The Last Political Rally Is Here Friday Night

Political speakings in Bailey county will be concluded with a big rally to be held at the high school building here Friday night to which people from all over the county are invited to attend. A big crowd is anticipated.

The Muleshoe high school band will play entertaining music before and after the speaking and will also sponsor a pie and box supper, receiving the proceeds for purchase of music and other needed equipment for the organization.

It is anticipated there will also be some district candidates and representatives of state candidates present to take part in the speakings.

HART CO. STORE IS BEING STREAMLINED

Workmen are this week completing "streamlining" of the E. R. Hart Co. store here.

All center partitions and shelving have been removed, tables, low drives and merchandising being substituted in their stead. Shelves are being placed against the south wall.

The improved effect is quite pronounced, furnishing better lighting for the entire double room and giving clear vision throughout the store from any given point.

Supt. Woods Points To His Rural Aid Record Proof

Austin, July 16.—State Superintendent of Public Instruction, L. A. Woods, stated today his opponent's attack on the manner in which the State Department of Education and the Joint Legislative Advisory committee have administered rural aid is not based upon the facts, for the record reveals that for the first time in history payments on Salary Aid have been 100 per cent of the grants, thus making it possible for most schools to pay the teachers in full by the close of the term.

Woods pointed out that the Joint Legislative Advisory committee in the Legislature that has been working with the State Department of Education in the distribution of Rural Aid funds has given the Department as lean slate, for in their January, 1940 meeting they passed a resolution, "expressing sincere thanks and appreciation to H. E. Robinson, chief of the Rural Aid division of the State Department of Education, for his efficient handling of all matters under the jurisdiction of this committee pertaining to his division, and his excellent administration of rural aid adjustments so as to bring the appropriations within the amount appropriated therefor, and for the cooperation of the Department of Education."

Woods pointed out that H. E. Robinson is a member of the State Department of Education and was assigned to this particular duty by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to serve as his personal representative in directing the work of the twenty-four Deputy State Superintendents in the distribution of their funds which amount to $2,353,377 annually for Salary Aid, $2,160,378 for Transportation Aid and $782,477 for Tuition Aid.

LAND MEASUREMENTS GOING RAPIDLY

Over 175,000 acres of the total 400,000 acres of farm land in Bailey county have been measured to date, according to J. C. Smith, AAA adjuster.

A few of 21 men are employed taking the measurements, while several girls are checking them for accuracy in the farm agents' office.

Approximately 30 percent of the farms are found to be in excess of their cotton allotments ranging from 1 of an acre up to 20.0 acres. Producers are given the opportunity to destroy excess cotton, provided that they do so within 10 days after they receive official notice they have exceeded their allotment.

GARDEN COURSE HELD AT TECH. LUBBOCK

A garden short course will be held at Tech college, Lubbock, August 2-4 at which time there will be informative addresses and discussions on all phases of gardening, horticulture, landscaping etc., lead by specialists from College Station and elsewhere.

Mrs. Lillie Gentry, Bailey county home demonstration agent, will be glad to give full information to those who wish to attend.

Tom Connally Says America For Peace Plus Preparedness

Declaring "The United States and its people are lovers of peace," and "we want no part in any European war." Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, in a radio broadcast by electric transcription from Washington Tuesday night, July 23rd, asserted: "The most imperative duty of the American people and of their servants in Congress is to adequately arm and prepare our nation in self-defense that our security may be secured."

"We have treasure that may well attract the ambition and the greed and the avarice of military masters and conquerors, who may seek to dominate the world," Senator Connally stressed, adding: "We are determined that none of them dominates the United States of America."

"Our security requires defense within as well as without," Senator Connally continued, saying: "All un-American activities must be stamped out. The fifth column must go."

Explaining inability to return to Texas this summer as has been his custom, Senator Connally said: "My post of duty is in Washington. Congress is in session. The most important and vital concerns of the American people are being considered. I think Congress should remain on duty. I shall remain on duty as long as the emergency requires."

America Has A Great Food Abundance In Case Of War

Since the dawn of history hunger and the fear of hunger have driven men to war. And nations have had to have food to defend themselves. No nation has ever been so secure in its supply of food and fiber as America is today. Never has a nation been given such a guarantee of abundance as that assured the United States by the American farmer.

America's granaries are full to overflowing with food and fiber, for America has the Ever-Normal granary that stores the abundance of fat years against any possible scarcity in the lean years. The Ever-Normal granary is on millions of farms, in thousands of roadside bins and in countless elevators and warehouses.

Wheat and corn and cotton to feed and clothe the multitudes are there. Three times the normal supply of wheat has been put into this storage, and added to the new crop it gives us more than a billion bushels for the coming year—half as much as we would normally consume.

The Ever-Normal granary for corn holds three times the usual carry-over, and the corn means pork and lard, beef and mutton, milk and butter, poultry and eggs.

If there were a cotton crop failure, we should not go without because the Ever-Normal granary now has more than a full year's supply.

The American farmer is the most efficient on earth and he now has the most efficient storage system on earth. America's bursting bins of food and fiber are the farmers' reply to the bursting shells in Europe. Come what may, the American farmer with his Ever-Normal Granary is ready for the defense.

FOR SUBSTITUTE CLERK IN LOCAL POST OFFICE

Occasioned by advancement of the Muleshoe post office from third to second class, a civil service examination is called by the Postal Department, Washington, D. C., for a substitute clerkship to be filled in this office.

Applicants for this position must be over 18 and under 48 years of age of good health, good eyesight and have certain educational qualifications. Applications for the examination will be received up to August 15.

Full details of the opening and requirements may be obtained of A. J. Gardner, local postmaster.

JIM ALSUP DRUG STORE IN LITTLEFIELD

Jimmy Alsup, well known in Muleshoe, who for several months past has been employed at the Stokes Drug store in Littlefield, last week purchased the Hotel Drug Co. store there and has taken charge. He has employed a registered pharmacist to handle the prescription end of the business.

Jimmy has many friends here who wish him full success in his new business venture. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Alsup, this city.

Evangelists Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Flowers

THEY BEGIN A TWO WEEKS REVIVAL HERE AT THE METHODIST CHURCH. EVERYONE IS INVITED TO ATTEND

With approximately 25 years of successful experience in the evangelistic field back of them, both of them excellent speakers and efficient musicians, with hundreds of pastor and lay endorsements for the very excellent spiritual services rendered churches and people in numerous towns all over this great Southwest, these people come to Muleshoe fully prepared in their chosen field of labor to give of their very best during the coming evangelistic service. Muleshoe folks will miss much from every service they fail to attend.

Bailey County Gets From Under No. 1 Road District Debt, Receiving Also $61,272 And Other Credits

County Judge M. G. Miller has received information from the Board of County and District Road indebtedness that Road District No. 1 bonds had been assumed by that board and that Bailey county will receive an additional $62,728.50 in cash as her portion of the surplus as set aside by the Road Assumption law passed by the last legislature.

It will be recalled this bill was introduced in the legislature by the County Judges and Commissioners Association, of which the Bailey county judge was a member of the committee which drafted the bill and labored for its passage in pres-

Bailey C. o. Council Makes Plans For County Fair

The Bailey County home demonstration council met in regular session in the agent's office Monday, July 22, with six clubs represented.

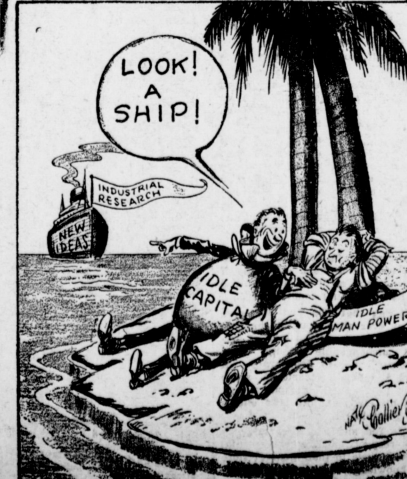

The council decided that since so many events of importance were coming in August, that the county wide picnic which had been previously planned would not be held.

The agent gave a list of entries in canned products for the Bailey county fair to be held September 20 and 21. The list includes one quart each of beets, string beans, snap peas, carrots, tomatoes, tomato juice, soup mixture, cucumber pickles plums, peaches, cherries, cherry plums, apples, pears, grapes, grape juice and strawberries.

Those to be exhibited in pints or containers include: English peas, greens, corn—whole grain and cream, sweet pepper and vegetable relish.

Those to be exhibited in pints or quarts include squash, asparagus, and rhubarb.

TO THE RESCUE

First Cotton Parity Payment Is Made 300,000 Is Total

College Station, July 23.—First certifications have been made of Texas cotton parity payments under the 1940 AAA program. Approximately 300,000 applications, totaling $25,000,000, for cotton parity payments are anticipated.

Parity payments on wheat meanwhile, are almost complete with 46,468 applications, totaling $3,375,963, paid from an estimated 47,000 applications for $3,400,000.

Parity payments are distinct from conservation payments and are designed to restore to the agricultural producer a portion of the difference between what he receives for his product and what is considered a fair return on the basis of what he must pay for the products of other industries. Parity payments on cotton are made at the rate of 155 cents per pound of the normal yield of cotton, rice at the rate of 9.3 cents per hundredweight, and wheat at the rate of 10 cents per bushel.

MELODY MAKERS TO PLAY SAT. NITE

While election returns are coming into Muleshoe from all over Bailey county, the Muleshoe Melody Makers orchestra will play, and there will also be several vocal numbers and other interesting features on Main street.

All visitors here that evening are invited to enjoy the program.

Farmers Can't Put Up With "Pool" Years Now

College Station, July 23.—Farmers today cannot stand "pool" years as well as they could 15 years ago.

When a portion of soil fertility is lost, when buildings become so badly in need of repair that they do not serve adequately the purpose for which they were constructed, when machinery and equipment are in need of repair, and when workstock attains an age which reduces working efficiency, the decreased production of these factors must be matched by increased efficiency from some other source if crop and livestock production is to be maintained at a profitable level over a period of years.

According to C. Hohn, specialist in soil conservation, and Tyrus R. Timm, economist in farm management, both with the A. and M. College Extension Service, this gradual deterioration in equipment and improvements has been happening on thousands of farms in Texas.

These specialists point out that each year there is a normal repair charge which should be made against buildings, machinery and equipment even if no cash were expended. In the same way there is a normal replacement cost each year in workstock and breeding stock as well as for the soil.

This indicates that the maintenance of a fair standard of living on Texas farms during the past decade to a large degree came at the expense of original resources, past accumulations, and prospective earnings. Profits are needed even to maintain present standards.

Though county land use planning committees are being organized in districts and other farmer-controlled organizations rural people are now attacking these problems themselves, with the assistance of various state and federal agencies.

COLORED BROTHERN ASSISTED REV. SHARP

Rev. Jim Sharp, former Muleshoe pastor, now stationed at Littlefield as pastor of the Methodist church, has always been friendly toward the religious aspirations of negroes, devoting much time while here to their spiritual improvement, and has continued such work in Littlefield.

Rev. Sharp is also in the midst of a building program there, wherein he is erecting the superstructure over the Methodist church basement that has existed for the past 10 or 12 years.

In the spirit of reciprocity, several colored folks, realizing Sharp's need of workmen, volunteered their assistance last week and put in several days helping dig out some of the foundation trenches.

By way of rebuttal appreciation, Sharp went down town and bought a big bunch of grub for the dinner of the colored workmen, while some of their women folks came over and did the cooking. Rev. Jim says "we niggers all sure had a great time."

A cold storage locker plant was completed and formally opened at Amberst last Saturday.

Roosevelt, Henry Wallace Head The Democratic Tick't

President Roosevelt, deciding that in a time of public danger he could not turn his "back upon a call to service," accepted a third term nomination from a Democratic convention which amid boos and cheers chose Secretary Henry A. Wallace for his running mate.

While fully 20,000 persons sat in a midnight hush in Chicago Stadium, the President took them by radio from the White House that "only the people themselves can draft a President."

"If such a draft be made upon me, I say in the utmost simplicity I will with God's help continue to serve with the fullness of my strength," he said.

But he explained, as had Mrs. Roosevelt an hour or so earlier, that the times were so fraught with danger that he would be able to do little campaigning.

He said all he never be loathe," he said, "to call the attention of the nation to deliberate or unwitting falsifications of fact which are sometimes made by political candidates."

He said all the needs of human security had not been met; much more needed to be done. But, he added, "progress along free lines is gravely endangered by what is happening to other continents."

Cotton Classing In Bailey Co. Will End August 15

August 15 is the deadline for receiving applications for free cotton classing in Bailey county.

The service is available to one-vary cotton associations and other organized cotton improvement groups, and gives farmers the correct grades and staple on their cotton, together with official market prices.

Instructions and forms for making applications may be obtained from county agricultural agents, Texas office of the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are located in Dallas, Austin and El Paso.

In 1939, 287 cotton improvement groups in Texas and 106 in Oklahoma availed themselves of the service.

Efforts are being made in Bailey county for organizing cotton improvement communities regardless of the variety planned, since classification now is not confined to any particular variety. About 260 applications have already been received at the local AAA office.

$17 GIVEN AWAY BY CHAMBER COMMERCE

From some unknown reason the Capital Trades Day award was not made last Saturday since no one present responded to the names called.

Other awards made were Mrs. Nugent July $5.00; Roland Bigham, $3.00; Ernest Lambert, $3.00; E. J. Gully, $2.00 and Mrs. Walter Witte $2.00.

It is announced that total awards offered for next Saturday will be $45, the big plum being for $30.00.

COCHRAN COUNTY TO VOTE ON LIQUOR

Petitions are now being circulated in Cochran county asking for an election to determine whether beer and hard liquor sales shall continue.

That county has voted for the past three years. At an election held last year, it remained wet by four votes.

It is expected the coming vote will be sometime in September.

BUFFET SUPPER IS GIVEN FOLK BAND

A buffet supper is to be served at the school center Thursday night (tonight) of this week for benefit of the local high school band. It is given under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

All business men are invited to bring their wives, sweethearts or friends, as the case may be and enjoy the evening.

Peace Is Restored

By JANE FIELDING
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

TED SANDERS had come to this little mountain town in California for peace and atmosphere...

Flo Donegan lived in a cozy cottage next door, and her screened-in living room was directly opposite his study windows.

Terrence (the dog), and Pom-Pom (the cat), were not quiet and self-effacing neighbors; they found life monotonous without a daily scrap.

Not infrequently Ted and Flo became involved in the scrimmages. With the first weapon ready at hand Flo would fly to the rescue of the beloved Pom-Pom...

How could a man concentrate under such conditions? Back into his study he would stamp, and try to settle down to the task upon which he was engaged.

One day things came to a climax. An unusually vigorous and vociferous row had been staged by Terrence and Pom-Pom...

A quick glance around revealed to him a mighty pretty room, with books, books galore...

Flo, between breaths, had thought that he might even be interesting. This thought was immediately swallowed up in fury at his suggestion concerning her Pom-Pom.

Flo and Ted took it all in at a glance, then their eyes met in mutual understanding of the situation. By George! but she was pretty when she smiled...

A whiff from the kitchen broke the spell. They dined together that night, while Terrence and Pom-Pom, at peace with the world and with each other, waited expectantly.

In fact, on many more evenings the four of them dined together, and there were long talks, not alone upon scientific subjects...

But Ted and Flo lived to enjoy and respect each other's mental contributions to their general store of knowledge...

Beware of Poisoning From Food, Warns State Dr. Cox

Austin, July 23.—"Sporadic outbreaks of food poisoning over the state in the past few weeks demonstrate the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving."

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food prepared hours before serving and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for bacteria.

"Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials and in some cases from certain types of bacteria which spread rapidly and are not necessarily associated with filthy conditions.

"Picnic food is particularly susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have fresh clean food, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare the food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it.

"If food is prepared far in advance of its use, cook it thoroughly and keep it refrigerated or otherwise protected at a temperature under 50 degrees F. until you are ready to use it.

"Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed on the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as over-eating, help to bring them about.

With a margin of only four votes over the required two-thirds majority, approved establishment of a soil conservation district of 376,120 acres.

Woods Denies That Koetter Connected With State Dept.

Austin, July 22.—No member of any band is employed by the State Department of Education, nor has one ever been employed by the department, State Sup't. L. A. Woods declared today.

Supt. Woods condemned his opponent's tactics of trying to destroy public confidence in the schools and teachers in a desperate effort to get into office.

"My opponent, in a mud-slinging campaign, has tried to connect me with a Mr. H. Koetter, who is supposed to be the head of some kind of German society in Houston," Supt. Woods said. "He was never hired by me or any of my assistants." "Koetter was employed by the Houston school system several years ago as a vocational education instructor in painting and decorating.

"That is the extent of Koetter's connection with the department." "Don't walk all over Muleshoe looking for bargains. Read the ads in the Journal!"

Economic Data On American Beer

Recently published study shows U. S. beer has developed a nationally distributed business volume of more than 7 billion dollars since its legalization in 1933. The industry pays more than $500 a minute in taxes to the Federal government alone.

Beer Pays Million Dollar Daily Taxes

BEER has become a revenue producer of more than a million dollars a day for the Federal state and local governments—more than $500 a minute to the U. S. Treasury alone—according to official figures in "Beer and Brewing in America," the 1935 edition of the industry's economic textbook.

Federal taxes, which totaled $274,155 for the fiscal year 1935, have exceeded $1,300,000,000 for the five and one-half years since relegalization of beer, in April 1933, while state and local fees have totaled another half-billion. Thus public revenues for the five and one-half years have exceeded the aggregate for the 25 years prior to prohibition, when beer sales were even higher.

Mothers Learn What Daughters Think About Them

Mothers are learning to see themselves as their daughters see them as Texas 4-H club girls make frank and earnest efforts to improve family relations. For example, several club girls recently were asked to list "Things I Wish My Mother Wouldn't Do." Here are some of the answers:

"I wish my mother wouldn't worry so much about hard times. It doesn't improve the times, and keeps the family blue and depressed."

"I wish my mother wouldn't willingly mend my hose and sew on my buttons, but would see that I do it."

"I wish my mother would not wear ragged and unbecoming house dresses."

"I wish that my mother would not spend so much time and money trying to look younger. After all, she's my mother and not my sister."

"My mother seems to think that all my friends are interested in knowing what I was like when I was little, so whenever they come, she entertains them with stories about the cute things I said and did when I was small. I wish she'd find another topic of conversation."

These answers reveal that adolescents think more seriously about their parents, attitudes and actions than these parents generally realize. They reveal, too, that most young people do not want to be pampered but desire intelligent guidance in learning to do for themselves.

SAVING MONEY With Cotton Bags

A vanity table for the guest room or for your own boudoir makes a very attractive and useful piece of furniture. Expert workmanship and expensive material are not required. The dainty vanity cover pictured was made from laundered cotton bags—left their natural white and bound with colored bias tape. Curtains made of the same material, cotton bags, are edged with colored bias fringe.

Complete instructions for making, together with other Cotton Bag Sewing Ideas are contained in an illustrated free booklet. Send to National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis, or Textile Bags, 100 N. LaSalle St., Chicago. Extra cotton bags may be obtained from your nearest baker or department store.

The wheat loan feature of the AAA program is very popular with wheat producers at this time. Twenty loans have been completed by the Bailey county office involving a loan of $1,115.55 to such producers.

For the Love of Pete

By LEROY W. GORE
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service)

THE slim, blonde girl stood in front of Frederickson's market writing diligently on a pad of paper. The broad-shouldered young man in the doorway of Lippincott's grocery across the street took careful aim with a large potato. The potato sent the pad and pencil spinning from the girl's hand. She gasped in astonishment, picked up the potato and scurried behind a post.

Papa Lippincott, waddling down the street from the corner cafe where Mr. Daniels of the Mammoth Retailers' Alliance had indulged in his mid-afternoon cup of coffee, laughed boisterously. "Serves her right!" he told Daniels. "That Paula Frederickson is a snapper like her old man. Always capping out prices off the windows so they can cut us a few cents."

Young Pete Lippincott started up the ladder in front of the store. "Very neat marksmanship, young man," the dapper Mr. Daniels approved. "What are you building here?"

The pillar of canned corn beside the entrance was already 10 feet high. "We have a canned goods special each Saturday, sir," Pete explained. "Dad borrowed this pillar idea from one of the city stores. It attracts a lot of attention."

Across the street Paula Frederickson was pulling apart the two halves of a potato, rejoined neatly with a match. On one of the halves was written, "Meet me at the Inn tonight, seven o'clock."

For twenty years Lippincott of Lippincott's grocery and Frederickson of Frederickson's market had faced each other across Main street without a good word. Both would probably have suffered a stroke of apoplexy if they had guessed the romantic inclinations of their children.

But Papa Lippincott was happy enough as he fixed his signature to a check for $5,000 and handed it to Mr. Daniels. The check paid for fifty shares of stock in the Mammoth Retailers' Alliance and, according to the contract which Mr. Daniels had just handed him, entitled Papa to "an additional ten per cent discount on all goods purchased from said firm."

"Let old man Frederickson snoop around after my prices now," Papa Lippincott exulted.

Mr. Daniels consulted his wrist watch. "I must be on my way. I'm due in Chicago tomorrow morning."

In the meantime Paula Frederickson had halved a potato from the Frederickson stock, and written her reply to Pete's messages: "I'll be there, sweetheart." Across the street Pete had clamped a heavy basket to the ladder, and was transferring cans to the top of the pillar. It was Paula's intention to toss the potato into the basket, but her aim was woefully amiss. The potato struck Pete squarely between the shoulders. He jumped, uttered a cry of pain, surprise and the ladder scraped dangerously along the wall toward the carefully constructed pillar.

Mr. Daniels, choosing this unfortunate moment to make his exit, was buried beneath an avalanche of tin cans. When they removed him he was considerably bruised and quite, quite unconscious.

"I ain't blaming you for throwing that potato," Papa Frederickson was telling Paula next evening. "I wouldn't blame you if you threw a brick at Lippincott's dumb-headed boy, but why did you do it?"

Paula sighed wearily. "Just a silly notion. What were the damages to Mr. Daniels?"

"Three busted ribs and a fractured leg. He won't be out of the hospital for quite a spell."

Paula wondered what damages Mr. Daniels would claim.

But the most crushing blow of all was the way Pete had run out on her. She'd seen him hurry down the street even before the crowd gathered. Likely he was still in hiding, fearful that Paula might confess she hadn't thrown the potato at him maliciously, as everyone supposed. He needn't be afraid she would drag him into the case. She wasn't anxious to confess her love for a sneaking coward. But Paula couldn't swallow the lump in her throat.

And suddenly Pete was in the library. Pete! hatless, his hair mussed, but grinning widely.

Papa was on his feet, angry. "See here, young man! Ain't you Lippincott's caused us enough trouble?"

But Pete's eyes were on Paula. "Darling!" he cried. "You're a heroine!"

Paula stared at him, completely bewildered.

A flood of words tumbled from Pete. "I got suspicious of this man Daniels the minute I heard he'd kicked dad for five thousand. I hopped a plane to Chicago and talked to the president of the Mammoth Retailers' Alliance. Daniels is wanted by the police in dozens of places. He collected a half million this week with his stockselling racket. And the reward for his capture is $5,000. . . Oh, Paula, if you hadn't thrown that potato—" "Tell me, Paula," Papa interrupted, "why did you throw that potato?"

Paula was giggling hysterically. "For the love of Pete!"

Seven County Picnic At Buffalo Lakes Sat. August 3

There will be an old-fashioned get-together, reunion and picnic for the ex-residents of Hill, Johnson, Ellis, Navarro, Bosque, Hamilton and Erath counties at Buffalo Springs Lakes near Lubbock off the Slaton Highway, Saturday, August 3. Every ex-resident and his family in West Texas is invited to come, bring a well-filled picnic basket, and all will have dinner on the ground together. There will be no charges for the use of Buffalo lakes premises for this day, and this old-fashioned picnic will not be commercialized in any way. Every citizen and his family in West Texas formerly living in one of the above named counties is most cordially invited to come with a basket, renew old acquaintances and make new acquaintances in the old-fashioned way.

There will be no formal program. In the morning from 9:00 till 12:00 those who come will visit with each other and swap stories of their past from Central Texas. From 12:00 till 2:00 the committee hopes that an old-fashioned dinner (bring your own basket) on the ground may be spread out and the families of all ex-residents can partake of the fried chicken, cakes and pies of their neighbors in days gone by. In the afternoon from 2:00 till 5:00 there will be swimming and boating for those who desire. There will be old-fashioned speaking (non-political) from pioneer ex-resident citizens from these counties. The general theme of the speaking will be a recounting of past history in Central Texas and what such ex-residents of these counties have done and are doing in the progress of West Texas.

FOR CONGRESS

He has remained at his post of duty in Washington during our grave national emergency with a firm resolve to serve the Nation in every possible way regardless of political considerations.

Congress is still in session and he is working for a program of strong national defense and a foreign policy designed to keep our Nation out of war. He is the only Texan on the Appropriations Committee and he has a vital part in the national defense program.

He has served the 10th District faithfully and efficiently throughout his term in office and has acquired a place of influence in the House of Representatives.

He has worked for and voted for legislation to promote the best interests of the District and the Nation.

He has given prompt and diligent cooperation on the many community and individual requests made by the people of the District.

Let's give George Mahon an overwhelming vote of confidence in Saturday's Primary. He will deeply appreciate it.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.—Ephesians 6:8.
Blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds, and though late, a sure reward succeeds.—Congreve.

GROWING OLD?

One fashionable argument in favor of increased government meddling in business has been the opinion advanced by some "liberal" economists that this country's business structure has "arrived at maturity." In other words, it is argued that business can no longer take care of its problems of idle capital and idle manpower unless government steps in and "helps."

The London Economist recently paused long enough in the midst of the problems of a nation at war to take a pot shot at this theory. As an impartial and learned observer, his words are worth listening to. Here's what the Economist says: "If the United States, with its inexhaustible natural resources, its rising population, is a mature economy, what is Great Britain? And yet our 'decadent' economy has contracted, during the war, when America was standing still, to go ahead as fast as on the average of the great Victorian era of expansion."

"The American economy seems to have forgotten, for the moment, how to grow. But the probable explanation of this economic anemia is to be found not in any arrival at 'maturity,' but rather in the existence of institutional obstruction to free flow of capital."
Perhaps, as the Economist broad-hints, the reason that business industry have not gone ahead rapidly in recent years can be traced right back to the interference of those theorists in government and politics who believe that America is growing old and who misguidedly legislate and react against industry on that basis.

A WORD FOR BUSINESS

The editorial columns of the nation's papers perhaps pay too little homage to the business man. We refer to the average man engaged in average community like Muleshoe, who helps the town and his neighbors, tries to weather each economic storm that hits, hopes to his own and his family's ledger everybody's satisfaction. The head of the boss having the time is past. It is the headachy business men to meet present regulations imposed by state nation, of union demands, of king markets, of budgets and she-sts, of innumerable tax wage and hour laws.

Business is called upon to local projects, is asked to file and sponsor a number of programs. He enters into it with public spirit although the and responsibilities of his have increased to where become quite a burden. has made business more complex that is to be expected since is so much more of it, covered territory and concerned individuals. The troubles of his business men have been heard and his plea for consideration registered. He may be under-paid and over taxed, but he will not be unappreciated by this column.

A tribute to the honest business man who backs the nation with his economic bit and who helps to make this a country of individuals.

HEAVY READING

Perhaps the principal reason they call them the rising generation, in Muleshoe, is because they don't do any too much retiring.
Muleshoe folks who are not as big fools as they look, at least have something for which to be thankful.

Why doesn't someone make a list of the 10 worst-dressed women, the 10 most egotistical men and the 10 loudest books in Muleshoe?
So far we haven't heard any of the Bailey county candidates for office speak of the "prosperity around the corner" angle.

Some folks in Muleshoe get the greatest pleasures from a vacation in telling about it when they get back home.

A Muleshoe father returning home the other day told his wife he had paid the last $10 on their baby. "Then," exclaimed the wife joyfully, "it's really ours now, isn't it?"

A Muleshoe father hearing a terrible crash in the front room the other night hurriedly rushed in to find his favorite rocking chair smashed on the floor. "It just suddenly collapsed," said the daughter; but neither one of us was hurt.

The Land Where Hate Should Die

This is the land where hate should die—
No feuds of faith, no spleen of race,
No darkly brooding fear should try
Beneath our flag to find a place.
Lo! every people here has sent
Its sons to answer freedom's call;
Their lifeblood is the strong cement
That build and binds the nation's wall.

This is the land where hate should die—
This is the land where strife should cease,
Where foul, suspicious fear should fly
Before our flag of light and peace.
Then let us purge from our hearts
Thought
That service to the state we give,
And so be worthy as we ought
Of this great land in which we live!

Plants Used as Narcotics
Two interesting plants used as narcotics or stimulants are the poppy and tobacco. Chinese originated opium smoking and the Indians tobacco smoking. Tea was supposed to prevent drowsy, to overcome weakness, to vanquish superfluous sleep, to purify a person's humor and a hot liver. A Japanese tea room is generally kept bare and simple. One poet describes drinking tea as follows: the first cup moistens the throat, the second relieves loneliness, the third revives memories of books and stimulates him to write new ones, the fourth causes sweating, the fifth completes purification, six summons him to the gods, and the seventh welcomes him into their presence.

"SUCH NICE SUDS"

"Such nice suds!" Ever hear your mother say that, looking at a wash tub full of warm soapy suds? You did, you know what happened. A thoughtful look came into her eyes as she lifted some of the suds. "I guess I'll just put that slip cover off the big one," or "I've been wanting to wash those blankets on Jim's bed" and off she'd go to fetch that something extra that had no place in that week's washing but was now included because she couldn't bear to waste those nice suds.

Perfect suds weren't easy to obtain in the days of rain barrels, stove-top water heating and home made soap. That perfect combination of hot water and properly made soap, that every good housekeeper Intoxicating?

The beauty of this scene is, although it's only a giant wine glass of pure spring water being offered you by lovely Fay Lacey, one of the 1940 Fair's Golden Forties Girls on Treasure Island, who is adding California's wine industry.

knows loosens dirt as if by magic, didn't always happen when water was hand dipped or hand pumped and every quart of it heated on the big boiler it took two people to lift to the top of the cook stove; when the sway backed cake of home made soap had to be shaved and soaked in a small amount of water before it could go into the tub full of water or into the hand-power washing machine.

A tub full of warm suds was to be used to the limit no matter if that extra blanket meant an hour's extra hard work for a woman already worn out with the week's accumulation of dirty clothes.

But now a day's nice suds are taken for granted and the young woman I heard use the expression the other day didn't hesitate to let a big porcelain tub full of live, sparkling suds go down the drain pipe.

She was dressed in blue slacks and a faded, but becoming rose blouse and there was a blue ribbon round her fair short hair. She was almost done with the washing that morning when I dropped in to see her and was as fresh as a daisy, planning a picnic with her husband and children for that afternoon. She was putting the last of the colored clothes through the electric wringer when I invaded her basement wash room and as she reached for the last garment, she lifted some of the suds in her fresh, pink-nailed hand and made that old fashioned remark.

"But then," she shrugged her slim shoulders as she reached down to pull out the plug—"I have so much good hot water that with these soap flakes I always get nice suds. So what's the difference?"

In that one little remark, was the whole story of what our modern industrial system has meant to the women of America.

200-Mile Ditch Trap for Tanks

New French Defense Extends From Maginot Line To English Channel.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY.—The French army has dug a 200-mile anti-tank ditch along the Belgian border from Luxembourg to the English channel as part of an extension of the Maginot line. It was completed far ahead of schedule.

The ditch follows the Belgian border and is supported by gun casemates, thick beds of barbed wire, and a parallel system of anti-tank rails. The defense line replaces an ineffective system of forts smothered by German armies in 1914. Decision to fortify the zone was made after March 7, 1938, when Hitler denounced the Locarno treaty and ordered his troops to occupy the Rhineland.

Series of Forts Built.

The French first constructed a series of forts between the Moselle river and the channel. The forts were completed and occupied before the war began in September.

The anti-tank ditch, wide as a canal, was projected when France recognized the potential threat of a German invasion of Belgium and Holland, and the entire system was completed in two years.

Regardless of the variety of the terrain of the south Belgian border, the system is a good example of fortification in all sectors. It consists of deeply dug advanced machine-gun nests, followed by a "preliminary resistance" line. This chief feature is the anti-tank ditch backed by pillboxes and casemates, protected by a thick underbrush of barbed wire. The profusion of these casemates surprised correspondents who had expected a line of forts at fairly distant intervals.

The chief advantage, in addition to the obvious difficulty of crashing through the system, is the economy of manpower. The depth of the defensive system reduces the number of infantry combat trenches, a revolutionary development since the World war, and does not require large masses of infantry to hold exposed positions. These positions now are protected by well-placed machine gun nests which cover important tactical fields of fire.

Hold Them Up, Then Retreat.

After fulfilling their mission of holding up the vanguard, advance post troops fall back upon the "preliminary resistance" line. This chief feature is the anti-tank ditch backed by pillboxes and casemates, protected by a thick underbrush of barbed wire. The profusion of these casemates surprised correspondents who had expected a line of forts at fairly distant intervals.

Life After 40 Called Happier If One Works

PHILADELPHIA.—If you wish to enjoy life after 40, Dr. Edward L. Bortz, chief of medical service at Lankenau hospital, prescribes the following rules:

1. Eat sparingly, including more fruit.
2. Drink two quarts of water daily.
3. Rest the body, nerves, intellect and emotions.
4. Forget about your worries.
5. Avoid consuming fires of hatred and jealousy, causes of high blood pressure.
6. Keep your sense of humor and have a good time.
7. Cultivate friendships with the young; you have much to learn from youth.
8. Grow a little every day intellectually.
9. Read as widely as possible.
10. Never retire. It is far better to wear out than rust.

Los Angeles Red-Faced Over Tourist Bureau Aid

LOS ANGELES.—Los Angeles county supervisors got a shock when informed they had unwittingly been sponsoring an undesirable "tourist bureau" which permitted thousands of people to enjoy a vacation in California at no expense to themselves but at considerable to the county. The formula of operation, it was said, was as follows:

"Thumb your way to California; sign up for county indigent relief; after a pleasant California vacation, get a county-paid free ticket home."

That is the system that has been employed for returning unemployed persons to their home states.

Boston Grocer Posts Old Debtors' Bills

BOSTON.—Louis Rubenstein, an East Boston grocer, created a neighborhood commotion when he introduced a new and drastic method of collecting bills.

He said he found that nearly 1,000 had been owed him over a span of years, so he posted the names of several of the debtors on a placard and placed it in the store window.

Rubenstein said two persons, seeing the neighbors grouped around the window, rushed in and paid old bills within a half-hour after the placard appeared. He said he plans to post a new list each day.

SAVING MONEY With Cotton Bags

A fresh white collar will bring your last year's frock right up to the minute. Lingerie touches to your suit or dress are smart and new this spring. Make any number of collar and cuff sets from a cotton bag that originally contained flour, sugar or other staples. The material in a cotton bag is gleaming white—and with a little starch added looks like linen. Cut your collar the desired size and shape and simply edge with hand-made lace or an inch-wide ruffle. Or a white vestee for your tailored suit can be made from one small cotton bag. Extra bags may be obtained from your nearest baker or department store.

Other Cotton Bag Sewing ideas are illustrated in a free booklet sent to National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis, or Textile Bags, 100 No. LaSalle St., Chicago.

REV. HAMILTON'S MOTHER DIED TUESDAY MORNING

Mrs. David Hamilton, 74, resident of the South Plains area for the past 35 years and mother of Rev. F. B. Hamilton, Baptist pastor this city, died last Tuesday morning at her home in Littlefield.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Plainview, conducted by Rev. J. F. Nix, Baptist pastor. Abernathy and Rev. C. J. McCarty, Lubbock, interment being made in Plainview cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter and five sons.

First World Cruises

The first world cruise was more than 400 years ago when one of Magellan's ships with 18 men aboard finished the voyage without Magellan, who had been killed in the Philippines. Drake's Golden Hind made a similar cruise 60 years later.

Saint John's Wort (Hypericum) is supposed to show red spots on August 29, the day St. John was beheaded, says a writer in the Rural New-Yorker. It is supposed to keep away evil spirits, ghosts or thunderbolts, and if hung in the bedroom of a young maid she can dream of her future husband.

WEEKLY LAY SERMON
GOD'S FLOWER GARDEN
DEDICATED TO EVANGELISTS MR. AND MRS. R. L. FLOWERS
By JESS MITCHELL

This world is full of weeds and flowers. Botanists tell us, however, that many of these growing noxious pests are really just abused flowers, and in many instances, have proven their contentment by developing some of these ugly weeds with foul-smelling blossoms into beautiful fragrant flowers much sought after by modern gardeners.

Each time and money is spent by many people in cultivating flower gardens. Shakespeare one time said "this world is a stage on which everyone is a actor," and I would also have you to believe this world is a garden in which everyone is a weed or a flower. It is the desire of the Great Gardener that all should bring forth sweet-smelling fragrance; but alas, many are only foul-smelling weeds.

Some of the flowers of this garden are quite wholesome and sincere, but their efforts are sometimes stunted and meagre in returns. It is not for lack of ambition or desire; but because they have been planted in poor soil. There has been many a sturdy sunflower planted in sterile soil, that has done its best to grow tall and beautiful, but has been terribly handicapped because of unfavorable surroundings. I think they will be appreciated by the Great Gardener just as much for their wholesome efforts regardless of the mediocre results. Circuit riders of years gone by have wandered over much territory in their efforts to bring gladness to human lives. Evangelists, like rambling roses, have spread over a great area, here and there clinging to some particular spot, fastening their tendrils for a little while that they may gather buds and blossoms, then letting go and grasping tenaciously to another spot for a little while as they spread forth their fragrance in another community. Some have wandered loosely over much ground, spreading their branches in heterogenous manner, while others have had more training to trellises of orthodoxy, and their cultural spiritual influences are far beyond the ken of human understanding. Wherever they have wandered they have left behind them a fragrance and a beauty, a radiance and an influence which is more than perennal, much of it lasting throughout eternity. I find in this garden are little snowdrops, dainty in their beauty, but so cold-looking they become but a phase of winter. They are those folks who are very exact and precise in their tastes, who never get excited about anything, never manifest any emotion, their pulses never flutter, their nerves never twitch. No matter what happens, they are always quite calm and rational, cool and collected in their manifestations. Their actions are never tempered by any crescendo or accelerando. It is said, "it takes all kinds of people to make a world," so I presume it takes all kinds of flowers to fill a garden, and these little snowdrops have a steady influence in times of stress. They neither swell nor diminish. They are never frustrated. They never change color. They are unfailingly dependable—always just snowdrops. There are some century plants in this garden. Slow and methodical, it takes them a long time to do anything. They blossom but once in a hundred years, and that blossom does not last for long. They take from ten to twenty years to grow a single leaf and whole weeks or month or more to develop a single petal. I have seen but few century plants, the last one, occupying a place in the show window of a store, was closely watched by hundreds of people for several weeks before it finally came to full blossom. It was wonderfully beautiful when it did arrive at full bloom; but it was so parsimonious. Frankly, I think much more of the little daisies that put on their golden necklaces every springtime. No garden is quite complete without some trees, and in the selection of these much good judgement must be used. They should be pronounced for either their shade or fine fruitage. The old pear the shade beneath which to rest as the period of otage arrives and the young need the stimulating effect of the delicious sustaining fruit. The most choice of all beautiful plants should be in the Garden of God—those growing the fruits of patience, charity, generosity and integrity should always be found there. The gardener invariably cuts down and uproots any tree that fails of its promise to produce the anticipated luscious fruit of its kind. Religion is no mere flowering sentimentality. It is a genuinely healthful, practical, life-giving spiritual substance which permeates the sap gathered by every member of the human kingdom, giving pronounced characteristics that produce increased strength, growth and beauty for unnumbered years. The cultivation of all these Christian graces laid the cornerstones of all hospitals, all infirmaries, all asylums and all homes for comfort of the aged and afflicted. These humanitarian graces cultivated in this garden have produced a glorious fruitage. I well know there are trees that sometimes need to be uprooted and weeds, whose seed blow in need to be pulled up and thrown over the fence. Some of the crab apples must be cut down and the sour grapes cut off at the ground. There are insects of pernicious natures that get in and blight and destroy; but no one would think of uprooting an entire garden pre-ponderately beautiful and fragrant, of delicious taste and inspiring attention, merely because it contained a few specimens of gloried fruit. There are millions of gloried men and women in God's Flower Garden who are standing steadily in their places amid all the storms and stress, shedding forth their fragrance, reflecting the beauty of their inner character, producing glorious fruit of righteousness, enough to fill all the baskets of heaven to overflowing and plant bouquets of richness rivaling rainbow colors before all the altars of God. The dew of heaven brings refreshments to the Garden of God. The rains descend to inspire their growth from time to time; but every garden should have periodical irrigation. There are times and seasons when all crops need copious showers or streams of water to wet the feet of rootlets that the upper growth may become sturdy and more lively. No one would ever think of planting a garden in a barren country, yet I have seen such that were growing luxuriantly where the owner had supplied in an artificial way sufficient moisture. This Blackwater valley surrounding Muleshoe is becoming widely famous because of the magnificent truck crops being raised here under irrigation. The garden at St. Louis, the Busch garden at Pasadena, and all other gardens noted for their completeness of beauty and fragrance, are all well irrigated. So I am convinced this Garden of God should also be well irrigated. No church surrounded by a desert of sin can constantly flourish without spiritual irrigation. There must be frequent showers of blessing descending upon it, and sometimes copiously should they fall. In other words, in the revival periods, in special periods and seasons when clouds from heaven roll over any given community, letting fall in great quantities their spiritual rainfall upon the hearts of God's flowers growing in his garden here on earth. Yes, I would have those spiritual downpours to become so great upon the Omnipotent Gardener would have to set his bow of colors in the sky, lest we become fearful of a spiritual drought during the revival period in Muleshoe. I would have these glorious streams of gospel blessings surge down every street in town, wash out every alley, sweep through every home and give a spiritual cleansing and soulful invigoration to every citizen living here. There are times when the gardener comes into his garden and plucks the beautiful flowers growing there. Sometimes it seems he picks out the very choicest that they may adorn some other location. Frequently whole plants are uprooted and transplanted to better locations where they may grow in greater beauty. So in God's Garden of Flowers it sometimes seems the Great Gardener plucks the purest flowers, the most beautiful roses, the most fragrant carnations and the most charming little buds of promise to be transplanted in his Garden of Eternity. We sometimes protest and have grief because we must give up some of the choicest of flowers upon whom we have devoted our greatest affection and care while here on earth; but the Great Gardener knows best! Everywhere, all over this land of ours, the Omnipotent Gardener is sending his laborers out to cultivate his gardens. Some have particular gardens assigned for their labor of development, while others, perhaps more or less specialists in certain lines of religious cultivation, spend their entire lives assisting pastors in plowing, enriching and cultivating the soil, planting the little seedlets, grafting flowering branches onto sturdy trunks, going out into the highways and byways to find other wild flowers, that they may bring them in for transplanting in his garden where they may have wholesome protection and grow in greater beauty and fragrance for time and eternity. The time is coming some day when all this earthly garden will have been transplanted to celestial realms that its flowers may blossom and bloom amid the radiance of heavenly influence while the years of forever onward roll. I think the earthly gardeners will occupy places of renown on that great day, and all human flowers of earth will be greatly appreciated by Omnipotence, as he gathers the bouquets and wreaths to adorn the temple in the skies that they may show forth their radiance throughout immortality and endless time. Shenstone was little known because of his poetry; but his garden, "The Leasowes" will be immortal in history. St. Walter Scott spent his entire fortune on his garden at Abbotsford, and there is many a man and woman who have devoted their entire lives toward beautifying and enriching the characters of those about them. I think the greatest blessings will rest upon them and they will occupy the choicest spots in the gardens supernal.

Hockley Co. Boosts Formby For Senator In Big Parade

A Marshall Formby-for-Senator booster party, comprised of 80 Hockley county men in 18 cars, paraded through Lubbock at noon Saturday, escorted by two Lubbock motorcycle patrolmen. The motorcade, the cars in which were decorated to advertise the party's sentiments in the race, later continued a swing over the 24-county district in which County Judge Formby, from Dickens, and Rep. Alvin R. Allison from Hockley county are making their race for the state senate. Prior to coming to Lubbock, the party had been to Littlefield, the party to that direction and to Plainview and from here planned to go to Big Spring, to Seminole and back to Hockley county, lauding through all towns enroute.—Lubbock Avalanche.

FARMERS INTERESTED

IN FABRIC CHECKS
 Numerous inquiries are being received in the County A. C. A. office requesting to know when cotton parity checks might be received, says J. C. Smith, in charge.
 It is extremely difficult to predict when any certain check will be received, however, quite a few checks will be received in August and approximately 60% of the checks will be received in September.

NOTICE FOR BIDS

At a meeting of the School Board, West Camp School District, to be held at the school house in that district, Monday evening, July 29, bids will be received for two bus drivers and a janitor for said school for the coming school year.
 The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

deal of interest. They are about the size of lima beans and I am glad to see how well they do in West Texas.

Other vegetables include turnip greens, onions, radishes, kale, lettuce, carrots, tendergreen, Swiss chard, cabbage, collards, egg plant, pepper, English peas, squash, beets, okra, cucumber, beans, peas, and tomatoes.
 With such a variety of vegetables, meat, eggs and milk, any family can be sumptuously fed.

Mrs. Roark Is Canning

Mrs. Louise Roark, West Camp home demonstration club, is now serving on her table and canning for the non-productive months. English peas, squash, peas, lettuce, radishes, onions, carrots, mustard and beets. She plans to conserve enough food from her garden to fill her vegetable budget for the year.

Louise McClelland Reports

Louise McClelland, an active 4-H club girl in the Longview club, says she has reaped one crop off her farm garden and has planted the second one. She hopes to have three plantings during the year and possibly four. She has grown mustard greens, lettuce and radishes. Louise has also made 4 pot holders, a set of pillow cases, shoe trees, and has rearranged her bed room.

Zane Carter Gives Report

At the Council meeting held here last Monday Miss Zane Rhea, Carter, member of the Maple 4-H club, gave a very impressive talk on her trip to the Short Course at A. & M. college. Zane Rhea says, "I enjoyed every minute of it and I want to thank the county home demonstration council for sending me."

Mrs. A. E. Newton, of Baileyboro, gave an interesting discussion of the events of the Short Course, making everyone feel as if they themselves had attended it.

Mrs. A. E. Newton, of Baileyboro, gave an interesting discussion of the events of the Short Course, making everyone feel as if they themselves had attended it. Mrs. Newton said, "I came back thinking and believing as one of the speakers said, 'To work with 4-H club boys and girls is like cultivating plants. They may be helped to grow straight and tall, and strong, the amount of care depending upon whether the plant is healthful or has been stunted, warped and weak.'"
 Mrs. Newton says to see the 4-H club boys and girls preside at meetings and appear on programs with so much ease and perfect poise is one of the biggest inspirations I have ever received.

Mrs. Snider Improves Home

Mrs. M. A. Snider, West Camp home demonstration club, is doing a fine piece of work in improving the interior of her house, making it more convenient and attractive, and thereby saving herself many unnecessary steps.
 Hardwood floors have been added throughout, a bath room built in and fixtures added, a service porch as well as numerous improvements in the kitchen.
 Mrs. Snider says "My built-in kitchen cabinet is my pride and joy." This is not surprising when one notes the many features which makes it so convenient and usable. It provides an abundance of storage space as well as a large working surface which is the correct height for Mrs. Snider, and toe space at the bottom which is a great help in maintaining good posture while working. All cupboard doors open from the same direction which seem to make everything more accessible.
 Mrs. Snider has yet to finish the floors and cabinet, adding tiling in the bathroom and paper the bath room walls.

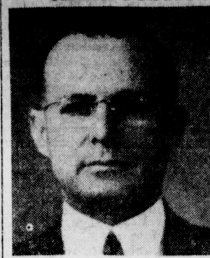

Rural Aid Payment Will Be In Full Tuition 90%

State Superintendent L. A. Woods announced today that Rural Aid Schools can expect 100 per cent payment on Salary aid grants for the coming year on the same basis as was paid for the part year. Thus the 4,023 schools participating in this fund will be able to determine before the opening of the 1940-41 term how much to budget for the approved items of expense in order to pay the teachers in full.
 The forms to be used in making application for Equalization Funds will reach the County Superintendents within a week, Woods stated.
 Woods also announced the first payment on High school tuition will be made in a few days and that it will be approximately 90 per cent of the approved claims.

BOOSTED FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

Judge James P. Alexander

Advocating the election of Judge James P. Alexander of Waco as chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, a campaign committee for the Panhandle has been formed in Amarillo. Chairman of the committee is John Fullingim. Judge Alexander has been an associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals at Waco for 10 of the 18 years he has served as a judge of Texas courts. Prior to his first judgeship he practiced law for 14 years in his native Texas. On the Civil Appeals Court his record is 98 per cent perfect, with only 15 reversals out of 608 opinions he has written. He has received the overwhelming endorsement of the bar in his home county.

SAVING MONEY With Cotton Bags

Sturdy and washable suits are a necessity for the small boy. He'll really enjoy wearing the suit illustrated, with pockets in the shirt and in the trousers to hold the many things a little boy carries with him. Make it from laundered cotton bags. Practically no cost. The material in cotton bags that contain flour, sugar, feed, etc. when laundered is soft and white. It can be tinted any pastel color. With a bit of starch it looks like linen. Extra bags may be obtained from your nearest baker or department store. Other Cotton Bag Sewing Ideas are illustrated in a free booklet. Send to National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis, or Textile Bags, 100 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

2 TYPICAL EXPERIENCES WITH THE FREE MILE-DIAL

CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you:
 "I'm driving the car all day while my husband's at work, so I really buy most of the family gasoline out of my own budget. If I can get even 2 or 3 miles more to a gallon I want to know it. That's why I went to a Conoco station for my Mile-Dial—not just because it's free, but because it really lets you know your true mileage, exactly as a woman wants to really know about anything she pays for. I like buying tested things—the same as any up-to-date consumer—and this certified Mile-Dial is like giving us consumers our own easy way of testing Conoco Bronz-z-z for mileage.
 "Anyway, it's almost like a game, dialing your correct mileage on the Mile-Dial—awfully clever. My husband says so, too. By the way, my driving is just as economical as his, the way it proves out on our Mile-Dial. Isn't that interesting? And we're keeping on dialing to make sure of our average in all different driving. Right now, after 61 gallons of Bronz-z-z in all, we're a good 200 miles ahead of what we used to expect from that much gasoline."

"DIDN'T CARE" type of driver says:
 "I didn't much care what gasoline I bought as I went along. But this Mile-Dial being free, and really daring you to keep your own close tabs on Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline, I went for it. And now I know why they've got the gimpe to let the Mile-Dial tell all. For you can see by my Mile-Dial right on the dash that I've gone 633 miles on 37 gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z.
 "Now if you'll watch this smart Mile-Dial work—next to automatic—you'll see it giving the answer... above 17 miles to the gallon of Bronz-z-z in this big eight, around town here. But I'm leaving for about a 700-mile trip—mostly open country. So don't be surprised if I even get better mileage. And don't say that's a brag, because you can't help believing the Mile-Dial. Besides settling the economy of Conoco Bronz-z-z it's sort of swell fun dialing your honest mileage. The Conoco boys must know what their gasoline's got to give you a Mile-Dial free. I'll bet you would like one yourself and they're free as air, around a Conoco station. You ought to go quick and get yours."
