NUMBER 32

Culberson, Alexander, Dean Win In State And District; Lowry Wins Over Schuster In The County

Of the approximately 900,000 votes cast in the second Democratic primary held in Texas last Saturday, there were about 40,000 ballots cast on the South Plains area, citizens of this section holding up quite well their patronage of the second primary in proportion to other areas in the state. Last second primary there was a total of 857,000 votes cast.

In Saturday's voting Olin Culberson beat Pierce Brooks for the place on State Railroad commission now held by Lon Smith. Alexander won out over Lattimore for a place on the State Supreme court. Thomas W. Dean led L. C. Matthews by large majority for state representative of this 120th district, both men being from Floyd county. H. L. Lowry, for Bailey county commissioner, precinct 1, lead H. E. Schuster by a big majority.

In the district north of here Gene Worley lead Deskins Wells for Congressional representative, the place held by Marvin Jones for the past 24 years, while Grady Hazelwood defeated Max Boyer for the state senatorship of that district.

In the 69th judicial, including Parmer county, just north of Bailey, John H. Honts, Dallam county, defeated Milton Tatum for district attorney Tatum had previously been appointed to that office by the governor.

Incomplete and unofficial balloting recorded in this district on the

Representative's race was as follows:

County	Matthews	Dean
Bailey	438	1,292
Hale	1,160	1,192
Lamb	961	927
Floyd	985	1,732
Castro	470	585
Bliscoe	228	720
Parmer	639	675
Swisher	539	714
Totals	5,720	7,103

Bailey county turned in 1,041 votes last Saturday as compared with a total of 1,911 the first primary. Votes cast in this county for candidates were as follows: Culberson 467, Brooks 512, Alexander 507, Lattimore 406, Matthews 466, Dean 493, Schuster and Lowry for County commissioner, precinct 1, 298 and 413, respectively.

For Justice of the Peace in Precinct 2: Wesley Herington 2, J. H. Farley 45.

For Constable, Precinct 2: Luther Blakely 19, C. C. Stephens 17.

For Constable, Precinct 3: O. C. Kirk 44; Jack Baker 23, C. P. Marlin 28. Since that constituted no election, the two highest candidates will probably be included in the November ballot.

Votes cast in this county by voting precincts were as follows: Muleshoe 556, Maple 51, Stegall 19, Watson 25, May 6, Bula 70, Baileyboro 29, Goodland 26, Fairview 106, Longview 7, West Camp, 44, Circleback 50, Progress 52.

O. W. MARLOW HOME BURNED SATURDAY

The O. W. Marlow house located on the Mark Countyman place, about 10 miles south of Muleshoe was a total loss last Saturday morning when fire was discovered already under good headway.

The family had recently returned from a trip to California and some of their clothing was still packed, most of it being soiled as well as some bedding and other household goods.

Total loss is unknown, and there was no insurance.

Marlow, in saving some of the household effects, was severely burned on an arm and shoulder, requiring treatment at the local clinic.

BLAIR'S SPECIALTY IS TWIN GROWTHS

W. H. Blair, farmer living about four miles northwest of Muleshoe, brought into the Journal office last Saturday twin cantaloupes grown from one blossom. They were the only twins out of two acres of lucious melons.

He also produced several twin cumberns on his farm this year. He seems to be specializing in twins; but the Journal reporter forgot to ask him if he had any twin children.

$13,379 IN PARITY CHECKS RECEIVED

Last Saturday there were 136 cotton parity checks, totaling $13,379.08, of the 1940 payment received at the Bailey county AAA office here, according to J. C. Smith, government financial manipulator and distributor. This is the first payment for this year, and others are expected to follow in the near future, Smith stated.

The total amount to be received will be around $190,000.

Change In Hunting Season Announced Law Liberalized

With the Fall hunting season gradually drawing nearer, information comes from the Government that laws governing hunting have undergone several changes, in some instances being considerably liberalized. Seasons are longer, shooting begins at sunrise, and there are other noteworthy changes, according to J. K. Walton Jr., in charge of the Bailey County Bird Refuge.

In the southern zone, which includes Texas, hunting season for wild fowl has been extended from 45 to 60 days in the case of ducks and geese, beginning Nov. 2 and continuing to Dec. 31, both dates inclusive. Shooting may be done from sunrise until 4:00 p. m. Daily bag limit of geese has been increased from 4 to 5, legal possession continuing for 20 days after close of season instead of 10 as last year. Canvas backs, redheads, buffalohorns and ruddy ducks are limited to 3 per day, coots 15 per day and jacksnipe 15 per day.

Hunters may use bows and arrows or shotguns not larger than 10 gauge, 3-shell limit to repeating shotguns. Use of live decoys or bait is illegal. Daily bag of turtle doves is reduced from 15 to 12, and may be taken from sunrise to sunset. Hunting season for them in this part of Texas is from September 15 to November 15.

COMMISSIONER FINDS A SNAKE IN HIS BOOTS

Some folks have "snakes in their boots," but Johnny Alford, county commissioner of precinct 4, Bailey county, residing south of Muleshoe, had one in his bed last Sunday night. Johnny and Friend wife were very peacefully sleeping, he dreaming that his government check had come in and was double what he anticipated, while the Misses were floating in fairyland in some other mental hallucination, when the cold body of the serpent was felt wiggling against John's thigh under the bed covering.

No further effort was needed to bring both occupants out the bed post haste. It was only a chicken snake, report has it, and John slugged it up by the side of its head, with his shoe, sending it to reptile heaven; but John declares if it had been a rattler he couldn't have been frightened any worse.

BOY SCOUT COURT OF HONOR HERE

A Court of Honor will be held at the Methodist church annex Thursday night, September 19, at which time five or six Boy Scouts will be promoted.

J. C. Grimes, recently appointed district Scout director for this section, has been present and had charge of this court.

NATIONAL SECURITY CAN'T OBTAIN NO "PASSING THE BUCK" WILL SAVE WITHOUT SACRIFICE BY CITIZENS

The American people, driven by the need for military security, must build a military establishment costly beyond all precedents. An incredible proportion of the national income must be taken from the pockets of the people and diverted to government. All will have fewer luxuries. All must conserve, all must sacrifice.

That is clear enough and reasonable enough, but it has become tragically plain that a very substantial portion of the American people have the idea that the other fellow should make most, if not all of the sacrifices. It's the other fellow's standard of living which should suffer, not their own. It's the other fellow who should pay the bill and do the work, while they go on much as they did before.

Certain influential segments of labor, for instance, demand still higher pay, shorter hours, excessive extra pay for overtime, and other special privileges and pretensions for the workman, despite the fact that pay is now the highest and the work-week the shortest in history. Their argument is that industry must sacrifice more of its profits to reduce the share that goes to labor, and it works to get more money for itself out of government in one way or another. It too, believes in sacrifice—so long as the other fellow does it.

Those who have gone on government as a career favor sacrifice, too—so long as it doesn't touch relief appropriations. The government; under the guise of "relief," still pays out millions for leaf-raking, bonddogging and other completely non-productive activities. Powerful influences demand that not one nickel of this waste be eliminated, no matter how much others sacrifice to pay it, or how dire the menace the country faces.

The professional politicians talk much of sacrifice, in noble words, but it is a rare politician who is willing to sacrifice one thin dime of patronage that might cost a vote, to support a principle. Money still goes out for farm relief schemes foredoomed to failure—for unnecessary tax-butt and tar-subsidized government electric plants, for government credit schemes of all kinds, and for a thousand and one purposes which are in no way a true function of government, but which are prolific sources of votes and power. The self-seeking hand of politics handicaps a real defense program which would get maximum results with a minimum of waste and time and money.

Who is going to sacrifice what? That's the question that America faces today. If national security is to be a reality, not a mirage, The answer is plain. All must sacrifice, all must contribute their full share. The other fellow isn't going to do it for us. Selfish interests now at play

Early Payments For Early Work Says The AAA Officer

College Station, Aug. 27.—The sooner a farmer completes his soil-building work under the AAA program, the sooner he will receive his agricultural conservation payment.

Plans are completed for county offices to accept applications for conservation payments in September from those cooperators who have earned their maximum soil-building and range-improvement allowances, according to E. N. Holmgren, state AAA administrator. Completion of enough soil-building work to earn the maximum allowance before the close of the program will thus enable the cooperator to receive his conservation payment earlier than those who fall short on their improvement work.

"Present indications are that payments will begin about a month earlier this year than last," the administrator said. "First ACP payments under the 1939 program were certified October 13, more than two months ahead of the previous year's schedule."

The "earlier payment for earlier work" plan was first used last year in order to eliminate a pile-up of applications in the offices and to encourage greater use of funds allowed for improving the soil and controlling erosion the administrator explained.

Many farmers and ranchmen already have exceeded requirements for earning their full allowance and will be able to get their payments as soon as the necessary forms and instructions are released to county offices.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY CAMP OUTING

Eighteen local Boy Scouts accompanied by Scoutmaster J. C. Smith and assistant Clifton Finley, went on a camping expedition Saturday night of last week.

Locating their tents and other outfit on the banks of Willow lake, about five miles southeast of Muleshoe, the lads enjoyed a real camp supper. Nothing is to be said about how the night passed, as youngsters were enjoying themselves immensely, Smith said. However, every lad was ready for his full share of the camp breakfast when the time arrived.

Another pot of $25 will be given away here next Saturday, and everyone is invited to attend.

8,580 Bushels Wheat In Bailey County Is Now Insured

With only a few days now remaining before the August 31 wheat crop insurance deadline, 15 producers in Bailey county have insured their 1941 crops against all unavoidable hazards.

The 1941 sign-up probably will exceed the 1940 coverage. Roy F. Sheriff, chairman of the county AAA committee, said. The 15 policies they applied for insure the production of 8580 bushels of wheat on 854 acres in the county next year. Last year 22 policies were issued, guaranteeing production of 9587 bushels on 1114 acres.

Indemnity payments on the 1940 crop have been completed in the county, the chairman said. Loss claims have been made on 16 policies for indemnities totaling 6967 bushels. Most losses resulted from drought, wind and erosion and hail.

The increased interest in crop insurance this year indicates the county's farmers are realizing more and more that insurance on their crops is a routine farming practice," the chairman pointed out.

Seven thousand nine hundred and eighty-five acres is the total allotment for Bailey county under the old growers government schedule, and applications are now being made under the new 1941 schedule. The increased acreage is due to the local county agent's office.

With excellent rains recently, farm land is in fine condition, and planting has been started. It is expected the acreage planted in and around Bailey county will be larger than it was last year.

Buzard, Walser Cars Collide Tuesday Drivers Injured

A near tragedy was narrowly averted Tuesday morning by the Goddess Fortune when the cars driven by Ray Buzard and Buford Walser, living on the Jim Cook farm, collided at the intersection of R. L. Jones corner about three miles north and a mile west of Muleshoe.

One car was coming from the north while the other was traveling east, according to report, the Buzard car, which was driven by R. L. Jones corner about three miles north and a mile west of Muleshoe, was badly smashed-up from the impact.

Fortunately neither driver nor the negro sitting in the rear seat of the Buzard car were seriously injured. Walser is reported sustaining some bruises and abrasions. Buzard was temporarily knocked unconscious when the machines came together; but was soon revived and found his sustaining injuries were a few bruises and skinned places on his arms and hands.

WATER CONSUMPTION HERE INCREASED

That there was considerable increase in water consumption in Muleshoe last July, the peak consumption month, is the statement of Judge R. J. Klump, city secretary, that increase representing the largest amount of water ever consumed by local citizens in any one month of the year.

Figures furnished by Klump show that for July 1939 water consumption totaled 4,323,520 gallons, while for the same month this year the total was 5,123,520, an increase of 1,200,000 gallons over the previous year, and, because of new pumps of greater efficiency $35.00 was saved in current used for that pumping.

LAW CLAMPS DOWN ON THE DRUNKS

In Justice court last Monday Carl Huglin charged with drunkenness, paid a fine and costs totaling $14.00. Oran Robinson under similar charge last Friday made the same contribution to the county treasury.

600 Guests At Cold Storage Opening Day

More than 600 guests attended the formal opening of the Muleshoe Locker system here last Saturday, according to registration kept. Early in the morning they began arriving and continued their visitations until ten o'clock that night, according to Vance Wagon, manager.

Refreshments were served throughout the entire day. Mr. Wagon said that upon enquiry, he found an average of about only one person out of 10 visiting the plant had ever seen one before. All were much interested in the new enterprise, not only in its mechanic equipment; but also in the excellent arrangement and the supreme sanitation shown in all departments.

Last Saturday afternoon one locker was given away, Rev. D. M. King, Methodist pastor at Y. L. being the fortunate receiver. This new enterprise consists of 200 lockers, many of which were sold Saturday while others declared their desires to rent lockers in the near future. It is so constructed that other needed lockers may be added as demand requires.

Everything was at its proper temperature, the plant having been put through its paces of coldness the night before and made ready for the visitors. The Chill room stands at 33 degrees above zero, the curing room at 40 degrees above, the lockers at 8 degrees above, while the Quick Freezer room rests at 10 degrees below zero. There was 1,500 pounds of beef put in the chill room Monday morning and several patrons also began storing meat and vegetables in their leased lockers.

As Hitler's Cruel War Progresses Its Big Patterns Becomes Clearer And Designs On America Visible

By E. HOFNER, Portland, Ore.

The pattern of Hitler's projected world revolution steadily becomes more clear. It is apparent to anyone that this is not a war in the traditional sense, in which Germany, if she will, will be satisfied with reparations and colonies and economic power. What the Nazis obviously intend—despite their occasional protestations to the contrary—is the complete final destruction of the British Empire, which for hundreds of years has held the balance of power in Europe and a large part of the rest of the world. And following that, if the Fuhrer's astoundingly frank Mein Kampf is to be believed, the rest of the democracies will receive similar treatment. Nowadays, they say Hitler has no intention of launching an immediate military attack on the United States and the New World. If he did that, he would be courting disaster—the tactical obstacles in the way are gigantic, no matter how great his military and naval power. And Hitler and his high-ranking advisers seem to feel that the United States can be conquered simply and easily. First planned step, according to the reports, is to court United States good will, by offering its favorable economic agreements. This is designed to lessen our suspicions, and to create public opposition to spending more billions for national defense. At the same time, Hitler, as quietly as possible, will carry on their economic penetration into Latin America. Next technique will be undercover work to create dissension within this country—to set group against group, race against race, class against class, and thus to make genuine national unity impossible. Nazi propaganda chief Goebbels and Nazi philosopher Rosenberg, judging by their speeches and writings, seem to believe that this can be done with little trouble. They have said time and again that the United States is ripe for revolution, and only a competent hand is needed to bring it about when the time comes.

Finally, if it becomes necessary, Hitler's great armed forces will attack us—depending largely upon internal unrest and disunity to make the job of his soldiers and sailors and airmen comparatively easy.

This may sound fantastic, but it seems to be the Nazi plan, and Hitler realizes that if he is to achieve a world revolution unprecedented in history, he must have allies. It must be admitted that he has so far been extremely successful in getting them. It was said for years that National Socialism would come a cropper when it ran into its old arch foe, communism. But today German-Russian relations are apparently of the best, and Soviet spokesmen have been denouncing the United States and England and praising the Reich. Italy was a world war ally—today she is Hitler's partner, and Fascist authorities have been extremely outspoken concerning Axis plans for dismembering England and giving the United States a dose of harsh economic medicine. Last, Japan—also a world war ally—seems to have gone Axis-ward whole hog. The new government is pro-Fascist, and 100 percent anti-democratic. English rights in the Far East are being ruthlessly abrogated, and Britain had to swallow a humiliating pill recently when she agreed to Japanese demands to close the Burma Road, principal source of supplies for beleaguered China. And Japanese United States relations have rarely been in a worse state.

According to Nipponese authorities, Japan will pursue her "Asia for Asiatics" policy—a policy which is about as cruel and imperialistic as any in history—whether we like it or not. United States protests will not be seriously considered. And say the Japanese sword-waivers, the Land of the Rising Sun will go to war with us if necessary. So far as Europe is concerned, Japan is solidly in favor of German-Italian plans and actions.

American naval authorities have lately said that our navy could destroy the Japanese fleet in a few weeks in open warfare. But, if we went to war in the Pacific, the Atlantic would be wide open to the Axis, and we would be in no position to adequately fight Nazi-Fascist economic aggression south of the Rio Grande. That explains why most authorities believe we will do little even if Japan does seize Indo-China, property of totalitarian-ruled France, and the Dutch Indies. Moral pressure is about all we can afford to use right now—and moral pressure gets few results in the world of today.

If Britain is able to survive Hitler's attacks, the pictures will be drastically changed. The United States as a democracy, will not fall if England falls—but the future of democracy will be immeasurably brighter if England lives.

Postmaster Expects Prompt Register Of All Aliens

Postmaster A. J. Gardner, who last week received government instructions and application blanks for registering aliens in this county, states that while he does not know definitely just how many aliens reside in Bailey county, yet he feels confident when they learn that such registration means the protection of their adopted homeland they are also protecting themselves, their families and their occupations, they will come in and register promptly.

Government statistics place the number of aliens in the United States as approximately 3,500,000, Gardner said, and failure to register as required by law makes one subject to a possible fine of $1,000 and six months in prison.

Many Millions To Aid Foreigners By Americans

It is a well known fact that the American people—in keeping with the percent that it is more blessed to give than to receive—have donated large sums of money to relieve suffering in foreign lands. But not so well known is how great this giving has been.

Last week, the U. S. Department of Commerce put the figures on the table. A study of the remittances to foreign countries by United States institutions between 1919-'39 revealed that during that period a total of $1,270,000,000 had been released.

United States church-goers particularly were pleased to learn that of this huge sum a large proportion had come from their religious institutions. During the 20-year period, Protestant bodies sent $599,800,000, Jews $140,000,000, and Catholics $8,900,000. Non-sectarian agencies including the Red Cross and the post-war Hoover relief agency, contributed a total of $431,400,000.

Last year, United States religious and charitable contributions to foreign lands came to approximately Clearly the Republican party has embarked on an exciting political venture which is also attracting the interest of many Democrats. When Wendell Willkie was nominated the GOP standard bearer a few weeks ago at Philadelphia, he blasted all precedents and introduced a new epoch which has proven refreshing to all people. Even old-timers had become more or less fed-up on the system or party control at national conventions and were glad to see a new young man step out from the realm of political obscurity, grasp the party standard and step with it to the very front. It put the political gangsters on the run, astounded the old-time party managers and swept with a hurricane of favor the opinions of innumerable voters.

Willkie has, in the past, been a leader among business men. He has already proven himself a financial genius, so the financial interests of the Republican party quickly backed his nomination. Newspapers and magazines, sensing genius, had already put his name before the public in spontaneous rather than directed manner, and there were plenty of the intelligentsia who recognized in Willkie a man of native intelligence, high culture, experience and indomitable energy, who had proven his past in whom they had much confidence for his future.

Willkie, so far as his political personality is concerned, may be readily classed with the two Roosevelts, William, Jennings, Brown, the late Senator Bob LaFollette, LaGuardia and the deceased Huey P. Long. All of these men were listed as progressives. So is Willkie. Just how conservative he may be on some subjects is yet unknown, but his acceptance speech a short time ago indicates he is quite well balanced on his ideas of government.

Willkie has been the ablest spokesman for business interests. He was reared in an atmosphere that tinged with General socialism. As a young man he definitely followed after Bryan and LaFollette. In later years he has become a successful lawyer and utility executive. Practically everything he has won for himself in this world has been won by himself.

Present indications are that Willkie is strong enough to resist well the pressure of professional politicians and will conduct his campaign on a strict business basis. He is a fellow that likes to get to the very core of things, as was indicated recently when he challenged President Roosevelt to a series of public debates. Roosevelt hiding behind his alleged excessive duties of state and administration refused to accept the challenge, and promptly lost several thousand votes thereby.

There is little doubt but Willkie is a hell-raising man. Being tough from his youth up, he is now well seasoned in his toughness and knows well how to use it for the benefit of his fellowman. He has a beguiling smile, a vivid personality, considerable skill in debate, burns out trip-hammer thoughts by the platform, knows how to give and take, and never fails to sense out and quickly learn the weakness of his opponent and take advantage of it. He is keen, shrewd, apparently well based, logical, broad-minded and big-hearted. True, he is a Republican gambler; but at this moment with straw votes rapidly falling away from President Roosevelt the November decisions begin looking favorable for the Republicans.

Since the Philadelphia convention, there has been considerable discussion as to whether Willkie's nomination didn't put Roosevelt on the spot. It was Willkie's business organization that furnished the President with his greatest T.V.A. troubles, which have not yet been forgotten in Washington. Roosevelt said he didn't desire the third nomination, yet when he found a former antagonist had been selected as the Democratic opponent, he may have had a "method in his madness" when he gladly accepted. No one knows for sure.

Perhaps Roosevelt realized if another was nominated as the Democratic standard bearer he would start with a handicap. All possible Democratic nominees, perhaps with the exception of Vandenberg and Garner, were more or less unknown entities in administration circles. Willkie himself is somewhat of an enigma, but his untold ability to date seems to be meeting with growing approval, especially among the thousands of voters who have never appreciated methods of the New Deal, and as it continues, seems to become more of a Raw Deal in many respects.

There were strong indications that the Chicago convention that the Democratic party was shy of strong personalities as presidential timber. Except Roosevelt, apparently none of their old leaguers knew where to put a finger on a man that would match Willkie in personality or forensics. It was a kind of "Hobson's choice." Now the scrap is on. Opinions are rapidly congealing into decisions—and the entire United States citizenry is going to watch the political skirmish with unusual interest until the battle of ballots occurs in November.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Kolar of St. Louis, Mo., who own a good 80-acre farm about three and a half miles northwest of Muleshoe, are here looking after business interests and making improvements on their homestead. They are putting down a new irrigation well, erecting a new windmill over the house well, building a barn and planting several acres of alfalfa. Later they expect to move here and build a new residence for (legally) occupation. Jack Lumpkin, now living on the place.

A mysterious weapon is being used against Gibraltar, English fort on the Mediterranean. Fire has been reported streaming down the mountainside like volcanic lava; yet it is well known that English ammunition magazines are hidden well below the ground. Some scientists say the fire may be from white phosphorus which will creep into the smallest crevice.

It is announced the United States has leased the islands of Canton and Enderbury in the southern Pacific from Great Britain for air base purposes, for a period of 50 years, such leasing being without price or other consideration. Joint control of these, as well as other islands in that area had been held by these two nations for several years before this war began.

Truck Growers Use Liquid Fertilizer With Success

For an untold number of years farmers have practiced hauling barnyard manure out on their fields to stimulate crop growth and to promote growth. They will know the elements of growth were there but many did not stop to realize such had to be liquified before the tiny rootlets of plants could suck them in to promote growth.

It is well known much strength of barnyard fertilizer is reached away by sunshine and dry weather, whereas if such could be applied to the ground and to the crops just before a rain decidedly larger and more favorable results would be obtained. Many farmers, also, lost much of fertilizer benefit by piling it out of doors where it is lost to the elements, yet there are very few manure pits in this western area where liquids are conserved and a shed built over such pit keeps down evaporation.

Realizing the greater value of liquid manure, truck farmers in various sections are now converting the ingredients into liquid stage before applying it to crops which afterward are given side dressings, and they are obtaining much more favorable results. Some dig pits, line them water-tight with concrete, into which the manure is placed and water then run onto it to be later dipped out and spread over fields with machinery now manufactured for that special purpose. Some farmers who have not yet acquired water tight manure pits use barrels.

Other farmers are using commercial fertilizer that has been liquified with the side dressing. Commercial fertilizers of 8-24-8 and 6-22-5 seem to be the most desirable for truck crops, building up the soil nutrients most aptly when put on at the rate of from 350 to 500 pounds per acre, general dissolving one pound of the fertilizer to two gallons of water.

Instances of such experiments are on record in some of the high production areas of eastern states where tomatoes, onions, beans, potatoes and other truck crops have been stimulated to produce twice as much per acre where the liquid fertilizer was used as where it was not.

Cooking Dem'ion To Be Held Here

Announcement of a cooking demonstration to be held in Muleshoe, was made yesterday by R. E. Bird, local manager for West Texas Gas Co. This demonstration will be held at 2:00 p. m., Wednesday, September 11, in the E. R. Hart Hardware store, and will be conducted by Miss Mary Alice Crosson, home service director for West Texas Gas Co.

Miss Crosson is to discuss the better methods of cooking, by preparing oven and broiler meals. Corrections for baking at this altitude will also be discussed.

All ladies in Muleshoe and surrounding territory are invited to come and bring their friends. Miss Crosson comes highly recommended and is hoped a large crowd will attend.

MRS. ROARK SETS GARDEN EXAMPLE

Mrs. Louise Roark, home food supply demonstrator, West Camp home demonstration club, reports she conserved 24 varieties of vegetables and fruits and has yet to can grapes, tomatoes and meats. She plans to store carrots and turnips fresh in banks of soil and stalk moisture. "Such vegetables as sweet potatoes, white potatoes, rutabagas, turnips and carrots are higher in vitamins after about six weeks in storage," she says.

Her pantry will also contain dry or cured vegetables such as beans, peas, sweet potatoes, onions, pumpkins and squash.

Flashlights from American may be used in Egypt in case of blackouts there.

TOBACCO TROUBLE

Go into nearly any store in Muleshoe and you will be offered your choice of purchasing one or more of 15 or 20 brands of tobacco, some of which have been on the market for many years, and new ones constantly being stocked by dealers. They have all been popularized through advertising.

Here, in its own rather heavy-footed language, is what the Department has to say on the subject.

"Said defendants have by extensive and continuous nation-wide advertising and by various sales promotion schemes created and maintained such public acceptance and demand for their major brands that, the offering of such products for sale being a necessary adjunct to the conduct of numerous, wholesale, retail, and service establishments, such establishments are forced to handle the products of defendants and their competitors even on unreasonable and arbitrary terms, and at such prices."

All this might make some sense if the current level of cigarette prices had been established by to-maintained them. But any smoker knows that the increase in price in this field is the work of the government itself—the very outfit that is doing all the hollering. While advertising—which increases sales and hence aims at lowering the price per pack—takes less than half a cent for every twenty cigarettes, Federal taxes alone amount to six and a half cents, or thirteen times as much. And that takes no account of state and city taxes, which frequently run two or three cents more.

It strikes us that in the present instance those who live in a glass house are throwing stones at the far more solid structure of their neighbors, in the hope perhaps that the noise that ensues will confuse the public mind.

A NATIONAL PRAYER

Due to a suggestion by a senator, the President has asked our nation to observe Sunday, September 8, as a day of nation-wide prayer. As the resolution states it, "for confession of the national offenses" also that we should "ask for guidance and the protection of this nation in a crisis period."

This action will meet with widespread approval for few are they who do not feel there is special need of a lot of serious praying. We should ask for guidance in meeting national problems, of overcoming our national offenses, of realizing our confounding and ask for strength to meet the situation unafraid and with wisdom.

A prayer is a confession and there is much to be confessed. May we not camouflage our mistakes and be given help in the fighting of them. A prayer is made for those things which are most important to us as human beings, so what is more fitting than that we nationally pray for the protection of our country?

We must be in earnest, we must be sincere, and the prayer entails submission as well. Submit ourselves to a willingness to work side by side, shoulder to shoulder. "When every succeeding day brings sad news of suffering and disaster abroad, we are especially conscious of the divine power, and of our dependence upon God's merciful guidance," says the President in the proclamation.

Another President, in 1863, set aside a day of prayer and for national humiliation when he felt that the misfortunes that were weighing down this land were punishment because we were a people that were "too proud to pray to the God that made us." Lincoln believed this. Today's crisis may be equally as great as the one facing the nation in 1863.

WAR IS OVER

Well, the war is over. Not the European war, of course, but the American battle of ballots in the Democratic party in Texas. The last candidate card has been handed out, the last pie and grab box purchased, the last voluntary oratory spouted forth. "Everything is quiet on the Patomac," thought there are doubtless many disappointed rumblings deep down in the hearts of defeated candidates, and perhaps—some explanations as to how it all came about.

So far as the Journal is concerned all is well. Of course, not all the candidates we voted for were elected. That is never the case; but we are whole soul democratic, and those chosen by the larger group of voters will be our officials just as much as if we had voted for them a half dozen times.

In the main, we believe the campaign has been mostly a clean one, void of the many objections that frequently creep in to such contests. In Bailey county we are quite sure it has "been open and above board." As has always been the custom of this newspaper, we strictly avoided taking part in any direct manner, remaining strictly neutral as to the merits and demerits of all candidates, though we candidly admit that in some instances we wished we could vote for two or more men running for the same office when the first primary was held.

Bailey county had a fine group of men who ran for offices. They were all honest and sincere and won many additional friends to themselves because of the fine way in which they conducted their various campaigns. The voters have spoken. The decision has been made, and with all other public spirited citizens this newspaper pledges its fidelity to all elected officials for the coming two years.

MIDST CONFUSION

More young people are killed by accidents than by any disease. The National Safety Council says so in their new book, "Accident Facts." We can always find space to stress the accident angle and at every opportunity we use caution, carefulness and courtesy as words of wisdom to the driver of the instrument of destruction. Few who do not know that Saturday

Sundays are the leading days for accidents, but did you know that two out of every five motor

WEEK'S BEST RECIPES

Cheese Souffle: 1/2 teaspoonfuls flour; 3 teaspoonfuls butter; 3 eggs; 1 cup milk; 1-2 teaspoonful baking powder, 1 cup grated cheese; salt and pepper. Put flour and butter in saucepan and stir until blended. Do not brown. Add milk slowly and stir till mixture boils. Add grated cheese, seasoning, and cool. Beat eggs, whites separately. Add yolks to mixture in pan and blend. Add baking powder to whites and beat till stiff. Yolk beaten whites in mixture and turn souffle into deep, well-greased dish. Bake in moderate oven 25 minutes.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Rub stains caused by indelible pencils with denatured alcohol. Soak five minutes and in mild soap. Store garlic cloves in a cheesecloth bag. Garlic rots in an air-tight container. When buttering sandwiches dip knife in hot water frequently and it will be much easier to spread butter. Put an orange or lemon in jar with newly made cakes or cookies. It will give them a good flavor. Give a cracked window pane a coat of clear shellac. It will be waterproof until the new pane is installed.

ABOUT STRAWBERRIES

Strawberry plants should be set out now. Plant in a rich but not too dry soil. Plants will be well established before the ground freezes. As soon as berries are gone the beds should be cleaned and weeds and runners removed. Keep plants well supplied with water so that new runners will have a good growth.

SEWING FACTS

A subscriber suggests tacking tape measure to an empty spool. Sew a snap at the loose end and you can roll it up and snap in place. This saves the untangling in the sewing basket. When facing hems of wash dresses you can use muslin bandage to advantage. It comes straight and even, has been shrunk and make a nice facing for your purpose.

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

For the sake of national defense, Washington finally is considering one of the knottiest problems—where the money is coming from to build the thousands of airplanes and guns and tanks and ships which are needed to make the nation invulnerable to attack.

In the first place, the government must borrow the money to buy most of the equipment because for years it has lived above its head. In other words, even without national defense it has been spending more than it took in. And on national defense it hasn't even been keeping up with the Joneses.

In addition to the just enacted national defense taxes, new taxes are being talked of. They may not materialize before November, but they will come soon.

Already, the administration has proposed to spend $14 billion for national defense. Experts in the government service easily foresee, without any stretching of the imagination, a $25 billion budget in the future.

Even in the year which ended June 30, with a total budget of $9 1/2 billions, the deficit was $3 1/2 billions. With the budget running up to $25 billions, the deficit will climb to astronomical heights. And taxes must go along for the sake of defense.

The Washington powers-that-be finally are awakening too to the necessity of letting those who spend money to build plants for national defense find some way of getting their money back.

This is generally called "amortization" of investment, but a more accurate and intelligible description is "recovery of costs." For example, if you have a few dollars to invest in a company that is going to make trucks for the army, you will realize first that when new comes and the army no longer needs trucks, you will get no return on your few dollars. Therefore, you would hesitate about putting your money into national defense.

Since literally billions are needed for national defense plants, this is a real problem. Right now, Washington is thinking about allowing five years for the recovery of costs of building new plants and machinery which would be useless during peace. The remaining difficulties are, first, that nobody now can tell what the defense situation will be in five years, and second, there is bound to be dispute over what costs may be recovered.

The Treasury as of today sees no difference between money spent to build plants which make hoes and airplanes.

Pavement Pickups

It is reported a Muleshoe woman bought several packets of garden seeds a few days ago from "Blondie" Ray, later returning them. She said directions on the packets required the seed to be planted in "little hills" and her garden was "perfectly level. Blondie took the seeds back.

Vance Wagnon, highly enthused over his new cold storage business, declares it will keep anything perfectly, and especially recommends it to young lovers whose "sweethearts" seem about to spoil.

Clyde Holland said when he was a young swimmer he thought he knew all there was to know about fishing; but the last woman he tried it on married him.

It is suggested by one of the Precinct's one's voters that "Possum" Lowry might have run even a better race for county commissioner if he had just thought to have his picture printed in the Journal.

"Bitz" Holt, his wife along fishing with him not long ago at Alamogordo dam. When Bitz pulled out his first fish, Friend Wife insisted it was terribly cruel to stick a hook in their jaws that way and yank on them. "Naw," replied the fisherman. "He likes it. You don't see him wagging his tail!"

"Gober" Roan, Ford salesman deluxo, was explaining the merits of a Mercury V-8 to a prospective buyer the other day. "Why," he said, "it runs so smoothly you can't feel it, so quietly you can't hear it, has such perfect ignition you can't see it, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man. —Shakespeare.

Connecticut's Boundary

The north boundary of the state of Connecticut has a curious deviation from a straight boundary known as the Southwick jog. The reason for it is that in adjusting errors in the boundary line between Connecticut and Massachusetts as previously run by compass a long, narrow strip of land was given to Connecticut, and the Southwick jog ceased to be an equivale.

News Behind News In Washington; Flynn Will Be The Top Man In Running President's Campaign

By ERNEST K. LINDLEY

Stories are being published to the effect that the real brains and boss of the Democratic national campaign is to be Harry Hopkins, who managed the nomination of Roosevelt and Wallace at Chicago.

These stories, and all others like them, can safely be disregarded. The real boss at Democratic national headquarters will be Edward J. Flynn, who on August 17 succeeded Jim Farley as chairman of the National Committee. Flynn will take orders only from the President—and he will not take too many of them even from that eminent source.

I write this with confidence, for two reasons. The first is that as a political writer in New York and Washington I have known Flynn for 15 years, and have known him well for about eight years. He is an urbane man, but beneath he is man in headquarters during six gubernatorial campaigns and two Presidential campaigns.

Flynn is not the kind to allow any amateur trifling with the business of running campaigns. He did not seek the national chairmanship. He did not want it. But having agreed to accept it, he intends to be the boss at national headquarters.

The second reason for confidence that Flynn will be the real boss, and not a front for anybody else, is that in agreeing to become national chairman he reached a frank understanding with the President. Flynn received two explicit assurances. The first was that Flynn would have a free hand in the organization and direction of the party during the campaign. The second was that the President would send no messages to him through intermediaries.

Flynn bluntly requested those assurances because he had seen at close range the gradual widening of the breach between the President and Jim Farley. He had known both well and been their warm friend for many years. He knew the disrupting effects of the President's growing tendency to manage party affairs through his amateur White House aides. He knew also of the irritations caused by the President's use of these aides to carry suggestions and orders to men with whom the President could and should have talked frankly and directly.

Assurances Tested

The President's assurances were put to a test only a few days after Flynn agreed to take the party chairmanship. A trusted friend of both men brought to Flynn in New York a minor suggestion from the President concerning the use of a particular individual on the national headquarters staff. Flynn replied in substance: "You know, as well as I do, that the President oughtn't to do that. He has given me the responsibility. I am not going to tell him what he ought to do or say about any public question. He'll have to let me fulfill in my own way the job he has assigned to me."

The intermediary agreed that Flynn was right. And when he came to Washington a few days later, Flynn reminded the President of his assurances.

Flynn intends to keep Charley Michelson, veteran publicity director of the National Committee. He has blasted the plans of the New Deal lieutenants for taking command of national headquarters.

Flynn is on excellent personal terms, however, with Harry Hopkins, Tommy Corcoran and other New Deal aides. Also he is intellectually and emotionally in more thorough accord with the President's major social objectives than Jim Farley is or ever was. But he knows how the New Dealers get in the hair of the regular Democratic politicians. Probably he will set up a semi-independent organization to mobilize the miscellaneous progressive votes, with Hopkins or Leaks or somebody of their general philosophy at the head.

But Flynn intends to keep firmly under his general direction the campaign that is conducted through the Democratic organizations throughout the country. He has made no decision on this point—and will make none until he has consulted other party leaders—but his natural inclination would be to set up several regional campaign headquarters, each under the direction of one experienced politician. This is the type of organization with which Flynn is familiar, and which is suited to his character. Although he is a most agreeable person, he is not the handsomely personified type of politician so well exemplified by Jim Farley.

He dislikes detail. He is accustomed to picking good men for specific jobs and holding them responsible.

Whatever the final form of his be the top not, not the front.

TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT 1 AND BAILEY CO.

I wish to express my sincere thanks for the splendid cooperation and support given me during the past several years that I have served as your commissioner. I have done my best. I am sure that I have made many mistakes and I appreciate the kindness with which you have borne them. I appreciate both the friends that voted for me and those that saw fit to vote against me. I accept the verdict you gave at the polls without any ill feeling toward any person.

To my successor in office I pledge my whole-hearted cooperation. I have always had the welfare of Bailey county at heart. I am, therefore, happy in the thought that the county is now in much better shape financially than when I first assumed office. I feel that I have had at least a small part in the large road building program that has marked the progress of the county through the last few years. It is my sincere hope, and I am sure, that these worthwhile programs will be continued. I will be just as interested in the upbuilding of my county out of office as I was while in office.

Again accept my sincere thanks.

WEEKLY LAY SERMON A SPIDER IN THE PALACE

By JESS MITCHELL

Human nature is always attracted by the uncommon, the phenomenal, the spectacular. We give no attention to the heavens studied stars every night; but a single jet flying across the zenith excites our wholesome interest and speculation. In this prairie country we give no attention to the thousands of sparrows; but a single red bird arouses our curiosity. We have become used to ordinary dust storms; but when the exceptional darkens or windows we manifest much concern. Things of ordinary happenstance are generally unnoticed, yet even occurrence, every sight and sound has its relative importance in this world of ours and may teach its lesson. Small beginnings frequently have mighty results.

Insects are sometimes infinitesimal yet may be multiplied in numbers to become powerful in effect. Scientists are just now beginning to learn something of the million ultramicroscopic bacteria in the air which effect our daily living, often so magnified in numbers as to produce death-dealing results. One grasshopper is not, comparatively speaking, very large, yet a horde of them invading a farmer's field will quickly destroy all crops. One red ant is quite small, yet in cooperative action they have been known to bring great distress and sometimes violent death from their multitude stings.

I have often observed the spider as it weaves its gossamer web across a corner of the ceiling. I have seen it travel briskly over those silken threads, so very slender, yet with the strength of steel. I have been astounded as it played its shuttle extending and enlarging that silvery web to become more effective in betraying and beguiling the unwary fly into those seductive meshes. I have frequently wondered of what worth is the spider in this our world of economy, yet I have observed they are everywhere in hut or palace. They are of many kinds and ply their skill of architecture day and night.

I recall that Solomon, that ancient luminous scriptural writer, among his many other observations, gave need to spiders, in a particular instance saying, "The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in king's palaces." That little insect is apparently insignificant when compared to a great palace, yet that wise man of old directed his attention to it. He gave no description of the size of the palace in which it weaves its web, said nothing of the regal furnishings, the magnificent hosterings, the beautiful frescoes, or the architectural intricacies of a little spider weaving its web in one corner of a room in that magnificent castle.

At first glance at a spider most of us would be struck by its hostess-like appearance, yet under the microscope I find it of remarkable construction and coloring. No scientist has yet been able to weave those delicate threads used as cross marks of observation centering on both large and small telescopes. No manufacturer can yet spin such delicate steele threads. No mechanic can from such intricate and beautiful prehensile foot as that with which the spider grasps its prey. No where in nature are there legs have been invented eyes with such multipotent lenses capable of such plural observation.

It takes Omniscience to perform the ultra-wonders of creation upon which we marvel. On the other hand, I have often seen the delicate wing of a fly, form the remarkable rainbow colored fish scale, endow the water lily with its perfect snowy whiteness, paint the intricate colors of an apricot blossom, tune the voice of a bee to immortal orchestras and vibrate the atmosphere with the shimmering gleams of the fire-flies. Astronomers point their giant scopes out into unmeasured space to behold the majesty of the stars; but taking a tiny speck, I can kneel down upon it and become so bewildered and awed by its magnificence as to be as if I were a child.

I am forced to exclaim with the Psalmist David, "Great and marvelous are thy works. On the other hand, I have often seen the delicate wing of a fly, form the remarkable rainbow colored fish scale, endow the water lily with its perfect snowy whiteness, paint the intricate colors of an apricot blossom, tune the voice of a bee to immortal orchestras and vibrate the atmosphere with the shimmering gleams of the fire-flies. Astronomers point their giant scopes out into unmeasured space to behold the majesty of the stars; but taking a tiny speck, I can kneel down upon it and become so bewildered and awed by its magnificence as to be as if I were a child.

It could not weave a robe for King Solomon, yet that did not keep it from plying its shuttle in the corner web of his bedroom. It is my opinion that folks who are lazy with one talent would be indifferent if they had a hundred, and it is only in exercising such talents as we have that they are developed and others are given to us. Omniscience was never too big to do the little things of creation. Think of the billions of little grains of sand he chiseled, the millions of tiny dew-drops he mirrored with the reflection of heaven, hewed with mathematical accuracy, he constructed the hexagonal cell for the honey bee to fill with gathered nectar, how he streamlined the bill of the curlew, adorned the wing of the pheasant or tuned the voice of the mockingbird to variegated warble which no scientist has yet been able to successfully diagnose.

I have often been impressed with the idea that it is not the quantity we do, but the quality we accomplish. Everything God does, he does well, and whether we have one, five or ten talents, we should always strive to use them in the same manner of energy and perfection. Talents grow through use, practice makes perfect. Just as the musician gains technical proficiency through repetition of scales and arpeggios, as the artist gains greater illumination of color by frequent combination of pigments, as the machinist learns to shave the steel in his lathe so slightly it can not be felt by the finger, so intricate perfection and wondrous development of skill and increase of talent comes by constant use of such as is given us at the beginning.

Every home should be a castle, whether one lives in a tiny hut or a magnificent mansion that is home to them, and every man's home is his earthly castle. It is the one place on earth where love, peace and joy should abound, yet sometimes domestic joy and family dissonance creeps in. What causes it? A spider has crept into that palace. A well developed character, a charming disposition, a life of great virtue is a magnificent thing to observe, yet often see folks of great intellectual and spiritual attainments who have a flaw of some kind in their makeup. Some unnoticed bias has crept in, some little whim, some particular prejudice, some "dead fly in the ointment" is insidiously affecting their inner nature and may eventually despoil their entire character. It is a spider in that palace.

Persistence, to my mind, is one of life's greatest levers of accomplishment. The sticktiveness of energetic persistence will invariably win if the prescription is determinedly followed. As that little spider in Solomon's palace began crawling up the wall toward the height of the ceiling, it may have thought it was a terribly long distance, requiring a long time and unparalleled energy to reach the top, and such is the experience of mankind; but persistence in following after ideals, pursuing of lofty aims, battling against innumerable obstacles, invariably brings desired results.

It is the persevering laborer who eventually becomes the skilled mechanic, the common soldier who becomes the great general, the store clerk who becomes the merchant prince, the country lawyer who becomes the man of eloquence before the Supreme court. At first the vision may be somewhat dim, the aim not clearly seen, the arm a trifle weak, the brain foggy and untrained, the tongue slow, the footstep somewhat difficult—there may be innumerable mental and moral deficits to contend with; but the lofty persistent vision and indomitable courage invariably wins the heights of the king's palace.

A few years ago I visited that remarkable work of nature, the Carlsbad Caverns, and beheld the intricate chiselings of time and superb coloring which was accomplished only after thousands, and perhaps millions of years of persistent action of the elements. Everything looked weird and spectral as the light threw his light here and there for the tourists' observation. When we came to the big throne-room and saw the "Rock of Ages," all lights were extinguished, and for the first time, we all experienced absolute darkness. We were 275 feet below the earth's surface. Every sound had a gloomy effect, every echo a far away reverberation. There was a sense of bearing down and indescribable suppression and depression as we inhaled that inky darkness. It was indescribable, yet all pervading. It was a veritable living grave for the more than 600 people in that cavern of exploration; but I knew it was only a matter of a little time before the resurrection, when those government elevators would again bring us up to the surface and into the fresh air and golden sunlight of earth.

So the time is coming when all

BAILEY CO. HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

By LILLIE GENTRY
Home Demonstration Agent of
Bailey County

Corn-on-the-cob, blackeyed peas, french tomatoes, with young onions make as good a meal as anyone could want. This is typically seasonal food, and in many sections of the state it is available in home gardens or from nearby farms at low cost.

As good as corn-on-the-cob and peas can be, some cooks don't do them justice, in the opinion of Miss Gentry, Bailey county home demonstration agent. For instance, most vegetables are best prepared and used as soon as possible after they reach the home kitchen. Peas and corn, especially lost much of their flavor after standing only a short time.

For corn remove the husks just before cooking. Plunge the ears into boiling water and cook from six to 12 minutes depending on the age of the corn. Do not salt the cooking water as this toughens the corn.

Peas should be cooked in as little water as possible just until tender—then serve simply with butter or some other well-flavored fat and light seasonings. If the vegetables are not to be cooked at once, store them in a covered dish in a cool place so as to keep crisp, Miss Gentry advises.

With so many vegetables to choose from, it is easy to plan an entire meal around them. For a vegetable plate the agent suggests fresh peas for the bright green color, roasting ears, and plump red tomatoes to broil or bake. Where hot weather has not yet been harmful on frame gardens are in production many beets and carrots are plentiful and tender young salad greens are available. Other vegetable plate selections might include snap beans, lima beans and yellow squash.

MRS. CROCKETT DOES FALL GARDEN WORK

Yes, it's time to turn the spot light from the summer garden which will soon play out anyway, to that of a fall garden, which, if properly planned and cared for, should mature long before the freeze of winter comes.

Mrs. S. H. Crockett of Bula H. D. club has a nicely growing fall garden of English peas, beans, peas, carrots, Swiss chard, turnip greens and lettuce.

Let's not be satisfied with one summer planting in an open garden! Let your planting plan include a spring, summer and fall open garden and at least two plantings in a frame garden for the months which are two severe for an open garden.

DORIS JEAN BEARDEN CANS FOOD

Doris Jean Bearden, Progress 4-H club, was proud to exhibit to Miss Bess Edwards, assistant state agent, the things she has accomplished this year in 4-H club work.

Doris Jean is garden demonstrator for her club, and in her garden you will find a great variety of vegetables, as well as a nice strawberry patch. She has canned plums, peaches, beans, peas, and greens, and plans to can tomatoes must descend into our respective niches of earth; but the soul will be transported to the King's palace eternal. We shall dwell forever in apartments supernal, our essential entities always enjoying that spiritual grandeur. There will be incomparable celestial associations. Here on earth anyone can get in jail; but the proper credentials are necessary to enter the White House, and we must carry with us well endorsed credentials to enter that palace "not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." One may be a beggar here on earth, but in eternity he can be an immortal prince. One may be an outcast on earth; but in that eternal land, an exhalted courtier. No spiders shall ever enter there. Contending with those omnivorous insects on earth, we will have learned to conquer them and have overcome their influences for all time.

later. Other than her work in the garden, Doris Jean has made two play suits and is making a personality scrap book.

To make this scrap book she took two pieces of card board, covered them with brown domestic, feather stitched around the edge and painted an original design in red water colors on the front cover.

She is collecting magazine articles, bulletins and pictures on personality development for the book.

EVELYN MULLER DOES CLOTHING WORK

Evelyn Muller, clothing demonstrator for the Watson 4-H club, has to her credit the construction of 12 garments consisting of two play suits, a house coat and nine dresses.

She has added shelves to her clothes closet and intends to paint the closet on the inside. This will make the closet much lighter and more attractive, too.

In order to eliminate haphazard buying, Evelyn is keeping a clothing inventory, a list of the clothing which she will need for a year and a purchasing plan.

"Bad" Hawks and "Good" Hawks
The four "bad" hawks, those deserving of little protection, are the goshawk, sharp-shinned hawk, Cooper's hawk and the duck hawk. The "good" hawks list follows: Red-tailed hawk, red-shouldered hawk, broad-winged hawk, Swainson's hawk, American rough-legged hawk, ferruginous rough-legged hawk, eastern sparrow hawk, marsh hawk and osprey.

WHAT HOPS DO FOR BEER AND ALE

Hops are for flavor. They give to good beer and ale their lively, appetizing flavor, their pleasant, aromatic tang.

Brewers select and blend their hops with extreme care. In fact, every step in making beer and ale is conducted with masterly skill—to give you better-tasting, more wholesome beverages.

Now the brewing industry wants to do one thing more. It wants to protect your right to drink good beer and ale—by keeping the places where beer and ale are sold wholesome, too.

We want undesirable, anti-social establishments "cleaned-up or closed-up." A plan of action has already been put into effect in a number of states. This plan is being extended. We'd like you to know about it. Send for interesting free booklet.

Men Draw $75 Month While Learning To Fly At Lubbock

Lubbock, August 16.—The United States Army is training many young men at government expense to hold high salary positions in Army and Commercial aviation and paying them $75.00 a month while they learn.

United States citizens between 20 and 27 years of age who have at least two years college work are eligible to receive this training as flying cadets. Those who do not have credit for two years work will pass an examination covering the work and become eligible.

The response to the call for Flying Cadets has been gratifying to government officials but they are anxious to receive applications from more young men who are interested in aviation.

Flying Cadets are trained for three months in leading civilian flying schools from where they go to Randolph Field for three months work. They take their final three months instruction at Kelly Field.

On completion of the nine-months course, they are given Reserve commissions in the United States Army Air Corps. While appropriations are available, they will be given active duty as Second Lieutenants in the regular Army Air Corps.

While on active duty with the Air Corps they will be given further instruction in specialties of branches of Army flying so that by the time they go back to civilian life they will be qualified either for positions as commercial airline pilots or for administrative or executive positions in the industry.

Full information and preliminary physical examinations will be given eligible young men at any Army Recruiting Station.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PRaising GOD FOR HIS BLESSINGS

LESSON TEXT.—Psalm 103:1-5, 10-13. GOLDEN TEXT.—Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits.—Psalm 103:2.

We live in difficult and confusing days with much on every hand to discourage us. We look about us in vain for any encouraging sign. The result is that unless we exercise care the temptation will overtake us who are Christians to fall into the bitter, complaining attitude of the world, forgetting the benefits which God has bestowed upon us, forgetting His mercy and grace, and, in this hour of trial, telling the world by our life, if not by our lips, that we have lost our faith in God.

It is easy to praise God when all goes well when we see His blessing upon us; but the Christian should recognize that praise is a vital part of his daily fellowship with God, an expression of his appreciation of all that God is and does for him. Psalm 103 has in all generations been a favorite of Christian people when passing through deep waters and fiery trials.

I. Praise for Personal Blessings (vv. 1-5).
Our relationship to God is a personal one, and His blessings are personal. Praise also is a personal soul exercise to which we need often to stir ourselves. We need to call on "all that is within" us to bless and praise the Lord.

"Forget not"—how prone we are to do that very thing. We remember the things we ought to forget and forget the things we ought to remember. We have become so accustomed to the many blessings of God that we accept them as a matter of course.

Note that the chief of all blessings is the forgiveness of sin (v. 3). The spiritual is far more important than the physical, but that too is included. Only God can heal our diseases, whether by means or by direct intervention. He also bestows with true satisfaction every right and normal desire of man, whether it be physical, social, mental or spiritual. That calls for praise from the depths of our being.

II. Praise for Forgiveness of Sin (vv. 10-14).
We may "put on a front" when we deal with our fellow men; but there is no use in thus trying to fool God. He knows us for what we are— frail children of dust, and feeble as frail." We are not able to meet our own little problems; how can we do anything with the sin question?

The mercy of God, high as the heavens is revealed nowhere in such overflowing measure as in His dealing with the sins of "them that fear him" (v. 13). For them He has the pity of a father. He has more, for He has the authority and power to cast our sins as far from us as the east is from the west, and how far that is no one knows.

Observe that His mercy is only for "them that fear him." "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble" (James 4:6, 1 Pet. 5:6, 7). Whosoever will may come and receive of Him abundant pardon. Why not come now?

III. Praise for Everlasting Loving-kindness (vv. 15-18).

Man and everything that man makes or does is transient, and will one day pass away. What a fool that man is who lives only for the things of this world which are destined to wither like the grass! How tragic to come into eternity and to face God empty handed and condemned for one's own selfishness and folly, when He is willing to show unto us that "loving-kindness" which is not only for this life, but also for the life that is to come.

As we praise God for this great and blessed gift, shall we not be moved to give up and seek to win others to Him?

In closing this brief study of the One Hundred Third Psalm may we again suggest that in these bitter days which so sorely try the hearts of men, we lift our souls up to a high spiritual plane by praising God. When Hardley Page was making a flight through the Orient a large rat was attracted by the smell of food and entered into the airplane. Later, when Mr. Page was in mid-air over a mountainous country where he could not land, he suddenly heard the sound of gnawing behind him. He knew that the rat might so damage his plane as to cause disaster. Then he remembered that a rat is not made for high altitudes. So he began to soar. Soon the gnawing ceased and hours later when his machine landed he found the rat lying dead beneath the engine. It is a blessed truth that Satan cannot endure the high altitudes of praise. He quickly departs from the soul whom he finds rejoicing in this high and lofty spiritual atmosphere. "Try praise," for "praise changes things."

Soil Conservation Election May Be Held Oct. 19

Tentative date of October 19 has been set for holding elections regarding organization of conservation districts in Bailey, Crosby, Hale, Swisher and Castro counties, according to available information.
