The one thing both foes and supporters of state Proposition 13 agree upon is that if the measure is approved - which most polls say is likely - it will shake local and state government in California to its deepest roots.

The proposal is extreme: "A needed shock" says Republican U.S. Sen. S. I. Hayakawa; "A m e a t-ax approach," says Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The initiative would amend the state constitution to-limit annual property taxes to 1 percent of market value, which would cut tax bills for all prop-

Paratroopers discover massacre

KOLWEZI, Zaire (AP) -French and Belgian paratroopers seized control of Kolwezi from rebels Saturday and reported about 100 foreigners had been massacred in this copper mining center.

Some of the 1,500 white residents waiting to be flown to safety told reporters they witnessed widespread murder, bloodshed and looting by the rebels who captured Kolwezi from government forces a week

French and Belgian army officers said their troops controlled the city and were mopping up small bands of rebels.

Airport terrorists dead Perrier, governor of Orly's Val

PARIS (AP) - Three terrorists bent on massacring Israelbound air passengers opened fire with submachine guns in an Orly airport departure lounge Saturday and were killed by police in a half-hour gunbattle. One policeman also died and two officers and three passengers were wounded. Security men of the Israeli airline El Al joined with airport police in pinning down and killing the terrorists in the Orly air terminal, eight miles south of Paris, airline officials said. The identities of the dead and wounded were not immediately available, but all three wounded passengers were reported to be French.

Tunisian and Lebanese passports were found on the dead terrorists, who appeared to be Arab, but the papers were believed to be forgeries, Jean de Marne District, told report-

Without warning, the terrorists opened fire at about 3:40 p.m. on passengers waiting in the lounge to pass through security checks and board an El Al flight to Tel Aviv, scheduled to leave at 4:20 p.m.

"The terrorists didn't have a chance to get off more than the first burst when French security men and our security men opened fire together," El Al President Modechi Hod told Israeli Radio.

Police said security personnel first noticed the three men in an Iberian Airlines lounge near Departure Lounge 30, scene of the shooting.

Perrier said the terrorists carried hand grenades, plastic explosives and Beretta submachine guns concealed in hand baggage. He said they apparently had no intention of trying to board the El Al plane by passing through the electronic security checks, which would have detected their concealed weapons

The security guards became suspicious of the men and challenged them.

"When they were challenged. one of them pulled a submachine gun out of his bag and started firing," said Interior Minister Christian Bonnet.

Earlier official reports later denied said two other suspected terrorists had taken refuge on a terrace of the terminal building and then hid in a restroom.

At one point, Gaston Viens, mayor of Orly, told reporters five terrorists and two policemen were dead.

There was no explanation of these incorrect official reports.

Film crews mosey into Texas

By SUSAN STOLER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Hollywood producers aren't hard to please, Pat Wolfe

Just furnish them a 1950s cafe, next to a motel on a highway with one gas station, mountains in the background and a town

Ms. Wolfe helped one crew find such a scene just outside El Paso in the town of "They had to redecorate the cafe to get it just like they wanted it, but didn't have to change much else," said the executive director of the Texas Film Commission. Since its beginning in 1971, the commission has changed from an agency begging for publicity to one fielding constant requests from Hollywood and New York producers for help in locating film

In its first two years, the agency brought in $10 million in productions. Last year alone, film crews spent $32 million in Texas. The Fabens location is being used for filming, "When Are You Coming Home, Red Rider?," a play adaptation. Marjoe Gortner, Peter Firth of "Equus" fame, Hal Linden and Lee Grant are among those signed for the production.

"It's a heavy storyline," says Ms. Wolfe. "It's the kind of thing they give Academy Awards for." The movie involves a Vietnam veteran who holds several persons hostage in an old cafe.

In addition to films, the commission tries to convince television and commercial producers to try Texas instead of Los Angeles and New York

'We claim to be the third coast," said the 32-year-old director with an "I Love Texas' necklace around her neck. Producers usually contact the film commission, either by phone or by sending scripts and asking Ms. Wolfe if Texas can provide the right location. The commission has tried to play down 'typical" Texas sites of prickly pear cactus, longhorns and oil wells, she said. Still, several productions listed on her office chalkboard include such names as "Gusher" and "Oil: Among the current productions is one directed by Ron Howard of "Happy Day." The television-film, "Cotton Candy" is being filmed at Lake Highlands High School in Dallas and the surrounding area. Filming also is scheduled this summer in Houston for the $10 million television production of "Blood and Money." an adaptation of Tommy Thompson's book concerning the murder of a Houston physician accused of killing his socialite wife. The film commission, with three fulltime employees and a $146,000 budget, has room for expansion if the Legislature sees fit, she said Ms. Wolfe stays in contact with films in production and often visits the site to check on progress. Concerns include making sure restaurants and motels don't hike up prices when film crews arrive and seeing that producers pay their bills. Both situations have occured in the past.

"A parking garage in Houston wanted to charge $2,000 to let 'The Bad News Bears in Breaking Training' park their trucks there," she said, adding a phone call straightened that out.

Producers who fail to pay their bills can be traced through the Motion Picture Producers Association in Hollywood or by contacting film commissions in the other 39 states with such agencies. Local communities, from the police chief to chamber of commerce, have welcomed film crews with few exceptions, she said. 'Sometimes we get ladies who say, "I don't want my chicken coop filmed.' But I don't think we've saturated any one place so much to turn off the population," she

Effects of attracting productions to Texas don't end with dollars changing hands, she said.

"Take the series 'Dallas," which recently signed with CBS for another 22 episodes," she said. "People are going to see the Dallas skyline, the Hyatt Regency Reunion Tower and are going to want to come see it. Like 'The Streets of San Francisco' made people go to San Francisco and walk those streets.

The golden age

Where major surgery is indicated, our government is about to apply another Band-Aid. Starting this month the U.S. begins selling gold. The Treasury Department has announced the sales as a means to "reduce the country's trade deficit and bolster the dollar."

It is intended to sell batches of 300,000 ounces each month for a six - month period for a total of 1.8 million ounces. This amount of gold at present prices would be worth about $302 million.

The trade deficit for the month of February was $4.5 billion. Compared to the coming trade deficit for the year 1978 exchanging 1.8 million ounces of gold for currency of little value is about like dumping a buket of water in a lake.

Also, the effect, if any, on the dollar in international trade will have about the same impact.

These gold sales begin to appear as a futile effort on the part of government to counteract the trend toward holding gold by individuals as a Prime Ministers Takeo Fukuda of Japan and Menachem Begin of Israel, for example, have made White House and other stops on the standard U.S. tour.

The figurative red carpet was rolled out for the Soviet Union's Leonid Brezhenev in West Germany while his neighbor, Hua Kuo-feng, prime minister and party chairman of People's China, chose neighboring North Korea for his very first state trip

And Jimmy Carter of the United States chanced a four-state swing through the American West in what was quite likely the toughest personal appearance assignment of all.

It may have cancer.

But there is a cure.

Carter and the West are at issue on a number of issues. Farm policy, for instance. The strike movement originated in eastern Colorado and his opposition to parity and threat to veto a farm bill are deeply resented throughout the region.

Also water policy. In most of the West, water is literally economic life. Carter's post inauguration move to cancel a score of water projects, including nine of the largest in the West, did nothing to endear him to a region where vast naturally arid stretches cannot produce crops without an assist from dams and irrigation systems.

And energy. The administration's policies are seen as both unfair to an energy - producing region suspicious that the exploitation of its resources could turn it into an energy colony of eastern population centers.

It also happens that the federal government owns from much to most of the Western states, from a low of 30 percent of Montana to a high of 66 percent of Utah. As a landlord, it has never been popular and is rapidly becoming less so with environmentalist - minded restrictions on grazing, timber cutting and mineral exploitation.

The general complaint is that neither Carter nor anyone in his executive entourage really understands the West

Reefer Madness

The federal government had finally stumbled on a way to persuade marijuana users that pot is dangerous. It began several years ago with a federal program aimed at heroin. The United States gave Mexico $40 million to buy aircraft and train personnel to spray killer chemicals on the poppy fields, the source of much of the heroin that enters the United States. Apparently on their own initiative, the Mexicans, assisted by American advisers and equipment, went on to spray marijuana fields.

The trouble is, the herbicide the Mexicans chose to use against marijuana is paraquat, a substance so toxic, according to the label, that "one swallow can kill." Paraquat is supposed to brea down quickly when it hits the soil and present no long-term danger. But it takes sunlight to kill the plant. The resourceful Mexican farmers now rush to harvest their crops on the day they are sprayed. with the toxic herbicide still on the leaves. Past federal warnings of the danger of marijuana have been based on slim evidence. But now the government has fulfilled its own prophecy The Department of Health, Education and Welfare warns that permanent lung damage could result from smoking three to five heavily contaminated cigarettes a day for several months. Thus, a program designed to protect people from the supposedly harmful effects of marijuana has succeeded in putting them at Moreover, some State Department officials see no reson to protect Americans who are using a contraband substance. Just the other day, one of them questioned "whether our administration has a responsibility to provide an illicit drug in clean, completely healthy condition.

But, in fact, the United States is helping to add a poison to the drug. Fortunately, there are signs that the State Department, under pressure from other agencies, Congress and pro-marijuana groups, will communicate the latest health findings to Mexico and perhaps urge the use of other herbicides. AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The average cost of building a house in Texas during the first three months of 1978 was $40,-800 - an 18 percent increase from the same period last year, a University of Texas researcher reported Saturday.

Average construction valuations of over $50,000 for new single-family dwellings were posted in Midland-Odessa, Longview-Tyler and in Abilene, reported Janet Tandy of UT's Bureau of Business Research.

At $20,600 per house, the Laredo area registered the lowest average estimated cost of production for single-family houses, Ms. Tandy said.

construction in Texas rose by 38 percent in the first quarter of 1978 to $1.6 billion.

Of that total, $967 million was for new residential construction, with single-family dwellings accounting for 74 percent. The valuation for total new construction declined from the 1977 level in Amarillo, Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange, Galveston-Texas City, Longview, Odessa, San Angelo and Tyler. Only Longview, however, showed declines in residential and nonresidential valuations. During the first quarter of this year, 29.5 percent of all new construction valuation was

ter administration officials said Saturday that old-fashioned household accounting practices and modern computer technology are helping the government save $125 million a year.

At the heart of the newly instituted savings program is the principle that cash in government accounts is worth more than uncashed checks or money owed the government because the cash can earn interest.

The savings are being accomplished by cutting delays in cashing checks made out to the government, investing available cash in interest-bearing accounts and making sure the government's bills are paid no sooner than necessary, federal officials said

The impact will be largely on banks and major corporations with whom the government save by earning interest does business, according to Wayne Granquist, associate director for management and regulatory policy at the Office > of Management and Budget. Although the administration is attempting to streamline the process by which the government collects the money owed to it, nothing is being done to the schedule by which the government pays out income tax refunds.

> > "We're not toying with that," said Richard Cavanaugh, director of the federal cash management program.

Slowing the pace of paying income tax refunds could save the government money, but this practice would delay taxpayers' refunds.

Instead, the government is using methods frequently subscribed to by those who manage household finances - holding back payments until they are due and transferring excess checking account funds to interest-paying savings accounts. Through this practice, federal officials hope the interest earned will offset a fraction of the $47 billion the government is expected to pay in interest on the national debt in the next fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 The projected $125 million annual saving is tiny when compared with the $500 billion federal budget. But Granquist said it represents only a first step in an effort "to bring to the federal government some commonsense business practices.

Digger is a third-generation undertaker. He doesn't mind being called Digger, either, although his father, who named him William F. Young Jr., objected to the nickname strenuously.

"It's inevitable. Some people are going to get a chuckle out of calling an undertaker 'Digger.' They're going to do it anyhow, so why not relax about it? The world needs more chuckles. "I've been in business with my name on the door for more than 20 years, I've been coroner since 1970, yet I doubt if many people in town know my name. To them, I'm Digger. It's okay by me. William F. Young Jr. did not aspire to be an undertaker even though he was raised from boyhood in the rooms over the funeral parlor his grandfather established in 1896 in nearby West Sunbury. He and his wife and three children still live there. What Digger aspired to be was a professional baseball player, and came within a spring tryout with the Yankees of all right, he would go to undertaker's school. A family tradition endured. Meanwhile, just for the fun of it, Digger had taken up roller skating and became accomplished at it, doing tricks, clowning

The 1976 supplies included 1 trillion cubic feet of natural gas from Canada, 300 billion in substitute natural gas from liquids, and 10 billion cubic feet in liquefied natural gas imports.

Canadian supplies were projected to increase to 1.4 trillion cubic feet by 1980 but drop to 1.1 trillion by 1990, 1 trillion by 1995, and to 800 billion cubic feet by 2000.

Substitute supplies from liquids are expected to remain steady after moving to 500 billion cubic feet by 1980 and to 900 billion by 1985.

Coal gasification first appears in the projections at 200 billion cubic feet by 1985 but is expected to rise to 4 trillion cubic feet by 2000. The 1900 estimate is 1.2 trillion and this is expected to climb to 2.4 trillion by 1995.

The AGA said unconventional in-place gas resources requiring new improved technology to permit economic recovery are substantial. Such methane resources, the report said, include 300 to 800 trillion cubic feet in coalbeds, 600 trillioin in tight formations, 3,000 trillion or more in geopressured zones, and 500 to 600 trillion in Devonian shale.

"For some of these sources, technology already permits production on a small commercial scale," the AGA report said.

"For most, economic incentives will be needed before full scale commercialization can be realized.

Spy cases could force ruling on classifying

ALEXANDRIA. Va. (AP) -The appeals of two men convicted of spying for communist Vietnam could force the Supreme Court to examine the government's system of classifying documents, attorneys say.

Defense attorneys for the two men say they will carry appeals to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., and if necessary to the Supreme Court.

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who is not one of the defense attorneys but who contributed to a defense fund for defendant David Truong, told reporters before the verdict Friday that, "A conviction in this case would bring the whole classification system under judicial scrutiny by the Supreme Court."

Federal courts have never issued definitive rulings on whether it is proper to examine the process by which authorized government employees may classify documents as confidential, secret or top secret.

In the current case, Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. instructed the jury to accept the classification without considering whether it was proper or not.

The convicted men are Ronald L. Humphrey, 42, a former employee of the U.S. Information Agency, and Truong, 32, a Vietnamese expatriate who has lived in this country for 13 years and who was active in the antiwar movement.

Both were convicted Friday on six counts of an indictment charging them with conspiracy. espionage, theft of documents and failure to register as foreign agents. Each could receive a life sentence.

Both were arrested Jan. 31. and Humphrey has been in jail since then. Truong was released April 14 after posting bond of $250,000.

The judge revoked bond for both men after the verdict was announced by the jury of six men and six women, and the pair was taken away to jail.

Truong's attorneys, Michael E. Tigar and Marvin D. Miller. and Humphrey's lawyers, Warren L. Miller and Mark Foster. said they planned to appeal.

Missy Andrus, a blonde angel of a child, twists her young body this way and that as she demonstrates exercises on the living room floor of the Carl Andrus home.

Her pigtails bounce up and down as she kicks her legs. Her yellow thongs flop a bit during ankle rotating exercises. Missy's just a little girl, but the exercises help keep her in better physical shape than most children her age.

Under her green shorts are a pair of slightly enlarged knees. Nothing noticeable, but she favors them during the exercises. Not so very long ago, Missy's mother had to help with the exercises, but now Missy grins and does them

Missy has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, making her one of more than 250,000 children in the United States afflicted with the chronic disease. The exercise are part of a regimen for relieving the inflammation, stiffness and pain caused by this most serious of all forms of arthritis. Sometimes she cries from the pain, and her parents have been known to cry with her.

Arthritis claims more than 600,000 victims a year, striking mostly at joints and having the dubious honor of being the nation's number one crippling diesase. Every case is different and must be treated as such, the Andrus family emphasized.

Missy had a bad winter. It was so cold. But that isn't about to stop her. Now that it's warm, she's out on her bicycle and hopes soon to muster the courage to remove the training wheels. Her exercise program - along with aspirin, whirlpool bath and the wearing of splints at night - helps keep her joints flexible. She also swims, an activity that's easier for her than walking.

Don't feel sorry for this child. She doesn't want it. Her parents don't need it. It interferes with Missy's desire to live as normal a life as she possibly can.

Missy has been known to slip into the recess line at school when she wanted to play with the other children. When the weather is warm that's fine, but when it's cold or the disease is at its worst, she shouldn't. She's also been known to crawl across the monkey bars when the teacher didn't think she could.

"Missy has a determination that would kill most of us off," Mrs. Andrus said. "Youjust have to let them go and the'll find their own limits."

The school children are quick to remind the teacher if the aspirin Missy needs are forgotten. The teacher knows of Missy's condition, but for the most part, it's kept in the family.

Andrus isn't the family's real name. The parents wanted anonymity. They would rather have had the disease themselves than see Missy victimized by it. They feel Missy might suffer more if knowledge of her problem became widespread. They worry, too, about the effect of Missy's problem on her sister, Pam.

Pam sometimes gets aggravated when Missy can't keep up, but her parents said their younger daughter is well behaved and helpful when Missy

"It takes a lot of time and a lot of faith to keep everything going for us in the family," Mrs.

Andrus said. "It takes a lot of love. Some families couldn't take it."

'It" started three years ago, when a babysitter noticed that Missy was limping slightly and favoring her knees. Later the child got to the point "where she could barely walk." Her wrists, ankles and neck have also been sites of pain.

After contacting several doctors, and hospitalizing Missy for a biopsy, a diagnosis finally came through: juvenile rheumatoid arthritis.

The Andrus family was lucky. They found a specialist who knew the proper treatment for the Treatments for arthritis, the cause of which is still unknown, vary. Most include exercise and aspirin for the inflammation. Missy now takes two adult-sized aspirin tablets four times a day. Pamphlet distributed by the Arthritis Foundation indicate that the dosage must not be forgoteen or taken sporadically:

Whirlpool baths twice daily help soothe Missy's pain and make her joints more flexible. And she wears splints fashioned by her grandfather, padded with ace bandages, to avoid a contraction of the muscles and ligaments in her knees. If an arthritic joint is in a flexed position for a long period, there's a chance it will stay that way.

Cortisone, a steroid, is one of the most anti inflammatory drugs, a Missy has taken it. But the side effects of that drug can be serious, and Mrs. Andrus said the drug could damage eyes.

Pamphlets from the Arthritis Foundation indicate that the childhood disease can be outgrown, but information from the experts is contradictory.

One pamphlet said that 70 percent of the children outgrow the disease completely, with 20 percent having leftover minor effects as an adult and 10 percent carrying the disease for life.

Another pamphlet said one child in 10 outgrows the disease, and still another said one in five.

But the pamphlets agree on one thing, and that is that the disease can subside or disappear for years. These remission periods are normal; but some patients have attributed them to a change in diet, which has nothing to do with the disease, or the use of some lucky charm like a copper

"The doctor will tell you not to listen to people's adivce," Andrus said. That advice might include a move to a warmer climate or warmer sweaters. According to the Arthritis Foundation. Americans spend $485,000,000 a year for have nothing to do with the long - term care which

Money? "It doesn't seem to matter," Mrs. Andrus said. "The worst part is seeing your child hurt ... and wishing it was yourself."

Missy sees both a specialist and a pediatrician. The doctors advise that she be allowed to do as knows pain Missy sees both a specialist and a pediatrician. much as she can handle.

"We treat it like there's nothing wrong and we expect her to act like there's nothing wrong," Andrus said

"We don't let there be any feeling sorry around here," Mrs. Andrus said.

But the best attitude at all come from Missy herself, who bounced her blonde pigtails and

"I'm just like everybody else," Missy said.

It was dark outside when Elmer McLaughlin went to check his barns. Very dark. Kind of like ink had been spilled across the night sky, blotting out any trace of moon or stars.

Only a flashlight provided a thin ray of light between himself, total darkness and the debris underfoot.

A quick survey of the twisted, mangled roofing of his hogbarn and scattered bits of corral fencing strewn about confirmed his suspicion: "Twister

All that was three years ago. Now, the eastern Gray County stock-man is just beginning to get his hog operation back in gear. He is still quite a ways from his former production level.

But the big question facing McLaughlin, president of the Texas Pork Producers Association, is, "Do I completely rebuild to my former production level?"

He shrugs and shakes his head contemplating the answer. Why? Because McLaughlin sees the even greater destruction on the horizon threatening his and other agricultural producers' livelihoods.

That storm is the federal government.

In fact, says the silver-haired, blue-eyed Scottish descendant, the frontal winds of the government's impending destruction are now beginning to rattle even the soundest of family farm operations.

"I just can't encourage my son to take over my operation," says McLaughlin whose college-age son is studying to become and accountant. "There is just no future in it. Today, a man just can't count on being in husiness tomorrow "

The source of his and other farmers' insecurity rests squarely on the shoulders of the federal government, says McLaughlin

"Not too long ago I had a federal inspector visit my place. He was a young fellow. Not much older than my boy. And I'm sure he was a good fellow. But he just didn't have good

"He took a look at a load of feed I had recently bought from a dealer in Kansas. The same dealer I have been buying from some time. Well, it happened that this particular dealer changed its name just a little. Nothing big. Just a slight "I came along and bought a load of feed and the dealer shipped it bagged under its former name. The federal inspector saw the feed was bagged under the old name and said that was illegal. The feed in the bags was exactly the same as I had been buying labeled under the old name. "I told this young feller that the feed was the same and asked him if it really made that much difference that the feed was in bags with the old name. He said it did because under federal law it was illegal. Now mind you, the feed was exactly the same as before. Old name or new.

"Well, we went on about it for awhile and finally the inspector said, 'Look, I can have this whole place quarantined. I can shut you completely down right

At this point, McLaughlin told the inspector that he had no authority while he was on private property. And that he could only quarantine the product after it left the farm.

But not all producers are as well acquainted with the law as McLaughlin. He says that federal representatives, from animal feed inspectors to environmental agents, use vague and finepoint federal laws to intimidate "us ol' dirtclod farmers.

Why are some federal agency employees apparently so overbearing and intimidating? McLaughlin thinks it is mostly a matter of ego; the individual is impressed with his own authority.

"I don't know," says McLaughlin as he pulls his cap low against the sun, "it just seems the government hires people who don't know what they are talking about or enforcing. To make up for their lack of knowledge, they come on strong. They try to intimidate you into thinking they know what they are talking about. Just like that young feed inspector.

Although McLaughlin remains convinced that there are federal employees who are conscientious and understanding, still he believes the majority "are just doing a job with little or no understanding of what they

It is this situation, this "impersonal intrusion" which he feels is most threatening to today's farmers. And this is why he is encouraging his own son to pursue a career other than farming or livestock production.

There are still some remaining signs of the toronado's destruction on the McLaughlin farm. A shredded windbreak here and a pile of debris over there. Elmer McLaughlin walks softly about the farmstead and proudly reflects about the 30-plus years he has farmed and raised hogs on the place.

"You know, a man can learn to live with bad times and destructive weather. You get used to it. But this government thing, well, I feel it is just a loosing battle. There's just no way to live with it. If something isn't done, it'll get us all."

'Why the little ol' buggers will greet me with 'Hello, Mr. Wylie' in the mornings and some hold my hand while crossing the street. I tell you...yessir, I just love

But that love of kids transcends more than a friendly greeting or holding hands for the 67-year-old retired route salesman. It means a deep, abiding concern for their individual and collective safety.

It is that concern which makes "Mr. Wylie" always walk between the traffic and the children. "I guess I figure the drivers will see me first. And if they don't ... well, I guess they'll get me first.'

driver just kept on going."
Wylie shakes his head and says, "I shuddered like a newborn calf for two days."

Cars aren't the only safety hazards. The kids themselves are enough to drive the average safety-conscious individual mad. "I walk some of those little ol' buggers across the street and before I know it, they will beat me back, I really try to keep an eye on these kids."

But most of the children are well behaved, according to the grandfatherly Wylie who has six grandchildren of his own. And most soon learn to watch out for themselves...with a little help of course.

Through it all, Wylie just smiles and pats his slight paunch, thinking of all the goodies the kids bring him. And as a group of youngsters nears his crosswalk, "Mr. Wylie" casts a longing glance to the bright sun and the surrounding greenery and signs. "I'd like to take every one of those kids fishin'."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife died 18 months ago, and this lady I'm interested in has been a widow for three years. We knew each other "way back when." I'm 66 and this lady is

Before I renew our friendship, I'd like to ask you a few questions. Since her husband died, she's had several men staying with her (one at a time) in her one-bedroom trailer. I've also heard that she has visited an old farmer at his farmhouse (just the two of them) for days at a time.

Last week she headed for Colorado with another old buddy in his camper truck. She said she planned to sleep in motels on the way, and he would sleep in the truck; she didn't say where they would sleep once they got to Colorado.

Now, Abby, I don't want to marry a woman who has a bad reputation. She's the talk of this little town, but she is really a very high-class lady and everybody likes her. What is your advice?

FRANK IN FLORIDA

DEAR FRANK: It seems almost a disservice to the community to take this aging swinger out of circulation—if indeed you could. But if you regard this woman as a "high-class lady," any advice I could give you would fall on deaf ears. And your vision isn't too good, either.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently moved into a high-rise apartment, live alone, and have a problem that I imagine other single girls who live alone must have. (I am 20 and am saving myself for marriage.)

When my date brings me home, should we say good-night in the lobby, where the doorman, night watchman and tenants can watch us? Or should I ask my date to walk me to my apartment door and say good-night there? Or should I invite him to step into my apartment to say good-night?

When I first moved here, I let my date step into my apartment to thank him for the lovely evening and it ended up in a one-hour wrestling match. I had a terrible time getting rid of him.

Please answer soon as I have no mother to ask. SAVING MYSELF IN TULSA

DEAR SAVING: A girl's date should always see her safely to her door. Don't allow anyone to "step inside" if you have any doubts about how he will behave once he's inside. Even the most careful girls sometimes misjudge a man, so should you find yourself with the "wrestling" type, don't say "good-night"-say "GOOD-BYE!"

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who has a very unhappy home life. My folks have been fighting ever since I can remember. They treat me like dirt, and I want to tell you, it is miserable and rotten.

My boyfriend, Brad, is 18, and he comes from a home that's even rottener, if there is such a word. His folks not only fight all the time, but his father beats on his mother. Anyway, Brad has been crazy about me ever since 7th grade and we are thinking of getting married when he graduates from high school in June. He plans to work days at a garage and go to trade school for mechanics at night. He's real good with cars and motors.

Should I quit school and get a job when Brad graduates? I'd have only a year to go, and could finish later. We wouldn't have much money, but we wouldn't need much, and at least we'd have each other. I need advice. Thank

TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Don't use marriage as an excuse to get you to finish high school while you have the chance. The "later" you mention rarely comes. Children usually do,

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 15 year old with drastic weight problems. I know you've probably heard this before but I've tried several diets, but to no avail. The low carbohydrate ones all sapped my strength and the calorie-restricted ones took too much courage and the fasting fad did me no good at

So as my final try I'm asking you for a diet that a school-going person could stick to without embarrassment. I weigh, and please keep this confidential, approximately 260 pounds.

If you have something please send it soon as I'm anxious to join my peers and become a social incast

DEAR READER - I never use names with columns so your identity is safe, unless you blow your cover by telling everyone your letter will be in my column.

Yes, your story is a bit familiar. And considering the enormous weight problem you have you will need medical supervision and help while reaching your goal. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, as it will provide a diet plan for you that is sensible and will help you lose weight gradually. It is a balanced diet. Others who want this plan can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now a word of advice. Don't expect to become an incast overnight. You should not lose more than two pounds a week and one pound a week is fine. That is the only way to diet safely and get results. So you are looking at a long-term project. Your doctor will know if you have any underlying medical problems that are related to your obesity that need special manage-exercise to help you lose weight. For very heavy people I usually recommend walking. Start walking and walk and walk and walk. The more you are able to increase your walking every day the more effective your program will be and the better you will feel while doing it. That will also help you save your valuable muscles as the fat peels off.

Set some intermediate goals based on a one pound a week rate and chart your progress. It will be a morale booster as you go along and see yourself meet or beat your goals. If you have the will power to stick with it you can do it.

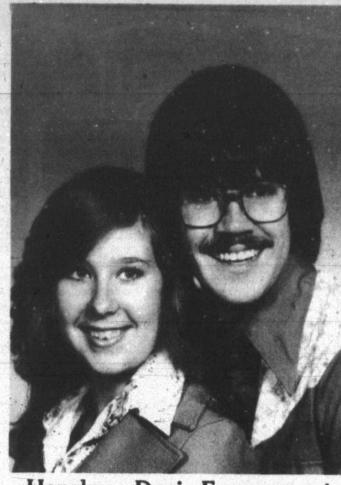

DEAR DR. LAMB Could you possibly give me some information on hair care and baldness? At 21 I still have a full head of hair, of course, but would like to keep it that way.

DEAR READER - Don't say 'of course' because some young men have male pattern baldness at the forehead area very early in life.

The most practical thing I can tell you is to keep your hair clean. Some people have more trouble with oily scalp than others. A mild shampoo used as often as necessary, even if that means daily, helps keep hair healthy. The accumulation of oily secretions can lead to inflammations and processes similar to acne. The resulting inflammation can affect the hair follicles.

As a male you may not have to worry about curlers, pony tails and hot combs (although many males do use everything women use) In general anything that pulls or tightens the hair may cause injury to the hair. Loose hair treated as naturally as possible and kept clean is your best bet. Bleaches, dyes and exotic treatments are not natural and some pay the price by having less than an optimally healthy head of hair. Like many other aspects of health, nature's way is the best way. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

She will be bringing educational pamphlets for those attending.

Everyone is welcome. This is an educational program sponsored by the Gray County Family Living Committee. Cholesterol Content

Labeling of Foods

Labels showing cholesterol content can help consumers on low - cholesterol diets make intelligent choices. Cholesterol has many important functions in the body, but because it is linked to heart disease, doctors have advised many people to limit the amount of cholesterol

Since it is a medical decision, the labeling law requires that when cholesterol content is provided for individuals who, on the advice of a physician, are modifying their total dietary intake of cholesterol."

However, this is an optional decision of the food manufacturer or processor.

If cholesterol content is listed, it must be shown in two ways: as "milligrams of cholesterol per serving" and as "milligrams of cholesterol per 100 grams of the food." Content must be shown to the nearest five milligrams. Both of these listings show the amount of cholesterol in food. The latter form is for the use of the scientist and the former is in household terms for the consumer.

Labels with cholesterol content can help those who need to make dietary changes.

For example, a label on ice cream might show about 45 milligrams of cholesterol per scoop, but ice milk would show only four milligrams.

When a doctor tries to lower a patient's serum cholesterol level, he generally aims at about 300 milligrams daily. The average American probably consumes 600 to 800 milligrams of cholesterol per day. Certain foods can use up these allowances quickly.

For example, a medium sized egg has about 135 milligrams and three ounces of kidney about 300 milligrams. One - fourth pound of beef, pork or lamb has about 100 milligrams. A three - ounce serving of brains has more than 2,500 milligrams. Cholesterol occurs only in foods of animal origin. Foods from vegetable sources such as vegetable oil margarine have no cholesterol. Cereals, fruits, or vegetables contain no cholesterol

Little Girl Fashions

For the little girl who likes to be pretty feminine, young fashions for the spring and summer offer the perfect selection. Dresses are soft, ruffled, tucked, laced, shirred and sashed. They may be fitted or hang full and free from the shoulders or from a yoke. Sun dresses provide a cool, sweet and comfortable choice for hot summer days. Skirts are bouncy and full of swing - usually set off with tiers or rows of ruffles.

For a nostalgic look, petticoats or petticoat effects provide ruffled edges which peek out from beneath the skirt. Flirty tops are feminine, tanked or blousoned. Laces, embroidery, smocking and shirring give detail to bodices. Sholder bows tie it all together.

Sorry, baldness programmed by genes

By JANE E. BRODY (c) 1978 N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK - Baldness undoubtedly contributed to the success of actors Yul Brynner and Tally Savalas and the high fashion model Pat Evans. But somehow the glamour of their gleaming pates never caught on with the average man or woman. While many are content merely to lament the gradual loss of their straight or curly locks, others squander millions of hard - earned dollars in a frantic and fruitless search for ways to halt the inexorable passing of hair follicles. Short of castration, there is currently no safe and effective way to prevent or cure the most common kind of baldness that afflicts mankind. It is programmed by the genes and triggered by hormones that few would part with. No lotion or drug, no amount of massaging, oiling, brushing or washing, no vitamins or minerals or protein supplements can halt or reverse the loss of hair as we get older.

But there are various ways

now to camouflage hereditary baldness as well as to prevent or correct other causes of hair loss. You can avoid unnecessary damage to your hair, and you should avoid unscrupulous "hair specialists" (trichologists) who may promise you a Sampson mane but only succeed in emptying your pocket. The facts that follow were derived mainly from two no-nonsense book about hair and its care. One, 'The AMA Book of Skin and Hair Care," (Lippincott, 1976, $4.95), was edited by Linda Allen Schoen in consultation with the American Medical Association's Committee on Cutaneous Health and Cosmetics. The second, "All About Hair," (Wallingford Press, 1978, $10), was written by Dr. Herbert S. Feinberg, a New Jersey dermatologist who transplantation. First, it helps to know some basic facts about hair and how it grows. Normal hair growth depends on certain vitamins and minerals and adequate rotein in the diet. But this does not mean that extra amounts of these substances can halt or reverse

specializes in hair

A healthy head of hair holds some 100,000 to 150,000 individual hairs. It also loses, on the average, 30 to 60 hairs a day. On some days, only a few hairs may be lost but then on others a hundred or more may fall out. This is perfectly normal. You would have to lose as many as 40 percent of your hairs before the thinning would be evident.

Normal hair goes through a typical life cycle. For two to six years, it grows out of its follicle at a rate of about an inch a month. Then the hair enters a resting stage, lasting about three months, during which it stops growing and starts separating from its root. Ordinarily, at any one time, 15 percent of your hairs are in the resting stage. The scalp end of the resting hair becomes club - shaped and it is easily dislodged. Although washing, brushing or combing may seem to cause many to fall out, these hairs are lost at most a few days prematurely. After a varying interval, a new hair will grow out of the follicle to replace the one that was lost

Health

After the mid-20's, virtually everyone's hairline starts receding and his hair begins to thin. The growth rate of some follicles shortens, and after a while these aging follicles revert to producing the tiny fuzzy hairs of prenatal life. Despite claims to the contrary, these decreased follicles cannot be rejuvenated.

Follicular senescence results from the effects of androgens, the sex hormone abundant in men and present in smaller amounts in women. High doses of the female sex hormone, estrogen, could counter this effect in men, but it has undesirable feminizing side effects. In women, hormone treatments seem to have no significant effect on hair loss.

Just how much hair will stop growing and the pattern of your hair loss are determined by your genetic background. Both your mother's and your father's sides of the family contribute equally to your baldness tendencies. The condition, called male (or female) pattern baldness, is a common one. Cosmetically significant hair loss occurs in 12 percent of men aged 25: 37 percent of those aged 35; 45 percent of those aged 45 and 65 percent of those aged 65. In women, actual baldness is uncommon, but with increasing age significant thinning of the crown hairs occurs in many, often starting after menopause. Aside from male (or female) pattern baldness, there are other causes of hair loss, most of them reversible. One is a condition called alopecia areata, which produces patchy hair loss at any age and occasionally affects the whole head. It usually reverses with time or sometimes responds to cortisone

Other factors that may cause hair loss (usually reversible when the cause is eliminated) include the following

Permanent straightening or excessive bleaching. These procedures may damage the hair saft and Rollers and clips. To prevent damage, use foam rubber rather than brush rollers, winding the hair ightly around the roller but loosely between the roller and the scalp. Use bobby pins with rubber tips.

- Heat. High heat softens hair, so use your dryer on medium heat and don't overmanipulate your hair when it is hot. Hold the dryer six inches or more from your hair and keep it moving. Be sure the dryer dryer has the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) seal, which means it should shut off automatically if it exceeds a certain temperature. Don't use electric curlers more than a couple of times a week. - Vigorous toweling or brushing and teasing (back-combing). Pat, rather than rub, your hair dry to avoid tangling and breakage. Use a soft, natural - bristle brush (nylon bristles have rough ends) and don't brush excessively no hundred strokes a day. Teasing can also cause tangling and breakage. Pregnancy and pigtails and tight buns pull on contraceptives. During pregnancy and the pseudopregnancy associated with the pill, fewer hairs enter the resting stage. After childbirth or after stopping the pill, however, the hairs make up for lost time and you may lose a lot at once

- Illness, injury and drugs. Reversible hair loss can result from high fevers, inflammatory skin disorders, sudden and extensive weight loss, severe anemia or intestinal disorders, X-ray therapy of the head, general anesthesia and certain drugs, among them cortisone, blood thinners, amphetamines, antithyroid and anticancer drugs. Burns and lacerations of the scalp may damage hair

It also helps to know what hair loss is not caused by. It is not the result of ordinary dandruff or too frequent shampooing, unless you use soap or such a strong shampoo that your hair becomes overly dry and tangles easily. Contrary to the claims of some trichologists, baldness is not caused by bacteria nor by a loss of circulation in the scalp. Even pulling out hairs will not stop healthy follicles from producing new ones

Sonics, Bullets begin playoffs

SEATTLE*(AP) — The Washington Bullets and Seattle SuperSonics, two unlikely playoff finalists, open a best-of-seven series Sunday to determine which will become the losingest champion in National Basketball Association history.

It may be a dubious distinction, but it's one either club will gladly accept.

"There were 22 teams — now there are two," observed Seattle's explosive reserve guard, Fred Brown. "We have to be proud of what we've accomplished."

"I want that championship ring," declared Washington's Elvin Hayes, "I've been playing a long time and now I can's mell that championship.

Seattle finished the regular season with a 47-35 record. Washington was 44-38. No team has ever lost that many games in the regular season and won the title. Three clubs currently share the "honor" of losingest champion with regular-season records of 48-34 — Boston in 1969, Los Angeles in 1972 and Golden State in 1975.

That's what it's all about."

Washington overcame numerous injuries — including a back injury that has disabled star guard Phil Chenier since midseason — to come on strong in the playoffs, upsetting explosive San Antonio and the multi-talented Philadelphia

"We've had a lot of adversity," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta, "but it all seemed to turn out for the best. Seattle is a very fine team, but I like our chances. I like the way things are going."

The Sonics are this year's NBA Cinderella story, following Golden State's "Love Machine" title team of 1975, Phoenix' 1976 playoff finalists and Portland's "Blazermania" champs of a year ago.

The Sonics stumbled to a 5-17 start this season before Lenny Wilkens replaced Bob Hopkins as coach. Wilkens shuffled the lineup, made some technical adjustments.

Affirmed paid $3, $2.10 and $2.10 in scoring his seventh victory and in beating Alydar for the sixth time in eight meetings. Calumet Farm's Alydar -returned $2.10 and $2.10, and

Believe It, owned by Hickory Tree Stable, was $2.10 to show. The Affirmed-Alydar exacta was worth $4. Completing the order of finish in the nationally televised race after Noon Time Spender were Indigo Star, Dax S and Track Reward.

The victory came in Cauthen's Preakness debut and it also was the first Preakness win for trainer Laz Barrera, who has now seen his horses win 20 stakes and more than $1.8 million so far this year.

Barrera brought Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes here in 1976 and saw him finish third in a race won by Elocutionist. "Others have to change to beat Affirmed." Barrera said before the race. "Affirmed, he doesn't have to change.'

Alydar did change. He was 17 lengths back at one point in the 11/4-mile Derby and ran out of time and ground at that race. Saturday he was never too far

"He has to be close turning for home," said trainer John Alydar was close but the new strategy did not pay dividends as Affirmed was equal to the occasion with a brilliant performance. The handsome chestnut completed the first half mile in 47 3-5, three-quarters in

That equalled the fastest final three-sixteenths ever run in the

The victory sends Affirmed into the 11/2-mile Belmont Stakes June 10 with a chance of becoming the third Triple Crown winner in the last six years. Secretariat accomplished the feat in 1973, breaking a drought of 25 years for Triple Crown champions. Seattle Slew did it last year. May 28.

The triumph was further vindication for Barrera, who was criticized for racing Affirmed in California before the Derby. Some critics said he was ducking Eastern colts such as Alydar and Believe It. Those critics have nothing to Affirmed has won all six of his starts as a 3-year-old and is in great position to add the 3year-old championship to the 2year-old title he won last year. His career record stands at 13 wins and two seconds in 15

Barrera was relaxed and confident in the days leading up to the Preakness, and he did not drill Affirmed as hard as he had in the week before the Derby. Alydar, on the other hand, worked three-quarters of a mile last Monday in 1:10 2-5 and blew out three-eighths Friday in 35 seconds flat.

The workouts obviously sharpened Alydar's speed. But Affirmed dulled that sharpness with his tough, "don't let the other guy pass me" performance Saturday.

Sneva wins pole in record time

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — De- I did as good a job qualifying fending national champion Tom Sneva wrestled an unsettling wind and the awesome speed of his Cosworth-powered Penske racer Saturday, smashing his own track record and winning the prestigious pole position for the $1 million Indianapolis 500

Four-time Indy winner A.J. Foyt lost his chance for the No. 1 starting position when he pulled off his qualifying run and complained of a mechanical malfunction. Foyt checked his car and said the problem was his own fault. He then moved his car to the rear of the qualifying line for a later

Sneva, a former junior high school principal from Spokane, Wash., recorded the first 10mile run entirely over 200 miles per hour in the history of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He averaged 202.156 mph and had an astounding first lap of

"It wasn't perfect," the bespectacled Sneva said later. "I had to get out of the throttle a lot more than I wanted to in the third turn the first time around because the car was getting away from me.

"If I'd been able to keep it going smoothly through there, a high 204 or low 205 lap might have been possible. I don't feel this year as I did last year.' Last year, Sneva won the pole position and became the first driver to officially crack the 200-mph barrier, with a top effort of 200.535. "The wind was a factor, especially coming off turn two," Sneva continued. "I don't know if I whitewalled the tires (touched the wall) or not. I know I was close. The car was crossed up a few times."

Sneva's wife, Sharon, said she was worried about her husband during the run because the public address announcer kept saying how close he was coming to the wall. Roger (Penske) kept assuring me they always make it sound worse than it is

Simons regains 1-stroke lead

nevman Jim Simons boldly rammed in a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole and re-established a 1-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the prestigious Memorial Golf Tourna-

The baby-faced Simons struggled to a 1-over-par 73 and had to make the last-hole birdie to break a tie for the lead with onrushing Bill Kratzert.

Simons, whose only previous victory in seven years of tour activity came last season in the New Orleans Open, put together a 54-hole total of 210, 5 shots under par on the difficult, unforgiving, 7,101-yard Muirfield. Village Golf Club course.

The dark, laconic Kratzert generally regarded by his fellow tourists as one of the most promising young players in the world, holed a sand shot for an eagle 3 on the 15th that highlighted his round of 69

He was a single shot off the pace at 211 going into Sunday's final 18 holes of the chase for a $50,000 first prize.

Chipper Rod Curl, the little Wintu Indian who has played his last 36 holes in a blazing 135, was another shot back at 212. He had a third round 68.

Jack Nicklaus, the tournament founder, course architect and defending champion, had to rally from a double-bogey 6 on the third hole for a 71 that put

Despite the 9-iron shot that found the water on the third, it was a pretty good round of golf," Nicklaus said before hustling off to officiate at dedication ceremonies for Francis Ouimet, the 1913 U.S. Open champion being honored this

He was tied with South African Gary Player and mustachioed Australian Bob Shearer. Player, who triggered a string of three consecutive victories with his triumph in the Masters, didn't make a birdie in his round of 75. Shearer shot a solid 70 in the hot windy overcast weather

Tom Watson, holder of three 1978 titles and the year's leading money-winner, shot a 72 that left him at 217. U.S. Open champ Hubert Green had a 76-

The four-week series which premiered on May 5, revolves around the Pittsburgh Pitts, a down-at-thewheels professional roller team of five statuesque roller skaters owned and managed by fast talking Mitch Mitchell.

On reporting for duty the girls discover there are no beautiful condominium apartments as promised as living quarters, no uniforms and no paychecks. 'Rollergirls' stars

Terry Kiser as Don "Mitch" Mitchell, the harassed and fast-talking manager-owner-coach of the Pittsburgh Pitts. Rhonda Bates is the towering "Mongo Sue" Lampert, an Amazon from Arkansas with an appetite for skating, food and men; Candy Brown is fun-loving

J.B. Johnson, who learned how to skate by fast dodging dudes in Harlem; Joanna Cassidy plays Selma "Books" Cassidy with an IQ of 145, the team intellectual and star feminist, who has a running feud with Mongo Sue; Marcy Hanson is Honey Bee Novak, the beautiful naive rookie of the team who is in love with love; Marilyn Tokuda is Shana "Pipeline" Akira, half-Eskimo and half-Japanese with an Eskimo maxim for all situvoice of the Pitts. While there is a lot of physical action in the roller rink, most of the comedy occurs in the girls' dressing room, the adjourning "temporary" dormitory-type living quarters and the owner/manager's office/apartment.

LUCY'S LAD - On "I celled if you win the biggie. Love Lucy," who played Little Ricky Ricardo? C. Self, Hampton, Va. Lucy and Ricky's darling little drummer boy was played by Ricky Keith, a native of Louisiana, who had his name changed from Keith Thibodeaux when he was signed for the series.

TOUCH DOWN - Please clear up a little problem between a friend of mine and myself. Regarding Mike Connors of "Mannix," I claim his stage name was "Touch" Connors, my friend claims it was "Crash" Connors. Please advise who is right? Jim Burk, Edison,

Be advised, friend. It was Touch, although Crash Connors has a nice ring to it. Before Touch or Mike, it was Kreker Ohanian.

HE, SHE, THEM - Please settle a family argument. Who were the stars of the old series "Love on a Rooftop"? Also, who were the stars of the TV series "He and She"? M. Faeth, Westerly, R.I. Judy Carne and the late

Peter Duel found love amid the chimneys, while Richard Benjamin and real-life wife Paula Prentiss played "He and She." Okay, who does the dishes? BIG BUCKS — This is a question about the quiz show "$20,000 Pyramid." It has puzzled me for sometime. If a contestant wins the $20,000 and has accumulated money along the way (e.g. $1750), does he or she come away with $20,1750, or simply $20,000. I am sure that one could be very well satisfied with the $20,000, but as a nevermiss-a-show fan, I am curious. Mrs. J.V. Haviland, Fayetteville, Ark.

Well. I can tell you that I would not sulk too severly if I only got $20,000, which is what a contestant wins (before taxes) is they finish the final pyramid. The previous earnings are can-

BACK AGAIN? - You implied that "Baby, I'm Back" would not be renewed next season on CBS. Is that really true? I for one think it's pretty good, and would like to see it get a chance. Mitzie Trotielle, Cleveland, Ohio.

Since that column was written originally, "Baby, I'm Back" has found its audience and keeps climbing in the ratings. CBS has not yet given it the go ahead for next season, but at this juncture I'd say it's chances are looking better all the time.

HATCHED - Can you tell when I'll be seeing Richard Hatch again. I loved him in "Streets of San Francisco," "Deadman's Curve," and "Class of '65." Audrey Lolly, Palo Alto, Calif.

Rejoice! Hatch has just signed with ABC to star, along with Dirk Benedict and Lorne Greene, in a new sci-fi adventure series, tentatively titled "Battle Star: Galactica." It will air Sundays at 8 p.m., EST. The series is being produced by John Dykstra, who won an Academy Award for the special effects in "Star Wars.

SWEET DREAMS - Am I dreaming or did Woody Allen and Candy Bergen do a movie together? I remember them doing a silent movie routine, but my friends keep saying I'm just thinking of "Sleeper." Help out please. Joan Stephens, Waterbury, Conn.

There was a silent movie routine in "Sleeper," but that was with Diane Keaton. What you're probably thinking of is a 1969 TV special Woody did, with Candy Bergen as a guest (Billy Graham was another guest).

Lou Costello's famous cry, "Heyabbuuutt!" will ring again when Harvey Korman and Buddy Hackett play Abbott and Costello in an NBC movie, "Bud and Lou." Red Buttons will play the comedy duo's manager, Eddie Sherman in the MGM production based on Bob Thomas' book "Bud and Additions to the cast of ABC's "Ike" include such stalwarts as Richard Anderson, Dana Andrews, J.D. Cannon, Darren McGavin and Laurence Luckinbill, who will return briefly to Hollywood for the project after being heavily involved in the New York theatre scene.

Waiting to go on when a star falls at NBC are these series pilots: "Coastocoast," a one-hour comedy about the misadventures of a New York-to-Los Angeles airline crew. Linda Watkins, Melanie Griffith (daughter of Tippi Hedren) and David Ankrum star. Appearing in cameo roles will be Ross Martin, Jack Carter, Abby Dalton, Adrienne Barbeau and LeWanda Page.

Cliff Gorman, who won an Obie for "The Boys in the Band" and a Tony for "Lenny," is perfect for the part of a glib talk show host in "Hello, Larry," another comedy try-out. Joanna Gleason will play his producer and Kim Richards and Donna Wilkes play the daughters who are even more glib than their recently separated father.

Dack Rambo, who scored with viewers in two unsuccessful series, "The Guns of Will Sonnett" and "Dirty Sally," will play a playboy who was framed on tax evasion charges and sent to prison in "Sword of Justice," a two-hour development drama. Also starring are Larry Hagman, J.D. Cannon (keeping busy, as always) June Lockhart, Nehemiah Persoff and Christina Ferrara. Goldie Hawn has followed husband Bill Hudson to London, where he and his siblings are filming their new Hudson Brothers syndicated series, Bonkers!" Also in Londontown were John Ritter and Diahann Carroll who will appear on the show next season.

A couple of the stranded pioneers in NBC's "The Tragedy of the Donner Party" (a true tale of cannibalism - one of TV's more recent efforts in distatefulness) will be played by Royal Dano and Michael Callan ... The offers are flooding in to Joseph Bottoms, who played Rudi Weiss in "The Holocaust." The first one he's accepted so far is to play opposite Elizabeth Taylor in "Return Engagement," the Hallmark Hall of Fame drama about a musical stage star who becomes a professor of ancient history. Bottoms will play a star-struck pupil. Elizabeth Taylor will also be among the show biz biggies who'll help Bob Hope blow out the candles on his 75th birthday tribute airing May 29. The other backslappers are Angie Dickinson, Alan King, Lu-cille Ball, Sammy Davis Jr., Don Rickles, Ann-Mar-gret and The Muppets. Another actor whose having no trouble finding work these days is Louis Gossett Jr. He recently appeared in "To Kill a Cop," and will be seen in "Lawman Without a Gun." "Backstairs at the White House" and now "The Critical List." Gossett will play a black rights activist who unleashes a scandal in the hospital-based film.

You can now say it for real: TV has gone to the dogs. Joe Garagiola will host a "Canine Hall of Fame," a tribute to our mutts, pure breds, pals, performers and workers. Among the two-legged performers will be Jerry Stiller and Anne Meara.

By JOE VANZANDT County Extension Agent NEW HORSE DISEASE

Contagious Equine Metritis (GEM), a highly transmissible venereal disease of horses that affects breeding efficiency, has recently been imported into the United States from Ireland and Although CEM is currently only reported in thoroughbreds, the disease is not to be ignored by other horse breeders. A horse breeding operation in Kentucky was recently found to be infected with the disease through the importation of horses from overseas. Kentucky is now under a federal quarantine that limits the interstate movement of certain thoroughbred horses.

U.S. Department of Agriculture authorities initiated a temporary ban on the importaion of all horses are more evident in mares than in stallions. First signs of CEM include large amounts of pus discharge from the mare's vagina. Many infected mares will not "settle" or conceive and may come back into estrus early. Other mares will abort early.

Stallions serve as the mechanical carriers of the disease, and can be treated, but there is no sure cure for mares. The disease is spread almost exclusively during breeding or when contaminated equipment is used during genital examination. Owners suspecting the disease should contact their local veterinarian since the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory can determine whether or not an animal is infected. Sampling techniques are vital and should be done by a veterinarian.

Presently there is not an effective cure for CEM, but there are definite prevention

- Horse owners who have imported mares or had mares bred to a possibly infected stallion should be on the lookout for signs of CEM.

Strict sanitary precautions should be followed. Contaminated instruments, sponges or water should not be used from one mare to another.

- Studies have indicated that ampicillin or other penicillin derivatives may be effective against the disease

The recent moisture has certainly brought out the dandelions around most home lawns. Now is a good time to work on these pests.

Products containing 2,4-D and, or silvex, can be used. Care must be exercised around shrubs, trees, roses and other broadleaf plants. Follow label directions and do not apply when it is windy. You may want to just use a homemade mop to get some of the solution

Ballet booms in America today

By TIMOTHY HARPER

Associated Press Writer MILWAUKEE (AP) - Between his modest home building business and a family of 12 children, Paul Bobrowitz never had much time, inclination or money for fine arts.

But this year, at age 56, he found himself in the unfamiliar surroundings of the Milwaukee Performing Arts Center, watching "The Nutcracker" ballet. He decided he'd been missing something "That must be what it's like in heaven," he marveled. "The dancers, they move like they're floating, like angels.

At the same performance was another initially blase initiate, a 13-year-old boy who became equally enthralled.

"Mom," he exulted, "it's even better than 'Star Wars.'" The two converts are among new fans fostering a popular explosion in dance, particularly ballet, throughout the United

"Ballet has made a resounding turnaround for dance in general," says Archie Sarazin. manager of the arts center.

And nowhere is the boom louder than Milwaukee, the beerand-polka town that has embraced its fledgling ballet company with the kind of gusto usually reserved for bratwurst and Lawrence Welk.

"We're not just riding the crest, we're helping create it," says Randy Voit, the Milwaukee Ballet's 24-year-old business manager.

Founded in 1969, the company relied mostly on guest artists until 1974, when internationally famed dancer and choreographer Jean Paul Comelin was hired as artistic director.

Since then, the season has expanded from 14 to 30 weeks, the number of performances from eight to nearly 100 a year. Season ticket sales nearly quadrupled to 2,000, and the company began getting good reviews on national tours.

"It's the college age people that have really done it,' Comelin says, "but we're still developing a couple of new au-

Dance Companies. "The success of dance and its impact is very much reflected in the number of community-based companies.

He says there are 325 professional dance troupes in the United States, more than double the number a decade ago. About 60 of those are ballet companies, an increase of 20 in 10 years.

Gingrich says there are no solid statistics, but he believes the number of students taking up dance also is a sign of its growth. 'There are 2,000 students at the Alvin Ailey school in New York alone," he says. "Companies everywhere are looking for more space to expand their schools, and more colleges are offering dance courses."

Gingrich credits Olympic gymnasts Olga Korbut and Nadia Comaneci with leading many youngsters to study ballet and its similar disciplines of body movements.

Athleticism also has played a major part in developing what many critics see as an emerging American ballet style more creative, enthusiastic and sensual than centuries-honored European dance.

Also, there is the sex-and-thesuperstar reputation. Sarazin says the off-stage image of Rudolf Nureyev and Mikhail Baryshnikov as rakish bachelors probably has attracted as many new fans as their soaring onstage leaps.

Another recent factor is what people in ballet refer to simply as "the movie." It's the hit film, "The Turning Point," built around spectacular ballet performance scenes.

"The movie is turning a lot of people on to ballet who never saw it before," says Lydia Morales, 24, a San Diego native in her second year as one of the Milwaukee company's top ballerinas.

But the main reason for ballet's popularity, perhaps, is that people are realizing they don't have to be teethed on the classics to like ballet. "Ballet is no longer the tu Comelin says. "We can do works now about any kind of human drama on the front page of the newspaper.' But the classics, basically are what draw Milwaukee crowds that pay up to $12 a ticket.

Alexandra Danilova, the legendary prima ballerina who played the aging teaching madame in "The Turning Point," says the classics will always have a certain romantic fantasy appeal.

One of the classics, "The Nutcracker." has become increasingly popular during the Christmas season in recent

Homosexual minister 'amazed

AP Religion Writer SAN DIEGO (AP) - The Church over whether to ordain practicing homosexuals says he is amazed at the results.

"I never expected it to come to all this," said William Silver, 30, of New York City, a ministerial candidate and a declared homosexual with a longterm commitment to another man. Although declining to predict what decision will be made during the church's 11-day governing assembly, in its fourth day today, he said: "I'm very pleased at how open they're being.

"People come up and want to talk, even if they're against it." he said in an interview. "It's very gratifying. It amazes me that our church has done more on the issue than any other denomination."

Silver applied for ordination to the New York regional presbytery in 1975 and the question was relayed to the national assembly two years ago, precipitating the churchwide consideration of the issue.

sharp and probing debate going on about it at hearings in the meantime.

"No matter what happens, I'm staying with the church and continuing to seek ordination," Silver said. "I believe in the church, in the gospel of Christ and in my call to his ministry. If recommendations of a task force majority are approved, the 2.6 million-member denomination would become the first major Christian body in history explicitly to admit self-affirmed, practicing homosexuals to the clergy

JEFFERSON COUNTY, Colo - Surely no building in the United States has as dramatic an approach as the new headquarters of the Johns -Manville Corporation on a 10,000 acre ranch 22 miles southwest of Denver. The last few miles are traveled along a country road that winds through a valley; the road makes a sudden turnoff through a mountain pass, then winds upward past great formations of red rock that sit beside the road like sculptures. Suddenly the road makes another turn, and there, set across the valley like a squared - off aluminum spaceship come to rest in the foothills of the Rockies, sits the

It is as sleek and gleaming an object as any architect ever dreamed of creating, and it sits in the rough mountain landscape with the self - asuredness of a Greek temple. The architect was the Architects Collaborative of Cambridge, Mass., whose design was chosen in 1973 as the result of an architectural competition sponsored by Johns - Manville. The building has absolutely nothing to do with its site - it is a physical form would have been
