CONVENIENCE

When we get sick in the middle of the night, we are relieved to know that there is a pharmacy here in town where we may get the medicine we need promptly.

When we want a loaf of bread, we are glad that there is a nearby grocery store. We are pleased that we can run in and buy a pair of hose when we need them at one of the clothing stores here.

It is convenient to be able to pick up nails or paint, pins or buttons, or a bridge-party prize on the spur of the moment.

But the hard economic fact is that the stores and other places of business cannot exist on convenience sales alone. To pay the day-by-day salaries of competent employees to assist customers, to keep an adequate inventory of goods, and to meet his business operating costs, the merchant must have a steady stream of sales.

It is true that a town can be sapped financially and killed business by business.

And yet the reverse is also true. As merchants receive more business, they can afford to give better service at lower prices and to display a larger variety of fresh, attractive goods. From the businessman's revenue also comes the money to pay his part of the taxes which support city and county services and help provide our excellent school system.

When you make out your Christmas list, won't you remember that a wide selection of gifts is available at the convenient stores of your hometown merchants who are eager to serve you?

Buck Fever Symptom Can Be Dangerous

Have you ever heard of "buck fever"?

Chances are you have, if you've ever hunted—or listened to hunting tales, as most Texans have.

Few hunters — or deer, for that matter — ever die as a result of buck fever.

This so-called fever or disease usually occurs when a hunter spots a deer and loses his head instead of being calm.

But over a hundred died last year and will this year from a symptom of this disease—light-headedness — although it is labeled "hunting accident" in the books.

For example, who would ever climb up an unfamiliar tree in the dark, carrying a loaded gun—except on the first morning of deer season.

Who would ever put a loaded gun in the hands of an untrained teenager and turn him loose in the woods — except during deer season?

Or who would ever snake his way through a barbed wire fence, wagging a loaded rifle behind him — except during deer season?

And when would you ever choose a loaded rifle for a companion around the campfire or over a hot cup of coffee — except during a hunting excursion?

Planning, preparedness and thoughtfulness would eliminate many unnecessary hunting fatalities. Unloading your rifle before you climb a tree or through a fence takes a few seconds — maybe even a minute — but why gamble a minute against your life?

If your youngster wants to hunt, prepare him before you take him out. Teach him gun-handling techniques and safety, or check in your community for gun-handling courses.

When you take time out from your hunting for coffee, a nap or supper, unload your gun.

A loaded gun is a dangerous companion.

A cardinal rule for hunters of any kind and at any time is to make sure you know what you are shooting. Almost every year the headlines tell about someone who was mistaken and shot for a turkey, deer or game of some sort.

Buck fever is nothing to be ashamed of, but carelessness is. When you load your rifle this season — or any time, for that matter — leave your light-headedness behind.

PHILOSOPHER SAYS

Home Delivery of Mail Is Economy Drive Key

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River takes a look at the economy in the United States who aren't drive this week. It's hard to tell what he sees.

Dear editor: Since there is no military installation or post office located on this bitterweed ranch, I can take an open-minded, statesman-like view of the President's drive to economize, and won't be in the shape of the Chamber of Commerce delegation that went to Washington to demand more economy in government and less cutting out military establishments in their vicinity.

If Washington figures it can cut out 96 military bases no longer needed and save a billion dollars a year, it suits me, and if it wants to eliminate some small post offices, especially in other states, I guess that's all right too, but I have been giving some thought to the post office cut.

According to a television newscaster, the hundreds of small fourth-class post offices around the country are not efficient but they serve as a gathering place for the local folks. "After all," he said, "the people there have no place else to go and they gather at the post office, whether they have any mail or not."

modern homes. As for having some place to go, it would be hard to find very many people in the United States who aren't within an hour or two of some big city, if you want to call that a place to go. Most of them though had rather stay at home and see it on television.

It seems to me just cutting out the small post offices isn't going far enough. Why not cut them all out and everybody handle his post office business by mail? After all, doesn't the post office department believe in promoting its own line of work? When the government sends a man a check, why go to the trouble and expense of putting up a post office building for him to get it in? Why not send it straight to his home?

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Lovelace returned recently from a trip through Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma. In Gainesville they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Seale, Jim Bob, and Gregory.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Horton of Lubbock and H. J. Thompson, a student at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, visited the Rev. and Mrs. Rodney Dowdy during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Teen Scene

By Carol Hopf

That four-day weekend really made a difference — wish we could throw in a few more. Everyone had a full schedule whether they went out of town or stayed in Sonora. The town was buzzing with shows, dances and parties, and reunions.

Tuesday night a group from Sonora went to San Angelo to the "Grand Ole Opry". Among them were Jimmy Wilson, Kay Campbell, Mike Sims, John K. Wilson, Judy Lancaster, Wanda Cole, Jo Ann Lowe, Libb Mills Wallace, and Gail Espy.

Many of the college kids came home for the holidays: Gil Allison, Ronnie Cox, Tommy Doc Raye, Alice Lee Duncan, Cleve T. Jones III, John Paul Fjess, Calvin Berry, Corky Fields, Joyce Hearn, Katherine Adams, Johnny Merck, Dick Karnes, Jimmy Frank Richardson, Betty Jack Cooper, Mary Adele Wilson, Mary Davis, Candace Cauthorn, Mary John Espy, Debbie Cooper, Jan McClelland, Diana Cahill, Gil Trainer, Dick McMillan, Cissy Young, Bob Nevill, Ray D. Lancaster, Tom Ed

Glascock, Preston Neely, and Jimmy Cahill.

Among the out-of-town visitors for the weekend were Wade Stokes, Billy Sam Chadwick, and Beverly and Sara Johnson.

Tomye Lyne Smith and Prissy Howell spent the holiday in San Antonio.

Elsie Earwood has a new car, and everyone agrees that they would also be very happy to have one like it.

Last Tuesday night the "B" team met with some bad luck, but the Varsity team won their game with Ozona. Monday night both teams were victorious over Rocksprings. Now, let's BEAT BRADY!

Sonora is very proud of the fact that so many members of the football team were honored in the district. Those making the ALL-DISTRICT team included Bill Elliott, Maxie Delrie, "Square" Sanchez, and Roy Glascock. Others receiving honorable mention included Eddie Howell, Joe Moore, Mike St. Clair, and Carl Teaff.

Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Childress of Ozona announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Frances Kay, to Joe David Ross, D.V.M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown Ross. The wedding will be held February 13 in the Ozona Methodist Church.

Betty Jack Cooper Slated To Perform In 'Rigoletto' Dec. 4

Miss Betty Jack Cooper of the Texas Christian University Ballet department is performing in Verdi's "Rigoletto," being presented by the Fort Worth Opera Association December 2 and 4 at the Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium.

E. Clyde Whitlock in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram says of the opera, " 'Rigoletto,' more than a century old, has never been absent from the opera stages of the world since it was introduced March 11, 1851, at Venice. Its popularity is on an equal footing with 'Il Trovatore,' 'La Traviata,' and 'Aida' among the Verdi operas."

Miss Cooper's mother, Mrs. Pat Cooper, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Jones, plan to attend.

Woman's Club building. The Sonora High School Girls Choral Club will be featured on the program. Director is Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. A. E. Prugel will be accompanist, and Miss Irene Davis will be narrator.

Marinate cooked or canned green beans in Italian dressing, then toss them together with sour cream dressing, slivers of ham or salami and sliced, crisp, salted cucumbers.

These friendly flavors go nicely into a gelatin-based salad: pears, peaches, pineapple, grapes and maraschino cherries.
Drained, canned kidney beans go well together with chopped celery, green pepper, diced, hard-cooked egg and a mayonnaise dressing.

Fruit salad a favorite? You'll like chopped dates with melon balls, pears and all kinds of berries.

Combine shrimp and crabmeat with celery, slivered almonds and water chestnuts. Bind with mayonnaise. Serve in buns or avocado shells.

Helen's Favorite:

- Walnut Butterscotch Drops (Makes 3 1/2 dozen)
- 1/4 cup soft butter
- 1 1/4 cups brown sugar (packed)
- 1 egg
- 2 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/4 cups coarsely chopped walnuts

Cream together sugar and butter. Add egg; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Blend into first mixture with vanilla and walnuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderately slow (325°F.) oven about 15 minutes. Let stand 2 minutes, then remove with spatula to wire rack to cool.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS Driving in Smoke Requires Extra Care

It was a clear, crisp fall afternoon, and Pete decided to rake his lawn. He carried the leaves to his back yard and burned them just at the entrance of the alley which ran along the rear of his lot.

The leaves were wet, and Pete found that he had to stir them occasionally in order for proper burning, resulting in a dense cloud of smoke.

Al intended to drive his car into the alley in which Pete was burning the leaves. As he approached the alley, he entered a dense cloud of smoke, so dense in fact that his vision was completely obscured. He nevertheless continued to drive his car into the alley, although he did reduce his speed.

As Al entered the alley Pete was standing next to the curb, completely engulfed by the smoke. Al's car struck Pete.

Pete sued Al claiming that he was negligent in driving into the smoke when he could not see. Al, on the other hand, said Pete was negligent in standing in the alley in such a dense cloud of smoke when he knew that cars were driven in the alley.

Was Al negligent? Can Pete collect from him for his damages? Pete would not win his case, unless the jury found him not negligent in standing in the alley in a dense cloud of smoke. However, the courts have held that a driver must exercise care commensurate with the situation. It has been recognized in a number of cases that more care than normal is required of a driver traveling through smoke which limits his visibility.

It is the duty of the operator of a car to drive it at such a rate of speed that he can bring his car to a standstill within the distance that he can plainly see objects or obstructions ahead of him. If he continues to proceed when he is unable to see because his vision is obscured, he is negligent. When the situation on a highway is such that one's vision is completely obscured, it is his duty to slow down or even stop until the cause of such obscured vision is at least in part removed.

Pet Deer May Turn Into Vicious Killer

Persons possessing "pet" wild tendencies characteristic of fall deer were cautioned by E. A. Walker, wildlife executive for the Parks and Wildlife Department, to beware "seasonal unruliness" of the animals. He said he was prompted to intervene because of the "vicious behavior" and because of a recent attack on a Georgia man by his own pet deer, naturally named "Bambi." Thomas A. Stovall, age 56 and weighing 205 pounds, reported he fought the animal about an hour and that it charged him repeatedly with its eight-point antlers, slashing the man's legs and chest and wounding him in the forehead.

Stovall finally crawled under a fence and sought to barricade himself between two logs but the deer pursued him relentlessly. He said he grabbed the attacking beast with one antler and its tongue and held on until he was rescued by a fisherman in a boat in a nearby cove.

He later asked wildlife authorities to destroy the buck.

Walker said only agencies with zoological permits are authorized to have a wild deer on their premises and that all such possessions by individuals are discouraged. "Every fall when the mating season converts ordinarily docile wild pets into potential killers, similar incidents occur," said Walker. "And that is why our policy is to prevent attempted domestication of the creatures."

The Texas Safety Association reminds hunters to be sure of the target before firing. Never shoot at objects seen only indistinctly among trees or bushes. Make sure no barn or other building is in the line of fire.

Air Line Customers Are News Readers

By S. S. Talbert, Ph. D. Department of Journalism University, Mississippi

The recent decision of a large air line to switch the major portion of its advertising from other media to newspapers is understandable when the nature of the newspaper reading audience is considered.

Every independent research company which has studied markets and advertising media has found that newspaper readership increases as the educational and economic level of a public becomes higher.

It does not take much imagination to reach the conclusion that the majority of people who are regular air line customers are in the higher economic and social brackets. They are the people who have the money and the need to travel by air. They are the people who subscribe to newspapers as a matter of routine practice. They are people who read newspapers because their work and social relationships require that they have a depth of understanding about current events—local as well as national—which cannot be obtained elsewhere.

There is another important reason, however, why the local newspaper may be the best medium for consistent airline advertising. Who remembers even a simple air line schedule? Practically no one who is busy enough to be flying by air.

The newspaper is important in repeating airline schedules for the same reason that it is invaluable for advertising movies, television programs, and grocery prices. It is a ready reference which relieves the public of recalling details which will not or cannot be remembered.

The local newspaper is retained in the home until the next issue arrives largely to serve as a substitute for imperfect memory.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By the Rev. George Stewart
Pastor,
Church of the Good Shepherd
Presbyterian U. S.

The person who does not know God as his father is not by nature grateful or appreciative. There is a German proverb, "Ingratitude is the world's pay." That is, it is not the nature of the rebellious heart or person who is controlled by the world to be grateful. We should not be surprised at the ingratitude of people or of nations whose God is not the Lord.

But the Bible tells us why God's people should be grateful and seeks to correct one of our most prevalent sins—ingratitude. The Psalmist says, "O give thanks unto the Lord for he is good; for his steadfast love endures forever!" We as God's children should be filled with thanksgiving, for gratitude is a Christian grace.

It is right and fitting for us as citizens of the United States of America to express our thanks to God for all that He has done for us as a nation; and we ought to do this much more frequently than just once a year.

But as Christians we are grateful for all this in a special way, and we have much more than this to thank Him for. We owe to God our way of life in Christ, our Christian freedom, our inheritance as children of God, and the blessing with which God has entrusted us—the Christian way of life—to bless the world. We will have this glad witness to the world if our Christian gratitude is real and contagious.

The Devil's Workshop

An Idle Mind Column

By Della King

Texas — as we are reminded almost nightly on the television shoot-em-ups — has an exciting and colorful past.

It is also true, however, that there was an element of culture in Nineteenth Century Texas. The Southwestern Historical Quarterly, published at the University of Texas by the Texas State Historical Association, recounts a phase of Texas' early interest in the dramatic arts in the current issue. Dr. C. Richard King writes of two tours of Texas made by the "Divine Sarah Bernhardt."

Following is a review of the article released by the University of Texas:

"Sarah Bernhardt, 'the greatest actress of her day,' arrived in Texas 72 years ago in a brass-ornamented railroad coach, lion and tiger skins covering the floors and Venetian tapestries hung on the walls. In her entourage were four servants, a St. Bernard dog, a parrot, a cage of asps and 140 luggage trunks.

"Texans who flocked to see her performance in Dallas discovered they couldn't understand a word. Commented the Dallas Morning News, it was a 'French play, spoken in French, and by French men and women.'

"For her Dallas performance of 'La Dame aux Camelias' and 'Fedora' in 1892, spectators flooded the city from small towns all over Texas. Her performances in Fort Worth were crowded with people who had traveled from as far as Gainesville.

"Miss Bernhardt returned to Texas in 1906, performing in a circus-type tent, relates Dr. King. This innovation by the Shubert brothers was a rebellious act against the Theatrical Syndicate which controlled the booking in nearly all U.S. 'opera houses.'

"Sarah Bernhardt's suprising agreement to act under the 'big-top' lent an eccentric atmosphere to her entire Texas tour. In Dallas, despite a temperamental curtain and insufficient lighting, her performance was crowded with 10,000 theatergoers.

"In Austin, after three hours of steady rain had turned the tent site on the temporary capitol grounds into a quagmire, Miss Bernhardt's performance was shifted to the Hancock Opera House, despite the threatened foreclosure of the theater by syndicate officials.

"Her subsequent San Antonio performance was a sell-out: prices ranging up to $10 were offered for seats during the first act as 2,000 to 3,000 persons jammed into Beethoven Hall. Apparently the diminutive actress had broken the theater syndicate monopoly in Texas."

STRONG CHURCHES

Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

We Won!

Garry and I won first prize last Saturday! It was the young people's Olde Tyme costume party at the church, and we had a wonderful time.

I go to almost everything the club puts on, and of course there are lots of activities besides parties and dances. We visit hospitals, we collect and repair toys for underprivileged children, and we help with various church events. We have regular religious discussion groups that often get me so interested I continue the discussion around the family dinner table all week long! Mom and Dad don't mind, though. They think it's good for me to be mixing with other young Christians, and they never worry when I'm over at the club.

Your own church offers many enjoyable and worthwhile activities for Christians of every age. Why not join? You'll be warmly welcomed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HEART ASSOCIATION NOTES

Care for Your Heart While Out Hunting

With hunting season in the air, nimrods from the Lone Star State have their eyes on the hunting trail, their spare time devoted to checking guns, clothing and camping gear, and, in ever larger numbers, according to the Southwest Texas Heart Association, their names firmly listed in their doctors appointment books.

Gone are the days when "verboten" was the word for hunting enthusiasts with heart disease, though in many states more hunting deaths still result from heart attacks than from gunshot wounds. The hunters who become headlines are often those who haven't had a physical examination in years—not a regular routine of physical exercise, either.

But with more and more states adding a list of health do's and don'ts to their hunting and fishing mailings, hunters are adding the medical check-up to their pre-trip planning. The biggest game, it seems, is the health return, and your doctor is the one who can help you decide which stresses you can take and which to avoid.

The Southwest Texas Heart Association advises that you know the answers to these questions before you get to the doctor's desk:

How cold will it get at night and how hot in the midday sun? How far will you hike through the underbrush and marshes, how long the uphill climb, how high the altitude you're heading for?

Starting with the physical check-up, the Texas Heart Association offers valuable tips for all hunters:

*Condition yourself as for any unusual physical exertion, with an increasing schedule of exercise in preparation for D-Day;

*Choose lightweight but warm clothing, to lighten the load on your heart;

*Know simple first-aid rules;

*Be moderate in eating and drinking, and remember that drinking mixes with neither driving nor hunting.

Some added tips especially for hunters with a heart condition:

*Never hunt alone.

*Tell at least one member of your party about your condition, what medicine you take, how the medicine is given, and in which pocket you carry it. Keep the medication instructions clearly typed or printed on the container.

*Get a good rest—preferably a full night's sleep—before you set out to hunt.

*Go a few days early when the hunting area is at a higher altitude than you're used to. This will permit your heart to adjust before you add the active strains and tensions of the hunt itself.

*Rest along the way as often and as long as necessary—before you get too "bushed"; take your stand near the camp and let the others flush.

*Bringing the deer back after the kill is hard work. Sensible hunters share this burdensome chore—heart patients never touch it!

Hunting can be one of life's great adventures, but hunters who are out of practice as outdoor men can push too hard, too fast, too far. If you take as good care of your body as you do of your gun, you can continue to enjoy hunting seasons for many years to come.

Probably one of the best descriptions of Jeannie Hoffman came from a music critic who called her a hip, folk-singer . . . Jeannie, an established jazz favorite in the San Francisco area, was credited by columnist Ralph Gleason of the San Francisco Chronicle with putting the Jazz Workshop, one of the city's best-known jazz bistros, on the map . . . Her trio was the first group and one of the most successful to play the Workshop, which has since headlined the modern jazz quartet and Shelly Manne.

In her first album for Capitol, Jeannie displays her unusual vocal approach with a dozen traditional folk songs arranged by Jack Marshall . . . Accompanying her are Howard Roberts (guitar), Shelly Manne (drums) and George Smith (woodwinds) on tunes ranging from Billy Boy to Waltzing Matilda . . . The repertoire is folksy, but certainly not the renditions . . . Born in Portland, Ore., Jeannie studied music in New York and has worked steadily in many of the top entertainment spots from coast to coast . . . It was through her successful nightclub engagements and the praise of Frank Werber (manager of the Kingston Trio) that she came to Capitol.

The three young Lettermen who already have won their Love Letters with several hits, display A Lettermen Kind of Love, an LP that carries the love theme throughout with a number of romantic favorites including I'll Never Stop Loving You, Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing, Too Young, Young Love, and Friendly Persuasion . . . Also heard on the album is the group's best-selling single, Be My Girl.

Recognition Dinner Of Concho Council Slated January 8

Dr. Tom R. Hunter, president of the Concho Valley Council of Boy Scouts, announced this week that the Annual Recognition Dinner for the Concho Valley Council would be held on January 8, at the Cactus Hotel in San Angelo.

He further indicated that the theme of this meeting would be

"This Is Your Life" which would recount the entire history of the Concho Valley Council, calling attention to the contributions made by various Council officers and others who had a part in the development of this program in West Texas.

In preparation for this meeting, Dr. Hunter said that he had appointed two important committees. The first committee, headed by John B. King of Balinger, is to nominate officers and directors for 1965. Vice-Chairman are Tom G. Brown of San Angelo; Judge Charles Sherrill of Fort Stockton; John Robinson of Del Rio; and Gordon Moore of Uvalde.

Since one of the important recognitions at this time is the highest to be given to volunteers, the Silver Beaver Award, Dr. Hunter also announced that he had also appointed a committee to make the selection for 1965. This committee is composed of Kirby Dawkins of McCombs; Art Flores of Eagle Pass; Howard Briggs of San Angelo; Royce Lee of Bronte; and Dolph Brisco of Uvalde.

Screwworm Eradication Officials Plan Winter Strategy To Eliminate Pest

Eradication workers are plotting their strategy for combating screwworms this winter which they hope will eliminate the threat of reinfestation of the United States by the livestock pest in 1965.

Their plan is to release all available sterile screwworm flies up to 200 miles or more below the international border along both east and west coasts of Mexico where large numbers of native screwworms live through the winter. Sterile males mate with native females and prevent reproduction. This action is expected to weaken Mexican screwworm colonies which form the principal threat to the Southwest and slow the northward migration of the insects next spring.

would be particularly harmful to the program, authorities said. They fear stockmen may stop looking for screwworms because of the low number of cases experienced this year and the prospects of cold weather ahead.

Success of their strategy, therefore, will depend on farmers and ranchers detecting and reporting screwworm infestations before they can multiply, so that emergency treatment can be provided. Treatment of animal wounds with smears is also called for to ward off screwworm attack.

The bite of a copperhead rarely is fatal.
