CINDERS

By John T. King

If you're in a mood to think of income taxes this early, here are a few facts:

There's a new streamlined form this year, changed largely to accommodate data processing machines. And the line for the signature is on the front again. Too many people forgot to sign them the other way.

Cigarette tax, long a questionable item, has been ruled out. So have license plates fees for personal autos.

But next time you're down in the dumps, remember: It might be depreciable. That's not so silly as it sounds when you look at a recent Tax Court decision written up by Prentice-Hall. While it may be axiomatic that you can't depreciate land, the Tax Court, in effect, permitted a taxpayer to do just that.

Mr. Sexton operated garbage dumps around Chicago. A few years ago he paid $150,000 for abandoned clay pits which were gradually filled with garbage. When completely filled, the land was useless as a dump.

In fact, its fair market value was only about $45,000.

The Tax Court (with 5 judges dissenting) allowed Mr. Sexton to write off $105,000 (the difference) over the life of the pits—based on the amount of space filled each year. Reason: That's the price he paid for the holes in the ground, which were gradually being exhausted!

Mrs. Buntyn Injured In Auto Accident

Mrs. O. J. Buntyn, who was injured in an automobile accident recently, is recovering at Brady Hospital. Her husband said Tuesday that he expected her to remain in the hospital for four or five more days.

Mrs. Buntyn was traveling from Menard to Brady Tuesday afternoon, November 8, when the car she was driving went out of control after she dodged some sheep. The car skidded down the highway for several yards on its top before stopping upside down.

CROP Donations Total $143 Here

Projects of the Sutton County Christian Rural Overseas Program have raised $143.54 for aid for needy people overseas, according to a report by Jackie Wade, treasurer.

The local CROP committee has solicited livestock contributions from ranchers and has operated a booth for donations at the Halloween carnival.

Donations to CROP are distributed through Church World Service in the form of food and supplies.

Deer, Turkey Seasons Open With Abundant Fat Game

Deer and turkey hunting seasons open Saturday, November 14, in Sutton County with prospects of an abundance of game in good condition and with several prizes offered to hunters by Nolan Johnson, game warden, has said that there is plenty of game in the country, and the animals are heavier than last year. With good range conditions from recent rains, both deer and turkeys are reported to be fat. Turkeys are said to be unusually plentiful.

Bob Johnson, manager of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce, says that a number of prizes are being offered to hunters bagging their game in Sutton County. M. C. Scott of Sonora Food Locker will process the deer free and will give a smoked turkey to the first out-of-town hunter bringing in a deer. For the first local hunter bringing in a deer there will be a free deer processing and a box of homemade cake and candy. Scott will award a free head mount for the deer with the most points.

Bag limit is three deer with no more than two bucks, while the limit for turkeys is one gobble or bearded hen. Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. The season extends to December 31.

Lambert's Drive In is offering a trophy for the first deer brought in and a trophy for the deer with the most points. An Eddystone 30.06 deer rifle will be awarded by the Gulf Restaurant to the hunter with the best white-tail deer head. Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company is offering a Coleman stove for the deer with the most points and five boxes of shells for the best horn spread. Trophies will be awarded by Barrow Jewelry and Sporting Goods for the best-all-around deer and for the best-all-around field dressed turkey. Johnson says that hunters may visit these places of business to learn the merchants' individual rules of competition and specifications for animals.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE AWARD—O. L. Richardson, left, a former resident of Sonora, receives a certificate for 10 years' service with the U. S. Government. Making the presentation is John P. Wiley, director of the AID Mission in Paraguay. Richardson is livestock advisor for the Agency for International Development in Asuncion, Paraguay, and is manager of the Barreritos Ranch operated by the U. S. AID Mission to Paraguay.

O. L. Richardson, livestock advisor for the Agency for International Development in Asuncion, Paraguay, recently received an award for ten years' service with the United States government.

Richardson, who served overseas in Columbia before going to Paraguay, is the manager of the Barreritos Ranch operated by the U.S. AID Mission to Paraguay.

A graduate of Sonora High School and Texas A&M University, he is married to the former Janita Hughes. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Richardson Sr.

March of Dimes Kick-Off Meeting Scheduled Tuesday

A kick-off meeting for the 1965 March of Dimes Campaign will be held Tuesday, November 17, in the Blue Flame Room of the Del Rio Gas Company at 6:30 p.m., according to an announcement by Mrs. L. S. Vasbinder, council representative.

Volunteers from area towns will help plan the campaign to be held next January.

"More than 250,000 babies are born each year with significant birth defects, and until recently little was being done to provide corrective treatment for these victims of crippling diseases," said Mrs. Vasbinder. "Now the March of Dimes has established nearly 50 treatment centers across the nation."

She also stated that the program is leading the battle against birth defects on the research front.

Mrs. Vasbinder said that the meeting Tuesday will be open to the public, and she urges all citizens to attend.

West Side Lions Set Open House At New Building

The West Side Lions Club will observe open house at its new club building Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Raul Favila, president, said that the dedication of the new club house was held Tuesday night. He welcomed the public to come Sunday to see the latest project of the club.

The building is located on Main Street south of U.S. 290.

Broncos Swat Yellowjackets 31-14, Challenge High Roosting Owls Fri.

By Gary McGillvray

The Sonora Broncos proved to be too strong for an injury-prone Menard team in Menard last Friday night. The game, which did not affect the competition for championship of District 8-A, resulted in a 31 to 14 victory for the Broncos.

The Sonora squad was sparked by great defensive work by Mike St. Clair, who intercepted four Menard passes, returning one of them 18 yards for a touchdown. St. Clair, along with the passing of Bill Elliott and the running of Mike Gosney and Jerry Shurley, sparked the team to victory.

The Menard Yellowjackets scored first on an 80-yard drive after a touchback. They were then shut out by the Bronco defense until the last quarter when they capitalized on a Sonora fumble and tallied 8 points.

The Broncos crossed the goal line twice in the first half, the first time on a sustained drive with Gosney going over from the two. Elliott kicked the extra point to put Sonora ahead 7-6. The next score came on St. Clair's interception, and the two extra points were earned on a quick pass from Elliott to end Roy Glascock.

Shurley topped a 70-yard drive with a scoring play from the four-yard line, and then he tackled on two bonus points.

Sonora's final tally came on a seven-yard touchdown pass from Elliott to Glascock. Ben Perez scored the extra points.

In the key game of last week's 8-A competition, Iraan edged Ozona by a score of 16 - 15, giving the Big Lake Owls, who lead the district with a 7 - 0 record, the championship of the district.

Tied for second place are Sonora, Ozona, and Eldorado, each having won five games and lost two. Iraan is in the third slot with a 4-2-1 record. Following are Rankin, Junction, Sanderson, and Menard.

Friday night the Broncos will meet the high-roosting Owls at 7:30 in Bronco Stadium. Although one key to the success of the Big Lake squad has been the performance of Don Childs—a six-foot, two-inch, 200-pound fullback—the Owls are not a one-man team. They have 14 lettermen back from last year's bi-district championship team, including eight offensive and six defensive regulars.

Survivors include one son, Rex R. Merriman; two daughters, Mrs. Monroe Voigt of San Antonio and Mrs. Al Burrow of Midland; four grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. O. E. Merriman; three brothers, Jack and Bill Drennan of Sonora and Tom Drennan of Midland; and a sister, Mrs. Pat Lyles.

Funeral Rites Held For Mrs. Merriman, Lifetime Resident

Funeral services for Mrs. Della Mae Merriman were held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, November 7, in the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Allan Guthrie, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in San Angelo, officiating.

Mrs. Merriman died at 3:30 a. m. Friday in Hudspeth Memorial Hospital after an extended illness.

Born July 24, 1904, in Sonora, she was a resident here all her life and attended Sonora public schools. In 1921 she was married to the late Mr. J. M. Merriman.

Girl Scouts Win In Camping Contest

Girl Scouts of Sutton County Troop No. 43 won third place in a contest of camping skills at a Camporee held recently on the M. D. Bryant Spring Creek Ranch west of Tankersley. About 1,000 girls of the San Angelo Frontier Council participated in the event.

The Sonora Scouts, who went to the Camporee for the first time, have received a leather plaque for their accomplishment. They scored 185 out of a possible 200 points.

Those participating were Judy Steed, Betty Hearn, Regina Trainer, Connie Land, Kay Kerbow, Patti Richardson, and Missy Brown. Another member of the troop, Beth Davis, was unable to attend.

Accompanying the Scouts on the trip were Mrs. Jack Kerbow and Mrs. O. L. Richardson Jr.

Wallace Appointed

George Wallace was appointed a member of the Sonora School Board at a special meeting November 6.

Wallace is to fill the unexpired term of Harold Friess, who resigned for medical reasons. Friess said Tuesday that he had thoroughly enjoyed his work with the School Board members, whom he termed a "very fine group of people."

Burglary of Safe Being Investigated

Law officers are investigating a Sunday night burglary of J&S Motors.

James Hough, deputy sheriff, said that $225 and a diamond ring were reported to be missing from the safe.

He noted that the burglary had the earmarks of a professional job, and said that a similar crime had been reported in Del Rio Sunday.

Open House Set At Ellis Shamrock Service Station

H. T. "Bud" Ellis, new owner of Sonora Shamrock Service, will celebrate Shamrock Days at his station at 606 Southwest Crockett, Friday and Saturday, November 13 and 14.

Gifts will be given to visitors, and with the purchase of ten gallons of gas, customers will receive a colonial lamp.

Ellis worked for Ford Tractor Co. in Monahan prior to moving to Sonora.

HUNTING IN AMERICA

The outdoors lies deep in American tradition. It has had a great impact upon our Nation's character and on those who made its history. When an American looks for the meaning of his past, he seeks it not in ancient ruins but on a mountain, in a forest, by a river, or at the edge of the sea. The outdoors is a thing of the heart and of the senses—sight, sound, smell, taste, touch. Conservation and sportsmanship are personal things—growing from the conscience, from the soul. That is why hunting is cherished by Americans as a legacy to be shared by sportsmen today, but to be conserved for generations yet unborn.

When our forefathers established our government, it was decreed that wild game belongs to the States in their sovereign capacity for the use and enjoyment of all the people. At the same time, it was decreed that the landowner has the right to determine who may come upon his land to hunt the game. While pressures were light, there was no critical conflict between public ownership of game and private control over its harvest. As the population has increased, however, trespass laws have become more and more restrictive.

Too many hunters are guilty of vandalism, trespass, careless handling of firearms, and violations of game laws. The true sportsman of America cannot afford to permit this small minority group to destroy hunting opportunities for all. Hunters must work together and with landowners to control the vandals; they must encourage good sportsmanship by example; and they must insist on the highest standards of conduct from hunting companions in the field.

While hunting is an extremely safe sport, there are injuries and fatalities which can and should be avoided. Research shows that hunting accidents are due primarily to carelessness or ignorance of proper gun handling. If we are to prevent accidents, each of us must adhere to the essentials of safe hunting. We must know our gun, be sure that it and its ammunition are in good condition, sight-in our rifle or pattern our shotgun, and learn to be a good shot. We must handle our gun properly—always treat it as though it is loaded, always point the muzzle in a safe direction, be sure of our target, and practice self-control.

—The American Rifleman

A family ran out of gas late at night on a lonely road. While Father walked to the nearest service station, the children grew uneasy, so mother got them to pray for a policeman to come by. Finally, after a couple of tense hours, Father reappeared, and they started to hurry to make up for lost time. They were speeding along the highway when they heard a siren. Behind them a flashing red light was bearing down on them. The children shouted happily, "Oh, mommy, our prayers have been answered!"

William Henry Harrison died on April 4, 1841, just one month after he was inaugurated president of the United States.

The Saracens introduced scientific irrigation into Andalusian Spain after the conquest in the 8th century.

The first automatic looms introduced in Holland at the end of the 16th century were limited to narrow ribbon and lace.

Most unusual TV programs I've run into are those from stations seen around Rapid City, S.D., Kimball, Neb., and Winona, Minn. . . they're time-and-temperature stations only, giving nothing but weather information all day long. The first one I tuned in gave me a start.

I have had a bit of nostalgia as I read that the end of the forest fire lookout stations may be in sight . . . spotter airplanes did such a fine job in certain areas of the West last summer, that there'll be more of them in the air next year.

A plane can cover so much more territory and move to investigate smoke or blaze . . . so the lonely vigil of the fire lookout high atop a mountain peak is being superseded.

Another change in Western forests, too, comes from the use of balloons in logging . . . filled with helium, they can be used to lift logs out of difficult areas and drop them at a convenient loading spot. Things are certainly different in logging from the days when I worked in the woods as a boy in North Idaho, so many years ago.

Gone are the heavy-drinking itinerant loggers who got into a brawl every payday. . . gone are the stench-filled bunkhouse and the careless disregard for life and safety. . . yes, modern logging is a much more business-like operation than it used to be, and the modern logger is much like the average workingman everywhere.

Sutton County— Capital of the Stockman's Paradise

Even if the movies and TV haven't recognized the fact yet!

I wonder how many folks are taking into consideration what they heard during Fire Prevention Week . . . thousands of home fires could be eliminated in the coming year if all of us followed the advice of experts in eliminating those common fire causes. . .

People who smoke in bed or use gas or naphtha indoors for dry cleaning, etc., are in the same class with the folks who tailgate on the highway. They're asking for trouble!

Be Careful . . . Avoid danger.

In Texas . . .

after bowling, beer is a natural

After you've bowled a game or two, or when you're winding up the evening at the neighborhood bowling center, it's good to relax with friends and compare scores. What better way to add to the sport and the sociableness than with a refreshing glass of beer? However you take your fun—skiing, skating, or at your ease in the game room—beer always makes a welcome addition to the party.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

Journalists' Tour Of Western Texas Set November 4-14

Texas' second travel writers' tour, November 4-14, has begun, announces the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

About 85 travel writers, representing principal magazines, newspapers, and other publications from across the nation will visit West Texas tourist attractions at the invitation of Governor John Connally.

The ten-day promotional tour which began in Dallas will include points of interest in Fort Worth, Amarillo, Palo Duro Canyon State Park, the Monahans Sandhills State Park, Odesa's meteor crater, El Paso, Fort Davis, Alpine, and Big Bend National Park. A visit to Governor Connally's Floresville ranch November 13 will climax the tour.

Writers who wish may take advantage of a weekend in Mexico at the invitation of the State of Coahuila.

Since the completion of the spring travel writers' tour, T.T. DA has compiled a 137-page booklet of newspaper stories which extol the virtues of a Texas vacation. The newspaper space resulting from the first tour has been labeled "priceless."

Philosopher Troubled About Drift to Thrift

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weet ranch on Devil's River has a novel slant on the economy this week.

Dear editor: I didn't want to bring this up during the campaigning as it wasn't irrelevant enough to classify as an issue, but now that the election is over and the country can settle down to important things I can get around to discussing it.

According to a newspaper item I've been saving for three weeks now, economists have hailed as good news the discovery that the people during the third quarter of this year resumed their normal habits of spending.

During the second quarter the experts had detected a dangerous drift toward thrift and this had them worried. During that period people were saving over 8 per cent of their take-home pay, whereas in the third quarter they got back to saving only 7 per cent, with the possibility of going a little lower, what with Christmas coming on and all.

As I understand this theory, the economy is geared to a steady pace of producing and selling, and a jump in saving means a drop in buying, followed by a slump in producing. In other words, a penny saved is a wheel stopped.

I have not gone into this theory thoroughly, but I am willing to practice it, provided there are some built-in safeguards to protect a man's reputation.

For example, say right now I'm a little hard-pressed for cash, and you could say it without indulging in campaign talk, and as a result have cut down on my spending. Now I don't want people, unaware of the situation, saying, "Look at him, not spending much these days. Probably saving his money. What's he trying to do, wreck the economy?"

Now the last thing I'd want to do is wreck the economy, therefore it seems to me the government ought to have a special fund to tide people over when, with the help of expensive families and shortsighted credit managers, they've cut down on their spending.

Any time a man's saving goes above 7 per cent of his income, the government should nip it in the bud and step in with a subsidy to bring it back down to the say, national level, and keep the wheels turning. I never was a man who liked to shirk his duty.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The son of the Rev. and Mrs. Allen Roe, Grady is president of the local MYF. Also attending the meeting from Sonora was Kay Campbell, MYF secretary. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wray Campbell.

ACCENT ON HEALTH Lead Poison Is Hazard for Toddler

The coming of cold weather may pose a potential hazard for your child that you haven't even thought about.

As your toddler stays indoors during winter, he'll be exploring—tasting, chewing, nibbling—on most anything in sight, even the woodwork and window sills.

It is this "curiosity appetite" that causes hundreds of children to be poisoned each month.

Perhaps the most insidious poison of all is lead poisoning. It results from toddlers eating small chips of old paint, chewing on windowsills or nibbling on crumbs of chipped plaster containing bits of lead paint.

Paint on older houses is more apt to be deadly. Much more lead was formerly put in interior paints than is used today. Often exterior paint—containing considerable lead—was also used indoors.

Toddlers eating flakes of this old paint or chewing it off painted woodwork or furniture are not made ill immediately. Lead poisoning is accumulative, that is, it builds to a toxic level over a period of time.

Since toddlers are usually confined indoors during the winter months, eating of lead usually takes place then. Later, during the hot summer months, acute symptoms may develop as the stored lead is mobilized and distributed to sensitive organs of the body. Nerve cells are particularly vulnerable so that brain damage results in about one-fourth of the cases.

Lead poisoning can be fatal or cause severe brain damage and mental retardation in children. It is an entirely "man-made disease" and should be completely preventable.

Parents should make sure that all toys, cribs, etc., are painted with non-toxic paint containing less than one per cent lead. All peeling or blistered paint should be removed from inside the house, and falling plaster should be cleaned up immediately. Keep an eye out for munching children, especially if the kind of paint on the object is unknown. Also avoid letting small children breathe fumes of fresh paint in confined areas.

You can't and don't want to stop your toddler from exploring, tasting and chewing, but you can eliminate as much opportunity for lead poisoning as possible.

Organ Concert To Feature Jackie Canada

Miss Jackie Canada, age 12, a collection of 12 Christmas selections. Jackie also plays the saxophone in her school band, and she takes voice lessons.

Tickets for the concert in Sonora will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Miss Hopf Chosen As Model for Show

Carol Hopf, a senior at Sonora High School, has been selected to be one of the models for a showing of Dercia originals.

The fashion show and luncheon will be held at the River Club in San Angelo on Wednesday, November 18.

The designer is a Texan who works with unusual fabrics including wool. Fashion critics have stated that the creations in wool have an "exciting, international look."

Roxie Glasscock, Lloyd Brown Are Wed

Mrs. Dollye Glasscock announces the November 9 wedding of her granddaughter, Roxie, to Lloyd Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Raye.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Sonora High School. Brown has completed a 3-year tour of duty with the Armed Services, having spent most of it in Germany.

The bride is employed by Evans Foodway, and the bridegroom is employed by McWood Corporation.

Central Elementary School News

By Beth Davis
Well, the election went off fine. For Student Council president, we have Scott Jacoby, vice-president is Rick Street, secretary is Derry Lynn Shurley, and treasurer is Trouba Teaff. We know they will co-operate with the rest of the student body.

We are very honored to have Jackie Canada come to Sonora. She is 12 years old, yet she has played in concerts all over Texas, and in a few other states and has already made one record.

Soon, she will make another one called "Jackie and Her Magic Organ". She will be here the 20th of this month, and will play at the Elementary School Auditorium. The program starts at 8 p. m.

Admission will be $1 for grown-ups and 50 cents for children. You will probably see posters around town telling about the program. These posters were made by the sixth grade boys and girls.

The Halloween Carnival was lots of fun. You could go to the dart throw, the witches' house, and other booths.

Next week we have six-weeks tests, and report cards come out the following week. Everyone has started studying and worrying about what they are going to make on their report cards.

Thanksgiving holidays begin after school Wednesday, the 25th and last through Sunday, the 29th. Everyone will be as happy as I am about the vacation.

Carol Hopf Wins Third in Contest

Carol Hopf, who competed in the girls' prose reading division, received third place in the finals of a speech contest in Odessa last Saturday.

Others who reached the finals were Gary McGilvray, who entered boys' prose reading, and Carla Whitworth, who entered extemporaneous speaking.

Also participating in the contest from Sonora High School were Margaret Bundy and Linda McCutchen, duet acting; Ann Caldwell, extemporaneous speaking; and Cindy Galbreath, girls' poetry.

The group was accompanied by Robert Boyd, High School teacher.

Other schools represented included Kermit, Abilene, Seminole, Snyder, and Ector.

Rosses Entertain Night Bridge Club

Mrs. Bryan Hunt won high score for women and Frank Bond won high score for men when the Wednesday Night Bridge Club met last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown Ross.

Winning bingo prizes were Dr. J. F. Howell and Mrs. W. T. Hardy, and Mrs. Ruby Dameron won the traveling prize.

Those attending the party included Dr. and Mrs. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bond, Mrs. Dameron, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cusenbary.

Pie and coffee were served. Chrysanthemums were used in decorating.

Hospital Auxiliary Meets at Howell Home

The Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. F. Howell. Co-hostess with Mrs. Howell was Mrs. Frank Potmesil.

Mrs. C.M. Epps gave the Auxiliary's prayer. Mrs. J. E. Eldridge, assisted by Mrs. Rodney Dowdy, brought the Thanksgiving meditation, "The Patchwork Quilt." In the business session the Auxiliary voted to give a memorial for L. E. Johnson Jr.

The program committee met in the home of Mrs. W. J. Fields to plan the December meeting, Mrs. Howell announced. The December meeting takes the form of a Christmas party at which hospital nurses are special guests.

The projects committee announced that the all-electric hospital bed that the Auxiliary had previously voted to purchase for the hospital has been ordered.

Mrs. Paul Boland, magazine committee chairman, reported 60 items, including magazines, paperback books, and 17 comics had been placed in the shelves for patrons of the hospital. The sewing committee, headed by Mrs. Doc Rape, has made 136 cancer dressings.

Mrs. George Stewart was welcomed as a new member, and Mrs. Maysie Brown was a guest at the meeting.

Centerpiece for the dining table from which Mrs. Howell served was an arrangement of flowers from the Howell's yard. Mrs. Alvis Johnson poured. About 20 attended the meeting.

Johnson Discusses Customs in France For Woman's Club

A movie and a speech by Bob Johnson, manager of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce, highlighted the program at the luncheon meeting of the Sonora Woman's Club Thursday, November 5.

Topic for the program was "Passport to France," which followed the theme for the year, "Passport to Travel." The movie, "Voici La France," depicted the beauty and history of France and showed a number of tourist attractions. It was shown by Edwin Sawyer.

Johnson, who lived in France from 1952 to 1955 while serving in the U. S. Air Force, discussed everyday life in France, and he answered questions from the group.

Mrs. Robert Kelley Jr. displayed a number of French souvenirs which her son had purchased on a trip to Europe last summer.

Decorations included balloons and posters furnished by the French Government Tourist Office.

In the business session conducted by Mrs. Armer Earwood, president, two new members, Mrs. Frank Bond and Mrs. George Stewart, were introduced.

the Law in Texas

'Finders Keepers' Has Legal Foundation

Few people realize that a dirty-faced urchin is responsible for the main principles behind our law governing the ownership of lost articles.

Percy Armory was a chimney sweep's helper who lived in London shortly before the birth of our own George Washington. Trudging home one day from his grimy work he found a diamond ring in the public street.

Percy took the ring to a goldsmith's shop to find out what it was. There he placed it in the hands of the goldsmith's apprentice, who, under the pretense of weighing it, stole the diamond from its setting. When he told Percy that the ring was of little value, Percy demanded the return of the jewel as well as its setting. The goldsmith and the apprentice, thinking that Percy was a simple-minded boy, refused to give him back his treasure.

But Percy was not the kind to be badgered about. He sought the services of a lawyer to sue for recovery of the ring and its jeweled set. The results of his suit have immortalized Percy's name in the common law.

The goldsmith and his apprentice claimed that since Percy had only found the ring, he had no better right to it than they did. The court felt differently about the matter and ordered the diamond returned "because the finder of a lost article has the right to hold it against the whole world except the true owner." This principle established by Percy's case remains as effective today as it was over two centuries ago.

However, as far as the owner who lost the property is concerned, the finder of lost goods is merely regarded as a depository, holding the goods for the true owner.

The courts draw a distinction between "misplaced" and "lost property." Lost property is property which the owner casually and thoughtlessly parts with, like the dropping of a wallet in a hurry to get on a bus. Misplaced property, on the other hand, is property which the owner has purposely laid down and then forgotten, leaving it where placed. An example of this would be a handbag placed on a shop counter while a customer examines merchandise. A finder must leave misplaced articles with the proprietor of the place where found.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Psychologist Talks To P-TA Members Of Mental Illness

The causes of mental illness were discussed by Dr. Everett Sutter, psychologist from San Angelo, at the meeting of the Sonora Parent-Teachers' Association Tuesday afternoon, November 3, at Central Elementary School.

Dr. Sutter, who was introduced by Dr. Charles Browne, told the group that mental problems could be caused by brain damage at birth, mental retardation, or emotional disturbance. He emphasized the importance of parental love and discipline, and he urged parents to demonstrate their love to their children.

In the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Bill Morriss, president, life membership cards were presented by Mrs. Bill Wade to Mrs. W. R. Cusenbary, Mrs. G. H. Davis, Rex Lowe, Mrs. Autrey Bridges, Ralph Finklea, Mrs. Herbert Fields and Mrs. Alice Jones.

It was announced that Mrs. Rex Lowe's third grade was the winner of a membership drive and will be treated to an ice cream party.

Room count winners were Mrs. Lowe's third grade, first; Miss Margaret Schwiening's second grade, second; and Mrs. Bridges' first grade, third.

Pipeliners Magazine Features Caverns

The Caverns of Sonora are featured in an article in the October issue of "The Pipeliners" magazine published by El Paso Natural Gas Company.

"Rocks look like butterflies, strips of bacon, soda straws, waterfalls, and forests of trees and coral in the Caverns of Sonora, located only a few miles from El Paso Natural's Sonora Station in Sutton County, Texas," is the opening sentence of the article.

In addition to a picture of the Caverns' famous butterfly, there is a full-page, two-color photograph of one of the rooms in the cave.

Mrs. Tatum Honored At Recipe Shower

Mrs. Mike Tatum, recent bride, was honored with a luncheon October 31, in the home of Mrs. James Menzies. Co-hostess with Mrs. Menzies was her mother, Mrs. Horace Kelly of Barksdale.

The hostesses presented to Mrs. Tatum an Early American recipe file, while guests presented the bride with their favorite recipes.

Guests present included Mmes. Ty Hardy, Leo Merrill, Bob Steger, Hoot Nix, and Bill Wright.

An autumn motif was used in the table decorations with a horn of plenty as centerpiece.

The main course of the luncheon was an Hawaiian salad. Dessert consisted of individual pastry cornucopias filled with minced fruit.

RIFLE CLUB DISCUSSED

L. P. Bloodworth discussed the reactivation of a rifle club in this area at the meeting of the City Commission in City Hall Monday, November 2.

Bloodworth was interested in determining if certain property owned by the City in the vicinity of the driving range could be used by the club. The Commissioners delayed action until plans for formation of the club are more definite.

MAKE CHURCH-GOING A HABIT

FREEDOM'S DISCOVERY

There is joy in giving to God. That is freedom's ultimate discovery. And the hundreds of thousands of churches which we have built and supported bear testimony to the fact.

But when there are nations who despise God . . . who tear down churches . . . or forbid their support, how shall we teach this Christian joy to the boys and girls who will be our nation—tomorrow?

Karen and Paul are placing Sunday School "envelopes" at the foot of the children's altar.

Of course, what Karen and Paul and their classmates can give will hardly pay for an altar. But our world of tomorrow cannot be built on Kremlin economics.

A mighty generation must learn to worship in prayer and faith and sacrifice. There is joy in giving to God!

Our children learn this chiefly from our example and encouragement.

Mrs. Velma Berger, Charles Sagebiel Are Wed Saturday

Mrs. Velma Berger and Charles Sagebiel of Llano were married Saturday, November 7, at 5 p.m., in a ceremony in the Highland Park Lutheran Church in San Antonio. The Rev. Leo Benorden, pastor, officiated.

The bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories, and she had an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Berger, Larry and Chris attended the wedding.

Also attending were Sagebiel's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Keith of La Grange.

The couple will be at home in Llano.

By Cathy Moffitt

Eyes to see,
and ears to hear,
hands to touch,
nose to smell,
and there is always taste.

Of all senses
there is one yet unsaid.

The heart who can see beyond another dreary shell.

The heart, who hears faintest whispers no lips have formed,

The heart, who can touch regions of soul, unexplored.

The heart, who can smell fragrance of a young mind—

The heart, who can taste bitter-sweet life but still pardon, and always love.

YOUNG LIFE

By Janice Caveness

A little child so sweet and shy, Looked at the people passing by.
They stopped and smiled and shook their heads,
And gently, kindly, sweetly said,
"Your father must have been proud,
To have a son like you around."
Then slowly, quietly walk away,
For they have nothing more to say.

The child looks for his father now.
It seems he's been gone for many an hour.
Don't cry little one, your father is safe.
He's with his father in a heavenly place.

Steps in Field Dressing Deer Detailed By Wildlife Conservation Specialist

Quality venison depends primarily on how the deer is handled from the time of the kill until it is placed in the freezer.
That is why field dressing a deer properly is important, says Wallace Klussmann, Extension wildlife conservation specialist, Texas A&M University.

After making the kill, the hunter should begin field dressing at once, using a strong, sharp knife with a guard and at least a four-inch blade. The first step, says Klussmann, is to prop the deer on its back and remove its external sex organs.

Beginning between the hind legs, cut down to the pelvic bone; then cut up the middle, through the breastbone and all the way to the jaw (unless the head is to be mounted). After cutting the windpipe and esophagus as far forward as possible, grasp both and pull downward to free the insides to the midsection.

To free the entrails from the ribs, roll the carcass on its side and cut the thin layer of muscle (diaphragm) down to the backbone. Then turn the deer over and do the same on the other side, the specialist points out.
Cut around the vent so the entire visceral mass can be removed without severing any part; then, using both hands, pull the entire entrails out.

The next step is to prop up the deer's rump to spread the back legs, cut through the seam in the middle of the pelvis and finish cleaning the visceral cavity.

To allow remaining blood to drain from the body cavity, hang the deer by the head or antlers from a nearby tree for about 20 minutes. If no tree is near, turn the deer upside down on a clean place to let it drain, advises Klussmann.

Skinning can be begun while the deer is draining. However, if the head is to be mounted, hang the carcass by the hind legs to skin. The skin comes off most easily while the deer is still warm, explains the specialist, so it is best to skin the animal within two hours after the kill.

To remove the skin, cut down the inside of each leg to the deer's middle. Then cut the skin all the way around the neck, grasp with both hands at the back of the head and pull down.
Usually the skin will come off down to the front legs. Use a knife to work the skin off the legs and other areas where it sticks tightly to the meat.

If the specimen is to be mounted, do not make any cuts in the skin around the neck or head but rather cut around the shoulders when removing the skin. Allow the skin to remain intact with the head, says Klussmann, and salt or freeze until delivered to the taxidermist.

Back at camp, hang the carcass in a tree by the hind legs for four or five hours. This will allow all the tiny blood vessels to drain. Wrap the carcass in a sheet, cheese cloth or sack made for this purpose, and always remember to keep the carcass in the shade.

After it has cooled, cut the carcass in half or quarters and wrap to take home. It is wise to keep the hide, head, antlers, legs and tag until the meat is placed in a freezer or commercial locker, advises Klussmann.

If commercial processing is desired, it is only necessary to remove the entrails and allow proper drainage of blood from the body cavity.

More detailed information, including illustrations, can be obtained by referring to the leaflet, "Field Dressing a Deer," available at the county Extension office. This leaflet contains information supplied by Klussman and the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

GOING HUNTING?

Then you'll be interested in these six rules the National Rifle Association has compiled to make up its "Hunter's Code of Ethics".

NRA Hunter's Code of Ethics

1. I will consider myself an invited guest of the landowner, seeking his permission, and so conducting myself that I may be welcome in the future.
2. I will obey the rules of safe gun handling and will courteously but firmly insist that others who hunt with me do the same.
3. I will obey all game laws and regulations, and will insist that my companions do likewise.
4. I will do my best to acquire those marksmanship and hunting skills which assure clean, sportsmanlike kills.
5. I will support conservation efforts which can assure good hunting for future generations of Americans.
6. I will pass along to younger hunters the attitudes and skills essential to a true outdoor sportsman.

Baylor Head Urges Baptists To Apply Christianity to Changing Conditions

"Baptists must be more concerned with the problems of the modern world such as poverty, ignorance, prejudice, bigotry, intolerance, materialism, dishonesty, and cynicism and corruption in business and government," Abner McCall told more than 5,000 Baptists from throughout the state at the 79th annual Baptist General Convention of Texas in Corpus Christi last week.

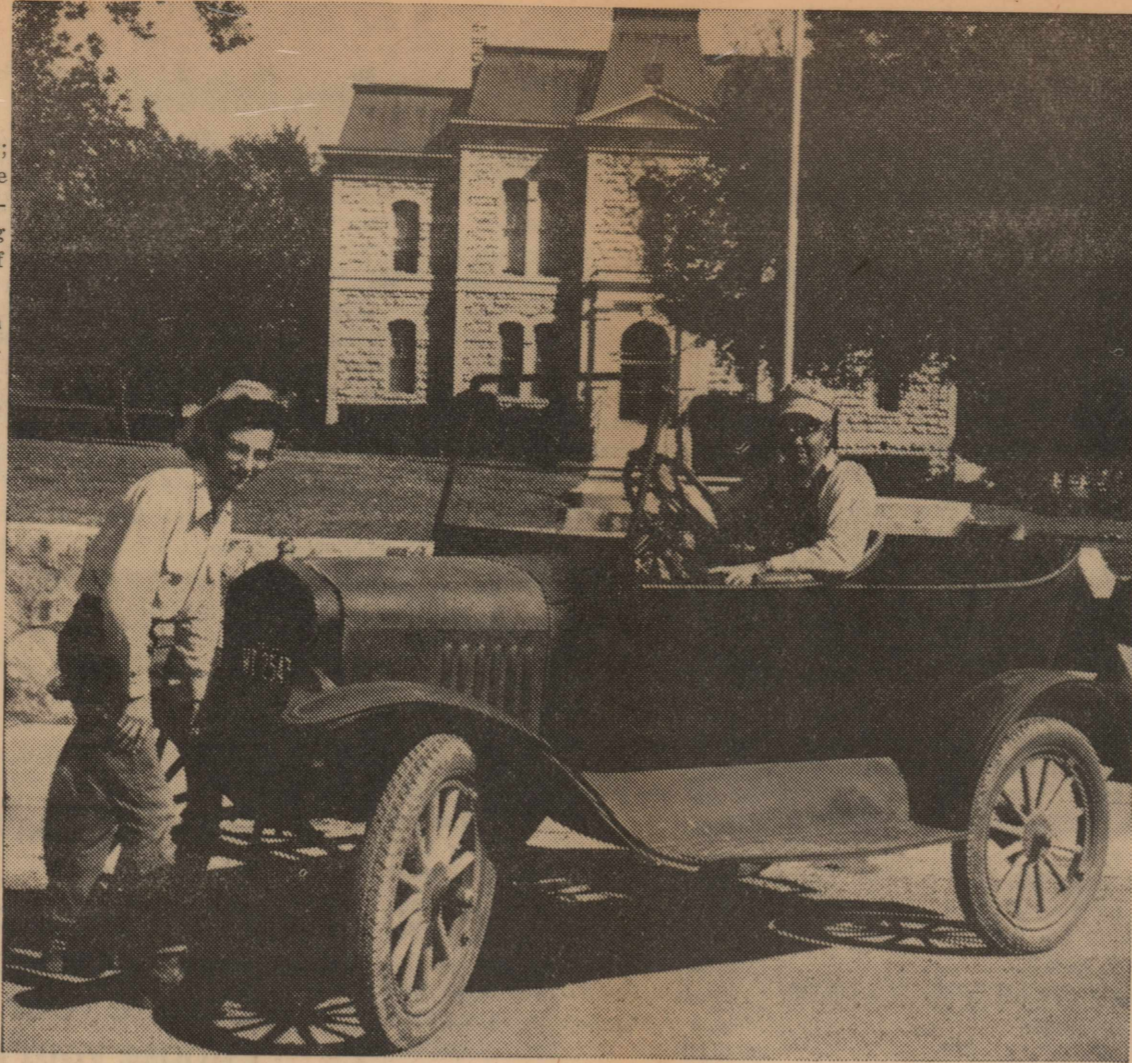

Dr. McCall, president of the convention and president of Baylor University, said in the major convention address that unless Baptists apply Christianity to the changing social conditions of today, the denomination would "become stuck in yesterday and gradually disappear."

In a business session the convention adopted without debate resolutions expressing opposition against legalized gambling and liquor by the drink; opposing communism and the tactics of hate, slander and half-truths they use; and assuring President Lyndon B. Johnson of the convention's prayer.

The convention concluded with a special Latin American mission-emphasis session that featured an evangelistic message and reports on a recent Latin American New Life evangelistic crusade. Dr. T. A. Patterson, executive secretary of the state Baptist Convention said that the crusade had created a climate of communication and understanding in the state, and had resulted in more than 5,000 professions of faith and nearly 13,000 total decisions.

Attending the convention from Sonora as delegates were the Rev. and Mrs. Rodney Dowdy. Mr. Dowdy is pastor of the First Baptist Church.

REMEMBER WHEN? It was only last Sunday, but the circa 1918 Model "T" Ford driven by Sam Odom with Sam Jr. at the crank attracted the attention of several Sonorans. Odom, who works for the city, is restoring this vintage car for Booth Yates of Marble Falls. Yates, a collector, has two more touring cars and a coupe from earlier years. He found this prize in a barn resting on jacks. Note that there are doors only for the back-seat passengers. The driver and his companion must step over the body to enter.

Prosperity and Sales of Automobiles Are Interlinked in American Economy

By S. S. Talbert, Ph.D.
Department of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Prosperity and automotive sales are so closely linked in America that it is difficult to tell which comes first.

This year, it seems that automobile manufacturers are working on the theory that sales of new models can be controlled by advertising. Never before has such faith been shown in the promotional efforts of the major companies.

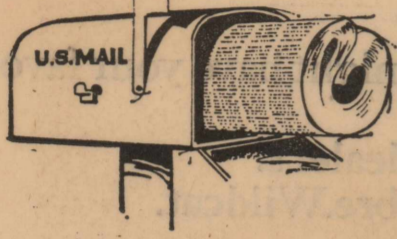

The advertising introducing the 1965 autos has never been equalled in volume. However, the methods have been proven. More than ever the printed page is being used to illustrate new models. Again national companies are putting increased emphasis on advertising in local media.

Ten years ago when some automotive firms experimented with the concentration of advertising in metropolitan media a drastic decline in sales followed. Near-disaster taught the industry that advertising could not be divorced from the local dealer. A trend back to local newspaper advertising followed.

One company which introduced new models in more than three thousand newspapers, covering the communities of all its local dealers, was once a chief exponent of centralized advertising.

A company official explained that no other medium could show the "exciting new styling of 1965" to so many people so effectively as the local newspaper. In this respect, the selling of automobiles is no different from other retail selling. And in either case prosperity in the local community may be created through newspaper advertising.

THE HOUSTON CHRONICLE

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By the Rev. Allen G. Roe
Pastor
First Methodist Church

In Phillipians Chapter 4, verse 8, we find these words: "Whatever is true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, whatever is gracious, if there be any excellence, if there be any worthy of praise, think about these things."

The Apostle Paul believed that Christ would empower him for anything God called him to do. He declares boldly to the Church at Ephesus: "I can do all through Christ who gives me strength." A novel published sometime ago had this strange title, "The Man Who Made Friends With Himself." Perhaps we all feel that we make friends with ourselves but actually that isn't what we do. We never make friends with ourselves in the fullest way until we give our best possibilities a chance to develop. The person who pampers himself is not choosing the narrow way that leads to life.

The Apostle is saying that we should be constantly influenced by whatever will contribute to the highest we can become. So the one who holds himself up to the best is the person who makes friends with himself. Jesus said to the disciples, "Ye are my friends if you do whatever I command you." We think of John the Beloved as a friend of Jesus because he respected the commands of his Lord and endeavored to keep them. He often thought of the words of Jesus and spoke of The Bread of Life, The Good Shepherd. He thought of Jesus as The Light of the World.

Judas Iscariot, on the other hand, did not make friends with himself. He did not heed the advice of St. Paul to think upon the honorable, the just, the pure, things lovely and gracious, and of good report. He was too intent upon a material reward to feed upon the Bread of Life, to drink from the Living Waters, to hear the voice of the Good Shepherd, or to walk in the Light that Jesus was so eager to give.

John came to the end of the way still a staunch witness to the love that he had known and declared. Judas came to the end of the way so filled with remorse that he hanged himself in an effort to escape the excruciating sense of failure. We remember John "as the disciple whom Jesus loved" and we remember Judas as one who spurned this love to the point of no return.

Hunters Reminded To Observe Laws

Sobering reminders of trouble with guns afield is reflected in the monthly arrest report of the Parks and Wildlife Department, according to J. B. Phillips, coordinator of law enforcement.

He noted that 12 arrests were made for night hunting, 25 for hunting from an automobile, 11 for hunting in closed season, 9 for exceeding the bag limit on doves, 4 for using an unplugged gun, and 4 for possession of wild doe deer.

Thirty-one cases were filed for lacking a hunting license but fishing licenses cases dropped from 386 on the preceding period to 173 for last month.

Phillips advised hunters to check on hunting hours, hunting places, dates for hunting different species and daily bag and seasonal limits.

He said waterfowl hunters should heed the new Federal and State regulation requiring that one feathered wing be left on each duck or goose. The same rule applies to mourning doves and other migratory game.

Phillips said one chronic cause for violations is shooting too early or too late. Unless otherwise specified, he said, the big game daily shooting hours are from half an hour before sunrise to one half hour after sunset and the waterfowl hours are sunrise to sunset.

Clean Birds Well Before Freezing, Official Advises

"If birds have not been thoroughly cleaned prior to freezing, they should not be used for human food," is the advice given recently by Dr. E. H. Dustman concerning waterfowl and other game birds.

"Many birds carry bacteria of the genus Salmonella in their intestinal tract and freezing and thawing of these bacteria would allow release of the endotoxin which they produce," states the director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Research Center in Maryland.

"This endotoxin is heat-stable and if ingested will cause a severe food poisoning," he adds. "Birds frozen while still containing the internal organs, particularly the intestinal tract, should not be used for food."

Hunting Is Year-round Business, Schriener Says at Pre-hunt Party

"Hunting is a business; if it is run right, it is a good business," Charles Schriener, sportsman and owner of the Y-O Ranch near Mountain Home, told people attending the Fourth Annual Pre-season Hunting Party Tuesday night at the 4-H Center.

In telling of his experiences at the Y-O Ranch, which has been termed the largest and most productive shooting spot in the Southwest, Schriener emphasized that he works at the hunting business all year long. He said that he has been in the business since 1949 when he decided during a drouth that the deer must pay their way.

In stating several principles he follows in running the ranch, he said, "We treat our hunters as guests, not pests." Each one is guaranteed a kill, and transportation and guides are furnished. Most vehicles have two-way radios.

Schriener also showed films of deer and turkey hunting and slides of black antelope from India, sika deer from Japan, fallow and axis deer from Europe, and other exotic game which he has brought to the ranch.

In telling of his experiences with animals from foreign countries, Schriener said that he had once purchased 13 aoudad sheep, which all jumped the fence and disappeared immediately after being unloaded.

Another highlight of the party, which is sponsored by the Downtown Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce, was the presentation of the Outstanding Conservationist award to Robert Halbert. In making the presentation Fred Earwood praised the conservation work done by Halbert.

Norrel Wallace of San Angelo, information and education officer of the Parks and Wildlife Department, stated that game counts show about 50% drop in the deer population in Sutton County. Current estimates show about 50,000 deer. Wallace attributed this decline to the very dry season between December 1 and the last of March, a period when does must have adequate food in order to bear fawn.

However, he pointed out that hunters ought to kill as many or more deer than last year. He said that only 10% of the herd was harvested last year by hunters, while about 30 to 40% died of natural causes. Thus, he stated, a much higher percentage may be taken this year without harm to the herd.

Turkeys, he said, had fared well and probably increased. He related this increase to 11 inches of rainfall from late March through July, a critical time for turkeys.

Re-elected president of the Edwards Plateau Game and Wildlife Association was Walter Pope. Other officers re-elected are Norman Rousselot, vice-president; George Brockman, treasurer; and D. C. Langford, secretary.

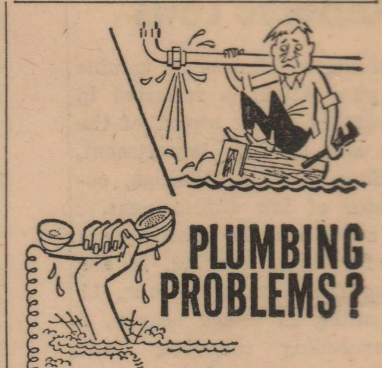

Pope was master of ceremonies at the party, and guests were introduced by E. B. Keng-Bob Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, discussed the Chamber's services to hunters and landowners.

Winners of door prizes were Pete Thompson, Jack Moore, Norrel Wallace, Mrs. Herman Walker, Mankin Stokes, M. C. Scott, Mrs. J. F. Howell, Arthur Carroll, Mrs. Phineas Johnson of Cleburne, and W. L. (Tom) Davis.

CONGRESSMAN O. C. FISHER, who addressed the meeting of District V of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association recently, stands with Fred Earwood, chairman of the district, and Coke Stevenson, a lifetime member of TS&GRA. The meeting was held at the A&M Adjunct in Junction.

The San Jacinto monument, overlooking the San Jacinto battleground, is 570 feet high, 15 feet taller than the Washington monument.

Teen Scene

This week marks our last district game of the season. We are wondering which girl will have the honor of being the Football Sweetheart. As usual, everyone has his own guesses as to which girl will be the one. SHS is preparing for a win against Big Lake when the Broncos meet them Friday night at 7:30 here in Sonora. Everybody go to the pep rallies and the game and do your part to help BOUNCE BIG LAKE!

Last Saturday, seven students and Mr. Boyd went to Odessa for the group's first competition of the year. Margaret Bundy and Linda McCutchen represented Sonora in the Duet Acting contest, Gary McGilvray in Boys' Prose, Carol Hopf in Girls' Prose, Cindy Galbreath in Girls' Prose, and Cindy Galbreath in Girls' Poetry, and Carla Whitworth and Ann Caldwell in Extemporaneous Speaking. Of the three from Sonora who went to finals, Carol Hopf placed third. The group found this an educational trip. Several Sonora kids went to San Angelo last weekend for the big roping. Some of them were Jo Ann Lowe, Jack Wardlaw, Susan Allison, Libb Wallace, Rande Fawcett, Allison Espy, Gail Espy, Joe Gail Willman, Bill Glascock, and Buck Bloodworth. Diana Black went to San Angelo to take her ACT tests for college. Jimmy Wilson went to Georgetown where he took a test, also. These two are the pioneers—have any hints for the rest of the seniors who plan to take theirs in the near future?

The photographer had his camera broken again this week. The senior group picture was taken in the Bryan Hunt yard on Wednesday; on Thursday; the clubs and officers were taken in the school building.

Kay Campbell and Karen Davis spent the weekend in Hext where they saw old friends and went to a wedding. BYE-BYE, BIG LAKE.
