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

APPEAL FOR CONTINUANCE IN HAUPTTRIEF CASE GRANTED

UNBORN BABE OF WOMAN GIVES A BRIEF RESPITE

DEFENSE CONTENT THAT TRIAL MIGHT ENDANGER LIVES OF TWO

By United News. HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—The unborn babe of Mrs. Haupttrief today gave her a brief respite from trial on charges of murdering her four step children by poisoning and assault to murder her husband by the same method.

Upon motion of the defense which contended that to begin the trial today would perhaps endanger the life of the child and the mother, a motion to postpone the case to Monday, October 13, was granted.

Mrs. Haupttrief entered the courtroom dressed all in black. While witnesses were being called she kept her eyes fixed on the jury, her hands clasped in prayer.

When the name of "Wm. Haupttrief," her husband, was reached, she started back into her seat and lay there only passing interest in the proceedings.

While neither side showed its hand in the brief proceedings today, it was believed the defense would have its fight to save the woman from the gallows on the contention that she has the mentality of but a child of five.

Mrs. Haupttrief poisoned her children by placing arsenic in coffee which they always drank when they came home from school in the afternoon.

NEGRO INJURES TWO THEN TURNS GUN ON HIMSELF

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—Entering the Inceda Laundry here in search of his wife, an employe, Robert Lockett, negro, fired a shot into the ceiling.

J. E. Miller, foreman, leaped across a table at the black and received a shot through the arm and a glancing wound in the cheek.

Brandishing his gun, Lockett ran through the laundry shooting Lucinda Parker, a negro. She may die.

Miss Hazel Gast, white, jumped from a window to escape the black and broke her leg and injured her self internally.

Lockett, with the room cleared of people, turned the gun on himself and blew out his brains. His wife escaped uninjured.

BROWNFIELD CITY WATER BONDS ARE SOLD IN HOUSTON

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 6.—The city council met Tuesday afternoon to consider bids for the $36,000 water bond issue that was voted in the early summer.

Just as soon as some minor matters are cleared up, work will begin on the water system, which when complete will be one of the best on the South Plains. We understand that orders have already been placed for material, which ought to begin arriving before long.

TOLL IN CATTLE PLAGUE IS 3,000

10,000 MORE BELIEVED EXPOSED TO SCOURGE BEING ROUNDED UP

HOUSTON, Oct. 6.—With the toll of foot-and-mouth disease scourge in Harris county standing at 3,000 head of cattle slaughtered, cowboys tonight were rounding up 10,000 more cattle believed to have been exposed to the plague.

The cattle are those on ranches near Webster, where the plague was first found. They are believed to have been exposed by cattle being inadvertently turned out of the infected herds.

J. E. Boggs-Scott, chairman of the Texas sanitary livestock committee, said that he did not believe the cattle would all have to be slain but that they were being rounded up to be kept under close observation.

Meetings of ranchers were to be held here today to plan ways of lessening the strict quarantine on cattle in Texas, especially herds in the Rio Grande Valley, which they say could not have possibly been exposed.

FORMER BANKER FOUND GUILTY FRAUD BY MAIL

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.—Phil Drumm, former cashier of the defunct American State Bank of Wichita, was fined $1,000 after a jury had found him guilty of using the mails to defraud. Judge John C. Pollock assessed the fine on recommendations of the jury.

The charges against Drumm grew out of his alleged misappropriation of a trust fund belonging to a Kansas farmer.

Drumm said the fine would be paid immediately.

BOTH ENGAGED IN FRAME-UP ON GOV'T, HE SAYS

CHARGE SAYS THEY GAVE BIG INTERESTS RIGHT TO HURT GOVERNMENT

By United News. SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6.—Scandalous charges aimed to involve President Coolidge and Secretary of the Interior Work in alleged illegal transactions were made here Monday in a campaign speech delivered by Senator B. K. Wheeler, independent vice presidential candidate. Wheeler contended he was in possession of documentary proof:

1. That Herbert Work, secretary of the interior signed a secret contract with J. P. Morgan, Guggenheim interest, to train the government's Alaskan railroad and give them a monopoly of the government Alaskan reserves.

2. That President Coolidge while president of the Associated Press had granted to J. P. Morgan, Guggenheim interest, a monopoly of the government Alaskan reserves.

3. That the "Work-Morgan" contract and copies of the court records in the Coolidge-Mitchell case.

Alaska Railroad Project. In his charges against Work, Wheeler set forth that:

"Some years ago, the government appropriated a great many millions of the people's money to build a railroad to Alaska. The attempted working of this government enterprise was still going on.

"Cheap rates for the use of the Morgan-Guggenheim interest endeavoring to convert Alaska into a private kingdom for themselves— are in effect against the highest possible rates for all other users.

"On this government line there is a freight rate on ore of $6 per ton and a rate for 412 miles from Nenana to Seward, to build a railroad to Alaska. The attempted working of this government enterprise was still going on.

"Only one mine the Mayo mine owned by the Morgans and the Guggenheims' ship or, in that quantity. Everybody pays a rate of $44 per ton.

Wheeler then contended that his running mate, Senator LaFollette had recently asked Work for copies of all contracts on this government railroad and Work submitted three minor contracts, but did not mention the Morgan-Guggenheim contract.

Major Cronkite was first thought to have killed himself accidentally at target practice, but his family alleges he was murdered by Pugh at Rosenbluth's command.

SHENADOAH TO START TUESDAY

CRUISE BY FORT WORTH ON THE LONGEST NON-STOP FLIGHT IN HISTORY

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 6.—The Navy dirigible Shenadoah will take the air from the air station here Tuesday and if weather conditions are favorable will begin the longest non-landing flight ever attempted by an airship, a 7,000-mile cruise to the Pacific coast and back.

Fort Worth, Texas is to be the Shenadoah's first stop.

Morning mists have been set up here at San Diego Cal., and Camp Lewis, Washington, and it is planned not to permit the ship to touch land until she is back at Lakehurst.

Commander Zachary Lansdowne will be in charge of the flight, which is expected to be completed in seventeen days.

The start Tuesday will hinge on weather the sun shines. Only one carload of helium, instead of two, required to fully inflate the ship, arrived at the hanger Monday.

To overcome this handicap, it is planned to run the ship up on its mooring mast and led it heat from the morning sun and expand the inadequate supply to give its buoyancy enough for a safe start.

LAMESA WILL SEND EXHIBITS TO THE STATE FAIR

LAMESA, Oct. 6.—Lamesa and Dawson county had a very creditable exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair at Lubbock last week.

The Fair opened Wednesday, October 1st and closed Saturday night, October 4th.

The work of selecting and preparing the products for this fair and the State Fair at Dallas, which will be held from October 11th to 26th, has been the chief work of the Chamber of Commerce office here for the past week or so.

C. T. Watson, secretary of the organization attending the Lubbock Fair last week and will leave the first of this week for Dallas with the exhibit for the State Fair.

Dawson county has made some enviable records in the past with her agricultural displays, but it is to be hoped that the record will be even better this year than ever before.

SOUTHPLAINS AGAIN TO TRY FOR STATE HONORS WITH ELEVEN OF THIRTEEN AT S. P. FAIR EXHIBITING

The Southplains territory, just now coming into recognition as the coming farming country of the State, will be well represented at the State Exposition at Dallas, which opens on the 11th, according to officials of the local Chamber of Commerce, who stated Monday that thirteen counties in this section are preparing exhibits for shipment, or have already shipped same.

Eleven of these counties placed exhibits at the Southplains Fair, which closed its eleventh annual session Saturday, and a better array of products of the soil have never been displayed here.

Floyd and Garza counties, which were not represented at the South Plains Fair, will also exhibit at the State Fair, it was learned here Monday.

The county exhibits shipped out of this territory to Dallas for the State Fair are Lubbock, Crosby, Dawson, Terry, Randall, Lynn, Floyd, Hale, Potter, Gaines, Garza and Deaf Smith.

South Plains people who viewed these exhibits at the fair which was held here the last four days of last week are confident that the Plains country will win as many of the first prizes as were won last year, when the four first prizes went to Plains counties.

Cotton Exhibits to be Shown by All Plains Counties. Cotton will be included among the products shown by all of the Plains counties, it was stated by County Agent Eaton yesterday.

The fact that this profitable crop has not been grown in all sections of the Plains in the past, and that it was not among the exhibits shown by all the Plains counties last year, is significant, and as much prominence has been given this crop in all parts of the Plains during the past year, the counties from this section of the state are just as well prepared to take their place at the fair as the cotton growing sections of East Texas, inasmuch as most all the other field crops grown there flourish in the Plains country.

HALF-INCH RAIN FELL OVER THIS SECTION MONDAY

One-half inch rain, falling throughout this section of the southplains is hindering the maturing of the cotton crop in this section and causing a great deal of uneasiness among cotton farmers.

Due to the fact, however, that the crop is only slightly opened the sample will not be affected to a noticeable extent and sunny weather within a few days could materially overcome the damage being done by the wet weather.

Thirteen hundred and twenty hales have been weighed at Lubbock and picking was very well under way during the last days of last week. Pickers are beginning to arrive from the east and no shortage of labor will be experienced, in the opinion of local farmers who have made trips to the eastern part of the state for pickers.

In setting forth his charges against Mr. Coolidge, Wheeler said that in 1920 when Mr. Coolidge was governor of Massachusetts the Cosmopolitan trust company, of Boston failed September 25, causing loss to 22,000 depositors. Under the state law the state could not deposit more than 40 per cent of the banks capital stock, he said.

Wheeler then quoted as follows from the alleged testimony of Fred J. Burrell, state treasurer, taken in a law suit before Judge Fox in superior court, Boston, October 29, 1923: "That about one a. m. on a spring day in 1920 Max Mitchell, president of Cosmopolitan bank, called him on the telephone saying that unless he received money from some source before the bank opened that day the bank would go broke. That he, Burrell, then went to Governor Calvin Coolidge, to whom he talked in company with State Bank Examiner Joseph S. Allen and Max Mitchell.

"That governor Coolidge told him to put some more state money in the Cosmopolitan bank at once. That the deposit exceeded the legal limit and was made because the governor ordered it to be done. That the total deposits of state funds in the Cosmopolitan bank were then a million dollars, although the legal limit, 40 per cent, would have been $250,000.

Further on, Wheeler charged directly: "That the state law of Massachusetts provided that no individual shall contribute more than a total of $1,000 to any election. Max Mitchell contributed $6,000 to Calvin Coolidge's campaign in violation of the law.

nomination and one cannot talk without feeling that they now believe Davis has a chance to win. Taking the judgements of both republicans and democrats, the general impression at this time seems to be that Coolidge and Smith are the likely winners.

It remains to be seen what Davis does on his tour of the state. He is invading the heart of the republican up-state territory. Davis spoke at Schenectady Monday afternoon, a town that waited forty years to send a democrat to congress.

ANTHRAX—FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

We have been asked to explain if these diseases are one and the same. Anthrax has been common in the Southern part of this state and other Southern states for the last 30 years; but this is the first appearance of the dreaded Foot and Mouth disease in Texas, so far as we know.

Anthrax is much more fatal, but the stock are not killed to stop the disease, as there is found a vaccine or antitoxin that will stop it and we think, in some cases, cure the disease; but there has not been found any protective measure for the foot and mouth disease. So the only way to control it is by destroying the animal affected with it.

We understand that there has been a few cases of Anthrax up in this section of the state in the past and some near Sweetwater. We have not learned how the foot and mouth disease got into the state.

THE GAMBLING SPIRIT

Judge George Anderson, of the United States Circuit Court in Boston, recently asserted that he did not believe the average small investor would ever learn to guard himself against the fake stock swindler.

People live by example. Here and there, now and then, some one makes a tremendous profit on some speculation, be it oil, steel, wind, water, property or paper, and this acts as an incentive—a "come on"—for ignorant would-be speculators. It is safe to say that a very large percentage of those who invest in various industrial stocks are fully aware of the fact that statistics for fifty years show only one chance in twenty of winning out.

It is probably true, also, that those speculators in fake stock do not lose more than speculators in so-called legitimate promotion stocks, that are mortgaged, bonded, juggled and finally "cleaned up" in a bankruptcy sale. But few business men have escaped this loss—and the number of them multiplies like rabbits.

The difficulty of deciding between these two evils, or the difficulty of drawing a line that will not involve the exchange and the curb, stands in the way of either state or Federal protective legislation. The bucket shop has its protection and the fake industrial stock promoter has his—but the investor—well congress takes the position that it cannot legislate brains where there is no soil.

THE 20TH AMENDMENT

In 1916 and again in 1919 Congress, in obedience to a nation wide demand, enacted federal laws to abolish child labor. These acts were passed in recognition of the fact that the demand for the eradication of this evil was being met all too slowly by individual states, and because there was no national uniformity. Both of these measures were declared unconstitutional. The present proposal is not legislative in character. It merely gives to congress the constitutional right to make legislative record of the opinion of the American people on this question.

Free distribution of fifty million trees and shrubs to prairie farmers by the Canadian government during the past few years has proven to be a far-sighted and beneficent public policy. This act of paternalism accomplishes great good, without giving much opportunity for dishonesty.

YEARLY FRAUDS TWO BILLIONS

Almost beyond belief, yet undoubtedly true, is the statement made in recent reports that $2,000,000,000 was literally stolen from the people of the United States during the past year, through embezzlement, forgeries, credit frauds and the sale of worthless stocks.

The report is made by the American Institute of Accountants, the highest possible authority, after a painstaking and elaborate survey. This two billion does not include losses by burglary, robbery, or any violent means of separating the victims from their money. It only embraces the results of misplaced confidence.

Of this staggering sum approximately two hundred million was obtained by embezzlement and forgery; six hundred million represents credit fraud; while the stock frauds reach one billion, or a thousand million dollars.

Add to these figures the vast sums wrested from our people through other forms of dishonesty and the total would be utterly beyond human comprehension. It is a serious indictment of both honesty and the intelligence of a large portion of our citizenship.

Those who were induced to contribute to the billion dollar pot cleaned up by the fake stock jobbers have some claim of sympathy, no doubt, yet practically every newspaper and periodical in the land has repeatedly warned against investing in wild-cat schemes.

It appears that as soon as one crop of "suckers" is skinned a new and larger bunch comes on to meet the same fate.

FARM BOOKKEEPING

No modern business man would think of conducting a store or factory year after year without keeping records to show whether he is making or losing money. Yet many farmers try to get along with no records at all, or keep records so incomplete and haphazard as to be of little value.

Many progressive farmers do keep books in a practical way and these are usually the ones who make a success of farming. They realize that they are business men, engaged in the greatest business in the world, and they adopt business methods accordingly.

Not only should a farmer's books show the total amounts of his receipts and expenditures, but they should show a separate account for each crop and for each other activity, such as livestock, poultry, fruits and vegetables, and so on.

In this way he may discover what pays and what does not pay. Without much records he is working in the dark, often suffering losses he least suspects them.

Bookkeeping on the farm will not turn losses into profits, but it will serve to point out the mistakes of a given year and be of great help in avoiding them in the future years. No farm should be conducted without a complete and accurate system of bookkeeping.

TEAMWORK FOR OUR TOWN

In every city, town and hamlet we may find strong competition in business, differences in politics and religion, social rivalries and personal antagonisms—and these will probably always exist to a greater or less extent.

But there is one common ground on which all should be willing to meet, laying aside personal grievances and prejudices—that is, where the common welfare of "our town" is concerned.

In other words, no matter how much we may disagree and fight among ourselves, we should stand up for our town against all opposition. This sort of teamwork is what makes a town worth while, insures its progress and a better understanding among its people.

By joining with an enemy or a rival in some movement for the betterment of the community, we often find him to be a pretty good sort of a fellow after all.

Development of a strong community spirit is essential to community advancement and no personal feelings should be permitted to stand in its way. Loyalty and teamwork are the things that count.

ANTON

Anton is another new town that is going to be one of the many fine places to live and invest money in this section of the state. Anton is to be the name of the new station that will be built soon on the Santa Fe twelve miles east of Littlefield. The place is given this name in honor of Superintendent Anton of Slaton, and it is to his good name as an official of the Santa Fe and the splendid work that he has done for this section of the state that he is honored thus by his company.

J. F. Anton, is one of the most active and wide-awake fellows of the Santa Fe gang, and looks well to the interests of the company as well as to the comfort and convenience of the people of the South Plains, and it is with much pleasure that his many friends learn that his name shall be perpetuated by a town in the heart of the South Plains.

FARMERS ARE INTERESTED

Because of the belief that the tremendous waterpower of Muscle Shoals will be in part used for the manufacture of cheaper fertilizer, the farmers of the country, especially of the south and middle west are much interested in the completion of the great project next year.

They are also interested in the bills now before congress providing for the disposition of the 600,000 horse power to be generated at Wilson Dam at the foot of the shoals, one mile from Florence, Alabama, in the northwestern corner of the state.

Henry Ford's offer for the property was accepted by the House last spring and the bill, as well as the Norris bill providing for government operation, will be the special order of business in the senate when congress convenes in December.

The controversy over Muscle Shoals has been going on ever since Ford made his bid in July, 1921 and has been the subject of bitter debate both in congress and through the press.

DEFEAT LABOR GOVT IN BRITAIN NOW BELIEVED SURE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A defeat of the labor government in the house of commons Wednesday following the calling of a general election is now regarded as inevitable.

The prospect became practically certain when prime minister MacDonald's cabinet decided Monday that the government would oppose both the conservative motion of censure and the liberal amendment to it, which will be debated in the house Wednesday.

If the laborites persist in their present course it will mean that they deliberately sought defeat on a comparatively minor issue—the dismissal of sedition charges against a communist editor.

However, if the government does not make a test of the present question it would be sure to meet with a damaging attack on the Russian treaty.

It is premier MacDonald's view, apparently, that nothing is to be gained by temporizing. Already, campaign has broken out like an epidemic throughout the country.

Lloyd George opened his speech-making at Leicester Monday, mercilessly belittling the laborites and declaring that an election was necessary by the government to surrender to a "gang of its own extremists."

MacDonald's attitude is indicated by an interview with him, which William Stead, former editor of the Times, published in the Review of Reviews, "Personally" the prime minister is quoted as saying "to be out of office would be a deliverance to me. I have been trying to carry burdens which perhaps are too heavy for any man."

McCoy Permitted To Visit Mother On 76th Birthday

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Mary Selby, the mother of Kid McCoy, has been close to death several times since her son was jailed in connection with the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mora.

Still weak from her long illness, the aged woman observed her 76th birthday and McCoy, escorted from the county jail by two deputies, was with her for an hour.

Tears of happiness coursed down a face lined with marks of suffering as Mrs. Selby greeted her son. His handcuffs had been removed at the entrance to Mrs. Selby's home and his guards with consideration of the reunion, stayed outside.

"Don't worry, Mom," he called back. "Everything's going to be all right and then I'll come home to you for good."

The former welterweight champion goes on trial for Mrs. Mora murder on October 20.

POLICE CALLED TO GET DEAD MAN—FOUND KIDNIE CAR

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6.—"Officers, come quick. There is a dead man lying beneath my bedroom window" was the breathless message poured into the ear of the night watch at police headquarters in the early hours of the morning.

The murder squad made a flying trip in an attempt to get on the trail of the slayer.

Slipping around the corner of the house the officers flushed a deserted kiddie car, lying in the shadows of the house.

INVENTIONS NEEDED. Sir William Bell, the noted British scientist and inventor, makes the following suggestions for inventions needed in the world: Glasses that will bend.

A process to make flannels unshrinkable.

A noiseless airplane.

A motor engine giving one horsepower to each pound of weight.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

Rebuilding the City Detroit is a good example of a city where there are more motor cars than listed telephones, where traffic is a real problem but where practical ways of improving traffic conditions are being widened.

Streets are being widened and by making sidewalks narrower and by removing parking areas between the sidewalks and the street. The motor car is simply a means of transportation and the modern city must be rebuilt and replanned to meet the changed order.

The city which sits back and complains about traffic conditions but does nothing about it simply isn't progressive. Proof of this is shown by the fact that most cities have attacked their traffic problems intelligently.

LAFOLLETTE WILL INITIATE A THOROUGH "HOUSE CLEANING" IF ELECTED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Declaring that he is out to win Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Independent Candidate for president, declared Monday night if he is elected, a "thorough house-cleaning" will be initiated in every department of the government.

"Fighting Bob" was speaking before his first audience in his nation-wide campaign tour for the presidency. The hall was crowded to capacity by 4,000 persons.

It was an enthusiastic crowd which applauded LaFollette lustily. Repeal of the Eech-Cummings railroad law was the first plank of the platform that LaFollette laid down.

Next in importance, he declared, is the repeal and revision of the Fordney-Cumber tariff act.

The Wisconsin senator accused of disloyalty during the world war was escorted to the hall by the American legion band. Bringing up the rear of the parade was the local unit of the Von Steuben society.

Turning to the railroad question LaFollette said the railroad labor board act would be effected by the next congress if the administration did not interfere. He bitterly criticized President Coolidge and his campaign managers for the failure of laws designed to lower the cost of living which were offered during the present administration.

In opposition to the republican program, defeated in the past session of congress, LaFollette said that he proposed the following: Reconstruction of the federal reserve system and the federal farm loan system so as to make loans available on fair terms, without discrimination to business men, farmers and home builders.

A permanent transportation policy providing public ownership and without bureaucratic control of political ownership.

Development of co-operative marketing.

Development of a national super-power system.

Reverting to the question of supreme court decisions, LaFollette ridiculed the idea that he was a

GIANTS WIN RAGGED AFFAIR FROM SENATORS 6 TO 4

NINTH INNING RALLY BY SENATORS FALLS SHORT AND GIANTS WIN 6 TO 4 TAKING ONE GAME MARGIN ON SERIES

BY WILLIAM SLAVENS McNUTT
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Giants took the third world's series game 6 to 4, and the lead in the race here Monday in a ragged game as full of thrills as a military high sky ride with a drunken aviator doing stunts.

There were circus plays galore to cure the fans of whatever scandal sickness they may be suffering from, and a ninth inning threat by the Senators which produced a crop of thrills that would have made the mummy of Tut Ank Amen shiver if his sarcophagus had been opened at the polo grounds during the period of the rally.

Washington started their half of the ninth three runs behind. The right odds on their staying a successful comeback were somewhat greater than a hundred to one.

Fiske Hit Starts Rally

Ryan, who had replaced McQuillan earlier on the mound, for McGraw's murderous men was going good. Bucky Harris, the first man up for Washington, popped a high one to rightfield and the ball sailed into the air the odds shifted to about one hundred and fifty to one. But the Giants fielder got too ambitious. Jackson, Kelly and Wilson all decided that McGraw would be all pleased for if they caught the ball. They all tried, and were so busy colliding with one another when the ball descended within arms reach that none of them had any time to pull the ball out of the atmosphere prior to its arrival on the green sward and to behold, Mister Harris was safe, and the odds on a successful rally shortened up.

Rice popped out to Jackson then all the New York gamblers who had bet on the Giants to win this game permitted their hearts to start beating once more to the regret of the rest of the populace and the detriment of the Universe.

Watson Displays Guts

Watson had a grin on his face that made his features look like sliced melon. He was grinning because Santa Claus had sent him Miller instead of Peckinpach and Christmas so far away. Peck in a pinch is a study of pessimism to pitchers. Miller was sweet, craft, luscious apple pie. He poked out a punny little foul over third base and lunged his bat on the ground when it was gathered in. Two out and the bases still loaded. Ruel, then did the best he could which was terrible. He tapped a weak one towards third, forcing Goslin and the bad news for the day was all published.

Marberry started well for Washington, and not then came the big blow off and the end of the day work.

OLDFIELD PAYS $200 FINE FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

By United News
CALEXICO, Cal., Oct. 6.—Barney Oldfield, veteran racing pilot, paid a fine of $200 in police court here Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving. Officers reported that Oldfield had been making 85 miles an hour on the highway from El Centro.

Oldfield was arrested Saturday night and first charged with driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor. This charge was reduced to reckless driving and the driver pleaded guilty when arraigned.

FRISCH'S FIELDING WON FOR GIANTS RICE SAYS

BY SAMMY RICE
Washington Star Outfielder, Copyright, 1924, by United News.
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The third game of one 1924 scramble for the world's championship was not won by any particular man's hitting stuff. It was captured by Frank Frisch's stellar fielding.

Whoever dubbed him the Fordham flash should have seen him start today. Then it would have been the "Fordham Streak." I have seen a lot of infielders but I remember only one other man who would have snagged the two Texas League flies from George Goslin's bat that Frisch got today.

The other fellow I have in mind is George Melbrides, former Washington shotstopper.

OFFICIAL RECEIPTS FOR THIRD OF SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The official gate statistics for the third game of the world series here Monday are as follows: Attendance 47,608, receipts $186,572. Total receipts to date $457,824. National commission's share $27,068.88. Each club's share $63,434.48. Players share $95,161.72.

Fourth, taking the ball on a dead run. At the time Ruel was on first, having walked and Judge followed with a double. So you see we would have scored at least another two men there.

Then Frank duplicated the feat in the fifth, going into right field for another short fly. While no one was on there were two outs at the time, right there might have been the starting of the winning rally for we usually follow up the Goose's hits. They seem to stimulate rallies. Then Frisch went back over off first for Goslin's smash after I had singled in the seventh, and we had the lead and ran play on. I was rounding second when the throw reached first. It killed one of our big chances. Yes, give Frank credit.

There are occasional spectacular catches pulled in all big games when we are trying hard. I got one today, although it almost tore my hand off when I stuck my glove in front of Lindstrom's clout in the fourth. "Pep" Young also got a great catch when he had to dive for Ruel's fly to short right in the sixth. But few fielders get as many as Frisch pulled today in a single contest.

GOWDY SHOWS MUCH RESPECT FOR PECKINPAUGH

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Speaking as a sportman I hope that Roger Peckinpach the Senators shortstop is able to dismount from his "Charley-Horse" and get back in the game at short stop for the Senators Tuesday afternoon.

But speaking as a man with a home to support and grocery bills to pay, I trust that Mr. Peckinpach will recover about two weeks hence, when the world series is over.

Peck tied up the first game of the series in the ninth inning and made us fight three more agonizing innings to win. His hit in the ninth inning of the second game robbed the Giant out of a victory. If he had been in the game all the way Monday, he might have beaten us again, particularly in the ninth inning when he would have gone to bat with the bases full.

This means that I have much respect for Mr. Peckinpach. His injury changed the progress of the game and made it easier for the Giants to win. Frank Frisch made it easier still. That man is the most wonderful infielder I have ever seen. He grabbed one but two flies in center field while running with his back to the ball and flinging back over his shoulder. His stop of a low liner over in first base territory was a wonder and another saving play.

It happened that "Goose" Goslin was the author of all those saves. The pitchers all were wild in Monday's game and that was what made the playing seem so ragged. They have their off days when they all seem to lose control together, and this was one of them.

JOHNSON PRESSING JURY PROBE OF BALL SCANDAL

By United News
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Oct. 6.—Reterating that K. M. Landis is not competent to act as commissioner of baseball Ben Johnson, president of the American League, will press a grand jury investigation of the latest scandal in baseball.

Baseball needs a more competent man to handle the office of commissioner, Johnson declared in an interview at his hotel here Monday where he has come to rest.

Landis gave away $120,000 as a result of a tie game in one series without even consulting the club owners of the two leagues. Last year he told umpires of the series they were unimportant, which was another blunder. The umpires were Hart, O'Day, Evans and Nallin, all men of integrity whose honest government has been questioned.

"I believe every word of O'Connell's confession. I do not believe Cozy Dolan acted under his own orders. He took orders from a superior. I believe both of these players should be indicted by a grand jury so that this scandal can be cleared up and the real man behind it brought to justice," Johnson said.

Johnson is a frequent visitor to this health resort. He spent the day on the golf links and promised "to have a little more to say later in the evening."

He will stay here a few days or two weeks, and then proceed to New York where he will plunge into the probing of an alleged bribe Jimmy O'Connell, of the New York Giants, is said to have offered to shortstop Sand, of the Philadelphia team, to "throw the game."

Just what Johnson's first move will be is problematical. He let it be known that he does believe that either O'Connell or Cozy Dolan, the other Giant member implicated in the scandal are not wholly to blame, and suspects a "higher up" of giving them their orders.

"I'll wait until the series is over," Johnson said. "And then I'll go east to New York probably. I intend to press an investigation and see that the one or ones responsible for this latest baseball scandal, a blot on organized baseball is forced to pay the penalty for his deed."

"I want to know O'Connell's story. I want to know a lot more than I've read about this affair. These players should be indicted and a grand jury investigation made. Then the true facts would come out and baseball would have taken a step forward in purging itself of those who make such scandals as these possible."

He denied that the presence of Thomas McGuire, head of a Chicago detective agency, had any special import or that McGuire was here with a purpose of aiding him in his coming investigation.

"I came here to rest. I have not conferred with any one about this matter and want for a week or more," he said.

Johnson will go to Kansas City Tuesday, to visit friends.

investigation of the latest baseball scandal, he declared in an interview Monday night. The elderly league chief who has clashed with Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball on several different occasions and who now ac-

SCANDAL ORGY FAILS TO HALT BIG SERIES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The temporary writ of good character issued to the world series of 1924 by Judge K. M. Landis has been extended for one day more and probably will last until the championship has been decided between the Senators and the Giants. Operating under some strange injunction against inopportune squawking, the ball clubs enacted the third game of the series Monday afternoon under the scrutiny of a Broadway grand jury of 40,000 customers who trembled the rusty rocks of Cogan's Bluff with the noise of a nine-inning debate, but adjourned without voting any indictments.

Among those absent were Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell, late of the Giants, who were naive enough to convict themselves before the judge last week. These absentees have been vanquished with a singular lack of protest which leads to a suspicion that their cases will be untried and examined again as soon as the temporarily honest world series has been disposed of, and the proceeds proportioned. For wrong men they have been very quiet, especially in view of the fact that the press is not only willing but, in some cases, positively impatient with a desire to present their side of the mysterious story of base work along the base lines.

It was a strange power of attraction that drew 40,000 citizens of the most cynical city on the western continent, a city which believes the boys at Gettysburg stalled along to make the thing look good for the

"OPEN SEASON" AND REMINGTON SPORTSMEN'S WEEK, OCT. 13-18, TOGETHER MAKE HUNTERS HAPPY

Now it is open season on almost every kind of game. In the uplands and lowlands, marsh and covert, the sportsmen are enjoying the thrill of the hunt. Wherever there is game, furred or feathered, there are gunners winning fun and heightened health from the oldest, and to them, the greatest sport.

The Indians called September the "Hunter's Moon," but it is October to which hunters now look forward almost eagerly the whole year round. Now, there's "no fly in the ointment" as early in the year! No swarms of black flies or mosquitoes or even gnats to disturb your peace or take the edge off your pleasure! The trees on every hand are gorgeous in their flame-bright crimson and gold panoply of autumn foliage.

Hunters' Happiest Days Now. A sportsman can enjoy no happier time than a clear, snappy October day tramping the fields behind a pair of good dogs with his Remington in hand in quest of quail—unless it is going gunning through the brush for grouse or rabbit or the swamp for snipe—especially Jack snipe with that perplexing "cock screw flight," that so often saves them for another day's sport—or waiting in the blind for pease or ducks that are wary and flying high. And what red-blooded man who's lucky enough to have the chance is not a sportsman on these cool, clear crisp October days?

Wildfowl are flying south—and testing the marksmanship of the most experienced gunners. "Bever Rabbit's" trail leads to real sport. Bob Whites, grouse and their families are apt to whir up from your feet most anywhere out of town. You bring back with you from your hunting trip far more than game. You bring back a clearer head and a lighter heart, a quicker eye and more pep for your work. Your trip makes you a better sportsman—and a better sportsman is a better man. Still, there's no danger of overlooking all the de-luscious dishes you enjoy. Just think: Venison, roast duck, quail on toast, stuffed goose, rabbit pot-pie! And never does food taste better than after a day spent in the open.

Remington Sportsmen's Week, October 13 to 18. Now that the hunting season is Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis gave high praise to Heinie Sand, shortstop for the Philadelphia Nationals, for exposing the attempt of "Jimmy" O'Connell, center fielder for the New York Giants, to give him $500 to throw a game and clinch the National League pennant for the Giants.

on, there's a lot of fun in getting ready for your next trip. That's why your dealer and Remington are co-operating to give you Remington Sportsmen's Week, October 13th to 18th—a chance for you to see what's what for hunting, camping and trapping. And the show is not held in New York or Chicago, but right in your store, here in your town.

So drop in, chat with your dealer. He likes to talk hunting, too. Take time to look things over—not just the Remington exhibit, but the hunting coats, cooking and camping outfits, auto kits, and so on. Why, there's a thrill in just seeing and handling all the outdoor equipment!

Spotsmen, hunters and trappers the wide nation over will be looking for hunting and trapping goods with down displays all during this great sportsmen's week. It's the ideal time to complete your fall and winter hunting and trapping equipment.

There's a wide variety of noteworthy things in the way of sporting goods on display in town. Far too many to mention here. But several of your reporter's friends have called his particular attention to the shells that are scientifically loaded to a uniform standard of pattern, penetration and velocity with moderate recoil—Remington Game Loads.

movies to the polo grounds to see the first local game of the series. It may have been the same thing that draws a crowd to the front steps of a house where a lady has just discontinued her husband or vice versa. It may have been the same force of custom which makes New Yorkers tip hat boys whose pockets are sewn shut. New York has been celebrating some part of a world series every fall for the last five years, you know. However, these are mere suggestions and if you know a better explanation go to it.

"One-Eyed Connelly," who cancelled several gate-crashing engagements in the middle west to decorate the series with his widening presence at no little risk and discomfort, has been inventing new stratagems ever since the series began in Washington but he is afraid that they may prove to have been wasted.

"I'm getting a bit too fat to ride in the Pullman battery boxes, any more," Mr. Connelly's statement said. "I had to use grease to get into the last one and the railroad cops had to blast to get me out. I got into the first Washington game by posing as a prominent cheer leader from Rahway, N. J. At the second game I'm a dramatic critic from Knoxville.

"For today's game I'll tell 'em I'm a pinch hitter from Raleigh. And if they toss this series out of the book after its all over, I'm wasting all that energy, of which I haven't any too much, being a very delicate man and unable to work, although I know you wouldn't think it to look at me. Do you happen to have a fairly substantial eating dollar about you?"

If Roger Peckinpaugh, the elderly shortstop of the Washington club, does not stable his Charley horse and return to the lineup, the Senators will soon be wrapping their tongues about them and retiring from the tabernacle. Peck mounted this troublesome steed at the beginning of the third inning. Bluegs moved over from third to short and was relieved by Ralph Miller, a chore hand with the blink of a catcher, who was mistaken for recruit and therefore encouraged on his job by the more charitable members of the attendance.

With the bases all choked with Washington runners the little-rotund Napoleon and on the Giant bench shifted his mental gears into high and did a little master-minding with the result that Ryan was invited to go and take a bath, Jonnard came on the run from the bull pen and after being well filled with the more than one and one half per cent brand of brilliant ideas that McGraw was distilling on the Bench pitched five times in Bluegs, four of the five efforts of Jonnard made were loudly denounced by Umpire Dineen as being plumb worthless and Bluegs walked forcing in a run.

At this point, Mr. McGraw had a fit of sympathy. He thought of Poor Ryan taking a bath all by himself in the lonesome clubhouse and broke right out in a rash pity. So strong was his emotion that he stopped the ball game right there, called Jonnard in off the field told him in a kindly way that he need not work any more that day and sent him to keep poor Ryan company under the showers.

Watson then went in for New York determined not to do any bathing until the last man was out. Miller was at bat. It was a novel experience for him. He has played in parts in four games this year and would have been permitted to stay on the bench where he feels at home throughout the series had not Peckinpaugh got himself a "charlie-horse" in the second inning being thereby forced to retire.

Miller No Recruit. Miller, however, is no recruit, although he may always be a rookie. Miller and the misfortune to come up to bat in the pinches. His first world series action was a sacrifice which scored a runner in the fourth inning.

In the first half of the ninth he walked into one of those situations which make an ace or a deuce of a man. There was only one out, a run had been forced in by Jonnard, the Giants relief pitcher, who had overcrowded the bases with a pass to Bluegs and Miller a lusterless ball player with a dismal past stood at the plate with the bases full, and his future before him.

A single might tie the score. A double might send the Senators to the lead or even win the game. Miller cut just under the hop of a swift ball, and chipped it as high as the roof of the stand for an out. Freddie Lindstrom, the Giants 19 year old third baseman, rickdoed the ball. Opportunity picked up her hammer and went her way, knocking on people's doors.

Both Use Subs At Third. Both teams are using the substitute at third, but the Giants have the better man in Lindstrom. Peck's withdrawal broke up the double play combination of Peck, Harris and Judge, and there were at least two mis-pitches in this game which probably would have been performed perfectly by the regulars Fred Marberry the Washington relief pitcher, who was sung in these dispatches when he pitched three balls and repulsed the Giants Sunday, was subjected to some very aggressive outting at the start of Monday's game. Bucky Harris, his manager kept him in there until the fifth, realizing that the only man he could send into relief, him were worse than Fred Jonnard's record in the 9th inning for the Giants was almost as short as Marberry's in Sunday's game. Marberry, however, struck out his man with three consecutive fast balls, retiring the side, while Jonnard pitched one strike and four balls to Bluegs forcing Harris with the Senators fourth run.

That was the finish of Jonnard and it will serve a similar purpose for this piece. Harris never had any experience in handling pitchers like some of the veteran managers who had gone

HARRIS INSTILLED NECESSARY P E P INTO SENATORS

By HENRY J. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6, (United Press).—Cases of personal magnetism and inspiring leadership have been common long in college football. Perhaps it is that a football captain has more opportunity to demonstrate the effect of his powers of leadership than a base ball captain or a hockey captain.

Mac Aldrich, captain of the Yale football team in 1922, was one of the greatest captains a great football university ever had. These have been others just as capable and as magnetic in other universities. Aldrich is just picked as a type.

When he led his team on the field in the huge Yale bowl there was something about him that made his presence felt in all of the stands. There was something about his spirit when he slapped the line-men of the backs as they were defending their goal line that chased them up and down the neck of the most blasé spectator.

Illinois never played last year like it did when Red Grange was in the back field and when the big opportunity arrived Grange went in and the team became inspired.

This may seem to have very little to do with the American League pennant race, but it had everything to do with the Washington Senators.

Young Buck Harris, twenty-eight years old, the most youthful manager in baseball put something into a promising club the lack of which had kept it from distinguishing itself.

When Harris was appointed manager of the club last winter it was breezed around the circuit that Clark Griffith named him because he couldn't get anyone else to take the job, that he could get Buck for a small salary and get Buck to do everything he told him.

It had been common talk that when Griffith had given up the active field management of the Senators to spend his time in the executive office, he still insisted upon having his say about the management of the team. He experimented more with managers than any other owner in the league and it was generally regarded that he never would have a winning team unless he ceased to interfere with the manager.

Griffith always denied this and he insisted that in naming young Harris to handle the team that he had only the purpose of appointing the best man fitted for the position.

In accepting what was looked upon as a thankless job with no chance to last more than a year, American league ball players sympathized with Harris. They thought the burden of management would hurt his game at second base and cut short his time in the major leagues.

Harris never had any experience in handling pitchers like some of the veteran managers who had gone through long service behind the bat and no one considered the possibility that he would be able to put out a contender for the championship.

Almost from the start the results of his youthful enthusiasm began to be manifested. Instead of being handicapped by the burden of management, his individual game at second base improved and he inspired the whole team.

The Cleveland Indians had failed to live up to pre-season expectations. The Boston Red Sox stepped out and then blew up. The St. Louis Browns had a spurt and then fell by the wayside and the Detroit Tigers were having a lot of trouble.

Right when the hard pressed New York Yankees were looking for a breathing spell and expecting a lull in the hostilities the Washington pitchers got going and the club mounted steadily to the top.

"They'll blow just like the Red Sox," it was said in New York. "They're playing over their heads and they can't last. They haven't the punch and their pitchers haven't the class."

But the Senators didn't blow. They continued to get the finest work from old Walter Johnson, Morgridge, Martina, Zahniser and Zachary and Goose Goslin and Sam Rice lead the attack with some of the finest hitting in the league.

When Joe Judge was hurt and had to be replaced at first base it was feared that it would have the same bad effect that Lu Bluegs injury had on the Detroit Tigers, but it just speeded up the team more with new spirit and a determination not to fall.

Much of the finest results that came from the pitchers was due to the brilliance of Maddy Ruel, the young former New York and Boston catcher. Ruel always had been regarded as a promising youngster, but he didn't hit his stride until this year and he ranks now as the best catcher by far in the American League and perhaps in baseball.

In Judge, Harris, the veteran Peckinpaugh and Bluegs, the Senators gave the fastest infield in baseball. No combination in the American or National League can handle the ball better or faster and compose more double plays than the inner defense of the Senators.

Rice and Goslin are the big works of the outfield. They are both powerful hitters, fine base runners and wide ranging fielders.

Continuance In Kuhn Breach Suit Granted by Judge

By United News.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—The "romance of a thousand letters" scheduled for revelation Monday in a breach of promise suit which Miss Hazel Page, an actress, is bringing against Robert H. Kuhn, vaudeville musician, will not get court attention this year.

Because Kuhn is at present touring on a theatrical engagement a continuance until June 1, 1925, was granted by Judge Doran.

Miss Page alleges Kuhn sent her more than 1,000 endearing messages, addressing her as "My love Mamma," "My Lover Girl" and other affectionate terms.

Kuhn, in his reply, has stated that there never was any engagement to marry and that the actress, although representing herself as 25 years of age, was "upwards of 40," at the time of their acquaintance.
