1,000 ATTENDED BARBECUE AT HUDSPETH RANCH

(By Sam Ashburn)

Concerted action to reduce the ten million dollar annual loss from the blowfly in Texas was agreed on today at a big gathering at the Hudspeth Ranch on the Devil's River. The speakers declared that the blowfly could be outdone like the scab and the fever tick.

This was the business end of a gay gathering of the friends of C. B. Hudspeth, congressman from the Sixteenth District, serving on his fifth term and re-elected to his sixth.

The assembly, which had been called together by Congressman Hudspeth to discuss the problem, named a committee to work out a plan of action. Roy Aldwell is chairman of the committee and will likely call the first meeting in December.

More Than 1,000 Attended

More than 1,000 persons were served barbecue at noon today, while sacks of soft-shelled pecans and cigars were also on the menu. The affair closed with an old-fashioned dance.

Wearing a khaki suit and shoe boots, Congressman Hudspeth stood on the platform shaded by hundred foot high liveoaks, and asked that the audience toast the "silent man in the White House." A telegram of good wishes was dispatched to President Coolidge.

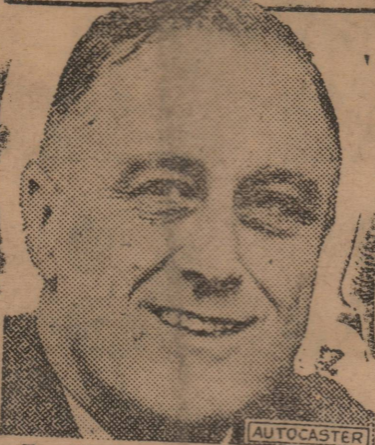

When you take action in the legislature to eradicate the blowfly," he said, "I can guarantee you that Washington will take similar action."

W. L. Aldwell introduced the speakers. Judge Charles Davidson of Ozona, whom Hudspeth introduced as the father of Crockett county, was master of ceremonies. W. R. Montgomery, representative from Hidalgo county and candidate for the speakership, declared his willingness to help in solving the problem, as did Adrian Poole, representative from El Paso county.

LIONS ENDORSE MOVE TO FIGHT THE BLOW-FLY

The Sonora Lions Club held their weekly luncheon Monday with a fairly large attendance present. After partaking of an unexcelled luncheon, matters of business and pleasure were dealt with.

The resolution was offered and adopted endorsing the move to exterminate the blow-fly. Lion Roy Hudspeth, in speaking to the attendance, advocated the organization of a Sutton County Ranchmen's Association for the purpose of combating thievery by motor truck which is known to be practiced in some of our neighboring counties and is thought very likely in this county. After much discussion, the Lions endorsed this move heartily.

J. M. Jones of College Station and others spoke briefly along various lines.

The move is underway for the organization of the ranchmen of Sutton County into a body for their protection.

Mr. Hudspeth is one of the strongest advocates of this organization and is doing much work in trying to make it a success. Sheriff B. W. Hutcherson is also in favor of the move.

Mabel Martin Will Be on Radio Program

Miss Martin's reputation locally as a pianist is well known. She has appeared before the Lions Club here several times as well as having played at other occasions.

No doubt many Sonorans will tune in Sunday evening and hear this program in which Miss Mabel will appear.

WILLIAM FIELDS JUDGES STOCK IN WINDY CITY

William J. Fiels, Jr., senior student in Texas A. & M. College from Sonora, where his father is a pioneer ranchman, won tenth place in individual scoring of livestock at the Kansas City National Livestock Show, according to Associated Press reports received in San Angelo. The Sonora boy is with the A. & M. judging team to the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City where he is to participate in judging events. From there he is to go to Chicago to take part in the International Livestock Exposition.

He is one of the six members of the Texas team, a coveted position at the institution.

During his junior year he was selected as one of the twenty-eight honor students in the institution and was secretary-treasurer of the Sirolo Club, an organization composed solely of West Texas students.

He was presented a medal during his sophomore year for the distinction of being the best drilled cadet in company F and during his freshman year was honored with the medal for being the best horse judge in the first year class.

Hears About Mayor Killing Deer with Car

Mayor Dunklin is in receipt of a letter from Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith, referring to the Mayor or killing a deer accidentally before the season opened. The letter in part follows:

I am wondering if Bob Leath, Jim Romans Governor Leath and many other Bellevue boys whom I could name, will believe your automobile ran into a herd of deer and killed one. Since I have been through the Kerrville country and through your town and the Davis Mountains, it is easier for me to believe your story. I think, however, these Rusy County boys would be somewhat suspicious of the story and would doubt more than old Thomas did, requiring at least the horns and hoofs of the animal as evidence that you really killed it.

I am glad to know that your people have chosen you as their mayor. I may want to come to Sonora and if I do, I shall be pleased to have the good will of the Mayor because I might kill a deer illegally as you did.

Truly and sincerely yours,
Lon A. Smith,
R. R. Commissioner.

Ben and Bill Mittel were guests of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mittel in San Angelo over the week-end.

TALKING IN SLEEP RESULTS IN THE ARREST OF PAIR

Suspected of murder because of statements made in her sleep, a woman and her husband will be returned here from Sweetwater tomorrow for questioning in connection with the death of a woman whose body was found in a pasture near Comstock nearly a year ago.

The pair were arrested by B. W. Hutcherson, sheriff of Sutton county, about six months ago, and lodged in jail here on charges of vagrancy. They escaped jail after obtaining keys to the door of their cell, and have been at large until arrested recently at Sweetwater by Sheriff Jack Yarborough.

Confined in a cell with another woman, the half coherent talk of the woman during sleep led to the belief that she was implicated in the death of the woman near Comstock. Notified by Sheriff Yarborough, Mr. Hutcherson and M. L. Whistler left here today to return the two here for examination in an attempt to unravel the mystery of the woman's slaying.

run a loser's race

The horse whose muscles are not trained to go the distance tires quickly and quits. The same thing happens to balloon tires in which the cords are not scientifically engineered to stand the fierce flexing of the sidewalls. They tire out and collapse miles too soon.

The mileage records of Goodyear Supertwist Balloon Tires are due to a wonderful Supertwist Cord. This cord is elastic. It is engineered to absorb fiercest side wall flexing—indeinitely.

Come in and let us demonstrate the difference that will mean many added miles for you.

A GENTLEMAN

From one of our neighbor-cities, said, "You certainly do have high water rates here." His home town water works is owned by the city—yours is privately owned.

With the city owned utility, if low rates are used, expenses and debts must be met by taxing the people. The consumer who is deceived into the idea that he is enjoying a much lower water rate than his friend in the next town is in reality paying just as high for water, but in the form of general taxes.

The gentleman, in this instance, pays 50 per cent more for his water than you do.

Cheaney Leads Jackets to Big Six Title

Brownwood, Texas, Nov. 17, 1928: Joe Bailey Cheaney, former star grid assistant coach under Dad Amis, is serving his first year's head mentor of the Jackets and if the results of the first seven games played by the Jackets can be taken as true indicators, it can be truthfully said Cheaney has made a decided success. And if the Jackets go through their remaining four games with equal success, Cheaney will have accomplished a feat that his predecessors have failed in, that of winning the Texas Conference football championship.

While playing with the Yellow Jackets, Cheaney gained a state wide reputation as being one of the best backfield men and ball carriers in Texas. His sensational runs of from 50 to 90 or more yards for touchdowns stamped him as one of the game's greatest men. In addition to this, Cheaney was an excellent passer and a fair punter and his defensive play was equal to his stellar work on the offense.

Cheaney took special pride in beating the Simmons University Cowboys while carrying the ball for the Jackets, as evidenced by the fact that during his career with the Jackets, Simmons did not win a single game from the Brownwood school. Since becoming coach, Cheaney is none the less eager to beat the Cowboys, and fans of Texas may rest assured that much time will be spent between now and December 7, in planning an offense that will leave the Abilene machine wondering what it is all about.

Coach Cheaney is being assisted this season by McAdoo Keaton, another former Howard Payne player. Keaton won distinction as a lineman with the Jackets and has charge of the Jacket forward wall this year. Only one team besides Southern Methodist has crossed the Jacket goal line and that was on a forward pass and not through Keaton's line. Few gains have been made through the Jacket line and the Jacket front line is expected to care for itself against any and all opposition.

Keaton came to the Jackets as assistant coach from San Marcus Academy where he served as head mentor for several years.

Cheaney will have developed a powerful offense and a stubborn defense that promises rough sailing for the Pirates and tough riding for the Cowboys, their two remaining conference foe. The Pirates will be met in Brownwood, Thanksgiving, and Simmons comes here December 7.

THANKSGIVING JOYS

Many are the joys of Thanksgiving, that Nation-wide day of feasting, but many are the forces in the big cities that are militating against these joys. Time was when from one end of the country to the other every family—with but few exceptions—enjoyed a hearty Thanksgiving Dinner with all the "fixings" at home, and in the excitement attendant to the event arose a deep sense of family affection and solidarity. Thanksgiving was a day for the family and the home.

In the small towns and rural districts, it is still a day for the family and the home but our city neighbors are not so fortunate!

Crowded into tiny apartments, how can they know the real joys of Thanksgivings?

"It is a trifle difficult to wax sentimental about Apartment B, 8th floor, as the old homestead," writes Walter Pritchard Eaton. "Besides, the kitchen isn't big enough to cook an 18-pound turkey, let alone four mince pies, two pumpkin pies and a pudding. Anyhow, the cook never heard of mince pies."

A RECORD IN POLITICS
A STATUE TO PASTEUR
THE EYE OF THE NEEDLE
PRAISE FOR THE MOVIE

The President cast his first vote in Northampton, was elected councilman there, long ago, and has been steadily in office ever since, nominated nineteen or twenty times—never beaten. A record in politics as good as Cromwell's in war. Cromwell never lost a battle.

The old farmers would observe with pleasure that being President, with $75,000 a year salary, a White House and a big yacht have not spoiled Calvin Coolidge. Next March he will move from the White House to Northampton and resume life in a small house which he rents for $32.50 a month.

Such a man is not dependent on money. But the President could save plenty of it. More than one law firm would be glad to guarantee him three times his Presidential salary. And he would not have to work hard. Perhaps the President chooses to wait awhile, look around, and possibly take a second elective term in the White House, eight years hence.

The erection of a fine statue to the great Frenchman, Pasteur, honors Chicago. Excepting the Lincoln statue, none in Chicago is erected to so noble and useful a man.

Dr. Leopold Stieglitz, of New York, able scientist and brilliant diagnostician, brother of Professor Julius Stieglitz, who teaches chemistry at Chicago University, says, "We need a Pasteur to solve the cancer problem. That task calls for a man free of preconceived notions and prejudice; not a man of medical training, seeking to explain cancer according to old methods."

The ignorant sometimes ask "Of what real use is science?" Bismarck taking five billion francs from France after the war of 1870, thought he had reached the limit. Dr. Stieglitz reminds you that the cash value to France of Pasteur's discoveries far exceeds five billion francs, to say nothing of his work against human disease and suffering.

What Dr. Stieglitz says of Pasteur and the cancer problem, encourages men of no special training. Clear thought and accurate observation work wonders. The inventor of the sewing machine did not know how to sew. Had he known, it would not have occurred to him to put the eye of the sewing machine needle into the point of the needle, rather than in the old place, farthest from the point.

That one idea made the sewing machine possible.

Mussolini, wiser than superficial critics in America, has only praise for moving pictures. Quite accurately, he classes them among the greatest agencies for the education of mankind. The other two are moveable type and photography.

She had the choice of selecting the garment she most desired to make.

A great deal of time has been spent in this class on the study of budgets. The class was assigned the problem of making out a clothing budget for a high school girl fifteen years of age on the sum of sixty dollars. At first the class thought this was ridiculous, but after a thorough study of materials and selection a very attractive clothing budget was made. The girls put much time and showed great interest.

BRONCHS WIN OVER ELDORADO JUNIORS, 12-0

The Broncho Colts strengthened their standing in the seven game series with Eldorado Juniors last Friday when they won on their home field, 12-0. They have won two and tied one.

The Colts started their stuff and exposed four new stars in addition to George Ory, before an eight dollar crowd. The first star to claim the limelight was Dwight Kring, who galloped around right end in the first few minutes of the game for a touchdown.

Eldorado was unable to gain enough yardage to cause embarrassment to Colts, but they surely must have framed up on our previous star, Geo. Ory. They tackled him in bunches every time he carried the ball. In spite of this he made a few nice gains. Then he overcome this set back by playing a fierce defensive game.

Among the stars for the Colts were Max Turney, Jessie Green Barton, G. W. Archer and Dwight Kring.

This team will appear in action again on the same ground in the near future. A large and enthusiastic crowd will be appreciated.

The Outgoing and Incoming Presidents

Calvin Coolidge is to give up the reigns of office to Herbert Hoover, who it is believed will closely adhere to the policies formulated by his predecessor. Both men are more given to action than to words, and have marked business and executive ability. Calvin Coolidge has been nominated for many offices, never suffering a defeat, but Herbert Hoover has not engaged in politics before. The many important offices he has heretofore held have been appointive offices.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BURNS IN SCOTLAND 22 YEARS

A forgotten electric light burned for 22 years in a room of a theatre in Scotland, according to a story printed in "The Sou'wester," publication of the Southwestern Light & Power Company, Oklahoma City. It used over 7,000 kilowatt hours during the time. Here is the story:

How a light in an unknown room in a theatre at Glasgow, Scotland, burned unseen for 22 years, has just been reported. When electrical engineers were asked to give quotations on overhauling the lighting system a certain line of conduit disappeared in a well, and the trail ended. Nearby was a locked door, the key to which had been lost. No one from the manager to the call boy could remember that the door had ever been opened. It was forced. The unknown room had been used by billposters, and according to a poster lying there the place had not been used since 1906. A 16 candle-power carbon lamp was burning brightly just as it had evidently been left by the last occupant of the room.— West Texas Utilities News.

Bed Time Story

It was a beautiful Thanksgiving morning when Br'er Rabbit started out for a walk before he had the wonderful dinner which his wife was preparing for him and the bunnies.

Bye and bye he came to where Mister Jay Bird was seated on the limb of a hickory tree and he sat down for a few moments to talk to the bird.

"Do you know," began Mister Jay Bird, "I can't see why you haven't a tail like Mrs. Squirrel. With those lovely ears of yours and a large, bushy tail, you'd be the handsomest animal in the forest."

"I really think so myself," replied the rabbit.

"I tell you what you can do," said the bird. "You take some pawpaw bark and tie up your tail real tight. You're going to have Thanksgiving dinner, aren't you?"

"Yes," answered Br'er Rabbit. "Well, by the time you are ready to eat, your tail will be as large and as bushy as Mrs. Squirrel's."

"It will take longer than that, won't it?" inquired Br'er Rabbit, anxiously.

"No, it only takes a short while, that is, if you tie your tail tight enough. But be sure to take the bark off before you get home."

Br'er Rabbit disappeared and soon was winding his tail with a piece of pawpaw bark. He wound it as tight as he could and then took a little nap, waking up when the sun had started down hill.

"Merry me!" exclaimed Br'er Rabbit, when he awoke. "I'll be late for dinner." He rushed towards his home and arrived just in time for the Thanksgiving Dinner. He took his place at the head of the table and was snickering. "What's the matter?" he asked, in surprise.

"Look at your tail!" shouted Buster Bunnie.

"Gracious!" exclaimed Br'er Rabbit. "I wanted to make my tail like Mrs. Squirrel's, so I tied it up as Mister Jay Bird told me."

"You know Mister Jay Bird is a joker," laughed Mrs. Rabbit. "Next time be your own sweet self—we like you better. Now ask the blessing."

John McClelland who has been very ill with pneumonia is now clear of fever and well on the road to recovery.

U. S. CAPITOL
By William P. Helm, Jr.
Washington Correspondent of The News.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The vanguard of a horde of office seekers streams into Washington today with high hopes and many claims. The "Worked-for-his election" club, the "I-knew-him-when" association and the "I-helped-to-carry-the-State-for-him" crowd are out in force. For the incoming President will have more than 75,000 jobs to fill and the pickings will be fat and juicy.

More than 50,000 postmasterships alone represent the ripe fruit of the next four years. Here enters the Civil Service as a convenient bar to those whom the administration will not favor. Time was not long ago when every post office in the United States was a political plum. Today the rules are different. The big, near-big and middle-sized postmastership are under Civil Service. The little ones, those of the so-called Fourth Class may be filled by appointment without reference to Civil Service.

Civil Service requirements are that the three highest names on the list of eligibles (that is, the list of those who pass the examination) shall be certified to the appointing authorities. From those three a selection will be made. The country can rest assured that the loyal party worker will be chosen, no matter if he stands first, second or third on the list. Indeed, the State party organization will be asked in each case for its recommendation.

This little detour around the Civil Service washout complicates matters a bit, but not greatly. It only makes it necessary that the party worker who wants the job and gets the party endorsement for it must finish among the first three taking the examination. If only three persons pass the examination—and often fewer than three take it—he party man is as good as in. Fifty-two thousand of them, all told. The term is four years.

Not all these postmasterships expire at the same time. They are strung out through the four years of the administration like beads on a string. They will go to the party workers. The detail of handling them is a part of the Postmaster-General's job. That official is the President's biggest distributor of patronage. His job, for that reason, is one of the hardest in the federal service.

United States District Attorneys are to be appointed, as their four-year terms expire. So are their assistants. They are, probably, more than 1,500 officials in that class alone. United States Marshals likewise are to be named during the four years. None but the faithful will get reward. Deputy United Marshals in theory are appointed by the Marshals themselves. Actually, too, in some party in power dictates appointments too.

Upwards of fifty Ambassadors and Ministers to foreign countries will be retired on March 4, next. There are many splendid jobs to be found in the list, ranging from $17,500 a year down to a paltry $5,000. These plums are generally gobbled up by the big boys of the campaign. Dr. Work, head of the Republican National Committee, for instance, was said prior to election to be desirous of appointment to a European capital. Most of the men appointed to such posts must be wealthy. A poor man can't keep up his end of the entertaining.

This was a bit unusual. Generally the campaign head gets a cabinet post. Raskob, for instance, has been definitely linked with the Treasury Department since the beginning of the campaign. Everybody took it for granted that in the event of a Smith victory, John J. Raskob would be Secretary of the Treasury. In Dr. Work's case, however, he has already filled two Cabinet portfolios—Postmaster General and Secretary of the Interior—and the Cabinet held no allure.

The entire personnel of the Interstate Commerce Commission will not be retired during the coming four years, but seven of the eleven members will end their terms. The new President will thus be able to appoint a majority, if he desires, of the Commission with wholly different views from those held by the incumbents. This applies equally to the Federal Trade Commission.

One of the big plums is the Directorship of the Budget Bureau, a $10,000 a year job. The present holder of this office is a retired Brigadier General, Herbert M. Lord. There will be a host of applicants for his job. The Tariff Commission, likewise has some good berths for the faithful—at $7,500 a year. The Board of Tax Appeals will have several vacancies to fill at $10,000 each. The Shipping Board likewise, offers hope for the hungry.

The incoming President will appoint his own office force at the White House. There is considerable speculation as to who will be the next private secretary to the President. Before the election, it was generally thought that George Akerson—a former newspaper man of Minneapolis who has been Hoover's private Secretary during the campaign and for some time prior thereto—would be the next Private Secretary to the President in a case of a Hoover victory. Akerson received $500 a week salary, it is understood during the campaign. The President's Secretary is paid $10,000 a year.

It is quite possible that the Supreme Court of the United States. These occur through death or resignation. The present Court is composed of elderly men. Prior to election it was thought Charles Evans Hughes would be high in Mr. Hoover's consideration, in case of a Republican victory, for an appointment of that sort. Since Mr. Hughes left the Supreme Court to run for the Presidency in 1916 he is reported to have made a fortune through his law work. It is said that he still cherishes the idea of again becoming a Supreme Court Justice.

There are Cabinet jobs at $15,000 and many other minor jobs to be filled and between now and March 4 next the President-elect's life will be a succession of interviews with job-hunters. That is, unless he does like Harding did and refers them all to subordinates. And the vanguard of the jobless has arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McKnight were among visitors in the city Tuesday. Mr. McKnight attended a director's meeting of the First National Bank. Ed Glasscock was transacting business here the first part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Green and children were in San Angelo Monday. Tom Sandherr was here from the ranch the first of the week visiting with his family.
