CALLED HIM A MAJOR.

And a Major He Remained. For the Emperor's Word Had Passed. Emperor William I. of Germany prided bluself upon the fact that his subjects considered his word as bind-Persians." An amusing incident in Mrs. Hugh Fraser's "Reminiscences of a Diplomatist's Wife" shows that the people's confidence was not misplaced One day the emperor's adjutant Count Seckendorff, presented an officer to him upon the latter's promotion to

"Congratulations, major," said the emperor. The officer gluaced at him un instant with an expression of as tonishment and delight, then bowed and withdrew.

Presently, to his dismay Count Sec. kendorff discovered that the officer thus promoted was one of two brothers and that it was the other one, the elder, who had just reached his major ity. The vounger brother, who had just been presented to the emperor was only a captain. When he explained the mistake to the emperor William L replied; Well there's nothing to be done. 'Major' i said, and major be must remain.

Seckendorff came to him a few days later with the request that he might be allowed to present the real major. but the emperor shook his head. "No. no, my dear fellow," he answered with a smile; "you don't catch me making the same mistake twice." I took some persuasion to induce him receive the newly promoted officer.

Lazy Fishermen, Some of the lishermen of the Mexi can gulf shores have a method of an gling for tarpon that at first sight appears to be the height of laziness. A stontish line with a wire trace at the end is baited and then swung round the head and thrown right out in the sea. The other end is made fast to a post driven in the saud, the slack being oiled up beside it.

Then, lying on their backs, the fishermen hitch the line over their toe, the leg resting on the other knee. Lying thus apparently asleep, with their hats tilted over their faces, they wait nutil a twitching of the line announces that a tarpon has taken their bait. Glancing round to see that all is clear, the men then check the line until the fish, feeling the book, makes off at lightning speed. The rest is easy. -Stray Stories.

You Need a Tonic There are times in every woman's life when she needs a tonic to help her over the hard places. When that time comes to you, you know what tonic to take—Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, which act gently, yet surely, on the weakened womanly organs, and helps build them back to strength and health. It has benefited thousands and thousands of weak, ailing women in its past half century of wonderful success, and it will do the same for you. You can't make a mistake in taking The Woman's Tonic Miss Amelia Wilson, R. F. D. No. 4, Alma, Ark., says: "I think Cardui is the greatest medicine on earth, for women. Before I began to take Cardui, I was so weak and nervous, and had such awful dizzy spells and a poor appetite. Now I feel as well and as strong as I ever did, and can eat most anything." Begin taking Cardui today. Sold by all dealers. Has Helped Thousands.
