New Vessel Propeller

The Australian crawl principle that produces some of our fastest swimmers now has been applied to motorboats. A new propeller invented in Australia resembles a pair of double fins mounted on a horizontal shaft in the same position as a screw propeller. These do not rotate, however, but oscillate, suggestive of the kick stroke of the crawl. The new propellers are said to save fuel, conserve power and increase speed.—Popular Science Monthly.

Costly Judicial Process

For the trial of one man, eventually put on probation for stealing a pair of shoes, the recorder, the mayor, the deputy mayor, the clerk of court, a prosecuting attorney, a police superintendent, an inspector, two sergeants, four policemen, nearly forty jurors, three newspaper reporters and the official shorthand reporter had to attend a recent session of court in England.

Children at Work

According to the latest United States census, the great majority of children who work are not employed in manufacturing establishments, but are working on farms. The figures show that 87 per cent of minors under the age of fourteen engaged in gainful pursuits are engaged in agriculture, and of these nearly nine-tenths are working on the home farm.

"Bobbies" to Stand Out

White overalls for traffic policemen is a suggestion that has been taken under consideration by the authorities in London.

March of Improvement

With the important place that the X-ray now holds in the world it is interesting to note that only twenty years ago it was being hailed as the latest marvel of science. About the same time electric headlights were being tried on some of the fastest railway express trains.

DREADFUL PAINS

This Lady Suffered Severely, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Mrs. George S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga., writes:

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during . . . My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I couldn't work and I just dragged around the house. "I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. "My sides hurt less and I began to improve in health. . . The Cardui acted as a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. "I have gained 10 pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all. "I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui. "At all drug stores. C-29

Tibetans Fear Evil

Results of Tobacco

Dire consequences are feared in Tibet if tobacco is introduced into that hermit kingdom, it is revealed in a copy of an official letter of the Tibetan government declining to permit the introduction of cigarettes by a British tobacco firm, which has been received at the United States National museum at Washington.

The letter says in part: "The country of Tibet is a holy religious kingdom and in this country there reside many gods and lamas and protecting gods. By smoking cigarettes they will disappear like the clouds and misfortune will arise and the bad smell which will spread everywhere will affect men and animals, causing sickness, death, and disease to all, and also the loss of fortune and wealth of the people. Therefore we want to be saved from this and to study the benefit of all. The Tibetan government does not allow the smoking of cigarettes in Tibet to anybody. We have informed the Indian government of this at the same time. Though levying a tax on cigarettes in Tibet would be very good to make profits, yet it would cause great harm and sickness to Tibet as well as bad fortune."

The letter is signed "By the collected ministers of the Tibetan government in the Wood-Ox year, the first month, the twenty-second day."

Strikers Insistent on Preservation of "Face"

When they nearly "lost face" because they were not allowed to march through the front gate of the mill compound with a brass band and firecrackers, a company of strikers on their way to resume work in a Japanese-owned cotton mill at Shanghai, China, nearly stirred up a riot. Thirteen hundred of the strikers agreed to return to work, and at six o'clock in the morning they marched up to the mill, led by a brass band. The front gate to the mill compound was closed. Only a small side gate was open. The workers wanted to march in style through the big gate and as the management would not allow them to do so the influence of "loss of face" was so powerful that they turned on their heels and marched away. The Chapei police got their rifles into position, fearing a new riot. The disappointed workers withdrew to Jessfield village and tried to talk the night shift into remaining on strike. In the meantime the mill management changed its attitude, and when the night shift, numbering 1,500, marched to the mill, led by the same brass band, the front gates were open. The management, it is reported, even supplied firecrackers.

Surplus Animals "Removed"

During the last 12 years 437,429 cats and 31,218 dogs have been painlessly put to death at the headquarters of the Animal Rescue League, in City road, Islington, E. C., and the rate is now about 1,500 a week, says the London Mail. The animals are killed by electrocution, death being instant. The cats are laid in the drawer of an apparatus resembling a table, with only the fatal switch on top, and the dogs, before receiving the current, are fitted with a collar connected with a swivel, through which the current passes.

The dead bodies are removed daily to a crematorium managed by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Pasha Good Example of Oriental Fatalism

Shortly before the war, says the London Post, attempts were made by a French scientific society to obtain particulars of the hygienic condition of Asia Minor. The pasha of Damascus dealt as follows with the inquiries put to him. Question: What is the death rate per thousand? Answer: In Damascus it is the will of Allah that all must die; some die old, some young. Question: What is the annual number of births? Answer: We don't know. God alone can say.

Interrogations respecting the supplies of drinking water were similarly evaded and the pasha appended at the close of the catechism this salutary exhortation: "And now, my lamb of the West, cease your questioning, which can do no good either to you or to any one else. Man should not bother himself about matters which concern only God."

Trichina Roast?

A professor of science in an Indiana college wanted some trichina pork for experimental purposes. He ordered his butcher to get the article for him and send it out to his laboratory. Time passed but the pork did not arrive as per agreement, so the professor called on the butcher for an explanation. The man said that the pork had been sent.

"I know I sent it," he explained, "because I remember looking up the address to make sure of it." "What address?" inquired the professor, alarmed. "Why, your house."

Wise Guy

Frank Lawrence had been trying to teach Viola to drive his car and for a while Vi practiced and practiced. Then, one day, she quit cold, and nothing would induce her to take hold of the steering wheel. "What was the trouble?" asked Blanche, Mickey Neilan's cutter. "Did you get cold feet or have an accident?"

"No," explained Vi. "But I found out why Frankie wants me to drive. He said that if we ever got into a jam, I could out-talk any traffic cop in California, the mean thing." —Los Angeles Times.

Scrap Steel Utilized

Nearly half of the steel manufactured in the United States is made of steel obtained from some 3,000 scrap metal dealers of the country. The large majority of the dealers use cranes equipped with electric magnets in handling the scrap in their yards and some of the larger yards have electrically operated shears which cut the scrap steel in pieces of proper size.

Tall Family Group

Probably few families of five members can attain a total height of 31 feet 1 1/2 inches, but the Sleeper family of Exeter, N. H., can make good at that figure. The father, Otis H. Sleeper, can boast of 6 feet 4 inches, and his two sons, Almon L. and Otto H., Jr., of 6 feet 3 inches each; Percy B., 6 feet 2 inches, William H. is the short man of the family, being only 6 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Death on Coyotes

J. S. Madden of Douglas, Kan., the other day, says the Topeka Capital, strengthened his hold on the coyote killing championship of Butler county. He probably has slain more coyotes than any other resident of the county. Mr. Madden reported at the courthouse with the scalps of 55 coyotes.

His Appointed Time

John H. Maul, forty-two years old, of Kenilworth, N. J., died soon after his body had been pierced by the dried stalk of a delilia as he fell backward from his front porch while adjusting storm windows. He fell less than night fast.

Saw Too Many Bats

Harry Heilman of the Detroit Tigers in telling of the old days of baseball when the players were not as careful as they are now, told of one instance in which a star, the "Babe" Ruth of his day, went off on a party that resulted in him being dizzy when he went on the field.

He confided in the manager, who had been with him, and said: "Bill I won't be able to play. I'm seeing everything in threes."

"That's all right," said Bill, "you just go out there and jump for the middle ball if it comes your way."

When he came to bat, the slugger, still groggy, fanned in one-two-three order, and when he went back to the bench, he found Bill raving. "Why didn't you do what I told you and aim for the middle ball?" he asked. "I did," said the weary one, "but I saw three bats and I aimed with the left-handed one."—Detroit News.

BONES IN CAVE MAY CLEAR UP MYSTERY.

"I think that the bones of the man found in the Felton cave on the Dunbar ranch fourteen miles south of Sonora on Sunday, Jan. 31, are the bones of my father, J. T. Wilson, whom I never saw alive," says Roy Wilson, fireman on the Sterling City run on the Santa Fe. This is also the belief of Mrs. Naomi Wilson, his mother, who was widowed through the disappearance of her husband Oct. 1890. Circumstances surrounding the disappearance led her to believe that he was a victim of foul play, though investigation at that time failed to prove this. Establishment of the man's death would entitle Mrs. Wilson to a pension from the U. S. Government, as her husband was a northwestern soldier during the Civil War, the son says. The family lives here at 40 East 17th street.

The missing man lived in Indianapolis, Indiana, before coming here. He married Mrs. Wilson on the XQZ ranch near this city nearly 40 years ago. He was a contractor of Sonora, who had as his partner a Mr. Dugan. The two bought a farm from O. T. Word, with the understanding that they were to pay $250 per month on it as the payment due on a saloon in Ozona which they were to buy for Mr. Word in payment for the farm. In October 1890 Mr. Wilson left his home with about $250 in his pockets which he was to carry to Ozona. That was the last that was ever recorded of him. His horse, Mrs. Wilson, Sr., says, was found in Houston some three or four months later but never a line from the man. She says he was a devoted husband, and kind to everyone and she thought him a victim of foul play. Some time after the disappearance of Mr. Wilson, the boy was born. Mr. Wilson had been a Mason and the lodge voted to take care of the boy and the wife, but Mrs. Wilson would not permit. She says that the times were often hard but she never gave up and made it thru in some way.

Mr. Wilson says there are few identification marks by which he can establish the identity of his father, but he expects shortly to make an investigation of the find in the cave. The discovery of the bones was made when Clarence and Leslie Fambrough and J. A. King of Sonora penetrate into the cave a distance of a half mile from the mouth. They brought out with them a part of the jaw bones and some teeth. They found one point of the cave a sheer drop of fifty feet with a wire ladder leading to the bottom of it.

A letter from a former resident of this city now at Fort Worth to the Rev. W. H. Kindred here related the incident of J. T. Wilson's disappearance and indicated that the widow still resided here. —San Angelo Standard.

KEEPING WELL

WHY MEN CRACK

DR. FREDERICK H. GREEN Editor of "HEALTH"

It is a most interesting book, recently published, "Behind the Scenes in Politics." The author tells many secrets of persons and events in the big political game. One chapter he calls "Why Men Crack."

He says: "I have drawn up a list of 150 men I have known who had a good chance to reach the top and who have sunk and are all through. I have checked off the list with the various causes which I believe make men crack and the result is as I expected. Ninety-seven of these men fell down because of lack of health. A few of these were sudden breakdowns. One promising playwright was hit by tuberculosis. One man of first rank promise in national affairs was taken to the side lines on account of Bright's disease. Two coming bankers were driven into retirement by the same affliction. A few had their health blown up with a sudden lung lunge."

But that is not the rule. Most men who crack because of lack of health crack slowly and unobtrusively. The picture is the tragic one, of men who at thirty or forty were off the ground and had shown speed and direction. At forty-five, their engines were missing fire; at fifty, they were looking for a landing place, and at fifty-five they are down on their rollers for good."

"What's the matter with them? If a doctor looked them over he'd say, 'Why didn't you come to me 25 years ago? I can't make you over. You're like an old watch. There's nothing poppable the matter with you but everything is wrong. You've worn out your machinery. You have over-eaten and plugged your body with stimulants, but only tobacco and alcohol, but caffeine and sugar. You have slept with your mouth open and let months go by when your skin has never been wet with sweat. You have let your organs slip down, until your chest and your stomach have swapped girths. You don't drink enough water. You take cathartics. You neglect your teeth. On top of everything else, you have been irregular. You take irregular meals, irregular sleep, irregular work, irregular play. All your machinery is twisted. You never would have neglected yourself as you have neglected yourself. Now you're paying for it."

This writer is not a doctor; he's not a health faddist. He is a practical, cold-blooded politician, telling why many men of promise fail at the critical period. When are you going to crack? That depends on how you are living now. (© 1934, Western Newspaper Union)

Russia Losing Forests

Ravages of Russia's vast timber resources by fire are so great that they can hardly be calculated. In three months last summer 11,000 fires were reported in the portion of the union within the boundaries of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet republic. The forests destroyed covered an area of more than 1,370 square miles. These great forests are practically unguarded and once a fire starts little can be done to check its course until it either burns itself out or nature intervenes.

Mail by Motor Sleigh

The motor car, the Alaskan basket dog sled, and the United States army tank are combined ingeniously in a remarkable vehicle now used for transporting mail and passengers in the Far North. The machine, described in Popular Science Monthly, travels on wide steel runners beneath which run endless treads moving about wire wheels at front and rear. The power plant and driver are carried at the rear. The odd sleigh can travel 16 miles an hour.

Value of Earth's Gems

Five Billion Dollars Although the emerald is the oldest of precious stones of which we have any record, in later times the diamond has become the standard and favorite, says the Houston Chronicle. Dr. George F. Kunz, a diamond authority, recently has completed a survey of the world's store of gems and he reckons the value at billions. The ruby mines of Burma have been worked for centuries and they are still producing heavily, nearly $10,000,000 being discovered during the last 35 years. Doctor Kunz computes the value of diamonds in the world today at $5,000,000,000 and it is generally conceded that the world's supply of gold is somewhat less than $3,000,000,000, most of which happens at this time to be in the United States, even as a large share of the world's jewels are also here. Of the new production, Doctor Kunz says, the United States consumes 59 per cent more of the diamonds and precious stones than all the rest of the world combined.

ACHING LIMBS

And Many Other Common Ills Relieved by Black-Draught.

Mrs. John Skaggs, residing near Lanes Prairie, Mo., on the Ozark Trail, says: "I have taken Black-Draught for a number of years, about fifteen, and it is about the only purgative medicine I ever take. It is the only kind that I've found that doesn't hurt me."

"I take Black-Draught for indigestion, for colds and headaches. I take it for aching in my limbs and shoulders. It helps this trouble. I take it for sour stomach. 'We think Black-Draught is splendid and never are without it in the house. 'I suffered with gas on my stomach that affected my breathing, and Black-Draught helped this trouble. 'For such common complaints, I think Black-Draught is the best medicine a person can use. 'For millions of others, Black-Draught is their favorite liver and stomach medicine. Obtainable everywhere. Beaver Has Some Bad Qualities With Good

It sounds like old times to hear that in the course of last winter the trappers in the Adirondacks caught a great number of beaver during the short open season, and, what does not sound like old times, it was added that the number of the animals was not sufficiently decreased from their present large total to be a cause for anxiety as to their perpetuation, the New York Times says. Beaver once were the basis of about the most important form of industry and traffic in the whole North American continent. Their pelts were current as cash all over it, and everywhere they were hunted with reckless persistence till even in the Canadian wilds they became so few as hardly to be worth seeking by others than the most persistent of old trappers.

Now they are "coming back" in several parts of the country, but they are not everywhere welcome, as they have a habit of making artificial swamps where swamps are not wanted, and they cut down trees that people prefer to have standing. They are interesting creatures, but too nearly nocturnal to serve as a spectacle to the curious.

They probably are doomed, but they are not going to disappear from the earth for some time to come. They are increasing in numbers now, but the increase is strictly limited because they insist on being troublesome neighbors.

They Don't Get On

Representative Tinkham, who is fighting the World court, said in Washington: "The Anglo-Saxon and the Latin temperaments differ profoundly. That is why we find it hard to get on together. "When an American talks to a Frenchman, an Italian or a Spaniard, he is bound to put his foot in it, and vice versa. Anglo-Saxons and Latins, after a little intercourse, feel like the man who said: "Women are hard to understand. "Yes? How so? "Last evening I told a woman I was dancing with that she carried her age well, and she was offended. "Really? "Yes, really. And then, to placate her, I told her she didn't carry it well, and she wouldn't speak to me."

Helpful Habit

A Chicago newspaper writer went out to investigate Hollywood. She was greatly surprised when she discovered how many of the picture people were happily married, had children in the public schools and were active in building up the community. "I always thought," she confided, "that marriage was supposed to interfere with art, but this does not seem to be the case at all. "It doesn't interfere at all," replied a Los Angeles writer, "if you marry often enough."—Los Angeles Times.

Restoration of Old Italian Church Began

As one result of the reclamation work of the Italian government in Saint Francis of the Fields, in the town of Pistoia, near Florence, a medieval church will arise from a dirty stable. The church has a curious history. Like its prototype, Santa Croce in Florence, and like others of its period, its walls were covered with frescoes, and were later plastered over by an age that considered itself more cultured, but, in this respect, was barbarous. The frescoes in Saint Francis are by the contemporaries and pupils of Giotto, including Taddeo Gaddi and Giotto, and are, if not of first rank, very near it. At the beginning of the World war the church was converted into a stable where horses of the Italian army were kept. The straw, and the strong equine odor are still there, but the work of restoration is about to begin. Government experts will remove the outer plaster, with delicate instruments that will not harm the frescoes and Franciscan monks will once more take possession. The vegetable colors used by Giotto and his pupils are still unequalled for delicacy and permanence. The chemical paints with which experts sought thirty years ago to restore parts of the frescoes have entirely changed color.

Take Inventory of Palaces of France

French authorities are taking an inventory of the national buildings in Paris with a view to putting them to better use or placing them on the market. Such an inventory was made a dozen years ago, but a new one was considered necessary on account of the rise in real estate values. The total of the last inventory was 1,795,246,448 francs (approximately $350,000,000). The Arc de Triomphe was estimated at 20,000,000 francs (nominally $1,000,000); the July Column, erected where formerly stood the Bastille, at 710,000 francs ($510,000), the church and dome of the Palace of the Invalides, including Napoleon's tomb, 43,520,000 francs ($8,700,000), the Pantheon, 50,000,000 francs ($10,000,000); the Opera, 53,372,000 francs ($10,750,000); the Louvre, 284,372,000 francs ($56,870,000); the palace of Versailles, including the Trianon, was estimated at 720,155,000 francs ($144,000,000). To obtain present values, say the officials of the service of national palaces and government buildings, it will be necessary to multiply these sums by five.

NOT THE MOMENT

Wife—You haven't kissed me since you started to read that old paper. Hubby—"Wouldn't be appropriate just now—I'm reading the fight news."

Sand in the Arctic

Was the Alaska tundra once a desert with masses of fruitful trees? This question is debatable at Nome, Alaska, since George Horn and John Delora, prospectors, returned from the interior with samples of sand and bark of strange trees found at the bottom of a shaft they sunk in quest of gold.

The men ascended the Kobuk river and traveled 40 miles south. Here in numerous holes they found deep sand in layers similar to the drift of great storms, buried trunks of trees with rough bark as of fruit trees and long, wide blades of grass like bamboo, sorghum or papyrus. The size of the vegetation indicates a former tropical climate. Further investigation is planned for early summer in 1936.

Wherefore of the Why

President Rush Rhees of Rochester university, said at a reception: "Some of the steamship lines are advertising 'college cabin' for professors, scholars and scientists. It's the steership really—third class, you know. College cabin, third class—that's the best the learned profession can afford nowadays. "Entering her college cabin for the return voyage from Crete, where her father, a Greek professor, had been studying Minoan civilization, a young girl complained: "Papa, why do we always travel third class? "Because, my child," said the Greek professor, "there isn't any fourth class."

Wise Ones

The Grand Duchess Cyril said many clever things during her American visit. She told a New York girl reporter: "The women most successful with men are not the beautiful ones, but the wise ones. And the wise ones are those who know that men are only babies with beards."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

New Lamp Perfected

A new lamp which furnishes a large amount of ultraviolet light, but which cannot be seen when operated in a dark room, has recently been perfected in Germany.

Embarrassing

Man (in barber's chair)—Be careful not to cut my hair too short; people will take me for my wife.

CHEAPER IN LOTS

Lover—Willie, you saw me take a kiss from your sister—what will you take not to tell? Willie—Fifty cents for a single kiss—but it's much cheaper if you take more.

Doubting Doubt

"Ministers used to vie with one another in their professions of faith. Now they vie with one another—at least the Modernists do—in their professions of doubt." The speaker was Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska. He went on: "We used to doubt a man's faith sometimes. Soon we'll be doubting his doubt. He'll be a regular Uncle Eb to us."

Patience Pays

"There are only a few investors," says John Moody in the Forbes Magazine, "who seem to have the patience and the courage to resist the temptation of investing their money at the wrong time. They appear to think that if one waits before investing, worthwhile opportunities will surely slip by and that they will have lost their chance to get the best out of their capital. "The investment market will always be with us, and new opportunities for wise investment come along just as fast as old opportunities disappear."

Rheumatic Cat

Little Alfred, age three, was visiting his next-door neighbors one day. He had expressed great interest in a large Angora cat owned by them. The cat did not prove to be very friendly or playful, however, and the neighbor woman told Alfred that poor Teddie had the rheumatism and did not feel well. "My goodness," said Alfred, "is he going to have his teeth out?"

New Wrapping Twine

A southern paper company is making a new kind of string that is said to be as strong as that made from hemp. The pulp of pine trees is used, the long fibers of the wood, three times the length of spruce fiber, being well adapted for making into cordage.

ENTERTAINED.

On last Monday afternoon, Mrs.
 Hi Eastland and Miss Amanda Eastland, were hostesses to the Woman's Bridge Club and the Girl's Bridge Club at their home in East Sonora, honoring Mrs.
 Mrs. Bryan Hunt, a recent bride, and from the opinion of those present, it was one of the prettiest social affairs to have ever been given here.

The home was literally bespecked with pink hearts, arrow pierced, and exquisite pink roses.
 The color scheme of pink and white was beautifully carried out to reflect the light heartedness of the occasion.

On the guests assembling four games of bridge were played with Mrs. J. W. Wilson having high score, Mrs. John Fields, the consolation and Mrs. Chas Evans, cutting the guest prize, who in turn presented the prizes to the honoree. And after the bridge games, the guests were escorted to the commodious dining room, where the color scheme of white and pink continued to be carried out.

As the bride preceded the guests into the dining room, the lights were flashed on vividly displaying the well decorated room and on a table in the center of the room the large wedding cake in white V.S.—B.H. in pink, upon it.

The honoree was escorted to a large arm chair, in white and pink and which was surrounded by beautiful gifts. And then four small girls, in cap and attire, ushered in a gift cart, heavily laden with presents and two large baskets bedecked with gifts also. After the many guests had admired the gifts they then registered in the bride's book, which was one of the gifts. And after the bride's cake was cut, a dainty salad course was served.

Those present expressed the belief that Mrs. Eastland, in her preparation for the occasion and hospitality, had attained the supreme height as a hostess.

FOR COUNTY AND DISTRICT CLERK.

The News is authorized to announce the candidacy of John D.
 Lowrey for re-election to the office of District and County Clerk of Sutton County, Texas.

As Mr. Lowrey is now serving his tenth term in this capacity without intermission, he needs no introduction. During the twenty years he has only had two opponents, one for his first term and one the last election year.

Mr. Lowrey is in every way exceptionally well qualified for this work and deserves to be re-elected. He is mentally qualified of a pleasant and agreeable manner and remains close to his duties.

Mr. Lowrey asks for the consideration of his candidacy by the Sutton county voters.
