Consolidation OK'd

County voters reject five amendments

Haskell and Weinert school district voters gave overwhelming approval Tuesday to consolidating the two school districts.

In Haskell, the measure carried 732-19. In Weinert, the vote was 119-64.

The four Haskell precincts favored the proposal by 413-5, 106-4, 83-3 and 85-3. The absentee vote was 40-4.

Weinert's students in kindergarten through eighth grade will continue to go to school there through the present term.

The consolidation could mean more state aid for the Haskell school district and should result in a drop in tax rates for both districts.

In the voting on the 21 proposed constitutional amendments, Haskell County voters rejected five of them, Nos. 1, 3, 4, 11 and 12. Statewide, only Nos. 1 and 11 were rejected.

County gets $192 from liquor tax

Haskell County has received $192 from the state comptroller as its part of the mixed drink sales tax collected during the third quarter of 1989.

The $192 represented 12.5 percent of the $1,536.01 collected by the state for drink sales in July, August and September.

Prison site list whittled down

This area is one of 26 proposed prison sites from which 10 or 12 finalists were to have been selected Wednesday when two subcommittees of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice met in Austin.

The 26 sites were chosen last month from 46 proposals submitted to the board on July 31.

Final site selection for six new prisons, both maximum and medium security facilities, is expected at the board's Nov. 13 meeting in the Senate Chamber of the state Capitol.

Haskell has thrown its support behind a proposal to build a prison at the Stamford airport.

Smokeout coming up next week

The Haskell County unit of the American Cancer Society is encouraging all local smokers to participate in the Great American Smokeout next Thursday, Nov. 16.

What?
An upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours--brought to you by the American Cancer Society.

Who?
The Smokeout focuses attention on cigarette smokers and, more recently, smokeless tobacco users. Nonsmokers can join in the fun by "adopting" family members, friends and co-workers who smoke and encouraging them to quit.

When?
Held each year on the third Thursday in November, the Smokeout this year will take place Nov. 16 (Thursday of next week).

Where?
Homes, businesses, schools, hospitals--anywhere you find smokers and those who care about helping them to quit, even if just for 24 hours.

How?
Rallies, obstacle courses, contests, skits, lockups, parties--any lighthearted activity designed to keep smokers away from cigarettes. Contact your local American Cancer Society for kits, posters, buttons, literature, ideas and encouragement. Millions of people participate each year, so for ideas, the sky's the limit.

History:
During the decade following the first Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health, the nation was ready for grassroots efforts to promote quitting cigarettes. As early as 1971, the town of Randolph, Mass., asked residents to give up tobacco for a day. Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Monticello (Minn.) Times, led the first mass movement by smokers to give up cigarettes in 1974. Smith's idea, called "D-Day" for "Don't Smoke," quickly spread throughout Minnesota. It skipped west in 1977 to California where it became known as the Great American Smokeout. The following year it was observed nationwide for the first time. In 1989, the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout turns 13, which just might be the lucky number for smokers who wish to quit.

Results:
The Gallup Organization, using a nationwide telephone survey, estimated the following:

--36.9 percent, or 18.4 million, of the nation's 50 million smokers participated in the Smokeout.

--10.7 percent of the nation's smokers, approximately 5.4 million people, were able to stay off cigarettes for 24 hours.

--3.4 million people were still not smoking 1 to 3 days later.

--86 percent of those surveyed had heard of the Smokeout.

Goal:
The goal of the 1989 American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout is to help at least one in every five smokers (20 percent) to give up cigarettes for the 24-hour period.

Indians end season at Anson Friday

If the Haskell Indians are going to win another football game this season, it'll have to be Friday.

They travel to Anson to take on the Tigers in the 1989 season finale for a couple of teams going nowhere.

There are a number of similarities. Each team sports an 0-4 district 7-2A record. The Indians are 2-7 for the year and have dropped six in a row. The Tigers are 1-8 for the season and have lost eight straight since opening the campaign with a win over Cisco. Haskell's victories came in the second and third games of the season, against Seymour and Merkel.

Anson, which won the district championship last year, lost 69-8 to Albany last Friday while the Indians were going down at Hawley, 27-24.

Each team will be trying to avoid finishing in the district cellar, a distinction which will go to Friday's loser. In addition, Friday's winner will be able to salvage something from a disappointing season.

9-1-1 service coming soon

Haskell area residents' access to emergency services by dialing 9-1-1 has come a step closer to reality as a result of action by the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications.

Created to govern 9-1-1 activities in Texas, the commission approved the West Central Texas Council of Governments' 9-1-1 plan at its October meeting in Austin.

During its 1987 session, the Texas Legislature paved the way for 9-1-1 in rural parts of the state by creating the state commission and by giving local governments the option of joining, by resolution, 9-1-1 planning activities spearheaded by Councils of government throughout Texas. Prior to that, for smaller cities or rural areas to have 9-1-1 service, they had to either join an existing 9-1-1 district formed under earlier legislation, or exercise home rule authority to pay for 9-1-1 with revenues from general funds.

"We feel most fortunate to be one of the areas in Texas to have 100-percent participation in 9-1-1 by our area's counties and cities," said Sue Smith, 9-1-1 director for COG.

Local city councils and commissioners' courts adopted resolutions stating interest in participating in 9-1-1. The resolutions are the legal means the State Commission uses in authorizing telephone companies to begin collection of 9-1-1 charges on customer bills.

Fees for 9-1-1, approved for the region at 50 cents per month per customer line, will begin appearing on Haskell telephone bills in January.

Rule

Lt. Cloud died in Germany

By Jack E. Westbrook
(Lt. Merle M. Cloud was one of 21 Rule citizens who gave their lives in the service of their country, and whose memories are being honored by a memorial monument planned by the community.)

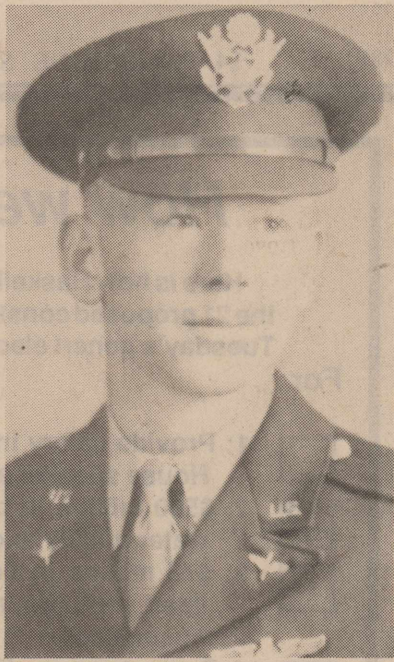

On Feb. 14, 1918, Merle Melton Coud was born to Henry John and Irene Wilhelmina Engdahl Cloud in Rule. He was named after the first two American soldiers who were killed in combat during World War I. It is ironic that his destiny was that of theirs.

He was born on the family farm out from the town of Rule, being delivered by Dr. H. C. Weaver. His was the childhood of a boy living on a farm for the times. He attended Rule grammar and high schools, graduating in the class of 1936. He was a Christian, having joined the First Baptist Church at the age of 11. He developed many strong friendships and gained the respect of his elders at an early age.

After high school, he attended Texas Tech for two years, then farmed, this being his chosen profession. Seeing the oncoming conflict, he volunteered for military service on Oct. 9, 1941, just before the beginning of World War II.

He trained for the Army at Fort Sill in Lawton, Okla., then was transferred to Camp Barkley (Abilene) before transferring to the Air Corps. He trained at Randolph Field, at Bruce Field (Ballinger) and Big Spring where he received his commission as a second lieutenant and his bombardier wings on Jan. 7, 1943.

The crew he was assigned to trained at Great Falls, Idaho, Seattle, Wash., and Salem, Mass., before setting out for England on July 5, 1943. Their B-17 bomber, later named "Six Nights in Telergma," was assigned to the 568th Squadron, 390th Bomb Group, Eighth Air Corps at Framingham, England.

1st Lt. Merle M. Cloud

His crew was on the famed Regensburg-Schweinfurt raid, the results of which changed the overall strategy of the air war. His plane was the only one of seven in his squadron that made it back to England.

He completed 19 missions before being shot down on his 20th over the North Sea after a successful raid on Emden, Germany. He received his promotion to first lieutenant in August 1943. He was decorated, receiving the Distinguished Flying Cross for "heroism beyond the line of duty" by clearing his bomber's racks of dangerous incendiary bombs on a raid over Bremen, Germany, Oct. 8, 1943. His decorations included the Air Medal with three clusters, the Presidential Unit Citation for the Regensburg raid, and the Purple Heart. One of the two survivors of his crewmates tells of the final efforts of Lt. Cloud, staying and literally shoving all of the fellows in his part of the bomber out of the burning aircraft before it went down. This was the last he saw of Lt. Cloud, the B-17 exploding seconds after the survivor parachuted out over the sea near the Island of Norderney. The bomber was shot down by a German F-109 cannon. If Lt. Cloud had landed in the North Sea, life expectancy was less than 10 minutes in the extreme cold of the water. The two survivors landed on the Isle of Norderney and were captured.

His body was never recovered from the North Sea. A monument was erected on his family plot at the Rule Cemetery with an inscription reading:

In memory of 1st Lt. Merle M. Cloud who died in the service of his country at Emden, Germany, December 11, 1943. He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom might live and grow and increase its blessings. Freedom lives. And through it, he lives in a way that humbles the undertaking of most men.

Lt. Cloud had two brothers--Joe B. Cloud and Harold J. Cloud--and a sister--Helen Cloud Westbrook. His mother lives at the family home in Rule.

It is difficult to even imagine the trials and self-sacrifice made by Lt. Cloud. But we know that being separated from his loved ones, being in a foreign land under wartime conditions, a tremendous amount of anxiety and fear of the unknown, pain and stress of many hours over targets under the excruciating conditions of aerial combat were the price he paid before giving his life as the final and ultimate sacrifice. This does "humble the undertaking of most men."

No measure that is adequate can be made of his sacrifice except possibly in the freedom we now enjoy. The treasure of his gift must be answered by valiant efforts on the part of all citizens to pass along his gift of freedom. Only through continual vigilance and good works can it be perpetuated.

The people of the community of Rule--his people--are eternally grateful for his sacrifice and the heritage his giving allowed us to keep and enjoy. Merle will live on forever in the memory of "his people."

Scouts earn top award

Members of Paint Creek Boy Scout Troop 148 attended the Northern District Camporee near Old Gory last weekend where they competed with other troops of the district in various scouting skills.

The camporee was held on the Ed Walsh farm southeast of Old Glory where 11 patrols competed in knot tying, flint and steel fire building, lashings, Morse code, first aid, trail signs, compass work, distance estimation and friction bridge which the scouts built.

The six-boy patrol from Paint Creek returned with first place ribbons in first aid, signaling and pancake clip (flint and steel); second place in knots, trail signs, compass and friction bridge; and third place in the bucket retrieve and chariot race (lashing events).

As a result of these wins, Troop 148 was awarded the prestigious President's award given to the highest scoring troop. The troop has received four President's awards from five camporees in their three-year history.

Scouts attending the camporee were Hans Overton, Casey Thompson, Marcus Overton, Mathew Morton, Cody Ender and Ray Morton. Adults attending were Kenny Thompson, Stanley Morton and Wallar Overton, scoutmaster.

Haskell represented at state convention

The Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District was represented at the 49th annual state convention of Texas SWC Districts directors, held Oct. 23-25 at the McAllen Convention Center in McAllen.

Registration was conducted in the Palm Terrace area of the Civic Center, and later a "get-acquainted" barbecue was served to the group which numbered nearly 1,000. The dinner was co-hosted by the Federal Land Bank Association of Texas, and entertainment was provided by Bo Garza and Youngblood Band.

Chairman in charge of activities was Fred Squyres of Dumas, and welcoming the group was Othal

Brand, mayor McAllen.

During the three days, some of the speakers included Clyde Hale of Sherman, president of the Association of Texas SWCD; Robert Earley of Portland, state representative; Eligo de la Garza of Washington, D.C., chairman of the House committee on agriculture; Jorge de la Vega of Mexico City, Mexican minister of agriculture; and Clayton Yeutter of Washington, secretary of agriculture.

Representing Haskell were R. V. Earles, president, and Mrs. Earles; Marvin Phemister, vice president, and Mrs. Phemister; Bobby Waddell, district conservationist, and Mrs. Waddell.

Earles was honored for his 20 years of service and was presented a plaque at the business meeting.

The election of officers was held on Tuesday and they were reinstated to serve a second term as they are now, with Clyde Hale president and Fred Squyres vice president.

Many request Social Security earnings

In August, the Social Security Administration marked the first anniversary of its most successful drive to inform members of the public about their Social Security coverage.

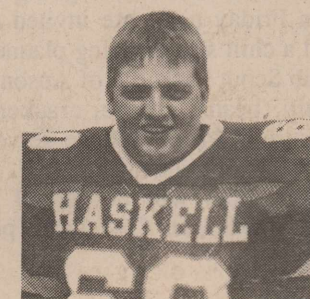

The Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement (PEBES) was introduced to the public on Aug. 4, 1988. Since then almost 4.5 million people have sent for and received their PEBES.

PEBES offers a year-by-year breakdown of posted earnings and the estimated FICA taxes paid. It also shows estimates for disability, survivors and retirement benefits at ages 62, full retirement age (65) and 70.

PEBES request forms are available by calling the toll-free number 1-800-234-5772 or by writing to: Consumer Information Center, Department 55, Pueblo, CO 81009.

Ask for Form SSA-7004.

Veterans Day, honoring all who wore our country's uniform.

There are times when a simple thank you is not enough. There are times when the service rendered is so great that only a thank you seems so small. And yet, that is all that can be said. It is sincere and absolute.

Now is a time of thanks, not joyous thanks, but solemn thanks. Many served our country by wearing its uniform. Too many died for it.

We're closed Veterans Day to honor those who have gone before, those who have served and those still in uniform.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

CHILDREN AND TAXES
(A Review of the 1989 Rules)

If you have children, you need to be aware of these tax rules affecting them.

Your child must file a 1989 tax return if he or she has:

- earned income only (wages from a job) and gross income is more than $3,100.
- unearned income only (such as interest and dividends) and gross income is more than $500. (If unearned income falls between $500 and $5,000, you may elect to include your child's income on your tax return.)
- both earned and unearned income and gross income is more than $500.
- taxes withheld from wages that should be refunded to the child.
- self-employment net income over $400. (Self-employment tax must be paid; any income tax is calculated according to the same rules that apply to other earned income.)

You may take on your tax return a dependency exemption of $2,000 for each child if (1) you provide more than half of his or her support, (2) the child is under age 19 or a full-time student under the age of 24, and (3) the child, if married, does not file a joint return for the year (unless the child had taxes withheld, but owed no tax and files strictly for a refund).

Any child who can be claimed as a dependent on your return cannot take a personal exemption on his or her own tax return.

Children are still entitled to their own standard deduction. The amount varies depending on the nature of the child's income. The standard deduction is the greater of $500 or the child's earned income, not to exceed $3,100.

You must report on your tax return the social security number for each dependent child age two years or older for whom you claim an exemption. To obtain a social security number, request Form SSA-5 from your local social security office.

State to install railroad signals

A $10 million plan to install signals at 117 railroad crossings on the state's roadways has been approved by the highway commission. A separate plan to replank 146 crossings at a cost of $3.5 million also was approved.

The two plans are part of ongoing programs to upgrade rail-highway crossings around the state.

Texas leads the nation in the number of miles of railroad track, as well as the number of railroad crossings on highways. Approximately 9,300 of the state's 14,000 rail-highway crossings have no signal. This program, which is federally funded, allows the state to improve safety at railroad crossings by providing automatic signal devices.

College students increase in number

Texas college and university enrollments are up this fall by more than 3.1 percent.

Preliminary figures for the 1989 fall semester show that the combined enrollment at all institutions of higher education in Texas is 858,331, an increase of 25,865 students from last fall.

Balanced budget

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm and Brian Lopina, director of government relations with Citizens for a Sound Economy, stand on the steps of the United States capital building in front of 160,000 petitions from Americans supporting a balanced budget amendment to the constitution, such as the one introduced by Stenholm.

Hospital margins continue to fall

Patient service margins for Texas hospitals continued to decline during the second quarter of 1989.

A patient service margin shows whether a hospital is earning enough patient care income to meet its operating expenses.

In the second quarter, Texas hospitals spent, on average, $1.08 per dollar of patient care income. Urban hospitals spent $1.02 per dollar, and rural hospitals spent $1.78 per dollar.

Academy
are now open

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm has announced that the deadline for applications to the United States service academies is Dec. 1. Interested individuals are encouraged to contact his Washington office as soon as possible.

Eligible applicants must be at least 17, but not past their 22nd birthday, and need to have graduated from high school by June 30, 1990. They must be single with no dependents and live in the 17th district.

Competitive applicants should be in the top 20 percent of their classes. They need to have SAT scores above 500 verbal and 550 math or ACT scores of 22 English and 26 math. Involvement in extracurricular activities, including school and community organizations and sports as well as full- or part-time employment, also is in the applicant's favor.

The congressman will be making nominations to the Air Force Academy, the Military Academy, the Naval Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy.

Applicants who wish to serve as commissioned officers are encouraged to contact Dawn Gorman in Stenholm's office. For more information call (202) 225-6605 or write to 1226 Longworth HOB, Washington 20515.

Nominations will be announced in late December.

State plans drive to reduce deaths

Faced with a staggering loss of human life and potential, the state highway commission has decided to escalate its drive to decrease traffic accidents.

"This useless waste has got to stop," said commission chairman Robert Dedman.

Around the state each year, 3,000 or more people die in automobile accidents, mostly due to modifiable behavior such as speeding, drunken and drugged driving, and not buckling up.

The highway department is ready to invest $3 million over the next two years to halt the carnage on Texas roads and will seek the partnership of private sponsors to do so. The tool will be a public education program along the lines of the department's "Don't Mess With Texas" campaign.

"We want to go into this program with no pre-conceived ideas," said J. Don Clark, director of the department's Travel and Information division. "We plan to use sophisticated marketing techniques to discover what kind of campaign and media will be most effective."

In the past, the department's public awareness campaigns have been funded under federal regulations that rule out paid advertising. This new program would rely solely on state highway funds and corporate donations.

"We want to have the flexibility to use paid advertising so we can accurately target the audience we need to reach," Clark said. "A program that relies on public service time limits that

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company hereby gives notice that on August 29, 1989 the Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to revise its Texas intrastate Digital Link Service Tariff. This application proposes to restructure the rates for MICROLINK IISM - Packet Switching Digital Service to establish uniform rates for the service in each of the market areas where it is offered within the State and to expand the service to an additional nineteen (19) Primary Market Areas (PMAs).

This service utilizes several existing network services in combination with packet switching capabilities. A MICROLINK II Primary Market Area is the service area from which subscribers may reach public dial access to the service by dialing a local seven digit number. HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Income tax proposal draws fire

AUSTIN—Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby ran the dreaded state income tax up the flagpole last week; no one saluted, but they sure are talking.

Meanwhile, Gov. Bill Clements called for lawmakers to impeach Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower if a state audit now underway finds he has misspent state funds. Hightower denies any wrongdoing and claims Clements is waging a political vendetta against him. He has also cancelled the cards.

Hightower is being investigated for using a state credit card on trips that included $7,000 worth of expensive meals and hotel charges, some made at a time when he was also campaigning for presidential aspirant Jesse Jackson.

Charges Farmers

Credit cards were issued to Hightower and his top aide, Mike Moeller, by the Texas-Federal Inspection Service, which is operated partly by his agency and partly by the feds. The agency collects funds for the service by charging farmers for grading their produce, and he said expenses charged to the card were on behalf of the producers.

Hightower's general counsel, Jesse Oliver, later stated the program also provides Hightower with an '88 Chevrolet Blazer and a vehicle to Moeller.

Hobby Pushes Income Tax

In his state income tax initiative, Hobby sweetened the dose by proposing to reduce sales taxes and local school property taxes at the same time.

He proposes a 4 percent personal and corporate income tax tied to abolishing the franchise tax.

Hobby, obviously a lame duck, is probably the only one who can air this issue.

Several candidates for statewide office have already pledged to veto or abolish a state income tax as part of their campaign platform.

Foes argue that existing taxes are already raised to the limit, each and every type of tax or fee, and that ultimately a new income tax and any reduced tax will also be pumped up again to intolerable levels.

Earlier in the decade, voters approved a constitutional amendment abolishing the state property tax; quite likely that's the only route voters will trust on any trip to lower taxes.

Attorney General Race

In the AG race, Republicans moved towards a legal test in the Texas Supreme Court intended to define if and how state legislators who vote for higher office benefits can run for that higher office.

State Sen. Buster Brown, R-Lake Jackson, filed a state district court lawsuit to force the issue to the high court.

Meanwhile, Dallas attorney Tex Lezar, 41, announced for attorney general on the Republican slate.

Lezar, who served as assistant U.S. attorney general during the Reagan administration, said Texas should take a tough-minded approach to the crime problem by executing drug kingpins and abolishing parole.

Regulate Health Rates

The other two members of the State Board of Insurance turned a cold shoulder to Chairman Paul Wrotenbery's suggestion that the panel seek authority to regulate health insurance rates.

Wrotenbery, citing a crisis in health insurance costs, said the board should help consumers by setting targets for rates so the public would have some basis of comparison.

Board members Dick Reynolds and Jo Ann Howard, who said Wrotenbery had not discussed the issue with them, expressed doubts his idea would work.

Health insurance industry officials also expressed opposition to regulating rates.

Political Campaigns

Former state Rep. Clint Hackney announced his campaign for railroad commissioner by promising to crack down on toxic waste spills, an area where Texas leads the nation.

State Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, a candidate for attorney general, called for toughening the state's environmental protection laws with a 10-point program that includes giving the AG power to start proceedings to enforce all environmental laws.

Other Highlights

■ Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis predicted voters would defeat the triple salary increase for state lawmakers by as much as 60-40, and blamed the press for killing the proposed amendment.

■ State Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, will not seek reelection, closing a distinguished career which spanned the House and Senate. McFarland, often mentioned for statewide office, cited commitments to family and business.

College Fair

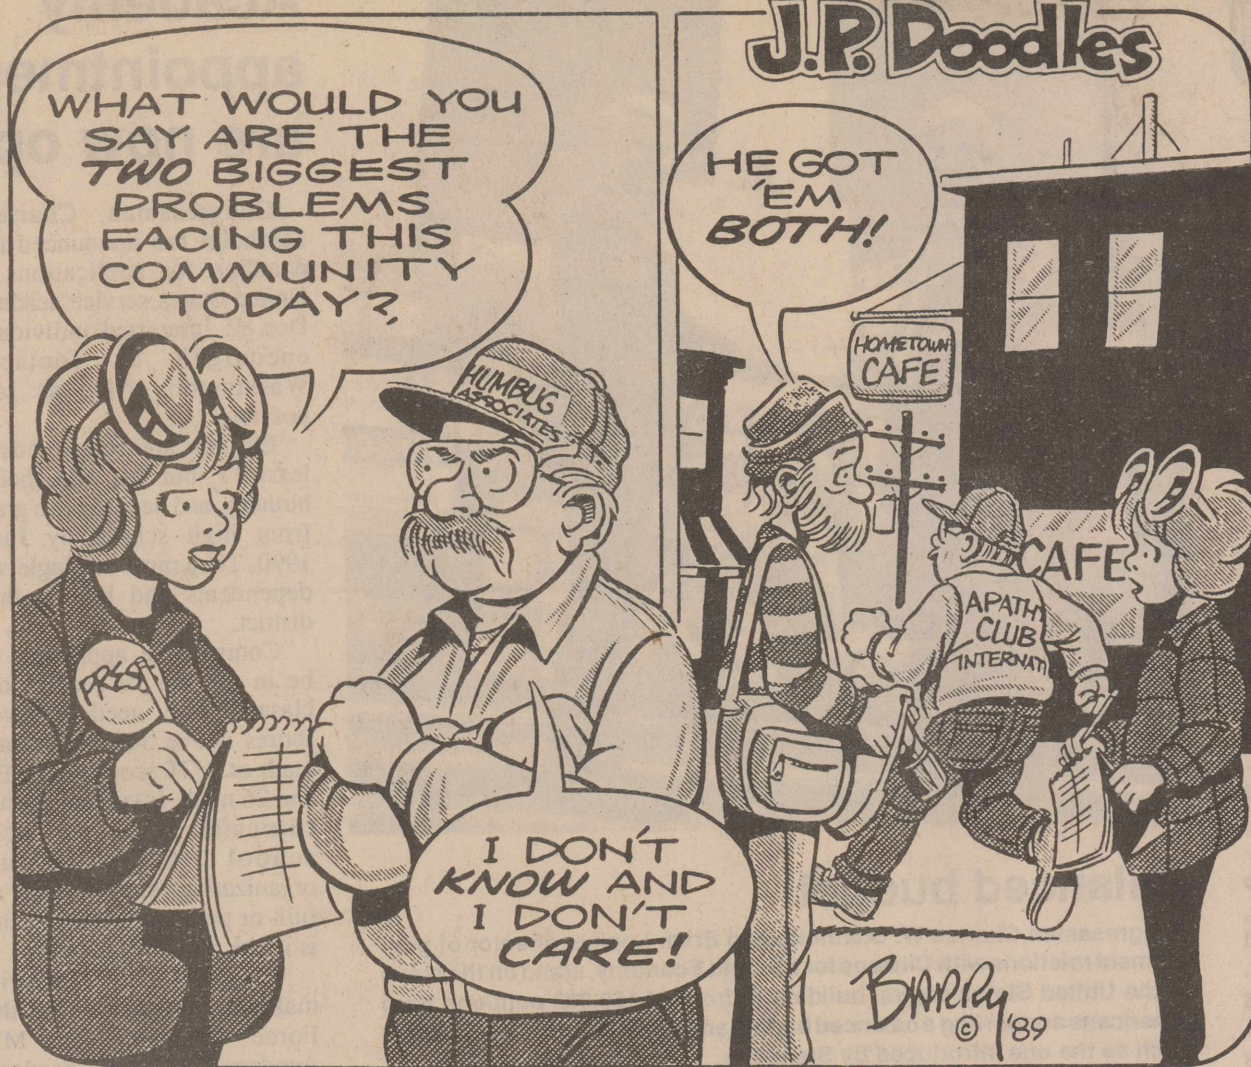

Editor: The College Fair held Oct. 31 at the Civic Center was very successful.

I would like to thank Haskell National Bank for sponsoring this excellent opportunity for area students. I would also like to thank the Haskell Student Council, National Honor Society and their sponsor, Susan Pope, for helping host the event.

The students who attended from Rule, Paint Creek, Lueders-Avoca, Rochester, Throckmorton, Benjamin, Goree and Haskell also have my appreciation.

The recruiters were highly complimentary of the students' behavior and interest. Hopefully, many students gained awareness of some of the many choices and opportunities available to them.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Federal courts in Texas are so overwhelmed with drug cases that there aren't enough judges to put all the offenders behind bars.

You can add more policemen, border patrol officials, prosecutors and jail cells, but we can't win the war against drugs if drug cases hit a logjam in the courts. To win this fight, the punishment given to drug pushers must be swift and certain. We can't allow them to prowl the streets awaiting a far-off trial date, all the while boasting to their buddies and carrying on business as usual.

Increased drug arrests have overloaded our courts and besieged federal judges. This is particularly true for the Western and Southern Districts of Texas that stretch along our border with Mexico. According to a new report, the Western and Southern Districts sentenced 23.1 percent of all defendants sentenced in the entire United States during a recent 16 month period. When you consider that there are 96 districts, the fact that these two sentenced almost 25 percent of all the defendants is astonishing. In fact, 10 percent of the nation's drug cases are on the shoulders of four judges in the Southern District.

In addition, the caseloads carried by federal judges in the Western and Southern districts are more than 50 percent higher than the national average. And while criminal filings across the nation were up only three percent this year, criminal filings were up over 40 percent in the El Paso Division of the Western District.

These startling figures led me to contact Senator Joseph Biden, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and seek additional federal judges for areas like Texas that are struggling to cope with enormous increases in drug cases. With the passage of sweeping anti-drug abuse bills in 1986 and 1988, we have substantially boosted federal enforcement activities and the number of prosecutors. However, it does little good to have more police, prosecutors and prisons without enough judges on the bench to handle the heavier caseloads.

We are taking steps to correct this situation. The Senate, with my strong urging, recently passed a measure which authorizes the creation of 20 new federal judges to be placed around the country in those districts most heavily burdened by drug-related criminal filings. I have also written to Texan Jack Brooks, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, urging him to push for quick passage of this legislation in the House. He has assured me that he'll work to enact this provision when the drug bill is considered by his committee.

While I would prefer legislation that authorizes additional federal judges specifically for Texas, to avoid any undue delay I am seeking enactment of the Senate amendment in the belief that it is the quickest way to provide needed judges for our state.

It simply makes no sense to beef up our enforcement efforts in Texas with more prosecutors and anti-drug agents if the system is going to grind to a halt when cases reach the courts. We must make sure the job is finished by providing enough judges to try drug offenders and send those convicted to jail.

Plano and Austin have been 1 fastest-growing Texas cities w more than 100,000 population increase in the 1980s.

The information comes from tl Texas Department of Commerce State Data Center (SDC).

Between 1980 and 1987, tl number of Plano residents increase by 59.3 percent, to 115,198, whil Austin grew to 508,185 for a increase of 47.1 percent. The SD estimates include population tota for the state, counties an municipalities as of July 1, 1987.

The 10 largest cities in Texa according to the 1987 populatio estimates are:

Houston (1,888,337), Dalla (1,061,850), San Antoni (989,591), Austin (508,185), E Paso (502,884), Fort Wort (472,608), Corpus Christ (256,362), Arlington (231,985), Lubbock (187,863) and Garlan (175,457).

One major change in these rankings since 1980 is that Austi has moved from sixth largest to fourth, while El Paso and For Worth have each fallen one notch to fifth and sixth, respectively.

Total state population rose from 14.2 million in 1980 to nearly 16.8 million in 1987, an increase of 18 percent. Of the 20 cities in Texas with more than 100,000 residents in 1987, 11 have grown faster than the state as a whole in the 1980s: Plano (59.3 percent), Austin (47.1), Arlington (44.9), Laredo (27.6), Garland (26.4), San Antonio (25.9), Brownsville (25.5), Irving (25.2), Fort Worth (22.7), Houston (18.4) and El Paso (18.3).

Although many of the state's largest cities have increased significantly in population, the largest percentage gains are found among the smaller cities and towns. Eleven municipalities more than doubled their populations over the seven years: (Pflugerville (318 percent), Post Oak Bend City (188), Round Rock (156), Hays (142), Heath (142), Kyle (122), Haslet (121), Corinth (120), Buda (110), Granite Shoals (106) and Lakeway (106).

Among Texas' 254 counties, Rockwall and Williamson posted the largest percentage gains over the seven years, with increases of 68.5 and 64.7, respectively. Five other counties exceeded 50 percent growth since 1980: Hood (59.2), Hays (58.7), Denton (56.1), Bastrop (53.8) and Collin (53.4).

The largest absolute county population gains, however, came in counties which are part of Texas major metropolitan areas. Harris County gained 372,867 persons from 1980 to 1987, while Dallas County added 317,234. Tarrant County (270,914), Bexar County (197,890) and Travis County (139,600) complete the top five counties in terms of numerical change.

In contrast, 81 Texas counties are estimated to have lost population in this decade.

What's all this stuff we're hearing about inadequate landfills?

It's just another one of those big problems we've only recently discovered that we have.

Americans generate nearly 160 million tons of solid waste a year--enough to fill a line of 10-ton garbage trucks stretched halfway to the moon. Each year, Americans throw away 16 billion disposable diapers, 1.6 billion pens, 2 billion razors and blades, and 220 million tires. We discard enough aluminum to rebuild the entire U.S. commercial air fleet every three months.

Each of us throws away more than three pounds of garbage a day--the highest amount in the world. And this is expected to double by the end of the century.

The share of solid waste incinerated has increased from 6 percent in 1986 to about 15 percent today. Most of these plants burn garbage to produce energy for other uses. However, construction costs and environmental concerns limit the appeal of incineration. As governments consider tightening emissions and disposal rules, costs could increase significantly.

Even if all waste were incinerated, 160 million tons per year of ash and non-combustibles (such as bricks and appliances) would still need to be landfilled.

Egg cholesterol lower than thought

If you've been avoiding eating eggs because of their cholesterol content, you can still enjoy them in moderation.

Latest research data reported from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Nutrition Composition Laboratory shows the average large egg contains 25 percent less cholesterol than previously thought.

Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, nutritionist at Texas A&M, said research indicates the average large egg contains 213 mg of cholesterol, not the 274 mg as previously thought.

Unemployment tax due to decrease

There's good news for Texas employers in 1990.

For the second year in a row, employer will see a significant reduction in their unemployment tax rates.

The Texas Employment Commission reports a record high trust fund balance this October. That could mean lower tax rates in 1990 and the possibility of a tax credit in 1991.

Prison support group in Austin

Editor's note: This article was written Tuesday morning before the finalists were named by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ) Wednesday afternoon.

After a second site visit and surviving the first cut, members of the Rolling Plains Industrial Foundation continued to be "cautiously optimistic" about the area's chances of securing a state-operated prison. A group of eight representatives were in Austin Wednesday to answer any questions the Texas Board of Criminal Justice might have about the proposal and the proposed site near Stamford.

It was expected that the current 26 proposals still being considered would be cut to 12 Wednesday afternoon. There are 13 finalists in the northern part of the state and a like number from the southern portion of the state. Indications are that six sites from each area will make the final cut.

Making the trip to Austin were Fareed Hassen, Kay Looney and Ed Ekdahl of Stamford, Ken Lane of Haskell, Tom Isbell of Anson, Dennis Lamphere and Rick Craig of Hamlin and Gregg Cooke, a Dallas attorney representing the foundation.

While no public testimony is planned, the board members who visited the proposed site Thursday, Oct. 26, have requested that members of the foundation attend the meeting to answer any questions that might arise, according to Hassen, foundation vice president.

"We are optimistic about our chances of making the list of 12," Hassen said. "But no matter what the outcome, the foundation has to thank the entire Jones and Haskell County area for their support throughout the process. This has indeed been an area-wide effort."

Representatives of the 12 finalist will be given an opportunity to make a final presentation before the full board Monday, Nov. 13. Each finalist community will be allowed 15 minutes to present support for its proposal and an equal amount of time will be allotted to opposing comments.

Persons attending the meeting, which is expected to be held in the Senate Chambers at 9 a.m., will be given the opportunity to register their attendance and indicate whether they support or oppose the siting of a prison in their community, according to information provided by the TDCJ.

The foundation has tentatively reserved two buses to carry supporters to Austin Monday in anticipation of being one of the finalists. The buses will leave at approximately 3:45 a.m. and the cost is $25 per person.

"We feel that there will be a large number of people in Austin representing their communities, and we want to have a large delegation to support our proposal if we do make the cut," Hassen said.

If the foundation's site is selected, reservations for the trip to Austin may be made by calling the chamber of commerce office in the four communities.

Sidelines

Early in the Anson game this week, the Indians' Rodney Johnson should reach an important milestone. He needs just 2 yards rushing to register a 1,000-yard season.

Through the first nine games, the Indian fullback has rushed for 998 yards in 204 carries. That's just short of 5 yards per try.

This year's Indian offense has given statisticians---and officials---big headaches.

Those short, shovel passes behind the line of scrimmage are technically forward passes, even though they often appear to be handoffs.

When one is dropped, it's an incomplete pass, though it might look like a fumbled handoff.

Once Friday night, what had first been called an Indian fumble was ruled an incomplete pass. (Adding to the confusion was that the ball was put into play from where it was recovered instead of at the original line of scrimmage.)

Later in the Hawley game, officials blew one, giving Hawley a fumble recovery on a dropped shovel pass.

state to collect fees for a planned time period, while the 9-1-1 telephone system is being installed, so that when the system is activated, all initial costs are paid," said Smith. "The collection period in this region will be 24 months, and even at that we will lack around $450,000 having enough to start operations in the black.

"That amount will be obtained throughout a state-level pool of funds collected for this purpose from a surcharge on customer bills in the state's largest counties since last July. To cover ongoing costs, the 50-cent fees will continue after the system begins operations."

Twice as many marry as divorce

There were nearly twice the number of marriages as there were divorces last year in Texas, the Texas Department of Health reports.

During 1988, there were 172,907 marriages performed and 94,409 divorces granted. The previous year, 188,315 couples married, while 95,098 divorced.

The two-to-one ratio of marriages to divorces has been nearly constant for several years.

The most numerous age group of people getting married in 1988 was 20-24 for both males and females (49,499 men and 51,548 women). Divorces were more common among 25- through 29-year-olds, where 21,423 women and 9,735 men ended their marriages.

The largest number of divorces occurred at no more than five years of marriage (35,910). Some marriages lasted less than a year before divorce (4,834).

In the very young category, 573 women and 30 males 15 or younger were married. Meanwhile, among those 65 and older, 1,804 women and 3,239 men were married. Divorces involving those 65 and older included 889 women and 1,579 men.

About half (49 percent, or 45,915) of the divorces in 1988 involved no children, while 25 percent, or 23,193, involved one child. The total number of children involved in divorces last year was 84,252.

Weinert celebrates Halloween

A wide assortment of characters roamed the halls of Weinert Elementary School on Halloween day.

Following a "costume parade," students and teachers chose these costumes for recognition:

First place: A knight in shining armor (Eric Hager, first grade).

Second place (tie): A ballerina (Angela Hager, kindergarten) and "the Joker" (Timmy Perez, fourth grade).

Third place: Pee Wee Herman (Jeremy Ruiz, kindergarten). Most creative: Zulu Warrior (Lane Murphy, second grade).

Scariest: A three-eyed monster, Bryce Hudgens, kindergarten.

Best teacher costume: A nurse (Caron Yates).

Afternoon arrived and the Halloween spirit of fun and games soared as teachers manned mini-carnival booths and talk of trick or treat began.

Students participated in a candle shoot, a peanut toss, dart throw, color/shape Bingo, pinata busting, ring toss, clown toss, horseshoes, basketball throw, football pass and gold putting.

"This Christmas, Give Her Peace of Mind"

A mammogram is the last minute gift that could last a lifetime.

Clothes. Jewelry. Perfume. You've spent so much time searching for that perfect gift for her. How about peace of mind? The peace of mind that she'll have in knowing she's taken the first step toward safeguarding herself against breast cancer. Mammography is a safe, low-dose X-ray exam that can detect breast tumors up to two full years before a physical exam. And if detected early enough, 90 percent of all breast cancers are curable.

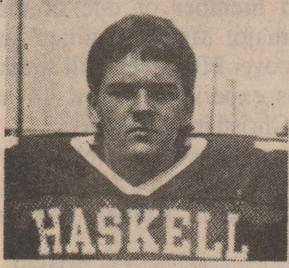

The American Cancer Society advises that women age 35-40 should receive a base line mammogram; women age 40-49 should receive a follow-up mammogram every one to two years; and women over age 50 should receive an annual mammogram.

If she's precious to you, don't ignore these recommendations. Buy her a gift she would never think of buying herself. During this busy holiday season, buying a mammogram for her has been made easy. Simply purchase a certificate which can be redeemed for a free mammogram anytime during 1990. A mammogram... for her peace of mind.

Harrold rolls over Rochester

Rochester saw its district record dip to 2-3 Friday night when the crippled Steers went down to Harrold, 66-32. The Steers are 3-6 for the year.

With their leading rusher and their starting quarterback sidelined with injuries, the Steers made a game of it for a while, holding Harrold to a 12-12 standoff in the first period.

But Harrold pulled away in the second period, leading 32-12 at halftime and then stretching that to 60-19 at the three-quarter mark.

Rochester's Michael Brown score four touchdowns on runs of 2, 47, 7 and 46 yards. The Steers' other touchdown came on a 26-yard pass from Chris Carver to Jeffrey Hollingsworth. Todd Landes ran over one extra point and caught a pass from Carver for another.

Brown ended the night with 222 yards rushing on 30 carries. Steve Andrada caught three passes for 36 yards.

Leading tackler for the Steers was Kurt Sloan with 15, while Shaver had 10. Hollingsworth had eight tackles and intercepted two passes.

Rochester will enjoy an open date this week before closing out its season at home against Guthrie Nov. 17.

'Color Day' spirit theme

This Friday's Spirit Day theme will be "Color Day."

Haskell varsity cheerleaders, sponsor of Spirit Day throughout the football season, are requesting the following colors:

Seniors, black and gold; juniors, blue; sophomores, orange; freshmen, purple; junior high, green; elementary, yellow; town and faculty, black and white.

Cheerleaders also remind fans of the pep rally for the football team at 3:30 p.m. Friday. There will be a special pinning ceremony for players and their mothers.

Too little... Too late

Indians' rally falls short at Hawley

Once momentum shifted to them, the Haskell Indians were unstoppable Friday night.

But it was too late. Despite scoring 24 unanswered points in a period of 7 minutes, the Indians were unable to overcome Hawley's huge 27-0 lead.

The result was a 27-24 loss to the Bearcats who sent the Indians reeling to their sixth straight defeat and fourth in a row against 7-2A opposition.

Hawley got a cheap touchdown before the game was three minutes old, going 10 yards for a touchdown after intercepting a Haskell pass. The Bearcats added another touchdown in the first period, going 63 yards in five plays. They made it 20-0 with a 70-yard drive started midway through the second quarter.

When the second half started, the Bearcats took over where they had left off, taking the kickoff and moving 72 yards for a score at the 8:44 mark of the third period.

But the momentum of the game suddenly switched. The Indians, who had only two first downs at this point, took over on their own 12 following the ensuing kickoff and moved to the Hawley 20 where they had a first down when a dropped shovel pass was ruled a fumble recovered by the Bearcats. Rusty Stocks had passed 15 yards to Jeremy Fuentes, 32 yards to Harper Stewart and then 15 yards to Stewart to propel the drive.

Three plays later, the Bearcats fumbled the ball back to Haskell at the Hawley 30, and this time the Indians were not to be denied. Stocks passed 13 yards to Chris Tanner and 9 yards to Fuentes before Rodney Johnson carried the ball into the end zone from 6 yards out.

The clock showed 1:36 to go in the third period when the Indians brought the score to 27-6, but there were plenty of fireworks left before the period came to a close. After Hawley failed to gain on its next series, the Bearcats punted to Stewart on the Indian 25 and he returned it to the 34. Stocks found Jonathan Dever on a 9-yard pass and then threw to Stewart for 57 yards and a touchdown. Stocks got 2 bonus points on a keeper and the Indians had narrowed the gap to 27-14 with 18 seconds to go in the quarter.

Hawley mishandled the Haskell kickoff, the ball squirting into the end zone where the Indians were awarded a safety to make it 27-16 with 10 seconds still left in the period.

When Hawley kicked off following the safety, Dever took the ball on his 25 and appeared to be ready to break into the clear when he fumbled on the Hawley 37 as he attempted to change hands.

Hawley promptly arched to the Indian 22 but lost the ball on a fumble. After Stocks was sacked back to the 20, Johnson burst open for 80 yards and a touchdown. Stocks passed to Stewart for the 2-point conversion to make it 27-24 with 6:02 to go.

The Indians had only one more possession the rest of the game, moving from their own 33 to the 46 where a fourth-down pass fell incomplete.

Statistically, Friday's game was as close as the score indicated.

Hawley had 317 yards total offense, compared to 312 for the Indians. Johnson had 136 yards rushing on 22 carries and Stocks was 12-of-25 for 174 yards in the passing department. Each team lost two fumbles, but Haskell also suffered two interceptions.

Texas tracks growth of an idea

By Lona Reeves
Information Officer
State Highway Department

The latest craze to sweep the nation is doing just that--sweeping America clean. The Adopt-a-Highway program, which originated in the Texas highway department, is being adopted nationwide.

"It's a plan we're proud to see the rest of the nation copy," said J. Don Clark, director of the department's Travel and Information Division.

A recent survey by the department discovered that 40 of the 50 states--80 percent--have or want to have Adopt-a-Highway programs.

From sea to sea and sometimes beneath it, Americans are cleaning up. Volunteers in 24 states regularly don orange safety vests and give their state's highways the spic-and-span treatment.

A dozen of these states have had up to three years of experience with concerned citizens volunteering to clean adopted stretches of highway. The survey reveals that two-thirds of the states with established programs are in the south: Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Virginia, as well as Texas. Arizona, Colorado, Missouri and Utah are the other four Adopt-a-Highway veterans.

The other 12 states with active programs launched them in the first six months of this year. Sixteen more states are developing plans for a program. Several will activate programs this year while other states plan to initiate their versions in the next two years.

Under Adopt-a-Highway programs, organizations volunteer to keep a segment of highway clean for a set time period. States vary in the number of required cleanups and the length of the adoptions, the survey found.

Most plans stipulate two miles of highway for two years with at least four scheduled pickups each year. Other states use the more flexible "clean as necessary" policy. In exchange, highway departments supply safety vests and trash bags and collect the filled bags.

Signs crediting the organization responsible for the highway cleanings are posted on each end of the segment in most states. The white-on-blue signs usually read: "Adopt-a-Highway Next 2 miles cleaned by (such and such group)."

North Carolina reports the most volunteers. "We're very pleased to have reached the 10 percent (of highway miles adopted) mark," said John Roghrock, coordinator of the program. He said the litter conscious state has 3,578 groups committed to keeping almost 8,000 miles of roadways clean.

But Texas' pioneering program continues to grow. Today, 3,320 volunteer groups work to keep 6,858 miles of Texas highways free of litter.

South Carolina also is seeing a rapid spread of the concept within its borders. In one year, 650 groups adopted 1,615 miles of roadway, proving the truth of the state's anti-litter slogan, "It adds up."

The programs in Virginia and West Virginia generate high interest as well. Between them, more than 4,000 miles are cared for by almost 1,600 groups. West Virginia, actively recruiting volunteers since January, has more than 2,300 miles adopted. The state that says "Dare to Care About Virginia" has 1,750 miles committed to volunteer groups.

Missouri reports an almost 1,000-percent increase in volunteers. Established in 1987, the Show Me State had only 26 groups starting the spring cleanup season. The program mushroomed to 2,370 groups as of July 1.

Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma are three other states with more than 1,000 miles adopted. While they love the popularity of the idea, they find it hard to keep up with the public's demand for more stretches of roadway to adopt.

New twists have improved the Adopt-a-Highway concept for some states. "We encourage individuals, businesses and garden clubs to submit their beautification project ideas to us for approval," said Barbara Petrarca of the Rhode Island Department of Transportation landscape section. The volunteers supply the dollars as well as the labor for the improvements, she explained.

For those who don't want to make long-term commitments, Minnesota promotes a one-day, one-shot deal--the "Pick-a-Highway."

Michigan has yet another angle on the program, with emphasis on law enforcement. Litter watchdogs call a toll-free number to report violations. The system is trunked through police phone lines in Detroit and Kalamazoo, and eventually it will operate statewide. A deposit on bottles makes it profitable for Michigan residents to hang on to glass beverage containers. Milk cartons are also being recycled; they are melted and used to build retaining walls and benches in state parks.

While the Adopt-a-Highway program is proving to be a popular way to keep highways beautiful and litter-free, the concept is not adaptable in some states. Safety requirements, union dissent and other obstacles must be overcome before programs can be implemented.

But where there are Adopt-a-Highway programs, there are also reduced litter figures. Texas leads the country with a reported 64 percent reduction in total roadside litter statewide since 1985.

"It seems to appeal to everyone," said Clark. "Not only is there an Adopt-a-Highway plan being established in practically every state from coast to coast and border to border, but even beyond our borders there is real interest in the program. Just next door, Canada is taking a closer look to see how the concept would work there. We've also had requests for start-up information from Europe, Australia and Brazil."

Today, America. Tomorrow, the world.

Potassium foods important in diet

While many people are aware that too much sodium can intensify high blood pressure, few may know much about its counterpart, potassium.

While sodium can increase blood pressure in some people, and indirectly contribute to heart disease or stroke, potassium can help control blood pressure and regulate heart rhythm.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Good luck to Kathryn and Bill Matysiak in their new home in Abilene. They will be missed.

Orheana Greeson went to Jacksboro on Friday to pick up her mother-in-law, Ethel Greeson, who has been there visiting her daughter Nancy Wright, her husband: Millard and daughter, Kelley for two weeks. The Wrights live in Lewisville and met Orheana halfway to bring Ethel home. Welcome home, Ethel! We all missed you while you were gone!

Cub Scout News:

The Webelo scouts of Rule took a field trip Monday afternoon to the City Hall. Elaine Holcomb was very helpful in showing the scouts how the water bills are made and paid, the council chambers, and the other various activities at City Hall. This was the final requirement for the scouts to earn their citizenship badge. The scouts attending were: Chris Boger, Brad Simpson, Kalith Trussell and Michael Murray. Leaders attending were Charlene Murray and Marsha Simpson.

On Oct. 25, the Tiger Cubs of Rule visited the Rule Memorial Museum. Mrs. June Biffle hosted the tour, which was very educational and enjoyable. Those attending were Jonathan and Celinda Allison, Jeffrey and Charlene Murray, Justin and Charlotte Coker, Wendell and Dana Buerger, Cheryl, Jeremy and Kristin Hertel.

On Nov. 1, the Tiger Cubs met in the home of John and Celinda Allison. The boys made and ate chocolate chip cookies. Tiger Cubs attending with their adult leaders were: Jonathan and Celinda Allison, Justin and Charlotte Coker, Wendell and Dana Buerger, and Jeffrey, Charlene and Jennifer Murray.

Remember if you missed Monday night's performance of "Puttin' on the Hits", then you have a chance to see this tonight (Thursday) Nov. 9 or Sat., Nov. 11. The show begins at 7 p.m. each night. The students, Bobby Robinson and residents do a fine job on these performances. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.00 for students. (You will be glad you went!)

Your writer was in Stamford both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons to take a defensive driving course: "55 Alive" sponsored by AARP. A cousin, Valeta Mullins, met me there for lunch before the course each day.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Oliver Reed, who died in the Stamford

Memorial Hospital on Tues., Oct. 31 after a brief illness.

Deepest sympathy is also sent to the family of Eddie Taylor, who died in Abilene last week.

The Parnell Andersons were supper guests on Thursday of the Kenneth Saffels and Susan.

Congratulations to the Rule Bobcats, who defeated the Lueders-Avoca Raiders in football on Fri. night by a score of 74 to 26. Rule's Keith Vanderbilt ran for six touchdowns, making runs of 60, 26 and 58 yards in the second quarter.

Also, congratulations to the Stamford Bulldogs upon their win over the Hamlin Pied Pipers by a score of 21 to 7.

Two "bugs" have been prevalent in Rule recently: an intestinal one and a sinusitis/bronchitis type of upper respiratory infection. That goes along with this time of year, it seems.

It was good to see several old friends on Fri. night at the Cliff House preceding the football game: Mildred Smith of Stamford, her sister, Martha Green of Amarillo and her friend, Herschel Hicks of Abilene; also Ann and Billy Simpson of Anson, and Reba and Bob Prichard of Stamford. At the game, we saw Tommy Gray of Stamford along with his son, Butch Gray and daughter, Angela of Hamlin and Kathryn and Jack Buske of Tuxedo with their granddaughter, Sharon Rhea, and son, Jackie and wife of Hamlin.

Some Rule citizens will be putting flags on all 168 of the veterans graves at the Rule Cemetery for Veterans Day, Nov. 11. They will be placed on the graves on Fri., Nov. 10 and remain there until Mon., Nov. 13.

Chick Norwood is still in the skilled nursing facility at Stamford Memorial Hospital and his condition remains about the same.

Ludora Neely, mother of Lou Landess, has been ill, but is some better. She was able to be out Sunday.

On Sat., Nov. 4, John Greeson, minister of the Church of Christ, took a group of students to Abilene Christian University for high school day. Those making the trip were Angela Hisey, Laurie Boger, Kenna Tanner, John and Paul Leonard, Jason Halliburton, Kyle Wilson and Rusty White.

Lola Fulbright has returned home from Ft. Worth where she has been at the bedside of her daughter who has had a serious heart attack. The daughter remains hospitalized in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Friends learned that former Rule resident, Jewel Ousley, has been dismissed from the hospital following her recent hip surgery in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Following the First Sunday Singing at the Church of Christ on Sunday, Valeta Mullins and Lucille Higgs of Hamlin, Faye Webb and Vicky Anderson of Rule met Bernadette Blankenship of Haskell at the Dairy Queen for drinks and a visit.

Visiting Dovie Anderson on the weekend were her son and his wife from Jal, New Mexico: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Anderson, and her grandson and family of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Anderson and twin sons, Elijah and Joshua. On Sat. night the group went to Abilene to eat out. Then, on Sunday they attended church, also the singing that afternoon. Chris and family stayed for church Sunday night, also.

Travis Tibbitts and son, Jerred, from Oxnard, California were weekend visitors of their parents: Dela and Bob McClain. Also visiting were Travis' daughter, Shelia Been, her husband, Mike and 11 month old son, Jeremy of Pampa. They are on their way to the east coast for a job.

This next Sunday, Nov. 12, members of the Church of Christ are having lunch at the church following services. Everyone bring enough for your family and enjoy the food and fellowship.

Reminder: West Texas Utilities Co. in Rule will hold a Christmas Open House from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thurs., Nov. 9. Lisa Hoff, Electric Living Consultant from Stamford will conduct this.

If you missed the First Sunday Singing at the Rule Church of Christ, then you missed an hour of beautiful, inspirational singing. There were people from Haskell, O'Brien, Rochester, Hamlin, Abilene and Jal, N.M. (to name a few of the towns represented).

Donna Saffel and daughters, Jana and Julie, were Sunday dinner guests of the Kenneth Saffels. Raymond Saffel was also a visitor.

Weekend guests of Nikki, Danny and Luke Kitley of Abilene Christian University of Abilene were Nikki's sister, Tori Jenkins and her friend, Stephanie Pepper of Knox City.

Wasn't the weekend weather nice, though? The farmers are certainly enjoying it as they are getting lots of cotton stripped and peanuts harvested.

The Lady Indians and coach Marlene Joy from McMurry University conducted a basketball clinic for the junior high girls this past Sat., Nov. 4. It was well-attended and most helpful, the girls reported.

Thought for the week: It's a funny thing but true the folks you don't like, don't like you. It's a funny thing but true the folks you like, they sure like you! (Author unknown).

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude for your acts of love and kindness during the illness and death of our loved one, Faye Woodson. Thank you for your prayers, visits and concern during her long illness. We especially thank the ladies of the First Baptist Church for the delicious meal and for providing a place for us to meet and rest. Our gratitude, also, to Rev. Jim Turner for the service. May God bless you all.

Mr. & Mrs. Sidney B. Woodson & Family
Mr. & Mrs. Odus Akins, Dr. & Mrs. Jack Akins
Mr. & Mrs. T. J. Watson, Mrs. Lucille Gustafson

The family of Ida Goodwin takes this means to say "Thank You" to all the friends in Haskell who were so caring during the illness and death of our beloved sister. We especially express our appreciation to Rice Springs Care Home, Haskell Memorial Hospital, Dr. McSmith, Holden-McCauley Funeral Directors, Pastor Dusty Garison of First Christian Church, Pastor J. C. Amburn and members of First Assembly of God. Also to all neighbors and friends who prepared food, gave comfort and concern, and presented lovely floral arrangements.

May God Bless Each Of You.

As evidenced by the photograph, everyone had a good time for Halloween. Nearly all the employees were dressed up and some of the residents got into the spirit by donning funny hats and various other garb.

At 6 that evening things really got going. The trick or treaters began stopping by and some of the ladies took turns passing out the treats. Everyone enjoyed sitting in the lobby and watching the scary things come through.

The day before, on the 30th, we had a house full of visitors. At 3, the First Baptist Ladies hosted the monthly birthday party and Bro. Randy entertained everyone with his guitar and wonderful music. This was followed by Sandy Sanderson and Mrs. Wayne Cadenhead bringing the fourth-grade Girl Scouts out. The girls brought some of their pets along and our residents got to spend a little time with some animals. This was especially enjoyable for many.

Finally at 7 that evening, Karen Thomson and her FHA girls came out and brought treats for all the residents.

To all you folks who gave us your time and love and talent, we thank you for caring.

Celebrating birthdays in October were Nita Jackson, 10-7-13; Ima Stewart, 2-10-8-02; George Goble, 10-11-03; Dora McCarty, 10-9-04.

Visiting with us lately have been Jay and Fern Lackey of Irving, Brad and Jean Buford, Jeff and Shawna Jones, Judy Jones of Aspermont with Mrs. Claribelle Cathey.

Jack, Leta B., David and Christopher Sellers, Dora Dixon, Beatrice Curd, Ida and Willie Farrel with Garth Garrett.

Glenda and Sandra Brothers, Karla and great grandson A. J. Rogers, Doyle Sorrells with Dick Andrews.

Missy and Justin Teague with Linnie Hickman.

John and Margaret Moeller of Kaufman, Elaine, Jimmy and Scott of Ennis, Vonnie Jones, Helen Ray of Throckmorton with Perry Force.

Charles Harvey with Mabel Witt.

In house visitors were Floyd Chenault, Archie and Lucille Prokisch of Cameron, Truett Kuenstler, Minnie Dean, Dale, Brucille and Alan Garrett.

PC club has meeting

The Paint Creek Home Extension club met Nov. 6 in the Paint Creek school cafeteria. Roll call was answered with "What I buy every time I go to the grocery store."

Minutes and treasurer's report were given by Mabel Overton and the County Council report by Ann Sinclair. Committee reports were given and plans were made and discussed regarding the Information Day on Nov. 15 at 9:30 a.m. in Wright's Restaurant in Haskell.

The club will have a cookie exchange Dec. 4 in the County Extension kitchen.

County Agent Lou Gilly gave the program entitled "Understanding Marketplace Fraud and Misrepresentations." This was very interesting and informative.

Refreshments of cream puffs, dip and chips, cheese twists and punch were served to Frances Fischer, Dolores Medford, Dorothy Wells and Ann Sinclair, and guests Lou Gilly and Bradlee Harris, by the hostesses, Lorene Harris and Mabel Overton.

'The Nutcracker' to be performed

The Abilene Ballet Theatre will present the second annual production of the traditional holiday ballet classic, "The Nutcracker," at the Paramount Theater on Saturday, Nov. 11, at 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 12, at 2:30 p.m.

The Saturday matinee has been added to the schedule of performances this year for the first time.

Sanders reunion in Gorman

Descendants of Romulus and Mary Sanders met in the Gorman Community Center at Gorman for their annual reunion with approximately 150 in attendance on Nov. 4.

Glenn and Gloria Glosson of Gorman were chairmen of activities and welcomed relatives from all over the state, with several from Michigan and New Mexico.

There were six children in the original family, and descendants from the Henry, Eddie and Andrew Sanders were the only ones present. Many live in other sites and are getting too elderly to travel.

Those from Weinert in attendance include Eddie and Mymie Sanders, R. S. and Betty Sanders, Bertie Sanders Alexander and Myrtle and Marvin Plemister with Greg.

The reunion will be held the first Saturday in November next year at the same location with Gary Johnson, great-grandson of Henry Sanders, as president of the reunion.

Stamford florist to give program at Brazos Art Club

Peggy Ekdahl, an experienced florist from Stamford, will conduct the Brazos West Art Club program at 7 p.m. Nov. 13 in the Haskell National Bank building.

Peggy, a multi-talented individual, is proficient in floral arrangements, does weddings, school corsages, ceramics, sign-making and decorative wooden necklaces.

Her demonstration will include ideas concerning a single arrangement that will make the transition from fall through the Christmas holidays.

Hostesses will be Mary E. McCollum, Betty Hook and Pauline Norman.

Brazos West members invite all interested persons to attend.

In Scotland, it was once believed that if Feb. 12-14 were stormy, there would be good weather the rest of the year.

Education

Society hears Brownfield speaker

Beta Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met Nov. 5 in the Munday elementary cafeteria with Munday and Goree members as hostesses. The tables were attractively decorated with small pumpkins and other autumn signs.

President Jackye Leonard called the meeting to order. Second vice-president Jo Cox presented yearbooks. Susan Pope, music chairman, led the members in the Delta Kappa Gamma song. After Alice Jones read the minutes of the October meeting, which were approved, the president announced that membership recommendations must be presented at the next meeting Dec. 3 in Knox City. Margaret Chafin passed out membership cards.

Dorothy Myers presented a Beta Chi incentive motivation scholarship for $50 to Alice Jones, who exhibited professional growth by completing six hours of computer literature at Texas Tech University recently. Mrs. Myers then encouraged others to do the same. She also informed the members that at a recent Knox County Retired Teachers group meeting in Wichita Falls Bill Hudson, state board member, had urged that Proposition 12 be opposed since money from the permanent school fund should not be used for paying debts.

Janice Dutton presented the Red Rose Salute in the form of a framed certificate to Joe Cox for assuming the responsibility of doing the year books and for opening her beautiful home for the initiation ceremony and memorial service for Iva Palmer in April.

Becky Radliff was introduced as a new member. She is a transfer from Mu Chapter, Abilene.

Jo Cox introduced Mrs. Carmen Camp, area XII coordinator from Brownfield, who poked on "Responding to the public's expectations." She presented a paper which showed a number of education trends. Early emphasis was on Latin and geometry with nothing for arts and exploration.

World War II period emphasized vocational training, health and scientific skills. With Sputnik, academic development was strong on math and science with almost nothing for the ordinary student.

The 60s and 70s shifted to the poverty-stricken and disadvantaged child, the bilingual child, especially Hispanic and Asian, the handicapped and even women.

The attention in the 80s included non-rich and non-povety groups and upgrading teachers' salaries. She also mentioned social factors, such as corruption among officials and media bias, which have nothing to do with education. Mrs. Camp asked for opinions from the members and the conclusions were that there is too much apathy by parents and students, no concern for others, children who come unprepared for learning, and high school students who won't read and other who can read words but lack comprehension.

She concluded by reading from Andy Rooney's "Kids Do Flunk." "Schools are ailing. We spend more dollars and get fewer educated people. Colleges look good because the dropouts are not there," Mrs. Camp said.

Mrs. Camp was presented a gift from the chapter.

The hostesses served a variety of pies and hot punch.

--Weinert--

by Myrtle Pheister
 Birthday balloons will fly this week for Mark Stewart, and David Earle. Happy birthday, boys!

Celebrating a wedding anniversary will be Lester and Kathi Hutchinson, and their son, Wayne and Cherie Hutchinson. Congratulations from us all!

Recent visitors to Weinert were Judy and R. W. Anderson, with Melissa and Valerie of Wylie, who spent the weekend with Judy's mother, Mildred Offutt.

Kelly and Wayne Hutchinson of San Angelo were here to visit with her parents, Johnny and Marilyn Earp.

Becky Bennett, with Marcus Pheister, of Merkel, brought Greg Pheister home to Weinert, and spent the weekend with him.

Marcus is enrolled at TSTI in Sweetwater, where his mother, Becky Bennett, is a counselor for the Pri-Con students in the same school.

Callie Mach of Dallas, and Jessie Roberts of Champagne, Ill. were recent visitors in the home of their nephew, Lester Hutchinson and family.

Other visitors in the Hutchinson home were his sisters, Jean Curd of Arlington, and Christene Meers of Munday and an aunt, Grace Smith of Munday.

Shirley and Wayne Offutt of Wichita Falls visited in the home of their parents, Eddie and Myrtle Sanders and Mildred Offutt, taking advantage of a weekend when Wayne was not on call for the General Telephone Co.

Cindy Parrott, who also had a free weekend from her nursing duties, came from Wichita Falls with Justin and Rance for a visit with her parents, Jerry and Doris Walker and Barry, and also with sister Deena and Ricky Hacker with Jordan.

Raymon and Janie Boykin of Vernon came to Weinert to help his mother, Helen Boykin, "winterize" her home.

They were in Haskell for a brief visit in the home of an aunt, Edith and Richard Davis.

Their daughter, Shelby was in attendance at the senior day activities at ACU in Abilene.

Jimmie Young of Holiday, Jackie Frantz of Dallas and Bill

Jetton of Brownwood spent the weekend in town to be with their mother, Faye Jetton, on her birthday, and attended worship services with their parents at the Haskell Church of Christ on Sunday.

Wanda Hester accompanied her parents, Hugh and Bea Miller, to Breckenridge on Sat. to visit in the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Miller and to help celebrate the birthday of young Emily Miller, their daughter.

Those from Weinert who attended the Delta Kappa Gamma meeting held in Munday on Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Mabel Derr and Mrs. Erma Liles.

Chet and Jeanie Forehand were in Abilene with Chet's mother, Maye Forehand who was in Hendricks hospital for a chemotherapy treatment.

Maye seems to be doing well, and faces only one more treatment. Our prayers are for a complete recovery for her.

Erma Liles was in attendance at the state convention of Baptist churches held in Lubbock Monday through Wednesday. She was accompanied by Paris and Fannie Barton.

Donnie and Shelia Harbers, pastor of First Baptist Church, were also present at the convention.

We extend congratulations to the Mogul Band for their win at the concert held in Wichita Falls on Saturday.

They will compete at the state meet to be held on the campus of the University of Texas at Austin on Nov. 13. Rodney Bennett is band director.

The Weinert 4-H club met at the school house on Wed. for an organizational meeting, and election of officers with thirteen members present.

Mary Murphy and Alice Yates serve as adult leaders, and Mrs. Murphy directed the group in the first session of the photography project the club will be starting.

Next meeting will be the first Wed. in December.

The First Baptist Church will host the World Missions Conference Nov. 12-15 with several missionaries on hand to take part in the discussions.

The conference begins at 11 a.m. on Sun. with services each night at 7 p.m. Members and friends are encouraged to attend.

Have a nice day!

Farm Bureau calls for probe of commissioner

The Texas Farm Bureau has asked for a thorough investigation of alleged misuse of producer funds by Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Hightower and his top officials following publication of a copyrighted news story in the Oct. 31 Dallas Morning News.

The story states that the commissioner and his top deputy have billed thousands of dollars in travel and meals to a state-federal crop inspection program, including many credit card charges that appear to be questionable.
