SENATORS AGAIN TIE SERIES WITH GIANTS

HARRIS' SINGLE SCORING 2 MEN PROVES WINNER

PECKINPAUGH GOES BACK BUT IS FORCED OUT IN EIGHTH INNING

By William Slavens McNut. WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Bucky Harris put his ball club back on the world series map in a prominent position in the fifth inning of the game Thursday when he got a hit that resulted in two runs. The Giants were leading at the time, 1 to 0. There were two out and two on. There were two strikes and three balls on the Washington manager.

Thousands See Second Game World Series

GENERAL VIEW OF SECOND GAME WORLD SERIES WITH ZACHARY OF WASHINGTON PECKINPAUGH GOING TO GROUND

Here is a view of a portion of the huge throngs which packed the Griffith Stadium in Washington for the second game of the World Series. Zachary, "southpaw" ace of the Senators, pitched to Gowdy, catcher for the Giants. The Senators won this exhibition, after losing the first, tying the series for the first time. Zachary repeated for a win Thursday in the sixth game of the series, again tying up matters, three-all. Judge Kenneth Mountain Landis, the Great of organized base ball is shown in the inset.

MEXICO LIFTS EMBARGO AFTER DIVIDING STATE INTO THREE ZONES TO REGULATE SHIPPING

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 9.—The Houston ship channel Thursday was opened again for export shipments to Mexico under a modification of the foot and mouth disease quarantine regulations of the Southern republic.

The embargo also was taken off the Galveston and Texas City ports.

The state under the new regulations, is divided into three zones. Zone one includes Harris and Galveston counties entirely and parts of Ft. Bend and Brazoria counties.

All merchandise from this zone except animals, animal products, furs, feeds, vegetables, trees, bushes, plants, and foodstuffs, can be shipped into Mexico. Passengers must be disinfected at the border.

Zone two includes the central and eastern part of the state. All sorts of merchandise can pass from this zone except animals and animal products. Only the outside of passenger cars must be disinfected at the border.

Zone three includes the better part of the western section of Texas. All shipments from this section can pass, but must be accompanied by the affidavit that they did not come from either of the other two zones.

The provisions of the state quarantine law of the extreme southern counties is free of all restriction.

No new cases of the cattle disease have been discovered lately. Killing of those cattle infected will be cleared up by tomorrow. After that the federal forces will settle down to a period of "watchful waiting."

HISTORY OF WAR GIVEN LIBRARY

COMPLETE HISTORY IN 7 VOLUMES DONATED BY LEGION POST HERE

One of the most valuable additions which have been made to the Public Library of Lubbock for a long time was made yesterday by Allen Brothers, Fort No. 113 of the American Legion. This was a set of seven volumes bound in full leather containing a complete record of the Great War taken from government archives and other sources, including secret documents, hitherto unpublished. The Army and Navy Journal has the following to say of these volumes: "The most concise, unbiased and authentic record of the significant events leading up to the war and all the important engagements on land and sea, during the war and the subsequent negotiations, is here presented in a series of seven volumes. The material information found in these volumes was collected by the United States Government, and the American Legion over the entire country has announced its endorsement of this work and has acted as one of its chief objectives, the dissemination among our people of accurate historical data. On the fly leaf of the first of the seven volumes there is a dedication to Phillip Allen and Roland Allen, brothers, who were killed in action near the French town of St. Etienne during the Meuse-Argonne offensive. These two boys entered the army from Lubbock county and were both killed on the same day, October 8, 1918. The local post is to be highly complimentary for its meritorious action in submitting these seven volumes to the public through the medium of the Public Library. This gift comes at a singularly opportune time in view of the fact that Armistice Day, Nov. 11, is but a short time away. Any of the volumes will serve to remind the people of Lubbock of the sacrifices that were made during the critical period of the Great War. Officials of the local post of the Legion do not at this time have any further announcement of a patriotic celebration on Armistice Day but it is understood they expect to cooperate in the ceremonies attendant upon the laying of the corner-stone of the Texas Technological College that have been scheduled for Armistice Day.

EXPENSE PROBE TO START SOON

BORAH QUILTS CAMPAIGN AND CALLS COMMITTEE INTO SESSION

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 9.—Whether or not Senator La Follette will be called to explain further his charge of "cash" campaign fund corruption will depend on the action of the senate investigating committee, when it meets in Chicago in the near future. Senator W. E. Borah, chairman, stated tonight at his home here.

Plans for the probe and the calling of witnesses, Senator La Follette or any others, will be up to the committee, said the Idaho senator.

Senator Borah is now endeavoring to find out from the members of the committee what suitable date could be decided upon for holding the meeting in Chicago. So far, he said, he has only had a reply from one member.

The Idaho senator stated he has suspended his campaign and would devote the rest of his time to the committee's duties. He declared campaign funds and expenditures of all three parties would be investigated at the meeting.

La Follette Renews Charge DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 9.—Senator Robert M. La Follette renewed and enlarged upon his charges that a huge slush fund was being raised by the republican party to "buy" the election for President Coolidge in doubtful states, in an address here Thursday night.

La Follette declared that Wm. M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee would be compelled to answer all questions regarding the sources and amounts of campaign contributions when the senate investigation committee, headed by Senator Borah, summoned him.

"That committee is not a white-washing committee," La Follette said.

La Follette then launched into a diatribe of the Newberry case, because, he explained, he was in Newberry's home state. He endorsed the candidacy of Senator Cresent of Michigan.

By THOMAS L. STOKES. WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The new machinery created 25 years ago for campaign contributions will not have its first opportunity to function on the eve of a presidential election as a result of the charges of slush fund buried at the renouveau by Senator La Follette, and the answer.

SHENANDOAH SIGHTED OVER EL PASO AT 11:25 THURSDAY NIGHT; PINNACLE OF THE ROCKIES EXPECTED TO BE SEVEREST TEST

ON BOARD THE U. S. N. SHENANDOAH, Oct. 9.—(By Radio to United News)

Heading straight into the setting sun, which was dropping behind a crimson horizon fifty miles away, the Shenandoah crossed the last hundred miles of the Texas plains Thursday night and the long, steady climb to the Rockies began. The Pecos river was passed at 7:50 p. m.

Crossing the lofty pinnacles of the Rock Mountains is expected to prove the severest test of the nine thousand mile cruise across the continent.

At a speed with which the craft was approaching El Paso, and the Mexican border at midnight, Tucson, Ariz., should be reached near dawn Friday.

The course is as charted by Lt. Commander Zachary Lansdowne skipper of the ship, is straight as the crow flies from Tucson to Yuma. If wind and weather are good, the course will continue straight over the mountains. If the headwinds are too strong it will be necessary to detour several hundred miles to the mountain pass north of the Saltton Sea and to follow the coast south to San Diego.

Over Ranger At 12:45. ON BOARD THE U. S. N. SHENANDOAH, Oct. 9.—Hundreds of workers around Black oil springs and tanks started up at the Shenandoah sailed over the authority of Ranger, Texas, at 12:45 Thursday afternoon.

The ship was flying at an altitude of 2,500 feet. Thin white mist trailed up from the plains where refinery whistles were being blown.

Passed Sweetwater At 3:15. SWEETWATER, Oct. 9.—The dirigible Shenandoah passed over at 3:15 p. m. on mountain time. Sweetwater is 250 miles west of Fort Worth.

The Shenandoah is following the route of the Texas Pacific to El Paso.

Seen At Big Springs At 5:45. BIG SPRINGS, Texas, Oct. 9.—Having covered half the distance between Fort Worth and El Paso, the U. S. Dirigible Shenandoah was sighted over Big Springs, Texas, Thursday at 5:45 mountain time.

Passed Monahans At 7:10. MONAHANS, Texas, Oct. 9.—At 7:10 mountain time, Thursday night, the big navy dirigible Shenandoah flew over Monahans, en route to El Paso. El Paso is 252 miles west of this point.

M'DONALD OPENS FIGHT ON ENEMIES IN CAMPAIGN FOR RE-ELECTION

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Less than twenty-four hours after the spectacular defeat of England's first labor government, the king's speech dissolving parliament had been read in the house of lords, the commons had taken its final adjournment and Premier Ramsay MacDonald had begun work on the opposition benches, which "kicked him out" in office in the first election speech of the campaign.

The procedure of dissolving parliament was completed late Tuesday night when the king signed a proclamation of dissolution.

England will go to the polls on Oct. 25 to register public opinion by a majority government. MacDonald announced the date of the election in a statement to commons following a conference with the king in which royal assent was obtained for a dissolution of parliament and a general election.

Parliament will reassemble on October 31. The premier suggested that the new parliament meet one week or a fortnight after the election which would have consigned the labor party in nominal power for another five weeks, but the commons decided to enforce the decision of the electorate at the earliest possible moment. When parliament reconvenes the political complexion of the new commons will determine whether the laborites shall continue in office or make way for the conservatives. The labor party is not expected to gain in the party alignments of the new house.

MacDonald conferred with King George at Buckingham Palace for nearly an hour Thursday afternoon and returned at once to Downing street to advise his cabinet.

When the house met at 3 p. m. the premier briefly announced that the king had consented to the dissolution. Every bench in the chamber was occupied, but the members were thoroughly calm in contrast to their exuberant session of the night before when the labor government fell.

MacDonald's followers raised a cheer as he took his place on the treasury bench. Before the annual labor party conference, which is in session here, MacDonald made his first speech of the campaign.

SCHOOL BOARD CALLS BOND ISSUE VOTE AT LAMESA

LAMESA, Oct. 9.—The board of trustees have ordered an election to be held on Oct. 20th, for the purpose of voting $25,000.00 in additional bonds. The money to be derived from these bonds will be used to complete and furnish the new high school building now under construction.

A total amount of $131,000.00 was made available several months ago for the erection of this building, but since that time it has been found necessary to add new features to the building, in order to care for the increasing enrollment in population of this district.

Should the contemplated bond issue carry and the money be used for building, the new high school will have cost $156,000.00. Several grades of the school are being housed in the church buildings of the town, awaiting the completion of the new building. The $75,000.00 building erected three years ago being inadequate to care for the entire enrollment at this time.

FIRE SWEEPS CONROE LUMBER FIRM FOR $500,000 LOSS

CONROE, Tex., Oct. 9.—Flames which broke out at the Delta Lumber and Timber company here about 8 a. m. and raged all day, were under control tonight.

The damage will amount to around $400,000, A. E. Hickerson, manager, estimated.

One million feet of lumber went up in flames, he said. It was worth $25 a thousand feet. Sheds and buildings destroyed were worth around $250,000.

Approximately 250 men poured water on the flames this afternoon. The water supply, pumped from a nearby lake, held up well.

The fire started from hot gas in a dry kiln. When the kilns were unloading this morning the hot gas escaped out of the pipes floating towards the ceiling, igniting it, Hickerson said.

METHODIST CHURCH AT LAMESA IS TO COST $65,000

LAMESA, Oct. 9.—The official board of the Methodist church of Lamesa, have voted to build a new church building to cost not less than $65,000. No definite plans as to the style of the building or the material to be used have been made. The building will be constructed of fire-proof material and will be arranged to care for all departments of the rapidly growing congregation. It is hoped by those in charge to have actual construction under way by the first of the new year. No difficulty is looked for in securing all necessary finance to erect and furnish the structure. Rev. J. W. Watson formerly of Rotan, is pastor of this church.

HEMPHILL-PRICE TO OPEN NEW STORE BUILDING TODAY

When a member of the Avalanche force visited the Hemphill-Price store, which has been moved from its location at the corner of Broadway and Avenue I into the Spencer-Lewis building on Avenue J between Broadway and 13th street, we were surprised to find the large stock well arranged, and looking as though everything was ready for the buying public to be invited in.

Spencer Wells stated that the big store will be opened for business at noon today.

The Spencer-Lewis building, which was erected especially for the accommodation of the Hemphill-Price store, is indeed one of the most attractive mercantile buildings in the city.

One is immediately attracted by the neat appearing Arcade front, with the new fixtures for the show-windows giving splendid opportunity for display of the fine goods where emphasis of styles is desired.

Two thousand dollars have been spent by the company in providing new fixtures for the large store, all additions to the company's already attractive equipment having been made to harmonize in color and makeup with the furnishings, and these additions have been made with special attention given for conveniences that will tend to aid in giving good service to patrons in every department.

The ready-to-wear department has been arranged in the balcony, where double the amount of space that was provided in the former location permits many additions to be made to this already well cared for feature of the company's business.

Private dressing rooms and an elegantly furnished rest room are features in this department that will be appreciated by patrons.

The shoe department is no exception among these that have been enlarged and modernized in the new location, the latest equipment having been installed in the way of shelving and fitting spaces, where the most possible number of shoes can be kept at easy reach of all clerks. The expertness with which this department has been arranged will attract the least observant.

The Hemphill-Price company has developed a large trade for all departments of its big store, and in the new Spencer-Lewis building this additional space has been provided for the piece goods and general dry goods department as to enable the company to materially increase their stocks in this line.

In addition to being steam-heated, the spacious, new home of the company furnishes ample natural light, however, old sol is not depended on by the alert management who realizes that cloudy days and the subsequent lack of light in large stores have their disadvantages, and twelve beautiful electric ceiling lamps will be appreciated during such times. These lamps are so arranged as to reflect a soft light into every nook and corner of the big building.

The offices are placed in a small balcony at the front of the store, from where a view of every department of the store can be gained. This will enable the store executives to see that patrons in every department are waited upon promptly, and through close observation can determine any need of additional help in any section or department of the store.

"We want to give our patrons even better service than was afforded in our former location if such is at all possible," Mr. Wells said.

A private branch telephone exchange with a phone in every department will be installed. The convenience of this system with banks for greater efficiency in handling telephone orders or any of the other uses to which a well regulated telephone system might be placed.

Wednesday afternoon. He bitterly denounced the opposition parties for precipitating an election at this time. With his usual grace and eloquence he promised a final fight.

"They have turned the people's government out on a trumped-up issue," he said. "We can deal with them, but we cannot deal with numbers. Two plus two equal four even though they be asses."

MacDonald was referring to the fact that the laborites are far outnumbered in the commons.

Politicians of every faith are hurrying to their constituencies to represent the expensive process of a parliamentary campaign, the third in as many years for most of them.

Before adjourning the commons members filed into the house of lords to hear the king's speech of proroguing parliament. It was read by the lord chancellor and the contents as is the custom were the sentiments of the retiring government.

"We believe that the Dawes plan will contribute largely to the restoration of international commerce upon which the material prosperity of this country so largely depends," the king declared.

Further along the hope was expressed that the recently concluded security, disarmament, and arbitration protocol of the league of nations would prepare the way for lower taxation in all countries.

Referring to the restoration of intercourse between England and Russia, the speech described the Anglo-Russian treaty as "designed to re-establish political and commercial relations which is a necessary element in the pacification and economic restoration of Europe."

W. M. Forrey, well known local man and who was for a time identified with the Simmons Furniture Company before it was taken over by the Baker Furniture Company, has accepted a position with the Rix Furniture & Undertaking Company. Mr. Forrey has many friends throughout the Lubbock Trade ter-

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calobals, the nasobuccal Calobal tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calobal, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calobals at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasures. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calobals are sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the commonest cold, thirty-five cents for the more severe family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists. Your money back if you are not delighted—ads.

"BROKEN OUT" FACES ARE NOT IN STYLE

The girls who can't wear clothes which are in style because they have eczema, rash, tetter, scrofula or a "breaking out" where it would show are more to be scolded than pitied, because there is no need for them to be unattractive in out-of-style dresses when they can get rid of these skin troubles so easily now.

Black and White Ointment, and Soap, are surprising thousands of girls who have had to deny themselves the attention which more attractive girls get, because they quickly remove all trace of these skin troubles.

They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.

CHARGES OF LA FOLLETTE CALL HALT IN CAMPAIGN DONATIONS; HIS TACTICS MAY INITIATE NEW METHOD RAISING FINANCE

By RAYMOND CLAPPER.
 NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Senator LaFollette has given another boost to the desire for some new way of financing presidential campaigns. This desire has been growing among political managers of all parties as they have struggled with the embarrassing short-change financing made necessary by conditions this year.

The independent candidates charge that republicans are raising a slush fund to use in doubtful western states, whether true or not, has suddenly shut off money raising activities just as effectively as if it were true. Those who usually contribute in large amounts to various funds, often splitting their money between both old parties, are afraid to give this time. They remember what happened to Sinclair and Doherty and they feel they have a good reason for excusing themselves when party money collectors call this year. LaFollette's new charge intensified this reluctance and also makes party managers wary of resorting to the usual paymaster tactics which are common to both old parties.

New Finance Plan Likely

There was much agitation in the last session of congress for stricter federal regulation of campaign contributions. Various plans will be advanced in the next session. There will be a proposal to create a federal elections commission to supervise presidential campaign activities. Senator Borah's special committee is serving in this capacity now.

The committee is supposed to receive frequent statements of receipts and expenditures from all campaign organizations. There will also be a revival of Roosevelt's proposal to finance presidential campaigns out of the federal treasury.

Borah's committee will investigate the whole question and draft a new corrupt practices code for the next session of congress.

The old game of financing campaigns through gifts from persons who expect jobs or favors does not work. James W. Gerard, democratic treasurer has been unable to raise the expected funds. Davis and some of his wealthy friends have had to bear an unusually heavy share of the burden. Five dollar membership fees from the victory clubs have been a principal source of democratic revenue.

LaFollette Short of Finance.

LaFollette is running from hand to mouth. He even stays on his feet when stopping over between speeches to save hotel bills.

He explains that he cannot go west of St. Louis on his contemplated Pacific coast trip until more money is obtained.

Republicans normally are well financed. But not so this year. In states like Indiana, party leaders have reached a desperate state. Some of them have appealed frantically to outside leaders for assistance. Those appeals were responsible for the attempt of Pennsylvania leaders to get appropriations from the Mellon and Storerbury fortunes.

LaFollette has given the other parties an idea by his success in charging admission to his meetings. Thousands of working people paid $1 each to hear his Newark speech. Several thousand paid theatre prices to get into Madison Square Garden to hear him. This system also offers party bosses a good method of obtaining contributions from party workers who are not reached through the customary touch made on job holders. LaFollette is attempting to make a sensation out of the rumor that republicans were gathering up large sums from rich easterners to spend in doubtful western states. The attack coming on top of the scandals involving Sinclair, and Doherty, who gave alike to both old parties is placing such practices in bad repute.

The most significant thing is that hard-boiled political managers from motives of self-interest are coming to favor the reform.

ing challenge from the administration camp that the independent candidate prove his charge.

The situation has come to a head with the announcement that Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman, has called a meeting in Chicago, his headquarters, of the special senatorial committee appointed during the last session of congress to watch campaign finances. Borah has cancelled speaking engagements in Idaho and the investigation should be under way by next week.

The committee is composed of two republicans, Borah and Jones, of Washington; two democrats, Cawsey of Arkansas and Bayard, of Delaware, and one farmer-labor member, Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, who gives the control of the committee, virtually to the democrats, as Shipstead was continually at odds with the administration last session and voted with the democrats on many issues. Borah is well known for his independence and Jones is some times listed in the larger circle of "progressives" and has not followed the administration any too closely.

The committee, which has "hard boiled characteristics" is the one which will probe the charges of Senator LaFollette who incidentally introduced the resolution which created this machinery something entirely new in American politics.

The challenge of the republicans came Thursday from James A. Good, former member of congress from Iowa, and manager of the Chicago republican headquarters in the pre-convention campaign after he had conferred with President Coolidge at the white house.

"The demand of Senator LaFollette for an inquiry into campaign expenditures should be immediately acted upon by Senator Borah," Good said. "He should call Senator LaFollette before the committee and ask him to make a statement of his charges under oath. If it is found that he knows nothing he should be branded as the courts brand men who make reckless and false charges."

D. N. Leaverton Building Home for Scott Company

Local contractors are always on the alert for the betterment of Lubbock, and when D. N. Leaverton saw an opening for one more modern brick business house here he didn't wait for someone to hire him to build it.

He is building a modern brick home on east Broadway for the Scott Tire Company, which will be completed within a month, splendid progress having been made in building the structure.

A modern drive-in filling station is being arranged for and this will be one of the ideally located tire and accessory shops to be found in the city.

Mr. Leaverton has built a number of homes and business houses here, all of which are of the most substantial character and will remain intact for many years as a monument to his building ability.

Grocery and Meat Store to Occupy Lub-Tex Building

N. A. Narbon, formerly of Amarillo and who for a number of years has been manager of a line of eight grocery stores, has taken a ten year lease on the brick building at the corner of Main and Madison Square Garden to hear him. The Lub-Tex Motor company, where he will establish a modern grocery store and meat market.

The building will be remodeled throughout, and the business to be placed therein will be one of the first class stores of the plains.

The Lub-Tex Motor company will occupy the building at the corner of Broadway and Ave. H. that is under construction, and which is being built by J. A. Hodges, of Lubbock.

The new grocery store and meat market will open for business on or about December 1st, it was stated by Mr. Narbon.

BIG COTTON FIRM IS TO OCCUPY PART WEAVER BLDG.

H. & B. Beer, one of the largest firms of cotton brokers in this country, have rented a space in the Star Mercantile Company building owned by A. V. Weaver and which is located at the corner of 13th street and Avenue I, which the firm will occupy in the near future.

Mr. Weaver bought the lease on the building from W. S. Hodges, owner of the Star Mercantile Company, who is distributing the large stocks of the mercantile establishment among his other stores in the city.

The large building will be subdivided—several businesses will replace the Star Mercantile.

FORD DEALERS' NEW HOME IS NEARING COMPLETION

D. N. Leaverton, well known local builder, stated Thursday that work on the Lubbock Auto Company's new building on Avenue I, across the street from the Lubbock Inn will be completed and the building can be occupied within two weeks.

Mr. Leaverton started work on the building on the first of last month, and despite a shortage of material that delayed work for a few days, has made record time in completing the structure.

The Lubbock Auto Company is one of the fast growing institutions of the South Plains, and when located in the new home will be even better prepared to take care of their business than at this time.

Sammons to Build Business Home on Broadway Soon

P. H. Sammons, well known local real estate man, is completing plans for the erection of a modern two-story mercantile building on Main street adjoining the Montgomery property on the west.

This will be one of the most substantial and expensive structures in that section of the city, will be 59 by 125 feet, with all modern conveniences.

Mr. Sammons has not stated what kind of business will be located in the structure when it has been completed.

He expects to let the contract for the construction of the building late this week.

A GOOD HOTEL IS CIVIC ASSET

One of the greatest improvements in West Texas during the past decade has been the quality and number of hotels that serve the residents and the travelers in that region.

When prohibition began to appear certain Americans were told that it would be the end of the hotel business, that the hotels would go bankrupt, that it was impossible to operate a hotel without a bar, that hotels would stand empty and that no one would finance new ones.

How different has been the actuality from the mournful predictions of the apologists of woe! There never was a time when more magnificent and more comfortable hotels were being erected than in the post-Eighteenth Amendment era and there never was a time when the hotels were doing so much business.

The cities and towns of west Texas which have built modern hotels find that they pay civic dividends over and over, as well as the cash dividends they pay to stockholders. They are veritable community centers, they are meeting places for civic organizations, they attract traveling men and tourists, and bring business and residents to a town.

The West Texas communities which do not have up-to-date hotels ought to cast their eyes about them and see what has come to the cities and towns which have made the investment or persuaded private individuals to come in and build or improve hotels.

A good hotel is a good investment for any town and the people ought to make it possible for a hotel manager to give them a real hospitality. Let those who do not think that a town without a good hotel is handicapped read the frank comments in some of the best automobile road guides. Then they will see why cars roll through their towns without stopping and make for the towns with "recommended" hotels.—Fort Worth Record.

The hotel subject is one that has yet been unsolved in Lubbock, and it is one of the crying needs. The fact that Lubbock has not sufficient hotel facilities is the cause for many of the big meetings in connection with West Texas propositions being held in other places, when they should be held in Lubbock.

The Tech meetings could all just as well be held in Lubbock if there were hotel accommodations here for the members of the board and other people connected with it.

Thirty-five or forty traveling men would make this their stopping place every day if there were assurances that they would be able to get hotel accommodations here. Many people make arrangements to stay in Plainview and other places over night and make Lubbock during the day because of the fact that there is a probability of not being able to secure a room at the hotels if they come into the city late.

Train conductors carry this news, and they do not do so through any unfriendly feeling toward the town, but they simply know the conditions, and through a kindly feeling for their fellow passengers they give this information out. Lubbock will have to put up from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars either in cash bonuses or stock if we get a hotel of the kind we need and want, and we might just as well get down to brass tacks and get up this amount and let the people know about it, and we will have a hotel in six or eight months, but we will never get one to come and build it without the aid of local people.

SIGNIFICANT CONTRASTS

No person can follow the campaign utterances of John W. Davis and of Calvin Coolidge without observing the contrast in definiteness between the two men. Where the latter is vague, the former is distinct. Where Mr. Coolidge is general, Mr. Davis is specific. Where the republican is hesitant, the democrat is positive. This contrast is perceptible not only in matters of free speech and religious freedom and other domestic matters, but especially is it true with respect to foreign policies.

Addressing soldiers in Washington, October 4, Mr. Coolidge unleashed this meandering dictum on foreign policy: "We wish to recognize the requirements for the promotion of peace. War and destruction are unnatural, peace and progress are natural. It is in that direction the people of the earth must move." Contrast that with the following clear-cut view of Mr. Davis in New York after he had disclosed that even though President Harding's limitation of armament conference had fixed the naval ratio of Great Britain five; United States five and Japan, three, the administration in Washington "has permitted our nation to sink, not only below the British, but almost to the level of the Japanese, that we were not better than five, four and three at the best." Then this: "Now, I am for disarmament. I would love to see it. I would love to see a world-wide conference on disarmament; not a prolonged conference; not a conference between a selected group of nations born out of jealousy; not a conference dealing with one particular engine of war, but a conference dealing with all. And if I am elected president of the United States and a general disarmament meets in June, 1925, the United States will be there."

No doubt or mystery envelops that statement. It is a precise declaration of what Mr. Davis would do in this matter if he were president. There would be no pussyfooting on a great movement designed to give America its proper place at the family of nations and see to it that nothing was put over on Uncle Sam, or that he would hesitate to get back of any movement for the betterment of the world. This sort of thing has been refreshingly typical of Mr. Davis' utterances. It has been lamentably lacking from those of Mr. Coolidge. This difference in directness and forcefulness emphasizing the two men. Should Mr. Coolidge be elected, what would the foreign policy of the nation be? Would we continue to hold aloof, dispatching "key-hole observers" to great world conferences, standing by while the world moves forward to limiting armaments, taking no part in that vital step of regulating the sale of munitions, waking up in world crises only at the gush of oil, trying to find security in a mythical solution?

What has Mr. Coolidge and his party to offer? The nation knows what Mr. Davis and the Democratic party recommends. It knows there will be no side-stepping the country's international opportunity and obligation. Mr. Davis is making that plain day after day. Mr. Coolidge is wrapping about his candidacy the mantle of generalities, the platitudes of the school room, the claim of common honesty, which Secretary Hughes concedes is common to all parties because it is common to America. The American people this year want plain speaking. Mr. Davis is giving it; Mr. Coolidge is not.

NEW RAILROAD

The prospect of another railroad through Lubbock in the near future were greatly increased with the incorporation of the Roswell, Lubbock, Memphis Short Line Company at Austin Monday.

This new company, whose purpose is to build two hundred and twenty-seven miles of railroad line from Wellington in Collingworth county to a point near the center of Cochran county will use the old railroad grade built by Edd Kennedy some twelve years ago, between Lubbock and Wellington.

Just whether this railroad proposes to connect up with the present proposition being fostered by J. A. Wilson to build into Cochran county could not be learned.

The Attorney General's department approved the incorporation papers of the new company with a capital stock of $250,000.00. The directors of the new line are prominent Houston men, most of whom have been identified with railroad construction in the state. Carey Shaw is a well-known ex-banker. The other members of the board of directors are Clifford Grunwald, E. C. Noble and C. F. Stevens.

The routing of this railroad will pass through Wellington, Memphis, Silvertown, Floydada, Petersburg to Lubbock. It will connect by a direct route to this city the best as well as the most fully developed portion of West Texas. To the west of us it will traverse the rapidly developing sections of Hockley and Cochran counties and will probably be built into Roswell, New Mexico, as that city is reputed to be holding out a hundred thousand dollar offer for it to come to them.

Just what connection, if any, exists between our present railroad activities and the proposition just chartered by the state can not be learned as Mr. Wilson is not in the city. The development on the Wilson proposition has advanced to a point where some two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars bonus of a required five hundred thousand has already been signed. The work of getting the other signatures, mainly from the large land owners to the west of us is going on with some progress at this time although complaints have been made that some of the land holders are a bit slow in signing.

The old railroad grade which the newly organized company has taken over was built through Lubbock county at a cost of $52,000.00 to our town and community and it represents a considerable contribution to the new proposition.

Lubbock will be the largest city as well as the major jobbing center on the entire line and its building would be of inestimable benefit to us.

Slaughtered to make an American holiday—Jimmy Murphy, Joe Boyer, Dario Resta and nearly a dozen others victims of automobile speedway racing in the good year 1924. Take away the probability—almost certainty—that one or more drivers will be killed or maimed, and speedway racing is a tame sport. The prospect of witnessing a tragedy is what draws the crowds. Has not civilization advanced far enough to frown on this "dare-devil" stuff?

Woodrow Wilson once declared: "I do know that the United States, in its judicial procedure is many decades behind every civilized government in the world; and I say that it is an immediate and imperative call upon us to rectify that, because the speediness of justice, the inexpensiveness of justice, the ready access of justice, is the greater part of justice itself."

Scientists are still puzzled over the location of the original Garden of Eden, a matter already settled in the mind of practically any chamber of commerce secretary.

If Secretary Wilbur will settle down to work in Washington for awhile and let the party campaign management write his speeches, all will be forgiven.

Commenting on the round the world flight, a pastor remarked: "Our future is in the air." Politically much of it is there at present.

No Republican presidential candidate is stronger than his party's purse.

R. A. SOWDER IS CHAIRMAN OF STADIUM DRIVE IN LUBBOCK COUNTY FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS STADIUM

AUSTIN, Texas, October 9.—R. A. Sowder, of Lubbock, has been appointed chairman for the Lubbock district in the fall phase of the campaign to raise additional funds with which to complete the west stands in the Texas Memorial Stadium, now being erected on the campus of the University of Texas. This additional construction will enable the stadium builders to install the memorial features of the structure, it was announced. The campaign will start in the immediate future, it was said. The fall phase of this campaign is expected to bring in $200,000, a sum that will provide ample funds for the completion of the work contemplated at this time, said William J. McGill, chairman of the campaign in speaking of this project. The effect of this fall will be centered in the smaller towns of the state, said McGill because there where the great majority of the ex-students of the University reside. Prominent civic leaders in the leading town of each district are being asked to head this movement to erect the first state-wide memorial to Texas' fighters. These chairmen will be charged with the work in their district and will set up organizations to carry out their plans, said McGill. Follow-up work will also be done in the larger cities and a committee of prominent ex-students and friends of the University will be secured to aid in the campaigns where their aid is requested. "It is our intention to give every man and woman in Texas a chance to get in on this first state-wide memorial to our fighters," declared McGill, "because we think a state-wide memorial should be done. We do not want anyone to feel that this is strictly a University of Texas proposition; it is broader than any school, it is as broad as our state. For this reason we are instructing all chairmen to tell their constituents not to refuse any donation, no matter how small; for we have found that one dollar from many persons means more to them, and is given with a better spirit, than one hundred dollars from others more fortunate."

COPY OF POEM PERTAINING TO SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

Below is found a poem written by the Cow Girl. Its title is The South Plains Fair. The author of this poem is unknown, but nevertheless the Avalanche takes pleasure in publishing it. THE SOUTH PLAINS FAIR Well, well, we were all there; And every year had a car. There wasn't room on the ground, The whole show was swivel, And every wop had his girl. The round-up sure made a killing, With fifty thousand folks a million, Lubbock gave us all we need. Oh, it was a great stampede. And each and every puncher said: "The very best time I ever had. And we will go back every year. If it takes the price of every sheep, To Lubbock, the Hub of the Plains. The big horse quarter of the range? Tell your folks and all your friends, Here is where the west began. How many folks do you think were there? On the ground, and in the air; If a cow girl's guess you'll mind, There were sixty thousand and ninety nine."

P. O. Building is Now Well Under Construction

John Gelin, building contractor who has started construction work on the post office building for J. A. Hodges, has completed the foundation and brickwork will be started today. The construction of this building and the lease made out by the government to be used as a post office has been an effective stimulant to building along Broadway, Main and other streets in that section of the city.

WILL MAKE PERSONAL CALL AT LUBBOCK HOMES

Beginning next Monday morning we expect to make a call at the home of every citizen of Lubbock who is not a regular subscriber to the Lubbock Morning Avalanche and extend to them individually a personal invitation to enroll as a regular reader of our morning paper. We will canvass the city avenues and streets one at a time. This is going to require several days hard work but we feel sure that by so doing we can put numerous new names on our carrier lists. It is our aim and purpose to put a copy of the Daily Morning Avalanche into every home in Lubbock and we have about completed the work of checking off the homes of all who are members of the Avalanche family and on Monday, October 13th, we shall call at all homes on some certain street or avenue in Lubbock and solicit your subscription and co-operation in making the Daily Morning Avalanche circulation in the city 100 per cent.

The Avalanche Publishing Co. is owned and controlled by Lubbock citizens, and a majority of its employees are city, county and state tax payers, who at all times contribute of their time and means for the upbuilding of Lubbock educationally, spiritually and financially.

The Morning Avalanche has full United Press and United News telex wires into its own editorial rooms. On the same wire with the Dallas News and other large state daily newspapers. The same news, but six to twelve hours earlier in your home. We serve the citizens of Lubbock and the South Plains with fresh news while it is hot off the wires. If it is worthwhile you read it in the Avalanche before breakfast, not after dinner.

We will call at your home during next week. Yours truly, Circulation Manager.

WASHINGTON WINS TOSS FOR EXTRA GAME WORLD SERIES; BOTH CLUBS SUFFER FROM CRIPPLED ATHLETES ON EVE FINAL GAME

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The qualifying round of the world series between the Senators and the Giants has now been disposed of, and the teams will meet Friday afternoon in Clark Griffith's shrunken garden to decide the championship at match play, one flop to determine the winner. Inasmuch as it is now the Giants' turn to win in the orderly rotation of victories, the New York club may be regarded as the probable floppers and the Senators as the flopped, but so many strange things have been happening in baseball of late that this schedule may be revised without notice.

Although a large delegation of Washington Indians accompanied the capital's team to the polo grounds and tuned an ear to the cynical ribaldry of the New York crowd which does not believe in Santa Claus, Ban B. Johnson or Judge Landis, the people of this town are still guardians of the baseball faith and are taking the series as solemnly as the victim takes a hanging. The citizenry insists on brooding over the passing of Walter Johnson as a civic tragedy, conveniently forgetting the many seasons in which Johnson tallied his arm away with no quorum present in the stands. The scene suggests the heirs of late, neglected uncle, sitting around the parlor, listening to the reading of the will and blubbering "poor old uncle, I was the only one who stood by him."

Johnson-Witnesser Victory
Johnson was present at the ball yard Thursday when the Senators beat the Giants 2 to 1 and smoothed out the series once more, but a delicate dramatic sense bade the dignified Norse to withhold himself from the field. Walter came up to the first step of the dugout a couple of times wrapped in his old gray sweater jacket and crunched on a bat at the edge of the shadow, but he realized that he had been lovingly tapped on the countenance with a spade at the burying party in New York and that it would be unseemly of the corpse to get out and toss a ball around within 24-hours after the obsequies.

Judge Landis was present as usual, chinning himself, as usual, on the rim of his field box, and oscillating his long cigar as he swept the field with his chilly gray gaze. This pose is a very difficult one to maintain through nine innings of ball, but many would be willing to hold it for the day involved.

Coolidge Calls Time Out.
President Coolidge also wrangled a day off, and the thirty some thousand customers found it easy to keep cool with him for the day was just the least bit nippy and many a weedy, one suspects, was imbibed under cover of enfolding top coats. After all, there was no reason for keeping positively chilly with Coolidge. The president, by the way, revealed when he took off his hat during the playing of the National anthem the hitherto unpublished fact that he is a red-head, which is heretofore reported exclusively.

When Bucky Harris waited for a count of three and two in the fifth inning and knocked in the tying and winning runs with a single to right field after two were out, President Coolidge saved his hands and his voice for the handshaking and oratorical duties of his office and the current campaign. He is one who takes his baseball delights inwardly without shrilling or palming-off. During the first game when the home club tied the score in the ninth inning, his hysteria was expressed by a gentle tapping of his right finger tips against his left palm. Mrs. Coolidge, however, has come up sharply on both of these big moments and lent her voice to the cheering of Washington.

Peckinpough Back In
Roger Peckinpough, the Senator's shortstop, disoriented from his Charley Horse and returned to the game, relieving the unfortunate Ralph Miller, a bush league shortstop, who was tossed into the commotion during the play at the polo grounds. This restored the symmetry of the infield and the efficiency of the best double play combination in baseball, the team of Peckinpough and Harris. Blevins went back to third base and Miller was allowed to withdraw, with a miserable fielding record, but with great honor nevertheless for he knew he was no world series player and only took the job because he had too much courage to dodge it. They are whispering in the hotel lobbies now that another player on the team, a better infielder than Miller, was afraid he might be called on to make his errors at third and perhaps to take the responsibility for losing the series, and took steps to avoid the ordeal.

Any way, this Miller, a throw away from the Philadelphia Nationals, the humblest club in organized baseball, went to third and made plenty of errors, but never let anyone forget that he was always trying at a job for which he had no more capacity than any customer in the stands.

Peck Collapses on Field.
Peckinpough twisted his loose leg in the ninth inning in fielding a hit just back of second base and the pain was so sharp that he was sickened and had to be carried off the field. In the same play, Joe Judge at first, was shot in the solar plexus by Stanley Harris' throw from second and went to the turf cowering and kicking like a prize fighter. He was given a long count by the referee and managed to stagger to the final bell. Clark Griffith, the owner of the Washingtons, said Peckinpough would be well again in the morning and would take part in the last

Langford Returns Here After Good Season in Three-I

Sam Langford has returned to the folds of skipper Bled, and once again is engaged in the "hazardous" occupation of doling out doughnuts to hungry customers. He returned to Lubbock Thursday morning after a successful year in the Three-I League, where he gathered a total of 16 home runs for the season. He was with the Peoria club. After seeing matters closed up satisfactorily with this club, he journeyed to St. Louis in the Western, where he rounded out about another month of activity of chasing the pellet.

Sam eyes the "old home town" looks good after a season's absence. He says "old home town" probably from the fact that he has been starting to professional ball from his participation with the local club in the West Texas loop in 1922. In 1923 he was a big factor in the success of the Hubbers, who secured high sectional honors for a win at the first half of the season in the Parkside Peoria Valley circuit, and eventually took four honors in the play-off with the Amarillo Gassers.

Thursday's Win Is Credited to Sammy Rice of Senators

BY HANK GOWDY
Catcher for the New York Giants (Copyright, 1924, By United News)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Thursday's ball game cracked in three places. The first break was when Washington's right fielder, Sammy Rice, took off the ground like a leaping clown off a spring board and got his glove in front of Emil Meusel's long high drive in the first inning. That rap would have gone for a double or a triple if Rice hadn't snatched it by a great catch just in front of the low bleacher walls. And it would have sent George Kelly home from first with another run for us. Another run would have matched Washington's score.

The second break of the game was in the third inning. Freddie Lindstrom, the great little kid, who has been playing third base for us, knocked a whale of a fly to right field. Amale Rice was there and he made another sensational catch. If he had been a half second too late in judging the fly, Lindstrom would have gone at least as far as second and would have scored on the double by Frisch, the next man up. That run would have won the ball game for us, so I'll charge Rice with our defeat. I don't think he'll dodge the charge.

The third explosion was in the fifth. Washington was hitting. Nehf was holding the Senators safe. Peck got a single, but the next two men were easy outs. Then McNeely walked and that brought up Stanley Harris. He waited for a count of 3 and 2. It took great judgment to keep his bat on his shoulder, while these balls were being called for they were close enough to tempt most any hitter. At last Harris recognized a good one and socked it for two bases scoring Peck and McNeely and beating the Giants right there. We both had to face great pitching. Zachary and Nehf were about even and it was a game in which the breaks gave the decision.

Zachary Had Stuff And Senators Used Chance, Rice Avers

BY SAMMY RICE.
(Star outfielder for the Senators).
Copyright, 1924, By United News.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Tom Zachary's remarkable control gave us our chance to jump back on even terms with the Giants. And we accepted the chance.

When you consider that Zachary did not issue a base on balls you have the reason for our victory Thursday. By not putting men on bases he never was in great danger when the New Yorkers got their seven hits off him, excepting in the first, when two safe bloopers were bunched.

Art Nehf had a lot of stuff. His four hit game for seven innings would win on most occasions. But he lacked the perfect control. By walking McNeely he gave Bucky Harris the opportunity to drive in a pair of tallies instead of pass one when he hit in the pinch in the big fifth. It was great to see Peckinpough in there today and I was tickled when he said he might be able to play tomorrow. Peck started that fifth frame rally with his single. Then he swung back on account of Meusel's smach-bases on balls off Nehf 4, off Ryan 1, struck out by Nehf 4, Ryan 1, Zachary 3, hit off Nehf 4, 7 runners, off Ryan 6, 1 inning; leader pitcher Nehf winning pitcher Zachary; time 1 hour and 50 minutes. Umpires, Klem, Dinslow, Quigley and Connolly. Attendance, estimated at 36,000.

HAVE A NEW GYMNASIUM
Special to the Avalanche.
CANYON, Tex., Oct. 9.—That the West Texas State Teachers college is to have a new $14,000 gymnasium was announced by President J. A. Hill to day at chapel. Work is to begin this week, R. A. Terrill being in charge of construction. The new building will be of steel brick and concrete and will be fireproof. When completed it will have a seating capacity of 1400.

The building of the gymnasium has been looked forward to for some time, but it is due to the cooperation of town people, students and faculty that this dream has been realized. C. R. Burrow, of the Canyon Lumber company, and Senator J. W. Reid have, in a large measure made possible the building.

ON THE STADIUM ARE GOOD
AUSTIN, Oct. 8.—Students of the University of Texas have actually paid over $30,000 of their pledges to the Texas Memorial Stadium, according to figures compiled at the stadium office on October 1.

"We are well pleased with the way the students are paying their pledges," said the secretary of the stadium association. "When it is remembered that these sponsoring the movement to build a stadium here were figuring on not more than $25,000 in pledges from the student body, the wonderful way in which the boys and girls of the school have responded is amazing. Over half the students of the school are earning all or part of their expenses while attending school, and the payments made on the stadium represent real sacrifices in many instances. Their actions constitute a real challenge to the people of Texas to see them in building this first rate stadium to Texas who took part in the world war."

Maybe the perfection of that new footpower airplane explains the recent reduction in the price of gasoline.

MUCH DISCUSSION IN RADIO CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9.—After a heated word battle in stormy sessions during two days, advocates of super-power broadcasting stations have won the first stage of their fight at the Radio Conference here.

The sub-committee studying the problem voted Wednesday night to recommend to Secretary of Commerce Hoover that broadcasting by super-power stations permitted on an experimental basis, under the plan as outlined by Avid Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, who announced that his corporation is ready to go ahead with a huge station outside of New York City.

The decision was made with the definite understanding that it be discontinued if it is found to interfere with smaller power broadcast stations, who led the fight in the conference against the super-power plan, headed by S. E. Erbstein, who operates a small station at Elgin, Illinois.

The recommendations of the sub-committee, embodied in a resolution will be acted upon finally by the conference today.

The end of the long debate on this subject followed a busy day at the conference with addresses by Hoover and President Coolidge and the adoption of Muleshoe, known as the Warren Addition.

HEALTH INSTRUCTION SENT OUT TO USERS WATER CISTERNS

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 9.—Dr. Malone Duggan, State Health Officer, sends out a warning that all users of cistern water should make an inspection of their systems and give the ma thorough cleaning before the fall rains set in.

This cleaning process is best accomplished by first draining off all the old water standing in the tank. Then the walls and bottom should be thoroughly scrubbed with a disinfecting solution, such as chloride of lime or any other good disinfectant.

In addition to a good cleaning, it is essential that the cistern be tightly covered to prevent any possible entrance of insects, dust, or any other outside contamination.

Gains 15 Pounds in 16 Days On Karnak

"I am seventy-five years of age but Karnak has actually built me up 15 pounds in 16 days and made me feel like a brand new man," states Mr. Alf Beard, former Marshal, Deputy and Ranchman, who is now making his home at Ft. Worth, Texas.

"Last January, while managing the Joe St. Marys ranch at Flynn in Leon County, I broke down so completely from stomach trouble and indigestion that I lost 30 pounds in two months and didn't have strength to saddle a horse," continued Mr. Beard.

"I saw a statement about Karnak from a Houston man I knew and that started me taking the medicine. It has simply been a revelation. Three bottles have rid me of all my troubles, and I want to tell others about it."

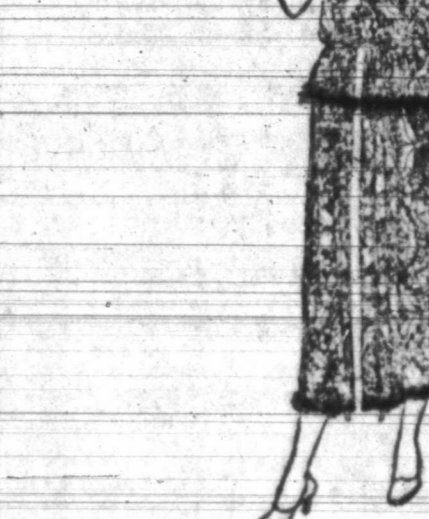

Karnak is sold in Lubbock by City Drug Store and by the leading druggists in every town.

A Fashion Digest

If we are to keep on speaking terms with one so fickle as Dame Fashion—who so frequently exerts the feminine prerogative of changing her mind—and incidentally the costumes of the whole world—it is well to have a picture of what is in her mind.

SILHOUETTES— For instance—this season, are for the most part still straight and slender, although fullness is being introduced in godets and inverted pleats. And they're brief—in some cases as short as 14 inches from the ground.

TUNICS AND REDINGOTE— So very popular this season—are found in many varied types. The falling or pleated tunic hung on a low waist line in front and extending to the knees—the spiral widening around the figure and generally ending a bolero—the long straight tunic suggestive of the Oriental pointed tunics and others. It is a very active rival this season in the Redingote, which is being developed in dinner frocks in lace of light shades over underdresses of darker, heavier materials.
