

Death toll leaps to 910 in mass suicide-murder

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — American soldiers completed the grisly task of removing bodies from Jonestown Saturday and determined that 910 persons, 500 more than originally estimated, died in the mass suicide-murder. U.S. officials said.

They said this was a preliminary final count but approximately correct.

The count leaped from 408 to at least 775 on Friday when searchers first realized that many bodies had been stacked atop each other. Then on Saturday, State Department officials in Washington and at Dover Air Force Base, Del., where the bodies are being sent, got word of the higher toll.

It was beginning to appear that few, if any, Jonestown residents remained unaccounted for.

Thirty-two survivors had emerged from the jungle around the agricultural settlement after the bizarre death rite last Saturday, and 46 more were at the Georgetown headquarters of the Peoples Temple sect at the time.

Searches have produced no indication that any others escaped and remain in the dense jungle around Jonestown, 150 miles northwest of this South American capital. State Department lawyer Michael White said in Dover that all the newly discovered victims were found in the camp clearing and not in the jungle. The last of the bodies was flown out of Jonestown Saturday afternoon.

The State Department said the Temple survivors would be flown to Charleston Air Force Base, S.C., probably over the weekend, and would be given money for an airline ticket home from there.

Two of the 78 survivors have been formally charged with murder, however, and will continue to be held in Georgetown.

At Jonestown, American troops in surgical masks and rubber gloves continued to remove the decayed bodies of the sect members, called to their deaths a week ago by cult leader Rev. Jim Jones' summons. "The time has come for all of us to meet at another place."

The camp's medical team had doled out doses of cyanide poison, and it was administered to infants and force-fed to some adults who resisted, but most took it willingly, survivors said.

At the Delaware air base, which houses the Air Force mortuary, specialists were trying to identify the bodies and prepare them for shipment and burial. More than 500 had arrived by Saturday afternoon.

Eighteen FBI experts at Dover were checking fingerprints at the rate of about six bodies an hour. Army Maj. Brigham Shuler said it will take "much longer" than the two or three weeks originally estimated to finish the airlift, identification, preparation and shipment of the bodies.

The State Department said no further partial lists of victims will be released, but a full list will be provided when all of the victims who can be identified have been and next-of-kin are notified. A list of 170 tentatively identified victims was released last week.

A spokesman said the final lists will not be issued soon because of identification problems and expected trouble in locating survivors of some victims.

The second man formally charged in connection with the weekend of violence was arraigned Saturday.

Charles Edward Beikman, 43, of Indianapolis, Ind., was charged with murdering four sect members at the cult's temple in Georgetown.

The victims, identified in court records as Sharon Amos, Martin Amos, Christa Amos and Liane Harris, were found with their throats cut the day of the suicides. Earlier it was reported that they, too, committed suicide.

Details of the alleged murders were not available.

Last Wednesday, Larry Layton, 32, of San Francisco, was charged with the murders of Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., three newsmen and a defecting member of the cult.

They were gunned down on a jungle airstrip, apparently on Jones' orders, after visiting the settlement to investigate reports of abuse of settlers there, most of whom came from California. The suicides apparently took place about an hour later.

Two other sect members were taken into custody for questioning by Guyanese authorities last week, but no charges have been announced against them.

The next court appearance for the stocky, blond Beikman, a sect member for 20 years, will be Dec. 4 in Georgetown. Layton will appear again Jan. 15 at Mathews Ridge, the court nearest to the site of the airstrip ambush.

Conviction on first-degree murder in Guyana is punishable by hanging.

U.S. SOLDIERS react after unloading the last shipment of bodies from Jonestown at the airport in Georgetown, Guyana, Saturday. The count rose to about 900 from the first estimate of 405. The remains are put into shipping containers and flown to the U.S.

Dad dies in crash; son questions why

EDITOR'S NOTE— Associated Press San Antonio Correspondent Greg Thompson, 24, lost his father in a tragic, head-on car wreck Nov. 17 near his hometown of Paris, Texas. What follows is an account of his family's first few days of life without Father. The experience has been endured by countless families throughout the ages and will, regrettably, be endured by countless more.

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

"Your dad's dead, Greg. He was killed in a car wreck. I'm sorry."

I'd often wondered how I would react if I ever heard those words I had always dreaded. And strangely enough, when they came all I remember feeling is very sorry for my boss, who had the awesome task of telling me.

Then, with the reporter's instincts my father had groomed for years, I wanted to know the facts — everything. Where did it happen? How? When?

It wasn't until later, when the news sunk in, that I began asking the darkness, why? It's a question I still ask. I guess I always will.

Bill H. Thompson, 49, editor of The Paris News for 14 years and director of communications for Texas Power & Light Co. of Dallas, was happier than he had ever been in his life. He had been promoted in May and had gained the respect and friendship of congressmen, legislators and top utility executives across the nation. Although he was already 43 when he joined TP&L, his destiny was a vice presidency.

Middle age danced gracefully with him. Daddy was a handsome, brilliant, witty man in superb health — just note the TP&L doctor's report now on the kitchen counter next to a stack of sympathy cards.

He no longer had to spend the long hours grinding out a daily newspaper and hustling freelance articles and photos to provide a better life — and future — than my two younger brothers and I ever had a right to expect.

My youngest brother, Todd, had reached 16 and my parents, both TP&L executives, finally were free to enjoy each other again at a time in life when many marriages wear thin. They looked forward together to vacation trips — or just to their late evening strolls through the pleasant, suburban neighborhood in Plano.

Todd had become Daddy's constant hunting, fishing and camping partner, now that my father had the time and money to do those things with him. It made me happy for them to be together. Daddy was openly thrilled about the 85 acres of Lamar County wilderness he had recently purchased "to leave something to the boys."

Although he lived near Dallas, Lamar County, in Northeast Texas, was his home and he always wanted to own a piece of it. He was headed there that Friday evening for the opening of deer season when this unending nightmare began.

Two elderly men, whom the police say were drinking heavily, were driving their rattler pickup truck too fast, without lights and on the wrong side of the two-lane stretch of U.S. 82 my father and I had driven maybe a zillion times.

I like to think Daddy never knew what hit him. The grinding collision was head-on and only one of the other men survived. Barely. My father was pronounced dead 20 miles away at a Paris hospital, but they tell us death was instantaneous. The deer rifles and the camera with which he hoped to photograph a trophy buck were battered. His smashed wristwatch was stopped at 6:18 p.m.

Todd, following about 20 minutes behind Daddy, came upon the horrible scene and tried to help free my father's trapped body. I pray that he'll forget that awful moment. I wish, as I've never wished for anything before, that it had been me there instead of Todd.

I was surprised that I didn't weep when I first heard the news, alone in my San Antonio apartment. I guess I was too busy trying to contact my mother, call friends and make plane reservations. My mother and brother Mark were crying only slightly when I first talked to them, matter-of-factly giving me the details. There was little bitterness in my mother's voice, just resignation.

My dad neither needs nor wants an elaborate eulogy. He was simply a kind, loing, unselfish and decent man — one of too few in the world today. That's about the best I can do. Daddy was always a better writer than I am and if he were here, we could polish this up a little bit. I miss him.

Further peace talks requested

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt will ask President Carter to seek a resumption of the Mideast peace talks with Israel, Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil said Saturday.

He said Egypt considers Israel's "take-it-or-leave-it approach" to the U.S. draft treaty submitted to Cairo and Tel Aviv as an "ultimatum." Such an "intransigent attitude does not serve the cause of peace at all," Khalil told reporters.

Earlier, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat hinted he may not go to Norway Dec. 10 to accept the Nobel Peace Prize he won jointly with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin unless the impasse in the Washington peace negotiations is broken.

The Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram reported Sunday that Egypt plans to reassert its efforts to achieve a treaty provision ensuring self-rule for Palestinians. The newspaper said that message will be delivered to the United Nations next week by Egyptian U.N. delegate Esmat Abdel Meguid at a U.N. celebration of the "day of international solidarity with the Palestinian people."

The Egyptian-Israeli peace talks in Washington bogged down when Israel refused to accept an Egyptian demand for a timetable on giving autonomy to Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

Khalil's remark about an ultimatum referred to Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan's statement Thursday that Israel sees no need for further negotiations. He said the U.S. proposed draft treaty could "be signed or not signed."

Khalil said if Israel refuses to join in another round of talks "they would be breaking the negotiations."

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., one member of a U.S. Senate delegation, said after the closed-door, one-hour session with Sadat the "climate is good" for an agreement but not before Dec. 10.

"I think the mood is still favorable," Jackson said. "I see an agreement, but I don't think it's going to come before Oslo." He said that was his "reliable" judgment.

During the Camp David summit meeting, Sadat, Begin and President Carter set a target date of Dec. 17 for completion of negotiations on a peace treaty. Egyptian diplomats have suggested the talks may go on beyond that date.

Peace talks in Washington have been suspended with two issues outstanding: Egypt demands a timetable to establish Palestinian self-rule in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, while Israel insists a peace treaty take precedence over the mutual defense pacts Egypt has with other Arab states.

200 injured in riot

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — About 1,000 persons opposed to the rule of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in Iran tried to storm the U.S. Consulate here Saturday but police drove them from the front gate with water cannons.

At least 200 police and protesters were injured in several hours of rioting around the consulate and in the university district several blocks away, authorities said.

The fighting broke out after 7,000 to 8,000 Iranians, Turks and West Germans had marched through downtown Frankfurt to voice opposition to the shah's government and to West German and U.S. support for the Iranian ruler.

The march, which had been sanctioned by Frankfurt city authorities after Iranian organizers had promised it would be orderly, suddenly turned violent.

One thousand protesters — roughly half of them German and half foreigners — broke away from the main group and ran to the consulate, a half-mile from downtown.

Iran's bank workers start general strike

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — White-collar workers at Iran's central bank, nerve center of this strife-torn country's monetary system, went on strike Saturday demanding that the military government be removed within a week. New anti-shah violence was reported in Tehran and the provinces.

The walkout appeared to be the first in a general strike called for by Moslem religious leaders and the National Front, a key political group in the opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The general strike was set for Sunday.

The official Pars news agency, meanwhile, said rioters bombed the government arts and culture center in the Persian Gulf town of Bushehr and set fire to other buildings.

In downtown Tehran, 200 refinery workers stormed the headquarters of the state-run National Iranian Oil Co. protesting the arrest of leaders of a 15-day strike that crippled Iran's vital oil industry earlier this month. Troops fired shots to disperse the protesters.

No casualties were reported in these incidents.

The looming strikes rekindled faltering opposition to the 59-year-old shah and the government under Gen. Gholam Reza Azhari, who the monarch appointed Nov. 6 to restore order after 10 months of bloody protests led by his political foes and Moslem religious leaders. Workers in many industries and government offices staged strikes in September and October to back opposition demands.

The bank workers demanded that the military government resign by next Saturday, start of the Moslem holy month of Moharram, a period of mourning that officials fear will bring renewed violence to Iran.

A high-ranking Iranian army officer warned that the imperial army will "mercilessly" quell any street protests.

Besides demanding the ouster of the military government, the central bank strike committee, representing 600 workers, also called among other things for the return from exile in Paris of Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini, religious leader of Iran's 32 million Shiite Moslems.

News in brief

The forecast for Pampa and vicinity calls for light rain and drizzle through Sunday with continued cool weather. The high on Sunday should be in the low 40s.

Pampa woman dies in crash

Karen Sue Coffman, 18, of 119 N. Nelson, was killed Saturday morning when she reportedly stepped in front of a vehicle on East Frederic Street.

A 1976 Chevrolet, driven by Troy Bassett, Pampa, was traveling east in the 1100 block of E. Frederic when Coffman reportedly stepped from a median into the path of the pick-up. She was taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance Company, where she was pronounced dead.

Fire causes $250,000 damage

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A fire destroyed a warehouse and flames licked at several oil storage tanks Saturday, resulting in $250,000 damage but no injuries, authorities said.

Fire Chief Rex Marshall said the fire apparently started while employees at Henson Oil Co., on U.S. 71 south of Joplin, were filling a tanker with gasoline from a large storage tank outside the warehouse, in which cleaning fluid and other chemicals were stored. He said he was not sure what caused the fire.

Bob Henson, president of the company, estimated damage at more than $250,000.

For several hours, the fire swept uncontrolled through the warehouse and flames were visible on top of some of the storage tanks. None of the large storage tanks exploded, though a few smaller drums of oil stored on the grounds blew up.

Stockholders meeting called

DALLAS (AP) — The board of directors of the A.H. Belo Corp., owner of The Dallas Morning News and WFAA-TV, has called a special stockholders meeting for Dec. 14 to approve an increase in the par value of stock and to reduce the number of authorized shares.

In a letter received by stockholders Saturday, the corporation directors proposed raising the common stock price from $5 to $100 per share and reducing the number of shares from 4 million to 200,000.

The proposal would limit "new stock" to those stockholders with at least 20 shares of "old stock" and those with less would have their stock purchased at a rate of $44 per share.

According to one stockholder, the action would have the effect of eliminating shareholders who bought small amounts of stock this summer at the urging of minority stockholder Gordon D. Jackson.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

The worst possible advice

It has been suggested that the sharp increase in Social Security taxes, scheduled to go into effect at the first of the year, be postponed or reduced. Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, is advocating this to assist in curbing inflation.

Here again is the fallacy of cutting federal income without cutting the spending. If the administration is really sincere in its anti-inflation objective, all the tax cuts should be made in the income tax and they should be coupled with cutbacks in spending by the various federal agencies.

If they would concentrate on those agencies which are putting the most regulatory burden on business and industry, thus relieving them of many unnecessary costs, it would be reflected in lower prices.

Another anti-inflationary move which is advocated, among others, by Federal Reserve Chairman William Miller, is to defer the impending raise in the minimum wage. The minimum is scheduled to go from $2.65 to $2.90 per hour Jan. 1, 1979. Bosworth and the president do not favor postponing this increase.

Carter's own anti-inflation program calls for a limit of 7 percent in pay raises. Yet here is a law soon going into effect which mandates an increase of over 9.4 percent. Rather than holding back the wage spiral this one will force employers to raise the pay of thousands above the wage guidelines.

And this politically motivated mandate is not the least of its total devastating effect on small business. It is small and medium business that has been hurt most by federal regulation. It is this same sector of our economy which is not reflecting the amount of growth that a healthy economy must have.

Many small endeavors have failed simply because of previous unjustified raises in the minimum wage. From beginnings in small business grow the large industries. In other words, the future of our economy depends on a healthy environment for small business.

It has been evident that every increase in the minimum wage has been the case of greater unemployment. And that unemployment has hit the areas where the problem is the greatest. For, if a person is simply not capable of producing at a rate which will sustain the price per hour, that person will nothing and lose all as the job disappears.

Many a small business which has attempted to swim against the rising tide of higher labor costs has, in the end, been swamped and put out of the economy. Trying to overcome the mandated cost for underachievers has also lost jobs for those who could pull their weight in higher pay brackets.

If the administration wants to do something immediate and tangible to assist our sick economy it should pull out all stops to get Congress to stop the increase in the minimum wage.

Such a move will not be popular with labor union leaders for they use such hikes as a springboard for negotiating more for their higher paid workers.

It may be time now for the politicians to get their advice from other sources. The labor union leadership is about the poorest source for sound advice to cure our ailing economy and its sick dollar.

Time for a decision

It's time for action to be taken.

For several years now Highland General Hospital has been plagued with numerous problems involving the administration, finances and now plumbing problems. Everyone knows this. It's not a new issue.

During this same period of time a variety of solutions have been offered to the hospital administration and the citizens of Gray County, but no action has been taken.

These proposed solutions have included selling the hospital, creating a hospital district, putting the hospital on a referendum and voting on a bond issue. The most talked about subject has been the leasing of the hospital.

Leasing is not a new subject though. On Dec. 14, 1977 a story appeared in the Pampa News on that very subject. As far back as that date the commissioners were considering leasing the hospital. On Jan. 17, 1978 a second article appeared that said two corporations, both Houston based, were looking at the hospital. The first was Medenco Management Services and the second was American Medical International.

No action was ever taken. In February of 1978 Gray County Judge, Don Hinton, told county commissioners that the road to leasing had been blocked because of "red tape."

Now a third corporation is looking at the hospital. Hospital Corporations of America appeared at a recent commissioners meeting to show their interest in Highland General Hospital.

But prior to consideration on leasing, the commissioners court had discussed selling the hospital. Discussion surrounding this issue dates back to September of 1977.

The hospital has reached a point where it can no longer stand under this lengthy period of indecision.

Currently it is in need of finances to improve the plumbing problems. Since the beginning of the year the hospital has had over 60 major waterline breaks because of the old plumbing. These breaks will continue if it doesn't receive the money it needs.

The big question surrounding all of this controversy has been "Where will the money come from?"

It is the debate of this question that has taken so much time and produced so few results.

Currently the Gray County Commissioners Court is looking at a variety of options - again. In October public hearings were held asking one question: what do the people of Gray County want? The answer was unanimously: leasing. It was an answer that came by the way of a vote, an unofficial vote, but still a vote that showed this is what the people wanted.

Several weeks later the commissioners proceeded by asking AMI to work out a contract that would be suitable to the needs of the people of Gray County.

Now they are looking at another corporation and the possibility of a referendum. If they go to a referendum, the commissioners will have to ask AMI for an extension.

Their time is up. Granted this is a serious decision that will affect the residents of Gray County for some time. Granted time is needed to make a decision, but surely two years is a long enough period of time.

A referendum is not what the majority of the people of Gray County ask for at these public hearings. The same majority did not ask the court to look at another corporation, although all options should be explored.

The majority of the people of Gray County ask for the court to lease the hospital. Lease the hospital and get it back on its feet, so the people of this area can feel secure about their medical services.

Once a decision is made, and hopefully it will be made soon, then the people will feel secure. Citizens won't feel it is necessary to go to Amarillo for quality medical care.

But this won't happen until a decision is made.

By ROBERT LEFEVRE
During the past several months there has been a great deal of talk about rolling back taxes, limiting government spending, making the government more responsible and so on.

Despite what we can assume are good intentions, the sum of all the protestations, maneuverings and shiftings of position will add up to larger government and increased control of our lives and property. Further, government income, in toto, will increase and not decrease.

The reason is a simple one and, I hope, will presently become conspicuous. If a tax is removed from one segment of the economy, but the power to tax and spend is retained, that part of the economy experiencing tax relief will become more profitable. Money will flow in that direction, more people will produce more goods and services in that area, and the net result will be a larger take in government because of improved conditions. As more people earn more money they pay more taxes in general, even if they may pay fewer in one area.

Undergirding this entire process is the fact that government, by its nature, is corrupt. I hope I am not being misunderstood. I make no attack on politicians. I have known many of them and, with only modest exceptions, most politicians I have known are dedicated, hardworking idealists who want the best for their constituents and their country. Nonetheless, they are corrupt. The corruption of which they are guilty is so widespread and so common that it has become invisible.

The futility of tax relief

What we have is a blind faith in a philosophy which, at base, is a corruption of reality. Shifting taxes around helps nothing at all in terms of the basic malady.

Let's look at it this way. Government taxes everyone (tariffs, imposts, income, property, use, excise, inheritance, utility, entertainment, admission, etc.) and, after paying the salaries of its employees, offers help to this or that group of persons, with the funds remaining and by running up debts.

Let's take a recent case. To encourage farmers to produce more rice, government began paying certain farmers in certain parts of the country to produce rice. It was argued that rice is a staple crop and the farmers were confronted with the enormous vagaries of the marketplace. Sometimes they planted too much rice and the price went down so they made no money. Sometimes they planted too little which meant that rice consumers went hungry.

So the government was called upon to set production quotas and to pay a set price for the rice. To pay that price, everyone in the nation was taxed, including millions of people who don't like rice and wouldn't have it on their tables if they could prevent it.

The first result is a bumper crop of rice, more than we can consume. So the government looked around to see who could use it. It turned out that people in Korea happen to like the kind of rice we produce here. Further, the Koreans wanted to buy it but needed the funds to make the purchases.

To pose as a friend to all and as a benevolent uncle to everyone who speaks kindly to us, the government now taxed everyone so that funds could be provided to Korea so that Korea could buy our rice.

Since rice is a most important item insofar as Korea is concerned, various businessmen and politicians in Korea wanted to see to it that a supply of American rice would come to Korea and come inexpensively. It is now alleged that part of the subsidy money paid by the American government to Korea was used by Tongsun Park in a gesture of friendship to various American politicians so they would favor more legislation leading to more rice production and more subsidy for Korea.

The American rice farmers were happy. They were being subsidized to produce rice. Ask them if they are corrupt and they will say no. They are busy producing food that people depend on.

Ask the men in government if they are corrupt and they will say no. They have been passing legislation to further production goals and to help see the people around the world who are hungry get something to eat.

Ask the businessmen in Korea if they are corrupt and they will say no. They have only been trying to stimulate the market in a way that will be helpful to them. And, in process, they have tried to reward those who have served them well.

This entire process is called the "democratic" process. It is the process itself that is corrupt and not the men in it who merely follow the leader like a string of blind elephants grasping the tail of the pachyderm in front of him.

Where does the corruption come from? It comes from the taxing process itself. Everyone is forced to pay benefits that a special few are to receive. And it doesn't matter whether the group to be benefited is the poor, the rice growers, the aged, the young, the blind, the automobile makers or the railroad operators. Everyone pays because of the forceful banditry of taxation. And in each case, a special few, a vested interest, gets the money.

If we are ever to get off this wheel of corruption, which, in itself, breeds further corruption, we must halt the process that converts grand theft into a way of life. The honest procedure is to ask each individual to pay for what ever benefits he wishes. If he doesn't want a benefit, he should not pay for it. If he doesn't pay, he shouldn't receive it.

When government becomes a financial partner in any respect, we can predict that the group receiving the benefit will clamor for more. They would be other than human if they didn't. Funds will pass from hand to hand to encourage legislation which will enhance or enlarge that flow of funds. And the result is that the population itself becomes a herd of sheep being sheared by the shepherding politicians. The only recourse a citizen seems to have is to get into a pressure group of some kind so that he can cut himself a piece of cake out of the general spoilage. Thus we have corruption feeding and enlarging on corruption.

Shifting things around does no real good at all. It is the fundamental idea that the masses must pay for what the privileged few are to receive that is at fault. It doesn't matter whether the privileged are the rich or the poor, the black or the white, the young or the old, the pregnant or the non pregnant.

Ours is a system based on universal compulsory bribery, vote buying and favoritism. When a person's throat has been cut, a bandaid on a bleeding finger isn't much help.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, Nov. 26, the 330th day of 1978. There are 35 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1949, India adopted a constitution as a federal republic within the British Commonwealth.

On this date:
In 1789, this was a day of thanksgiving, set aside by President George Washington to observe the adoption of the U.S. Constitution.

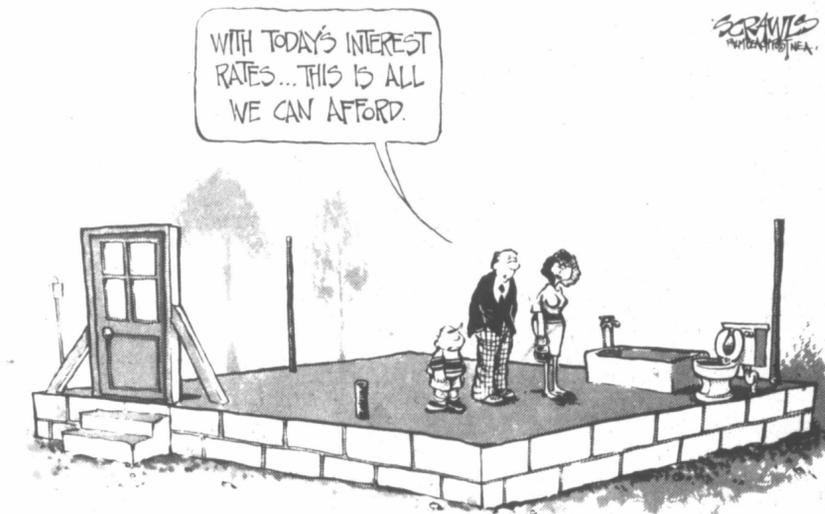

In 1857, the first Australian parliament convened in Melbourne.

In 1922, King Tutankhamen's tomb was opened in Egypt.

In 1925, Germany ratified the Locarno Treaty, pledging to guarantee the French frontier.

In 1940, the 500,000 Jews in Warsaw, Poland, were forced by the Nazis to live within a walled ghetto.

In 1970, a Bolivian disguised as a priest tried to kill Pope Paul VI in the Philippine capital of Manila, but the pontiff escaped injury.

Do it yourself religion

Take away any man's god and he will invent another.

Robert Ruark tried to warn us a generation ago that our opposition to African tribal rites was failing to replace that discipline with "something of value."

Every man has to believe in something, even if—as with atheists—it is a "belief in disbelief."

And let's face it, the difference between a religion and a cult is that yours is a "religion" and any other is a "cult." Both are flourishing.

Recent formalities in Rome during the selections of Popes were in sharp contrast to the informal, improvised do-it-yourself religions which are capturing disciples worldwide.

The Rev. Moon, Hare Krishna, Scientology, Children of God and the guru sects which have beguiled many young Americans are sweeping Europe now.

Some of these "fringe religions" spawn crime, fraud, sexual abuse, suicides. Ten Hare Krishna "monks" were caught in Frankfurt, West Germany, begging and receiving more than a million dollars—ostensibly for starving people in India—and actually used to buy a castle for their commune.

There's been a pox of suicides in West Germany and Switzerland among members of the small India-Indian sect called Ananda Marga.

Recent Gallup Polls show 94 percent of Americans believe in "God" or in "a universal spirit."

Seventy-one percent believe in life after death.

But only 44 percent have much confidence in organized religion.

The only mainline churches which have continued to grow and prosper in numbers and in resources are those which are most evangelical, most nearly what we used to call "fundamental"; those which adhere closest to a belief that the Bible means what it says.

This "absolute" apparently is reassuring.

The mainline churches which have compromised, modernized, diluted dogma, are shrinking.

And thus encouraging informal, untraditional worship.

Religious books are a $600 million-a-year business. Among the best-sellers are the new plain-speech Bibles.

Do-it-yourself religion is not new to our nation. Two hundred years ago Thomas Paine wrote: "My own mind is my own church."

But the mavericks—the overdoers—are all demanding "equal time."

Any group that gathers in anybody's living room can adopt a name, proclaim itself a "religion" and demand tax advantages and free speech privileges.

In the United States a proliferation of celebrity preachers on radio and television has now been augmented by enough others who are trying to get on—so that the result could become a total ban on all religious programming.

That, most of us agree, would leave a tragic void in what is already a secular imbalance.

Nation's Press

And the fair land

Wall Street Journal
Anyone whose labors take him into the far reaches of the country, as ours lately have done, is bound to mark how the years have made the land grow fruitful.

This is indeed a big country, a rich country, in a way no array of figures can measure and so in a way past belief of those who have not seen it. Even those who journey through its northeastern complex, into the southern lands, across the central plains and to its western slopes, can only glimpse a measure of the bounty of America.

And a traveler cannot but be struck on his journey by the thought that this country, one day, can be even greater. America, though many know it not, is one of the great underdeveloped countries of the world; what it reaches for exceeds by far what it has grasped.

So the visitor returns thankful for much of what he has seen, and, in spite of everything, an optimist about what his country might be. Yet the visitor, if he is to make an honest report, must also note the air of unease that hangs everywhere.

For the traveler, as travelers have been always, is as much questioned as questioning. And for all the abundance he sees, he finds the questions put to him ask where men may repair for succor from the troubles that beset them.

His countrymen cannot forget the savage face of war. Too often they have been asked to fight in strange and distant places, for no clear purpose they could see and for no accomplishment they can measure. Their spirits are not quieted by the thought that the good and pleasant bounty that now surrounds them can be destroyed in an instant by a single bomb. Yet they find no escape, for their survival and comfort now depend on unpredictable strangers in far-off corners of the globe.

How can they turn from melancholy when at home they see young arrayed against old, black against white, neighbor against neighbor, so that they stand in peril of social discord. Or not despair when they see that the cities and countryside are in need of repair, yet find themselves threatened by scarcities of the resources that sustain their way of life. Or when, in the face of these challenges, they turn for leadership to men in high places only to find those men as frail as any others.

So sometimes the traveler is asked whence will come their succor. What is to preserve their abundance, or even their civility? How can they pass on to their children a nation as strong and free as the one they inherited from their forefathers? How is their country to endure these cruel storms that beset it from without and from within?

Of course the stranger cannot quiet their spirits. For it is true that everywhere men turn their eyes today much of the world has a truly wild and savage hue. No man, if he is truthful, can say that the specter of war is banished. Nor can he say that when men or communities are put upon their own resources they are sure of solace; nor be sure that men of diverse kinds and diverse views can live peaceably together in a time of troubles.

But we can all remind ourselves that the richness of this country was not born in the resources of the earth, though they be plentiful, but in the men that took its measure. For that reminder is everywhere in the cities, towns, farms, roads, factories, homes, hospitals, schools that spread everywhere over that wilderness.

We can remind ourselves that, for all our social discord we yet remain the longest enduring society of free men governing themselves without benefit of kings or dictators. Being so, we are the marvel and the mystery of the world, for that enduring liberty is no less a blessing than the abundance of the earth.

And we might remind ourselves also, that if those men setting out from Delftshaven had been daunted by the troubles they saw around them, then we could not this autumn be thankful for a fair land.

Both sides will renew efforts in Davis trial

HOUSTON (AP) — The prosecution, with the use of audio and video tape recordings and testimony from law enforcement agencies, will attempt to weave a tighter web of evidence around Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis this week.

The defense apparently will renew its efforts to discredit those testifying against Davis in the solicitation-of-murder trial while laying the foundation for an argument that the Fort Worth industrialist was the victim of a frame-up by his enemies and law officers.

To date, the defense has failed to break the testimony of David McCrory, an FBI informant and former friend and employee of Davis.

Chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes jabbed, punched and exchanged verbal haymakers with McCrory last week but got nothing more than several "I don't remember" answers.

On a couple of occasions State District Judge Wallace Moore warned Haynes to speed up his cross-examination and to stop "follow some rabbit trails" in his questions.

Davis, 45, is accused of soliciting the murder of Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidsen, the jurist who presided over the bitter 4-year divorce trial of the millionaire and his estranged wife Priscilla.

McCrory testified he was asked by Davis to hire a hitman to eliminate the judge and at least 14 other persons who had become involved in the defendant's numerous legal problems.

Each time Haynes left a doubt as to the credibility of a witness and hinted of a frame-up, the prosecution, led by Jack Strickland, came back with a counter-attack.

After McCrory, FBI special agent Joseph Gray was called to the stand and he swore that the tape recordings made of conversations between Davis and McCrory had not been doctored and were identical to the ones he first heard in late August.

When the defense hinted it might question the accuracy of the tapes, Strickland threw a counter-punch, getting permission from the judge to replay the tapes so the FBI agent could determine if any changes had been made.

This meant the jurors heard for a second time the recordings, considered the most damaging evidence against Davis.

Gray also testified how he burned three small holes in an old T-shirt and sprinkled it with catsup to set up a fake picture tain he was on firm legal grounds by allowing the jurors to read the transcript while listening to the scratchy and at times inaudible tape. He offered defense lawyers the chance to give their jury their own transcript, but they declined.

Haynes said two earlier rulings in Texas state courts had denied the use of transcripts.

And, another state district judge, after a brief conversation with Haynes, said, "Racehorse thinks he has a trial error."

Art center opens two new exhibits

The Amarillo Art Center recently opened two exhibits: The prints of eight abstract artists and the puppets of world-famous puppeteer, Frank Paris.

The exhibits will be shown in the Plaza Level galleries until Jan. 7, while the Faberge exhibit continues in the third floor galleries.

The Amarillo Art Center is located at 2200 S. Van Buren on the east side of the Amarillo College Campus.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and 10 to 3 p.m. on Wednesday.

Admission is free.

After the FBI stepped into the case Eidsen removed himself from the Davis divorce trial.

Haynes apparently has what he considers solid reasons for an appeal should Davis be convicted.

Judge Moore allowed the jurors to read a transcript of a tape recording that prosecutors said linked Davis to the kill-for-hire plot.

Police notes

An officer observed a van that failed to yield the right-of-way, narrowly missed an oncoming vehicle and then crossed a fixed barrier. The vehicle was stopped in the 800 block of S. Hobart. Mark Thomas Lamar, 18, 1913 N. Faulkner, the driver of the vehicle, was observed to be in an intoxicated condition. Lamar was placed in city jail on charges of driving while intoxicated, failure to yield the right-of-way and crossing a fixed barrier.
Officer J. Mollinary stopped a vehicle that was being operated by Johnny Hernandez, County House Trailer Park, who was driving while his license was suspended. He was arrested and placed in city jail on that charge.

A 1975 Oldsmobile, driven by Neva Davis, 1032 S. Dwight, was moving east bound in the 500 block of E. Brown, when, while she was unsafely changing lanes, struck a 1978 Ford. The Ford was driven by Charles Albus, 1213 E. Kingsmill, who was also east bound in the 500 block of E. Brown. No injuries were reported. Davis was cited for unsafe lane change. The police department responded to 34 calls in a 24 hour period.

In agriculture

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent
Legal Aspects of Agriculture
Mounds and mounds of new laws and regulations are turning agriculture into a most complex industry. Just where a producer stands as far as the legal implications of certain operations is often misunderstood.
To shed some light on this increasingly complicated situation will be the major purpose of a special conference on the "Legal Aspects of Agriculture" to be held Dec. 7-8 at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Dallas.
The conference is for producers, representatives of producer organizations, agribusinesses and regulatory agencies, and lawyers. Lawyers who write the various regulations affecting agriculture must have a better understanding of commercial agriculture, and those in commercial agriculture must be fully aware of their privileges to appeal to the courts for interpretations of regulations they deem to be unfair.

The conference will be highlighted by four major discussion areas - (1) undesirable loss of farmland by conversion to non-agricultural uses; (2) food safety and product liability; (3) pesticides; and (4) labor and agriculture.
Many outstanding speakers will be featured, including professors of law at Texas University, Texas Tech University and the University of Minnesota; several attorneys, including the deputy associate general counsel for the Environmental Protection Agency and the general counsel of Western Growers Association of Newport Beach, California.
Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, A&M president, will be the lead-off speaker and will set the stage for the conference program.
Conference sponsors are the University of Texas School of Law and Texas A&M's College of Agriculture, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.
World Grain Outlook
According to the Foreign

Agricultural Service, estimates of world grain supplies for the 1978-79 season have generally increased since late September. However, prospects for another increase in trade volume has also improved.
The most significant developments have been: (1) sharp upward revision of USSR crop estimates, accompanied by a slight decrease in the wheat import forecast; (2) large upward revisions of crop estimates for the European Community (EC), even though record levels were already indicated in late September; (3) large increases in subsidized export selling of wheat and barley by the EC; (4) substantial upward revisions of crop estimates for major foreign exporters, particularly in the Southern Hemisphere; (5) a sizable increase in the forecast of the People's Republic of China (PRC) coarse grain imports, partially offset by a reduction in the forecast of that country's wheat imports; and (6) a significant increase in the anticipated amount of build-up in Japanese rice stocks. Another development that could become of considerable significance is the recent flood-related damage to rice crops in several Southeast Asian countries, which could affect the outlook for both wheat and rice trade.

Texas Wheat Meeting
The Texas Wheat Producers Board and Producers Association will hold their annual meeting and Wheat Symposium Thursday, November 30 in Vernon, TX at the Vernon Regional Junior College Auditorium.
These two wheat organizations have accomplished a lot for wheat farmers this past year, especially Texas wheat farmers. A lot of farmers have received benefits from the Texas Wheat Producers Association in the form of "disaster" and "grazeout" payments.
Also the Board is funded by a self-assessment of one-half cent per bushel on wheat delivered to elevators. The board spends a lot for foreign market development.

Deaths

LENA PEARL HOBBS
Lena Pearl Hobbs, 73, 101 W. 19th, died Saturday morning at Highland General Hospital. Services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Carmichael Whitley Colonial Chapel. The Rev. Claude Cone, First Baptist Church, will officiate. The burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery.

Hobbs was born on Oct. 17, 1905 in Gorman and was married to Vernon L. Hobbs on June 19, 1927 at Ardmore, Okla. They moved to Pampa in 1934 and he died on Nov. 30, 1974. She was a member of the First Baptist Church and a charter member of Las Pampas chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was a former president of the Altrusa Club and an honorary member of the 20th Century Culture Club.

Hobbs is survived by one son, Kenneth Hobbs, Lubbock; one daughter, Mrs. R. J. Sailor Jr., White Deer; two brothers, Ralph Sullivan, Ardmore, Okla.; Roy Sullivan, Sulphur, Okla.; and five grandchildren.

Memorials may be made to the First Baptist Church building fund.

Bessie Mae Souter, 84, 417 Hughes Street, died Saturday morning at Highland General Hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in the Carmichael Whitley Colonial Chapel. The Rev. Claude Cone, First Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery.

Souter was born on Jan. 9, 1894 in Eliassville and moved to Pampa in 1945. She was a member of the First Baptist Church and was married to Robert L. Souter on June 3, 1911 at Graham. He died on April 15, 1976.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Doris Graves, Dallas; Mary Souter, Pampa; Mrs. Leymond Hall, Pampa; one sister, Mrs. Lois Hoag, Dallas and four grandchildren.

KAREN SUE COFFMAN
Karen Sue Coffman, 18, died Saturday morning at Highland General Hospital. Services will be at 4 p.m. Monday in the Carmichael Whitley Colonial Chapel. Glenn Walton, minister of North Amarillo Church of Christ, will officiate. Burial will be in the Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Coffman was born on Aug. 10, 1960 in Emporia, Kan. She had been a resident of Pampa for two years and moved here from Tennessee. She was married to Keith Coffman in May 1978 and was a member of the First Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gunter, Pampa; one sister, Rachel Gunter, Pampa; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Coker, Concord, Tenn.

Most Americans will get bonuses

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (AP) — A majority of American workers surveyed will receive Christmas bonuses this year, according to a recent poll by a New Jersey publishing firm.

The poll, done for the 10th consecutive year by Prentice-Hall Inc., found 109 of 184 plants, banks, offices, and hospitals — or 59.3 percent of those surveyed across the country — will provide a seasonal gift or cash bonus to their employees.

Behind the Scenes

with
Pampa News Managing Editor
Greg Hardin

WE RECEIVED a letter this week signed by four young women from Pampa High that listed several of our shortcomings in their eyes. We would like to respond to some of the comments made in the letter that we feel were unjust. First, we want to thank the young women for their comments good or bad about our paper. We are not in the business to act as a publicity agency for any group or individual. Our staff is highly trained and are by all standards, professionals in gathering the news. We collect and report the news as it happens and not the way that people would like to see it happen but the way it DOES happen. The young women's letter mentioned that our coverage of sporting events was not considered to be aiding the Pampa High teams. We support all of the high school's teams, no matter what event or what group is participating, but we don't give these groups praise when they don't deserve it. Praise, in the press or outside, must always be earned and we hope these young people understand that. Since we have been in Pampa we have ALL given our total effort to promoting our city's greatest assets, our young people. We hope that it shows, too.

TODAY IS THE BEST DAY to start regular attendance in the church of your choice.

WE TRUST that everyone had a plentiful Thanksgiving and will not have to endure turkey sandwiches for too long.

DURING THE LAST WEEK we started a cleanup campaign in the News parking lot. In the future we plan to start a program to help clean up the Pampa area. We know first hand how much work it is to get those cleanup projects done, but we think it is worth it.

RECENTLY WE HAVE HAD several complaints that we are not covering certain stories in the paper. We want everyone to realize that simply because we are a newspaper doesn't mean that we know of everything that is going on in town. If you have an event or story that you think needs covering, give us a call. We might not know about it and would appreciate the information. Each person should remember that the News is their paper and that we want everyone to let us know what they want covered in it's pages. Remember, if it is not in the paper, we don't know about it.

Dogcatcher fired for killing dogs

SENATOBIA, Miss. (AP) — Policeman Bill Freeman was fired from his part-time job as town dogcatcher because he shot and killed some dogs he could not snare, officials said.

"I don't enjoy killing anything, I was just doing my job," Freeman, 28, said Friday. "The city bought the shells."
Mayor W.E. "Bill" Callicott said he had received at least six calls from people who said they witnessed, or heard about, dogs being shot, although the number actually killed was not known.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

November 27, 1978

This coming year many opportunities could open up new horizons and vistas for you to explore. Take care, however, that you don't jump from one to the other without fully taking the time to enjoy any of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It'll be very easy for you to be misunderstood or termed a braggart today unless you state your case most diplomatically. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Through the actions of an extravagant friend you could be drawn into an expense you didn't plan on today. Better have your checkbook handy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Agreeing to something you're doubtful about only because it's the easy thing to do is a mistake. Take time to get all the facts before committing yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be able to think of many reasons for goofing-off today. None will be valid but you'll try to convince yourself they are.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're prone to rely too heavily upon Lady Luck today. Take care. She isn't apt to be around at the moment you'll need her the most.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Neglecting family obligations today could prove to be a costly mistake. Tend to your duties first and you'll avoid a peck of problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A heap of discipline will be required today if you are to accomplish anything. You have a tendency to let your mind wander and sidetrack from your chores.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be an especially prudent shopper. The problems you get yourself into today stem from an extravagant or careless way of handling your finances.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Placing all the emphasis on your needs and ignoring those of others won't make you too popular today. You'll stand alone if your thoughts are selfish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) To seem more appealing and plausible, you might embellish the facts a little. Take care, the odds are overwhelming you'll be asked to prove your statements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keeping up with the Joneses is not only wasteful, but totally unnecessary. You're kidding yourself if you think this is the way to win friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Luck and chance alone will not win the goals you seek today. Only the sweat from your brow will be able to do the job.

ROCHELLE LACY, drama instructor at Pampa High, takes time to help her students prepare a sign that was used on their float in the Thanksgiving parade.

She's more than a writer, producer and director

One glance will tell you she is busy, involved and happy with her work.

Rochelle Lacy has been teaching in Pampa since 1968 when she taught speech at an elementary school. In 1969 Lacy moved to the high school and began teaching drama courses.

It was shortly after her move to the high school that she formed the Storybook Players, a group that does children's plays.

Lacy explained that the Pampa Fine Arts Association always brought in a touring group every year to do a series of three plays. She was on the Fine Arts Board and when she found out how much the touring group was being paid she told the board the department could do just as well. Lacy explained that a touring group couldn't bring much with them, so the department started doing three shows a year at the High School.

But a problem arose. Lacy felt that many of the children in the area weren't getting the exposure they needed to a live play. Her solution: tour with the first two plays and do a large production at the high school.

"There were so many children that had never seen a live play, so we went into the high school free of charge with the Fine Arts Association underwriting the expense for the first shows and we would sell tickets for the third show."

Since the origin of the Storybook Players Lacy has directed 21 plays with this group. In addition to those plays Lacy has directed 32 stage productions.

Besides directing plays Lacy has also written and produced several plays of her own.

The first play she wrote was The Ballet of the Enchanted Butterfly.

"I basically did that so we could do a ballet. It's a story within a story."

Lacy said. "Writing grew out of the necessity for material for a particular group of people."

Lacy wrote this particular play for Angela Day who is now with the Oklahoma University Ballet Company.

"We had done several other scripts with dance before."

She explained that many of her students take dancing, and she hopes to develop the department into one that uses a variety of medias. Among them are acting, dancing and projections. "The trend nationwide is towards total theatre." She added, "I want to open the department to the total theatre approach and do some other types of entertaining."

Lacy is considering staging the production of the Glass Menagerie this spring. But directing the production wouldn't be her only involvement if things go as she hopes. Lacy would like to cast herself in the play.

"I have never done a show where I performed with the students. It's hard for a director to get back on stage," Lacy explained that an actor sees himself only in that specific role, instead of the entire production. "That's not bad," she said, "Of necessity they are geared to looking to the character. The director has to see how everything fits together."

It's not hard to tell that Lacy is a very busy person. She has a busy schedule and takes time to become involved with her students. During production periods she often spends evenings working at the school. But according to Lacy, "It doesn't interfere."

Right now she teaches only morning classes then comes back in the evenings to work on these productions. "I used to teach afternoons too. Then I had to juggle my schedule at home along with production."

Weekly oil report

HOUSTON (AP) — Carlton D. Weaver says the time is long overdue for the nation to reset its energy time clock. "And the only way we can promptly and efficiently move the hands back is to shift from oil to coal, our most abundant energy resource," Weaver said. Weaver, as a senior vice president and group operating officer, directs the coal operations of Ashland Oil Inc. He contends the nation's failure to develop its abundant coal reserves as an alternative to petroleum is one of the great tragedies of the century. "Coal accounts for 80 percent of our nation's total energy reserves, but only 20 percent of the energy we now consume," Weaver said. But, he added, the United States has now become dependent on petroleum to the point where "our economy could quite simply fail to function without oil." "Crude oil accounts for only 3 percent of our national energy reserves, but nearly 50 percent of the energy we consume comes from oil," he said. "And ever since the 1960s, we have been relying more and more on foreign suppliers for that oil. Domestic oil production peaked in 1970, at 10 million barrels a day. Last year we imported 8.7 million barrels a day. Those imports amounted to a cash outlay of $45 million, the equivalent of nearly half the entire national defense budget. Today, nearly half of the oil we use is imported." The vast coal reserves, he said, were meanwhile being neglected. "During the 1950s and 1960s our nation's coal industry was allowed to stagnate and nearly die while we indulged in the cheap oil binge," he said. Weaver said President Carter has made coal one of the cornerstones of his energy program but the specter of government regulation threatens to hinder, rather than expand, national coal production. "Clearly, we cannot have Jimmy Carter calling for increased coal production on the rhetorical level and spokesmen within government restricting production at the operational level," he said. Weaver said he is not against the goals of protecting the air where coal is burned or protecting the land where it is mined. "A balance must be found between regulation and energy development," he said. "And under the current laws and regulations, we seem to be moving not toward balance but toward prolonged confrontation." Weaver said what may be the brightest star on the energy horizon is indicated in a National Coal Association analysis of projected research and development expenditures by the Department of Energy in fiscal 1979. "The analysis shows that by far more effort is being put into coal research than into research on any other energy source," he said. "A total of $618 million will be spent toward discovering ways to make the consumption of coal cleaner and more efficient. This is 23 percent of the department's total research and development budget." Such research, he said, holds the promise that through the processes of liquefaction and gasification, coal may one day replace oil and natural gas as the nation's major clean burning and economical fuel. "While we await that day, however, our energy time clock continues to tick," Weaver said. The cornerstone of the Jefferson Memorial in Washington, D.C., was laid in 1939.

What makes a leader?

EDITOR'S NOTE — What makes a leader? James MacGregor Burns, the Pulitzer-Prize winning biographer has researched the backgrounds of some of the world's leaders and finds that there are many similar leadership qualities in otherwise very different personalities.

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — James MacGregor Burns put a lot of scholarly research into his book, called, simply, "Leadership." But when you ask him to define leadership, he relates it to his own feelings about Jimmy Carter.

"I'm a Democrat," he says, "but I can't feel with him. I don't grieve with Carter when he loses and I don't celebrate with him when he wins. The real test of his leadership will come when he has strong enemies and strong support — when some people hate him and other people love him. There's just very little strong feeling about him."

Burns is Woodrow Wilson Professor of Government at Williams College and the author of prize-winning biographies of John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Now, in an often scholarly tome that he frankly concedes "is not best-seller material," he has devoted 462 pages to defining the often indefinable — what qualities and experiences make someone willing and able to lead.

"Leadership" (published by Harper & Row) comes to no firm conclusion. But there are a couple of central themes.

One is the emotional factor reflected in his comments about Carter. A good leader, Burns says, just generate emotion. He is both hated and loved, and will be neutral about him.

He also says a leader must be able to combine his own vision — or doctrine — with a feeling for what people want and need.

"The greatness of Roosevelt," he said in a recent interview, "is that he could meet some of the basic needs of the people, and when they responded, take them to a higher level."

In fact, says Burns, Carter may have lost that own larger vision in the quagmire of finger-to-the-wind day-to-day politics.

In late 1974, Burns was a Massachusetts delegate to the Democratic mini-convention in Kansas City. "I heard a man with a soft southern voice talking to a woman sitting behind me," he says. "I had no idea it was Carter. He was really talking with her, not showing off or building himself up. He was asking her what she thought. They had a real discussion. I was impressed by that and I got the feeling he really got to know America on that tour of the country he was making."

"But in the presidency he's become so drawn into the traditional money-fiscal-tax-tariff involvement of day-to-day Washington that he's lost some of that freshness and the penetrating vision of what Americans were hungering for."

In the book, Burns emphasizes that good leaders share certain qualities, whatever their philosophies, whatever their personalities. Many of the same personality traits found in Hitler and Lenin, he notes, are also found in Roosevelt and Gandhi.

Among Lenin's qualities, for example was a practical bent that American politicians would envy.

Burns writes that of all the revolutionaries in Czarist Russia, only Lenin could have pulled off the Revolution. For while he was expert at arguing esoteric Marxist dogma in the infighting that dominated his Socialist circles, he also had a sense of mass politics.

"Others have attributed Lenin's success to his iron self-discipline, aura of command and absolute self-confidence," Burns writes. "But political factors were perhaps more significant than ideological or psychological factors."

"One of these was Lenin's perception of the real needs of the Russian masses, especially the peasants. At a time when liberal reforms were demanding civil liberties and political rights for the people, the Bolshevik leader recognized that most peasants and workers wanted the kind of economic and social change that in the Communist view was the indispensable foundation of authentic freedom."

Burns says his book developed from writing biographies. "There had been a lot of material written on leaders but virtually nothing on the qualities of leadership they share," he says.

To that end, he began researching in psychology and sociology. And, in fact, a good portion of the book reads a little like Freud or Erik Erikson.

But not all is so scholarly. In fact, there's an anecdote in "Leadership" that would be familiar to anyone who regularly follows American politics.

"An of-related story," writes Burns: "tells of a Frenchman sitting in a cafe who suddenly hears a disturbance outside. He jumps to his feet and cries: 'There goes the mob! I am their leader. I must follow them.'" To which Burns adds: "Persons are often perceived to be leaders simply because they reflect the needs and attitudes of their followers."

Wyoming led the United States in granting women the right to vote and hold office in 1869, then elected the nation's first woman justice of the peace in 1870, the first woman superintendent of schools in 1894 and the first woman state representative in 1910.

JOE JEFFERS of Pampa looks for a teammate to hit with an inbounds pass as Perryton's Jeff Lowery defends in first-half action at Harvester Field House Friday night. The Rangers took a 67-60 victory over the Harvesters in the season opener for Pampa.

Rangers top Pampa in opener

A statistics buff could have taken a quick look at the Pampa-Perryton box score from Friday night's game at Harvester Field House and concluded the Rangers took a 67-60 decision at the free-throw line.

After all, the teams were even in field goals (27) and the Rangers hit 12 of 20 charity tosses compared to six of eight for Pampa.

And the Harvesters were whistled for 20 fouls and had two players sent to the bench in the late moments of the game with five fouls apiece, while Perryton committed just 12 personals.

But the statistics don't reveal that Perryton led from start to finish, owned a 15-point lead at one point of the fourth quarter and never let Pampa within five points all of the second half.

Harvester Coach Gary Abercrombie probably had the best explanation for the loss while talking about the unequal number of fouls assessed.

"When you're outscored, sometimes you have to foul," he said, perhaps while thinking about situations which left 5-10 Joe Jeffers guarding 6-6 David Reynolds of Perryton.

"With Cedrick (Parker, who missed the game with an ankle injury) out, we only have three inside people and they have to rest sometime. We really needed Cedrick to go to the boards tonight," he concluded. "That's his whole game."

The Rangers jumped to a 6-0 lead in the opening minutes of the game simply by shooting the eyes out of a Pampa zone defense. The Harvesters, meanwhile, couldn't buy a basket until Steve Duke connected from 12 feet away nearly two minutes into the game.

"I'm pretty well satisfied with the way we played," Abercrombie commented. "We fell behind early not so much by our defense as by missing our shots. We hung in there and made a run at them... but they got it right back."

Perryton upped its lead to 17-6 in the first period before the Harvesters scored three straight buckets to get within five points. But that's as close as Pampa could get the rest of the game as it dropped its season opener.

Forced to play catch-up, the Harvesters pulled to 45-40 midway through the third quarter when Jeffers scored his only basket of the night. But the Rangers matched Pampa basket for basket and scored the last three field goals of the quarter to lead 53-42 going into the final quarter.

Despite some fine individual efforts by Duke, Ronnie Faggins and Steve Stout, the Rangers eventually pulled to their 15-point margin with 5:30 to play and coasted the rest of the way.

Reynolds led all scorers with 26 points, while teammate Scooter Smith had 16, most of which came from the 20-25 foot range. Jeff Conner also got into double figures for the Rangers with six field goals for 12 points.

Duke led the Harvester attack with 24 points, including a perfect 6-for-6 from the free-throw line. Faggins connected for 16 points, while Stout scored 12, including 10 in the second half.

Pampa's junior varsity won a nail-biter from Perryton, outscoring the Rangers 4-3 in overtime to take a 51-50 decision. Kyle Bradford led the winners with 12 points, while Dwayne Avery contributed 11.

Pampa and Perryton will meet Tuesday night for a rematch on the Rangers' home court.

Lombardi finalists announced

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Penn State defensive tackles, an offensive guard for Oklahoma and a UCLA linebacker are the finalists for the 1979 Lombardi Award, which goes to the nation's top college lineman.

Bruce Clark and Matt Millen of Penn State, Greg Roberts of Oklahoma and Jerry Robinson of UCLA were named Sunday by a nationwide panel of coaches, sportswriters and broadcasters.

The winner of the annual award is to be announced Jan. 18 at a $100-a-plate dinner given by the sponsor of the award, the Downtown Rotary Club. Proceeds from the dinner go to the American Cancer Society.

All four finalists are on their way to post-season games this year as Penn State goes to the Sugar Bowl, Oklahoma meets Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and UCLA confronts Arkansas in the Fiesta Bowl.

Roberts, the sixth Oklahoma player to make the Lombardi Award finals will travel from his hometown of Nacogdoches for the dinner.

Stout, Duke lead Harvesters

Steve Stout had a big first half and Steve Duke went on an offensive explosion after the intermission to lead the Pampa Harvesters to a 71-60 victory over Hereford at Harvester Field House Saturday night.

Living up to their nickname, the Hustling Harvesters came roaring out of the gate and rarely stopped to catch their breath as they grabbed a 30-15 lead midway through the second period.

No less than five of Pampa's 12 first-quarter baskets came off the fast break. And when they couldn't run to score, the Harvesters slowed things up and let Stout and Duke go to work.

Stout collected 17 points in the first half en route to a 23-point performance. But it was Duke, who scored 14 of Pampa's first 16 points in the second half, who kept the Harvesters in the ball game when Hereford mounted its biggest challenge in the third quarter.

The Herd outscored Pampa 16-10 in the third period, including 10 of the half's first 12 points. The Whitefaces drew as close as two points at 45-43 and 49-47, but Duke kept the Harvesters ahead with everything from long-range bombs to driving layups. In all, he scored eight of the team's 10 points in the period.

Duke kept up his scoring rampage in the final quarter by connecting for Pampa's first four baskets. The Harvesters opened up a 57-49 lead after Duke's bomb from 20 feet, but the Whitefaces refused to die and closed the gap to 61-55 with just over two minutes to play.

That's when reserve guard Steve Glover came up with a pair of steals to ice the win for Pampa. Glover's first theft resulted in his only field goal of the night, while the second ended with Duke getting a fast break layup on an assist from Glover.

Pampa's junior varsity had an easier time with the Herd as the Shockers took a 61-44 decision. Darrel Johnson had 13 points to lead Pampa, while Dwayne Avery and Arthur Williams had 10 each. Ernie Suarez had 11 for Hereford.

The Pampa sophomores dropped a 41-38 contest. Edward Guerra had seven points to lead Pampa, while three other soph had six points apiece.

A&M beats Horned Frogs, 15-7

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Defensive end Jacob Green threw Texas Christian quarterback Steve Bayuk for a 12-yard loss then blocked a punt out of the end zone for a game-breaking safety as Texas A&M defeated Texas Christian 15-7 Saturday.

Green, a 242-pound junior, had numerous other big defensive plays as A&M raised its season record to 7-3.

A&M already has accepted an invitation to play in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 20.

Texas Christian finished its season with a 2-9 record, including eight straight Southwest Conference losses.

A&M led 6-0 at halftime on 24 and 52-yard field goals by Tony Franklin who holds the NCAA record for most career field goals with 56.

Texas Christian grabbed Curtis Dickey's second fumble at the A&M 32 yardline, however, and Bayuk passed to Mark Renfro at the A&M 15. Renfro sprinted for a touchdown.

After Kevin Moody recovered A&M quarterback David Beal's deflected pitchout at the Texas Christian 13, Green broke through and threw Bayuk to the ground within the 1. Two plays later, Green raced through and

Construction to begin at A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Construction will begin Monday to enlarge Texas A&M's football stadium from a seating capacity of approximately 54,000 to 71,600.

The expansion of Kyle Field will make it the third largest football stadium in Texas. Memorial Stadium, where the Texas Longhorns play in Austin, is the largest and the Cotton Bowl at Dallas is second.

Kyle Field will be enlarged by adding a third deck to each side of the field.

Because of the construction, A&M's home opener Sept. 8 against Brigham Young will be played at Rice Stadium at Houston.

A&M plans to play the first game in the enlarged stadium Oct. 13 against Houston.

blocked Cameron Young's punt out of the end zone for an 8-7 A&M lead.

The safety forced Texas Christian to kick from its 20. On third down, Dickey shook off two tackles and raced 55 yards to a clinching touchdown.

Texas Christian's drive in the final minute was halted when Llandrew Brown of A&M intercepted freshman quarterback Steve Stamp's pass at the A&M 1.

Dickey, a 205-pound junior who had started since he was a freshman, became the third A&M player to gain over 1,000 yards in a season as he ran for 230 yards on 34 carries for a season total of 1,135 yards.

It was Dickey's best game as a running back. His old mark was 175 yards against Texas Christian last year. He ranked 15th in the nation in total rushing.

Franklin's 52-yard field goal was the longest this season in the SWC. Encouraged by a screaming crowd, Coach Tom Wilson let Franklin try a 66-yarder, but it was 8 to 10 yards short.

The attempt — one yard short of the NCAA record — came with 3:28 left in the second quarter.

Green threw Stamp for a 15-yard loss late in the third quarter and had at least three outstanding defensive plays in the first half. He pressured Bayuk into a 7-yard loss and forced a punt in one series.

After Texas Christian had made its deepest first-half penetration to the A&M 24, Green grabbed Bayuk's fumble in the air at the A&M 32. Later, with a screen pass set up for Texas Christian, Green tipped the ball incomplete.

Dickey's offensive performance was marred by three fumbles. The final one came at the A&M 49 midway through the fourth quarter, but Texas Christian could not take advantage of the bobble.

Grambling defeats Southern University

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Mike Williams passed for three touchdowns to lead Grambling to a 28-15 victory Saturday over Southern University in the annual showdown before 75,000 fans at the Superdome.

The victory over its cross-state rival gave Grambling a 9-0-1 record and the Southwestern Athletic Conference championship. Southern finished the year with a 4-6 mark.

Williams, whose brother Doug was All-America last year at Grambling and now starts at quarterback for Tampa Bay of the National Football League, hit on 13 of 26 passes for 142 yards.

Winter boating requires caution

By J.D. Peer
Texas Parks and Wildlife
LUBBOCK — Acute hypothermia, usually associated with immersion in cold water, kills 40 to 50 Texans each year and waterfowl hunters, fishermen and other sportsmen should be aware of this element of danger this fall and winter.

Although Texas does not suffer as harsh winters as some of the other parts of the nation, the weather gets cold enough in northwest Texas to shorten survival time in case of a fall through the ice or overboard.

The shock of suddenly entering cold water can induce uncontrolled rapid breathing, cause intense physical pain, confusion and dizziness and may stop the heart.

Wearing a PFD (personal flotation device) is the only known protection against this type of accident.

The key to survival in cold water is the conservation of body heat or body energy. Anyone not wearing a PFD must expend some energy to stay afloat, which increases heat loss. Since the head is a high heat loss area, it is important to keep the head out of the water.

In 55-degree water, you can expect to survive for about 1 1/2 hours if you are swimming. Floating still in a PFD, you may survive for 3 1/2 hours or longer, depending upon body weight and clothing.

Wearing many layers of clothing helps reduce heat loss in much the same way as a diver's wet suit. Wool and cotton help hold heat better than synthetics. However, the wearing of hip or chest waders can be dangerous if you are attempting to get out of the water or swim to shore.

The best method of eliminating hypothermia is not to get wet or fall overboard. Care should be taken not to overload boats with passengers or equipment on any trip.

While boating, be sure there is a Coast Guard-approved PFD for each person on board. It is recommended that the passengers wear the PFD while on the water.

Avoid standing or balancing in the boat while trying to start a motor, put out decoys, pick up downed birds or net fish.

Most large lakes have updated weather reports and signals indicating the wind velocity. Listen to the local weather reports prior to boating and do not attempt to take a small boat on large open water lakes.

Safe boating, like all outdoor activities, is a matter of common sense and compliance with the Texas water safety regulations.

GUNSAFETY
LUBBOCK — Although you might be the safest hunter in Texas, there is always the other guy who forgets the three primary rules of gun safety.

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded weapon.
2. Always point the muzzle in a safe direction.
3. Be sure of your target and beyond before you fire.

Gun safety starts at home prior to the hunt as you load your ammunition, clean the firearm, pick the correct gauge or caliber for the hunt and sight-in the rifle at the range or bust a few clay birds at the skeet or trap range.

Many shooters are injured as they travel to and from hunting areas. Always unload and case all firearms and store them in the trunk or box while traveling.

Bobcats clip Lynx

The Childress Bobcats, held to a 7-7 stalemate at halftime, roared back in the second half and clawed their way to a 21-14 Class AA bi-district win over an inspired Spearman team at Harvester Field Friday night.

It was the fourth straight time the Bobcats have defeated the Lynx in the first round of the state playoffs, but it was anything but easy for Childress, which must face Muleshoe in next week's regional game.

one, scored on Ricky Anderson's plunge midway through the second period.

The second half saw Childress shake off its doldrums and begin to move the ball against a Spearman team that refused to give up. Wingback David West put the Bobcats ahead for keeps with a 32-yard dash following a Spearman fumble in the third quarter, and Childress scored on its next possession to take a 21-7 margin.

The Bobcats took 10 plays to travel 63 yards as Anderson slipped through the Lynx defense for the final 14 yards.

Spearman came back to score on a 14-yard pass from Newton to Scot Martin, but it came with just 2:56 left in the contest. Childress maintained possession for the next 2:30 to ice the game. Spearman finished its season at 7-3-1, including a sixth straight unbeaten season in District 1-AA play.

Houston ready for Cincinnati

By MICHAEL LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, coming off a big Monday night performance for the second time this season, host Cincinnati in the Astro-dome Sunday, and this time around the Bengals will have the Oilers' undivided attention.

The Oilers, campaigning for their first playoff berth since 1969, upset Pittsburgh 24-17 Oct.

23 on Monday night, but were caught napping six days later when Cincinnati beat them 28-13 for its first victory of the season.

The rematch is scheduled for a 3 p.m. kickoff in the Astro-dome, and Oiler wide receiver Ken Burrough says there will be no sneak attack this time by the Bengals.

"We're on a winning streak now and that's just what it's going to take to get into the playoffs," Burrough said. "We remember what Cincinnati did to us, and I promise it won't happen again. The Oilers aren't going to lose in the Astro-dome."

That's strong talk, but the Oilers had plenty of strong play Monday night when they came from behind in the final 12:20 of the game to defeat the Miami Dolphins 35-30.

"It's unusual to be playing the same team that we played after our last Monday night game," Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said. "But I think we'll be ready to play them. This might sound silly, but I think we were ready the last time."

Houston goes into the game with an 8-4 record and a good chance at a wild-card playoff spot in the American Football Conference's central division. The Bengals, at 1-11, can only play a spoiler's role.

The Oilers have three of their remaining four games, including the rematch with Pittsburgh, in the Astro-dome, and Phillips said the local fans play a big part in Houston's chances.

"It's encouraging to see 35- and 36-year-old guys coming off the field all fired up because of the crowd," Phillips said. "There's no way we could have lost that game (Miami). And we couldn't have won it in Miami."

Wheeler romps past Valley 43-6

MEMPHIS — Playing like it was just another regular-season rout, the Wheeler Mustangs smashed a good Valley team 43-6 here Friday night in opening-round action of the state Class B football playoffs.

Led by Marvin Grimes' 120 yards on 16 carries, the Mustangs piled up 347 yards rushing while holding the potent Valley offense to 124 yards and nine first downs on the night. In fact, Wheeler was ahead 43-0 before Kenneth Helms scored Valley's only touchdown of the night in the fourth quarter.

The Mustangs built a 28-0 halftime edge en route to winning their 29th straight game, the longest victory streak in Texas.

Wheeler scored its first TD on a four-yard dash by Myron Jolly with 1:45 left in the opening period. That climaxed an eight-play, 50-yard drive, but it only signaled the beginning of an offensive explosion for the Mustangs in what was supposed to be an evenly matched game.

Wheeler got three more TDs in the second quarter, while the rugged Mustang defense held Valley in its own half of the field until the Patriots' scoring drive in the final period.

The Mustangs, after holding Valley on downs at the Patriot 37, used just six plays to score their next touchdown. Willie Valencia scored from 10 yards out to up the Wheeler margin to 14-0, and Kent Vise and Benny Baker added long runs to give the Mustangs their four-touchdown margin at the intermission.

Vise raced 36 yards to score with 5:36 left in the half, while sophomore fullback Baker hurdled his way to a 32-yard scoring run with just over a minute to play.

The Mustangs rolled on in the second half as Vise scored from three yards away early in the third quarter and Grimes plunged over from the Valley one with 5:39 to go.

Valley came into the game with two 1,000-yard rushers in tailback Darrell Dowd and flanker James McNary, but neither could break loose against the rock-hard Wheeler defense. In fact, neither was around at the end of the game.

Dowd got only 12 yards on eight carries before spraining an ankle in the first quarter, while McNary was carried from the field in the third quarter with a shoulder injury.

Valley finished the year with a 9-1-1 record after capturing the District 2-B title with a victory over Amherst last week. Now 10-0, Wheeler will face Jayton, a 14-7 winner over Sanderson Friday night, in next week's round of playoffs.

Sunday's game will be a return to Houston for Bengal Coach Homer Rice, who resigned as head football coach and athletic director at Rice University early this year to become quarterback coach at Cincinnati. He replaced Bill Johnson midway through the season.

The Oilers will be fueled by rookie Earl Campbell, who rushed 199 yards on 28 carries and scored four touchdowns last week against the Dolphins.

Two-point conversion nets Tech victory

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Fullback James Hadnot snared a 2-point conversion pass late in the fourth quarter after his pass set up the touchdown Saturday, and the Texas Tech Raiders shocked the fifth-ranked Houston Cougars 22-21 in a frantic Southwest Conference game.

The 10-point underdog Red Raiders, wearing black jerseys for the first time since the early 1940s as a psychological ploy, kept the Cougars from clinching the SWC title and the guest role in the Cotton Bowl with last minute theatrics by freshman quarterback Ron Reeves and Hadnot.

Hadnot still clinch the SWC title and the Cotton Bowl with a victory next week over Rice.

The Red Raiders overcame a 21-14 deficit on an 87-yard drive late in the fourth quarter after Mike Patterson had intercepted a Danny Davis pass deep in Red Raider territory.

Reeves threw a 48-yard pass to Brian Nelson to the Cougar 22. On the next play, Hadnot flipped a 21-yard pass to walk-on wide receiver Michael Morris, who doesn't even have a scholarship. Reeves sneaked across from a yard away for the touchdown and new Tech Coach Rex Dockery decided to go for two points.

Reeves flipped a short pass to Hadnot who ran over a Cougar tackler on the Tech two and charged into the end zone.

Houston dropped to an 8-2 record overall and is now 6-1 in SWC play. Tech is 7-3 and 5-2 with an outside chance to share in the SWC title and even go to the Cotton Bowl if Rice defeats

Houston and Tech beats Arkansas next week.

Houston jumped ahead 7-0 when Eric Herring returned a punt 72 yards.

But Tech charged back on an 11-yard touchdown run by freshman Mark Olbert and a 1-yard scoring run by Hadnot.

Houston tagged the score 14-11 just before halftime on a 4-yard pass from Davis to tight end Garrett Jurgatis.

After Tech went ahead, Willie Stephens intercepted yet another wayward Davis aerial to quell any Cougar hopes of a comeback bid.

Texas Tech was all but dead after Phil Weatherall fumbled into the Cougar end zone and Theodis Williams recovered early in the fourth quarter.

But Tech stayed in the game long enough for Patterson's big defensive play to turn the momentum against the Cougars who had trouble handling the ball all day.

Houston lost the ball on five straight possessions after Herring's punt return to allow Tech to run up a 14-7 lead.

The Red Raiders carried their black shirt psychology to the extreme of even warming up before the game in their regular red jerseys.

Hadnot, the sixth-leading rusher in the nation who was a tight end until Dockery decided to switch him to the backfield in August, shredded the Cougar defense with 111 yards on 27 carries.

Love rushed 19 times for 126 yards, but the Cougars could not overcome seven costly turnovers.

The game was a penalty marred affair with both Willis Adams of Houston and Alan Swann of Tech ejected for throwing punches.

Reeves, the confident freshman from Lubbock Monterey, connected on 11 of 21 passes for 150 yards.

However, it was Hadnot's first completion of his college career that stunned the Cougars.

Leach leads Wolverines to win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Michigan's senior quarterback Rick Leach, gave Art Schlichter — his freshman Ohio State counterpart — a playing lesson Saturday, leading the Wolverines to a 14-3 college football victory and a third straight trip to the Rose Bowl.

Sixth-ranked Michigan earned at least a share of the Big Ten Conference championship and will carry a 10-1-0 record against Southern California in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day at Pasadena, Calif.

Leach, who has led Michigan to 38 regular-season victories in his career, shredded the Ohio State defense for two touchdowns, more than enough to halt the Buckeyes' record of six straight league titles or co-titles.

Michigan now has not permitted the Buckeyes a touchdown for 12 consecutive quarters. Leach, a left-hander, passed 30 yards to wide receiver Rodney Feaster to wipe out a short-lived 3-0 Buckeyes' lead in the opening quarter. Ohio State had gone ahead on Bob Atha's 29-yard field goal.

The Michigan quarterback, who has accounted for a collegiate record of 81 career touchdowns, rifled an 11-yard scoring pass to tailback Roosevelt Smith in the third quarter, wrapping up Michigan's third straight victory over its most bitter rival.

The largest crowd in Ohio Stadium history, 88,358, and millions more on national television, watched Leach roll up a total-yard advantage of 189-76 over Schlichter during the time they matched wits.

Woody Hayes of Ohio State saw his former assistant, Bo Scheembecher of Michigan, take a 5-4-1 lead in their head-to-head coaching duels. Hayes finally turned to Rod Gerald to quarterback the Buckeyes in the fourth quarter, but he had no more success than Schlichter. Gerald's deft running had led Ohio State to Big Ten title shares with Michigan the past two seasons.

Schlichter returned to throw an interception in the final moments.

Ohio State will take a 7-3-1 record to the Gator Bowl against Clemson at Jacksonville, Fla. Dec. 29.

Trojans spoil Notre Dame comeback bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Jordan kicked a pressure-packed 37-yard field goal with two seconds remaining Saturday to give third-ranked Southern California a 27-25 victory over eighth-rated Notre Dame which spoiled an Irish comeback in the fourth quarter.

Notre Dame scored three touchdowns in the final period, the last coming with 46 seconds to play which gave the Irish a 25-24 lead.

The Trojans' final march began on their own 30-yard line.

The key play was a 35-yard pass from quarterback Paul McDonald to wide receiver Calvin Sweeney.

On the next play, tailback Charles White ran for four yards, then Jordan, who had missed an extra point and a short field goal attempt earlier in the contest, made the deciding kick.

Trailing 24-6 entering the final period, Notre Dame scored three touchdowns, two on passes by quarterback Joe Montana.

Montana hit Pete Holohan with a 2-yard scoring throw with 46 seconds left to apparently climax a furious comeback by the Irish, but the Trojans roared back following the ensuing kickoff.

McDonald hit 17 of 29 passes for 281 yards and two touchdowns and White rushed for 205 yards and a score on 37 carries.

McDonald threw a 30-yard scoring pass to Kevin Williams late in the first quarter, hit Dan Garcia on a 35-yard touchdown strike in the second period and Jordan kicked a 39-yard field goal as Southern Cal built a 17-3 halftime lead.

A 1-yard dive by White in the third quarter was the Trojans' only second-half score until Jordan's dramatic field goal.

Montana completed 20 of his 41 passes for 358 yards, including 17 of 26 for 286 yards in the second half. He fired a 57-yard touchdown bomb to Kris Haines early in the fourth quarter to begin Notre Dame's comeback and marched his team 98 yards to set up a 1-yard scoring run by Pete Buchanan with 3:01 left to get the Irish within five points.

Notre Dame got the ball back on its 43-yard line after a Southern Cal punt, then Montana marched the Irish to the Southern Cal 2-yard line where he hit Holohan to put his team ahead for the first time.

The Rose Bowl-bound Trojans raised their record to 10-1 while the Irish, who will play in the Cotton Bowl, are 8-3.

Baylor shocks Longhorns by 38-14 count

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Baylor Bears, struggling through one of their most miserable seasons, rallied behind new quarterback Mickey Elam for a stunning 38-14 Southwest Conference upset Saturday of the ninth-ranked and Sun Bowl-bound Texas Longhorns.

The 5-foot-8, 175-pound Elam, who originally signed with Texas Tech, came in for Greg Wood late in the first quarter and sparked the lethargic Bears into life.

He scored on a two-yard run and passed three yards to split end Mike Fisher to give Baylor a 14-0 lead. From there, the aroused Bears demolished Texas, both offensively and defensively.

The victory raised Baylor's record to 3-8 for the season and 3-5 in SWC play. Texas fell to 7-3 overall and 5-2 in SWC.

Wood, who returned to the game, later ran one yard and passed six yards to Raymond Cockrell for two Baylor touchdowns and freshman running back Walter Abercrombie went 36 yards on a Statue-of-Liberty play for another TD.

Baylor turned two Texas fumbles and an interception into touchdowns en route to a 28-0 halftime lead. Texas scored twice in the third period on Randy McEachern's 27-yard pass to Les Koenning and Rick Churchman's 52-yard interception return.

Robert Bledsoe kicked all five conversions and tacked on a 37-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for Baylor.

Elam, recruited as a defensive back by Texas Tech, was red-shirted his freshman season and saw only spot duty the next year before transferring to Baylor. After sitting out a year to establish eligibility, he had gained just 60 yards in 20 carries this season as a running back. But by halftime Saturday, he had 51 yards on the ground and was three-for-three on the only collegiate passes of his career.

Baylor had lost 26 turnovers in its last four games, but performed almost flawlessly Saturday with just two turnovers on a fumble and Churchman's interception, both in the third quarter.

Texas has not won at Baylor since 1972.

Baylor intercepted Texas six times Saturday with cornerback Kirk Collins picking off two of McEachern's passes in the third quarter. Defensive end Andrew Melontree sacked Texas quarterbacks twice for 19 yards in losses to lead a swarming Baylor defense.

Elam took Baylor 62 yards in 13 plays for its first touchdown, but Texas mistakes figured in the next three Bear scores.

Elam's TD pass to Fisher came nine plays after cornerback Steve Brothers hit Texas' Johnnie Johnson on a punt, forcing a fumble that Steve Howe recovered on the Longhorn 29.

Razorbacks rally to overtake SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas quarterback Ron Calcagni scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday as the 12th-ranked Razorbacks overcame a miserable first quarter to capture a 27-14 Southwest Conference football victory over Southern Methodist.

The lethargic Razorbacks, who are headed to the Fiesta Bowl, could manage only 16 yards and no first downs in the first period as Mike Ford guided the Mustangs to a 14-0 lead.

But Arkansas roared back to score on five of next six possessions in the final three periods. Reserve quarterback Kevin Scanlon, sent in to spell Calcagni at the beginning of the second period, ignited the Hogs on their first touchdown march.

When Scanlon left with an injury, Calcagni returned to cap the 71-yard, 14-play march with a one-yard drive and trim SMU's lead to 14-7.

The Hogs added an Ish Ordonez field goal just before the half on their next possession.

Calcagni then whipped the Razorbacks, now 8-2 for the season and 5-2 in the SWC, on two crucial touchdown drives in the third quarter. Roland Sales climaxed a 71-yard, 12-play march early in the period with a 17-yard touchdown jaunt and Calcagni connected with Robert Farrell on a 22-yard scoring pass to cap a 63-yard drive and put Arkansas ahead 24-14.

The next Arkansas thrust was blunted when Calcagni fumbled into the SMU end zone and the ball was recovered by the Mustangs' Putt Choate. Ordonez added the 19-field goal early in the final period after Arkansas recovered an SMU fumble at the SMU 32-yard-line.

The Mustangs, who finished their season at 4-6-1 and 3-5 in the SWC, built their 14-0 lead after Ford guided them on two time-consuming scoring marches. Tim Johnson scored the first touchdown on a 12-yard gallop and Derrek Shelton went up the middle for 11 yards to notch the other.

Ford, the nation's second-leading collegiate passer, rattled the Razorbacks with short passes as the upset-minded Ponies dominated the first period. He completed six of nine passes for 69 yards on the two scoring marches of 82 and 58 yards.

Ford finished the game with 19 completions on 28 attempts for 190 yards, but was intercepted twice.

The first of those interceptions came with Arkansas leading 17-14 late in the third period after SMU had driven inside the Arkansas 45. On a third down and 1 play, Ford rolled out and appeared to have a first down, but chose to throw the ball, which was intercepted by Larry Jackson.

Calcagni, who finished with 86 yards rushing on 19 carries, then reeled off a 21-yard run before tossing the TD pass to Farrell in the corner of the end zone.

Calcagni, who is completing 59 percent of his passes this season, completed eight of 12 passes for 99 yards and a touchdown.

Thanksgiving / Christmas Parade '78

"I love a parade..."

So do Pampans, as demonstrated by the large turnout Tuesday in spite of uncooperative weather. If crowd size is any indication, the hour-long parade was a success. (Clockwise) Gymnastics of Pampa won first place in the Commercial Division of the float contest. Some junior gymnasts performed on a mobile trampoline, while others did somersaults on the streets. A couple of nativity floats entered the parade -- this one was decorated with live sheep. Justin Taylor rode on a car hood to first place in the Individual and Family Division. Puffy the Police Department Bear threw bubble gum to receptive youngsters on Cuyler St. Three children watching the parade at Ward St. showed their delight in the proceedings, and the Pride of Pampa played on.

Pampa Post Script

Mrs. Richard Earl Hayes

Price-Hayes vows

Laurie Gene Price of Lubbock became the bride of Richard Earl Hayes of Lubbock at 7 p.m., Nov. 25, in the First United Methodist Church in Lubbock with Dr. Sam Nader officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Price of Houston and the groom is the son of Mrs. Arville Hayes and the late Arville Hayes of Pampa.

The music during the ceremony was "Wedding Song" played on the guitar by the bride's brother-in-law, Dale Stephenson of Houston.

The bride's dress was an ivory colored Bianchi.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Dale Stephenson as matron of honor, Miss Pam Price as maid of honor, Miss Sheila Brown and Miss Teresa Bennett as attendants.

The groom's attendants were Ronald Hayes as best man and Michael Hayes, Lon Hudons and Bary Sims.

The reception followed the ceremony at the First Methodist Church parlor with Julie McPhaul, Carolyn Gilbert, Kathy Cox, Donna Milner, Betsy Barnett and Linda McAbee assisting.

The couple travelled to Dallas for a honeymoon and will make their future home in Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate of Amarillo High and attends Texas Tech. She is employed at Stationers Distributing Company.

The groom graduated from Pampa High School and is employed by Johnson Manufacturing in Lubbock. He also attended T.S.T.I. in Amarillo.

Gobble - gobble - yum - yum - boo - hoo the turkey and Thanksgiving are all gone ... if Pampa is true to form the Christmas party circuit will begin soon ... Georgia and Doug Coon along with Marilyn and Jack Imel are planning a bash says the grapevine ... sounds like it will be fun.

For Thanksgiving, Shirley Kucifer and Lieutenants David Craddock of the Salvation Army (his wife carries the same title) helped pick up recipients of Meals on Wheels and take them to Leisure Lodge for Thanksgiving ... the Meals on Wheels program still needs volunteers to deliver lunches ... it only takes between 45 and 60 minutes.

A couple of weeks ago I wrote about Irene Wischer's pink and white oil field accessories (rigs, trucks, etc.) ... they really are pink, like - bubble gum pink ... the engine is pink, the body is mostly pink, even the inside of the wheels are white trimmed with pink.

A week ago Pampa High School crazy days ... one of the days was devoted to dressing up in a costume that represented your desired vocation in life ... Ramona Hite dressed up as a housewife complete with rollers in her hair. Mary Ann Woosley wore a wedding dress with a sign on the back that said ... it pays to advertise.

Carla Baranaukas, the New's County reporter who moved to Texarkana, wrote back that she likes her new job. She covered a recognition ceremony at the local pet cemetery, and her comments, "not exactly big stuff, but I guess I have to start somewhere ... say hello to everyone for me." So "hi guys" from Carla.

The News received a letter addressed to "Santa's Headquarters ... Pampa, Texas" inside it read "I Love Santa Claus ... Signed? (I couldn't decipher it.)"

Happy 25th Anniversary to Mary Helen and Will Ellis ... we will miss you.

Celane is transferring husband, Phillip, and the rest of us in the family to Dallas. So this will be the last - ps - it has been fun most of the time. We have met some special people in Pampa and even more after going to work at the News - we will miss those people ... but after moving as many times as we have it is easier to say goodbye and leave it that way. It is almost impossible to keep up with correspondence and soon you no longer have as much in common. (It seems very similar to a death.) It is difficult to keep up the relationships. Bye.

When driving, keep your head and torso upright, and don't bend in the direction in which you're turning. Only then can you be in the right balance to make sensitive driving judgments.

Jay's raven follows him

By GERALD S. GOLDSTEIN
Providence Bulletin

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (AP) — Quoth the raven of Edgar Allen Poe: "Nevermore." Quoth the crow of Jay Knowles: "Wow!"

Jay, 9, is a soft-spoken fourth-grader who does very little quothing. He doesn't have to because he's got a mouth-piece — a crafty, jet-black crow named Petey who follows him around town and has been known to ask his friends, "Where's Jay?"

Quoth Jay's mother, Arlene: "He (Petey) can drive you crazy — he rattles and rambles all day."

Despite that, there isn't a member of the Knowles family who hasn't grown fond of the bird since Jay's father, Gerald, plucked him from a nest 18 months ago and brought him home as a pet for his son.

After 18 months with the family, Petey not only blurs out phrases like "Let me in" and "See ya," but also crows like a rooster, baas like a sheep, whistles and laughs.

Mrs. Knowles recalls that one morning Petey landed on the roof of a neighbor's house and set up such an animated conversation that she thought a gang of children was playing in the yard.

Petey spends his days outside — he waits for the school bus each afternoon atop a 40-foot tree near the house — and comes indoors to a cage each night.

Petey also follows Jay everywhere, often hitching a ride on the handlebars of his bicycle. Recently, he fluttered over the soccer game where Jay was playing until he had some close encounters with the ball and had to be taken home.

The crow's diet consists mostly of fish and table scraps.

but hamburger and scallops are his favorites. He has also been known to raid the chicken house for eggs.

Cow Belles celebrate farm-city week

The subject of agricultural economics needs much more understanding on the part of the American public. That's why the Top O' Texas Cow Belles are participating in Farm - City Week, Nov. 17-23.

According to Joyzelle McIntire, Farm - City Week Chairman, the Top O' Texas Cow Belles will join in the national event with women of the American National Cow Belles, the women's auxiliary of the National Cattlemen's Association. Coordinating organization for the annual observance, which began twenty - three years ago, is Kiwanis International.

"This year's theme for Farm-City Week is 'Partners in Economic progress'" Mrs. McIntire said.

According to Mrs. McIntire, one of the economic concepts most misunderstood about the agricultural sector of our economy is that farming and ranching is not a margin-added business where margins are added to costs of materials, like conventional manufacturing and merchandising businesses. "The prices we receive for our cattle," said Mrs. McIntire "are determined strictly by supply and demand at the time of sale. That's why live cattle prices have fluctuated so much over the past few years. We are currently nearing the end of a cyclical over - supply situation in which the numbers of basic producing cows have been too large for demand to hold prices at profitable levels.

"It is our hope," said Mrs. McIntire, "that Farm - City Week will help develop a basic understanding among all people of the roles of land, labor and capital in the scheme of things. We need each other. We clothe and feed each other."

The Top O' Texas Cow Belles donate beef as needed to Genesis Houses and Girls Town.

APPLE PORK pie is a holiday treat to add to recipe collection.

Pork pie from Canada

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Holiday dishes often become part of the regular family menu after passing the tough taste tests of guests. One such favorite is the pork pie that is a holiday treat in French Canadian homes.

Like many traditional dishes, the tourtiere has many variations. Some cooks add vegetables, such as celery or carrots. Others make it spicier with robust herbs. Still others use tart apples, onion and sage, as in this special recipe.

The secret is a fine pastry that browns readily. This pie is topped with a cream cheese pie crust.

You can eat tourtiere cold or hot. It makes good party fare since you can prepare it ahead of time and freeze. The pie will keep up to two months in the freezer when properly wrapped.

APPLE-PORK FILLING
3 1/2 pounds lean ground pork
4 tart apples, peeled, cored and thinly sliced
2 medium onions, finely chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
2 teaspoons dried sage leaves or 1 teaspoon ground sage
1/4 cup apple cider concentrate
1 egg

CREAM CHEESE PIE CRUST
2 cups flour
1/2 pound cream cheese, or 1 (8 ounce package)
1/2 pound (2 sticks) butter
Work all ingredients together in a mixing bowl, preferably with a pastry blender. Form into a ball. Wrap in plastic wrap and chill several hours or overnight.

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl or mix on a large bread board until apples and onions are well distributed throughout the meat. Spread the mixture evenly in a deep baking dish or a 3-quart casserole.

Roll out the pastry 1 1/2 inches larger than the dish. Fold pastry in half, then in quarters. Pick up and place over one corner of the dish. Unfold pastry and flute the edge between thumb and forefinger to form a rim.

Cut 3 holes, 1/2 inch in diameter, in the center of the pie. Make small cones of aluminum foil and place them in the holes to control the juices. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours. If pastry browns too rapidly, it may be necessary to cover the edges with foil.

Make small leaves from leftover scraps of dough and bake separately until brown. To garnish dish before serving, arrange 2 or 3 leaves around each hole and fill the hole with a tiny sprig of parsley. Serve hot. May also be sliced and served cold.

Wrap in plastic wrap and chill several hours or overnight.

Ring in '79 with elegant chicken

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Heralding the New Year means different things to different people. More and more couples prefer to share an intimate dinner alone or with one other couple before joining friends and relatives for the holiday hoopla.

New Year's Eve dinner can be elegant but inexpensive. For example, serve chicken breasts cooked in wine with mushrooms or baked with pineapple and sesame seeds. With the addition of rice, a green salad and your favorite pastry for dessert, you will have prepared an impressive meal for those waiting to welcome 1979.

And select your favorite champagne, such as a Great Western or Korbel, to toast the occasion.

CHICKEN BREASTS WITH WINE

- 1 whole broiler-fryer chicken breast, halved
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup dry white wine or apple juice
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1 can (2 ounces) whole button mushrooms, drained
- 1/2 cup half-and-half
- 2 tablespoons flour

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Heat butter or margarine in frypan. Add chicken and brown on both sides. Add wine and bouillon cube. Mash bouillon cube to dissolve. Simmer uncovered for 30 minutes or until tender.

Remove chicken breasts from pan. Skim excess fat from pan juices. Add mushrooms to frypan. Mix flour with half-and-half. Stir into pan juices. Heat over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Spoon sauce over chicken breasts. Makes 2 servings.

Turn chicken. Spread with remaining sauce. Return to oven. Bake 30 minutes more or until chicken is tender. Makes 4 servings. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

GOLDEN BAKED CHICKEN

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
- 1 can (8 1/2 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
- 3 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1 teaspoon salt

Place chicken skin side down in a foil-lined baking pan. Mix together remaining ingredients. Spread half of mixture over chicken. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Mrs. Carl Thomas

Peele-Thomas vows

Ann Peele became the bride of Carl Thomas at 11 a.m. Nov. 25, at the First United Methodist Church in Pampa.

The organist was Jerry Whitten. "The Gift of Love" was sung by the youth choir and the sanctuary choir sang "If Ye Love Me."

The bride's matron of honor was Mrs. Kay Harvey. Mrs. Linda Peele, sister-in-law of the bride from Newport News, Va. and Miss Patricia Thomas, sister of the groom from Seminole, were bridesmaids.

The groom's attendants were: Dan Swigost, best man and Bob Thomas of Amarillo and Ellwood Peele, Jr. of Newport News, groomsmen. Ushers Steve Thomas of Canyon and Jim Klutho of Pampa seated guests.

Mrs. Lynn Ralph Feinauer

Gillis-Feinauer vows

Patricia Ann Gillis, daughter of B.J. Gillis of 2237 N. Sumner and the late Jean Gillis, became the bride of Lynn Ralph Feinauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Feinauer of Idaho Falls, Idaho on Nov. 3. Elder Calvin McOmber presided over the ceremony in Idaho Falls Mormon Temple.

The bride's attendants were: Nancy Bennett, Glenda Sue Gillis, Linda Feinauer, Helen Feinauer and Sandra McArthur.

Attending the groom were: Bill Thompson, Michael Feinauer, and Dalton McArthur.

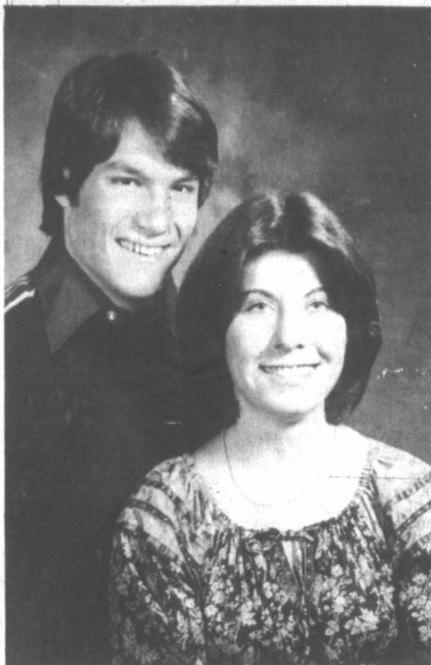

The bride's gown was white floor length with a floor length veil. The gown was trimmed with delicate white flowers and lace with pearl buttons.

The reception was at the Idaho Falls 17th Ward Mormon Church.

The couple travelled to Salt Lake City, Utah for their honeymoon and will make their new home at 225 Poplar Street, Idaho Falls.

The bride attended Ricks College in Rexburg, Idaho.

The groom graduated from Brigham Young University and is employed by Intermountain Technology.

Strahan-McDonald engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Michael of Miami are announcing the engagement of their grand daughter, Sheila Gwen Strahan of Pasadena, Texas, to Michael Byron McDonald of Lovington, N.M. The wedding will be Dec. 30, in the First Baptist Church in Miami. The bride-elect is pledging Delta Zeta sorority and is currently enrolled at West Texas State University. The future bridegroom is a graduate of West Texas State University, a member of Alpha Chi honor society and is employed by Diamond Shamrock as a computer programmer in Pasadena, Texas.

Grant given to predict ice age

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A $56,500 grant has been awarded to two University of South Carolina biologists seeking to predict when the next Ice Age will occur. The grant was given by the National Science Foundation.

Drs. Douglas Williams and Michael Kahn will study the oxygen and carbon isotope levels in the shells of living and fossilized oceanic organisms from the Foraminifera and Pteropoda plankton group, microscopic shelled animals.

"These isotopes can be used to show the temperature of the water when the shell was formed," Williams said. "By establishing the temperature of the ocean, we can establish the temperature of the land masses at the time."

"We know the earth has been warm as it has been in our time for only 100,000 of the last million years. The remaining 900,000 years have been virtually Ice Ages."

"Through our research, we hope to predict when the next Ice Age will occur."

Some people believed that if mice made a nest of your shorn hair you would get a headache.

Texas teenagers are sexually active

The statistics tell a sad story about sex and Texas teenagers. About a third of teenage girls and more than half of teenage boys are sexually active. More than half of both sexually active groups do not use any type of birth control. With odds like that, it is easy to see why one of every nine teenage girls becomes pregnant, mostly unintentionally, and teenagers have 35 percent of the abortions in Texas.

If she does have the baby, both mother and child have greater chances of illness or death than other groups. Deborah McFarlane, an assistant professor at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, completes the grim picture by adding that teenage mothers also have high rates of suicide, divorce and dropping out of school.

Writing in the November issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal, McFarlane says more education about birth control methods and increased availability of family planning services would help remedy the teenage pregnancy problem. She says open family communication, private physicians and family planning clinics should be major sources of help for teenagers.

About 68,000 Texas women under age 20 received contraceptive services from family planning clinics in 1976 and about 63,000 were assisted by private doctors in 1977. But an estimated 145,000 sexually active teenage women had no counseling at all in 1977. These figures show that physicians and clinics are doing a lot but financial problems and lack of public knowledge slow progress.

Education for males and females about bodily processes, contraception and risks of pregnancy needs to increase and begin at earlier ages since the age of first intercourse is decreasing. McFarlane says one study shows about half of sexually experienced high school boys had intercourse before age 13.

Financial problems are trickier to solve because of governmental restrictions on funds to pay for services and the inability of many teens to pay full clinic fees. One of McFarlane's suggestions is for clinics to adjust fees for teenage users.

She says increased efforts to improve education and services are important from a financial as well as a health viewpoint. For instance, the annual cost for one fully subsidized family planning client is $70 but the Texas Department of Human Resources pays $85 for each birth to a welfare recipient, and that does not include dependent child support.

At Wit's End

I don't understand the anatomy of children's legs.

The same legs that will bend double and apparently have no bone when you put a boot on it, can, in the next minute, kick the back of a car seat with the force of a wrecking ball.

The same legs that turn to liquid after an hour of shopping and will no longer support their bodies' will, at bedtime, be capable of scaling walls and running a marathon.

I discovered this phenomenon with my first child. One day when she was about two, she simply collapsed on the floor and refused to stand. When I put her on my lap, she flexed her legs, her knees locked, and she pushed herself into a standing position right under my chin, nearly severing my tongue.

Every mother who has ever tried to thread the legs of a toddler into a grocery cart will know what I am talking about.

My children's first words were an entire declarative sentence. "Carry me!"

"I can't see the parade. Carry me!"

"I'm sleepy. Carry me!"

"The grass tickles my feet."

Carry me!

"I'm running away from home. Carry me!"

I lugged those kids around so much that by the time they were ready to enter school, I had a stomach like a snack tray. People at cocktail parties used to set glasses on it.

The legs continued to be a phenomenon. They weren't long enough to climb on a chair, get a drink of water or scale a toilet seat. On the other hand, they could leap over playpens higher than the child's head, get cookies on the top shelf or throw the cat in the dryer and turn the dial to DAMP DRY.

Even today, the legs of children confuse me. I've seen virgin feet of children that never touch the floor. They are either dangling from car seats, strollers or hips. Yet the moment they touch the floor there is 30 pounds of mud on them.

They can run a mile in less than four minutes, yet it'll take them three days to get the garbage from the sink to the can outside.

Their only mobility is riding around in a car... yet they run through 30 pairs of shoes a year.

WATER TOWER
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Restoration work is under way at a 123-year-old water tower here, financed by a combination of local and federal funds.

The structure, known as the White Water Tower, was built in 1855. Another tower called the Red Water Tower, standing in the same neighborhood, was constructed in 1879. Both are listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

When it was built, the 154-foot tower was considered the largest, perfect Corinthian column in the world, city officials said.

GAS INDEPENDENTS
NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline stations operated by independents are on the increase nationwide, according to National Petroleum News.

Independents are companies whose names and signs are unfamiliar to many motorists, and they generally charge less for their gasoline.

The industry publication said independents today sold 40-50 percent of the gasoline in the United States, about double of 10 or 15 years ago.

TIPS FOR WOOD FLOOR CARE

Wood floors need special care to retain their natural beauty. For patches of dirt that cannot be removed by dry mopping or rubber burns from friction between rubber footwear and the floor, rub the spot lightly with fine steel wool moistened with turpentine or paint thinner. Always work in the same direction as the wood grain when using steel wool.

For stained or very dirty wood floors, apply a heavy layer of liquid, solvent-based wax to a small area. Allow it to soak for five minutes, then rub thoroughly with No. 00 steel wool. Then, wipe dry to remove all dirt. Repeat this process if necessary.

THANKSGIVING LEFTOVERS
Any type of cooked poultry can be frozen with good results. Cooked poultry and broth should be frozen as quickly as possible after cooking. Poultry takes up less freezer space if the bones are removed. It keeps best if it is removed from the bones and packed solidly to eliminate as much air as possible. When freezing leftover stuffed poultry, remove the stuffing. Package in freezer containers, seal, label and freeze immediately.

Storage of cooked poultry varies according to how it is packaged. Slices or pieces, covered with broth or gravy will keep up to 6 months. Slices or pieces, not covered with broth or gravy will keep 1 month. Cooked poultry dishes will keep up to 2-6 months.

Package some of that leftover turkey for a month or try some of these recipes -

Easy Divan
6 slices cooked chicken or turkey
1 pound hot cooked broccoli

1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 can cream of chicken soup, undiluted

1/2 cup grated processed American Cheddar Cheese
Place meat in 12 x 8 x 2 inch baking dish; top with broccoli and butter or margarine. Combine soup with cheese; pour over broccoli. Brown lightly under broiler. Serves 4.

Salad with Almonds
2 cups cooked chicken or turkey, well chilled
2 tablespoons chopped green olives

3/4 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup toasted almonds, sliced

2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons chopped mixed pickle

2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
3/4 cup mayonnaise
Combine ingredients; toss lightly. Serve on lettuce. Serves 6.

JIM DAVIS' most recent piece of furniture is this desk in the office of Mark Buzzard.

JIM DAVIS- CUSTOM DESIGNER

It was a typically windy Panhandle afternoon - the sky had turned blue grey and the temperature had dropped to a shivery degree. But there was a warm welcome at the end of the sandy ranch road.

Shawn, an Irish Setter belonging to Jim Davis, woofed hello and waited for a pat on the head after the car door was opened.

Davis' small warm home was worth the trip to the ranch outside Lefors. A Ben Franklin stove was giving off warmth. (Occasionally Davis even uses scraps from his furniture building in the stove.) There were two bookshelves full of books about furniture.

Shawn was a bit disgruntled at someone's taking his place on the couch but good naturely gave in to sleeping with his head on the visitor's feet. The visitor did not mind.

Davis began "tinkering around" with building furniture when he was living in his grandmother's home in Pampa. He had no furniture and decided the cheapest way to get some would be to build it.

So the would be vet who changed his mind, enrolled in a night class at Caprock High School.

After that Davis moved his workshop from his basement in town to the barn out on the Davis Ranch. He spent time last year in Europe for "fun and work". He took pictures and drew sketches of different furniture styles while in Europe. The craftsman also spent time in museums on the east coast. "I am far more impressed with early American than European styles," he said.

A picture of Davis and some of his furniture was in the September issue of Texas Monthly. He has received many inquiries since the magazine came out but is a little leary. "I'm trying to avoid the commercial catch. Then it turns from fun to work."

Davis feels if he hired co-workers to help him he would not be able to put his artisanship into each piece of furniture. "I want my style to be put into it... I'm a custom design furniture maker. Everything I do is brand new, there are no two pieces alike."

Davis special orders most of his wood cut. His favorite is walnut, but he works in other kinds.

With the addition of a new and heavier saw "I have complete control." He can cut down a tree in a customer's back yard, let it age (sometimes it takes three or four years) and turn it into a beautiful piece of furniture.

The young artisan works with his customers. He will refuse some designs.

Davis works up a scale drawing, transfers it to an actual sized manilla pattern and then he makes a permanent plywood pattern. The pattern is transferred to the final piece of wood.

At the end of this process is: a completed piece of furniture, a happy customer, and a proud Jim Davis.

JIM DAVIS at work in his shop at the ranch. Rest assured his dog, Shawn, is not far behind. Shawn even helps look for pieces of wood.

DECORATING TRENDS... by Charlie's

HOLIDAY ENTERTAINING can be a special challenge in the small apartment or home, unless the owners have given thought to their active social life in planning their decorative scheme.

Actually, even a small living room or apartment can comfortably accommodate a party group when there is enough seating...and some boldly effective way to accomplish this, for those who entertain a lot, is literally to fill the room with seating.

Intimate and functional effects can be achieved with pairs of large sofas grouped around a corner...perhaps with another chair or ottoman or seating unit to complete a U-shaped or square conversational arrangement. Complement these large seating areas with equally massive tables to give plenty of surface area for ashtrays, lighting, drinks, decorative objects, flowers and personal touches.

The point to remember is that such a small living area can be as elegant as you want... and as comfortable as an apres-ski cabin, with furniture designed to bring people together.

Whatever your decorating problem, large or small, you'll find that we can give you knowledgeable help... and show you a wide variety of solutions in fine furnishings from our large showroom displays. Come in!

Cruising the gumshoes crop

By Dan Andriacco

Hercule Poirot is dead. Inspector Maigret has retired.

Ellery Queen, Nero Wolfe and Perry Mason haven't been heard from in years.

Those beloved Great Detectives sleuth no more. Their creators died or retired in the 1970s. But detective fiction still flourishes, producing new writers and new sleuths with a vitality belying its 137 years.

One-fourth of all books sold in this country each year are mysteries. They are read everywhere—even in the classroom. Hundreds of the nation's colleges and universities offer courses in the genre.

Students read detective fiction as literature. Millions of others go to it for escape. The genre today is broad enough to provide both—and more.

The classic puzzler offers the intellectual challenge of matching wits with the detective. The hard-boiled story features action and crisp prose. The police procedural has the impact of authentic crime-solving routine.

Though different, all these forms of the detective story thrive today.

The basic trappings of the classic form were laid down by the father of the detective story, Edgar Allan Poe. Poe not only invented the genre, he also established some 40 of its major conventions in the four pioneering stories he wrote between 1841 and 1844.

The cornerstone of these was the figure of the Great Detective, a morally and intellectually superior agent of justice. Poe's sleuth was an eccentric amateur, C. Auguste Dupin. He starred in the world's first detective story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," and two others.

From then to now detective fiction has abounded with amateurs, though not always eccentrics.

Two of the most popular amateurs still deducing are Harry Kermel's Rabbi David Small and Emma Lathen's John Putnam Thatcher. Rabbi Small squabbles with his congregation and uses Talmudic logic to solve murders. Thatcher, a banker, gets deeply involved with a different industry in each book.

Mystery veteran Hugh Pentecost keeps four amateurs in action: Pierre Chambrun, hotel manager; John Jericho, artist; Peter Styles, magazine writer; and Julian Quist, public relations consultant.

Other active amateurs are Edmund Crispin's Gervase Fen, Oxford don; Leonard Holton's Father Bredder, Catholic priest; Simon Brett's Charles Paris, actor; and Jane Langton's Homer Kelly, college professor.

But not all stories in the classic mold have amateur sleuths. Some of the most popular feature policemen. Police detectives include Ruth Rendell's Inspector Wexford, P.D. James' Commander Dalgliesh, Patricia Moyes' Superintendent Tibbett, Peter Lovesey's Sergeant Cribb, H.R.F. Keating's Inspector Ghote, Robert L. Fish's Captain Jose de Silva, Bartholomew Gill's Chief Inspector McGarr, Pauline Glen Winslow's Chief Inspector Capricorn and Joyce Porter's Inspector Dover.

They all made their debuts in the '60s and '70s. Beloved survivors from the '30s include Ngaio Marsh's Superintendent Roderick Alleyn, Michael Innes' Sir John Appleby and George Bagby's Inspector Schmidt.

Hard-boiled heroes are fewer in number, but highly regarded.

The hard-boiled school emerged from the pages of "Black Mask" magazine in the '20s as a reaction against the garden party murders of the classic form. It generated stories about tough, cynical private eyes who moved among hoods and hookers as well as wealthy clients. They were sometimes no more honest than they had to be, but each had his own code of honor.

Tough guy writers through the years have included such superstars of mystery fiction as Dashiell Hammett, Raymond Chandler, Mickey Spillane, Ross Macdonald and John D. MacDonald.

Ross Macdonald, creator of private eye Lew Archer, and John D. MacDonald, creator of "salvage expert" Travis McGee, are still writing. They are considered two of the best in the business.

Hard-boiled newcomers of nearly equal talent are Michael Z. Lewin, creator of Al Sarason, and Robert Parker, author of the Spenser series. Both write with humor and unpretentious style. Parker is savagely witty, like the late Rex Stout. Lewin is more tender and his financially unsuccessful Samson more sympathetic.

Joe Gores has produced fiction's first private eye team in his series about Daniel Kearny Associates. With its emphasis on teamwork and routine the series is a hybrid between the hard-boiled story and the police procedural.

Procedurals evolved in the early '50s as another attempt to bring a strong dose of reality to the detective story. They took their heroes from the crime solvers of real life—the police. Routine, not deduction, was the method of detection.

The most famous police procedural series is Ed McBain's about the 87th Precinct. McBain's intention was to make the entire squad the hero, but his fans prefer one detective, Steve Carella.

Other procedurals focus on one sleuth, often the member of a minority group. John Ball's Virgil Tibbs is black; Rex Burns' Gabriel Wager and Dell Shannon's Luis Mendoza are Chicanos; Michael Gilbert's Patrick Petrella is a Spaniard operating in nationality-conscious Britain.

Today's detective fiction is popular and producing new sleuths aplenty. But where is it going?

No one knows, except that it is not going out of style. Predictions to the contrary are as premature as was the first death knell for the genre, which sounded in the 19th century.

Won't detective story writers exhaust all the ideas someday? Never.

Snakes provide test of faith

Billions of bacteria may be formed from a single parent in 24 hours.

By Garret Mathews

JOLO, W.Va. (NEA) - Cindy Church has been attending Jolo's Church in the Lord Jesus for six months now, but she has yet to take part fully in its services.

While the 16-year-old feels right at home responding to the infectious gospel rhythms pounded out by electric guitars, she has held back on the ultimate participation.

That is the handling of the rattlesnakes that church elders draw from metal boxes placed on the rostrum inside the church, located in the Mountain State's chief coal-producing county.

Cindy says she is waiting for the spirit of the Lord to give her the complete faith to accept a twitching snake from one of the veteran handlers, some of whom have been bitten more than 70 times. "I'll know when it is the right time," she says.

Church members give special significance to a verse in the 16th chapter of Mark that refers to the taking up of serpents. At almost every service - meetings are held on weekend nights with a special daytime service once a month - worshippers handle snakes and drink from a Mason jar filled with strychnine poison.

"A lot of folks read Mark 16 and kinda skip over the serpent part," says Rev. Bob Elkins. "Well, we don't believe a Bible reader should skip over any portion of the good book."

Even though she stops short of handling snakes, Cindy's faith is strong. She says she is the only student at her high school who belongs to a snake-handling church, admitting that some classmates have made fun of her religious preferences.

"I've been rebuked by a few kids but that has made me a stronger person," she says. "Most of my classmates know how much my faith means to me and more and more I think they understand."

Cindy remembers attending services at the church as a child with her parents and grandparents. Then came her family's move to Ohio, where snake handling is illegal. They stayed there a few years, but moved back to West Virginia, primarily for the freedom to express their religious convictions.

Cindy says her religious feelings have intensified to the point that she knows she will eventually handle snakes whether it is legal or not.

Prior to the handling of snakes and the drinking of the strychnine comes a solid 30 minutes of dancing and singing. On one recent night, Cindy was among the more active cloggers to songs like "You Gotta Move" and "We're Going to Have Ourselves a Time."

Several times she and the others stumbled around the stage while holding their hands up to their ears. "I was listening to the spirit of the Lord," she explained afterward. "The Lord was talking to me pretty strong tonight."

But not strong enough for her to accept a snake from one of the elders.

Cindy is not sure exactly how she will feel when she first touches a rattlesnake: "The power will be all over me but I know I'll be in control of my actions. I know I'll feel the snake on my skin. When that happens, I'll have enough faith to handle anything that may happen. If I had picked a snake up tonight when I wasn't ready, then I would have been bitten for sure."

Like the other worshippers, Cindy says she will not seek medical attention if she is bitten.

"You never know what those bites will do to you," says Tim McCoy, a regular handler. "The serpent that bit me three years ago came from a traveling snake show. It was the worst pain I've ever experienced."

Members took McCoy to the house of Dewey Chafin, a "saint" of the church. McCoy stayed there for three days, his arm swelling to four or five times its regular size. He missed a month of work at a nearby supermarket.

"Too many people put work ahead of the Lord," McCoy says. "When I was bit, I missed a lot of work but I didn't care. It only taught me that the Lord comes first."

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks I'm jealous, and I think I have a right to be. Here's the situation: Ralph is 58 and works for a large company. There is a woman in his department he keeps talking about. She's 50, married, vulgar and loud-mouthed. Ralph tells me she has a crush on him but he claims he treats her like she's one of the guys. They talk about sex, how many times a week, and a lot of other garbage.

When Ralph was home sick for a week, this hussy phoned him every day to see how he was. He laughed and hung on the phone like a teenager while she told him the latest dirty jokes that were going around the office. It was disgusting!

She nicknamed him "Mr. Wonderful," and now he has such a swelled head he's unbearable.

I have high blood pressure and she isn't helping it any. What should I do, if anything?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Tell Ralph that you aren't interested in listening to all that garbage, and if he insists on telling you anyway, walk away and let him talk to himself. You may raise his blood pressure a few points, but at least you'll keep yours down.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question which I am sure has bothered many men in my stage of life.

I am 70, healthy, and still sexually virile. Having been married to the same woman for 36 years, sex has become somewhat of a humdrum affair. Yes, I know what the sex manuals say: "Bring variety into your sex life—try different positions, localities, etc. . . .", but the fact remains, the best aphrodisiac is (and I hate to admit it)—a new woman, willing and eager.

From time to time, such a woman enters my life, and even though I know I am being unfaithful and have some mild pangs of conscience, I find it difficult to resist an occasional extra-marital affair.

To be perfectly candid, if my wife had an outside romance occasionally, as long as the man was discreet and clean and, of course, if I knew nothing about it—as I'm sure my wife knows nothing about my occasional flings—it wouldn't bother me too much.

What do you think, Abby?

VIRILE AT 70

DEAR VIRILE: I think you have very neatly rationalized your occasional infidelity, and you're looking to me for a nod of approval. But the best I can do is "understand." Everyone is accountable to his own conscience.

DEAR ABBY: Just read the letter from the motel worker complaining about people who strip the rooms of sheets, pillowcases, etc. My mom has always maintained that it's okay to take the small things provided by restaurants and motels if the name of the establishment is on it. She says, "It's good advertising."

Is this accepted? It seems to make sense. But it also seems like stealing. What do you say, Abby?

PALM SPRINGS

DEAR PALM: I say that taking anything without first asking the owner is stealing. If you want an ashtray—or anything else—ask to BUY it.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — If a woman is taking hormones either before having a hysterectomy or after, is there still a certain amount of menopause symptoms she will have to go through? In other words, will the hormones shorten the length of time one will have hot flashes and other symptoms?

What causes these hot flashes that we have to endure? Sometimes it is almost unbearable. Doctors just prescribe medication without explaining these questions. Is Bellergal-S good for hot flashes and is it habit forming?

DEAR READER — As long as a woman has sufficient estrogen in the body, she will not have hot flashes. Some women, when they go through the menopause, actually have enough estrogen production from other sources to minimize the symptoms that other women experience. We do know that the one symptom of the menopause that hormones can relieve is hot flashes.

If a woman were taking female hormones before a hysterectomy it would imply that the doctor thought she was deficient in hormones and needed them. In other words, they would have been used for hormone replacement. If the hysterectomy was then done and the woman continued on the replacement therapy she probably wouldn't experience the real symptoms of menopause, specifically hot flashes.

I'm not real sure that you're getting any female hormones. That could explain why you are having hot flashes. There may be very valid medical reasons why your doctor doesn't want to give you any hormones, if indeed he is not.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Ruth the easy way I clean burned-on food from pans. Just spray the pan with oven cleaner and let it stand for a few hours. This cleans it like magic. — EVELYN

DEAR POLLY — A dirty cast iron skillet can be cleaned by turning it upside down on the middle rack of the oven before setting the oven to self clean. It must be the type of oven that cleans with high heat. The skillet will come out beautifully clean but will have to be re-seasoned.

I save the tops from cotton crew socks when the feet are worn out and use them as wrist bands to wear while washing walls and windows. They keep the water from running down my arms when I reach up over my head. Sock tops with some elastic in them work best. — JOAN R.

Designer teams with blouse company

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Oscar de la Renta Collectibles for — Ship 'N Shore?

No offense, but what's a zippy designer like him doing with a cut 'em down the middle blouse company reported to be the largest main floor resource in the country, if not the world?

"We felt there was a world of opportunity with the designer label," says Nancy Stone, Ship 'N Shore fashion director. "And we wanted to capture that better blouse market area."

Ship 'N Shore vanquished the main floor in years past for several very good reasons:

One, the line sells for a top of $25.

Two, the blouses are cut rather fully — "The real woman is not the skinny woman," Ms. Stone says — and they're conceived with just enough flair and variety to please the eye from Concord to San Jose.

"When I go around the country, I have to take three separate 'shows' of merchandise because there's regionalization in buying.

"New England might love our ruffles and plaids, but in the Southwest they want the soft, bright tees, and the West Coast looks for unusual styling and detailing compared to the Midwest which is more traditional."

But with Oscar de la Renta Collectibles, comprised of blouses plus a skirt and pant or two, the woman in all those areas who wants the designer's taste, touch and fit can get them in sizes 6-16.

And his holiday gettogether, Qiana and palace crepe tops with their ruffles, tucks, double stitching, scallops, embroidery cost but $25 (for a classic Qiana shirt with Oscar's very own "O" on the cuff) to $50 (for some ruffles and gilded embroidery.)

So that's what Oscar de la Renta is doing with Ship 'N Shore who looked to him instead of some others because, Ms. Stone says, "He's a well known name and a fine designer who literally does design the line for us."

Then, too, he's helping them pad the kitty. It seems that $63 million a year, which the company reportedly made in '76, isn't enough for them.

You just can't please some people.

NUTRITION LABELING

What You Need To Know

If you have difficulty understanding nutrition labeling, you're not alone. A recent Food and Drug Administration (FDA) survey found that fewer than a third of the country's food shoppers actually know how to read labels and use the information they find there.

What nutrition information should you expect to find on a label? Well, nutrition labeling should contain the amounts of calories, protein, carbohydrate, fat, vitamins and minerals per serving.

Most people seem to understand the listing of carbohydrate, fat, and calories. However, a source of confusion appears to be the section containing the percent of United States Recommended Dietary Allowance (U.S. RDA) for vitamins, minerals, and protein. To help you understand the U.S. RDA, here are a few facts you should know:

- The U.S. RDA is defined as the daily amount of vitamins, minerals, and protein established by the FDA as essential for maintaining good nutrition.

- There are U.S. RDA's for four categories of people: adults and children 4 or more years of age, infants, children under 4, and pregnant and lactating women.

- The U.S. RDA's stated on a particular package depend upon which of the above population groups the food is intended for.

Because of consumer confusion, the FDA is planning to review the contents of nutrition labels. The most controversial aspect will be whether to include more information—or less. Some consumer advocates feel nutrition labels should list only calories, fat, and cholesterol. Others insist that these labels should be lengthened to include all factors contributing to good nutrition.

Food manufacturers will request and utilize consumer ideas for nutrition labeling.

Fashion and beauty tips

Velour allure

You can still wear that velour top from last year. Update it with a few rhinestone beads here and there.

Luggage lift

For $1.50, you can buy a luggage strap and find yourself with a double wrap belt.

Losing look

Make sure bobby pins securing rolled hair looks are as invisible as possible so you don't ruin the look.

First come ...

Looking for a protein conditioner? Check the label. Ingredients are listed by their percentage in the product: The greatest is listed at the top, less and less the farther down the line.

One at a time

Never test more than one fragrance at a time. One on each wrist will cancel each other out.

'Hall of Fame' airs Thursday

MARY MARTIN snuggles up to her happy host on a recently taped edition of PBS's "The Dick Cavett Show."

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Gil Cates recalls going to the networks with a movie project that would star two of the most distinguished performers in the world.

"You know what this 26-year-old kid tells me," Cates asks.

"He says you need to jack it up a little. How does he want to do it. Dump the world-famous actress and put in some girl who's just hit it big in her first TV series."

That's often the way they think at the networks, and that's why Cates likes the "Hallmark Hall of Fame."

"I work with them because I get attracted to material I couldn't otherwise get on television," says Cates, who has also produced and directed films and Broadway plays. "They're interested in quality material. They're moved by good actors and good stories."

Cates is in partnership with his brother, Joseph, and their second "Hall of Fame" production, "Fame," airs on NBC this Thursday. Their third, "Stubby Pringle's Christmas," airs a month later.

This is the 28th consecutive year for the "Hall of Fame," which opened the season earlier this month with an original production, "Return Engagement." It starred Elizabeth Taylor and Joseph Bottoms.

"Hallmark is like an old British manager," says Cates. "You can talk to them seriously about Julie Harris or Raf Vallone, one of Europe's most illustrious actors, and they will listen. In fact, they will be enthusiastic."

Since 1950 the "Hall of Fame" has presented major stars - as well as young hopefuls who have since become famous - in the classics, contemporary stage plays, musicals and original dramas. It now airs five times a year, timed for the holidays.

Unlike most television drama series, "Hall of Fame" looks for stories with roots in the theater rather than film. Ron Hobin, the executive producer, has said, "Character comes first and scenery is not a primary concern. We don't mean to be elitist. We are always aware of the television audience. But we don't have to worry about the ratings, although we want people to watch."

"Fame," the first thing playwright Arthur Miller has ever written directly for television, is a character study adapted by Miller from two of his short stories. It's a funny and observant essay on the rewards and punishments of fame and how it can make people paranoid.

Richard Benjamin plays playwright Meyer Shine, a man unable to cope with fame and $24,000 a week royalties from three hit plays. It also stars Jose Ferrer, Raf Vallone, and Robert Alda. Even the smallest roles are meticulously cast by director Marc Daniels.

"Richard Libertini is on only three minutes, but he makes it yeasty," says Cates. "Raf Vallone brings great authority to his little role. It's like the violin maker who said you could learn 99 percent of violinmaking in a year - but the other one per cent takes a lifetime. It takes a lifetime to take command of a role like that."

"I can identify with Meyer," says Benjamin. "There are so many permutations. Not that I'm famous, but some people recognize me. Some places you go the maitre d' knows you."

"You keep getting set up and knocked down. You don't want to get involved, but you do get involved in ridiculous ways. People think they went to school with you. If you try to be helpful you get drawn in. You mention a picture you were in, but they didn't see it. You end up going through all your credits hoping they will get the connection."

There's a scene where Shine meets the Italian movie director who has just bought screen rights to his play. The director, played by Ferrer, informs the crestfallen Shine that it will be only an "interpretation." It would spoil the fun to reveal the interpretation, but it is bizarre.

In a minor way Cates presents his own interpretation of Miller.

What Miller had in mind, Cates says, was a realistic movie filmed on real streets and in real places.

"If you do it realistically it's 'Naked City,'" says Cates, who directed Miller's play about his marriage to Marilyn Monroe.

"After the Fall," for television and "The Price" on the stage. "Miller writes for the word. When the woman says, 'Is that my brassiere?' you don't want the words lost in taxi fumes. It's fantasy story telling."

Cates gives it a stylized, theatrical look. It was taped completely in a studio at NBC.

He consulted with Miller before making the change. He says, "But why kid around. Miller writes for the spoken word and if you give his words a proper platform you have a shot at making it work. If you make it too real you kill the fantasy."

Benjamin says, "When's the last time a major playwright has written for television and didn't treat it like a second-class medium? It's not 'Death of a Salesman' or 'All My Sons,' which were written for the stage first."

"You've got this whole argument of television vs. film, but it has nothing to do with the material."

Benjamin, whose second series, "Quark," died quickly, says, "The trouble with series is that they start at the wrong end. They say, 'Maybe they should be cops.' Wait a minute! It starts with the words. Television is a mixture of theater and films. One of the things you want to do in acting is to reach the largest audience, and television gives you that."

Most of Benjamin's work has been in movies. This is his first television venture outside his two series, the first of which was "He and She" with his wife, the actress Paula Prentiss.

"Gil Cates told me he thought I was just now coming into my proper age for character leads," Benjamin says. "I'm losing my boyishness. It's hard playing people younger than you."

Fewer commercials in prime time

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Why are there so many commercials after 11 p.m.? Why can't the F.C.C. enforce the same rules and regulations that apply during the rest of the day? Showing four or five commercials every 10 minutes is ridiculous. ROBERT SCHUSTER, Constantine, Mich.

Well, in the first place, no matter what people think, the F.C.C. has nothing to do with the number of commercials. Maybe they should have, but they don't. The radio and TV industry polices itself and sets its own regulations for the amount of commercials it allows. The agency that does that is the National Association of Broadcasters, through its commercial code.

The N.A.B. code permits a certain number of commercials during the day, but requires that there be fewer commercials in prime time. So it's not a question of more after 11 p.m., but rather less before 11 p.m. The rules: 16 minutes per 60 minutes in non-prime time and 9 1/2 minutes per 60 minutes during prime time. And each station can establish its own prime time hours, providing that they do not exceed more than three hours between 6 p.m. and midnight.

DEAR DICK: I am wondering if Red Skelton has finally recuperated from his esophagus operation. I had the same kind of operation at the same time he did, and I had a rough year behind me. I realize I'll always have some trouble, but I'm much improved, thanks to dedicated doctors. MARGARET MOFFITT, R.N., Hallandale, Fla.

Skelton's associates tell me that, like you, he has improved pretty well. But it was rough, too. And one thing has changed in Red's performances now; he no longer does the pratfalls he used to do. Nowadays, he does his act standing up.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. Who portrayed the villainous Captain Muncie in the 1947 film, "Brute Force," with Burt Lancaster? Also, was this the same actor who starred as Mr. Kimble in the TV series, "Green Acres"? I say no. Who's right? THOMPSON, Stockton, Calif.

You are, Hume Cronyn was Muncie in "Brute Force," while Alvy Moore was on "Green Acres."

DEAR DICK: We are regular viewers of Lawrence Welk's show. Whatever happened to his Italian daughter-in-law? ELEANOR VAN SKIVER, Tucson, Ariz.

But you're not regular readers of this column, because I've answered that question at least twice before. She left the show to go on her own, and is currently putting her act together.

DEAR DICK: I went to high school with Brenda Benet, who was just beginning an acting career when she married Bill Bixby. What is she doing now? Are they still married? Does she plan to resume her career ever? She was so talented. SALLY BYRD, Mountain Ranch, Calif.

So talented - and so gorgeous. Brenda was (is) one of the loveliest ladies around. She is also very happy now as Mrs. Bixby, and busily raising a 4-year-old son. Maybe, someday, she will think about resuming her career, but currently she is content just doing what she's doing.

Age doesn't matter to this combination

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "This may be the first time in Hollywood history," says Leonard Stern, "that a director doesn't have to worry about his leading man and leading lady falling in love."

The reason is that Stern's leading man in "Just You and Me, Kid," is George Burns and his leading lady is Brooke Shields. Burns is 82 — "I will be 83 in January" — and Brooke Shields is still only 13.

It shapes up as a stroke of casting genius, teaming up the old comedy master with the child who may someday be the most beautiful woman in the world. The film is a story of a veteran vaudevillian who helps out a runaway with problems.

"When I met her," Burns says, "I told her that when she was born, I had already been in show business for 62 years. I started when I was seven, you know."

They were shooting a scene in a section of Los Angeles' suburbs called Toluca Lake, in a house directly across the street from a golf club. Burns was hiding Brooke in the house, and he was leading his angry daughter (Lorraine Gary) away by pretending to be jogging.

He wore a red T-shirt that said "The One and Only Bill Grant" on the front and "Appearing Twice Nightly" on the back. Between takes, Leonard Stern made sure that somebody came along with a chair, so he could sit down. Burns sat, but he laughed about that later.

"They're very nice to me," he said. "Between scenes, they always have a chair for me to sit down. They want to make sure I get to finish the picture."

Everybody loves George Burns. Lorraine Gary, the blonde who starred in the two "Jaws" films and plays his daughter, admits she is crazy about him. "If there's some way of adopting him," she said, "or having him adopt me, I'll do it."

This is the first feature that Stern has directed. He is better known as a TV writer and producer. As a writer, he goes all the way back to "The Honeymooners" and Phil Silvers' "Sgt. Bilko" series. He produced "Get Smart" and he created "McMillan and Wife." He says he directed all the pilots of the TV shows he did, so he has done some directing, but never a movie.

And his greenness shows. For one thing, he always says "Action" differently. Seasoned directors all develop their own style of delivering that word — "EK-shun!" or "Aaaaak-tion!" or "Ak-SHUUUU!" — but he has a different way of saying it each time.

For another thing, he wanted everybody to stand in back of a certain chair, so they wouldn't be in the shot. Then he accidentally wandered into the shot, ruining one take. He laughed along with everybody else.

He says he got involved with this project when it was called "One Night Stand" and was a drama.

He read the script and thought it would play better as a comedy. So he had it rewritten. Now here it is.

"George and Brooke are great together," Stern says. "And for once I don't have to worry about my stars falling in love — all I have to worry about is making sure that she gets to school on time."

Burns had the entire company laughing on the first day of production. He came in carrying the script and wearing a worried look on his face. He called the producers, Irving Fein and Jerome Zeitman, and Stern together.

"Fellows," he said, "I'm a little concerned. This business of me and a 13-year-old girl. Nobody will believe that. Better make her 14."

Burns says that he thinks acting is easy, compared to performing as a comedian. "A comedian has to stand up for an hour and a half," he says, "and have that much material memorized. An actor learns a few lines, says them, and then sits down. This is much easier."

He says that he got into acting late in life because he learned to do it late in life. "I was nothing until I met Gracie," he says, referring to his late wife and partner, Gracie Allen.

"Until I met her, I used to do everything, but none of it very well. And when I was with her I didn't have to do much except say, 'Tell me about your uncle, Gracie,' and she would talk for 38 years."

"It was only after she retired that I had to learn how to be a comedian, and after that I learned how to be an actor."

He says this picture is harder than his big hit of last year, "Oh, God." In this one, he's in almost every scene. He says that he thought at first there was too much dialogue for him, that he would never be able to learn it all.

"But I learned it," he says, proudly.

NEW RELEASES

MAGIC (R) — Anthony Hopkins, Ann-Margret, Burgess Meredith. Thriller. The odds about the ventriloquist who's being taken over by his dummy, with a couple of diabolical twists that make it seem very new, and very, very scary. Beautifully directed and acted, but — Caution: The language is rough and there is some nudity. GRADE: B

PARADISE ALLEY (PG) — Sylvester Stallone. Drama. Stallone, who wrote, directed and starred in this, tries to do for wrestling what "Rocky" did for boxing. It's a crude and sappy look at a crude and sappy world, with a few flashes of humor and tenderness seeming awkward and out of place. GRADE: C

Sponsorship changes

The Licensed Vocational Nursing Program at the Shamrock General Hospital will soon have a change in college sponsorship.

Frank Phillips College has been in charge of the administration and supervision of the school in recent years. However, due to other commitments the college has requested that Clarendon College sponsor the post-secondary institution.

The State Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners and the Texas Education Agency has been notified of the change of sponsorship which becomes effective Feb. 17, 1979. Mrs. Paula Parker, R.N. will continue as LVN instructor at Shamrock General Hospital.

Lead dangers cited

If a toddler lives in a pre-World War II home under disturbed family conditions and has a tendency to chew on inedible objects, the child may be a prime candidate for serious and permanent injury.

Lead poisoning, the cause of injury, ties all these facts together because each one increases the possibility of a child getting too much lead, according to R.A. Dillard, M.D., a pediatrician at The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. Dr. Dillard's findings appeared in the November issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal.

Pre-World War II homes often have a lot of paint, putty and plaster containing lead. These environmental factors are the major causes of lead poisoning in children. Other sources, which could increase chances of lead poisoning include old lead water pipes, paint chipped off pencils, some soil and dust, certain inks, air pollution near heavily traveled highways, solder in tin cans and ashes from old painted boards.

Testing all children in a family where there is suspected lead poisoning and removing the lead source from the child's environment is essential in many cases. The local health department or the Texas Department of Health in Austin can help locate the lead source.

Sometimes, lead poisoning produces symptoms similar to those found in other problems, Dr. Dillard said.
