Texan, Lions International Head

J. C. Hyer, Fort Worth Attorney, Chosen New President

Toronto, Ont., July 17.—Julen C. Hyer, attorney of Fort Worth, was today elected to succeed Earle W. Hodges, of New York City, as President of the International Association of Lions Clubs.

The election was the climax of Lions 15th Annual Convention which attracted over 5,000 delegates from all over the North American continent and over-seas. Mr. Hyer begins his term of office with 2,500 Lions Clubs in the association and approximately 100,000 members.

Mr. Hyer has for some time expressed the thought that a service club should serve its community, state, and nation economically as well as socially. While he believes that service clubs have a distinct part to play in welfare and social work, it is his thought that such an international chain of business men's clubs should be, and is powerful enough to have considerable influence in economic problems.

Mr. Hyer, having served in the World War as captain of the 11th Trench Mortar Battery, and being at the present time Post Commander of the Fort Worth American Legion, one of the largest posts in the country, feels that any detrimental factor working against international economic safety can, and should be, counteracted by sound and ethical business practice.

"KICK IN" WELL RECEIVED WHEN STAGED HERE

THIRTEEN DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTED 4-ACT DRAMA MONDAY NIGHT

"Kick In," four-act mystery drama of underworld life, was well received by a Sonora audience Monday night. The play was presented by the Thirteen Dramatic Club, which produced it under sponsorship of the Sonora Lions Club.

The audience followed the action of the play closely and expressed appreciation of the acting of the members of the cast.

Claude Roe directed the play, with the assistance of Miss Hazel Edwards. The feminine lead was played by Mrs. Bill White, with Joseph Trainer cast as leading man in the role of a reformed crook. Bill Gilmore took the part of the grasping police commissioner and politician. John Eaton was an overbearing detective. Other members of the cast were Lee Roy Robison, Hazel Edwards, Mrs. Ruth Gilmore, Houston Stokes, Lena V. Stokes, Margaret Hull, Cecil Allen, and Preston Praetor.

While the attendance of the play was lighter than during the winter months, ticket sales committee were pleased with its size. W. E. Caldwell was in charge of ticket sales for the Lion club, with members of the club co-operating in the advance sale.

Music was furnished during intermissions between acts by an orchestra conducted by W. E. James. Members of the orchestra were: Dr. O. G. Babcock, Mrs. George Baker, and Miss Rena Glen Shurley, violins; Miss Elizabeth Caldwell, piano; Louie Trainer and Junior Schweining, clarinets; Curt Schweining, Alto sax; James Ed Hutcherson, Woodrow Norris, and W. A program dealing with topics of great interest and importance to ranchmen of West Texas is being planned for the annual Round-up to be held at the U. S. Experimental Station south of Sonora August 11 and 12. Timely subjects, dealing largely with bitterweed and other poisonous plants and with diseases of livestock, will be discussed in talks by noted authorities and in round-table meetings.

The program is being worked out in detail in College Station at present, and will be released within the next few days, according to W. H. Dameron, superintendent of the local station.

Soremouth of sheep and goats, and other parasites, internal and external, of sheep and goats, will be discussed by expert veterinarians. Good talks have been planned on the marketing of livestock and ranch products.

While the Round-up will be primarily an educational meeting, entertainment will be provided. Sonora Lions Club Creates New Office; Stokes, Chairman

Innovation to Be Known as Traffic Department—Stock Pen Water Storage Discussed

Lions of Sonora wishing to honor a fellow member, Monday noon created a new office, the Traffic Department, and placed at its head Lion H. V. (Buzzy) Stokes. This action was taken upon suggestion of Lion Caldwell, who called attention to the splendid work accomplished by Lion Stokes on road matters. Duties of the new office will include looking after highway matters and improvement of lateral roads within the county.

Lion J. M. Puckett, through Lion Caldwell, called attention to the lack of adequate watering facilities at the railroad stock pens. At this time of year, it was stated, ranchmen shipping stock are hampered by the smallness of water storage at the pens, and seek relief through a petition addressed to the railroad. Vice President Bill Gilmore appointed a composed of Lions Alfred Schweining, George Baker and W. E. Caldwell to handle the matter and report their findings at a later date.

Short speeches were made by Lions Neal, Geo. Baker and W. R. Nisbett, the latter reporting the Menard road in excellent condition, having just recently been dragged. A portion of the Menard road has been in dispute, but the fenced off portion is to be opened soon, according to Lion Nisbett.

The following Lions will have charge of the entertainment program for next meeting: E. P. Neal, Tom White and J. D. Lowrey.

Local Fall Was Heaviest Reported in This Section

Climaxing a series of local showers over various parts of West Texas, a general rain, averaging from one inch to one-and-a-half inches fell Thursday morning. The rain began falling at 9 o'clock in Sonora, briskly at first, but later turning into a slow soaking down-pour which lasted the remainder of the morning. A total of 1.60 was recorded at the offices of the San Angelo Telephone Co. This fall was the heaviest reported at any of the towns served by the company.

At the Ranch Experiment Station, located south of town between Sonora and Rocksprings, the fall was lighter, with a recording of 1.20 inches. At Rocksprings the precipitation was light, with only a quarter of an inch received. Menard and Eldorado received 1.50 inches each, as did Christoval. At San Angelo the rain was lighter, with only one-half inch. Going westward along the Santa Fe, the rain shaded off, with a good shower at Mertzton and only light showers at Barnhart and Big Lake. Ozona reported .75 of an inch.

While range conditions were excellent, the rain was welcome, according to Sonora ranchmen. Its falling at this time will mean an abundance of grass through the latter part of the summer, with stock prospects the best in years.

During the first six months of the year the fall at the Experiment station totaled 14.97, or 2.65 inches above the 15-year average. The last rain raises this total to more than 16 inches.

The three loads shipped Thursday were composed of young steers bought for Mr. White from Sim Glasscock and Arthur Simmons by B. W. Hutcherson.

Considerations in the various purchases were not announced.

After the arrest, Sheriff Hutcherson learned that the boy had that day stolen the car, a Dodge coupe, in San Antonio.

On the highway he had picked up two girls who were hitch-hiking. They were kept in jail overnight and released the following morning.

The boy is being held in jail here awaiting transfer back to San Antonio.

High Prices Paid

C. B. Hudspeth Sells Wool at 30c from Registered Sheep

Claude B. Hudspeth, former congressman of this district, recently closed deals which brought him a total of $86,000. Mr. Hudspeth topped the market with his lambs, wool, and mohair.

Measles & Sellers, of Del Rio, purchased 10,000 lambs for $4 a head, making a total of $40,000. They are to be delivered Sept. 15.

Hudspeth sold 125,000 pounds of wool at 30 cents a pound, bringing $37,000. He sold 30,000 pounds of mohair at 30 cents which netted $9,000.

The lambs sold were from a flock of 35,000 registered Rambouillet sheep which is said to be the largest registered flock of sheep in the United States. Hudspeth has the flock on his Crockett and Val Verde county ranches.

In addition to this, Hudspeth has a flock of 15,000 goats, one of the largest of registered goats in this country, as well as 1,000 registered Herefords on his Crockett county ranch.

MAIN STREET

Police Chesterfields—Every New York policeman has his shoes polished up to the last degree. You can find one without his shield sooner than without a polish. Their uniforms are always pressed and there is not a set of men in the world who present as smart an appearance as the 19,000 men on Commissioner Mulrooney's force.

Naturally, on $60 a week, the pay of a New York cop, they can afford to dress better than they used to when they drew $80 a month not so very many years ago.

Police Wire-pulling—Naturally, with so many on the force, there is a certain amount of inside politics played all the time. One of choice assignments over which the men battle is the tri-weekly job of policing the crowd at the Goldman band concerts in Central Park. And the way they fight each other for the privilege of getting that job is nobody's business.

Each concert attracts close to 7,000 people, half of whom get seats while the remainder are allowed to drape themselves on the grass or wherever they can find a point of vantage. The police are there to keep them in order—and one pinch a century would be a high average. All the cops have to do is listen to one of the finest concerts on earth and then go home.

A Wonderful Gift—The Goldman band concerts are just one sample of the hundreds of free amusements offered New Yorkers all through the year. The city gives the bandstand and the Guggenheim family pays the musicians, the cost running to many thousands of dollars every year.

The band plays at Columbia University campus on alternate nights, thereby drawing a totally different crowd. In the course of the year probably a million people hear the band, not to count the many millions more who listen in by radio. Even New Yorkers who seem to find it hard to praise anything special about their city, admit the Goldman band concerts are wonderful.

The Goldman band is just one more thing that links New York up, in its likes and dislikes, with the small town. Hundreds of small places support a town band and the tri-weekly summer scene in Central Park differs only in size from the happenings in myriad of smaller places throughout the country.

140 Buzzards Trapped

Rancher Ends Menace to Young Livestock at Bay City

Bay City, July 16.—A buzzard trap recently built at a cost of $7 on the Hawkins ranch in eastern Matagorda county caught 140 of these birds in the first two days of operation. So obnoxious had buzzards become that they had practically ruined one of the windmill watering places on the ranch and were a torment to young livestock, according to F. O. Montague, county agent, with whose aid the trapping was begun. The buzzards caught were killed in the trap with a .22 rifle and piled up and burned.

The trap was built 14x14 feet and 4 feet high out of light poultry wire stretched over 8 or 10 2x2's, and the funnel constructed at one end out of the same wire and some old cast off pieces of steel picked up at the shop. Jack rabbit and armadillo were used for bait but were soon changed to Brahma calf to produce sufficient odor to attract the buzzards. Seventy birds filled the enclosure each of the first two days of operation and more would have been caught, Mr. Montague says, had the trap been larger.

Aids Varmint Control

Congress Appropriates Funds for 10-Year Co-operative Fight

An appropriation of $1,000,000 annually for a 10-year period has been made by the United States Congress for aid in the fight against rodents and predatory animals, reveals a recent article in The Official Record, publication of the United States department of agriculture. The complete story follows:

The 10-year program of predatory-animal and rodent control, authorized by the last Congress, will make more effective the control work as already organized rather than stimulate new lines, according to officials of the Bureau of Biological Survey, Department activity in predatory animal and rodent control has been encouraged by state and other co-operating agencies, which have provided funds far in excess of Federal appropriations. Co-operative control operations have been dependent on annual appropriations. Congress now puts the work on a long-term basis and authorizes appropriations of $1,000,000 annually. The increased appropriations, however, are not available before July 1, 1932.

On Federal lands the 10-year program contemplates continued co-operation by the Biological Survey with the Forest Service, the Indian Service, and other agencies. The national forests include more than 16,000,000 acres of lands, infested with rodents, principally prairie dogs and ground squirrels. Prairie dogs destroy from 20 to 80 per cent of the succulent forage grasses near their towns. The 10-year program plans the eradication of prairie dogs where they seriously compete with livestock.

In many of the Eastern states, also, increased efforts will be exerted for the control of rodents. Additional funds will permit Biological Survey leadership in organized work for the control of such rodents as cotton rats in the South, pine mice, and pocket gophers, and the common brown rat, which is probably the most destructive of all animals.

Coyotes breed in the national forests and on the public domain. Control operations have been limited by current appropriations. The 10-year program contemplates adequate control, so as to reduce to the minimum the infestation of adjacent stock-grazing areas.

Texas Entertains

Carload of Texas Produce Taken to Toronto Convention

Toronto, Ont., July 16.—The Texas delegation of Lions arrived here Tuesday morning by special train for attendance at the International Convention of Lions Clubs which opened with over 5,000 Lions and guests in attendance.

A carload of Texas produce consisting of Elberta peaches and pecans together with over 2,000 Mexican sombreros was distributed to Lion delegates Tuesday night at a celebration set aside by the International Convention committee as "Texas Night." Colonel W. G. Higgins of the Lions Club of San Antonio was in charge of the celebration.

Julian Hyer, successor to the office of International President during the coming year, was host during the evening to retiring Lion

President Earle W. Hodges, of New York City.

Most of the talent for the Texas Night celebration was brought from Texas. The Lions Club quartet of San Angelo assisted in the program.

Texas Night was an open bid for the support of other Lions districts in bringing the 1932 convention to El Paso, Texas, and for the support of their favorite son, Julian C. Hyer as International president.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

Second Installment
Peter himself showed up to good advantage.

From ten until eleven o'clock the photographers snapped and the reporters took notes. First Rowena sat at the wheel, then Peter, then the two together, each bravely trying to conceal the worm of fear that gnawed at the core of his being—fear that the chaperon had changed her mind and would not come. Eleven o'clock—eleven thirty. The reporters were getting restive. Mr. Rack had his watch in his hand and Mr. Ruff was talking business off at one side of the room.

A taxicab pulled up at the side entrance and a little brown mouse of a girl slipped out and crept timidly in through the rear door and sidled up to the cashier's cage. She had to stand on tiptoe to be seen from within.

"Where will I find Miss Rostand?" she asked and her voice was a rippling low whisper.

"What name, please? Are you from one of the papers?" asked the cashier briskly.

"No. I'm Miss Lowell—Roberta Lowell. I—I am the chaperon for the motor tour," explained the little brown mouse with a roll of brown eyes and a display of deep dimples.

"Oh, Mr. Rack," called the cashier, "here's the chaperon."

The little brown mouse looked ready to sink into the floor in shy confusion as the tide of photographers, reporters, automobile executives and salesmen—and Rowena and Peter, you may be sure—surged swiftly toward her.

"The chaperon!" ejaculated Mr. Ruff.

She had told Rowena she was twenty-three years old, but standing timidly as she did at barely five feet two, with little brown curls framing her dimpled brown face, she did not at first glance bear testimony to such weight of years. Her small hands fluttered nervously with gloves and chain. Her big brown eyes gazed out, appalled and appealing, at the crowd that surged her way.

"Are—are you Roberta Lowell," gasped Rowena.

"No wonder they call you Bobby," said Peter.

"Rowena rallied first. "Never mind, never mind!" she announced with a quick assumption of severity. "This is Bobby, and I'm the chaperon."

A few minutes later, the Rackruff roadster swept into Broadway and turned south, and the cheers of the assembled witnesses rattled the plateglass windows of the show rooms.

"You were right, Peter," confessed Rowena kindly, when they slowed for the first traffic light.

"We should certainly have looked her over."

They were rolling steadily along the Jersey side of the river when Rowena and Peter had their first argument. Rowena considered the ideal plan for them to tear along at a high rate of speed, stopping for nothing until they reached the Rocky Mountains.

"And Peter didn't agree with her. Peter's idea was to drive along at a fair speed. He said that if they rode furiously along over roads, good and bad, through boiling heat and chilling rain, they would reach a point of interest, tired, cross and worn out, hence unable to turn out the high class work that Rackruff had a right to expect of them.

Rowena said that for her part she always worked best under pressure, that something in her responded strongly to hard driving, and that she enjoyed working when she was breathless, almost panting, with haste. Peter, in that annoyingly gentle, almost disinterestedly lazy voice of his, said he didn't! Said he couldn't work at all unless he had a breathful of fresh air in his lungs and quiet comfort in his heart.

"And of course," said Rowena cuttingly, "we will do it your way. Naturally you think good pictures are the most important part of the whole business."

"Of course," said Peter simply. Rowena was speechless with rage. She was glad she had always hated artists anyhow, it made hating Peter now so much more natural. He was telling himself that he was very glad Rowena was pretty. It would be pleasant painting her. He didn't care in the least about her disposition. This was a business trip.

It just goes to show the sort that Peter was that he never even suspected that Rowena was furious.

A sudden gulping sob close at hand startled him from his comfortable reverie. He looked sharply at Rowena, who sat rigidly erect and stony-faced beside him, blue eyes glittering ice cold.

"Are—are you crying?" he asked doubtfully.

"Me?—Most certainly not! I hope you don't think for a minute you could make me cry!" ejaculated Rowena.

Peter listened. It came again, low and unmistakable, the gulping sob of a weeping woman. They looked back over their shoulders. The little brown chaperon was slumped deep in the rumble seat, her head bowed low, small shoulders rising and falling with great sobs. Peter pulled to the side of the road and stopped the car, and both he and Rowena leaned back through the window.

"Why, what's the matter, darling?" asked Rowena solicitously. "Don't you feel well?"

The small brown head shook vigorously from side to side.

"I—I'm lonesome," confessed a sad small voice. "C-Carter—didn't come to see me off."

"C-Carter?" asked Rowena and Peter in chorus.

"We're engaged. I thought surely he would come to see me off, and he didn't. I wish I hadn't come. I feel very badly. Maybe I'd better go back."

Stricken each with sudden fear that the chaperon might fail them—and they no farther west than the Hudson River—Rowena and Peter got hurriedly out and ran back to her, standing on either side while Rowena tenderly wiped the tear-stained face with a wisp of handkerchief and Peter patted both small brown hands with great vigor.

"I wrote him a very formal note," Bobby went on, "and said good-by, and told him he wouldn't need to bother taking me out places any more and sending me presents and flowers, for I was going on a long motor trip with some dear friends and would be gone a long time, and was starting on Monday morning at ten o'clock from the Rackruff salesroom on Broadway and of course I thought he would be there to see me off, and he wasn't."

Grief quite overcame her, and she would have slid clear off the rumble seat into the bottom of the

Texas Sheep, Goat Raisers Planning Year's Convention

E. S. Mayer in Charge of Final Plans for Meet, July 28-31; Prominent Speakers

Plans are being pushed forward for the annual convention and sale of Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association to be held in San Angelo July 28, 29, 30, and 31. E. S. Mayer has been named to prepare the final details of the program.

Some of the high points of the entertainment, which will be free, will be two nights of dancing, including an old-timers' dance, a chicken barbecue, a water fete, and a vaudeville show.

Nationally-known speakers are listed on the program, including Arthur Hyde, United States secretary of agriculture, Governor Ross Sterling, C. B. Denham, livestock member of the Federal Farm Board, Frank J. Hagenbarth, president of the National Wool Growers' Association, and United States Senators Tom Connolly and Morris Sheppard.

Tentative convention plans were discussed Tuesday of last week at a meeting at the office of Judge James Cornell, attorney for the association. Among those attending were T. A. Kincaid, Sol Mayer, E. S. Mayer, Abe Mayer, E. Blanton, Houston Harte, Preston Chumley, Oscar Appelt, and H. W. Broome.

SHEEP TO LEARN TOBACCO CHEWING IN CANADA

The Canadian Department of Agriculture's latest bulletin states that losses from unthriftiness due to internal parasites in sheep may be reduced by feeding tobacco to the flock.

It says further: "Tobacco is given with salt in the proportion of 10 pounds of salt to one of crushed tobacco leaf. The leaf should be dried so that it may be broken up in a size equal to wheat bran. This when mixed with the salt, slightly moistened, forms a cake which the sheep will lick when placed before them."

Suit Produced Quickly

Process, from Shearing to Tailoring, Takes 3 Hrs., 22 Min.

America's time record in producing a suit of clothes was broken in Yorkshire, England, recently when, in response to a challenge made by Sir Malcolm Campbell in a speech before the Bradford Rotary Club, a Yorkshire manufacturing firm and a Leeds tailoring firm started with the shearing of a sheep and finished a suit in three hours and 22 minutes. The American record set in 1898 was six hours and five minutes.

The suit was made to fit J. H. Thomas, Dominion secretary, who agreed to wear it at the Imperial Industries Fair at Bradford this month and later at the Imperial Economic Conference.

PAVE FOR THE FUTURE

Sonora, like other towns, plans a future of growth and development. Like other towns she is interested in improving the city in every possible way. She has an excellent sewerage system, not so common for towns of her size. Now she needs more paving. Now is an ideal time to pave!

Prices in construction trades, as in everything, have taken a tumble. Labor is down—materials are down, and with work scarce among contractors, competitive bidding now enables a town to save a worth while sum on any improvement.

But, with paving prices down, other prices are down, and we often encounter the argument that even though a bargain is to be had, it is hard to pay for. For the property owners part, arrangements can be made for a deferred plan of payment, with reasonable rates of interest. The increased cost of this plan of payment, due to interest, is largely offset by the saving effected by having the work done during a prevailing period of low prices.

The city of Sonora is fortunate in that the tax rate has been held below $1 on an assessed valuation of $100. Few cities in West Texas or elsewhere, have a rate so low, and many rates are several times that figure. A paving program at this time would likely increase the city tax rate slightly, but it could stand such a raise without serious embarrassment to city financial affairs or to city tax payers. Anything worthwhile costs money in some form or fashion, and the addition of more paving to the Sonora street system would be a wise investment in the years to come, when Sonora continues her fight for growth.

A MARATHON CRAZE

Nothing seems to be sacred from the marathon craze that has swept America for a number of years. Dancing, walking, tree-sitting, rocking a chair, playing miniature golf—and now preaching has been added to a craze that is a disgrace to a civilized nation.

The dancing marathons were first attacked as a detriment to health and mentality, which they certainly are. The tree-sitting craze, while temporary, lasted long enough to cause injury to a number of children, to say nothing of the weakening of constitutions which would inevitably result from such an excess. With ministers taking up the craze for marathon preaching, one of the last strongholds of temperance has fallen.

From California came bickerings as to what rules should be adopted. One defeated aspirant for the oratorical honor sought the disqualification of another because a portion of his "sermon" was devoted to "destructive criticism." It is hard to imagine what possible difference the text of such a discourse might make, with no one to hear and no one to be influenced by the message.

In Louisiana another minister set 100 hours as his goal. After an orgy of that kind he would be unfit to preach an intelligent sermon for a period of many weeks. No mention has been made in any of the contests of the number of conversions made, nor of the number of people who have received helpful inspiration from such a hodge-podge of words.

It is to be hoped that the American public will give such efforts little encouragement, for the function of the church does not lie in the direction of intemperance, even in preaching.

THE UNION LABEL

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Mike O'Rourke, on Labor Day, a big, bouncing baby boy. Mr. O'Rourke, president of the Hod-carriers' organization, and prominent in labor circles, greeted the news of the new arrival with—

"Has he got the Union Label? Tell me, I pray. If he doesn't bear the label, Take the bloomin' thing away!"

There is another label which is important to labor and capital, rich and poor. A label that needs not the backing of an organized body to enforce the principles for which it stands.

It is a label that means more than anything else to anyone—in peace, in war, in good times and bad. Sometimes it takes nerve to wear this label and show it—depending upon circumstances—but its presence lightens the burdens of mankind, brings a smile to a downcast face, and happiness and contentment to the heavy hearted. And that label is the—

LABEL OF FRIENDSHIP

Anyone endowed with the virtues which entitle him to full and free use of this label, is indeed fortunate, and his fellowmen richer by having known him.

Sonora is losing a man of this character. A man who wears his label where all may see. A man whose good deeds and kindly acts overshadow his shortcomings like a mountain beside a mole-hill. Honest, upright, energetic, with a heart as big as the state of Texas, is his mark of character. He is as full of pranks as a school boy, joking a friend unmercifully, yet ready and willing to run his hand to the depth of his pocket-book to help any friend in need.

"Bronc" Wilson has wrought a great work in Sonora. Starting with naught but a foundation he has placed The Devil's River News on a high plane and made it known from coast to coast. Through the medium of "Sum Bull" he has made a host of friends, who will join with the Dreamer in wishing health, happiness and prosperity for the Wilson family in their new-old home in the famous oil town of Big Lake, Texas.

Here's how, Bronc. The Dreamer never hopes to find a better friend than you have proved yourself to be.

Wool Consumption Up

Total in U. S. Shows Big Gain; Foreign Use Off

The bureau of Agriculture Economics at Washington reports that the decreased consumption of foreign wool has been more than offset by a marked increase in consumption of domestic wool in the United States. Statistics show that the total wool consumption during the first four months of 1931 in the United States was 3,728,000 pounds more than during the same period a year ago. Consumption of domestic wool increased 13,641,000 pounds to the period, while foreign wool consumption declined 9,913,000 pounds. Decreased imports are attributed to the narrowing of the margin between foreign and domestic prices.

with road progress, especially new highways. This honor comes to Lion Stokes by reason of his interest in and the good work done in pushing the OST bond issue. He has given, unstintingly, of his time and means in working for this project, along with matters pertaining to lateral roads leading out of Sonora to community points.

Forty more members with the public spirit of Lion Stokes and the Sonora club would be known the country over as the "hardest-working, biggest little Lions club" in the world.

In a speech before the Lions club last Monday, Lion Geo. Baker, new editor of "The Devil," said he was not disappointed in Sonora, as a town, nor the people. He said he found it a desirable place in which to live; that he liked the people and the way in which they did things. He said he believed Sonora had a wonderful future and he, with the Lions club or individually, was willing to use his influence for the advancement of the community.

Sonora will find Mr. and Mrs. Baker worthy of all the friendship it has to bestow. They are young people fully alive as to the mission of their chosen profession, and will give Sonora and Sutton county a live, up and coming newspaper. Their becoming citizens of the town will be found an asset which will mean much to the progress of the Stockman's Capital.

Two-Gun Ike, who owns and personally operates the Lone Goat Ranch, on the headwaters of Dry Devil's River, was in town last Monday. Mr. Ike states that he is just recovering from a serious mistake committed on a dark night about two months ago. Becoming very dry about midnight, he says he undertook to find his bottle in the dark and drank a pint of sheep dip before realizing the difference in the burning sensation. "From now on," said Two-Gun, "I'm keeping my private stock in a three-cornered bottle."

HOME HINTS

Spinach Salad—Chop cooked spinach. Add chopped boiled egg and a little chopped cold tongue or ham. One egg to two cups of the spinach should be allowed and for the same amount a half cup of chopped meat. Add a half cup of toasted bread crumbs. Pack in small cups or molds and chill. When ready to serve turn out on beds of lettuce leaves and dress with mayonnaise.

For Frying—Next time you have any fish or croquettes to fry—anything that needs to be rolled in fine bread crumbs or flour—try putting the crumbs or flour on a good-sized piece of clean kitchen paper instead of on a platter or molding board. This will give you a larger flat surface than is possible with a platter and will spare you the rather troublesome task of cleaning the molding board. It is an especially good thing when there is fish to fry.

Cheese on Salad—Did you ever try grated cheese on salad? Use yellow cheese dry enough to be grated and then after you have added a little mayonnaise to the salad sprinkle the cheese lightly on top, or pass in a little dish with the mayonnaise. It is especially good with a salad made of cold cauliflower.

For Luncheon some time try a salad from cooked rice that has been set to cool in small individual molds. Place one of the rice molds on each bed of lettuce, and serve with mayonnaise or home-made boiled salad dressing with grated cheese sprinkled on top.

Good Dressings—Sauce Tartare: To one cup of mayonnaise add a tablespoon each of finely minced olives, sweet pickles and chives or onions.

Thousand Island Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add two tablespoons of chilli sauce, one tablespoon of chopped onion and one tablespoon of chopped pepper.

Manhattan Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add a finely chopped hard-boiled egg, one tablespoon of capers and a tablespoon of finely chopped sweet pickle.

California Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise add a quarter cup of minced ripe olives and the same amount of minced green olives.

W. M. S. Meets for Second of Bible Study Classes

The second class of the Bible study series which is being conducted by the Rev. E. P. Neal for the Woman's Missionary Society, was held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church. A very good attendance was noted, and great interest in the study course was manifest.

A short business session followed the class period and announcement was made that the next meeting will be the regular social meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. O.

Savory Fish—Cut into strips one pound of smoked fish of any kind; put over fire in cold water, let come slowly to a boil, and boil for ten minutes. In another sauce pan heat one cup of stock with one-fourth of a cup, each, of tomato sauce and vinegar, a tablespoon of mustard, and a few grains of cayenne. Drain the fish, saute on hot pan in one-fourth a cup of butter or fat, then add to the hot stock; thicken the butter in the pan with two tablespoons of flour; stir this into the saucepan containing the fish and seasoned stock, cover, and simmer for five minutes. Serve on a hot platter, surrounded with strips of toast.

WHEATS HAVE FAMILY REUNION WEDNESDAY

The ranch home of Ira L. Wheat, south of Sonora, was the scene of a family re-union Wednesday. One son, G. N. Wheat, of Chicago, was unable to be present. The re-union was the first in years.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Martin and daughter, Elizabeth, of Del Rio; Mrs. Edna Beam, of the Headquarters ranch; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wheat and family of the ranch south of town, and Mrs. Ed Mayfield and son, Stanley, of Sonora.

G. Babcock. The hour of meeting will be 3:30 p. m. next week instead of 4:00, as the Bible study is to be conducted before the social hour. A cordial welcome is extended to members and friends of the organization.

A dress of navy blue or black georgette, made with skirt flounce, peplum and sleeve ruffles of pleated georgette. Nothing could be better choice for warm weather days in town when you want to have something that will be cool and smart and will not readily show the grime of the city.

With the aid of the professional pleater you can make a georgette dress of this sort without the slightest difficulty. You may make it in two pieces or one, using a simple pattern with V-neck closing and tucks on the shoulder. For the skirt you will want a flounce about 18 inches deep after a narrow hem has been taken. Mark the skirt eighteen inches up from the hem and measure distance round.

Three times this measurement will give you the right size for your flounce, because the box pleating calls for three times the finished amount. The ruffle for the peplum should be eight or nine inches after a hem is made. Take a generous waist measurement and multiply this by three for the amount needed.

The sleeve ruffles should be about seven inches finished. If the edge of the flared sleeve measures about twelve inches you will need two pieces twenty-four inches long for the box-pleated sleeve frills. The peplum is made with an opening at the center front while the skirt flounce and sleeve frills are seamed up.

car if Peter hadn't caught her firmly and drawn her back.

"Don't you care, darling," said Rowena. "Men are all like that. They aren't worth crying about."

"You mustn't feel like that," said Peter gently. "He was probably so ashamed he couldn't bear to face you. That's the way I am. The more ashamed I feel the more—the more—"

"The more away you stay, I suppose," said Rowena coldly.

"Exactly," assented Peter. "But he knows how dangerous motor trips are," sobbed Bobby. "He knows I'm likely to be killed any minute, or at least maimed for life."

"All alike," repeated Rowena grimly.

"That's probably why he didn't come," said Peter comfortingly. "He realized that at thought of you going away into such terrible danger he would lose his self-control and break down before all those people. And then think how he'd feel."

Bobby thought of it. "But Carter's not like that," she said. "I don't believe he'd break down. He's not at all the brooding-down kind of man. He's got red hair—"

"Well, he might pretend he broke down," insisted Peter.

All pretense, every one of them," declared Rowena sweepingly.

"It's terribly lonesome, going off on such a long trip without having Carter there to be ashamed of himself and feel sorry," said Bobby.

"I tell you what, darling," suggested Rowena brightly. "You come around here and sit with Peter and let him cheer you up. He's very good company. It's too lonesome for you back there alone."

"But you said I had to sit in the rumble seat!"

"Well, I've changed my mind. You see, I thought then that Peter and I would want to talk business and discuss our plans, and I never dreamed that every time I made a suggestion it would just lead to a bitter argument."

"Why, I didn't argue with you," protested Peter.

"I'd much rather sit in the rumble seat where I can think my thoughts in peace and not have my most innocent ideas contradicted before they are out of my mouth," continued Rowena.

"Why, I wasn't contradicting you," protested Peter.

But Rowena insisted, so Peter helped Bobby gently out of the rumble seat and was just turning to give Rowena a hand when he saw that she was already in, sitting very erect, chin high and eyes extremely blue. So he got in behind the wheel and they started off again.

Rowena settled back in the rumble seat with a malicious little grin. After listening to Bobby's chatter about Carter for an hour, she leaned forward.

"Do you mind if I close this window?" she asked sweetly. "I'm trying to think out the plot to a story and I must have perfect silence to decide whether I want to have Bobby's Carter commit the murder or be committed."

From that moment the rumble seat was Rowena's own.

She seemed to take a morbid

Ozona Nine Fails to Appear for Sunday Contest Here

A scheduled game between the Sonora Lions club team and the Ozona team Sunday afternoon was not played through failure of the Ozona nine to appear.

A number of the Ozona players wanted to attend a championship game being played in Texon between the Texon Oilers and the Del Rio Cowboys. Consequently a full team could not be assembled, and the Sonora boys were left without a contest, it being too late to match another game.

pleasure in providing comfort for her privacy, and often smiled to herself in complacency and not unmalicious satisfaction when she heard the steady soft roll of Bobby's voice regaling Peter with vivid accounts about Carter and their last quarrel which caused her to apply for the trip.

Peter was in possession of a complete biography of Carter long before they reached Buffalo, where they were to pay their first official visit to the Rackruff salesrooms, and where he was to make his first picture of the roadster and Rowena.

For all the seclusion of the rumble seat, Rowena was able to break in on Bobby's love-affair long enough to voice her disagreement with Peter's plans when she wanted to, which was pretty often. It went without saying that they did not agree about the financial management of the trip. Rackruff Motors, Inc., had agreed to pay all expenses for the car en route, and had allowed Peter and Rowena a joint salary of one hundred dollars a week—an expense allowance, it was really.

Peter's idea of the way to carry on was obviously the simplest and most natural. He said he would pay expenses for both of them and then divide equally with Rowena whatever was left of the hundred dollars at the end of each week.

Rowena said it wouldn't do. In the end, Peter agreed to divide each week's allowance with her immediately upon its receipt every Monday morning, each thereafter paying his own bills, bearing his own responsibility, and saving what he could from the amount.

Even before they reached Buffalo he realized it would have been money in his pocket to have stuck to his original idea. Certainly it was no great drain on the expense account buying food for Rowena. While motoring in the fresh air made both him and Bobby ravenously hungry, so that they wished to eat often, fully and expensively, it seemed to have no effect whatever upon Rowena, who ate so rarely and so little that Bobby accused her of trying to reduce.

"Well," smiled Peter good-naturedly, "if you carry on like this for the next three months you will get rich off your share of the expense account."

Meacham Moving to Oregon After Selling Ranch

Shipping Goats to Eugene—Will Enter Business There—Gibbs Buys Land

W. G. Meacham, who recently sold his ranch of 1,340 acres, located 40 miles east of Sonora in Sutton county, to Leonard Gibbs, neighboring rancher, is moving to Eugene, Oregon, and plans to ranch there.

Mr. Meacham is moving 470 head of high grade Angora goats to the Oregon country, and will secure acreage when he arrives there.

Mrs. Meacham, as well as their children, two sons, R. A. and Alfred, and a daughter, Miss Eleanor, are also moving.

The ranch which goes to Mr. Gibbs is a fine tract of grazing land, with plenty of brush for goats.

To Advertise Mohair

Texas Breeders Plan Co-operation With Manufacturers

Co-operation with the mohair mills in the advertising of mohair is to be undertaken by the Texas Angora Goat Raisers' Association, and a committee will be appointed to sit in the advertising councils of the mills, according to J. E. Robbins, Camp Wood banker and president of the Angora association.

A sum of money has been put up by 17 mohair mills for the stimulation of demand for mohair in the furniture trades. The furniture business is considered the best avenue of expansion for mohair.

A proposal for each goat man to contribute one-eighth of a cent a pound from each pound of mohair toward advertising of the product will be discussed by a committee to be appointed by Mr. Robbins, in a meeting with the warehouse men of Texas.

CARLSBAD CAVERN BATS TO BE STUDIED BY PARK MAN

Carlsbad Cavern enthusiasts will be interested to know that the bats of the caverns are scheduled to "get a break". Dr. H. E. Bryant, assistant director of the National Park Service, has become greatly interested in the thousands of bats inhabiting portions of the Caverns. It will be remembered that the flights of bats from the mouth of the cavern in the days before its fame led to its exploration and ultimate conversion into a National Park.

Dr. Bryant points out that bats are invaluable for the service which they render in the destruction of injurious insects and adds that what he terms "that wonderful animal concentration camp" offers rare opportunities for further studies of the odd mammals, such as the preparations of graphs showing the times when the flights begin and end, and the relation of outdoor temperatures to the flights.

Bats, Dr. Bryant says, belong to a very "distinctive" family, being the only flying mammals and the survivors of the days of pterodactyles or "flying reptiles." He is confident, he says, that naturalists all over the world, if they realized

Sheep Report Made

603 Exposed to Scabies in Tom Green; Inspection in Val Verde

It was revealed by two inspections made in Tom Green county during June by Hez Williams, county sheep inspector, that 603 sheep had been exposed to scabies, according to the monthly report of J. H. Rasco, chief inspector, scabies eradication, for the Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Texas. The sheep were dipped.

Val Verde had the largest number of exposures, amounting to 2,671, while 296 were determined and the sheep dipped in Irion county, and 550 likewise found exposed and dipped in Kerr county. Only in Brazoria and Fort Bend counties were actual infections found. The greatest number of inspections was in Val Verde county where 44 investigations were made.

Goats all over the state are free from infection or exposure, it was revealed by inspections made in the field of goat scabies.

Hartley county was the only one reporting infection of cattle during June. Four hundred ten animals were found infected and a total of 160 were dipped.

105 BUSHEL OATS TO ACRE MADE AT ELDORADO

B. F. Nolan, of Eldorado, threshed out his oat crop last week, having a 60-acre field that yielded 105 bushels per acre. His entire crop made an average of 90 bushels per acre. He has sold about 1,000 bushels at around 21 cents per bushel and will hold the bulk of the crop for a better price.

Mohair Velvet Is Proven Superior for Upholstering

Fabric Has Been Popular for Many Years—Now in Reach of Masses

The invention of machinery put within the reach of everyday folks, as well as kings and nobles, as in previous centuries, the one kind of upholstery which has remained in constant popularity since the Industrial Revolution. This upholstery is none other than mohair velvet. The demand for furniture covered with fabric made from the fleece of the Angora goat has increased steadily until now the United States leads in the world in Angora goat raising and consequently in the production of mohair materials.

Mohair velvet, or velmo, as it is often called, not only possesses a beauty and lustre combined with a softness of texture which would please the taste of almost any housewife, but it merits its perennial popularity by its great durability, which will endure the most exacting tests. This wearing ability is due partly to the fact that mohair itself is the longest wearing animal fabric known, and partly because it is a pile fabric, with the wear coming on the ends of the fibre instead of along the sides. As high as 40,000 of these sturdy fibres are found to the square inch of mohair velvet.

A study of the physical structure and chemical composition of the mohair fabric reveals why it makes superior upholstery fabric. As viewed through a microscope, the mohair fibre is smooth and shiny, with few scales or serrations. This means that it does not attract dirt quickly, that dust tends to slide off the smooth hairs, and that actual dirt is easily removed with a swift brushing with soap and water if necessary, without affecting the color. Effects of sun and strong light need not be feared, for mohair takes a fast acid dye.

Though, like all animal fibres, mohair is normally attractive to the pestiferous house moth, science has perfected a means of effectually and permanently mothproofing mohair velvet. When the fabric has been treated by this method, it has been noticed that moths will actually die in preference to attacking it. This feature alone should be a strong recommendation for mohair as the ideal fabric for fine furniture, in view of the tremendous damage done every year by the hated house moth.

But despite its longevity as a popular fabric, mohair is not confined to a limited number of colors, patterns, and weaves. These change with the current fashion, season after season, beautiful solid colors, two-tone weaves, period de-

Trucks Need Permit

Commercial Haulers Ranch Products Certificates Ready

Blanks for permits to haul wool, mohair, feedstuffs, livestock, to and from ranches will be available about August 1 and should be asked for then by truck operators, according to B. A. Carter, San Angelo, of the West Texas Truck Owners Association.

The two truck bills passed by the recent legislature will be effective August 22. One phase of one of the truck bills, that which limits weights to 7,000 pound loads, will not be effective until January 1, but the 55-foot maximum length of truck and trailer will be in effect August 22. Permits can be secured from Mr. Carter or from the railroad commission in Austin.

Ranchmen who have their own trucks do not have to get the permit. The permit given haulers of ranch products will permit the operators to haul their products to any destination, but does not exempt them from the other provisions of the law. The cost of the permit will be $10.

signs, modernistic effects, or conventional patterns all being available in mohair velvet.

A paramount feature of its desirability is that mohair velvet has been found to be virtually fadeless, unchanging after years of constant exposure to the sun and elements. This is explained by the fact that the mohair fibre is unusual in construction, being tubular and very attractive to acid dye.

THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 16.—One fallacy that dates back to the founding of the Republic has been exploded—the idea that American diplomats are no match for European statesmen. The world has been treated to the spectacle of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, a Pittsburgh banker and iron magnate, handling, on more than even terms, the delicate negotiations involved in the debt holiday.

Practically every other country but France was won over to the plan before Mellon left this country. France alone proved obdurate and entrenched itself behind its Chamber of Deputies, which Premier Laval asserted, had authorized him to agree only within certain limitations. Mellon's success in threading his way past these defenses has strengthened the Administrator's hold, politically, as it is known that he was guided throughout by President Hoover's personal advice. The negotiations have been conducted more skillfully, perhaps, than any deal made with a foreign government since the days when Benjamin Franklin was Minister to the Court of France and enlisted its aid for the American colonies.

Led by Vice President Curtis and Senator Capper, the two leading politicians from the wheat belt, an attack is being made on the Federal Farm Board's announced policy of unloading its wheat at the rate of five million bushels a month, if found practicable without breaking the price of wheat. Many observers here see in their activity only a political gesture, designed to bring the two men more into the limelight.

These critics point out that the Farm Board is committed against any action that would result in materially lowering the price of wheat. It has the problem of selling its holdings at an average price of 92 cents and the present price is less than half that on the Chicago Board of Trade. The effect of an appeal to Mr. Hoover to stop the Board from unloading its holdings cannot amount to much, it is said here, as wheat will have to approximate $1 a bushel before the government can start selling.

The Farm Board's selling campaign is definitely hooked up with a plan to purchase fresh wheat to the amount of its sales. All transactions will be handled so as not to depress the market price unless the world price should rise, and none will be made without consulting representatives of the farmers. It is generally conceded here that the Board's statement is an ultimatum to all wheat farmers, warning them the government cannot aid them unless they reduce their wheat acreage. It is also taken as a warning to private grain traders that the Board will not allow itself to be "smoked out" into a definite announcement regarding prices, which would permit traders to jockey the market for their own selfish purposes.

Tammany may be condemned for a thousand sins but it never has been accused of pussy-footing. Republican politicians here are trying to puzzle out whether Claude G. Bowers, the keynote orator at the Democratic National Convention in 1928, has not again sounded the call to battle in his Fourth of July speech at the Tammany Wigwam in New York City. That his speech actually represented the best thought of his party is being considered here as more than likely.

It is to be noted that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, now the most likely candidate against Mr. Hoover, studiously refrained from attending the rally. His action leaves him free to accept or reject Bowers' dictum, which is that the coming campaign will be fought out strictly on the tariff issue.

Ever since this country became a great manufacturing nation, some 75 years ago, the tariff question has dominated the platform in a majority of presidential campaigns. The free silver issue and Wilson's war stand alone put it into the background. The last really sharp tariff battle was in Cleveland's victory in 1892, which was followed by some lean years.

Bower chose as his text the claims put out by the Hoover managers in 1928 that a high tariff meant prosperity. He said that voters had enjoyed plenty of time—between customers—since then to meditate upon the success of the tariff, charging that the high tariff has put a Chinese wall around the country right at a time when it desperately needed foreign markets.

Not a word was said about the prohibition issue or superpower. If Bowers' speech is accepted by the democratic party as a competent expression of its aims it means that the farmers of the country are to be asked to vote for the democratic ticket on the appeal that the high tariff has raised the price of everything they buy while it has not added a cent to his purchasing power.

Russian wheat and cotton are selling below the price American farmers can raise them and the democrats are expected to make this point their main bid for votes when the campaign starts. Bowers' speech before the Texas convention three years ago is still remembered as one of the greatest keynote orations ever made, rivaling in its dramatic power Bryan's "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech at Chicago in 1896. Unless his recent speech had been approved by democratic leaders before it was given, it would never have been made.

THURMAN GILMORE CUTS FINGERS ON TIN SHEARS

Thurman Gilmore, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Gilmore, of Fort Worth, who has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Gilmore, for the past two weeks, met with a painful accident Tuesday in the Gilmore Hardware Co. when he cut the three middle fingers of his left hand badly on the tin shears. Thurman had been working the greater part of the day on a miniature tin boat. In placing the tin sheet under the sharp edge of the shears, he accidentally held his fingers partially under the blade and his hand was caught.

It was at first feared that he might lose one or two of the cut fingers, but after the dressing on Wednesday it was thought that such danger was past. Thurman is more comfortable today.

Angelo Negroes Win

Menard Black Tigers Go Down to Defeat By 17 to 6

The San Angelo Negro All-Stars took a comical baseball game here Sunday by a score of 17 to 6 from the Black Tigers, Menard negro aggregation.

Menard used three hurlers in an effort to stop the heavy hitting All-Stars. One lanky youth held the San Angelo boys for four or five of the middle innings, but finally weakened and had several of his fast offerings knocked from the park by rival batters.

Errors were numerous, with the infielders on both teams taking about as many plays off the shins as in their gloves. Throwing between bases became erratic at times, likewise.

Several Sonora negroes were listed on the Menard roster.
