Doughten quits as band director

By KATHY BURR
Pampa News Staff

Jeff Doughten, band director at Pampa High School, announced his resignation this morning.

Doughten, whose resignation becomes effective on Jan. 5, is moving to Plainview to take over a farming operation.

He has never lost a contest in the five and a half years he has spent here as director.

"You have to take care of yourself. We keep on winning, but sooner or later you are going to lose," Doughten said in the time he has been here, he has never lost a contest. The band has won five sweepstake awards in addition to playing in Corpus Christi, St. Louis, Atlanta and Ireland.

"We were named the outstanding band in Atlanta and Ireland, in addition to receiving the invitation to the Rose Parade."

"Winning has been fun," Doughten said. "This has been my favorite band and it's hard to leave."

"You have to see the handwriting on the wall. You don't realize that when you hit the peak of your career, there is only one way you can go."

Doughten has fond memories of the Pampa High School band. "There is not another band in the nation that travels like this one does." He was quick to add, "This is the best band in the state of Texas."

On Oct. 24, 1976 Doughten spoke to the News about his career. The following is an excerpt. "There are ups and downs, of course, but I can't think of anything I'd rather be doing at this stage of my life. It's a once in a lifetime opportunity to be able to play for a national speaker like Paul Harvey and later in the same year play for the Governor of Texas and a month later play for the President of the United States."

Doughten commented on his decision and said, "This is the hardest thing I've ever done." He plans on taking the band to the Rose Bowl parade and returning to Pampa on Jan. 3.

He is undecided as to whether he will direct a band again. "I'm not going to say, I'm not going to, but I won't be foolish enough to say I will. Directing will always be my first love."

"There comes a time when you have to make a decision."

Doughten did say that if he ever went back to directing, he wouldn't come back to Pampa. "It wouldn't be the same. I may try it at college level," Doughten said at one time he had been offered a job with a college but, "Pampa meant more to me than any college did."

"The Rose Parade will be a great way to go out."

He added, "It has been a very rewarding five and a half years."

effective on Jan. 5, following the trip to the Rose Parade.

Pampans appointed to board

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

The city commission today appointed three Pampa residents to the board of directors of the Panhandle Elderly Apartments Corp., a non-profit corporation set up by the city to finance the construction of a low-income elderly housing project in Pampa.

Milo Carlson will serve an initial one-year term on the board, and will also act as the city's registered agent. V.E.

Wilson was appointed to a two-year term, and Mrs. M.Q. (Mary) Wilson will serve a three-year term.

The non-profit corporation will issue tax-exempt bonds to finance the 96-unit complex, which will be developed and owned by Friedman and Associates of Houston. The project will be subsidized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The commission approved a request by Merrill Cable T.V., Inc., to sell Pampa Cable T.V.

and to change the language of the company's franchise agreement with the city.

The local operation is being purchased by Sammons Communications, Inc., a Dallas-based company with 30 cable operations in 23 states.

The commission was asked to modify Section 18 of the franchise, which states the city may purchase Pampa Cable T.V. at any time at a depreciable value. When modified, the agreement will state that the city can only purchase the company at a fair market price when the franchise agreement expires.

"The reason for the request is to give more stability and security to the owner and operator of the franchise," said City Manager Mack Wofford.

Bill Strange, vice president of Sammons Communications, told the commission his company doesn't plan any local personnel changes, and that Sammons will upgrade Pampa Cable T.V.'s technical quality and programming. Bruce Merrill, owner of Merrill Cable T.V., announced he was withdrawing Pampa Cable T.V.'s recent request for a rate increase.

The franchise change will require an ordinance and public hearings, said Mayor R.D. Wilkerson. He added that the approval process could be concluded by Jan. 23.

The commission awarded the purchase of two trucks for the City Utilities Department to Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet, which bid $4,712.58 for a half-ton pickup and $10,122.99 for a two-ton truck.

W.A. Morgan of the Pampa Environmental Beautification Committee appeared before the commission and suggested converting an old foundry site, located within the boundaries of Somerville, Russell, Thut and Ford Streets, into a city park.

Wilkerson called the suggestion a "good idea" and said "I believe with proper organization we can get this done."

Death of Borger man

Suspected murder remains mystery

The investigation continues into the suspected murder of a 26-year-old Borger man who was found shot to death in a ranch pasture 18 miles north of here.

Randy Elton Jenkins was found by an oil company workman about noon Sunday, lying near his pickup truck. He had been shot in the head and a rifle was found near the scene.

The case is being investigated by the Carson and Hutchinson County sheriffs' departments and by Texas Rangers, according to Carson County Sheriff Connie Reed. Jenkins' body was sent to Amarillo Sunday for autopsy, and Reed said he expected the results sometime today.

The death remains a mystery, Reed said, although officials believe it was a homicide.

"We've got some ideas, but that doesn't mean much," he said. "We don't know why he was killed or what he was doing on the ranch -- he didn't work there," Reed said. Jenkins had no known connection to Panhandle, he added.

Jenkins' wife and father, who live in Borger, have been contacted by the sheriff's department "but they haven't given us any satisfactory answers," Reed said.

"We're going to wait until after the funeral before we put too much pressure on the relatives."

Over 2,000 refugees coming to U.S.

By HARI MANIAM
Associated Press Writer

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Refugee officials say more than 2,000 Vietnamese refugees will be flown from Malaysia to the United States in the next two or three weeks, and the Carter administration is reported planning to seek congressional approval to admit some 20,000 others who have fled from Indochina.

Refugee officials say the 2,000 U.S.-bound refugees will be taken en from Malaysia's crowded transit camps, where 40,000 Vietnamese have found shelter, and from among the 2,500 refugees stranded aboard the freighter Hai Hong off the west coast of Malaysia.

Justice Department officials in Washington said Attorney General Griffin B. Bell will ask Congress to approve admission of 22,500 Indochinese refugees before next May 1. They would be in addition to the annual quota of 25,000, which is already exhausted, and would include the 2,500 Washington said it would take after the Hai Hong case hit the headlines.

A growing flood of refugees from Vietnam is riding all manner of old, leaky craft on the southerly currents of the South China Sea to Malaysia. Over the past two weeks, the rate of arrivals has reached 300 to 500 a day, taxing already crowded refugee camps and threatening the Malaysian government with a crisis.

Most of the refugees now are ethnic Chinese, a community never popular with the Vietnamese because they dominated commercial life in South Vietnam. Now they are fleeing because the Communist regime has ended their commercial activity, and the Communists are said to be glad to see them go but letting them out only for a price, reportedly as much as $2,500 each.

Malaysia, which has a potential Malay-Chinese problem of its own, has been turning away seaborne refugee boats but letting those in danger of sinking land at the island camps on its east coast.

Jail death still unsolved

Mystery still surrounds the death of a Perryton man who was found dead Friday in his Ochiltree County jail cell.

Authorities are waiting for autopsy results from Amarillo. They hope the test will reveal the cause for the death of Leonard Wayne Luckett.

Luckett, 43, was found Friday night by Sheriff's dispatcher Sam Hoffman lying on the floor of his cell.

The victim was first found by sheriff's deputies Friday morning where he had reportedly fell suffering a facial injury but refused medical treatment.

"We didn't think anything was wrong," jailer Claude Peach said. "When we fed him his evening meal he ate every bit of it."

Ochiltree County Sheriff Jimmie Rhoades said his department was mystified about the death.

"We just don't know what could have happened," Rhoades said. "He was fine 20 minutes before we found him in the cell dead. Authorities reportedly tried to revive Luckett but the victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Ochiltree General Hospital."

Luckett, who operated a welding service, was arrested by two city police officers Thursday night on charges of driving while intoxicated, driving with a suspended license and traffic violations. Bond was set for Luckett at $2,000 by Justice of the Peace Hardy Hulsey.

Authorities said that Luckett had not been in a disturbance with officers during his arrest or while incarcerated in the Ochiltree County jail.

Rhoades explained that a preliminary investigation into the death is currently underway. The victim's body was transported to Amarillo where the state medical examiners office is performing the autopsy.

DOCTORS, NURSES AND TECHNICIANS participated in a mock disaster drill held Monday night at Highland General Hospital. The drill was held to meet hospital requirements and to alert employees to better handle emergency situations, ac-ording to Archie Henager, safety director at the hospital. Henager said the emergency medical technicians were alerted around 5:30 and were at the hospital within 10 minutes.

Unwell welfare state

Critics of the welfare state have long predicted that its disincentives and burdens would destroy production, bringing about economic collapse and misery to its intended beneficiaries. The warnings went unheeded as long as there were at least as many thriving welfare states, such as Germany and Sweden, as there were troubled ones, such as England and Italy.

Now however, there are signs that even the welfare state's friends are beginning to worry. The Scandinavian nations are in serious difficulty, Sweden in particular. Germany's economic growth rate has slowed significantly. The productive machinery underpinning the most successful welfare states has begun to rattle and groan.

There also is groaning from the welfare state's natural constituencies. Social democratic parties in Europe are finding blue collar workers increasingly restive under the heavy burdens of taxes and inflation they carry to support such welfare state artifacts as national health insurance, child allowances, generous unemployment compensation and state-subsidized housing. There is a growing suspicion that the "public sector" has grown fat and parasitic. In the U.S., of course, such resentments have been translated into outright tax revolts.

While the public may be right in suspecting that the welfare state now is yielding its most significant benefits to the people who run it, the issue goes deeper. Welfare states may have serious problems of instability, just as the critics have always said.

Various elements of instability have been discussed on this page. Economist Arthur Laffer's "curve," popularized here, makes the simple, but widely overlooked, point that rising tax rates at some point yield a diminishing return, just as rising prices do. A corollary is the Laffer "wedge model," which holds that as the welfare state increasingly transfers income from workers to non-workers, it destroys the incentives of both. In short, it is possible to kill the productive goose by piling on more taxes and adding more welfare benefits.

A new study called "Welfare and Efficiency," just produced by the National Planning Association, tends to support the Lafferite fears that advanced welfarism becomes a drag on production. It then adds a further disturbing finding in the form of evidence that as welfare states lose productive efficiency they become more protective of domestic industry. The enormous postwar liberalization of trade, which has contributed so much to the industrial world's prosperity, is thus threatened by new barriers to imports and subsidies to exporters. The welfare states, in substance, are shielding their own high costs and efficiencies from competition from nations with lower welfare and tax burdens. The U.S., which recently has sought to prevent importation of cut-price steel with a "trigger price" mechanism, has not been entirely absent from these efforts.

The Tokyo round of trade negotiations seeks to halt or reverse that process. But it will be touch and go when the negotiators try to sell their complex arrangements to their respective governments and parliaments next year.

The fundamental political problem with the welfare state is that parliaments find it next to impossible to withdraw welfare benefits once they are installed. There remain two choices: to allow the benefits to erode through inflation and try to shift resources back to the private sector through tax cuts; or to simply try to contain the growth of benefits and to expand the economy rapidly enough to give workers a larger portion of take-home pay.

In the absence of either, the most advanced welfare states seem destined to be plagued with inflation, low productivity growth, low returns on investment and high labor costs. Or, in broad terms, they are doomed to low growth, or even declines, in economic efficiency. That can only mean one thing: No matter how generous the state wishes to be, living standards will rise slowly or decline.

If the NPA study is correct and competitive fears lead to further trade restraint, the decline in production and wealth generation could be accelerated. The friends of the welfare state have every reason to be worried. There is a rising awareness that they have created a threat to future economic well-being.

Foiling auto thieves

A FREE, PROFIT-MOTIVATED, competitive market responds to consumer demand.

This has been proven over and over again, with the result that until recently this country led all the world in inventions and market innovations. And that economic truth is in the process of being proven again in a field where government "problem-solvers" long ago threw up their hands in despair: auto theft.

So far, prevention has been slow in coming and not because the auto makers haven't tried. They have. Tricky ignition switches and better door and steering wheel locks have discouraged some car theft. But thus far professional car thieves, aided by the carelessness of owners, have had things largely their own way. Give one of them a few uninterrupted moments with your car, and both will be gone.

EASY PICKINGS FOR car thieves, however, could be coming to an end. At least, that's the claim of Keycon, a computerized security system developer and manufacturer, whose president, Donald D. Richardson, says it has perfected a system that makes all existing anti-theft devices for automobiles virtually obsolete.

Richardson admits his company's approach to the program is a little unorthodox. Improving on the adage that it takes a thief to catch one, Keycon reasoned that it might pay to use successful car thieves to foil other thieves. "One former thief whom we took on as a consultant contributed considerable input to the final design," Richardson said.

Briefly, Keycon's anti-theft device works like this:

When the driver removes the ignition key, leaves the car and closes the driver's door, the system automatically rolls up all windows, locks all doors, engages a second lock on both the hood and trunk, disables the engine and even closes the sun roof if the car has one.

Should the driver forget and close the car door with the key still in the ignition, the system takes over, activates the horn and prevents the door from locking.

Once stopped and under Keycon control, the protected car becomes mobile again only after the driver re-enters with the regular door key and inserts a one-of-a-kind especially coded sensitized card into the Keycon control unit through a small slot in the dashboard.

WHILE KEYCON MAY NOT be the perfect answer to the car theft problem—what the mind of one man can devise, the mind of another can fathom—its effectiveness in greatly reducing car theft can hardly be doubted. Former car thieves invited to test the system agree, said Richardson, that it would delay a thief so long he would undoubtedly find it more feasible to look for a car unprotected by Keycon.

Unfortunately, the system is presently being offered on the market at $359 per unit, making it expensive for most car owners. But as the protective device proves its worth and sales increase, making mass production possible, the price will come down.

By OSCAR COOLEY

That government in this country is increasingly encroaching on the freedom of the individual is no news. This encroachment has been going on for a half century. One wonders if it is to proceed until we become the United Socialist States.

The trend is not limited to our country. It is global. The entire world is in the grip of the socializing idea," says Clarence Carson in the Freeman. A professor of history and author of several books, Carson presents the many facets of this idea in a brilliant serial article which, one hopes, will be published later as a book.

The "idea," Carson says, is that man as an individual is not capable of managing his life in the modern world. It must be managed for him through political government.

This idea has the world in its grip. It has been put into practice in some countries by armed force, that is, through revolution. In many others, including the United States, it is being realized gradually, step by step.

This creeping socialism, as some have called it, is insidious. Many are not even aware of it. More are intent upon getting the government to help them feather their own nest. Either they are not conscious that this furthers the trend or they feel that a little bit of socialism on their own behalf won't do any harm.

This global ideological war, says Carson, is being spearheaded by the intellectuals, by professors, students, lawyers, authors, preachers, teachers, journalists. It was they who put Lenin into power in Russia.

Hitler in Germany (Carson traces these battles in detail). They have legislated Sweden into social democracy. They lead the British Labor party. They named Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal. Kennedy's New Frontier and Johnson's Great Society. They head the bureaucracy in Washington.

And they run the "media"—newspapers and magazines, book publishing, radio and television, schools and churches, entertainment industries. Here, says Carson, they wield enormous power because of the special protection afforded them by the First Amendment—freedom of speech, press and religion. They also wield power because of their ability to communicate and persuade.

They are anti-business. Read the books of John Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard economist, of Ralph Nader, the self-appointed protector of consumers.

How long since you have heard a professor speak up for the profit system under which America has become affluent and populous? More often these supposedly educated people equate private business with "monopoly," which everybody knows is bad. (Actually, the only true monopoly is the government, but you probably did not learn this in school.)

It is not that the media recommend socialism directly. Rather, they undermine individualism in a hundred ways. Scandals about businessmen are played up in the press, but little is said about the prodigious waste and fraud that takes place in government circles. Newspapers and news commentators give far more space and time to government and to politics than to what goes on in the economy.

In an especially challenging chapter, Carson brands the intellectuals for undermining the family. Laws have been enacted, agencies and institutions set up, which put government in the place of the family in training and caring for children, providing health services, building houses, aiding the poor, ministering to the old folks.

More than this, he sees the intellectual class as being responsible for the decay of morals, the widespread use of obscenity in the media, the sexual license which has all but mired decent America in recent years. This is done in the name of liberty. Everyone must be free, it seems, to decide for himself what is right, what wrong.

That is not liberty but license, says Carson. Those who do not distinguish between the two are hardly fit to play the role of intellectual.

The intellectuals, he says, want to break down the traditional morality and discipline passed down from parents to children. As it is scrapped, in its place they impose political discipline, passing laws and securing court decisions to cover every smallest act of the citizen.

Litigation is encouraged. Patients sue their doctors, wives sue husbands and vice versa, students sue teachers, blacks sue whites, employees sue employers. The rights of property owners are flouted. The idea of the common law is forgotten. Force replaces persuasion. Thus, government intrudes into every nook and cranny of life.

This is not a conspiracy, a planned revolution. Many of those who are promoting the idea of socialism probably do not realize what is going on. They mean well, but they are hipped on the notion that society must be managed and that they and their ilk are the ones to manage it.

It was the belief that an elite should organize and manage the many which led to revolution, dictatorship and terror in Russia and Germany. Can Americans be sure a similar sequence of events will not follow here?

I fear I have given a very inadequate sketch of Carson's thesis that the "world is in the grip of an idea." His entire piece is well worth reading. The Freeman is published monthly by the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington, N.Y. For 35 years it has been a highly articulate spokesman for freedom and individualism.

World in grip of socialist idea

They is us

A boy was injured while his father was mowing the grass. Get the picture. Father is mowing the grass when a sharp object flies out from under the lawnmower and injures the boy.

The boy sues his father. And the appeals court upheld the judgment: the father was found guilty of negligence.

Two coffin manufacturers and two funeral directors in Mahoning County, Ohio, are being sued for $6.5 million because the burial vault leaked, resulting in damage to the corpses and mental anguish to the families.

The courts are cooperating with the suers to the point where the legal reasoning is that if a person falls off a ladder it's the ladder's fault.

Remember, in any court of law when "they" are sued and "they" have to pay —

THEY IS US!
In Sacramento, Calif., a disposable cigarette lighter flared up. It did not burn the woman but it "frightened" her to such an extent that, her lawyer insisted, mental illness resulted.

A Sacramento County Superior Court awarded her $30,000.

YOUR dollars — because the lighter company will have to compensate for that loss with increased prices or the insurance company with increased premiums. "They" is "us"!

A student at the University of Michigan sued the school and five faculty members for half a million dollars because they gave him a "B" instead of an "A."

A man broke out of the Armstrong County Jail in Pennsylvania, then sued the sheriff and other officials for $1 million in damages "because they were negligent in letting him escape."

He acted as his own attorney, but tens of thousands of lawyers are on the loose ready to grab these cases on a contingency fee. And they are increasingly big fees.

In damage suits during 1962 only one plaintiff was awarded as much as a million dollars.

In 1977 more than 200 were!

Seven million lawsuits are filed in the United States each year.

A San Francisco woman claimed in a lawsuit that, as a result of being hit by a cable car, she became a nymphomaniac. She won!

A Long Island woman recently filed suit against the author and publisher of a paperback book — for $6.5 million — alleging that the book called "The Vampire Tapes" was about her; that it depicted her as a 400-year-old bloodthirsty vampire.

Comparatively few of these suers win, but there are always court costs that somebody must pay — usually insurance companies. Eventually "they" pay — and "they" is "us"!

A lifetime bargain

By DON GRAFF

For some 40 million Americans, a cure can be literally worse than the disease.

It could be fatal for the one in five among us who have hidden or special medical problems and may respond negatively to the accepted treatments for any of a host of common ailments.

These are the people who are the present or potential beneficiaries of a 25-year-old success story called Medic Alert.

You may have heard of it. This is the program under which diabetics, epileptics, hemophiliacs, persons suffering from drug allergies and other medical problems carry identification alerting anyone treating them of their special conditions.

It is worth mentioning today as an example of a great public service that grew from a good idea.

Medic Alert began with a slender silver bracelet engraved: "Allergic to Horse Serum." It was devised by a California physician, Dr. Marion C. Collins, for his teenage daughter for whom antitetanus treatment had almost meant death. The vehicle for the antitoxin at the time, 1953, was horse serum, to which the girl was violently allergic.

That first bracelet led to the establishment of the Medic Alert Foundation International in 1956 to aid similarly afflicted individuals. In the subsequent two decades, growth of the program has been explosive. It now numbers more than a million members internationally in 14 affiliated foundations. In the United States alone, more than 7,000 new members join each month.

With membership, they receive a bracelet or necklace bearing the red Medic Alert symbol and engraved on the reverse side with an identification number, special medical information and the Medic Alert hot-line telephone number. Additionally, members carry wallet cards updated annually to reflect any changes in their conditions.

The card, like the emblem, carries the emergency number of Medic Alert's computerized central file at Turlock, Calif., where all the information necessary to proper treatment of a member is stored. It is available immediately to anyone treating a member in an accident or other crisis via a collect telephone call to a 24-hour emergency information service.

A number of medical problems have been added to those Dr. Collins originally had in mind, including cardiovascular disease, implanted pacemakers, glaucoma, asthma and even contact lenses, which some individuals cannot wear for extended periods and should have removed in the event of emergency treatment.

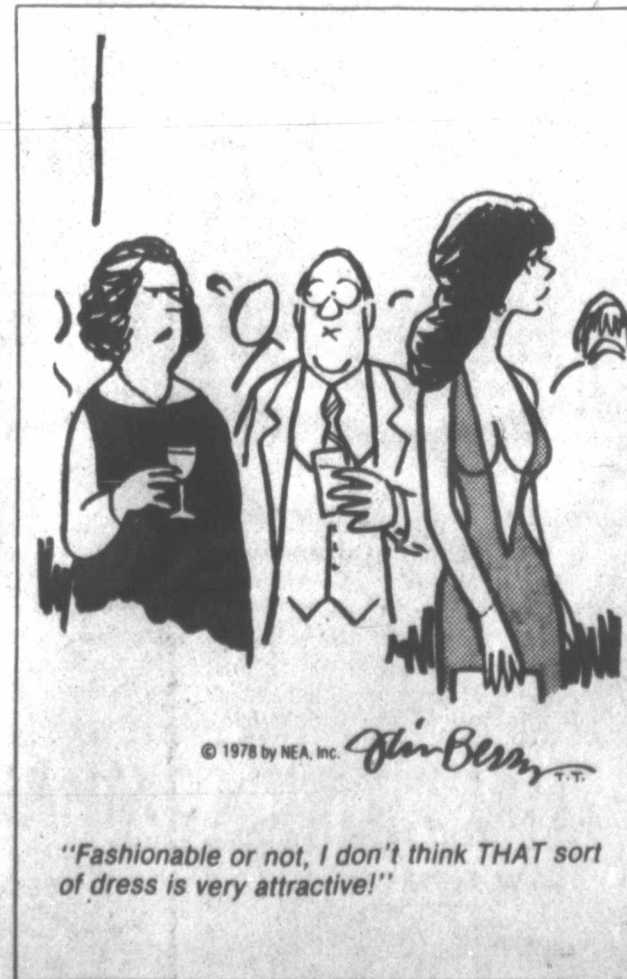

The service assists thousands each year, often in life- and death situations. According to staff records, more than 2,000 individuals gave Medic Alert credit for saving their lives during a recent 12-month period.

Medic Alert functions today as a nonprofit, charitable organization maintained solely by continuing enrollment of new members plus grants and contributions from business, other foundations and individuals.

For members, the lifetime fee is $10, with an additional charge of $3 when there is a need to update a personal file. In cases of financial need, there is no charge at all.

Repair practices to change-station

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The owners of an Amarillo service station have agreed not to engage in fraudulent car repair practices, the attorney general's office said Monday.
 Michael E. Hatch and Charles R. Hatch, operators of Lakeside Shell Station, agreed to a permanent injunction against deceptive business dealings.
 Among the practices enjoined were:
 —Squirting oil on car shock absorbers to make them appear defective.
 —Damaging tires to induce customers to buy replacements.
 —Making false or misleading statements about the need for repairs.

 Sheriff's officers are discounting any possibility of foul-play, but did order an autopsy in the case.
 Ms. Gotwals was employed by the Abraham Memorial Home. She had been a resident of Canadian only two months, having moved here from Gunnison, Colorado.

Prices rise sharply

By MICHAEL DOAN
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose sharply again in October, and for the first time the American dollar could buy only half as much as it did in 1967, the Labor Department said today.

Rising beef, poultry and pork prices led to the 0.8 percent increase in consumer prices last month, the same increase as in September and about average for 1978.

For the first time, the Consumer Price Index passed the 200 mark, rising to 200.9. That meant the average product that cost $100 in the 1967 base period now costs $200.90, the department said.

Food is 116 percent more expensive than in 1967, housing 109 percent, fuel 120 percent, clothing 63 percent and medical care 89 percent.

Since October 1977, prices have risen 8.9 percent, the department said.

San Francisco killings

Two men lie in state

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor George Moscone, who grew up and grew powerful here, and supervisor Harvey Milk, a New Yorker who built a political base among his fellow homosexuals, lie in state together today beneath the dome of City Hall, where both were assassinated.

A political foe of both men, former supervisor Dan White, 32, is in jail, booked for investigation of the slayings — which took place moments before Moscone was to announce White's successor at an 11:30 a.m. news conference Monday.

White, who resigned early this month then decided he wanted his job back, walked into a police station 45 minutes after the shootings and eight blocks from the scene and surrendered, police said. Psychiatric tests were scheduled.

Moscone, mayor since 1975, liked to say of his birthplace, "There's no place like it in the world." Milk said it was where he "finally found true happiness."

The city they loved — still reeling from news of the murder-suicide of more than 900 members of the San Francisco-based Peoples Temple in Guyana — reacted with a spontaneous outpouring of grief. A crowd estimated by police at up to 40,000 strong marched to City Hall Monday night, their tear-streaked faces lit by candles.

Folksinger Joan Baez sang to the mourners and Dianne Feinstein, president of the be buried Wednesday Milk will be cremated Friday night, aides said.

Police said the men were shot, with a .38-caliber Smith & Wesson handgun, standard for police officers, which they theorized White had carried into City Hall.

Officials said White probably had entered City Hall through an unguarded side door used by officials, or even strolled past police guards at the main door without passing through the metal detector there.

"This is an unparalleled time in San Francisco," a red-eyed Ms. Feinstein said in a special meeting of the board after the slayings.

"If there was ever a time for this city to pull itself together... this is that time. We need to be together and bring out what is good in each of our hearts."

City Hall steps were bedecked with flowers tied in wide black ribbons. Tiny candles burned near the flowers.

The San Francisco Park and Recreation Commission asked the National Football League to postpone Monday night's nationally televised game at Candlestick Park between the San Francisco 49ers and the Pittsburgh Steelers to observe the tragedy. The NFL said it was too late.

STUDENTS ENROLLED in courses taught by Clarendon College moved to the new campus Monday night. Clarendon College recently worked out an agreement with the Pampa School District to lease the Houston campus. After Jan. 1, Clarendon will expand their program here, and beginning on Dec. 4 someone will be in their offices on a full-time basis.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter from one who signed himself "Reverend L.W. Van Dellen," you replied, "Dear Reverend Van Dellen."

Abby, "Reverend" is not a title like "Doctor" or "Rabbi" or "Father." It is an adjective descriptive of character—not an office.

The World Almanac puts it this way: "A clergyman should never be referred to as 'a Reverend,' or addressed as 'Reverend Blank.'"

"Reverend" should be used only as "Honorable" is used. It is "The Reverend Mr. Blank," or "The Reverend Dr. Blank," but never "Reverend Blank."

Please, Abby, never address a clergyman as "Reverend Anybody." It's simply not done.

YOUR FAITHFUL FAN IN L.A.

DEAR FAITHFUL: Ten whacks for me with a stack of "Presbyterian Outlooks," from whence came this appropriate jingle:

"There is a certain fellow
Who makes me want to burst,
He never fails to hail me with,
'Hello, Reverend Hurst!'"

If two things make bad syntax,
This one is the first,
When some guy introduces me with,
'This is Reverend Hurst.'

As just a common 'Mister'
I'd acknowledge him to burst;
But I would like to punch the man
Who calls me 'Reverend Hurst.'"

DEAR ABBY: I work in a mail order house, and would you believe that about 20 percent of the people who place an order send us cash—and forget to send their names and addresses?

We have no idea who they are or where they live. We could just cry. All we can do is wait until they write again, complaining that they have not received their order, then we can fill it.

Please print this. It may help.

FRUSTRATED IN CHICAGO

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Move over, I, too, am distressed when a desperate reader writes with an urgent and serious problem, but neglects to send his address. Freud said, "There are no accidents." I sometimes wonder.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B.B.: Money talks. Save some before it says goodbye.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know why a man can get a vasectomy when he feels he doesn't want children and a woman can't get a hysterectomy when she feels the same way.

I am in my early 20s and divorced with no children. During my short marriage, I suffered from a uterine ulcer and a severe uterine infection. Because of these illnesses, I could not use the pill or IUD. A permanent tubal ligation would be of no help because the problem was in my uterus.

The ulcer was cured and the infection went away when I no longer had sex. The doctor has not guaranteed me that it will not come back the minute I start having sex again.

I have gone to several doctors with my problem and all have suggested that I forget about a hysterectomy. I do not wish to have any children. I have given it thoughtful consideration for more than a year and a half. I feel I have as much right to this kind of operation as a man. Could you clear up the problem for me?

DEAR READER — Your analogy is inappropriate. Men don't have a structure similar to the uterus to be removed. It would be more appropriate to compare a vasectomy to a tubal ligation, which you can get.

Doctors don't like to take out a woman's uterus unless there is a good medical indication for it. If a doctor takes out a normal uterus, even to prevent cancer, he ends up in the position of doing unnecessary surgery because he removed a normal uterus.

Your letter suggests to me that the doctors who have examined you don't feel that your history of an infection or an ulcer is sufficient indication of a disease of the uterus to justify a major operation. A tubal ligation is a minor operation in comparison to a hysterectomy.

As long as your uterus is normal, you won't get many physicians to agree to remove it. Should you develop significant medical problems in your uterus, then things could change. Meanwhile, if you want surgery for birth control, I'm afraid you will have to settle for a tubal ligation.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to keep my husband on a low-cholesterol diet. I've heard that fish are very low in cholesterol and I should give him fish instead of beef. Is that correct? Are some fish lower in cholesterol than others? What about shell fish?

DEAR READER — Fish are not a lot lower in cholesterol than beef, regardless of what you have heard. They are about the same. Shell fish, such as shrimp, may have more cholesterol per ounce than lean beef.

Most fish are low in fat—but not all—and a third of the fat is polyunsaturated fat. I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-12, Fish and Shellfish as Health Foods. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will give you tables that list the relative amount of fat and cholesterol in various fish and shell fish.

Fish and fish oil are the only major sources of the really highly polyunsaturated fats in our food. That may be important in lowering blood cholesterol and harmful fatty-cholesterol particles in the blood stream.

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — My son's blue jeans are made of heavy denim and even though they have been laundered they are still very stiff. I would like to know how to remove this stiffness. — MRS. L.M.

DEAR MRS. L.M. — My daughter-in-law tells me that her teenagers also dislike this stiffness and the following is her remedy. She washes the jeans two or three times before they are worn and adds about two cups of liquid bleach to a washer of clear water. The bleach must be added and well mixed with the water BEFORE the jeans are put in or there will be light splotches on the jeans. Some blue does come out in the water but not enough that the youngsters mind. Before the jeans are put in the water for the last washing she sometimes adds fabric softener. Readers, how do you do this? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those inconsiderate friends who do not have the courtesy to phone before coming to visit. Those of us who are extremely busy with a home, husband and family in addition to taking care of sick and elderly parents have a full-time job without unnecessary interruptions. I have discussed this with several friends and we all feel that those women who have so much time on their hands should do volunteer work of some kind. — MRS. J.K.

DEAR POLLY — After washing my sheer curtains I hang them over the line and clip clothespins across the bottom of each curtain to weigh it down. This eliminates ironing them when dry so I am saved a lot of time. — MRS. R.L.

New Braunfels is proud of its German heritage

HISTORIC HOME AT NEW BRAUNFELS

BY GORDON M. QUARNSTROM
NEW BRAUNFELS—"Ist das Leben Schön."

Yes, life is beautiful in New Braunfels, the Central Texas city of 18,000 with such a strong Germanic heritage that you have good fellowship in the German manner wherever you go. "Gemuettlichkeit," they call it.

New Braunfels retains the small town atmosphere and charm of the settlement which dates back to the coming of German immigrants in 1845.

The founding of the German colony by Prince Carl zu Solms Braunfels was in a community 30 miles north of San Antonio, then in ruins, and 50 miles south of the half-deserted Austin. Some 6,000 immigrants came in all, bringing with them skills badly needed on the Texas frontier and a driving passion to develop a community that was self-sufficient.

New Braunfels is in a favored location. Texas' largest springs and huge moss-draped oak trees provide a unique setting in Landa Park, just outside the downtown area. The water courses down a curving chute, providing a unique thrill for those on inner tubes or with diving gear.

Natural Bridge Caverns, largest in Texas, is a short distance away, and Canyon Lake is a splendid recreation spot.

You learn about the German heritage by visiting the Sophienburg Memorial Museum, one of the outstanding small city museums of the Southwest. You find here records of the first settlers, photographs, furniture and other mementoes of a past century.

There are historic homes to visit, including that of Ferdinand Lindheimer, circa 1852. His contributions to American botany brought him international renown. He was the first to classify much of the native Texas flora, and more than 30 varieties bear his name in their botanical titles.

The Lindheimer home is of German colonial "fachwerk", half timber construction. New Braunfels is noted for the Faust Hotel, newly refinished after five years of neglect. It is a small hotel of some 52 rooms and perfectly delightful. Its rates are delightful, too. My charge for a night was only $15, complete with air conditioning, ceiling fan and bath. The dining room provided a bountiful buffet lunch, with chicken, beef and pork, choice of salads, hot rolls, several vegetables, dessert and beverage for $3.95. A few days before I had paid $9 in a Chicago restaurant for a meal half as tasty.

Each November New Braunfels has a Wursthfest. The 1978 version (Nov. 3-Nov. 12) billed TV accordionist Myron Floren (of the Lawrence Welk show) for the 11th consecutive year.

Good fellowship in the German manner is the hallmark of Wursthfest. You'd have to be in Munich at Oktoberfest to come close to the frolicsome fun of this annual event. It's the outstanding special event of Texas each November. Wursthfest offers a market place, dancing to oompah music, feasting on all kinds of sausage, an old fashioned beerhall, strudels and Kartoffel pancakes from old German recipes, a dachshund show and canoe races among other events.

Future Wursthfest dates are: 1979, Nov. 2-11; 1980, Oct. 31-Nov. 9; 1981, Oct. 30-Nov. 8; and 1982, Oct. 29-Nov. 7.

Earhtone color revives roof

If the outside of your home leaves something to be desired and you think it's time for a facelift, consider how you would like it to look when redecorated.

With careful planning, selection of colors and attention to detail, you can enhance both the styling and value of your home. Decorators suggest that you limit exterior colors to no more than three; one for the roof, one for the siding and the third for trim.

Exterior decoration should begin with the roof and its color. Unlike sidewalls and trim, the colors of which can be changed from time to time, you can expect to live with your roof color for many years.

In recent years, roofing manufacturers have introduced new products that offer greater flexibility in roofing design. Asphalt shingles, for example, are available in a wide range of colors.

Among the more popular are earhtone shades that enable a homeowner to blend the overall appearance of his home with the environment. An added bonus is their three-dimensional appearance, which results in a textured roof of attractive shadow lines.

Consumer Scene

Your Refrigerator Can Help Make Good Coffee

If you savor the aroma and the flavor of fresh brewed coffee, it's a good idea to store the can of coffee in the refrigerator. It will stay fresher and more flavorful. At today's coffee prices, you owe it to yourself to enjoy every bit of flavor you've invested in.

If your washer has a small basket inside the main wash basket, dirty canvas shoes are a snap to clean. It's a hard job by hand, but an easy one in the machine.

Other Consumer Institute tips on getting the most from your appliances include the following:

- Most refrigerators sold today never need to be defrosted manually. However, since "no frost" operation involves constantly recirculating air, foods can dry out and become unappetizing. To keep left-overs in "eating trim," always store in a sealed plastic container or covered with an air tight wrap.

- If you're one of the lucky ones who have a food freezer large enough to take advantage of supermarket specials, try freezing meats and poultry in meal-size packages. Then you won't have to thaw three pounds of ground beef, for example, when you only need a half-dozen hamburgers for a meal.

- Once meat or poultry becomes thawed, you should never refreeze it. That doesn't mean you must eat it now or discard it, however. Simply cook the meat first, then freeze it for use at a later date.

- No matter how you wash that treasured cashmere sweater or other woollens, don't hesitate to dry them automatically. Pre-heat the dryer for five minutes on low heat setting with some turkish towels — then dry the woolen garment for no longer than 20 minutes. Always remove the garment while it is still damp and block it immediately. Air dry hand knit items.

You'll find other equally helpful suggestions in the Use and Care manuals provided with the appliance. If you've misplaced yours, a postcard to the manufacturer will generally bring you a replacement.

'Rocky' MDA posterchild

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocco (Rocky) Arizzi of Barrington, N.J., has been chosen as the 1979 National Poster Child of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA).

The five-year-old will act as the voluntary health agency's junior ambassador of goodwill to the nation. He succeeds ten-year-old Matthew Brown of Roswell, Georgia.

Rocky, who is confined to a wheelchair, served as the Association's 1978 New Jersey State Poster Child. One highlight of his MDA activities was his appearance at the U.S. Jaycees Convention in Atlantic City last June, where he met his hero, MDA National Chairman Jerry Lewis, for the first time. Rocky thanked Lewis for giving him his wheelchair.

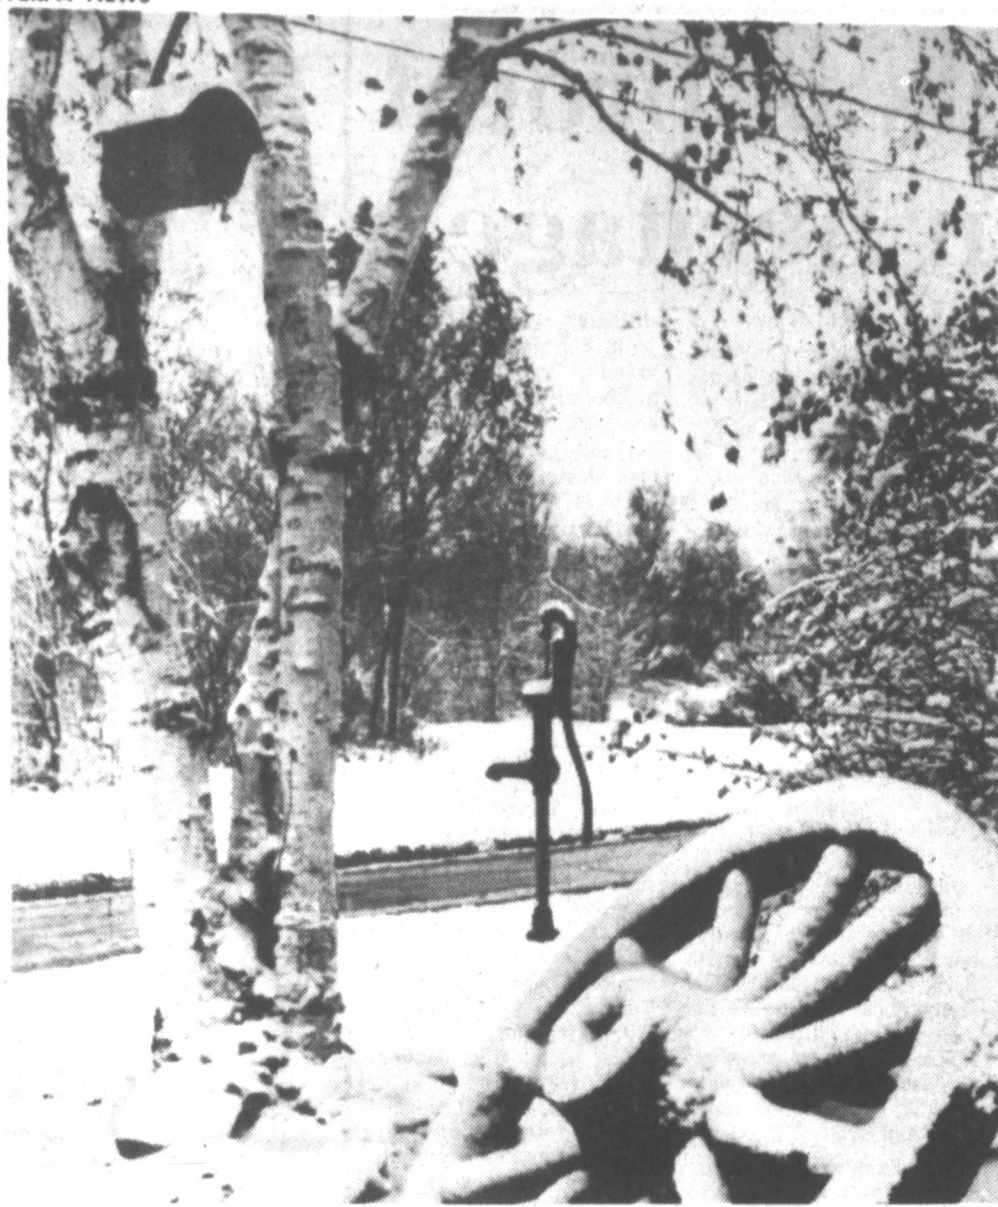

Rocky was nearly two years old when his condition was diagnosed at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia as Werdnig-Hoffmann disease, one of the 35 neuromuscular disorders covered by MDA's research and patient service programs.

Rocky attends a special pre-kindergarten class for the handicapped at a local public school where he particularly enjoys arts and crafts. Rocky also attends a Sunday School class for the handicapped at the local United Methodist Church and takes swimming lessons once a week.

Rocky has two brothers, Ernie, 10, and Tony, 11, and a 12-year-old sister, Julie.

MDA maintains some 200 clinics throughout the United States (including Puerto Rico and Guam) which provide free diagnosis, treatment and orthopedic aids to patients and their families. The Association also supports a worldwide research program, funding more than 550 individual research projects and ten university-based neuromuscular disease research, clinical centers in the United States and England. MDA sponsors a clinic at Northwest Texas Outpatient Clinic in the Amarillo area.

For more information about MDA in the Amarillo area, contact King Wiggins at 806-359-3141.

Goddess getting respect

HONOLULU (AP) — Madame Pele, the Hawaiian volcano goddess, is starting to get some respect from souvenir-hunting tourists.

Dozens of visitors who have removed volcanic rocks are mailing them back — fearful of the legend that Madame Pele brings misfortune to those who remove the lava.

One woman wrote that a week after she removed some lava, she had appendicitis, flunked chemistry, broke her ski boots, damaged her car and broke up with her boyfriend.

"I give up. Take your rock. Can I have my luck back?" she pleaded.

One unsigned note said: "I don't believe in superstition, but too much is going wrong since I picked the rocks up. Please put these rocks back in the park where they belong."

Until recently, Hawaii Volcanoes National Park received about five to seven rock-bearing boxes a day from superstitious or repentant tourists. But that was before The Associated Press carried a story about the problems that struck Ralph Loffert of Lancaster, N.Y., and his family after they took six small sandwich containers full of lava rocks home as souvenirs.

After returning home, the Loffert's four children suffered an assortment of sprains, broken bones, infections and other accidents.

Now an average of 15 to 20 packages a day arrive, park officials say. The high point was Nov. 6, when 40 boxes arrived.

Holography was invented in 1948 by British physicist Dennis Gabor, who was trying to improve the resolution of electron microscopes.

Steeler offense bounces back

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Terry Bradshaw and Lynn Swann are the National Football League's No. 1 passing combination, and the load carried by the Pittsburgh Steelers' defense seems considerably lighter today.

"I think we're all starting to play better," said linebacker Jack Ham, who intercepted two passes in Monday night's 24-7 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

But only on offense had the Steelers been struggling, scoring one touchdown in each of their previous two games. Bradshaw was intercepted four times and Swann caught no passes in last week's 7-6 decision over Cincinnati.

"We passed well and ran the ball, too, which is what we have to do," said Swann after catching two touchdown passes and totaling 134 yards on eight receptions against the 49ers.

The victory was over a team that went down fighting, 31-28, a week earlier to the Los Angeles Rams, who held the Steelers to just 59 yards rushing two weeks ago.

"The Steelers are a great football team," said Fred O'Connor, 04 since becoming San Francisco's head coach. "We have three teams coming up (New Orleans, Tampa Bay and Detroit) that we can compete against."

If the 49ers, 1-12 after eight straight defeats, lose their final three games, they'll set an NFL record for losses in one season.

"I got my confidence back tonight," said Bradshaw, who took the NFL lead in touchdown passes with his 22nd, an 11-yard toss to John Stallworth in the fourth period.

A request was made that the game be postponed because of the City Hall assassinations earlier Monday of San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk, but the NFL decided the nationally televised game would go on as scheduled.

Pittsburgh made its record 11-2, best in the NFL, and has a two-game lead over the Houston Oilers in the American Football Conference Central Division. The Steelers play in Houston on Sunday and can clinch the title with a victory.

Bradshaw threw a first-period interception, his eighth in three weeks, in the first period after teammate Roy Gerela had booted a 42-yard field goal.

Then the quarterback, who called his recent games embarrassing, went wild. He completed 9 of 11 passes for 137 yards on two second-period

Heisman awarded today

NEW YORK (AP) — Two junior running backs and two senior quarterbacks loomed today as the top contenders for the 44th annual Heisman Trophy.

The voting deadline was 9 a.m. EST. today, with announcement of the Heisman winner scheduled for around 12:30 p.m. A spokesman for the Downtown Athletic Club said more than 250 ballots were received Monday.

The leading candidates were believed to be running backs Billy Sims of Oklahoma and Charles White of Southern California and quarterbacks Chuck Fusina of Penn State and Rick Leach of Michigan.

As opposed to recent years, which such stars as Earl Campbell, Tony Dorsett and Archie Griffin were obvious winners, this year's Heisman race appeared to be going down to the wire. A club spokesman said Monday that the voting was extremely close among several unidentified candidates.

The club spokesman said that according to the accounting firm of Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., which tabulates the ballots, the voting was so close that it wouldn't be decided until this morning.

Except for two-way ends Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949 and Nebraska flanker Johnny Rodgers in 1972, every Heisman Trophy has been won by a quarterback or a running back.

Pampa's junior high basketball teams opened their seasons with mixed success Monday afternoon.

In ninth grade boys action, the Pampa Blues topped the Pampa Reds 53-49. Charles Nelson and Kevin Coleman led the winners with 16 points apiece, while Terry Faggins hit 12 and Jimmy Barker 11 for the Reds.

In another Blue-Red game, this time on the eighth grade level, the Blues took a 32-23 decision. Mike Nelson had nine points to lead the Blues, while Paul Prentice added eight. Jerry Godfrey's five points paced the Reds and Coyle Winborn added four points in a losing cause.

Both boys' games were used as a testing ground.

since the teams have been in practice for less than a week.

In girls' action, the eighth grade team broke an 8-8 deadlock at halftime by outscoring Perryton 10-4 in the third quarter on its way to a 23-19 victory.

The ninth grade girls weren't as fortunate in their first outing as they fell 38-20 to Perryton. Pampa trailed 18-8 at halftime. No individual scoring statistics were available for either girls game.

The girls' next games are scheduled for Monday, with Dumas providing the opposition. The ninth grade boys will be in Berger for a tournament this weekend, while the eighth grade boys will host their own tourney.

Welborn resigns Harvester helm

John Welborn, head football coach at Pampa High School since 1974, gave PHS Athletic Director Ed Lehnick his letter of resignation Monday, Lehnick said.

Welborn's resignation, which had been rumored for the past three weeks, would take effect Dec. 31, the end of Welborn's current contract, if accepted by the Pampa Board of Education. The board's next meeting is scheduled Dec. 4.

Lehnick said the letter also requests reassignment within the Pampa school system.

Welborn came to Pampa in 1974 from Shawnee, Okla., where his 1973 team won the State Championship. He began his coaching career in Dalhart as an assistant in 1959.

Welborn also served as an assistant at Artesia, N.M., for

Clements: Hill made mistakes

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Bill Clements says he spent $65,000 of his own money on his historic victory in the Texas gubernatorial race. "And that was in there before I even knew it."

The Dallas businessman also said Monday he personally guaranteed more than $2.7 million in loans for the race against his Democratic opponent Attorney General John Hill.

Clements, who began as a roughneck and built a multimillion dollar oil drilling empire, also said Hill lost votes by claiming his Republican opponent was attempting to buy the election.

The governor-elect spoke to a press gathering at the Republican Governors' Conference. "I want to make it very clear that I think anyone who would put that forward doesn't understand the Texas voter," he began. "If anyone knows of a Texas vote for sale, I want you to tell me about it, because you know more about that than I do."

"I believe my opponent made a bad mistake when he took off on that track and when I debated him, I encouraged him to keep making those remarks because I believe every time he said it, it hurt him."

Clements said his primary and general election cost will total "in the neighborhood of $6 million." His campaign office in Dallas said only the finance chairman had the figures on how much was spent and how much Clements borrowed and he was out of town Monday.

Clements also contended Hill "had been running for governor for 10 years" and had spent "something like $8 million."

When asked if he had become Texas first Republican governor in 104 years due to outspending the Democrats, Clements said:

"That's an interesting observation but it won't hold water. My opponent... first ran for governor in 1968. If you add up all the money he has spent in that 10 years gaining name identification and all the dollars he has spent that belonged to the taxpayers using his office and the physical equipment that goes with his office over that 10-year period, I would suspect he has spent something like $8 million."

But Clements balked at the idea of imposing spending limits on candidates.

Noting the vast area statewide candidates must cover, Clements compared campaigning in Texas to campaigning in and area stretching from this colonial Virginia town to Jacksonville, Fla.

By limiting campaign spending, "you perpetrate an office for those officeholders who use their offices and no one from the outside like myself would ever have a chance to get elected."

Jonestown survivors returning this week

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Jonestown survivors will begin returning to the United States this week, perhaps starting Wednesday, after Guyanese authorities sift out suspects and material witnesses to the Peoples Temple suicide-murders, U.S. and Guyanese officials say.

Guyanese police were making a complete inventory of the camp and questioning sect members at Georgetown headquarters to determine which of the 80 survivors will be permitted to leave this South American nation.

"Their status is being reviewed, and some will be allowed to go," Assistant Commissioner Skip Roberts said Monday. "Some will be held for judicial proceedings."

Two Americans have been charged with murder, and three others were questioned Monday for the second time about the death ceremony in which 908 Americans and one Guyanese died at the Rev. Jim Jones' religious commune in northwest Guyana.

The three were Tim Carter, 28, and his brother, Michael, 20, both of Boise, Idaho, and Michael Prokes, 32, a former Modesto, Calif., television newsmen.

"We just wanted to question them some more and go back over their story," Roberts said.

Roberts added that some of the survivors might begin leaving Wednesday.

The two men under arrest are Larry Layton, 32, of San Francisco, who is charged with killing Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., and four others with him at an airstrip near Jonestown, and Charles Beikman, 43, of Indianapolis, who is charged with killing a Peoples Temple staff member in Georgetown and her three children.

Only one of the surviving cultists has returned from Jonestown to the United States. He was Miguel DePina, 84.

U.S. Embassy officials said the returning survivors would be flown to the Charleston, S.C., Air Force Base and would be subject to normal re-entry procedures for American citizens returning from abroad.

They said the Internal Revenue Service, the Immigration and Naturalization Service and representatives of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would interview cult members "who are willing" about the Jonestown events.

Commissioner named to energy committee

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Commissioner Alan Erwin of the Texas Public Utility Commission has been named to a federal energy review committee.

The Electric Demand Emergency Curtailment Review Committee was formed at the request of the Department of Energy.

Erwin said he will represent Texas and other states in the Southwest.

Erwin said during any energy shortage the committee will take inventories, assess state and federal curtailment plans and develop recommendations for the role of the federal government.

"It is vitally important that Texas — the largest energy consumer and producer in the country — be represented on this committee," Erwin said in a statement. "Otherwise, misconceptions about our energy resources might become national policy."

Davis trial prosecutor: No holes in case

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the murder conspiracy trial of millionaire Cullen Davis say defense probings have failed to find any penetrable holes in the state's prime piece of evidence: the incriminating tape recordings.

"He didn't get to first base," prosecutor Tolley Wilson chuckled Monday after watching defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes cross-examine FBI agent Joe Gray.

"The defense gains are nonexistent," he said. Haynes spent several hours Monday questioning the Dallas agent about the audio and video tapes which capture the Aug. 20 meeting between Davis and FBI informant David McCrory.

Gray was the surveillance expert at the scene of the Fort Worth parking lot encounter.

McCrory, 40, the state's key witness, contends the Fort Worth oil heir ordered him to hire a "hit man" to kill his divorce judge and others.

The judge was not harmed. Jurors listened through bright yellow earphones as videotape monitors again provided what the state contends is an eye-witness account of the crime unfolding.

"Hey I got something here," McCrory says as he allegedly shows the 45-year-old defendant a Polaroid picture of Judge Joe Eidsen posing as if dead.

"Who do you want to go next?" McCrory asked Davis in the conversation which was picked up via a Nagra tape recorder strapped to his chest.

"Uh, the ones we talked about," Davis replies. The state contends Davis was referring to two young witnesses who testified against him last year when he was acquitted of murdering his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

Haynes has not challenged the state's position that it is Davis who is seen and heard discussing the execution of the judge with McCrory.

But he vigorously probed for flaws in the sound and visual tapes which provide the thrust of the state's attempt to send Davis to prison for life.

The crafty Houston lawyer endeavored to pick apart the composite tape, suggesting the timing of the sound and screen versions is distorted.

"They are simultaneous, or almost simultaneous in almost every instance," Gray insisted. "It's in synch."

The videotape does not show the alleged exchange of $25,000 in payoff money, but the soundtrack reveals the ruffling of paper at the precise moment McCrory says Davis handed him an envelope filled with $100 bills.

The Aug. 20 tape ends with McCrory, seated alone in his car, saying: "I have got the money. He has got the gun."

'Why does it happen here?'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In the chilly, beautiful city that has inspired song and poetry, grief hung like fog today amid a plague of bizarre violence that led residents to ask: "Why does it happen here?"

"I feel so sorry for this city," said a citizen shaken by the murder Monday of San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk. "We've had the Zebra killers, the Zodiac, the S.L.A., the Peoples Temple and now this. I don't know how much more we can take."

The tearful throng of 25,000 to 40,000 residents who gathered in numbed shock outside City Hall Monday night tried to provide their own answer. Carrying candles and clinging to their neighbors like survivors of some natural catastrophe or a war, they sang, "We shall overcome."

Columnist Herb Caen, among the most influential men in town, summed up the feelings of his beloved city in today's San Francisco Chronicle.

"Horror upon horror. Shock upon shock," Caen wrote. "...The vocabulary of grief and disbelief stretches only so far. At the end of a week of incredible headlines, all of us were left stunned, exhausted, overwhelmed by the flood of bloody 'senseless' information."

"...It was all senseless. Like the hundreds dead in Guyana. And yet there must be a thread connecting all this violence."

The thread that connected Moscone and Milk, Caen said, was one common to many of their constituents: "They loved San Francisco."

So did Jim Jones. And Charlie Manson.

"This is every misfit's favorite city as well as the favorite city of a lot of straight, normal people," said San Francisco Examiner Editor and Publisher Reg Murphy.

"It's the most photogenic city in the country," Murphy added. "It's also the most accepting city. It contains some of the brightest minds in America. But there's an odd mixture of the highly intellectual community and the crazy community."

The "crazy community" bloomed in the 1960s. Long-haired young people calling themselves "hippies" and "flower children" swarmed into San Francisco's tawdry Haight-Ashbury district.

They were turned off by the Vietnam War and "turned on" by the prophet of LSD, Timothy Leary.

The flower children were hallucinating on drugs. "We were riding on the wind," one of them would remember. Her name was Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme. Years later, she would try to kill a president.

She came to San Francisco with the ragged Charles Manson "family" in 1968. Manson, guru of a band of young misfits, had passed through Haight-Ashbury earlier, staying long enough to learn the power of drugs and a word, "Love." He took his "hippies" to Los Angeles and ordered mass murders.

In Haight-Ashbury, teenagers "freaked out" screaming in the agony of LSD "bad trips."

The plague they had brought did not die. It festered and burst in the 70s. San Francisco's most violent decade since the days of the Barbary Coast.

In 1969 and 1970, a murderer calling himself "Zodiac" sent grisly coded messages to local newspapers. "Killing people is more fun than killing wild game," he wrote. Zodiac has not been caught. Police say he probably killed six persons. He boasts of slaying 37 victims.

In 1972, a midwestern preacher, the Rev. Jim Jones set up his Peoples Temple in San Francisco's poor Fillmore district.

In 1973, a wave of random street killings terrorized the city. The "Zebra killers," struck without warning, killing whites at night. Most victims were shot. One was raped, another beheaded.

In April 1974, it was over. Four young Black Muslims were arrested and charged with 14 murders, seven assaults, one rape and an attempted kidnapping. The Zebra murderers were convicted in 1976 after the longest trial in San Francisco history.

On Feb. 4, 1974, the daughter of one of San Francisco's first families — Patricia Hearst — was kidnapped. Her travels through the radical underground exposed a seething subculture of disaffected young revolutionaries known as The Symbionese Liberation Army.

Six of them died that spring in a flaming, suicidal shootout with Los Angeles police. The others — Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris — drifted back to the only American city where they could hide — San Francisco. They eluded police for 18 months before their capture Sept. 18, 1975.

That September was a month for violence. In nearby Sacramento, Lynette Fromme aimed a gun at President Gerald Ford and was arrested. In San Francisco, days after Miss Hearst's capture, a middle-aged radical, Sara Jane Moore, fired a gun at Ford in famous Union Square barely missing him.

In 1977, the plague seemed to pass. City fathers remembered the town's old slogan, "Everybody's Favorite City." The city's large homosexual population savored political victory — election of the first gay member of the city's Board of Supervisors — Harvey Milk.

The following year, 1978, was one of promise. Record numbers of tourists jammed cable cars and hummed, "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

Utility bill relief proposed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An estimated $70 million would be diverted from severance tax revenues annually and used for utility bill relief under a proposal described Monday by Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado.

"I am unable to accept the 'nothing can be done' attitude expressed by many people," Patman said.

"The Legislature would be authorized to restrict the benefits to persons who have reached the age of 65 or above," the senator wrote to the Texas Legislative Council, which drafts legislation.

"The Legislature would be further authorized to base restrictions on income," he added.

The state's 7½-cent tax on gas at the wellhead generated $517.8 million in the last fiscal year, Patman said. His proposal would dedicate 1 cent of the tax to utility bill relief.

If the Legislature approved the constitutional amendment, it would go to the voters twice — once in 1979 and again in 1984, he said. The second vote would be a test of the program's effectiveness.

Patman said his proposal was not influenced by recent recommendations from the Texas Public Utility Commission staff.

The agency staff suggested the Legislature authorize direct payments to utility companies to cover bills of the needy and elderly.

However, the senator said he thought the utility commission should administer his program if it passes.

Emergency rule approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission approved an emergency rule Monday setting out procedures for classifying wells.

The commission said the new federal gas policy act required the agency to take such action. "The failure of the commission to adopt a rule with immediate effect would cause severe disruption or uncertainty in the supply of natural gas during a winter period, and the commission thus finds that an imminent peril to public welfare requires this emergency action," the agency said.

Don't overlook capital gains

(Second of 3 parts)
By John Barnes

Capital gains were a hot topic in Congress during debate on the 1978 tax bill.

When the legislation was finally completed, the portion of long-term capital gains subject to taxation had been lowered from 50 percent to 40 percent. Unlike most provisions of the new tax law, this change has already taken effect.

But despite all the controversy in Washington, many Americans are still wondering, "What are capital gains, anyway?"

For income tax purposes, any property not used in running a business is a capital asset. Capital assets include stocks, mutual funds and real estate.

A capital gain is the profit from selling a capital asset. The gain is long-term if the asset was held for more than one year; it is short-term if the asset was held for a year or less.

Note that this one-year holding period applies for the first time this year. The period was nine months in 1977 and six months prior to that.

The difference between long-term and short-term gains is important.

On long-term gains, only half the profits are taxed. (Under the 1978 Revenue Act, 60 percent of the profits are tax-exempt on sales of your profit — is taxed if you had waited until November to sell.)

Remember, the date of sale — not the date of purchase — determines the holding period. Thus, profits from the sale of real estate

Short-term capital losses receive more favorable tax treatment than long-term capital losses. If a short-term loss is incurred, it may be deducted dollar-for-dollar from your income. If a long-term loss is incurred, only 50 percent can be deducted.

In either case, the amount deducted cannot exceed the smallest of three factors: (1) your taxable income for the year, (2) $3,000 (up this year from $2,000), or (3) the net capital loss after capital gains are subtracted.

If you had both capital gains and losses during the tax year, they are balanced against each other on Schedule D (Form 1040). Should your net capital loss be greater than what is allowed under the above limitations, all the excess can be carried over into subsequent years.

Learn more about capital gains taxation in the 1979 edition of "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save" by John Barnes. Send $1.50 (tax deductible) plus 50 cents postage and handling to "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save" in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Dept. T, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

(NEXT: IRAs)

Unlike most provisions of the new tax law, the one lowering the percentage of long-term capital gains subject to taxation has already taken effect.

ter October 31 of this year.) On short-term gains, however, all profits are taxed in full at ordinary tax rates.

Let's say you bought 100 shares of ABC Corporation stock in 1975 for $3,000. You sold those shares last April for $5,000. Half of your $2,000 profit — $1,000 — is tax-free. The remaining $1,000 is taxed according to your income-tax bracket. (However, only $800 — 40 percent you bought in October 1977 and sold in August 1978 would be considered short-term.

Capital losses — as well as capital gains — receive special tax treatment.

A capital loss is incurred when a capital asset (except a home) is sold at a loss. Capital losses are subject to the same holding period as capital gains for classification as long-term or short-term.

Textbooks screened

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Four years after a bitter dispute over the selection of school textbooks set neighbor against neighbor in Kanawha County, it appears victory has gone to those who protested the use of books they saw as godless and un-American.

The protests were "very much" on the minds of the members of an advisory committee that recently screened a set of language arts books for the Board of Education, according to the committee's leader.

The language arts books approved by the board were the first authorized for elementary schools since 1973. It was those 1973 selections — from authors such as ex-Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, now a "born-again" Christian, and LeRoi Jones — that sparked the protest which shut down schools, factories, mines and a regional bus system.

"When we got into the textbooks dealing with literature and fables where there had been problems before, we scanned those books probably like they've never been scanned before," said Stephen Priestly, a Lincoln County elementary school principal who headed the 15-member advisory committee.

Phil E. Suiter, assistant state school superintendent, also says the books approved by the advisory committee, from which county school boards must choose their materials, were carefully chosen with the textbook protest in mind.

"I thought the fact that the textbook advisory committee looked at the books so carefully — that is evidence that they have been very sensitive to what the public's demands are," Suiter said.

And the pro-textbook faction concedes defeat.

"I know what it's like to lose," said the Rev. James Lewis, an Episcopal minister who was a vocal supporter of the textbooks.

The eventual victory, Lewis believes, came almost unseemingly as book supporters tired of the battle.

"This thing wore people out," he explained.

Hardly a murmur of protest was heard when the new books were picked in early November. The selection process drew scant attention from the state's media.

The Kanawha County textbook furor started in the spring of 1974 when Alice Moore, a minister's wife, complained that selections from some of the books were lewd, unpatriotic and encouraged students to think in terms of relative values.

Mrs. Moore had been elected to the Kanawha County school board as a candidate opposing sex education in the public schools.

A Dutch physicist, Cornelius Drebbel, built the first submarine in London in 1624. It was manned by 12 rowers whose oars protruded through sealed ports.

Under Foot

by Gil Phetteplace

Now that we have gotten over the agony and joy of Thanksgiving, we can start hunting for the Christmas decorations which we put up "where we would be sure to find them."

Just about the time everything starts going my way, I find I'm going the wrong way on a one way street...

The trouble with life today is every time I have all the answers... someone changes the questions....

A thoughtful answer to your Christmas gift needs may be a pretty pair of boots from Phetteplace Shoes, Downtown, Pampa.

Special thanks to Cabot for furnishing Santa's 'sleigh' in the parade last Tuesday, and to the jolly fellow riding in it, Thanks, Dan.

Medicare patients have options

Medicare and Medicaid patients in Texas can now receive additional assistance in seeking a second opinion before undergoing any non-emergency surgery and the government will help pay the charges, according to a new consumer information campaign announced by a Health, Education and Welfare official.

The campaign urges all residents to seek information about the benefits, risks and alternatives to surgery.

A toll-free number is offered to anyone who is seeking names of physicians to consult for second opinions.

Referral centers will assist patients in locating a physician who will give a second medical opinion. Texas residents should call 800-442-7011.

Second opinions are a traditional part of the practice of medicine. Working closely with state medical societies, HEW's Health Care Financing Administration has developed several information pamphlets and public service programs as well as the referral centers to help people become better informed about when and where a second opinion should be considered.

Hundreds of physician groups and insurance companies around the nation have joined HEW in this effort, the official said.

"The second opinion program does not reflect in any way upon doctors of their abilities. The practice of medicine is not an exact science. Physicians do not always agree.
