100 MILES OF REAL LINES FOR COTY BEING PLANNED

Engineer Hired, Hundreds of Applications For Service Made.

Present indications are that Bailey county will have an estimated 100 miles of rural electric lines when plans now in process of formation are completed.

Hundreds of applications have already been given by farmers in various sections of this county desiring rural electric service, and the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co., serving this area has expressed its willingness to co-operate with the users in every possible manner.

Officers of the Bailey county REA organization are W. G. Kennedy, president; John S. Williams, vice-president; David Churchill, I. F. Willman and Walter Lamron, directors.

Billy Dotson Nets Good Profit From 4-H Club Calves Fed

Billy Dotson, 4-H club boy of West Camp, realized $28.90 above expenses for feeding two beef calves as his club demonstration last year.

The feeders started as baby calves last April and were kept with a nurse cow through September. Growing grain, sorghum heads, grain sorghum husks and cotton seed meal made up the principle part of the ration for the entire feeding period.

At the Plains Quality Meat show and sale in Lubbock, March 29, 30 and 31, one calf weighing 850 pounds, placed twenty-fifth among a group of 50 animals sold at auction for $13.25 per hundred.

GOV. ALLRED'S DISFAVOR OF SALES TAX REINFORCED BY STATISTICS OF DEPARTMENT GIVEN BY A MINISTER

Until his plan for increased effectiveness of an ad valorem taxation has had a fair trial, Gov. James V. Allred will stand opposed to a general sales tax.

"I want the legislature to submit two constitutional amendments—one providing classification of property and the other to give a state agency some sort of power to set values for taxation," Allred said.

"Until my plan for a way out is given a fair trial, I'm not for a plan that I have been opposed to all along."

"Every dollar the poor man makes he has to spend. A sales tax therefore is an income tax on the poor man."

The governor said that he had not thought of an active campaign against it should the constitutional amendment providing a sales tax be submitted to the people by the legislature.

Bringing the question of sales tax closer home, Rev. J. Earnest Stack, Houston, editor of the Christian American, says Bailey county merchants do a total retail business of $1,031,000 per annum, and a two per cent sales tax as proposed to the Texas Legislature would mean payment of $20,620 by the people of his county, such tax meaning

Baptist Church Will Have Radio Equipment For Sunday Programs

Promptly at 7:15 p. m., next Sunday, the doors will close upon the opening of one of the most unique presentations to be offered in Muleshoe. This program will be presented from the studios of the First Baptist church, and will be heard by a large congregation in the auditorium of the church.

A complete installation of the most modern of radio-sound equipment, designed to copy the studio technique of up-to-date broadcast stations will relay the program by cable, through the use of preamplifiers, according to Rev. J. Mantley Reynolds, pastor.

This production will be presented via the microphone and the world's most marvelous radio receiver by a local cast of characters, who will endeavor to copy the studio technique of modern radio, with sound effect engineering and all that goes with it.

The Baptist church announces that this same sound equipment will be used regularly in similar programs, and will be used to provide for an overflow auditorium in the Educational building.

This latter auditorium will offer special advantages to the hard of hearing, due to the efficiency of the sound equipment. All that is necessary to the individual to make use of this service is to notify the pastor before noon any Sunday.

The public is invited Sunday to see this new sound equipment, and to witness the program at 7:15 p. m., at the opening of B. T. U. It is requested that the doors will close upon this BTU program promptly at 7:15 o'clock.

Saturday May 8 Is Dead Line For Sign Up Of Work Sheets

The County Agricultural Conservation committee has set Saturday, May 8, as the closing date for the work sheet sign up campaign in Bailey county. This committee authorized W. C. Taylor, county agent, early this week to make such announcement to farm operators.

It is understood the State office will allow no extension of time on the sign-up this year as was done last year. A definite closing date, it is thought, will expedite the process of auditing the figures which will result in an earlier analysis and allotment of acreages.

Those who expect to become eligible for participation in the program are urged to sign work sheets before the closing date. No obligation is placed on any one who signs, but such procedure is essential in that surpluses are being depleted base acres for the farm from which diversion to soil-conserving crops may be made in 1937.

FAIRVIEW ELECTS TEACHERS

A school board meeting was held Friday evening of last week at the Fairview school south of Muleshoe for the purpose of electing teachers for another year.

A. W. Colthrop was re-elected for principal, Miss Ruth Light of Buia and Miss Norma Pendleton of Lubbock were chosen as the other two teachers.

An added burden on each county resident of $3.97 per year.

Stack's figures are based on a recent census of the United States Department of Commerce. Other enlightening facts contained in that report include:

"A two per cent annual sales tax will yield $28,642,300 in annual recurring revenue to the State of Texas.

"The yearly volume of business done by the 70,900 retail establishments of Texas is approximately $1,432,615,000.

"Under a 2 per cent retail sales tax each inhabitant of Texas would be required to pay $4.72 per year.

"Forty-five per cent of the sales tax revenue would come from 10 counties in Texas in which the largest cities are located."

Dr. Stack, a well-known Baptist minister, recently made the public statement that surpluses on the excessive taxes were hampering religious activities in Texas.

"Any man or woman who ever served on a Church Finance committee knows only too well that 'high taxes' is too often given as the reason for failure to meet obligations to the church," Dr. Stack said.

$91,000 FARM CHECKS RECD. IN BAILEY CO.

Is About One-Half Of Total; Others Will Follow Soon.

More than $91,000 in 486 checks covering payment on 328 Bailey county farms for participation in the 1936 Agricultural Conservation program have been received at the County office to date. These are payments on a little more than one-half the total applications from this county.

A few applications have been suspended at the State office and returned for minor corrections. Others were misplaced in transmittal to the State office and were delayed for this reason. It is hoped that payment on these will be received at an early date.

IN COUNTY COURT MONDAY

In County court last Monday Robert C. McClelland, 50, residing in the southern part of Bailey county was adjudged insane by a jury of his peers and will be taken to one of the state asylums as soon as an opening for his reception is made.

E. M. Jolly and B. C. Williams pleaded guilty to charges alleging possession of beer without government revenue stamps being affixed, the former received a fine of $25 and costs, while the latter was given a fine of $50 and costs, also a jail sentence of 25 days.

Eunice Florence Is Transferred To The Amarillo Division

Miss Eunice Florence, home management supervisor of the Federal resettlement administration for Bailey county has been transferred to the Amarillo office, effective next Monday, the change being considered here in the nature of a promotion.

While here she has assisted in making investigations and arranging loans, which have brought approximately $125,000 assistance to Bailey county farmers, many of whom were in real needy circumstances. Assisting farmers and their families in arranging home plans and management, setting up expense budgets, giving directions and suggestions regarding gardening, chicken raising and a multitude of other valuable information, have all been a part of Miss Florence's work while here.

Determining amounts and kinds of food needed for families, analysis of clothing conditions and needs, how to make floor rips, furniture improvement, the handling of replacements of various kinds, methods leading to increased health and family comfort, encouraging community relationships, how to use various devices for preserving food—all these items have had a part in the category of Miss Florence's work while in Bailey county.

It has not yet been publicly announced when she will take her place in the local Resettlement office.

Much Improvement Is Going On In Many Homes of Bailey Co.

Home improvement of all kinds, and particularly improvement of bedrooms of Bailey county homes, is one of vital and spreading interest at this time, according to Miss Alma Stewart, county agent. Many women are now engaged in such type of work.

Hundreds of women have refinished bedrooms, giving them new coats of paint and wall paper and making new or improving closets, rendering them practically moth-proof.

Realizing bedding protectors mean economy in time, labor and money, several women of this county have dressed their beds with all needed protectors, using various materials, including laundered flour sacks and which has been very inexpensive. Quilts worn at the ends, have been refinished with unbleached muslin or other material and are being used for mattress pads.

Some of the women have had more windows cut into their bedrooms to give more light and sunshine, and new shades and curtains, also screens have been hung.

Economy also, are receiving considerable attention, water is being piped in, sinks constructed, better lighting given, while some who can do so, are buying some of the modern self-repairing hose, now designed for country use, freezing being accomplished with either kerosene or gas in tanks.

HAIL VISIT SECTION

Winter with its snow and ice has passed, and storms appear to be giving less frequent but the spring hazard of hail has arrived. Last week there was hail in east Lamb and west Hale counties, at Cotton Center, Hale county, hail was reported the size of apples.

MORE THAN $1,000,000 AVAILABLE TO FARMERS, IN RESETTLEMENT LOANS BAILEY CO. TO RECEIVE HER PART

J. W. McDermott, Resettlement Administration county supervisor for Bailey county, announced today word had been received from the regional office in Amarillo, that more than a million dollars has just been made available for Resettlement loans to deserving farmers in Region Twelve.

Many farmers, with the planting season approaching, are finding they need a little more money in order to plan the year's work, and the Resettlement Administration is anxious to help these farmers to rehabilitate themselves, McDermott said.

Resettlement loans are available McDermott said to farmers whose farm units make it possible to create a sound farm plan, permitting the retirement of the loan and the rehabilitation of the farm family. Farmers in need of this financial aid, as well as the help and advice of the rural and home management supervisors, should visit the Resettlement Administration county office at once. The office is located in the court house at Muleshoe.

The Resettlement administration this year is emphasizing livestock set-ups in its lending program. McDermott said loans of this type have proven quite successful in the way of financial rehabilitation of distressed farmers. They also lend themselves toward rehabilitation of the land in the area.

Methodists Here To Have Programs For The Bishops Crusade

In keeping with nation-wide movement known as "The Bishop's Crusade," to be participated in by every church simultaneously in the United States, two such programs will be held by the Methodist church in Muleshoe, Friday night of this week and the following Sunday morning, according to announcement made by Rev. R. S. Watkins, pastor.

The Friday evening program will comprise an address given on the Bishop's crusade, also a playlet given by members of the church. The feature of the evening will be the reception of two radio addresses delivered by Bishop Smith and Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of that denomination. It is stated a good radio with especially loud speaker will be installed so all attending the service may have full benefit of the radio addresses.

These addresses will be given over stations WPAA, Dallas, at 8:30 p. m.; WPAB, Fort Worth, 7:30 p. m.; KPVO Lubbock, 8:00 p. m.; KICA, Clovis, N. M., 8:30 p. m.

Friday Is "Bailey County Day" At The Plainview Dairy Show

Friday of this week will be Bailey County day at the South Plains Dairy show being held at Plainview this week, beginning last Wednesday and continuing until Saturday, inclusive.

All citizens throughout Bailey county are requested to gather at the R. L. Brown realty office in Muleshoe early Friday morning and go in a body to Plainview, to be met at the outskirts of that city with a band and reception delegation for enjoyment of the day, according to Roy Davis and G. H. Hancock, of Plainview, who were here last Monday making arrangements.

At this show the aristocracy of Plains dairy herds will reign as the prime attraction of the occasion. It will also be a "home-coming" event, honor to be paid those far sighted individuals whose faith in the future started the dairying industry on the plains section.

A large exhibit of fine dairy animals is anticipated, large and numerous prize winners will be shown, several exhibits of various kinds will be shown from Bailey county, and everyone attending is assured an interesting, educational and otherwise worth while trip.

Ferguson eight years ago, limiting charges based on property value transferred to districts in which Bailey county is located, succeeding O. B. Tumlinson who has been sent to district 12, the change became effective April 12.

A HIGH PLAINS GROUND WATER SURVEY BEGUN

Irrigators Of 46 Counties Will Welcome Information.

A ground-water survey was begun on the high plains area last Monday at Plainview by the State Board of Water engineers.

Covering about eight months and financed by an emergency legislative appropriation to match federal funds, the study is intended to determine how much ground water is available in the area.

W. L. Broadhurst has begun the survey at Plainview and other geologists will be employed as work progresses. The area lies west of a line north from Big Spring through Crosbyton to Clarendon and all of the Panhandle north of an east-west line through Amarillo, including all or parts of 46 counties.

Numerous irrigators of the Blackwater valley and other underground sheet water sections will welcome this investigation, as there is much concern and a great deal of controversy in this section as to sources and supply of the water used for irrigable purposes.

Some irrigators have gone so far as to recommend that irrigation districts should be formed in the plains area, permitting wells to be put down certain distances apart so as to conserve the supply and protect investment of those who now have irrigation wells.

To date no one seems to have much idea of the extent of the underground supply, while it is generally considered abundant, yet many citizens of this area would like definite information.

Summer Irrigation Rate On 6,000 Gals. Is Placed at $2.00

In keeping with the progressive spirit and civic pride of Muleshoe citizens, the City Commission has put into effect, beginning May 1 and noted on June 1 bills, the annual water ration for residence property at this municipality.

The new rate will allow 6,000 gallons of water at the minimum price of $2.00 for residence property only, there being a charge of 12c, cents per 1000 gallons for all used over the minimum quantity named.

This rate will be effective during the summer months up to September 1, inclusive, for benefit of property owners who wish to improve lawns, grow trees, shrubs and gas-dans, according to Al Isaacs, city secretary.

Combat Insects Now Farmers Advised By State Entomologist

College Station—The insects which are waiting to attack the farmer's crops and his wife's fruit, vegetables, flowers and shrubs are of two general types, sucking and eating, and two different types of control measures are necessary to control them, according to R. E. Reppert, Extension entomologist of Texas A & M College.

The sucking type of insects suck the sap from plants and include such common insects as the aphids, or plant lice. Where insects suck the sap, stomach poisons are seldom effective, and a contact poison which attacks the insect from without is effective. Nicotine sulphate is the most widely adopted contact poison, and can be used either as a dust or a spray. To get good control contact poisons should be used on hot, still days, Reppert said.

The chewing insects, such as the cabbage worms, web worms, potato beetles, tomato worms, and similar types can be controlled with stomach poisons, most of which are an arsenical base. For spraying, lead arsenate is preferred, while calcium arsenate is generally preferred as a dust. Non-poisonous substances, such as derris or pyrethrum may be used on vegetables for the table.

Some insects break the general rule, Reppert said, and pointed out that the adult of the cotton boll weevil is controlled with stomach poisons while the striped cucumber beetle, a chewing insect, can be best controlled with contact applications.

The best way to determine the type of insect which is infesting a plant is to observe the type of injury, according to Reppert. If part of the plant is eaten away, it can be concluded that a biting insect is responsible; while if the plant appears unthrifty and the leaves are turning yellow and are withering a sucking insect is responsible. County agricultural and home demonstration agents should be consulted as to the class and formula of poison to use.

A very comprehensive list of the various damaging insects of this section and poisons used to combat them was published in the Journal a few issues ago.

Makes Meal Planning Easier

"Meal planning isn't so hard for me because of the canned and stored fruits and vegetables we have," said Mrs. E. L. Smith, home food supply demonstrator of the West Camp home demonstration club.

Mrs. Smith says she still has carrots and beets they banked last November. She dug a hole in the ground and put straw in it, then covered the straw with a sack and put carrots and beets on the sack. She covered these vegetables with another sack and then put dirt on top of that. Mrs. Smith says she prefers storing these vegetables because it is much easier than canning and can be served in so many more ways.

Is a Food Neighbor

"If you want to put carrots on the menu in your meal planning I will be glad to give you the carrots," said Mrs. Tom Radney, at the meal planning demonstration held at Progress home demonstration club.

Mrs. Radney brought a bushel of carrots to the club meeting and each of the 24 members present took carrots home with them.

The carrots were planted late and left in the garden all winter. When Mr. Radney plowed the garden last week they put the carrots in the cellar. Mrs. Radney had more than she needed, so she decided to divide with her neighbors. She also brought rhubarb roots for the women.

Eat Spinach for Eye Weakness

"I planted spinach in my cold frame because it is one of the goods that we need most, a leafy vegetable," said Mrs. A. W. Coltharp, cooper of the Fairview home demonstration club.

Mrs. Coltharp says by having early spinach and other leafy vegetables growing in the cold frame she can serve a well balanced meal without having to make a trip to town.

Spinach is one of the best sources of vitamin A. A diet low in vitamin A develops eye weakness. Eye specialists have known for sometime that some people with normal vision have more difficulty seeing at night than others. This has been found to be caused from low diet of vitamin A and when diet high in vitamin A is given night blindness is improved.

Uses Neufchatel Cheese for Cooking "I put some neufchatel cheese in a hammock to drain and was too busy to get back to it for about 8 hours after taking the cheddar out of the hammock. I salted it and put it in the press," said Mrs. Grace Snider, cooper of the West Camp home demonstration club.

Mrs. Snider folded the cloth that she used for a hammock over the cheese and put it in a cooker pan with holes in the bottom for a press. She placed a 3-gallon bucket of water on the cloth. She left it in this press all night. It formed a crust over the outside and she finds that it keeps well.

Mrs. Snider added: "I used Neufchatel cheese that was 12 days old for cooking macaroni and cheese, and we like it better than we do the fresh. It can be sliced and served just like American cheese."

Mrs. Snider kept this cheese in the pantry in the kitchen.

Has Fresh Onions in Cold Frame

"We have been eating fresh onions that grew in my cold frame," said Mrs. Elzada McMahan, cooper of the Progress Home Demonstration club. Mrs. McMahan put out the onion plants and they have eaten them for at least four weeks. Mrs. McMahan transplanted some turnips that they had in a bank. She will have fresh greens in a week.

TVA Goes Wild

Congress appropriated $50,000,000 for a two year period for TVA. In the first 18 months the expenditures had amounted to $110,000,000, with the government now obligated to spending $378,000,000 as a minimum of cost.

Texas Cotton Shortest In Nation And Growing Shorter; Agronomist Warns One Variety Best For Farmers Crops

College Station—"The average staple length of Texas cotton was 14.77 sixteenths inch for 1934, and 14.87 sixteenths inch for 1935; whereas the average staple length for the entire United States crop was 15.58 sixteenths inch for 1934 and 15.47 sixteenths inch for 1935," said E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas Extension Service, in quoting from a recent publication of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"The publication, a 51 page study entitled 'Quality of Texas Cotton, Crops of 1928-35,' contains material assembled in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"For each year of the six year period 1928-33, the average staple length of cotton produced in Texas was shorter than that of cotton produced in the entire Cotton Belt," Miller continued. The average staple for Texas during the period was 15.04 sixteenths inch, while the average for the entire Cotton Belt was 15.32 sixteenths inch. "The difference in the length of staple may not look like so much when expressed in terms of sixteenths of an inch, but in dollars it represents an annual loss which runs into millions." Since the advent of the boll weevil, Texas cotton has gradually lowered its staple length, Miller pointed out. Not only is this cotton produced in competition with foreign countries using cheap labor, but also any continued production of cotton of such short staple will necessarily be reflected in a lowering of exports. In 1936 nearly 61 percent of the Texas cotton crop was less than fifteen-sixteenths inch staple. Of this amount about 21 percent was unmarketable on staple and 5 percent on grade.

That Texas is paying more attention to improving the length of its staple is indicated by the interest farmers, 4-H club boys, ginners, bankers, merchants, brokers, and others connected with or affected by the cotton industry are showing in the situation in 1937. "The contests being sponsored for both farmers and club boys in production of longer staple cotton may be the turning point in the Texas cotton picture," said Miller.

In this connection Robert T. Staples, assistant superintendent of the New Braunfels textile mills, urges every cotton-producing community to agree upon some particular breed of cotton that will produce a relatively certain length staple as being more profitable to the growers and more desirable to the spinners.

Where farmers will grow a common type of cotton it invariably means more money for them, especially if the cotton is to be compressed for export. Spinners also like cotton of uniform staple and character.

Staples further says: "The uniformity of staple is essential for proper setting of the rolls in each machine. These are set at a certain distance for the staple selected. If the cotton is shorter, the yarn will break down and will not spin. If too long for the setting, the fiber either breaks or coddles the yarn. In either case, the resetting of the rolls is necessary or uneven and inferior yarn is produced. Resetting the rolls upsets program schedules and the cost of production is excessive. Therefore, uniformity of staple is necessary for the normal production of good yarns at a low cost."

"A certain uniform type of character of cotton is necessary for good spinning and weaving. Cotton of weak fiber produces weak yarns and lowers the breaking strength of the yarns produced, thereby affecting mill production and producing cloth of inferior strength. It is well known that different varieties of cotton and different soil areas produce wide variations in the character of cotton fiber. Anything that can be done to produce every bale of cotton from a certain community, uniform in its character, would be of untold benefit to the mill.

"It is our experience that gins set up for one-variety cotton produce bales of Grade A Preparation. However, practically 80 per cent of the samples of bales of cotton submitted are rejected on account of poor ginning at the present time. Either the cotton is ginned wet, cut too close to the seed or ginned before the cotton has properly matured. In any case, the cotton is lowered in value $1.50 to $3 per bale and the farmer is penalized. The bales are unsuitable for producing first quality yarns and if the cotton were suitable for the mill, the waste to the mill makes such cotton unprofitable to consider buying. The exclusive one-variety gin takes more care in its ginning, and co-operative work with the farmer and the gin through the farmers' associations, the cotton can be prepared much better for making fine quality yarns for broadcloth shirtings.

"Finally, the one variety of cotton with its uniform character, length of staple and proper preparation makes the simple process of buying cotton very much easier on the buyer and seller. At present, much time is spent on the grading of run lots by the cotton merchant, or samples are submitted for classification to several exporters. Segregation of lots after classification is expensive. An excessive amount of time is spent by the buyer in classifying samples submitted by the seller that are well known by him to be below specifications. The production of one-variety cotton in a locality and the submission of samples of this one variety to the trade should eliminate to a small degree the present waste of effort in doing business with its conglomerate mixture of staple and grade."

LAW OF LIFE LEFT BURDENS

Whatever else may be said of the machine age it has lifted the great burden of labor off the backs of our citizens, workmen, housekeepers and the vast army of human beings who in former days earned their bread by breaking their backs and bodies—which they called "the sweat of their brows."

Browning wrote that "progress is the law of life." The insurance records show that life is something like fifteen years longer on the average now than it was at the turn of the present century—which proves that Browning gazed into the right kind of a crystal.

So-called mechanical refrigeration and air-conditioning and numerous other discoveries continue to expand its benefits.

Patrolize home industries.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS INCREASING RAPIDLY

The lower priced cars would cost five times what they do now except for industrial research and science. The development of high-speed steel, aluminum and other metals and products are all part of the economy of production, that make for efficiency. New insulation materials, new upholstery materials, new non-shatterable glass have helped cheapen the cost of transportation.

There were only 4,900 automobiles in 1900, and trucks did not get into statistics until 411 were made by 1904. Buses have replaced street cars. Trailers have hardly been counted yet. Twenty-five to thirty million Americans are driving their own automobiles.

Twenty years ago three-fourths of all hard-surfaced highways were not even started. The highway mileage of this country will be redoubled before the students now going to school are middle-aged men and women. The production of motor vehicles is definitely in the millions each year and the industry is responsible for about ten per cent of gainful employment of our people.

Every Great Attempt is Glorious Even if It Fails

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
Every man's inheritance shall be in the place where his lot falleth; according to the tribes of your fathers, ye shall inherit.—Nahum 1:14.

They who provide much wealth for their children but neglect to improve them in virtue, die like those who feed their horses high, but never train them to be useful.—Socrates.

THE BOOM STARTS
Predictions freely made late in the fall that 1937 would witness a great, nation-wide revival of home building are from all reports going to prove true.

When it is remembered that comparatively few new homes were built in this country between 1930 and 1935, the housing shortage can be understood. Today, with most families able to maintain their own residences instead of living cramped up with another family in a single house, and with the natural increase for more homes caused by marriages, the supply is far short of the demand.

It is reported that after calling laying on highway 214 got into town where laborers on that road could see the wonderful sight of city buses being some trouble keeping them out on the job. Clyde Holland went out onto the road one day and found one of the men crying. "What is the matter," asked Clyde. "I don't have a shovel," replied the man. "Well," replied Clyde, "you'll get the same pay as other PWA workers who do have shovels." "But it isn't fair," insisted the worker. "The others have shovels to lean on and I don't."

WEEKLY LAY SERMON HEALTH AND RELIGION
By JESS MITCHELL

In these later years theology has traveled quite closely to physiology for the good of both. The Church came to realize several years ago its missionaries could accomplish much more with their subjects in a spiritual way when they gave heed to their physical and physical conditions. Only recently we have learned that in this country, because of the economic condition, many people have been in a bad way spiritually because they were physically depleted.

Physicians now days have much to say about the numerous deaths from heart troubles of different kinds, and apparently, the liver comes next with its difficulties. They are not situated so far apart in the human body, and what affects one directly, also has an indirect effect upon the other. If the heart be taken as symbolic of soul conditions, the liver may also represent bodily conditions, and most of us know that spiritual health depends much upon physical health.

King Solomon of Judea, in his physiological and anatomical discoveries 3,000 years ago made some very interesting discoveries. While Dr. Henry claims to have discovered the fact of blood circulation in 1610, yet Solomon seems to have been familiar with that fact a thousand years before the time of Jesus of Nazareth. When he spoke of the "pitcher at the fountain," he evidently had reference to the heart and the three canals which receive blood from its pitcher. When he spoke of the "silver cord of life," he no doubt had reference in a poetical manner to the spinal cord, and when he spoke of the silver cord being loosed, he referred to the relaxation of the spinal cord in old age which produces palsy, tho that fact as not discovered by modern science until in the nineteenth century.

Nearly all doctors have a hobby. With one it may be stomach, with another the kidneys, with another the appendix or spleen or the nervous system; but with Dr. Solomon it was the liver. He recognized this important function in the castle of the human body. He was familiar with its curious cells, its elongated tubes, its three lobes, and the hepatic artery through which flows the crimson tides of life. He knew it never slept; that it was always on duty. He knew the effect of dissipation of various kinds upon it, that's why he spoke one time of sin, comparing it to "a dart that strikes through the liver."

To successfully diagnose diseases of the soul it is frequently necessary to diagnose diseases of the body. Jesus of Nazareth must have known this, for we have so many instances recorded of his helping people spiritually as result of curing them physically. I have sometimes thought the body and soul are like Samses twins—when you thrill the one with joy or sorrow, you thrill the other.

Frequently people get the idea because they suffer from depression they are all wrong spiritually, when it may be their liver is merely out of order. They need a doctor more than they need a preacher. It is not sin that blights their spiritual prospects, but bile. It yellows their eyes, coats their tongues, makes their head ache and swim, and fills their soul with gloomy forebodings. They need calomel more than they need theology.

Young folks, especially, need to take care of their livers. When "wild oats" are sown, it is generally in the liver. The man who attains 70 or 80 years of age has also been a member.

During the service a quartet composed of Mrs. Byron Griffiths, Mrs. Jim Cook, Tye Young and Curtis Taylor sang "Able, Worthy, True," "The Old Rugged Cross," and "Does Jesus Care," all favorite songs of the deceased.

age invariably maintains a good liver—he didn't sow many wild oats during his youth. Those who stagger along the streets all bent, decayed and prematurely old are the one who put mortgages on their livers while still young. It invariably pays a man spiritually to keep his liver healthy, and there are thousands of people in the world today who are morbid over business affairs, morbid about domestic conditions, morbid spiritually, who need to read and give heed to this weekly lay sermon. I learned long ago there is a Sinai and a Calvary for the heart; but only a Sinai for the liver, and the young man who turns his face against the regiments of youthful temptations, seldom needs a Calvary for his liver.

Some of my readers may never before have thought how closely allied are health and religion, yet I firmly believe the one who has the best health, other things being equal, enjoys his religion more. Good health is not only conducive to a healthy usefulness, but also more satisfactory for an eternal destiny.

Doubtless there are plenty of men—and women, too, living out in the cemeteries today who are supposed to have died of malarial fever, heart trouble of some kind, or one of a dozen other diseases may have been named in the undertaker's certificate, but if the doctor had told the truth he would have said, "he died the victim of night club suppers, too many cigars, too much booze, or too much something else, which resulted in a torpid liver or liver cirrhosis."

No one admires a perfectly healthy specimen of manhood or womanhood more than I do, and this is a kind of sickness that is really beautiful to behold, the kind that comes from over-work and super-service in behalf of one's fellowman. To my mind the aged war veteran, gassed, or with empty sleeve or crippled limb, carries with him a badge of eternal nobility. The Red Cross nurse who has worn herself out by bedside of the sick is a real heroine. Some bodies scarred and mangled by privation and disease are more glorious than the robust form of an athlete. The mother, who sits up and pale through sitting by the bedside of her family, often has a countenance that glows like an angel's.

When they started out in the troop of iniquities, they were mounted on a flashing charger, with champion bit, flaming eye and foaming lip; but as riding an old ring-boned, spavined, spring-halter critter, they can not be of much use to the world and humanity.

Religion is very important in this world's affairs, but its present enjoyment and ultimate success depends largely upon one's health, so keep the latter intact if you would enjoy the former.

The experiences of life are many and varied. Some of them make impressions so deep as to appear permanent. But really impressions are as chalk-marks on a blackboard, made today and erased tomorrow. Economic conditions of one day are forgotten the next. Man repeats his mistakes because impressions do not stick.

State Health Doctor Says Now Is Time To Combat Diphtheria

Austin, April 20.—A health slogan applicable to May Day-Child Health Day, "Immunize Now—Stamp Out Diphtheria," is designed to intensify the campaign against one of the most deadly foes of children, diphtheria, according to Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

If parents would have their family physician administer toxoid to their child as soon after it reaches the age of six months as possible, much suffering and many deaths could be prevented.

The administering of toxoid is a very simple procedure and causes the child little or no discomfort. In approximately ninety per cent of the children receiving toxoid, there will be established a life long immunity to this disease.

To be sure, four to six months after the final dose of toxoid, the child should be Schick tested so parents will know definitely whether their child is immune. The test consists of just a few drops of diphtheria toxin between the layers of their skin. If the child is immune no reaction will be noticed. If not, there will appear redness at the sight of the test that reaches its height the third or fourth day.

Parents who have not had their child trip to Lubbock Saturday of last week and attended the District Inter-scholastic league meeting held at Texas Technological college.

Bailey County Oil Test Well Getting Ready To Spud In

Several thousand added acres each in Hockley and Cochran counties were leased for oil purposes last week, while in Bailey county there has been a total of around 7,000 acres leased since the first of this month, bringing the total leasing of this county up to more than 28,000 acres, most of it being located in the southern part of the county.

The Humble Pipe Line Co., recognizing the opening of a new West Texas oil field, is making preparations to extend its pipe line into Cochran county.

New locations for test wells are being spotted in both Cochran and Hockley counties. Whiteface, in Hockley county, has grown to such an extent that R. W. Jones, Littlefield, last week opened a newspaper there, copy of the first issue coming to the Journal office last Saturday.

Report received here last Tuesday that the Bob Slaughter well No. 1 in Hockley county was yielding an output of 250 barrels of oil per day, following running of 2 1/2 inch tubing and acidizing with 2,000 gallons. Some oil men are predicting its production may eventually go as high as 2,000 barrels daily on full development.

Water well for the first oil test in Bailey county was finished the first of this week, drilling machinery moved onto the location last Wednesday and work of erecting tower will be started this week, spudding in to begin on or about May 1, according to authoritative information received here Wednesday.

This well is to be located in labor 4, league 700, in the extreme south-east corner of Bailey county, and will be known as the R. F. Duggan-Yel-lowhouse No. 1.

Cause Of McNairy's Death Given In A Letter To Relatives

Further information received here relative to the immediate cause of Jack McNairy's death last week near Banning, California, is to the effect that while working for the Metropolitan Water Distribution Co. of Southern California, being employed in what is known as the Lawrence tunnel, about seven miles from Banning, or 80 miles south of Los Angeles, he met his death in a very sudden and unexpected manner.

Going to work at midnight, Friday April 9, along with 20 other workmen, the crew took temporary shelter in a pump station about 300 feet from where dynamite shots were being placed for excavation work. After the shots were made the men started on back toward the head of the tunnel when, in some unexplainable manner McNairy stumbled and fell on the track ahead of the "muck car," which ran over him, killing him instantly. Some of his associates thought perhaps he had stumbled and fell he struck the track in such a way as to knock him unconscious, though that is not an assured fact.

The body was badly injured beneath the wheels, head and face being so crushed identification from those sources was impossible. Later identification was made by a scar on one hand and by letters found in his pockets from relatives living in Muleshoe. McNairy was well known here. He had been employed as a miner by this particular concern since December, 1934. Details of the accident were kindly furnished relatives here by the California coroner who held the inquest.

Use for Respirators
 Respirators, or masks, find many uses in peace as well as in war. These filter out the noxious particles.
