America Needs To Be Prepared In Various Ways

Austin, July 2—America has with good reason become preparedness-conscious. World events have emphasized the necessity of developing the nation's fighting power to a point where it can meet any exigencies which the future may present. While in the present preparedness program the greater emphasis is being placed upon the production of mechanized equipment, the armed forces continue to be aware of the need of physical fitness in their personnel," declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"In 1917 more than one-third of the drafted men examined were declared unfit for military duty. Though in recent years the percentage of applicants unfit for service may have dropped slightly, the number is still too high.

"Therefore, it would appear both from the standpoint of the individual's welfare and the nation's that an increased or more intelligent appreciation of the value of good health and maximum vitality would could be displayed not only on the part of men of military age, but by the nation as a whole. Both good sense and patriotism demand it.

"Whether in peace or in war, a country is only as strong as its people. But it is equally true that real and happy living to the greatest possible extent can only be enjoyed by those who, by a rational observance of nature's basic laws, are giving their bodies a square deal.

"In this connection, the logic of surrounding the young with preventives available through science is obvious. Immunization against diphtheria, smallpox vaccination, proper food in proper amounts, sufficient sleep and rest, and the removal of remediable physical defects merely represent sound judgment and an essential parental duty," Dr. Cox pointed out.

"But to stop at this point is to fall short of the individual's and the nation's need. All adults profitably could take stock of their habits, eliminate those which they know are detrimental, obtain medical advice on others concerning which they have reasonable doubts, and strive in a sensible, rational manner to develop and keep maximum health and vitality.

"In short, the physical examination to discover possible physical defects, and a non-fanatical adherence to fundamental requirements in food, rest, exercise, and other essentials are points that should not be overlooked by an adult who has at heart not only his own personal happiness and health, but the interest of the beneficent nation in which he lives.

BAILEY CO. HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

By LILLIE GENTRY Home Demonstration Agent of Bailey County

Work on the mattress demonstration program for Bailey county will begin immediately after the agent's return from Short Course July 15 and will proceed as rapidly as centers can be set up in the various communities.

Miss Lillie Gentry, county home demonstration agent, urges that chairmen in various communities have the community centers ready to begin work at that time in order that there will be no delay in getting the program under way.

The committees are asked to provide at least three good substantial tables for each center, obtain broom handles, scales, ice pick handles, plenty of brown paper and a barrel of water with two buckets for each center. Other materials will be brought out to each center by the home demonstration agent.

Baileboro Girls cut Play Suits

Members of the Baileboro 4-H club met in the home of Mrs. A. E. Newton Friday, June 28, where they gained some valuable experience in placing patterns and cutting a garment.

Miss Gentry, county home demonstration agent, met with the girls and worked with the sponsor Mrs. A. E. Newton in teaching them how to study a pattern guide, how to even material, how to place the pattern, cut the garment and make with tailor's tacks. Refreshments of lemonade and cookies were served by the hostess, Miss Melba Newton.

More Delegates Named

Three more women and girls have been selected to represent Bailey county at the Farmers Short Course at College Station, July 8-12, making a total of four women, six girls and a sponsor.

Those selected were Geneva Terry from the Bula 4-H club; Juanita Nickels, Bula H. D. Club; and DeAlva Bartee, Longview 4-H club. This completes the allotment for 4-H club girls but falls three short of the allotment for home demonstration club women.

THREE INITIATED INTO STAR MYSTERIES

Members of the local Eastern Star chapter met at the Masonic hall Tuesday evening of this week for regular business and to confer the degrees of the order on Mrs. Minnie Solomon, Mrs. Beatrice McCormick and Mrs. Blanche Lenderson.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flowers in the star colors. Miss Elizabeth Harden, worthy matron, presided. Mrs. Naomi St. Clair was installed as Esther, Mrs. Billie Mathis, as installing marshal.

At the close of initiation services, Mrs. Beulah Charles paid a tribute to the new members with a very appropriate poem. The new candidates made exceptionally good address. An invitation was read from Lubbock chapter, by the Sec. Mrs. Clay Beavers, to a Chiu to be given in honor of Mrs. Jane Nabors, well known in shoe, when she was a grand, and visited this chapter. Delicious ice cream and cake served to all present by Mrs. Sylvia Weyer and Mrs. Bonnie McReynolds.

Roosevelt The Gambler; What Will Be Results of His Appointment Of Col. Knox and Stimpson?

In the recent appointment of Col. Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimpson to his cabinet, Franklin D. Roosevelt has apparently, further demonstrated his gambling nature, especially in the appointment of Mr. Stimpson. For several years now, the President's policy, as he himself says, has been "We'll try this and if it don't work, we'll try something else." Much of his New Deal has been repeated cases of trial and error, either fundamentally or later proven so, and there is no great reason to believe that inclusion of these two men into his cabinet will strengthen instead of hinder, and not make it more difficult for him to make decisions and take actions in democratic manner that will, in the coming months, be for the best interests of the nation.

Several months ago Mr. Roosevelt went on record as disavowing official old age when he objected to the "nine old men" of the Supreme court and began packing it with younger ages. Now he appoints Mr. Stimpson who is 72 years old. Stimpson probably knows the War department, at least as it was 30 years ago; but already, and regardless of his political affiliation, there has been raised the question of his ability to put the necessary force into the reorganization of the army, its enlargement, equipment and efficiency. At the very verge of war with Japan over Manchuria, an area in which our real interest was certainly negligible. He made America the spearhead of opposition to Japanese expansion on the Asiatic continent when Russia was certainly much more affected by Japanese action than was America. Japan to this day has not forgotten those actions.

Of course, there are plenty of Democrats who object to Mr. Stimpson's appointment, insisting there are any number of men of their own party who could have done the job; but it will probably be conceded by clearer minded adherents that this is not a matter of partisanship per se. Mr. Roosevelt may have thought his appointment would help him in November, if he runs again. Plenty of other folks, however, doubt it. Rather, Stimpson in the cabinet is more likely to reopen old cleavages in the field of foreign policy, bring to the fore re-discussion of old subjects not yet forgotten causing such appointment to be similar to making John L. Lewis chairman of the National Labor Relations board.

Col. Knox, of course, has no past record to live down. He is a much younger and more vigorous man, probably both mentally and physically. His appointment alone would likely have been a distinct asset to Mr. Roosevelt and to the conduct of foreign affairs in the coming months; but coupled with Mr. Stimpson's the worth of both men may shrink considerably. True, it may seem unjust to hold Stimpson's past record against him; but it is well known that old men do not change their ideas radically and often they are only slightly modified. In his address following appointment to the cabinet, he set forth ideas and methods of aiding the Allies, principally England, now that France has capitulated and will, in the future, probably furnish only quasi-help, and those ideas expressed by him were about as far as most Americans now see fit to go.

He proposed repeal of the Neutrality act, throwing open our ports to British and French naval merchant ships for refueling and repairs, increasing the sending of airplanes and other munitions to the Allies and, if necessary, convoy ships to Great Britain so as to keep open the supply lines, and to open our doors to the children and old people of Great Britain.

It is his opinion such actions on the part of the U. S., would assist Great Britain in holding out against the enemy, assure safety of her navy against being scuttled or worse, being surrendered, thus resulting in a favorable investment on the part of America and adding to our national security. Such policy would aid in keeping our battle-fleet in Pacific waters where it might keep Japan from grabbing some of that vastly rich Oceanic empire.

It is doubtful, however, at this moment, if majority America would definitely get behind such a program. True, Americans are neutral, they want to assist the Allies and are going to in every manner consistent with their own protection; but just how far they may go in this program and the manner of going, is a moot question which has various interpretations.

Just now there are numerous rumors in the air that England and Germany may arrive at a peace solution, and if so, there will be various repercussions that may have an unfavorable economic effect upon the United States. Cancellation of British orders would certainly mean a slacking of industrial operations. It is known America is not in favor of trade barter with Germany. How much of our surplus food would England buy, or, as in the past, would she more likely turn to her own colonies for deficits? Is America actually in the eminent danger some insist or is a part of it hysteria or propaganda, and, perhaps, some of the propaganda having reference to coming November elections.

Indications now are that Mr. Wilkie, the Republican presidential nominee, has behind him a very sensible platform and will make an aggressive campaign. Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt foresaw his nomination three weeks before the Republican convention, as many others distinctly did. That sixth ballot decision had all the ear-marks of pre-conceived arrangement to those who are on the inside of political maneuvers. Of course, it looked open and above board to the average American; but that does not necessarily prove it was.

President Roosevelt doubtless realized he was going to have to take some definite actions before the November election, and all those actions might not be purely democratic in their nature. He probably realized his own popularity was waning rapidly, as recent polls indicate. There was, therefore, "a method in his madness" that might be highly commendable from some points of view. These appointments may have been another illustration of Mr. Roosevelt's sagacious foresight and political discernment. It is probable the President was thinking more intimately of things that would have to be done before November than after that date, for if rumored peace is not a fact before that date, it is quite probable that the future of Great Britain will then be well assured, for by that time American planes and munitions will be floating across the Atlantic in sufficient volume to insure the future of England.

Sometimes it actually seems the President has a clairvoyant mind, while at other times his mental attitudes appear to be purely of a gambling nature. In these appointments he may merely have taken the odds of chance, which he figured were to the favor of America; that those chances were sufficient to justify such appointments protectively, economically and politically. At any rate, we'll die the time and see what we'll see.

survival. We must not encourage our children to believe that about influence over true worth, of pull over push. That would be to admit defeat for our youth and would signify throwing up our hands in resignation against fate.

ACT NOW! JOIN IN! There returns, after twenty years and more, the universal cluck of hurried needles, the snipping of scissors, the folding of hundreds of patterns, the cutting of threads, the sound of the sewing machine and the buzz of group conversation, as the double crochet and the knit two sweeps across the nation. Millions of hands of the land take up the sword of charity in war by each doing a bit for the cause of refugees of the war-torn world.

Congress now has a real chance to make the industrial job of providing for our national defense a whole lot easier.

Here's the situation: The Smith Bill, amending the Wagner Labor Relations Act, was recently passed by a whopping majority in the House of Representatives. The bill in question is the outcome of careful study of the imperfections of the Wagner Act and of the attitude of the board which administers it. For a long time, the public, the press, and a major labor organization, the American Federation of Labor, have all urged that the act be changed to make it a fairer instrument for settling industrial disputes. But now a small group of inside schemers are seeking to thwart the popular will by bottling up the amendments in a Senatorial committee tangle.

The proposed amendments would transform the Wagner Act overnight from a trouble-fomenting piece of legislation into a model of fairness, but they are an important step in the right direction. Plainly, our lawmakers ought to adopt these amendments now, a move that need not interfere with giving consideration later to other substantial and sound changes.

But the time to act on the Smith measure is NOW, and the need for immediate action is obvious. No other legislation now pending is more vital to national defense. Efficient and uninterrupted production is necessary to national defense, and the Wagner Act in its present form has definitely slowed down our country's manufacturing machinery.

It is to the interest of all Americans for Congress to amend the Wagner Act as promptly as possible—and upon such action a large measure of our national well-being and security depends.

THIS IS BAD It is disagreeable to face the fact but our present day youngster who enters into the world of business, has a belief that is distasteful to us, though there are those older who agree with the youth. According to a recent poll, there is found that 80% of our American youth figure that knowing the right people is more important than in doing a job well. They believe, 90% of them, that it's their ability that will win for them but the importance of the people they know who will give them what they seek. This is a question that has been discussed around many a Muleshoe table and unfortunately the solution has been in favor of "knowing the right people."

SO MUCH DOWN Most everyone thinks of new schemes to make money and even the railroad takes a drastic step in starting installment buying of train tickets. It has long been a question whether the method of any installment purchasing ever really helps a nation, but evidently the railroad figures that this business of extending credit could apply to a train ticket as well as a living room rug or a bedroom suite. Of course, you have to establish credit and your proposed trip must cost $50 or more before you can expect to use their plan. Your Muleshoe paper is open-minded and tries to keep up with the times, but we are old-school enough to figure that a fellow should have the price of his ticket before he takes his trip.

FIRST DEFENSE People may have various ideas as to what our first line of defense is in war; but they are quite well agreed that in peace this first line is the soil of our nation. In a democracy it is not supposed the government has any right to tell its soil-owners what to do with their soil, yet such is being done every day. It is a tragic situation when a farmer has not sufficient common sense and foresight to make every possible reasonable effort to conserve his own land, not only for his use, but for that of coming generations.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES?

Last week petitions were circulated in Muleshoe and elsewhere in Bailey county by adherents to the Jehovah's Witnesses sect. The same petition probably was circulated over most of the United States, for its purport was to insist through signature that the Governor of Ohio permit the national assembly of that religious organization to be held in that state.

Members of this sect, along with other individuals, have been recently criticized for some of their alleged attitudes regarding war in this nation. Perhaps some of these rumors may have been exaggerated, we do not know. However, we refused to sign the petition for their national assembly when presented to us. Perhaps it was unnecessary; the emphasizing of such a gathering in Ohio at this time of aroused national interest may be illy advised. At least, on the face of such indications and between the lines there may be subversive motives neither truly patriotic nor fundamentally Christian. We do not presume to say.

True, the Christian should be the first to emphasize the supremacy of the Christian conscience. Undoubtedly, there is an honest division of thought on the Christian's attitude toward war that should be recognized. Some believe war is justifiable under certain circumstances, others that a Christian should not bear arms under any circumstances. The conscientious objector, recognized by our Government, maintains that war is evil and incompatible with Christian principles, and for that reason finds it impossible for him to participate in it. He feels in his heart that as a Christian he cannot kill, maim, shoot, mutilate, drown or blast into hundreds of pieces any fellow-human being.

In times of stress, such as these days are, there will undoubtedly be many slackers and folks with yellow streaks who will attempt to hide behind such alleged convictions because of personal cowardice, and thus possibly not have to go to war, should such become mandatory. Fundamentally, valid members of Jehovah's Witnesses organization are probably as sincere in their anti-war opinions as are the Quakers, who were so recognized during the World War; but the assailing of such sincere opinions at this time is clearly unwarranted and unjustified. Failure of any person or persons to salute the Stars and Stripes is never justified. That simple act, fort to conserve his own land, not only for his use, but for that of coming generations.

When the land folks own goes, there also go churches, schools and business in general. Perhaps the careless or indifferent farmer is just another kind of "fifth columnist." Folks in this area should be grateful that the national and state governments have provided means and money for forming soil conservation districts, and they should be enthusiastic in taking advantage of all provisions so offered them to protect their land and their homes, as well as the country in general.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Muleshoe Journal has been authorized to announce the following candidates for the respective offices named subject to the Democratic primary to be held Saturday, July 27, 1940.

- For U. S. Congress, 19th District: GEORGE MAHON
State Senator, 20th District: ALVIN R. ALLISON, Levelland MARSHALL POHRMBY, Dickens
For State Representative 12th District: L. G. MATHEWS, Floydada
For County Judge and Ex-Officio School Superintendent: JIM COOK M. G. MILLER (Re-election)
For County Attorney: CECIL H. TATE (Re-election)
For Sheriff, Tax Assessor and Collector: W. E. (Raz) RENFROW (Re-election)

When we wear a tad holes in the toes of one's shoes was a sure sign of poverty and we were always anxious to get them patched. Now it is a sign of style and folks pay for the holes in the toes. A Muleshoe man told us the other day he read where scientists say a mosquito can fly 14 miles before landing; but judging from the way women here are dressing this summer he thought most of them wouldn't fly more than 14 feet.

SNAP SHOTS A resort is a place where the natives get theirs while the getting is good. A young man may sow his wild oats, but it is generally the older ones who harvest them.

While most men learn goodness at mother's knee, they probably learn to be bad at some other joint. The political candidate who believes half the people will vote for him who say they will probably has an excessive amount of confidence in human nature.

Plenty of Fifth Columners are just simple minded folks who have been come brain-cracked over superstitious religious belief. While they deserve censure, they are also to be pitied. At last political guns are booming in various counties; While they will wipe the sound of those in Europe is questionable. Both continue their explosions at least until November 5.

Pavement Pickups Irvin St. Clair is advising all Muleshoe women to lay in a good supply of perfume NOW, as indications are this famous Parisian scent may soon take on the odor of sauerkraut.

Reading some time ago where Kipling said a woman was nothing but a rag, a bone and a bank of hair. Mrs. "Whispering" Young says she learned a long time ago that man is nothing but a brag, a groan and a tank of air.

Dr. Matthews says that in another 50 years there won't be any cancer at all; but he failed to say whether the medical fraternity would produce a preventative and cure or if war would have everybody subject to that disease killed off by that time.

SCHOOL APPOINTMENT IS $22.50 PER CAPITA The State Board of Education Monday set the per capita school appointment for next year at $22.50, an increase of 50 cents over the current allotment and the limit set by the Legislature. The action was taken unanimously and without argument. Superintendent of Public Instruction Woods estimated the number of scholars in the new year would be approximately 133,000, a decrease of about 12,000 from this year.

The number of scholars has been declining for several years. Woods said the chief reason is birth control.

Not being able to be in our District, I take this means of thanking you for the wonderful cooperation you are now giving me and have always given me during my service as your Representative in Congress. 1915—82 MILLION ACRES TO FEED WORK-STOCK
CHANGE FROM HORSE TO MECHANICAL POWER HAS AFFECTED FARM DEMAND
1935—46 MILLION ACRES REQUIRED FOR WORK-STOCK

Another reason why the nation has a farm problem is the change from horse to mechanical power that has come since the World War. Gasoline has reduced the market for corn, oats and hay. This change has destroyed the market for feed products from about 36 million acres which were formerly used for workstock and has released this acreage for the production of other crops.

BEING HUMAN CREATURES
When Williamsburg, the capital city of the colony and domain of Virginia from 1669 to 1779, was restored a few years ago, a collection of recipes for foods served during that period was compiled and printed in the quaint style of the day. This little call-bound volume is called "The Williamsburg Art of Cookery or Accomplished Gentlewoman's Companion" with the subtitle "Of Virginia Hospitality" and begins as follows:
"The inhabitants are very courteous to travellers who need no other recommendation but the being human creatures. A stranger has no more to do but to inquire upon the road where any Gentleman or good Housekeeper lives and there he may depend upon being received with hospitality."
Much has happened in the 161 years since Williamsburg was the leading city of Virginia. A continent has been settled and developed and a standard of living achieved so high that people in what is called "moderate circumstances" now enjoy more comforts and conveniences than did the Royal Governor himself!
Out of the simple agricultural beginnings of Colonial days has developed a system of free enterprise, typical of the American spirit of freedom and independence, that is the envy of the world. The dust streets of Williamsburg where crowded with coaches of the "gentry" on special occasions in 1779. In the year of our Lord 1940, 4 out of 5 families of the United States have their own automobiles and travel farther in a day than the most favored of their colonial ancestors could travel in a week! The foods the average family enjoys regularly today are more varied and health-giving than the delicacies which heaped tables of the Governor's Palace on the days of the great balls. And as for the conveniences that modern industry has given to the average woman, such as electric lights, mechanical refrigerators, washing machines and vacuum cleaners which give her greater freedom than the great ladies of old times possessed, they weren't even dreamed of a century and a half ago!
However, although industry has changed the outer aspect of our lives almost beyond recognition, we still have many of the characteristics of those early Americans. It is no longer important for us to be so "courteous to travellers" as it was when settlements were few and far apart. But our response to need is as spontaneous and whole-hearted as theirs was then. The recent organizations for the relief of sufferers in those lands less fortunate than ours is evidence of this. The inhabitants of this country still need no other recommendation for giving generously of sympathy and assistance to those in any kind of difficulty than their "being human creatures."

WHERE WILL SURPLUS FARMERS GO? WILL WAR DEFENSE PREPARATION SOLVE TENANT FARMER PROBLEM?
Clarence Roberts, in an editorial in the Daily Oklahoman, asks an interesting question: "Shall our farm lands be used to develop a business or commercial agriculture? Or shall they be used as homes for those who wish to live on the land?" He answers his own question by stating that in the absence of any national policy, the question is being settled by competition, that business farming is expanding and home farming is contracting.
There are men still living who can remember when there were but a few tenants in Oklahoma. Nearly every farmer tilled his own land. The same may be said of Texas. What brought about the change from ownership to tenantry in such a brief period of time? Commercialization of farms, both large and small. One can become sentimental in talking about the old farm home, and the love of the farm home, but that is about as far as we can go. The reason that these farm owners of former times have become tenants, some of them drifters is because they did not consider the home of first importance. They farmed to make money. They commercialized their efforts and everything they produced was for sale. They showed no interest in conserving the capital invested in their land, or in the development of satisfactory living conditions in the home. They were gambler farmers, and we have plenty of that class left in this great Southwest in this year of 1940.
It would be an ideal situation if all of our farm lands were occupied by men who loved the soil and who sincerely believed that farming was a mode of life and that the farm was a place on which to live and make a living, but it is doubtful that we will approach very close to that ideal for many years. In nearly every community a farm family can be found living an abundant life such as the country only can provide, while his neighbors are struggling to exist. Such examples, however, seem to have but little influence in shaping the policy and practices of others.
No wonder, then, that men with capital and successful experience, are taking over the land, farming it with powerful machinery. Such men can afford to commercialize their farming operations if they stay within reasonable limits, but the small farmer, such as Mr. Roberts would have occupy the land, would be right back in the same position he now occupies within a very few years, if he were given a farm free of all debt, if he failed to recognize the importance of producing first for home consumption, and second for the market.—Farm and Ranch.

CIGARETT CAUSES SLIGHT FIRE
A gasoline truck belonging to the Texaco Oil Co., caught fire Wednesday morning while its tank was being filled.
It is said the fire was caused by one of the employes lighting a cigarette some distance from the dock; but the wind was right to ignite the vaporized gas.
The Fire department was called; but before it arrived the flames had been put out by company owned extinguishers. Slight damage resulted.

John Smith's Bride A Shower Honoree Last Tuesday

A very beautiful social affair was the bridal shower given to Mrs. John Smith by members of the Sub-Deb club, of which she is president, Tuesday afternoon of this week at the Baptist annex. The club colors of pink and white while streamers, cleverly representing the shower idea, and underneath was a bride made from a rolling pin, dressed in white satin, the gift of the club. Pink and white candles and pink and white candelabras, sweet peas, made the entertaining room a veritable bower of bridal beauty. The guest book of white moire taffeta, the handiwork of Miss Dorsey served to amuse the guests. The guest of honor was seated at the table, piled high with beautiful gifts, and others were thanked about the table, the loving tributes of her many friends in Muleshoe. She was assisted in opening her gifts by her mother, Mrs. Joe Damon, and Miss Hattie Ray Griffiths. The club members were dressed in formal attire and sang "Those Wedding Bells," "Oh Johnny" and "My Darling Clementine," accompanied at the piano by Miss Gloria Gowdy, who also entertained with accordions numbers throughout the afternoon. After gifts were opened and passed for inspection, refreshments of pink and white tiered sandwiches, pink and white mints, and lemonade were served. The gifts were very nice, including a pair of white ribbons, a pair of white ribbons, a pair of white ribbons, and a pair of white ribbons. A bride design decorated the napkins. Members of the club who sponsored the shower were Misses Gloria Gowdy, Leona Bartley, Frances Border, Hattie Ray Griffiths, Lela Mae Barron and Dorothy Schuster.

WEEKLY LAY SERMON THE MINISTRY OF SILENCE

By JESS MITCHELL

Lay Sermon—THE MINISTRY OF Noise and noise-makers are being encouraged entirely too much now days, and it is indeed stimulating to quiet natured people to know that occasionally steps are being taken to stop such clamorous natured folks.

books is because I have no difficulty in hearing them think. They talk to me without making any noise. The rattle of their tongues never drowns out the throb of their brains. They invigorate my own mental machinery, warm my heart, exhilarate my soul, enliven my inner being, quicken my resolutions. They never ruffle my temper, give me indigestion nor headache. I can depend upon listening to them with the assurance they will never get noisy.

While I have never been afflicted with any exaggerated degree of self-consciousness, yet I have always appreciated folks who were reticent in their nature. Burbank, the great botanist, told me one time he would "rather take a licking" than make a speech—and he never tried to make many. William Thackeray suffered such torments when he was forced into public address he generally broke down after the first sentence or two.

Long ago I came to realize the most powerful forces in life are the silent ones. Folks do not have their most sublime thoughts amid the thunder of storm nor upheaval of earthquake, but it is after some pyrotechnical display of people or elements that spirits are calmed, fears are allayed, worries are acquired, plans are made, problems solved and the voice of Omnipotence becomes omnipresent.

grinding gears. There are the silent hills and majestic mountains: They stand as year 'round sentinels, year, as century old watchmen of earth. Sometimes the lightnings flash about their summits and burst and boom in reverberating thunders, yet these mountains maintain their created majesty in unapproachable silence, giving a strength and encouragement to humanity no bustling effort could possibly produce.

I have often thought of the silences existing in human relationships, and am quite sure the reason so many people don't understand each other better is simply because they talk too much. I think about the possible best definition of a friend is that someone who doesn't feel the necessity of talking to you. I have observed there is often an unspoken fellowship existing between two people which vocal language could not enhance.

The silent dead often speak more eloquently than the lips of the living, and they exercise a more powerful influence over our lives than those whom we pass upon the streets every day. How often have I stood in silent, solemn reverie above the grave of my beloved dead, and there seemed to emanate and rise from that sacred sod a mystifying influence that bade me live nobly, be courageous and never lessen the height of my ideals and aspirations.

Just as the conch shell of the ocean holds the voice of the sea, so the silent spaces of nature and "communion with her invisible saints" holds the voice of God, and Oh, how often it is through this silent meditating communion that our minds are clarified and our spirits calmed! There are so many things of life that crowd our eyes and ears, we sometimes scarcely know what to do. It is in our silent musings that the fires really burn and we get prepared for our tasks.

Earth's greatest men have invariably been those who enjoyed quietness and often sought the solitude of nature. Folks who would bring out their own best simply have to get away from the crowds. Paul, apostle to the Gentiles, advised his Several shiploads of German war prisoners have been sent to England as a matter of precaution.

The $715,840 quota given Texas the Red Cross relief unit, is reported to be still about 40 per cent behind.

Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, has expressed his hope Roosevelt will run for reelection, "because I'd like to beat him."

Curry county, N. M., population, Clovis being the county seat, is reported to have a population of 18,907, compared with 15,809 in 1930—an increase of 2,198.

While Texas produces more crude oil, New Mexico claims to have the largest quantities of high grade oil, possessing more octane and other high combustible qualities.

Julian Montgomery, state highway engineer, who has been in ill health for several months, resigned his office effective July 1, that he might recuperate his health.

It has been estimated that French casualties during the disastrous final month of war with Germany amounted to 1,500,000 men, most of them dead or missing.

Henry Ford lost an $11,000 order for Ford motor cars from the City of San Antonio when he announced he would make airplanes for the U. S., but none for England.

President Roosevelt has signed bills authorizing expenditure of $15,000,000 for construction of army use, the bills including $277,200 for projects at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Germany is aroused over Russia taking Bessarabia, as well as much wheat, sugar and other foodstuffs belonging to Germany. Present indications are for a rumper over the "Bear's" acts.

The U. S. last week laid down the keel of its first 45,000-ton super-dreadnaught battleship. When completed it will be known as the Iowa. The 20 million dollar Red Cross relief fund sought, reached $16,365,908 last Friday.

Contracts were let this week by the U. S. for nearly 100 new war vessels of different kinds, costing approximately $500,000,000. The building will include 11 cruisers, 20 destroyers, 13 submarines and a large seaplane tender.

The Santa Fe system has purchased two more 5,400 horse power diesel electric freight locomotives and 10 more modern steam engines for either freight or passenger service, thus increasing the efficiency of that railroad to meet any extra demand occasioned by the national defense program.

Texas paid nearly half—49.1 per cent, to be exact—of the total cost of public schools in 1938, with counties and districts paying the remainder. Average percentage of state support for the entire nation was 29.8 per cent. The available school fund of Texas collected $31,300,000 last year.

disturbed brethren to "study to be quiet." He would have them make an art of it, and many have become quite proficient in that study. After his Damascus experience, Paul went away into Arabia where he actually found himself during his stay there. Jesus of Nazareth, the 100 per cent man, was a great lover of the silences. Early in the morning and again late at night he slipped way into quiet places for a rejuvenation of his spirit. Tradition, supported by history, says between his visit to the temple and his appearance before John the Baptist at the River Jordan, that period of his life of which the Bible is entirely silent—he had spent mostly in India. It was all in preparation for the momentous event of his life.

There is very little you and I can do without making due preparation for it. Even some of the most common tasks call for an experience we wish we had. Cynicism, hypocrisy, fear and despair are ever about us and obtrusively persistent. Faithful moments constantly arise to face us. The newspapers are full of those noisy people who would infallibly lead us out of any difficulty; but long ago, I confess, I lost all faith in the panaceas of the noise-makers, their valuable maxillary calisthenics and their know-all tactics. Too often they have fallen decidedly flat! Long ago I learned a man must have first learned and proven to himself solutions that are absolutely valid and worth while before he can ever apply them to social, economic or spiritual problems. The greatest need of the world today is REAL men—men of true worth and proven ability. Until that kind of men are born I shall be content to mostly be quiet and listen.

Motor trucks in 1939 paid 29.2 per cent of the total motor vehicle registration fees collected in 48 states, according to statistics compiled by the U. S. Public Roads administration. Of $342,974,000 collected in registration fees by the states, approximately $99,000,000 represented fees on trucks.

President Roosevelt has signed the $1,157,711.557 relief appropriation bill barring WPA work relief to aliens and persons advocating subversive doctrines. Under the measure, every person receiving federal work relief must sign a sworn statement that he is not a Communist, a member of the German-American Bund or a member of any organization advocating overthrow of the government by force or violence.

Rev. Flowers, Wife To Hold Revival For Methodists

Plans for special evangelistic services at the Methodist church, beginning the last Sunday in July and continuing through the second Sunday in August, have been completed, according to Rev. R. N. Huckabee, pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Flowers, evangelists, will have charge of the services, assisting the pastor. Commenting upon the ability and experience of these people Rev. Huckabee said: "The public will be impressed with the fairness, consecration and zealous efforts for a revival of lasting results which Evangelist and Mrs. Flowers will manifest. They never go off on tangents and do those things which bring some evangelists into disrepute with the public.

"I have known both these good workers for more than 25 years, and they habitually get outstanding results in spiritual uplift to the community where they work. They always have large results in number of conversions and additions to all evangelical churches wherever they go.

"They recently closed a revival at the Plainview Methodist church, described by the pastor as unusually successful and he said, 'I am hard to please. Earlier this year they held a revival at the First Methodist church in Lubbock.'

All people throughout the county are invited to attend this meeting which will be held on the lawn of the local Methodist church, the minister said.
