like that.

Now this fellow Coolidge, who i seems, is like the big new Cadillac that Mr. Hudspeth had on trial-'does not choose to run in 1928." Mr. now driving a much smaller more inexpensive, and most important, rough er riding car for his ranch work.What about Coolidge? Wait a minute, he's coming.

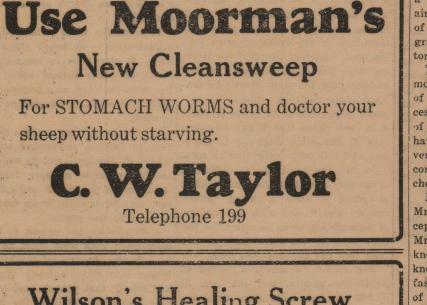

Coolidge, as will be remembered, some time ago came in for a lot of spine a bit. Mr. Coolidge is just like has done some farm work in his life consequently the ease of the presidenti al chair deprived him of the jogging which we all need. Mr. Hudspeth's big new car threatened to do the same, so he sent it back. He and Mr. Miers both agreed that this easy age we are living in is the source of the chriopractor's affluence, as well as that of the magnetic healers, faith curers and other such gentlemen of vibratory proclivities. Then the question of oil came up, and Mr. Miers and Mr. Hudspeth were again as one in denouncing the oil boom. "What will we do for a living" they asked "if some company finds oil on our land?" They cited the case of Ira G. Yates, who had his perfectly good Pecos County ranch spoiled by the finding of oil. Of couse it has made him a multi-millionaire, who has to do something besides city coupons? To prove their contention, they pointed out the fact that Mr. Yates recently laid down $230,000 in cash for a ranch down in the San Saba country And, after all, aren't they right? A man who has nothing to do is, above all other earthly creatures, cursed. Should oil be found on their land, wouldn't they both be out of a job, or at best, have to relinguish the best sheep and goat country in the wide, wide world to the filling station men, and buy other ranches elsewhere to carry on the most interesting work demanding business in the world? Yes, the conversation drifted away from feed. They seemed to think a lot of this Mr. Coolidge, and it does us good to hear some one speak a good word for him, after all this panning he has gotten since he dealt the death blow to his supporters with his short, cryptical, typical New England terseness "I do not choose to run for President in 1928."

MASONRY DEFENDED AGAINST ACCUSATIONS Personal Mention

London, Eng-Those prejudiced a gainst Freemasonry have recently renewed, or continued their attempts to impede its progress by accusations the first of the week. that it was in itself a religion and harmful to the Christian Faith. Bishop Frodsham, Vicar of Halifax, at services held in commemoration of the laying of the foundation-stone of the Holy Trinity Church at Darwen in 1827, defended the Fraternity against such accusations. He stated that from his experiences as a Mason, rembership in the Craft should make one more devoted to his own respective form of religion, more devout, more truly moral. "Indeed, I believe from my heart that no greater disaster could fall upon Freemasonry," he said, "than it should be separated from the Christian Faith."

Rev. J. Kirk Pike, Vicar of St. Barnabus' and Post Provincial A. G.
