

New Texas brand: heroin

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas' reputation as a state of oil millionaires and wealthy cattle barons has been replaced in the minds of law enforcement officials as the breeding ground for illicit drug operations.

Of the six million tons of heroin brought into the United States last year, two-thirds of that total — or 4 million tons — passed through the Lone Star State, according to Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) estimates.

"It's difficult to speak of any significant criminal operation within North America to avoid either the state of Texas or the (DEA) region governed by the Dallas office," said Dennis Dayle, the chief of DEA's CENTAC operations that handles conspiracy investigations on a nationwide scale.

"We estimate that two out of every three kilos of heroin brought into the United States last year came through Texas," adds Peter B. Bersinger, the DEA director.

The infamous position Texas occupies is due largely to its meandering, difficult-to-patrol border with Mexico, whose poppy fields and clandestine heroin laboratories attributed to more than 85 percent of the heroin smuggled into this country.

Although DEA officials on the national, state and local levels agree that Texas does not have a single person or criminal organization responsible for — and profiting from — the heroin and marijuana trafficking, the illicit drug smuggling originating from the state can be best exhibited by two major DEA endeavors during the past year: Operation Wishbone and Operation Casino.

Operation Wishbone, which pinpointed the smuggling activity in Hidalgo and Starr counties along the Mexican border in the Rio Grande Valley, resulted in the conviction of 18 Class I violators. A class I violator, in DEA terminology, is capable of delivering on a weekly basis two kilos (about 4½ pounds) of 100 percent pure heroin or its equivalent or 2,000 kilos (about 2½ tons) of marijuana.

Operation Casino, which focused on multi-ton marijuana smuggling operations via airplanes out of the Fort Worth-Waco-Austin area, netted 14 class I violators, according to the DEA.

Together, the two operations resulted in 118 arrests with 70 convictions to date (11 cases are still pending). Wishbone cost taxpayers $5,912.70 while Casino has cost about $63,000 to date.

"The average jail sentence was between 8-10 years ranging from a high of 25 years to just a slap on the wrist," said Ed Heath, the DEA deputy regional director in Dallas.

The number of Class I violators apprehended during the two operations lead the DEA to conclude that there is no "Mr. Big" operating in Texas.

"We haven't seen evidence of such an operator in Texas as yet," said Bersinger who quickly added: "That doesn't mean there aren't several predominantly Mexican-American families in the state with strong hooks on both sides of the border."

"It's so easy to get in the (drug smuggling) business in Texas," offered Heath. "From San Antonio, you're only 250 miles from the border. Anybody can take a couple thousand bucks across the border and they're in business. If there was a single operator in Texas controlling the drug smuggling, he'd have to have an army to maintain his power and he'd have to do an awful lot of advertising."

"There are some pretty gutsy violators in the state... guys who because of their personality or method of operation emerge as biggies but we apprehended 22 major violators in Operation Wishbone alone

Contestants in the Gray County Junior Livestock Show sponsored by the Pampa Noon Lions Club on Saturday at the Top O' Texas show barn in Recreation Park await the judge's decision. The judge, in hat, is Don Reeves, county Extension agent of Wellington. Results of Saturday's competition are on page 4. Other portions of the annual Top O' Texas Stock Show and Sale will run through Wednesday, sale day. Noon today is the deadline for weighing in of all livestock for the show and sale. One highlight of the week will be the Hereford Association's Annual Banquet set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium. Reagan Brown, state agriculture commissioner, will speak and musical entertainment will be by the Pampa High School stage band. Tickets for the banquet and additional information about all show activities may be obtained from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. For a breakdown on what's scheduled when during the stock show, see the story on page 4.

County ordered to redistrict

By CHRIS EDWARDS
Pampa News Staff
Gray County will be redistricted to provide more equal representation on the county commissioner's court under a ruling Friday in Judge Grainger McIlhany's 31st District Court.

McIlhany ruled in favor of Ralph Prock, plaintiff in the civil suit filed November 1976 against the four commissioners at the time, Joe Clarke, J.O. McCracken, Ted Simmons and Don Hinton, along with then-county judge Don Cain. The plaintiff, represented by attorney Wayne Barfield of Amarillo, contended that 20 percent of Gray County's total population is represented by three commissioners, with 80 percent, precinct, No. 2, Pampa, being represented by one.

The judge ruled in accordance with past rulings of the Texas

Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court upholding the concept of equal representation.

Prock, a retired Cabot employee, said he was pleased with the ruling.

"It was just a matter of getting people's attention," he said. "The county had to do it sooner or later."

None of the commissioners or the county judge were present at the hearing Don Hinton, a commissioner when the suit was filed and now county judge, said previously that redistricting was "inevitable" but that it will cause problems for the county.

Commissioners had been discussing redistricting for "four or five years," he said then, but no feasible ways of doing it had surfaced.

Redistricting could mean

Pampan burned, taken to Dallas hospital

A Pampa man was in serious condition at Parkland Hospital in Dallas Saturday after an early morning fire here that burned about 40 percent of his body.

Mike Marsh, 21, 324 N. Gillespie, was taken to the emergency room at Highland General Hospital at 3:30 a.m. Saturday after an apartment fire that Pampa firemen said caused heavy damage. Burns were second-degree.

Marsh was transferred from Highland to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and from there to the Dallas hospital. A hospital spokesman said Parkland was reputed to have one of the best doctors for burns in the nation on its staff.

The fire destroyed much of the inside of the apartment and caused smoke damage to an adjoining apartment. Pampa fire department spokesmen said four units and nine firemen responded to the 3:20 a.m. call, returning to the station at 4:15 a.m.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

changing wet and dry lines in the county, more constables and justices of the peace and perhaps changing school district boundaries. The expense to the county could be huge, Hinton has said.

"I believe our commissioner's court is smart enough to get this done," Prock said Friday.

Commissioners elected in November will serve their usual four-year terms. Hinton said Incumbent Ronnie Rice is running against six opponents for precinct two, Pampa, and Ted Simmons is running for re-election for precinct four, McLean.

McIlhany ruled that court costs be paid by the defendants, represented by Pampa attorney Bill Waters. No deadline for enforcement of redistricting was set.

Girl Scouts celebrate week

More than 1,400 Girl Scouts of the 10-county Quivira Council will join the nation-wide observance of Girl Scout Week, beginning today with special events, church attendance, troop programs, special exhibits and ceremonies.

Max Sherman, president of West Texas State University and former state senator, will speak at the annual meeting and dinner of the Quivira Girl Scout Council Thursday, at the First United Methodist Church, 201 E. Foster.

The business meeting starts at 6:30 p.m. in the educational building. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. in the church basement.

Attending will be about 100 delegates from the councils 10-county jurisdiction. Board members and members of the nominating committee will be elected and a change in by-laws will be considered. Awards will be presented to adults who have given outstanding service during the year.

Sherman resigned his senate seat to become president of WTSU on Sept. 1, 1977. While serving in the Texas Senate, he represented 26 counties in the Panhandle.

He is chairman of the Texas Mining Council, chairman of the Energy Advisory Council, on the board of directors of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Quivira Girl Scout Council.

Pampa Girl Scouts will celebrate with a special event, "South of the Border," at the Pampa Optimist Club building at 6 p.m. Monday for troops of East neighborhood and at 6 p.m. Tuesday for troops of West Neighborhood. Approximately 500 Girl Scouts and their parents are expected to attend each evening.

The program for both nights will feature slides and commentary by three members of Senior Girl Scout Troop 90, Cheryl Birkes, Connie Maness and Melinda Collinsworth, who spent 10 days last summer at Our Cabana, Girl Scout international center at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

Cadet Troop 619, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Mackey, leader, will lead group singing and present special numbers Monday and Tuesday.

Decorations will be of colorful Mexican-style paper flowers, made by Girl Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Diana Darling. A "show-and-share" exhibit will feature displays by the various troops. Flag ceremonies will be conducted by Cadette Troop 170, with Ms. Faustina Miller as leader; Cadette Troop 176, with Mrs. Pat Beets as leader; and Senior Troop 8, with Ernest Upton as leader.

Contributions will be made by each troop toward the World Friendship Fund, organized 51 years ago by Girl Scouts Founder Juliette Low of Savannah, Georgia. This fund helps maintain the international centers, which include Our Cabana in Mexico and centers in India and Switzerland. International exchange projects are financed by the fund, which assisted 202 United States Girl Scouts from 99 councils to travel to 34 countries last year, as well as 207 Girl Scouts and Girl Guides from 46 foreign countries to come to the United States. Aid in the form of wheelchairs to disaster victims, typewriters and clothing is given each year to countries and cities in need.

President plans to set trap in White House

"We can lick gravity but sometimes the paperwork is overwhelming." — Werner von Braun.

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — A tale of mice and men.

And frustration in the most powerful office of the most powerful land in the whole history of the entire universe.

In the 202nd year of the Republic, in which there had arisen, as if by miracle, a new leader who would at long last smite down the enemies of efficiency, the devils of delay.

All Jimmy Carter wanted to do was get the mice the hell out of the White House.

We begin.

Though later events are documented with the stirring details of a military campaign, with body counts and intelligence reports of sightings and suspicious movements, the early phases of the matter of mice vs. the Carter administration remain unclear.

Thus, in the opening chapters, we cannot yet answer with precision the question of what did the president know and when did he know it.

But we do know that later he became personally and viscerally involved and finally, his back to the wall, had to invoke all the authority he could command.

His personal secretary, Susan Clough, who works in a room directly between the ceremonial Oval Office and the president's small study, recalls positively that only two weeks after his inaugural, she became aware of an ungenial odor.

Maintenance men were summoned and circumstantial evidence strongly suggested a dead mouse somewhere in the historic walls. Bits of potato chips were discovered behind a cabinet, holdovers from the Ford administration in an otherwise immaculate transition. Ms. Clough's office was sprayed.

The president's secretary was told that mice had been a White House problem at least as far back as the Eisenhower administration. Eyewitnesses had testified they actually saw mice climbing the drapes of the Oval Office.

Mice, Ms. Clough was told by experts, apparently were able to build up a generational immunity to White House pesticides and thus could cling to the building from one administration to the next, like non-presidential appointees protected by Civil Service.

In subsequent days and weeks, Ms. Clough, an attractive Southern blonde with doe eyes and no inclination to panic, began hearing mice skittering in the walls and ducts and vents. Then she began seeing mice skulking behind furniture and dashing boldly across the carpeting.

Maintenance men were called in repeatedly and while the president's secretary is satisfied they were doing their best, their best was nowhere near enough. Increasingly, the seat of American power was being humiliated by mice in much the same unsettling manner these little men from North Vietnam kept reappearing in the south despite heavy casualties.

Ms. Clough was told that the probable cause was the construction work for the capital's new subway system, which was disrupting the lifestyles of the city's rodents.

Then, on a date uncertain, at a time when he wasn't there, Ms. Clough saw a mouse in the president's own small office, where it is his habit to repair for undisturbed study of the nation's manifest problems.

Now, she thought, the moment had come to divert his attention from the larger predators of his time to the fact that he might at any moment expect to see a mouse.

The commander in chief took the news calmly. He suggested mouse traps and went about his business.

Officials of the General Services Administration, which is charged with the maintenance of government buildings, told Ms. Clough that traps had been tried before but, when the word got out, humane societies complained the method was too cruel. Ms. Clough quietly suggested this time they don't let the word out. (Coverup?)

Traps appeared in the White House with no dramatic demographic effect on the illegal tenants. Then, the president himself spotted his first mouse, in his study. He asked his secretary how the campaign was progressing. She said she was in almost constant communication with the GSA and the Department of Interior.

Interior, she told the president, said that while it is charged with the care of the grounds outside the White House, the basic problem was inside and therefore GSA's. GSA, she said, felt the problem was basically Interior's since the mice obviously were migrating from the outside.

The president was not amused.

He told his secretary to pass the word that he was certain that if all the parties "gave the problem their full attention it would be solved."

"Tell them," he said, his eyes now an arctic blue, "of my personal interest."

She did.

Traps or poison, the mice kept coming. In the deteriorating situation, the president's secretary heard someone suggest that the final solution might have to be cats.

Then, at 8 a.m., July 26, 1977, Ms. Clough happened into the Oval Office. The president was in the Cabinet Room running a meeting. Ms. Clough's nostrils quivered.

Clearly, there was now a dead mouse somewhere in the walls of the Oval Office, where in just 2½ hours the president of the United States would be receiving the Prime Minister of Italy.

On her cry for help, platoons of maintenance men rushed into the Oval Office and sprayed the area furiously like flame-throwers at Iwo Jima. The Italo-American summit meeting passed without malodorous distraction.

A few weeks later — as best

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure mere freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Foreign aid: out of reach

Despite the fact that most Americans do not favor foreign aid, this tremendous rip-off of U.S. taxpayers continues to grow. The program is mistrusted and disliked, but the giveaway of our money, goods and technology goes on unabated. The increasing unpopularity of foreign aid is shown time and again by opinion polls. The spending increases and the politicians still claim it is "vital to the interests of this nation." This nation without the people is zero with the rim removed. And the people keep saying they do not want their money spent on foreign aid. So, just who's interest is being served?

Since 1946 our politicians have voted nearly $200 billion for foreign aid. Does anyone know exactly where, to whom and in what amounts this money of ours has gone? Do our representatives, who have voted the funds have any exact knowledge of its disposition?

Now, the Foreign Aid programs Assistance Act of 1978, HR 7797 is the biggest giveaway bill in three decades. Included in this bill is $2 billion for six international banks. Virtually all congressional control over these banks has been eliminated. Officials of these international lending institutions have refused to appear before Congress or to furnish any requested information when the bill was being written.

Our tax dollars will be turned over to the banks to be loaned out at low interest rates to all comers, including Communist and other totalitarian regimes. In most cases the money goes to foreign politicians without any accounting as to its final uses.

How much of this money is used to deprive freedom to the people of other lands will never be divulged. Just where does this leave the vociferous incantations of "human rights" which have dinned our ears lately?

Some of the highest paid bureaucrats in the world are the employees of the six international banks. About 95 percent of these people live in the United States and pay no U.S. income tax at all. One of their fringe benefits is to obtain home loans at rates as low as four percent.

In a recent letter, Rep. C.W. Young, R-Fla., said, "It is bad for the American taxpayers to subsidize personal loans for the World Bank employees but even worse when these same people refuse to testify before our committees, refuse to provide us with audits of their loans, and refuse to allow a member of Congress to sit in on their decision making meetings."

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, bluntly said, "No condition can be imposed which would restrict the power of the bank."

Do officials of these American financed international lending institutions, who get tremendous salaries and pay no income tax, consider themselves above and out of reach of Congress and the taxpayers of this nation?

"Relax! I've got the chart right in front of me!"

'Incumbents protection act'

By RICHARD L. LESHER, President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

WASHINGTON — Here's a quick quiz for you:

- 1. Political contributions by business heavily favor the Republican Party. True? False?
- 2. Big Business spends more freely than Big Labor in political campaigns. True? False?
- 3. Public financing of congressional campaign expenses would reduce the influence of all major special interest groups on American political life. True? False?

If you answered "true" to any of the above questions, the following information will be of special interest to you.

In 1976, interest groups donated a record $22.6 million to congressional candidates, almost twice the figure for 1974. This money helped the 924 general election candidates for Senate and House seats to spend an estimated $99 million in their campaign efforts.

The largest money source was the AFL-CIO's network of national and state Committees on Political Education (COPEs) which, joined by other unions, contributed a total of $8.2 million.

In the same election, corporate and business trade association political committees contributed about $7 million ... some $1.2 million less than labor.

Common Cause made a study of where this interest group money went. Here's the breakdown:
— $13 million for incumbents running for re-election.
— $4 million for challengers.
— $3 million to candidates for a vacant seat.
— $2.2 million to candidates unsuccessful in the primaries and to special election candidates.

By party affiliation, labor organizations gave very heavily to the Democratic side of the aisle — over $2 million in the Senate and close to $4 million in the House. Senate Republicans received only $94,000 from labor and House Republicans some $135,000.

A real shocker for many people is the tally of where the business contributions went. In the Senate, Democrats got $1.2 million and Republicans $1.3 million. In the House, Democrats got about $3.8 million compared to $4.3 million for the Republicans. Close to a tie in both cases.

Two important conclusions can be drawn from this data:
1. The influence of business contributions on American elections is often wildly overstated. Business gives less in total than labor, and the pattern of contributions is less monolithic.

2. The incumbents already enjoy an enormous advantage over challengers. In light of this information, what would you think of legislation to (1) increase the advantage of incumbents, and (2) magnify the political power of labor relative to business?

There is such legislation before the House right now. The bill number is H.R. 5157. It would limit the amount of money that could be spent on a given race, and provide federal matching funds (at public expense) for campaign contributions.

That certainly sounds fair enough, until you consider a couple of key points. First, the incumbent gets the advantage of constant free publicity by virtue of his office, and such important privileges as free postage. Consequently, raising extra campaign money is now the only significant means open to a challenger for offsetting these advantages of incumbency.

And second, the legions of organized labor are able to provide many valuable "volunteer" services to a candidate other than cash — such services as get-out-the-vote drives, telephone banks, brochures, etc. With a ceiling on cash contributions and federal matching funds available, the unions could use more of their manpower — related activities. So they would win going and coming.

Thus do the incumbents seek to protect themselves and their friends with "public interest" legislation. It's called doing well by doing good.

Dear Editor:

I am so tired of reading about the financial difficulties at the hospital. If they have handled very many of the accounts that way one in particular has been handled, it is no wonder they have been having financial troubles.

For the past year and one-half, I have been receiving a bill at my address for someone who has never lived here. The first bill I received I called the hospital and told them the mistake. They thanked me and said they would correct it. The next month I received another bill. I marked it "wrong address" and returned it. Every month I have received a bill from the hospital and every month I mark it "wrong address" and return it. About three months ago I called Susie Wilkinson and told her about it. I even gave her the right address, which I found by looking in the telephone directory. She said she would straighten it out.

Three more months, three more bills. I returned all of them marked "wrong address". A few weeks ago I called Mr. Sidwell and told him about it. He made it sound as if it were my fault. The whole thing had happened. He said it was my civic duty to go to the hospital and get it straightened out. I told him what I had done over the past year and one-half. I think my "civic duty" has been done.

The icing on the cake came last week. I received a letter from a collection agency in Amarillo. NOW WHAT?

Thanks for listening, Betty Ward 701 N. Sumner St. Pampa, Texas

Your Birthday March 12, 1978

Your outlook and basic attitude will undergo constructive changes this coming year. By year's end you will be more positive and optimistic in areas where you were previously negative.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A change of scenery will give your spirits a big boost today. A long walk or a short drive can help — it doesn't matter which, so long as you don't stare at the same four walls.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When it comes to dollars and cents, you've got it all together today. Your art of accumulating things for yourself may extend to other areas as well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Occasionally it's essential that we set some time aside to look out for No. 1. Devote the hours needed to your personal interests today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You function best today without having someone peering over your shoulder. Shut yourself off from busybodies.

yourself in some type of new project. Being inactive could be depressing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others may duck challenges today, but not you. You'll welcome situations that test your mettle. Deep down, you believe you can overcome them. You can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your approach to critical situations is both practical and cool today. You keep everything in perspective. Neither large nor small incidents will rattle you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're better at managing things for others today than you are at handling your own affairs. This can work to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is nothing wishy-washy about you today. You know exactly where you stand and so will your companions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guilt will accumulate today if you fail to use your time productively. Devote your precious hours to a worthy use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a flair for organizing things today. Instinctively you'll know what to delegate. You'll do it so that no one's feathers will be ruffled.

Your Birthday March 13, 1978

Get mixed up in activities this coming year that interest you — ones you may have avoided before. This could apply to politics, social work or even a little theater group.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can have a happy day if you look for the silver lining in things that you do. Don't be afraid to indulge a few personal flights of fancy either.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tell associates exactly what's on your mind today, especially concerning an overdue obligation. They'll get the message loud and clear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Think of the welfare of others today if you get together with your peers. They look to you for guidance and counsel.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stay behind the scenes as much as possible today. You'll find you can achieve what you set out to do. Just quietly do what you know is right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Socialize with pals today, but don't feel you have to spend freely to have fun. Inspiration of good company can be satis-

FORUM... and against 'em

Report on survey

I'll have to admit to a little bit of sneakiness when it came to preparing the survey form for readers in last Sunday's edition.

We asked subscribers of The News what they read and don't read and what they'd like to read in the paper.

"Aha," I figured, I'll put the survey in my FORUM column and nobody will check that they don't read it because they will have to read it to fill out the form.

We have a new publisher and I thought all the check marks under the "read" column across from FORUM might get our relationship off to a good start.

Wasn't quite as successful as I'd figured on. Six people checked me off under "Don't Read" and four others just, by gosh, didn't check either one. (Maybe they do read it but aren't admitting to anything?)

We got about 35 responses, many of which included some helpful criticisms. We have started talking about improvements we can make.

"I like what readers write," one reader wrote. Others also indicated they enjoy reading comments from readers. "Need more letters to editor," one respondent penned.

We agree. We like letters to the editor and will continue to print them provided they are signed, not libelous, and not full of distasteful cussing. Tasteful cussing will be permitted. The editor will be the sole judge of what constitutes tasteful and distasteful cussing.

Several writers indicated they'd like to see more coverage of local clubs. "This should be enlarged for our scrapbooks to receive any kind of recognition in competition," one person wrote. Another said that for "those who make scrapbooks, it is very difficult."

Pampa has some very fine and philanthropic clubs and organizations. We like to report on the many worthwhile and constructive projects undertaken.

Any time something exciting or interesting — newsworthy — is planned by a local organization or club, we like to be there with a reporter or photographer. But the average meeting of the average club or organization just isn't of sufficient interest to the average reader to warrant a lengthy newspaper report — worthy of a page in the scrapbook. And we are limited by space and the size of our staff.

It doesn't seem to me that scrapbook makers are being fair to other readers when they expect The News to use up large amounts of scarce space for the printing of long and detailed club meeting accounts when little of general public interest occurred at the meeting.

Why not build a scrapbook from pictures and written accounts prepared by club members.

We are planning some ways to beef up our coverage of local clubs and will soon institute some changes I think all club members will like. But we aren't in the scrapbook business.

If scrapbooks are being judged on the basis of how much space can be wheedled out of the local newspaper, then the judging rules should be changed.

Pentagon claims Russians threaten U.S. missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians are making faster progress in improving the accuracy of their missiles and may be able to threaten destruction of U.S. land-based Minuteman missiles a year or two earlier than expected, Pentagon officials said Saturday.

They estimated the 1,000 Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles may become vulnerable to a possible Soviet knockout blow in their underground launch silos in 1983 or 1984, instead of an earlier projection of 1985.

U.S. experts calculate the Russians would achieve this capability when they can aim their nuclear warheads to strike within one-tenth of a mile of targets within the United States after traveling about 6,000 miles from Soviet launch bases.

Pentagon officials said the revised estimate of when the Minuteman missiles would become vulnerable was made on the basis of data obtained over the past few months.

They refuse to say how the information was collected, but it is an open secret that the United States monitors Russian missile tests, including those conducted inside the Soviet Union, by spy satellite and other technical means.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has acknowledged that Minuteman vulnerability "is a serious concern." But Brown has stressed that the United States still would have as insurance its fleet of missile-firing submarines and hundreds of bombers, armed by that time with cruise missiles, to deter Russia from launching a surprise attack.

"An attack intended to destroy U.S. silos... would leave untouched at least the alert bombers and at-sea missile firing submarines with thousands of warheads," Brown told Congress last month.

"The Soviets might — and should — fear that, in response, we would retaliate with a massive attack on Soviet cities and industry," he said.

There is no indication whether the new assessment on approaching Minuteman vulnerability would cause the Carter administration to speed development of a new MX intercontinental ballistic missile. To evade a Soviet surprise attack, the MX would be placed on moving launchers and hidden in an underground network of trenches.

The administration's fiscal 1979 budget, in effect, slows MX development until tests resolve technical questions about the mobile basing concept. The potential high cost, possibly as much as $40 billion, also is a major factor raising doubts about the MX's future.

As things now stand, the MX would not be ready for deployment until 1986, years after the Minuteman becomes vulnera-

Judge sentences Michael Nisbet

Michael Blair Nisbet was sentenced to 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections Friday by 223rd district judge Don Cain after pleading guilty to burglary of the Ideal Food Store, 401 N. Ballard, on July 6, 1977.

The state introduced evidence that Nisbet had a previous burglary conviction, Harold Comer, district attorney, said Friday.

Rober Crow, convicted for delivery of marijuana, on Dec. 19, 1977, was placed on five years' probation, fined $350 and ordered to spend 15 days in the Gray County jail.

Feminists pick wrong example

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Women's rights advocates who supported Roxanne Gay reluctantly have admitted they picked the wrong woman on whom to focus national attention about the plight of battered wives.

Several feminist groups were attracted to the case after Mrs. Gay claimed she killed her husband, professional football player Blenda Gay, because he abused her.

Hospital head in Canadian to quit April 1

CANADIAN — Terry Pittman, administrator of Hemphill County Hospital since October 1976, has resigned effective April 1. Pittman submitted his resignation to the county board saying he would stay longer, if was necessary, until his replacement was hired.

Pittman was previously employed by Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon as manger and by the city of Spearman as assistant city manager and city secretary.

But in testimony last week in Camden County Court, not a scrap of evidence confirmed that the 6-foot-5, 255-pound Philadelphia Eagles lineman had ever battered his 5-foot-1 wife.

Instead, Mrs. Gay was portrayed as a jealous, suspicious and fear-ridden woman who slashed her husband's throat Dec. 20, 1976, because she suffered delusions that he plotted with her family and police to have the Mafia kill her. Psychiatrists called her a paranoid schizophrenic.

Judge I.V. DiMartino dismissed the murder charges Friday and ruled Mrs. Gay was legally insane at the time of the murder.

"We were behind Roxanne in the beginning as a battered woman," said Janice Miller of the Women's Resources and Survival Center in Keyport, which raised $3,000 for her defense. "We're supporting her now simply as a woman."

"There was never an issue of wife beating," said prosecutor Philip Seaton. "It was just a tragic story of a woman with a lot of problems and a man who couldn't help her."

Camden County Public Defender H. Ian Wachstein said he had been contacted by several women's groups who believed the case should focus on the battered wife issue, but they backed down after he challenged them to support the allegations.

"We realized after talking with doctors and lawyers in the case that wife battering was no longer the issue, but we couldn't just drop Roxanne," said Mrs. Miller.

"Wife battering is a silent crime, as common as love in these United States. Typically a battered wife doesn't go to a doctor or friend and show the bruises," she said.

Psychologist to speak here

Thomas Milton Cannon Jr., associate professor of Psychology at West Texas State University, will speak on "Understanding Our Children" at Lovett Memorial Library at 4 p.m. Wednesday. The program will be sponsored by the City Council of Parent and Family Life Education of the PTA. Cannon is a member of Psi Chi, national honorary psychology fraternity, and is a past president of the Texas State Juvenile Officers' Association.

Eight convicted in court

A jury will be summoned for felony cases in Judge Grainger McIlhenny's 31st District Court at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Call to the docket was 2 p.m. Friday. Eight persons were convicted in non-jury trials in McIlhenny's court Friday and Saturday. Pleading guilty to burglary of the Mahken Drug Store in Shamrock on Jan. 2, 1978 were Jessie W. Walker, 34, and James Edward Campbell, 23. Walker, previously convicted of burglary and burglary of a motor vehicle, was sentenced to 20 years in the Texas State Department of Corrections. Campbell, previously convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property, was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas State Department of Corrections. Harlan Simmons, 20, formerly of Pampa and now of Amarillo, was convicted of the Sept. 18, 1976 burglary of the Coastal Plains building at 721 1/2 W. Brown St. Sentence was seven years' probation. He was fined $500. Randy Earl Whitsitt, 21, 941 S.

Coal talks progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bargainers for the coal industry and the United Mine Workers exchanged contract proposals Saturday, and both sides said they were making "some progress" toward a settlement that could end the 96-day coal strike. The two sides met face-to-face for the second straight day without federal mediators and then recessed in the later afternoon with talks scheduled to resume Sunday. "We are continuing our meetings. We are making some progress," said Wilbert Killion, one of the chief union bargainers. Killion and other union officials declined further comment on the negotiations. The chief bargainer for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, Nicholas T. Camicia, echoed the union's assessment. "We've made some progress... on everything on the contract." Asked if he thought a settlement was close at hand, he replied: "You never know." The talks resumed as federal marshals, armed with summonses initially held up by a Justice Department snafu, moved into the coal towns of Appalachia and the Midwest serving back-to-work court orders on union officials. The summonses, which must accompany the back-to-work order, were inadvertently omitted from the one-inch packets of court documents prepared for distribution to the marshals. Meanwhile, the nation is facing increasing disruptions of factory production schedules and layoffs of employees as the effects of the strike become more prevalent. Since coal supplies became scarce for many Midwest and mid-Atlantic power companies, industries in many of those states have been forced to curtail their use of electricity. Labor Department officials say the cutbacks forced the layoff of 31,600 workers in the past week. UMW President Arnold Miller and the union's top leadership wired local union officials on Friday, telling them to direct miners to "cease their strike activity and return to their normal place of employment."

St. Vincent's begins Monday to pre-enroll

Pre-enrollment for fourth, fifth and sixth grades at St. Vincent's School will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Father Francis J. Hynes said that the school was open to all children. "Students who have been educated in Christian schools are 7 to 13 months ahead of the nation norm in reading," he added. The school emphasizes small classes and individual attention, he said.

Stock weighs in today

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff
Noon today is the deadline for weighing in all livestock for the Top O' Texas Regional Show and Sale. A total of 142 steers and 302 barrows are entered.

Action in the show ring Saturday at Recreation Park was provided by the Gray County Junior Show sponsored by the Pampa Noon Lions Club. Joe Wheeley, show superintendent.

Judging of all junior livestock classes is set for Monday with Dr. John McNeil of the Extension Service in Amarillo judging steers beginning at 8:30 a.m. Jim McManigal of West Texas State University in Canyon will judge the swine division beginning at 2 p.m.

On Tuesday about 40 FFA livestock judging teams from Area I will compete for honors in the sales arena with registration starting at 8:30 a.m. Quentin Williams is contest superintendent and Dr. Ted Montgomery of WTSU will be contest judge.

Winners of the judging competition will be announced and awards presented at a 5 p.m. dinner at the Pampa High School Cafeteria. The Frank M. Carter Scholarship award of $500 to Texas Tech University School of Agriculture will be presented at the banquet to the outstanding FFA student in Area I. Winner of the scholarship is selected by a panel of three who evaluate the applications and interview the students.

All registered Hereford classes, including the Junior Hereford Show, will be judged Tuesday, beginning at 1 p.m., with Thomas V. Copeland of Levelland as judge. The annual Hereford Association Banquet will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium. Speaking will be Reagan Brown, Texas agriculture commissioner. Banquet entertainment will be by the Pampa High School Stage Band. Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office, 669-3241.

Both the junior and the registered sales will be Wednesday with Col. Walter Britten of Bryan, auctioneer. A bidders' breakfast will be from 7 to 8 a.m. in the stock show dining room prior to the 8:30 junior sale starting time. Jim Greene, chairman of the Agriculture and Livestock Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said all bidders may attend the free breakfast. Clyde Carruth is superintendent of the Junior Livestock Show and Sale with Greene and Bill Skaggs serving as assistant superintendents.

The Registered Hereford Sale is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday with 46 bulls from over the Panhandle area. In Saturday's competition, Bobbie Skaggs grand champion honors with her entry in the medium weight exotic and cross division. The 1130-pound steer also won breed champion honors for the Pampa FFA member.

Reserve champion steer belongs to Cynthia Gage, also of the Pampa FFA chapter. The 1250-pound critter also followed the Skaggs' entry as reserve breed champ. It was entered in the heavy weight division of the exotic and cross competition.

Rex Morris won the steer showmanship award donated by Production Credit Association. In the English breed and cross division, Teresa Woods of McLean 4-H won breed champ with a heavy 1208-pound steer. Jen Ann Rice of McLean, with a 969-pound light steer, got the reserve breed championship.

Grand champion barrow was entered by Lee Lowrey of Pampa. The 4-Her's entry weighed in at 240 pounds. Bobbie Skaggs showed the reserve grand champion — a 241-pounder. Both entries were in the Heavy Duroc competition. Mike Graham, a Lefors FFA member, won breed champion with his 245-pound Hampshire heavy weight. Stormy Fulton, a Pampa 4-Her, got reserve breed champ honors with a 246-pound entry.

In the other pure breeds category, breed champ was Brock Parker of Pampa, 4-H, with a barrow weighing 237 pounds. Reserve champ in the breed was Philip Fields of the Pampa FFA chapter with a 242-pound entry. In crosses competition Cynthia Gage, Pampa FFA, won breed champion with a 240-pound barrow. Terry Simmons, Pampa, 4-H, earned the reserve champ designation with a 250-pounder.

The showmanship award in barrows competition went to Kevin George. The plaque was donated by Ann's Trade Shop. Results of the Gray County Junior Show include: Steers primary by registering in the county tax office 30 days prior to the election. Laketon and Alanreed voters with the wrong precinct number on their registration cards will be able to vote after signing an affidavit, but those precinct numbers should be changed in the county tax office to help avoid confusion, Mrs. Carter said. Absentee voting for the May 6 primary will be on weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 17 through May 2, with the exception of the 12 to 1 p.m. noon hour. This voting is done in the county clerk's office. Absentee balloting for the Pampa Independent and Gray County school board election will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. including the noon hour weekdays except March 24 from Monday to March 28. That balloting will be at the school business office, 321 W. Albert, said Dwain Walker, business manager of the Pampa Independent School district. School board elections will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. April 1, also in the school business office.

Cardless voters must sign affidavit

Persons who have not received a voter registration certificate but have been previously registered and are still eligible to vote will be able to vote in city and school board elections April 1, Mrs. Wanda Carter, county clerk, said Friday. The deadline has passed for first-time registration for the April 1 elections, but those persons who have moved within a precinct or have had their names struck from the list by error may vote under Senate Bill 850, which became effective on Aug. 29 and was implemented in November. Some confusion has resulted in the county tax office because Mrs. Carter was aware of the law but the county tax office was not. A voter that has been previously registered and is eligible to vote must sign an affidavit stating that he or she still resides in the county and must submit a completed voter registration application at the polls. New and non-registered persons who wish to vote are out of luck for city and school board elections, but they may vote in the May 6

Arab terrorists attack in Israel

Minister Ezer Weizman said he was cutting short his visit to the United States to return home. He said Prime Minister Menachem Begin briefed him on the attack by telephone and said Israeli police and soldiers had apprehended 10 of 13 terrorists. Weizman said the bus "blew up or was blown up," indicating officials did not know if the terrorists set off explosives in the vehicle or a fire ignited by bullets caused the gas tank to explode. Weizman said he would arrive in Israel Sunday for cabinet talks and retaliatory air strikes were "a possibility." School menu
March 13-16
Monday — Hamburger with sesame seed bun, french fries with catsup, lettuce, tomato, onion, pickles, fruit cocktail, and milk.
Tuesday — Pizza, pinto beans, cole slaw, diced pears, and milk.
Wednesday — Baked ham, mashed potatoes, English peas, apple crisp, drop biscuit, and milk.
Thursday — Lasagne, tossed salad, green beans, garlic bread sticks, sliced peaches, and milk.
Friday — Sloppy Joe, buttered corn, pickle slices, carrot and celery sticks, jello with fruit, and milk.

Felled Bubbles was pregnant

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — Bubbles, the freedom-loving hippopotamus who suffocated after tranquilizer guns felled her, was five months pregnant, a postmortem revealed Saturday. The two-ton hippo died late Friday during a last-ditch effort to remove her from Clucker Lake and return her to the Lion Country Safari animal park, from which she had ambled off on Feb. 20. Dan Dooley, veterinarian at the park, said a postmortem disclosed that Bubbles carried an unborn calf about two-thirds formed.

Heroin through Texas

Those are pretty big operators. "Most of the bigger operators live in small communities," continued Heath. "They live in fishbowls. If they went out and started buying Cadillacs, their neighbors would get suspicious. What they like to do is buy land, a big ranch. Then they might buy some cattle. To them, that's status." "Whereas in New York, if a big dealer went out and bought a Cadillac and $400 silk suits, no one would really notice. It's no big deal, but in small Texas towns it would." "The Texas-based dealers think if they buy land or buy into a motel or restaurant, that makes them legitimate." "Even those with incomes of more than half-a-million dollars a year find themselves going out and buying a big tractor-trailer or recreational vehicle, because they are small-town thinkers." Don Smith, the DEA special agent in charge of the McAllen district that encompasses the Operation Wishbone area, adds that the large-volume drug dealer generally falls into two categories: those who flaunt their money and those who don't. "We have seen people leap from absolute poverty to flaunting material possessions," said Smith. "We know they aren't working and we know their associations are such that they have to be involved in illicit activity. Flaunting their wealth is an early warning signal and often an irritant." "You assume they have gotten their new cars and new homes through narcotics because there are so few things that can compound money in such a rapid fashion. He is the unrefined guy, if that's the proper term, who is very open about the way he uses his money." "Then there is the more refined dealer," Smith continued. "The guy with the white-collar background... the guy who's going to pull all the strings and let everybody else take all the chances. He's going to be more integrated into society and harder to identify. This is the guy we're worried about and we may be able to identify him but it's much harder to get to him." The number of relatively small, closely knit organizations operating along the border have led DEA to focus its attention on major drug rings and the poppy eradication program in cooperation with Mexico. In testimony before a House subcommittee last month, Bensingler outlined the progress against two such major operators: Leroy "Nicky" Barnes of New York City and Jaime Herrera of Chicago. Barnes was convicted of conspiracy and sale and managing a continuing criminal enterprise on Dec. 12, 1977, and sentenced to "life in prison and will never be eligible for parole," Bensingler testified. Herrera and "his associates were responsible for much of the heroin transported to Chicago," Bensingler continued. "The traffickers have been involved in an international production and distribution network which significantly impacts on heroin availability in the East, South, Southwest and along the West Coast as well as the family production center in the Durango, Mexico, area." Bensingler also told the congressmen that by the time narcotics reach the border "it is difficult to track down. The time to curb the flow of contraband, we believe, is when it is hardest to hide: that is, when in the ground." Bensingler also said that during the 1975 Mexican poppy eradication program, 17,964 acres of poppy fields equivalent to 7,270 kilos (more than 3,300 pounds) of pure heroin were destroyed. "Our lab samples used to show an extremely pure quality of heroin," said Smith. "Before (the eradication program), heroin was coming in here entirely uncut. Now it's coming in cut quite a bit before it hits the street." "The obvious deduction is that the source is hurting," he continued. "People may say, 'Well, we've got rid of the heroin.' No, there's heroin but some of it you could shoot it up all day and not get a buzz out of it."

Police report

An unknown person tipped off police to an apparent burglary in the 24-hour reporting period starting at 7 a.m. Friday and ending at 7 a.m. Saturday. The caller informed police about 2:30 p.m. that a white male had raised the east window at a residence at 931 E. Browning. The man left, returned about five minutes later and entered the building. He then left with a small box in his hands. Two men and a juvenile were arrested in connection with the incident. Gene E. Dougherty, 522 E. Francis, reported to police Friday that his motorcycle was missing from his garage. Vehicles operated by Richard Wayne James, 2229 Dogwood, and Mary Reeves Courtney, 2128 Lea, were involved in a non-injury accident in the 300-block of Ballard about 1 p.m. Dana Gutierrez, employee of Allsup's Convenient Store at 1900 N. Hobart, reported that someone stole about $2.50 worth of gas about 1:30 a.m.

Mice vs. Carter administration

as can be determined it was end of summer — the president buzzed for his secretary. She found him awesomely stern, eyes now shooting laser beams. He had just seen another mouse in his study.

He ordered an immediate meeting in his office of all concerned officials of the GSA, Department of Interior, White House administration, others.

In terms clear and crisp, he announced his patience was at an end. He told them if he, as a private citizen, could lick the rat problem in his peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga., surely the government of the United States could mobilize the resources and ingenuity and dedication to get mice out of the White House.

He said he didn't care whose jurisdiction was involved; he, the president, wanted the problem solved. NOW!

And so it came to pass, in Jimmy Carter's first autumn on Olympus, that a shudder ran through the executive branch of the government of the United States and there was born a massive effort, a nervous crash program smaller, of course, but no less intense than the Manhattan Project which gave us the atom bomb.

A cloud of paper began to form.

For two months, on almost a daily basis, with the "Official Reading Files" and three other individuals marked in for carbons, D. J. Spalding, GSA manager of the White House, transmitted tense reports to Hugh Carter, the president's cousin and special assistant for administration.

Sept. 12. "The following is a report on the pest control measures taken by the GSA in the West Wing over the weekend ...

"1. Spring traps: 48 spring traps were installed on the basement, first and second floors. There are five in the Oval Office, four in the study, four in the secretarial kitchen and bathroom complex. These traps are baited with either one of a variety of foods: Peanut butter; bacon and cheese. These traps will be maintained daily.

"2. Rodenticides: Brand name VACOR Rat Killer poison was installed in all accessible baseboard wire runs. This bait is a quick-kill, single dose poison. 94ths pounds were used. (FDA approved for use).

"3. Sealing openings: Steel wool was utilized to close all obvious openings in walls, around baseboards, in floors, and wherever wires and pipes protrude. This is a continuing process to restrict the rodents' traveling area.

"4. Large traps: Six of the large 'Ketch-All' mouse traps were placed in strategic non-visible areas. Two are in the crawl space directly under the Oval Office and one more in the adjacent U.S.S.S. (Secret Service) area in the basement. Also, one was placed in the crawl space directly above the Cabinet Room. These traps are in addition to the ten low profile 'Tin-Cat' traps already in use throughout the West Wing."

Sept. 13. "GSA placed additional spring traps throughout the West Wing bringing the total number to 114 ...

"Four mice were found in the spring traps. This brings the grand total of 'bodies' found since July 29 to 19. Several incidences of foul odors indicate that the kill is much higher ...

"The Pest Control Contractor, Pied Piper, performed their outside perimeter servicing of bait stations around the East and West wings ... Areas re-baited for mice last night include the Oval Office Complex, first-and second-floor offices of the West Wing, under the Situation Room raised floor ... In the East Wing, re-baiting for mice included the First Lady's Offices, the Tour Office and Congressional Liaison Offices."

The Situation Room, it should be noted, is the top-secret basement command post where presidents have presided over the Cuban missile crisis, the Tet offensive, the Mayaguez affair and other flash points around the world.

Sept. 15. "GSA forces accomplished closing of openings throughout the West Wing ... Twenty-two additional small spring-type traps installed, primarily in the Press Area ...

"Of all types of traps, baits, etc. installed, the best visible results are being achieved with the small spring-type traps baited with peanut butter."

"There is evidence that the tracking powder is being disturbed by mice but difficult to get indications of its success since mice are able to get back to nests before dying. Thus the 'body counts' from this method will be low."

"Two more mice were trapped last night and one this morning ... bringing the total to 24 'bodies'."

Sept. 16. "Comments continue to be made both by GSA personnel and the Pest Control Contractor about food scraps and trays left overnight throughout the West Wing. This continues to be a prime food source for vermin ...

"Total trapped or poisoned 25."

Sept. 19. "Total caught ... 30."

"The windows in the president's study and Ms. Susan Clough's office were double-checked to ensure all possible access has been closed."

Sept. 20. An ominous new note.

"... One rat, was killed by GSA employees outside the West Wing."

Sept. 21. "Large 'Track Packs' of VACOR installed in Situation Room."

"... Occupant cooperation is quite good. We find that in many instances occupants are now checking traps themselves and discarding mice caught. However, we do ask that all sightings ... be reported to this office (so) that our personnel can dispose of mice and re-bait traps. This will enable our staff to determine and focus on areas of high infestation."

It would also discourage vigilantism in the White House.

Sept. 22. "In the East Wing, mice have been attacking plant roots in flower pots. This indicates a lack of other food source. The areas around these pots were heavily trapped."

And so through the turning leaves of October the battle raged, favoring first one side, then the other.

By the score, more traps from the factories of America were moved up to, the front new poisons were wheeled into position, traps and bait were checked every day, peanut butter, cheese and bacon grown weary in the struggle were replaced by fresh supplies, more openings were stuffed with steel wool against the infiltrators, more mice were enticed to enter tracking stations and leave a trail of little foot prints in a bright green powder, more overnight trays were whisked from the desks of the careless in every tightening security.

Inexorably, as the arsenal of democracy reached full mobilization, the enemy's monthly casualties rose from 2 in July, to 10 in August, to 38 in September and — at long last light at the end of tunnel — fell to 10 in October and 1 in November.

By Nov. 4, S.J. Spalding, the White House building manager, was able to announce, with tight-lipped restraint, that the total "confirmed catch" had stabilized at 61.

Nine months after Ms. Cloud had first detected something rotten in the Shrine of the American Dream, Spalding felt confident enough to report "the problem under control."

Among other effective steps in the accelerated program, he credited the installation of 296 household spring traps throughout the West and East Wings, and the installation of 141 GSA "bait stations" on the grounds to supplement those set by the Park Service, which is under the Department of Interior. He also cited helpful suggestions from "Pest Control Specialists" in the Department of Defense.

At this writing, there is no evidence that the CIA was involved, on either side.

Officials go politicking in state planes

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State aircraft are wonderful time and money savers for officials with work to do — and also for those with political ambitions and ranch retreats.

An Associated Press survey of flight logs maintained in 1977 by all elected officials with state aircraft disclosed:

—Gov. Dolph Briscoe made 33 trips in his state plane to his Uvalde ranch, where he apparently spent all or part of 68 weekdays during the first 10 months.

The last log entry was Nov. 4, and press secretary Bob Bain said, "the governor virtually mothballed the state plane after that date because of the pending campaign."

—Briscoe, Attorney General John Hill and Agriculture Commissioner Regan Brown, all building up to active political campaigns, flew busily about the state making speeches and contacts.

—Wives, legislators and others whose official purpose for traveling on state aircraft is open to question regularly show up on passenger lists.

Comptroller Bob Bullock normally used his two planes for hard-nosed tax collection and administrative chores, but sometimes provided free air taxi service for legislators.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong's aircraft use also tends to be businesslike, but he occasionally flies out to the provinces for a speech. He flew several legislators to a Big Bend-area ranch he wants the state to buy.

Railroad commissioners have used their newly acquired plane to a slight extent for speaking engagements.

Briscoe aides acknowledge he often spends weekends at the ranch but says he leaves on Friday evenings and returns on Monday mornings.

Accepting that, Briscoe appears to have spent at least part of 28 working days — not counting Mondays and Fridays — at the ranch during January-October.

This doesn't count an Aug. 18-23 vacation or the governor's trip to Europe last summer.

Briscoe's work habits are an issue in this year's governor's race. Hill regularly accuses him of "absenteeism" and of tending to personal business at the ranch while a manpower funding "scandal" was brewing in his official family.

Bain said 28 days during 10 months averages out to "slightly more than half a day" per week.

"That would not be absenteeism especially if you take into consideration the periods when the governor is working on Saturdays and Sundays," he said.

Bain said Briscoe worked at least part of 27 Saturdays or Sundays between Feb. 12 and Nov. 5, primarily giving speeches.

While other officials detail the purposes of their flights, Briscoe's logs say only that they were for "official business," even the trips to Uvalde.

The general appropriation bill, however, requires annual reports to include extracts from logs describing "the official business purposes of each flight."

The state auditor reminded Briscoe of the requirement after the governor's 1976 report omitted flight log extracts. But the 1977 report also was turned in without any aircraft information.

Bain said the ranch trips "are regarded as official business. He is governor 24 hours a day."

Bain said the hourly operating cost of the governor's Grumman G1, including gasoline and the salary of his pilot, is $384, meaning a 30-minute flight from Austin to Uvalde costs the state roughly $192. Jet Fleet Corp. of Dallas, an air charter service, said Grumman G1s burn 240 gallons of fuel an hour, and aviation fuel costs between 75 cents and 80 cents a gallon.

It might be coincidence, but officials who most actively used their state planes also are involved in contested political races.

Bullock and Armstrong, who seldom used their planes for speechmaking trips, are unopposed for re-election.

Hill made at least 47 flights to address such diverse groups as the Texas Senior Citizens Association and the State Little League Baseball Convention.

Hill also flew in the state plane to Woodville, where he was parade marshal in the Dogwood Festival, and to Laredo to receive the "Mr. South Texas" award.

Brown made more than 50 trips after becoming agriculture commissioner March 28 to speak to trade associations, farm and ranch leaders and consumer groups.

Such trips admittedly are in a gray area.

On the one hand, state officials should not isolate themselves. On the other, state funds are being used to political advantage, providing them with the exposure all politicians need.

"Every public official has to decide whether these speaking invitations are part of the job, and I decided they are. It is the only way most people will ever have a shot at asking a question of an officeholder face to face, and I think these experiences are healthy both for the officeholder and the public," said Hill.

Hill's use of his state plane for speaking trips tapered off after he formally announced for governor on Sept. 19. But he flew in it to Corpus Christi Oct. 1 to speak to the Texas Speech and Hearing Association and to Houston on Oct. 15 to address a conference on rights of the handicapped.

Brown, running for a full term as agriculture commissioner, said a former member of the state auditor's staff advises him whether each flight is legal.

He said he always travels as Commissioner Brown, not Candidate Brown, but acknowledges it is hard to separate the two.

"Everything we do is political — all the state people. This is a political organization," Brown said.

The wives of Briscoe, Hill and Brown often accompanied them on state aircraft. Armstrong's wife and Bullock's ex-wife rarely were passengers.

Bullock asked Hill on April 30, 1976, for an opinion on aircraft use, including the legality of wives as passengers.

Hill waited 18 months to answer, then said: "The flight must be for official business and there must be a business reason for the presence on it of any of the people you name" — including wives.

But Hill left lots of room for judgment calls, including the "traditional role" of the official's wife and her connection with the trip's purpose.

Mrs. Hill was a passenger on Hill's plane 33 times last year.

"On the occasions when my wife accompanied me, she went because she is the wife of the attorney general and was invited to participate with the attorney general in representing that office," Hill said.

Bain said Mrs. Briscoe legitimately flies on state aircraft because she accompanies "the governor in that capacity as others have accompanied their husbands."

Brown said taking his wife along "helps me to function better as a state official. It's awfully hard to be away from your family as much as we have to be."

When Briscoe flew to Philadelphia last September for commissioning of the U.S.S. Texas, business associate R.J. Nunley went along, but Bain said Nunley reimbursed the state $532 for the trip.

Legislators are hard to turn down when they ask for a plane ride.

Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, twice was the long passenger on Bullock's King Air. Wyatt heads the House Ways and Means Committee.

Other legislators who have had free rides on Bullock's aircraft include Reps. Bill Healy, D-Paducah; Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney; Ron Wilson, D-Houston; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center; and former Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin.

Both Bullock and Brown flew groups of senators to the March 31 funeral of former Sen. Don Adams in Jasper.

House Speaker Bill Clayton flew to Lubbock on Brown's plane June 16, and the purpose was described only as "at the request of the speaker's office."

Hill sent his plane to Houston March 9 to pick up Reps. Tom Uher, D-Bay City; Don Henderson, R-Houston; and Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, after a conference with Houston doctors on medical malpractice bills.

Another Hill log entry, dated April 30, says, "returned Reel and Mrs. Bill Clark from Brownsville to Austin." Mrs. Clark is Hill's daughter.

Bullock said the burden is on legislators — not the officials who provided them free rides — to assure that their trips are for official business.

"If a legislator says, 'I need to come to Austin, I have a committee meeting, can you help me get down there?' what am I supposed to do? Ask, 'Where is your meeting?' and go to the Capitol and check the time and place of the meeting?"

The comptroller, in fact, says his plane is at the disposal of "anybody who's entitled to be buried in the state cemetery."

Living Bank not for storing hearts Business in transplants

by SUSAN LINNIE
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Glen Karsten says there is "a great untapped need" for information among people who want to donate vital organs or their entire bodies for medical purposes but don't know how to go about it.

And she hopes the unique organization she helped found 10 years ago to meet that need will be so successful it will go out of business.

"Transplants were the big thing back in 1968 when four friends and I thought some sort of service was necessary to channel potential donors to potential recipients," said Mrs. Karsten, president of the Houston-based private, non-profit Living Bank that enables people to indicate in a uniform way that they want to give all or part of themselves away.

March of Dimes funds research

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Associated Press erroneously reported on Thursday that the March of Dimes had announced it was basing out its support of research into Tay-Sachs and other genetic diseases.

Instead, executives of the National Foundation-March of Dimes have said in internal memoranda and in testimony at the National Institutes of Health that the organization is phasing out its support of service programs designed to detect birth defects before children are born. The programs include screening, diagnoses and counseling.

The same documents state that the organization plans to continue funding research into the causes and cures of hereditary disorders.

Dr. Arthur J. Salisbury, medical services vice president of the foundation, has denied his organization was acting under pressure from antiabortion groups that say the prenatal diagnostic and counseling programs constitute "search and destroy operations."

In a Feb. 14, 1978, letter to genetic service programs now receiving March of Dimes money, Salisbury said: "By action of the board of trustees of the national foundation, first priority in program emphasis is now to be given to development and improvement of health services and medical care in the prenatal and perinatal periods and to efforts in public and professional education in these areas."

"Acceptance of the idea of donations for transplants for research is much greater now," Mrs. Karsten said. "And with discussion of death and dying much more common, people aren't so shocked by the whole thing. I hope people will become knowledgeable enough to make us unnecessary."

Surgeons in Boston made the first successful kidney transplant in 1954, and the first successful heart transplant was completed in South Africa in 1967.

The Living Bank, which has processed more than half a million inquiries in the past 10 years, operates as a referral service. Persons interested in becoming donors receive a donor card, accepted as a legal document in all 50 states following passage by state legislatures of the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. The card indicates which organs donors wish to give and carries the bank's 24-hour telephone number (713-528-2971).

The bank does not arrange organ transfers but does notify appropriate agencies that organs are available and refers them to donors' families or public officials.

Lorraine Gress, who took over as executive director last year, said most initial contact comes from next-of-kin or nurses who have been treating donors. She emphasized that the Living Bank is not a storage facility but an information center.

"Our great advantage is that we are a single-site referral service. The family only has to notify us. Then they will be contacted by recipient agencies, but they do not have to initiate the contact."

Ms. Gress works with a staff of five and a $100,000 annual budget to process inquiries and send out donor cards. She said the bank received more than 21,000 letters after a poem on organ donations appeared in a

"Dear Abby" newspaper column in January.

"It is much easier for potential donors to discuss the idea with their families before any action is necessary," Mrs. Karsten said. "People grieving for loved ones aren't always in a position to make a fast decision."

Several states provide space on drivers licenses to indicate the bearer is also a donor. But the Texas license, for example, gives no number to call.

No more than 20 minutes can elapse between the death of a kidney donor and the receipt by the transplant patient. Corneas can be kept somewhat longer.

The Living Bank has received grants from several Texas foundations to spread the word about donations across the state. Ms. Gress said she also has plans to inform public safety officials and emergency room personnel about the program so potential donations will not be lost.

Although the donor card is a legal document, Ms. Gress said many persons are hesitant to take action concerning donations for fear of legal reprisals from next-of-kin. The act has not yet been tested in the courts.

Profit from killing seal pups down

ST. ANTHONY, Newfoundland (AP) — The value of this year's seal pup kill could be cut sharply because of ice blocking ships from the area off northern Newfoundland where the seals are born, fishery officials say.

Four Canadian and four Norwegian ships are seeking a safe way into the ice pack, which has been driven by winds into a solid sheet up to 20 feet thick among the islands off the Labrador coast.

The herd also appears to be out of reach of demonstrators from the Greenpeace Foundation of British Columbia who are expected to begin arriving in this northern Newfoundland town today to protest the hunt. Two U.S. congressmen are coming to join them.

Fisheries officers who flew over the ice 250 miles north of St. Anthony said most of the young seals apparently already have been born.

Because of the ice, they say, the valuable white coats of the infant pups could change color before the hunters arrive. Once pups are 18 days old, the fur turns a spotted gray, making the skins less valuable.

"The ships will be a week reaching the seals," one fishery officer said.

Fishery officers said it would take gale winds and a heavy swell to break the ice away from the Labrador shore. They said in a similar ice situation in 1966, only three out of four pups taken had white coats.

Greenpeace says the clubbing method of killing the seals is cruel. The Canadian government says it is the most humane method available and that in addition to the value of the furs to the sealers, the seal population must be controlled to sustain fish resources.

The Canadian government has set the limit for this year's kill at 180,000 harp seals and 15,000 hood seals. The harp seal limit is up 10,000 over last year.

Conservationists dispute the Canadians claim that the seal population is increasing in spite of the kills.

Reps. James M. Jeffords, R-Vt., and Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., flew to Ottawa Thursday night to join the Greenpeace crusaders.

Dougherty paces Pampa past Canyon twice

By TOM KENSLER
Pampa News Sports Editor

Rick Dougherty went five for six and hit for the cycle to pace a Harvester hitting barrage which dropped Canyon, 11-1 and 15-4, in a non-district doubleheader at Optimist Park Saturday afternoon.

Dougherty scored three times and knocked in a run with a triple in the opener and then smacked a single, double, triple and homerun in the nightcap, driving in four runs. His homerun, a lineshot over the right-centerfield wall, highlighted a five-hit, nine-run sixth inning which broke open a close second game.

The Harvesters, now 5-1 on the campaign, scored five times in the second stanza to take a 5-1 advantage in the opener. Pampa added four runs in the fourth and two in the fifth while winning pitcher Julian Clark held Canyon to one run on just two hits. Only four Canyon batters reached the outfield on the junior righthander.

Hitting stars in the opener were Richard Wuest, who was three for four with three RBIs, and Gary Free, whose triple to center scored two in the second.

Pampa scored in each of the first three innings of the nightcap to take a 4-0 lead into the fourth frame. But an error, a walk and a Jack Hays triple accounted for three Canyon runs to make it a one-run game.

Wuest drove in a pair in the fifth to give Pampa some breathing room before the nine-run sixth-inning outburst.

Gary Free, who pitched three scoreless innings, was relieved by Gary Dumas in the fourth. Steve Stout held Canyon to one run through the final three innings.

Helping out Dougherty were Harvester hitter Amando Soto, Johnny Hays, and Steve Stout with two hits apiece.

Canyon falls to 0-4 with the double dip.

The Harvesters are scheduled to play at Borger Tuesday afternoon in a single game.

South Oak Cliff wins again

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Dallas South Oak Cliff defended its Class 4A championship in girls' basketball Saturday by pulling away from Victoria in the final frantic minutes of the last quarter, 70-62.

Two crucial plays swung the game to South Oak Cliff, which extended its season record to 41-3 with the victory.

With 1:09 to play and South Oak Cliff leading 63-60, Cynthia Barefield of Victoria slapped the ball away for an apparent steal but was whistled for her fifth foul and had to leave the game.

Patricia Jacques missed the free throw but six-foot Anita Foster of South Oak Cliff grabbed the rebound and tossed it in for a 65-60 lead.

Before fouling out, Barefield, a 5-5 senior, had poured in 37 points, threaded sharp passes through the Dallas defense for baskets and stolen the ball a half dozen times.

Netters place fourth, fifth

HEREFORD - Facing tough fields, Pampa's boys tennis team finished fourth and the Harvester girls placed fifth in the seven-team Hereford Tennis Tournament which concluded Saturday.

The Harvester boys garnered 41 points, behind Lubbock High (54), Plainview (44) and Canyon (42), and ahead of Borger (40), Herford (31) and Memphis (16). The girls' order of finish was Plainview, 57; Lubbock, 51; Borger, 46; Memphis, 46; Pampa, 30; Hereford, 29; and Canyon, 3.

Pampa's leading finisher was the boys doubles team of Kenny Barrett - Burtis Henry which lost on the finals to the Lubbock High team of Campbell - Dang, 6-2, 6-4.

Other top-10 finishers were Sam Gilbert, seventh, boys singles; Kris Douglas - Susan Lane, seventh, girls doubles; John Grady - Locke Carter, ninth, boys doubles; Kathy Wall, ninth, girls singles; and Kurt Krause, ninth, boys singles.

The Harvesters are scheduled to compete in the Perryton Tournament Saturday.

Spinks gets signing deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Spinks, the heavyweight champion of the world, could have title recognition withdrawn by the World Boxing Council by next Friday if he does not meet certain conditions, Jose Sulaiman, WBC president, said Saturday.

Sulaiman said in a telephone interview from Mexico City that Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, Inc., has agreed to present an affidavit to the WBC that Spinks has not yet signed to fight anyone. Arum has the promotional rights to Spinks' next three fights.

Sulaiman noted Spinks and Muhammad Ali both agreed before their Feb. 15 fight that the winner would sign by April 7 to fight the No. 1-ranked Ken Norton by July 7 or have title recognition withdrawn.

Sulaiman said Arum agreed that if Spinks signed to fight anyone other than Norton he would report this within 24 hours to the WBC and that title recognition would then be withdrawn from Spinks.

Sulaiman also said it was agreed that Spinks must tell the WBC by next Friday that he intended to conform with the WBC edict. If not, title recognition would be withdrawn.

tion would be withdrawn and bestowed on Norton, who defeated No. 2-ranked Jimmy Young in a 15-round fight last Nov. 5.

Next Friday is the deadline for Spinks to sign with a promoter of his choice to defend against Norton. If he does not sign for such a fight by next Friday then a Norton-Spinks is open to any promoter and bids would be presented in sealed envelopes to be opened April 5 in the Mexico City headquarters of the WBC.

What this agreement amounts to is that the WBC is telling Arum his first Spinks promotion must be a Spinks-Norton fight.

"We feel very disturbed by the way we've been maneuvered," said Sulaiman, who said the entire WBC is in agreement that the edict will be enforced.

UCLA, Hogs win

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Roy Hamilton scored 23 points, including six straight in the final 1:22, as second-ranked UCLA rallied to defeat foul-plagued Kansas 83-76 Saturday in the opening round of the NCAA Western Regional basketball playoffs.

The ninth-ranked Jayhawks led by as many as nine points in the second half, but lost three starters on fouls after the intermission.

The Bruins, 25-2, meet seventh-ranked Arkansas in the semifinals of the Western Regional Thursday in Albuquerque, N.M. The Razorbacks rolled over Weber State 73-52 in the opening game of Saturday's doubleheader at the University of Oregon.

Kansas, which finished the season at 24-5, matched the Bruins' quickness at guard and size inside through most of the contest.

In the opening game, Marvin Delph and Ron Brewer ripped the Weber State zone for 39 points as Arkansas' drubbed Weber State.

The Wildcats' deliberate style and a cool Arkansas shooting hand kept the game close through the first half, with the Big Sky champions trailing only by six, 32-26, at the intermission. But the Razorbacks, 29-3, reeled off 10 straight points—six by the slick-shooting Brewer—to open a 47-30 lead with 13:46 left in the game.

The Wildcats, who finished the season 19-10, refused to abandon their zone defense and the quicker Razorbacks never were threatened in the second half.

UTEP captures title

DETROIT (AP) — UCLA's Mike Tully soared to a world indoor record 18 feet, 5 1/4 inches in the pole vault Saturday in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships. Texas El Paso won the team title for a record fourth time.

Tully, who on Jan. 7 broke the indoor mark with a vault of 18-4 in the Muhammad Ali Games, first smashed the NCAA record Saturday by one-quarter inch by clearing 18-0 1/4.

After erasing the mark of 18-0 1/4 established by Earl Bell of Arkansas State in 1976, the imperturbable Tully flew over the bar at the world record height before an excited Cobo Arena crowd of 9,300.

Texas El Paso, the team winner in 1974, 1975 and 1976, and a second-place finisher — one half point behind Washington

State last year — accumulated 44 points in taking the team championship. The Miners won it despite a disqualification after a first-place finish in the two-mile relay.

Auburn finished second in the team race with 38 points, followed by Villanova with 35, Washington State with 27, Alabama with 23 and Missouri, Maryland, Michigan and Providence with 20 each.

Klammer retains crown

LAAX, Switzerland (AP) — Franz Klammer, Austria's 1976 Olympic champion, retained his World Cup downhill ski title Saturday by snatching victory in the final downhill meet of the season.

The popular 24-year old Austrian, who many experts said had lost both form and confidence this season, kept his head on the unusually quick, twisting Laax track to power home in 1 minute 55.76 seconds, just 3-hundredths of a second ahead of Norwegian Erik Haker. It was the fourth consecutive year Klammer has won the downhill title.

"Everybody said I didn't have the courage to take on the bends, but I've proved them wrong," he said defiantly.

Haker, skiing fifth in the order, two behind Klammer, led the Austrian on the upper part of the 3,400-meter course (with two jumps and a 950-meter drop) but lost precious time after losing control close to the finish.

Third was 22-year old unranked Austrian Ulrich Spiess, who 24 hours earlier had produced one of the season's major upsets by winning an identical meet here — his first victory ever.

Canada's Ken Read was fourth Saturday in 1:56.63 and remained fourth in the downhill standings.

Tascosa, PD win Top of Texas titles

Fighting near gale conditions, Tascosa's boys and Palo Duro's girls took top honors Friday in combined Top of Texas Invitational Track Meet which saw eight varsity and 10 junior varsity records fall.

The boys' Rebels racked up first-place points in the high jump, discus, pole vault, mile relay, 440-yard dash, 440 relay, and 330 intermediate hurdles enroute to victory. Palo Duro's girls swept the sprints and took the shot put, high jump, and triple jump.

Tascosa's boys accumulated 182 points to outdistance

Caprock (112 1/2), Canyon (96), Borger (49), Pampa (40) and Hereford (18 1/2) in the meet. The Don gals' point total of 158 beat Amarillo (117), Tascosa (102), Pampa (69), Borger (37), Hereford (21) and Caprock (3) in the varsity competition.

Tascosa's Mike Isgriggs, who set the meet junior varsity discus record in 1976, added the varsity mark to his collection with a throw of 157' 11" to eclipse the previous platter standard of 156' 3" set in 1974 by Plainview's Steve Partridge.

Sharon Moultrie of Pampa destroyed the previous meet long jump mark by seven inches with a leap of 18' 2 1/2" to beat the field by more than a foot. Paige Curtis of Tascosa, the previous record holder with a 1977 jump of 17' 7 1/4", finished fourth Friday.

Palo Duro's girls, led by the Freeman, Theola and Sonia Ballard, completely rewrote the sprint records. Theola Freeman's time of 11.3 broke the 100-yard dash mark of 11.4 set by her sister Falcia Freeman in 1976. Stephanie's 220-yard time of 25.8 tied the meet record set in 1976 by Falcia.

Playing the rabbit

Pampa miler Greg Sandford led after the first lap but fell out of the money in junior varsity action at Friday's Top of Texas Invitational Track Meet on the Randy Matson Track. The Shockers finished first in the JV team competition with 148 points.

Ballard eclipsed the 440-yard dash record of 61.0 set in 1976 by AHS' Lorbie Scott with a time of 59.0. Ienobia Haynes and Carol Tucker of Borger also ran under the previous mark. Former record holder Scott finished sixth with a time of 63.4. Palo Duro lowered the 440 relay mark to 49.6 and the 880 relay standard to 1:47.8.

The 1976 800-yard hurdles mark of 11.1 set by Pampa's Sherry Kimbell, fell to the 11.0 effort of Amarillo's Stacy Ingram.

Two meet records held by former Harvesters were broken or tied in the boys' junior varsity competition. Fred Sims of Tascosa ran a 23.3 220 to break the JV mark of 23.4 set in 1973 by Pampa's Joe Curtis. Caprock's Winford Hodge long jumped 20' 1" to tie Robert Yeager's 1973 mark.

New girls' junior varsity standards were set in the 440 dash, 880 relay, 100 dash, shot put, long jump, high jump, discus and triple jump.

Pampa's best varsity boys' finishes came in the 440-yard dash where Tommy Albus, Kerry Adair and Todd Chumbley came in 3-4-5, and in the 200 where Chumbley and Adair placed 2-4.

Moultrie added a second-place 100-yard dash finish to her winning girls' long jump effort and Pampa's Cheryl Hensley won the gold medal in the girls' varsity discus with a throw of 103' 10".

Behind the efforts of field men Kyle Bradford and Jeff Puttman, and cindermen Doug Smith and Doug Kennedy, the Pampa Shockers took top team honors in the boys' junior varsity division with 148 points. Bradford won the JV high jump competition with a leap of 5' 10" while Puttman won the shot with a throw of 45' 3/4".

Smith took the 100-yard dash in 10.5 and Kennedy won the JV 330 intermediate hurdles in 44.7.

Billy Grimes and Mike Porter teamed with Smith and Kennedy for a winning 440 relay effort of 46.1.

Kellye Richardson was the lone Pampa gal JV winner, taking the 80-yard hurdles in 12.1.

The Pampa JV girls finished fifth behind winner Amarillo High.

Cecil Fox ... expert on snakes

Bobby Dehls and Debbie Hernandez watch Fox's cage of snakes from their front row seats.

A snake in the hand . . .

Story by Thom Marshall
and Thom Marshall

Most folks don't like rattlesnakes very much.

And a lot of people are scared of them.

But Cecil Fox, a gentleman of some 70-odd years from Spur, believes that is because "so many stories have been told that aren't true about snakes."

So he travels about the country catching snakes, introducing them to audiences, milking the venom from them, then making things out of the skins, rattles and fangs.

It represents Fox's third career. After barbering for 27 years he became a state game warden. After 22 years in that job he retired in 1966 and has since devoted much time to snakes, catching from 400 to 700 of them each year for a lifetime total estimated at better than 25,000.

Thursday, before an audience of students at McLean

High School, Fox had a wire cage containing a half-dozen of his most recently-captured rattle-equipped reptiles.

One common untruth told about rattlesnakes is that the number of segments in the rattle indicates the number of years. That simply isn't true, Fox told his audience.

"Everytime he sheds that skin, he'll add another segment," he said.

Young snakes growing very fast can add several segments in a year. Fox told of observing one snake from birth until it died at the age of 19 months. It had eight segments in its rattle.

Fox has helped start several rattlesnake shows throughout West Texas, including the annual Sweetwater Rattlesnake Roundup that began in 1958. Part of the celebration includes the cooking of rattlesnake meat. "Somebody's always asking me, 'well, what does rattlesnake meat taste like?'" Fox said. "I always say it tastes like rattlesnake meat. But some say it tastes like chicken, some say fish."

Fox said he's had countless people tell him, "I wouldn't eat none of that rattlesnake meat for nothing in the world."

His reply is, "We don't know what this world's gonna turn into. We might be glad to get some rattlesnake meat someday. You better eat some so you'll know what it tastes like."

When Fox bites into a hunk of rattlesnake meat it is an application of the old saw: turn about is fair play. Numerous rattlers over the years have sunk their fangs into Fox. There have been so many he's built up a natural immunity to the venom. Good thing. He said he's allergic to the anti-venom commonly used by doctors in treatment of rattlesnake bites.

Fox's program included exhibits other than the live snakes. He had several jars of preserved snake eggs. He passed around a container of bulls-nake eggs. "The largest eggs laid by any North American snake," he said.

"The reason you don't see any snake eggs," he told the audience, "is because they bury these eggs in the ground, about so deep. They'll cover them up and go on off the leave them alone. When they hatch, they are on their own. They never see their daddy or mother... have to rustle up their own food."

When a jar of prairie racer snake eggs were passed around ("Don't drop them, now, son."), Fox said that was the only variety of non-poisonous snake that he will kill. That's because he's seen the prairie racers eating birds and birds' eggs.

"They swallow these eggs," Fox explained, "any kind of bird egg, hen egg, duck egg, don't make any difference what kind of egg it is. Then they bend their body around back and forth to break that egg up. Then they spit up the shell."

He also was quite descriptive about how snakes kill and consume rats and rabbits.

At one point in the informal lecture, Fox picked up a closed container, saying that inside it were some of the most dangerous snakes in the world as he unscrewed the lid.

Then he jerked the lid away and several large spring-loaded cloth tubes lept into the audience. Students screamed and scrambled, then laughed.

Fox also presented his program in Pampa at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Optimist Boys Club.

Teaching plans change for India woman

Upon entering the shop, the aroma of curry powder and the brightness of copper and silver greet the customer.

Walking up and down the long aisles, one sees water pipes, belly dancing beads, hand carved wood, Japanese jewelry boxes, mother-of-pearl necklaces and pure silk scarves.

Behind the counter at VJ's Imports is owner Vijay Murgai, decked out in a pink pantsuit and a ready smile.

Mrs. Murgai, who is from Panjab, India, moved to Pampa in 1966 after her marriage to S.K. Murgai, a Cabot employee.

Although Mrs. Murgai planned to teach school after her arrival here, she says, "it was God's will that plans for the shop seemed to fall into place instead."

After Mr. and Mrs. Murgai decided to open the import shop, they received a call about office space for rent. The shop, which is one of a kind in Pampa, opened in October of 1976.

Mrs. Murgai received a master's degree in economics and a bachelor of science degree in education.

"The economics degree helped me a little in the import business. I had no experience, but I'm learning quickly," she said.

Future plans call for Mrs. Murgai to expand her business into a wholesale shop, which is in the planning stages now.

The benefits that come with her job are ideal. "I like to travel, and I personally pick out items for my shop about five times a year," she said.

Mrs. Murgai buys from the Dallas import market and directly from India. Her shop includes treasures from Germany, Pakistan, Holland, Spain, China and dozens of other countries around the world.

The 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. hours she keeps are busy, as she keeps the books, orders items, and her favorite of all tasks, custom stringing and designing jewelry.

"I also repair some jewelry," she said.

Other hobbies include sewing and meeting people.

"I like people and I like to get out in public," Mrs. Murgai said.

The Murgai's have three children: Nisha, 9, John, 11, and Alvin, 10.

The family went to India in 1970 to see Mrs. Murgai's parents, and they plan to take another trip soon.

Mrs. Murgai says she enjoys her time in the shop. "I'm delighted when somebody comments on the imports... since I handpick them all."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a single, middle-aged female (no family) who is recovering from a depression of several months and I'm so grateful to be feeling good again. Life was so dreary for some time, but with the help of a psychiatrist, prescribed medication, time and a friend, the future looks cheerful.

The reason for this letter is to let people know what they can do if a friend or loved one finds himself (or herself) in a depression.

1. Keep in constant contact. A phone call just to ask how I was kept me going.
2. Send cheery notes or cards. (Some days all I received were bills and junk mail.)
3. Encourage your depressed friend to get dressed and get out of the house. Even a walk around the block helps. Some days I left my apartment only to see my doctor or buy a TV dinner.
4. Invite the sick person out for a meal. It doesn't have to be fancy—anything will be appreciated. If your invitation is refused, perhaps just the idea of getting dressed and getting to your home is too much. Tell them you will pick them up even if you live only a block away. Convince them you want their company.
5. If they haven't sought medical help, encourage them to do so. And never ask them what the doctor said. Therapy is a very personal thing.
6. Never tell a depressed person that they should "snap out of it" or that nobody can help them—they have to help themselves. (I thought if one more person told me that, I would scream!)

Above all, let the sick person know that you care about them. People have a hard time pulling themselves out of a depression when they feel that nobody cares.

Thank God for my one concerned friend. Without her, I never would have made it.

SMILING AGAIN

DEAR SMILING: And thank you for an excellent letter.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a rare coin collection. Recently we noticed that four half-dollars were missing. Their total value is more than $300.

The only person who has been alone in our house is a 14-year-old neighbor boy who sits with our children. This boy's parents are good friends of ours and we wouldn't want to lose their friendship over this.

My husband says we should hide the collection and keep quiet about the missing coins. I say we should confront the boy's parents. I am sure the boy doesn't realize the value of the coins he took. What should we do?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Whether the boy is under the impression that he took $2 in coins or $300 is beside the point. The boy himself should be confronted. Leave his parents out of it.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Laaky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I just came from the doctor's office and after taking my blood pressure he announced my diastolic was low and prescribed vitamin B. I'm a bit dubious about my having a shortage of that vitamin as I've been eating food that were high in it—brewer's yeast, wheat germ, dried fruits and a good balanced diet. In fact I was getting so red around the eyes that I cut down on some of this. What else could cause a low diastolic pressure and what might one do to normalize it?

DEAR READER—When people tell me they have seen a doctor I never know what kind of doctor they mean. There are different disciplines including M.D.s, osteopaths and chiropractors just for starters and that is not the end of the list.

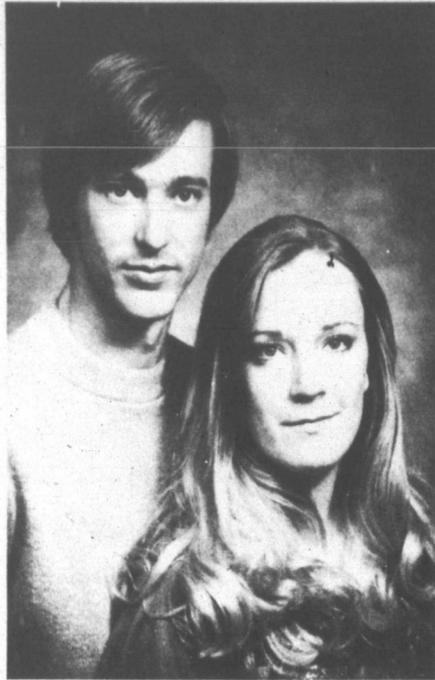

You either have misinterpreted what the doctor said—and that happens quite frequently with patients—or something is amiss. You can have a normal or elevated systolic blood pressure (top reading) and have a low diastolic (lower reading). There are many causes for this. If you had a leaky valve at the outlet of the heart, a large amount of blood could leak back into the heart after each beat, allowing the diastolic pressure to fall very rapidly. We see this when the valve has been damaged as a result of rheumatic heart disease or birth defects that result in a leaky valve.

A severe anemia may cause a low diastolic pressure but that is not the case in most more common forms of anemia. It may also occur when there is an abnormally large connection between the arteries and veins. You might see this as a complication of a gun-shot wound, or with excessively wide normal connections between the arteries and veins, which occurs with a number of diseases. It is true that vitamin B-1 deficiencies of severe degree can cause beri-beri heart disease, which sometimes causes a small drop in diastolic blood pressure. But if that were true you would have a lot of other important symptoms too. Under the circumstances I don't see how you can expect to obtain any value from taking additional vitamin B with your history.

I should add that a good doctor would be able to tell from his examination if you have a leaky valve or not and he would most certainly know if you had an anemia severe enough to cause a diastolic pressure drop. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, so you can be better informed on what controls your blood pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A common cause of a low diastolic blood pressure reading is a faulty technique. This can happen if the veins in the arm are over-filled with blood. Leaving the cuff on too long and allowing this to happen is one cause. We have trouble with this sometimes too in taking pressure while a person is exercising. It is important to let the arm drain out all the venous blood frequently so a false low reading will not occur. And I should mention that where the stethoscope is placed to listen to the beat makes a difference. If it is not over the artery a low reading may be obtained. Any abnormal reading should be repeated at least once at a subsequent office visit. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Musgrave-Morgan engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Musgrave, 2200 Duncan, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Micki Jo, to Phillip Duane Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. M.J. Morgan, Amarillo. The couple will be married April 8 in Summit Baptist Church, 200 N. McMasters, Amarillo. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Pampa High School and McConnell School, Minneapolis, Minn. She is currently employed by Blackburn's of Amarillo. Phillip attended Caprock High School and served in the armed forces. He is currently employed by American Electric as an apprentice electrician.

Stacy-Johnson engagement

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Stacy of Southlake, Texas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhonda Rochelle, to Larry Johnson of Guymon, Oklahoma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Johnson of Pampa. The couple will be married June 10 at the First United Methodist Church in Grapevine.

Ryals talks at DAR meet

At a recent meeting of the Las Pampas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Felix Ryals, manager of Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District, White Deer, spoke about water availability and use in the Panhandle. Ryals explained there are about 350 feet of water sands under Pampa but only 15 feet of water can be obtained from each 100 feet of water sands. The amount of water, 15,800 acre feet a year, which Amarillo takes out of Carson County definitely effects us. One acre foot of water is equal to 326,000 gallons.

In the new rules of the Panhandle Water District only four- to eight inch wells or three- to ten inch wells may be put on a section of land; also, any drilling if any kind must have a permit from Ryals' office.

Mrs. Henry Merrick gave a national defense report.

Mrs. Nell Vaughn was accepted for membership. Mrs. J.R. Spearman was hostess.

Makeup expert gives eyebrow tips

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Eyebrows can totally change a woman's looks but it is a difficult beauty area for a woman to handle, says well-known makeup man Glenn Roberts.

Examine your eyes and brows before you do anything to them, he says. Framing the face with your brows can open the eyes to wonderful possibilities.

"You don't want thick dark brows that overpower your eyes," he points out. "Brows that extend too far can add 10 years to your appearance."

To get a neat, smooth hair line you need remove only three or four hairs several times a week. Start at the inner section of the brow, closest to the nose, he advises, using this method to choose a shape.

Look into a mirror. Using a pencil as a guide, hold the pencil straight up near the outer part of the eyes. This is where the arch of the brow should be.

Hold the pencil diagonally from the side of the nose to the corner of the eye. This is where the eyebrow should end.

Holding a pencil horizontally from the beginning of the brow to the end, check to see that the end of the brow is not lower than the beginning. But never tweeze above the brow.

For those with less than perfect brows, skillful use of a pered brush and a sable or soft blonde color might be one way to achieve pretty eyebrows, suggests Roberts.

Dabbing the brush on a pressed powder shadow can give a natural feathered appearance — like real hairs.

Numerous salons specialize in bleaching brows and "while many brows should be lightened" the best way to tell whether yours need it is to check against your hair color. A good rule of thumb is that eyebrows should be two shades lighter than the hair tone.

Toning brows is a simple bleaching process, but one which should be done only by a salon expert. Ask to be tested for an allergic reaction before you begin this treatment, Roberts advises.

Brows that are gray can also age the face. A good trick is to use a mascara wand to color the white hairs. Then with a brow brush comb gently through the hairs to remove any excess mascara.

There is a lot of emphasis on eyebrows over the world these days, says Roberts, who heads up the worldwide training program for Elizabeth Arden. Women have learned that the "eyes are the focal point of the face" and they are trying to master the technique of choosing the proper eyebrows for their face.

TOP OF TEXAS LIVESTOCK SHOW

The Gray County Home Demonstration Club women will have the concession sales at the stock show. They serve a variety of sandwiches, drinks, and homemade pie. When you come to the stock show, stop by and say "hello." The proceeds from the concession sales help sponsor home demonstration activities, educational programs, 4-H events, and the 4-H scholarship.

LOCAL 4-H SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS DUE

The Gray County Home Demonstration Council 4-H Committee is taking applications for the 1978 4-H Scholarship. The $300 scholarship has been given for the past three years to an outstanding 4-H club member. The scholarship awards program is designed to provide educational opportunities in the form of one scholarship to an outstanding 4-H club girl or boy each year.

Any 4-H Club girl or boy who has completed or is enrolled in their third year of 4-H club work and who plans to attend college this fall is eligible to apply. Applicants should submit a 4-H record book to the County Extension Office by March 27. County winners will be announced by April 1.

HORTICULTURE SHORT COURSE

Everette Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist from College Station, will be in Pampa Thursday to present two programs at the Courthouse Annex Meeting room. Program at 1:30 p.m. will feature information on general landscape maintenance to include pruning and management of trees, shrubs, and indoor plants. At 7:30 p.m. Janne will present a program on roses. This is his specialty.

Both programs are free and everyone is invited to attend. These programs are sponsored by the Gray County Horticulture Subcommittee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

NATURAL VITAMINS vs. SYNTHETIC VITAMINS
Are natural vitamins effective in the human body than synthetic ones? Chemically, vitamins are complex compounds whose structure is exactly the same whether they are extracted from foods or produced in a laboratory. And the effectiveness of vitamins is governed solely by whether or not the body needs them. In short, there's no difference except price.

Originally, all vitamins were extracted from foods. Gradually, however, as we have learned the chemical structures of these compounds, scientists have developed economical methods of synthesizing all but one of them—vitamin B12, which still cannot be artificially produced. It is made by growing bacteria and fungi on special materials.

Day to day, most of us who eat a balanced and varied enough diet still like to take a multivitamin supplement as added insurance. This is perfectly fine provided the amounts do not exceed the RDA for each vitamin. Serious problems may occur with massive doses of certain vitamins (particularly the fat-soluble vitamins A and D). Otherwise small excesses above what your body needs are simply excreted.

TV Star Scene

The first thing Bionic Woman Lindsay Wagner did when she heard Fred Silverman was packing his rating's lists and heading to NBC was send him a telegram. It read, "Dear Fred, I'm packing my bags." You'll recall Lindsay's derring-do was originally aired on ABC. That is until Silverman decided to cancel it... Bubbles, bubbles, toil and troubles: Syndicated stations are getting into soap operas now, too, with "High Hopes" beginning April 3 across the country. The show is taped in Toronto, with Bruce Gray playing a family counselor, and Barbara Kyle making like a talk show hostess.

One of America's oldest (90 in May) and best-loved composers, Irving Berlin, will be the subject of an all-star salute later this season. Among those honoring the composer of such classics as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "God Bless America" and "White Christmas" will be Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, Carol Burnett, Sammy Davis, Jr. and Oscar Peterson... The life of celebrated faith healer Kathryn Kuhlman will be chronicled in a two-hour NBC made-for-TV feature, based on Helen Koolman-hoster's biography and interviews with many of Kuhlman's followers. Perry Como is planning an Easter special for ABC. The first guest to be announced is Debby Boone... Anthony Perkins will play Mary Tyler Moore's husband in the CBS movie, "First You Cry." In the film Moore plays NBC correspondent Betty Rollin, who wrote a book about her mastectomy upon which the film is based.

Moving up in the ranks of TV actresses is Nancy Addison of daytime's Ryan's Hope. She'll move into prime-time in CBS's miniseries, "The Dain Curse," based on a novel by Dashiell Hammett and starring James Coburn, Hector Elizondo, Jason Miller, Ellis Rabb, Jean Simmons, Paul Stewart and Beatrice Straight.

Alan King is trying his hand at another comedy pilot for TV. This one will be called "Cool Breeze," a title derived from the Amos & Andy taxi company called "Fresh Air." The comedy written by Richard Wesley who authored the hit Sidney Poitier -- Bill Cosby film, "Uptown Saturday Night," concerns a gypsy cab company located in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. King says the script will try to emulate the free-wheeling humor of Amos & Andy, which King says was the funniest material ever heard on radio or TV.

FIRST LOVE
Pamela Sue Martin stars as a senior in an exclusive New England school for girls and Parker Stevenson portrays her boyfriend in "Death of Her Innocence" on NBC Monday Night at the Movies' March 13.

TV Star Scene

The first thing Bionic Woman Lindsay Wagner did when she heard Fred Silverman was packing his lists and heading to NBC was send him a telegram. It read, "Dear Fred, I'm packing my bags." You'll recall Lindsay's derring-do was originally aired on ABC. That is until Silverman decided to cancel it... Bubbles, bubbles, toil and troubles: Syndicated stations are getting into soap operas now, too, with "High Hopes" beginning April 3 across the country. The show is taped in Toronto, with Bruce Gray playing a family counselor, and Barbara Kyle making like a talk show hostess.

One of America's oldest (90 in May) and best-loved composers, Irving Berlin, will be the subject of an all-star salute later this season. Among those honoring the composer of such classics as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "God Bless America" and "White Christmas" will be Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, Carol Burnett, Sammy Davis, Jr. and Oscar Peterson... The life of celebrated faith healer Kathryn Kuhlman will be chronicled in a two-hour NEC made-for-TV feature, based on Helen Koiman-hosier's biography and interviews with many of Kuhlman's followers. Perry Como is planning an Easter special for ABC. The first guest to be announced is Debby Boone... Anthony Perkins will play Mary Tyler Moore's husband in the CBS movie, "First You Cry." In the film Moore plays NBC correspondent Betty Rollin, who wrote a book about her mastectomy upon which the film is based.

Moving up in the ranks of TV actresses is Nancy Addison of daytime's Ryan's Hope. She'll move into prime-time in CBS' miniseries, "The Dain Curse," based on a novel by Dashiell Hammett and starring James Coburn, Hector Elizondo, Jason Miller, Ellis Rabb, Jean Simmons, Paul Stewart and Beatrice Straight.

Alan King is trying his hand at another comedy pilot for TV. This one will be called "Cool Breeze," a title derived from the Amos & Andy taxi company called "Fresh Air." The comedy written by Richard Wesley who authored the hit Sidney Poitier - Bill Cosby film, "Uptown Saturday Night," concerns a gypsy cab company located in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. King says the script will try to emulate the free-wheeling humor of Amos & Andy, which King says was the funniest material ever heard on radio or TV.

TV Dialogue

IN LOVE — Could you please tell me all you can about Bruce Boxleitner of "How the West Was Won"? Like his age, birthday, likes and dislikes. And where can I write to him and maybe get a letter. B.N., Watertown, Conn.

Hope you're not too deeply in love because the object of your affections is married — to his co-star Kathryn Holcomb. But, that aside, I can tell you his birthday is May 12, the year is undisclosed, but figure him in mid to late 20s. Bruce is a real outdoors sort, likes backpacking, fishing and would probably be content to travel back in time to the winning of the West for real. He's 6'2", has green eyes and is from Elgin, Ill. Try writing him at ABC-TV, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, CA. 90067.

SOUL-MATE — My four-year-old daughter, Jennifer, loves David Soul of ABC's "Starsky & Hutch." Where can I write for photos and such? Mrs. Charles Plum, Martinsburg, W. Va.

She likes older men, I see. You can try writing in care of the show's producers, Spelling-Goldberg Productions, 20th Century Fox, 10100 Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, CA. 90213. But I can tell you that most poster shops carry posters and 8x10 glossy of Soul and Glaser. If there's none in your downtown area, try writing The L.A. Cinematheque, 104 S. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, CA.

BACHELOR STILL — Could you tell me the name of the man who starred in the series "Bachelor Father"? What is he doing these days? H.J.B., Gallipolis, Ohio.

You may be the only TV viewer in America who doesn't know that John Forsythe starred in "Bachelor Father." He is now the voice of Charlie on "Charlie's Angels." He never did get married.

NO. 1 SON — Did Pernell Roberts leave "Bonanza" before the series quit producing? Also is he still alive and acting? There is a discussion at work and we need to know. C.R. Barnicoat, Painesville, Ohio.

It's hard to believe but the Ponderosa was TV's number one spread for the Cartwrights for 14 years. Roberts, as son Adam, did, however, leave the show after six years. He's still alive, and acts from time to time in guest spots and in the theater. You may not recognize him, since he has a lot less hair on his head now.

HANK'S SAGA — Was there ever a movie made about Hank Williams. My mother seems to think there was but she can't remember who was in it. Maybe it was his son? Martha Willet, Moorhead, Minn.

George Hamilton gave what has probably been the best performance of his career as the ill-fated Williams in "Your Cheatin' Heart," a 1964 biography of the country boy who rose to stardom and died before he was 30. You're right in part about Williams' son: he performed the songs for the film.

Send your questions to TV Dialogue, Pepper O'Brien, NEA, 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Sorry but we can't answer by mail.

Trys to resurrect mom

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — James Milford, Boone County health administrator, said today that a Harrison man may receive a permit to move his mother's body to Missouri where he hopes she will be resurrected.

"If Missouri will accept the body, there is a possibility a transit permit and a disinterment permit will be issued," Milford said.

Charles Bell, director of the Missouri Bureau of Vital Records, indicated that the state would accept the body if Daniel Aaron Rogers obtains the proper permits.

"The person died in the state of Arkansas and therefore the laws in the state of Arkansas would have to govern," Bell said. "As long as they bring a permit from Arkansas, the local registrar will endorse it. There is nothing in Missouri that would preclude us from observing the Arkansas laws."

Rogers' mother, Gladys, died Feb. 2 at the age of 80. Rogers' wife, Elizabeth, said Gladys Rogers was packed in dry ice for six days after her death.

Rogers said the body was then placed in a home freezer which is now in possession of Milford.

Rogers, 41, said that if he gets the permit, the body will be moved to Reeds Spring, Mo. for the resurrection service.

"We're still hoping to hear from them (the Health Department) in a positive manner," Rogers said.

Rogers, who calls himself an interdenominational tent evangelist, said the only persons at the service would be himself and three other ministers — Harold Bogan of Harrison, Robert Taylor of Independence, Mo., and J. T. Williams of Pea Ridge.

Indian defends corner drunks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Sundance says he remembers getting drunk first when he was 3. He experienced the DTs by age 25 and, after drifting to Los Angeles in 1962, spent most of the next 15 years in and out of jail for public drunkenness.

The 6-foot-1 Sioux Indian was to be back in court today — sober this time and fighting for the rights of street-corner drunks.

Sundance and five others are plaintiffs in a suit which seeks to, erase public drunkenness from the criminal statutes through Eighth Amendment strictures against "cruel and unusual punishment."

The Center for Law in the Public Interest filed the suit in July 1975 and won at least a moral victory last December when Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harry Hupp declared in a preliminary ruling that current procedures "result in a widespread denial of due process" rights to those charged with public drunkenness.

In the hearings which start today, Hupp was to begin working out a final decree ordering changes in such practices as mass arraignments, effective denial of right to trial and adequate counsel, and lack of proper medical care and incarceration facilities.

It is no accident the suit has come to be known as the Sundance case. Although sober and arrest-free for almost two years, Sundance knows first hand what happens in Los Angeles County to the 200 persons a day hauled in drunk and unable to care for themselves.

Arrested 80 times from 1972 to 1976, he was released 24 times because the jail was too crowded. He spent 387 days in jail for the 38 times he pleaded guilty and even more time — 495 days — for the 18 times he pleaded innocent. In each case where he pleaded innocent the charges were dismissed.

Of 94,000 arrests for drunkenness in 1974-1976, Flynn said there were only three trials.

Sundance, who turned 51 last Sunday, lives at a rehabilitation center and spends most of his time lecturing on alcoholism.

Checks presented to band and choir

Adams, right. The organizations will use the money "as they see fit," said Floyd Sackett, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. The band and choir perform yearly at Chamber functions.

Rifle shot ruins transplants

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Melvin Gordon was dead only a few minutes before his body was found, but in those few minutes the purpose in his death perished as well.

His widow says it was a wish to give his kidneys to his ailing

Hospital repairs listed

The board of managers of Highland and McLean general hospitals will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Highland, 1224 N. Hobart, to consider needed plumbing repairs at Highland and an increase in income guidelines for free care services.

One section of the hospital, built in 1949, has plumbing that needs to be replaced, Highland administrator Guy Hazlett said Friday. The board will discuss whether the work should be done by an in-house engineer or be contracted out. No firm bids for the work have been received by the board.

Also to be discussed will be raising income guidelines for free hospital care, which the hospital provides under governmental guidelines. Hazlett said the board will consider raising the maximum family income for free care by eight or nine percent to provide for inflation.

The upgrading of an elevator to comply with standard set by the Commission on Hospital Accreditation also be discussed by the board.

The board will hear administrators' reports on financial operations for February and consider delinquent accounts receivable, necessary capital expenditures and physical therapy services.

Nine items are on the agenda. The next board meeting will be April 11.

loved all of his family very much," she said.

He also was apparently depressed about a seasonal furlough from his job as a boilermaker, said Mrs. Gordon.

Gordon, 38, put a rifle muzzle to his head and fired one shot. His body was found moments later, but kidneys for transplants must be taken from a body at the moment of death and kept filled with flowing blood to avoid tissue deterioration, said G. Michael Heinrich, a Sacred Heart Medical Center spokesman.

However, Gordon was carrying a donor's card. His corneas were taken for use by a local eye bank.

"Get my kidney with (sic) one hour," said a note pinned

ELECTRIC BILL

Sure cure for the worst kind of electric shock:

There are two ways to keep cool this summer. The big difference between them is operating cost.

The fact is that air conditioning uses four times as much electricity as evaporative cooling.

Which means that keeping cool and comfortable with evaporative cooling saves you 3 out of every 4 dollars you'd spend on electricity for air conditioning. Which is why we call our cooler The Miser.

A Miser costs much less to buy and much less to run than air conditioning. Even if you have air conditioning, using a Miser instead can save you a bundle.

The Miser: it takes the shock out of your electric bill.

Alpine

Evaporative cooling
It keeps you cool.
Without keeping you broke.
