Construction begins on new school building

By Wendell Faught Construction is expected to begin this week on a new freestanding, single-story, 8,946square-foot classroom building just west of the elementary school

The School Board has awarded a $324,780 construction contract to Benton Construction Co. of Abilene, the lowest of seven bidders on the project. Completion is targeted for June 30.

Cost of the building will be made from surplus school funds and will not require a bond issue or a tax increase, Superintendent Bill Stewart said.

The building will contain five classrooms, a computer lab and a library. There also will be a work room for teachers and four restrooms. A covered walkway will connect the building to the other elementary buildings.

Two movable partitions will allow the school to convert four of the classrooms into two larger rooms when the need arises.

Stewart said the project should give space for growth and expanded programs for the next 10 years.

The classrooms will alleviate crowded conditions at the elementary school which have forced to school to obtain a waiver on class size. The computer lab will enable the school to keep pace with increasing mandates for technical instruction. And the library will comply with recommendations of an accrediation team to expand facilities.

Further explaining the need for the new facilities, Stewart pointed to increasing enrollment in the Haskell school system. He said enrollment increased by 20 students this year and by 40 the year before, most of it in the elementary school. Indications are that increases will continue.

The building will be 71 by 126 feet. Walls will be of precast concrete and the roofing will be of

The contract price falls within the School Board's estimated cost of $300,000 to $350,000. For this reason, the school rejected a low bid of $267,000 for a lesser project.

The building will be ready for use when the 1991-92 school term begins in September.

Indians defeated in playoff game

Hasakell's basketball season came to an end in Abilene Tuesday night when the Indians lost, 46-30, to the Winters Blizzards in a playoff game to determine the first-half winner of the district 7-2A championship.

Haskell and Winters had tied for the first-half title and Tuesday's game was to decide which of the two teams would meet second-half winner Hawley this Friday to determine first- and second-place district winners.

The Indians, who had beaten Winters twice during the district season were outscored in every quarter in the low-scoring contest. Winters led 9-6 at the end of the first quarter and 20-16 at halftime. The Indians stayed within striking distance in the third period, trailing 28-21 at the three-quarter mark, but Winters wrapped up the victory with an 18-9 fourth-period run.

Rusty Stocks, the Indians' leading scorer, was held to 10

Winters will play Hawley Friday night in Clyde to determine the district champion.

The Indians closed out the second half of the 7-2A season Friday night with a 67-55 win over Albany. The victory gave them a 6-1 mark and second place in the second half.

Chris Tanner was the leading scorer in the Albany game, getting 22 points. Stocks had 16, Todd Vaughn got 12 and Chad Gibson scored 10.

The Haskell Maidens ended their season Friday with a 51-49 upset of Albany, the first-half district champion.

Shelia Unger scored 20 points, while Amanda Diaz and Shanna McKenzie each scored 10.

Julie Roewe makes mark at UT-Arlington

By George Watson

Most kids who have played youth-league basketball have heroes or heroines they look up to and hope to play college ball someday. But most of those kids never make it past high school athletics because they either aren't talented enough or just don't have the desire.

But one person who has achieved her dream is Julie Roewe. As a kid in youth league basketball, Roewe said she always wanted to play Division I basketball. Now, she is leading the UT-Arlington Lady Maverick basketball team that is competing for the Southland Conference championship.

"It has always been a goal for me to play in Division I," Roewe said. "In high school I focused on

After a stellar career as a Haskell High School Maiden, Julie found herself being recruited by many area schools. Unfortunately, none of them were from from Division I schools. So Roewe realized she would have to go the junior college

"No Division I schools recruited me, only junior colleges and Division II schools," Roewe said.

"I knew I would have to play junior college and then move up.

Since she didn't want to spend four years at a Division II school, Roewe opted for Western Texas College where she made an immediate impact.

In 1989, Roewe was a starting guard on the school's national tournament team that finished seventh in the nation. She was also named all-conference, Outstanding Academic Athlete and Outstanding Female Student of the Year.

"I feel like we had a winning team in high school, but the national team was such a higher level (of play)," Roewe said. "It was an awesome experience."

But junior college play only lasts two years, and then many of the athletes find their careers are over. But thanks to an opposing team's coach, Roewe's career continues.

While at WTC, Roewe met then New Mexico Junior College coach Jerry Isler. After the 1988-89 season, Isler was hired as the new coach at UTA, and he knew one player he wanted with him---Julie

"Roewe is one of those people who is fun to coach," Isler said. 'You don't have to wonder if she will show up to play that night. She's a hard worker and gets the most out of her abilities."

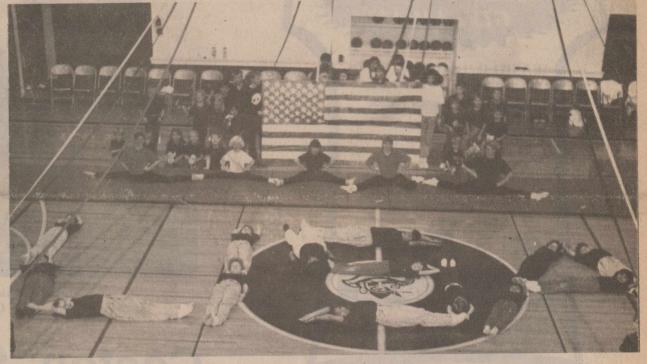

Those abilities led to Roewe starting in 16 of the Lady Mavs' 28 games last year, and this year she has become a permanent fixture in the starting lineup. Her abilities also earned her a choice as a 1991 preseason, second team allconference pick for UTA.

"She has a good attitude and a calming effect on the team," Isler said. "She solidifies the team. I'm very proud of her."

But not only has the level of play changed for Roewe, so has her style. At Haskell, everyone saw her post-up on the inside for short jumpers. But in college, she has been moved to guard and has greatly improved her outside game.

"The competition is on a much higher level in Division I than in junior college," Roewe said. "I really feel I have improved a lot (since high school) and especially over the past few years." That improvement has led to consistency, which Isler and Roewe Continued on page 3

Patriotism

Demonstrating their patriotic support for their country, students from Paint Creek perform a patriotic tumbling exhibition at halftime of the Paint Creek-Rule boys' basketball game. Participants included all elementary students at Paint Creek, as well as some advanced level tumblers from Haskell and Rule. The American flag, 35 feet of red, white and blue streamers and students spelling out "USA" with their bodies all contributed to the inspirational performance.

All families joining in the month of February will be listed as charter members.

Karen Lehrmann of Sagerton was elected president of the Rolling Plains chapter. Steve McGuire of Haskell is vice president, Lanell Trussell of Rule is secretarytreasurer and Brian Burgess of Haskell is information liason.

The president and vice president of the new chapter, along with several other members, will travel to Austin to meet with State Reps. John Cook and David Counts and State Sen. New restaurant open for business Newest business in Haskell is Jack's Place, a restaurant located at 550 S. 2nd St.

The restaurant opened for business on Monday of last week. It is open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday (closed on Sunday).

But above everything she does on the court, Roewe still has to find time for school, which is the real reason she is at UTA. She says it is hard to find time to study, but she makes use of all the time she

"It's real hard because of the shortage of quality time to study," Roewe said. "You have to be mature enough to schedule your time wisely with everything that goes on."

After graduating, Roewe plans a career in exercise and sports medicine. Although she won't be on the court, she may be on the sidelines taking care of the Lady Mavericks. For Roewe, it's something to shoot for.

Beauchamp pilots ethics at ag office

There are more employees at the Texas Department of Agriculture than there are in Larry Beauchamp's hometown of Rochester.

That is no deterrent to the 52year-old law enforcment veteran, however, as he works to steer those employees on an ethical path.

"I come from a small town where everyone knows everybody else," he says. "I intend to know every one of the 600-plus employees at the Texas Department of Agriculture in a short time, and for them to know me. It is my hope they will feel comfortable in calling me with questions regarding appropriate conduct, so we can make TDA the yardstick by which all other state agencies are Beauchamp, whose title is special assistant to Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry for ethical affairs, has been charged by Perry with ensuring the integrity of the entire agency. He not only will provide employees the information they need to do their jobs well and with no hint of impropriety, but Beauchamp also will develop safety programs and other measures to enhance the department's operation.

For the past three and a half years he has served as a captain in the Travis County District Attorney's Public Integrity Unit. He also spent five years as the chief of police at the State Capitol in Austin.

"For the first time at TDA, a single point of contact exists for employees who may have concerns about conflict of interest or other similar issues," Perry said. "With Larry's help, there will be no gray areas for our employees to work in. They can pick up the phone, call Larry and discuss with him their reservations or questions."

Making ethics a cornerstone of his campaign for the office, Perry vowed to devote himself to enhancing the agency's

"These were unfortunate circumstances," Beauchamp said, "but they won't be repeated in this new Texas Department of Agriculture. We are here to advise employees and guide them in the right direction.'

TDA's reputation has suffered, Perry said, which makes it all the more crucial that Beauchamp and his assistants, James Newton and James Baker, become well known among the entire TDA staff.

"The magic of this country, with the absence of class barrier, offers to each a good education, and this is the key to succeeding in anything you do," Dr. Spencer said. "This is the first thing I tell my students of medicine at the beginning of class."

He claims "the enthusiasm of a Boy Scout" for education.

"The remarkable thing is that this country settled and built tworoom school houses about every five miles," said Dr. Spencer. "The children didn't have to walk more than five miles to school. We had basic reading, math, history and writing. We drilled intensely, no frills, and had strong principles. The teachers were very committed.

"My dad bought me a pony to ride to school. I rode bareback because saddles were dangerous if you fell off. I have many memories of the patience of my pony and of my getting back on. In life you must keep getting back on.

"In later years, I've met people who began their education different from my country beginnings. I've always been quite impressed with my basic education."

Dr. Spencer, the renowned heart surgeon and chairman of the Department of Surgery, NYU Medical Center of New York, was here this past week to atend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Lillian

CHILDREN'S BOOKS:

Ira Sleeps Over, written and illustrated by Bernard Waber:

"How will you feel sleeping without your teddy bear the first time?" Ira's sister asked. He could handle that, Ira thought.

Bernard Waber is widely praised for his ability to describe common family problems. He is best loved by children for his free flowing humor and gentle characters.

This delightful story is told with full water color illustrations.

Sara, Plain and Tall by Patricia

Sara came for a month's visit to Caleb and Anna's prairie home as their father's mail-order bride. Sara loved the sea. Would she learn to love them as much?

This is a tender story and the essence of children's thoughts and dreams, and shows perceptive depictions of familial problems and loyalties.

Where the Red Fern Grows by Wilson Rawls:

Billy wanted coon dogs more than anything in life. Finally after he worked and saved, the time came to claim his dogs.

"I lay where I was. He started toward me.. I closed my eyes. I felt a hand as big as an anvil clamp on my shoulder. I thought, "He's going to stand me up, and knock me down."

"Where did you get them?" the big marshal asked.

This book brings from you laughter, tears, and a deeper understanding of a boy and his dogs. A must for all ages.

Mary Kaigler: From the Inside Out

To paraphrase an ancient sage's reflection on the nature of humankind, "Every man has his

The salesman, filling the candy and peanut vending machines in the recreation room of a Permian Basin care home that day, saw this old adage to be a true assessment.

"Mr. Wilson, don't you want to play bingo today?", the game director cajoled one of the residents. "Naw! I don't want to play," he growled, dourly watching the others leaning on canes and wheeling chairs; gathering around the table.

With a smile and unwavering enthusiasm she again tried to coax him to join in the group's activities. "It's fun, Mr. Wilson. We don't want to leave you out of "Silly game," he said, scowling. "Go on and play it, you dummies." Muttering "You make me sick, just like a bunch of kids, wasting time," the well-dressed, garrulous old man, in whose veins the milk of human kindness had long since soured, locked his chair wheels into position, with his back turned, a few feet away from the table.

Ignoring his disparaging comments, the others finally got settled down around the game table, ready and eager to play.

Spinning the clicking hopper, the director began to call out each number as the little plastic ball fell into place. "Number 6 under G," she said loudly, to accommodate the hearing aids. "Number 8 under B."

Every number she called was immediately repeated by Mr. Wilson in a loud, sarcastic imitation of her voice. Trying to ignore the disruption she continued to call out the numbers. After every two or three numbers he yelled out "Bingo," provoking a commotion and causing the game to stop while they all tried to sort it out.

This crabbed kibitzing by Mr. Wilson began to irritate the players. With the undisguised candor seen in young childen and old folks, they responded to it. "Wilson, you muleheaded old goat, shut up," one of the men said gruffly. A delicate, little woman with the sweet face of an angel, and voice to match, told him, "Go back to your room, you old sourpuss, we're trying to play a game here."

Snorting derisively at this comment, Mr. Wilson kept on going with the game he, himself, was playing---being a meddling nuisance---obviously enjoying the

With a bad situation getting worse, the game director paused and made one more attempt to persuade Mr. Wilson to join in the game with the others. "No way," he said. "Why should I play this stupid game?" Desperate to give him a good reason, she answered, "You might win a banana!"

Suddenly, the price was right.
"Well, okay," he said meekly. "I think I will play. Without any further words from him or the others he took a place at the table.

While he was closing the vending machine, gathering up the empty boxes, the salesman saw that Mr. H. Howard Wilson III, retired commodities broker and trader on the stock exchange, in a complete reversal of attitude and purpose, had swallowed his pride and joined the

EMS observing child safety week

Haskell County Emergency Medical Service is joining the Texas Department of Health in observing Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week this week (Feb. 10-16). The theme is "Buckle Up

Pamphlets promoting child passenger safety are being distributed in the elementary school and in day care centers in Haskell.

Local EMS personnel point out that more than 700 Texas children died in 1989 of injuries which could have been prevented. On the other side of the coin, 28,000 injuries and about 200 deaths of children 4 and younger were prevented by use of child safety seats.

"Trauma is still the No. 1 killer of children," said Johnny Campbell of the Haskell County EMS. "Children are most vulnerable to trauma when they ride in motor vehicles. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that child safety seats are 71 percent effective in preventing fatalities."

Texas law requires childen under 2 to ride in a safety seat; from age 2 to 4, children may ride in a safety seat or be buckled by a safety belt. Everyone in the front seat, regardless of age, must ride buckled

Notes From The Rolling Plains

Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer

During the course of some form of outdoor activity, many residents in the rolling plains have found entire pieces or parts of flint projectile points. Most people refer to them as arrowheads, spearpoints, etc. As a boy and living on a ranch along the Brazos I had a passion for these artifacts and spent a great deal of time, while on horseback, just looking for the telltale sign of an old campsite where a point or two might be found. As with many people I entertained the idea that most of these artifacts were shot by the famed Kiowa and Comanche

Indians during their forays against the intruding white men during the mid to late 1800s. However, the fact is that many of these points are extremely old, some dating back as far as 10,000 years or to the paleo Indian period. I never had the fortune of finding one of these paleo points but I have many that date back 5,000 years or so. Also, unless many of the artifacts are small, labeled bird points by some, they were not arrowheads at all. Attached to short sticks these weapons were hurled by a hand held aparatus called an Atlatlo. And as far as the Comanche and Kiowa stories go, almost all of the white settlements, whether arrows or lance, were made of metal. Some were trade points brought into the plains by the Comancheros from New Mexico and some were pounded from the metal of old wagon wheels. So whenever you are walking along a water course or along the edge of an escarpement and see the unmistakable glint of a serrated projectile point, just realize that your find is probably not Comanche at all but instead the artwork of a tribe that hunted the plains long before the whirlwind Comanche and Kiowa came onto the scene.

Not a century or two has elapsed since its loss by some unknown hunter but instead many thousands of years have passed since it last touched the hands of mankind.

The entire membership of the Paint Creek Boy Scout Troop 148 was seated as delegates on the floor of the Texas House of Representatives to present the Chisholm Trail Council's Report to the State last weekend.

The five-boy troop, along with one Scout from Troop 142 in Sweetwater, departed from the Scout office in Abilene Friday to attend the event which annually marks the end of Scout Week and whose purpose is to inform the State of Texas on the growth and condition of the scouting movement in Texas.

On Saturday morning, the Scouts assembled at the Crest Hotel on First and Congress where they were treated to breakfast and a speech from General Daniel, a former Scout and the present commander of the largest free world armor unit, the 49th Armored

Scouts of what scouting has meant to him in his life and urged the Scouts to use the principles scouting teaches to carry them through the tough times in their

After the general's remarks, the approximately 2,000 assembled Scouts formed on Congress Avenue and marched to the State Capitol building where after avoiding protesters to the conflict in the Middle East who were camping on the steps of the Capitol Building, each delegation met with the Governor of Texas and had their picture taken with her.

During their private business with the Governor, she explained that she remembered Haskell and the ice cream supper she had attended there. When she was thanked for being in attendance rather than delegating the honor to other dignitaries as has been done in General Daniel informed the the past, she remarked to the Scouts that this policy had been retired and that she wanted all to know that the present Governor was in the capitol and personally in charge.

From the Governor's reception room, the Scouts were led to the floor of the House of Representatives and seated at the State Representatives' desks. Officially selected delegates from each Council reported from a podium placed in front of and facing the Governor concerning the progress of each individual Council.

Marcus Overton of Troop 148 reported for the Chisholm Trail Council and told the governor that the council, comprising a nine and a half county area, has been in existence since 1922 and is continuing to promote character building, citizenship training, selfreliance, outdoor adventure, patriotism and respect for others. He continued by stating that changes are occurring in society with more frequency than in the past, but scouting's mission to serve others by helping to instill values never changes.

After hearing reports from the 24 Councils, the Governor responded by welcoming the Scouts to their Capitol, congratulated them for their interest in scouting, and spoke to them as a former Scout's mother and the Governor of their state.

She stated that she was living proof that with definite goals, dedication and hard work, anything could be achieved, including becoming Governor of the state. The Governor's address seemed to relate to all present, was warmly received, and recognized by a standing ovation at its completion.

After the Governor was escorted from the House, the Scouts were dismissed and met by former Concil Eagle Scouts now living in Austin who escorted the Scouts to the Texas Memorial Museum where they were treated to an exhibit of Saudi Arabia, along with the permanent exhibits, including American Indians, Peruvian culture, dinosaur displays, rocks and minerals and a beautiful collection of guns and other weaponry. From there, the guides brought the Scouts to Discovery Hall for an on-hands science exhibit.

The Scouts expressed their thanks to Roger Basquette, Shawn Harper and David Roberts for taking time to spend with them Saturday.

Scouts attending the report to the State included Hans Overton, Marcus Overton, Casey Thompson, Jim Crawford and Cody Ender of Troop 148 and Cody Jolly of Troop 142 in Sweetwater.

Adults attending were Wallar Overton, scoutmaster, and Jerry Morgan, chairman of the Troop Committee and scouting coordinator of Troop 148.

The troop is sponsored by the Paint Creek ISD.

Acreage reduction signup begins soon

The 1991 Acreage Reduction Program signup will be March 4 through April 26, and the 10th Conservation Reserve Program signup will be March 4 through March 15.

Haskell County farmers were reminded of these dates this week by Glenn Brzozowski, chief executive officer of the Haskell County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Under the new CRP program provisions, bids on eligible land will be accepted based on environmental benefits obtained per dollar of cost to USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation," Brzozowski said.

He cautioned producers that they should not rely on bid amounts which have been accepted in previous years when asking their bids. "In past signups, there was a high expectation that a producer could rely on no change occurring with respect to the bid amounts which would be accepted," he said. "Producers who wish to enroll in the CRP sould be aware there is increased competition."

Land eligiblity requirements will be expanded from past signups to include not only highly erodible land, but also other cropland acres that reduce the impairment of water quality or improve wellhead protection. Wellheads are sources of water for municipalities.

To increase water quality benefits under CRP, producers offering areas such as filterstrips, sod waterways, shelterbelts and contour grass strips will receive additional consideration during the bid evaluation process.

CRP bids will be accepted only for contracts beginning in 1991 and bid acceptance determinations will be made after a nationwide review and evaluation. Selection will be based on the environmental benefits received from placing the land in the CRP when compared to dollars

Brzozowski said producers will be permitted to enter the same acreage simultaneously into the annual commodity programs and the CRP, and to withdraw from the commodity programs without penalty if their CRP bid is accepted.

USDA needs 30 days to evaluate and accept a bid but acceptance is not binding on either the producer or USDA until the contract is Fifty-percent cost-share assistance will continue to be available to establish needed permanent vegetative cover, including trees, on the accepted acres. Annual rental payments for 10 years also will be paid to CRP participants, based upon their bid, except in some limited cases where a longer period may apply.

Brzozowski said further details will be made available to producers in the near future through his Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to introduce new optional services, Personalized RingsM and ComCallSM, beginning March 18, 1991.*

Public Notice

Personalized RingsM is an optional service that provides single-line customers the ability to manage incoming calls by allowing up to three directory numbers to share the same line. One of the numbers is called the "master" number; the others are called the "dependent" numbers. A regular ring is provided for the master number and unique distinctive rings are provided for up to two dependents.

ComCall[™] is an optional service that provides single-line customers the ability to set up internal intercom communications among multiple telephone extensions. A distinctive ring is heard to alert all extension users of an intercom call. Customers must subscribe to the optional service Three-way Calling for ComCallsM to function. (The monthly rate for Three-way Calling is $2.10 for residence customers and $2.65 for business customers.)

Personalized RingsM and ComCallsM are intended for use by both residence and business customers. Personalized RingsM is expected to generate first-year revenues of $1.8 million. ComCall^{sм} projects first-year revenues of $53,000.

Proposed Monthly Rates

	Residence	Busines
* * * Personalized Ring sM
First dependent number	4.00	6.00
Second dependent number	2.00	2.00
* * * ComCall sM	2.00	2.50

Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the commission by March 7, 1991. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

*These services may not be available in all areas. * *These rates are in addition to the rates for basic local exchange service. Some telephone equipment may not be compatible with Personalized Rings for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement." The form is self-addressed and is easy to complete. You should receive your "Personal Earnings and Benefits Estimate

KEEP AN EYE ON YOUR

SOCIAL SECURITY ACCOUNT

Your social security account is like a savings account. Deposits made but not properly registered are no better than those not made in the first place. Errors can happen for a number of reasons including a change in marital status or a name change. Because the amount of your benefits depends upon how much has been deposited, you should periodically at its toll-free number (800-234-5772) and ask for Form 7004, "Request

It's simple to do. Just call the Social Security Administration (SSA)

Statement" (PEBES) within six weeks after returning the completed request form. The PEBES will set out your entire earnings history and will show how much has been contributed to your account. Review the PEBES carefully for accuracy. Check especially to ensure that you have no zeros entered for years in which you have worked. Also look for other inaccuracies that reduce your account balance.

If you find a mistake in your account, call SSA at the toll-free number given on the PEBES itself. SSA will require acceptable documentation to correct the mistake, so you should have copies of W-2s, tax returns, or check stubs. A recent law change requires SSA to correct your account as far back as you can demonstrate a mistake has been made not just those mistakes made within the last three years.

The PEBES also provides useful estimates of how much your benefits will be upon your retirement. Even if you're a long way from retirement, review your account now while you're more likely to have the necessary papers to document any mistakes in your balance. The sooner you check, the better.

It was nice to see long-time acquaintances, Loretta Bowers and Jewell Huffaker at Dairy Queen in Stamford on Friday.

Happy birthday wishes go to Mildred Smith of Stamford, Milton Crow of Hamlin, Kevin Saffel of Minot, N.D.; Ethel Greeson, Delanie Camp and Ruth Moore, all of Rule.

These nice sunshiny days are great, are they not? This dry weather is certainly helpful to area farmers as they gather their remaining cotton crops.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the family of infant Justin Holmes of Houston, and to grandmother, Jeanne Burleson of Rule. Also, to the family of M. A. "Shorty Wills" of Stamford.

Congratulations to the Math and Science teams of Rule school, who traveled to Stamford on Jan. 26 for a practice UIL meet. The Junior High calculator team consisting of Allison Pike, Denise Wilson, Cory Robinson, Kacy Baitz, Justin Sanders, Michael and Stephanie Stegemoeller placed first in the team competition. The same team placed 1st in math, 2nd in number sense and 2nd in science.

Get well wishes are sent to Henry Peterson of Ericksdahl. Tell to go fishing in the boat you won?

Mrs. Anderson was in Lubbock this past Wednesday and Thursday for a doctor's appointment. Wednesday night was spent with former Rochester resident, Ann Tibbets. Ann is an X-ray technician in a Lubbock hospital. That night they dined at Red Lobster. That afternoon they saw Mel Gibson in "Hamlet". As your writer was loading her car to come home on Thursday, suddenly my feet missed a step on the stairs, causing a fall of several feet.

Upon seeing Dr. Mark Probst, former Stamford doctor, X-rays showed no broken bones. It was nice seeing Dr. Probst and his wife, Robie, and meeting Mary and Kim, who work with them.

Sympathy is also sent to the families of Kyra Carson and Shorty Wills of Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs.Morris James of Richardson this Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Townsend, Anna Lee Cook and Faye Kincaid.

M. L. Cook is hospitalized in the Haskell hospital. Get well wishes are sent to him.

We learned from the Rule Reminder of the critical illness of former Rule resident, Novis Ousley of Las Vegas, Nevada. Our prayers and get well wishes are sent to him District of the Pierian Club, who was honored recently with a "This Is Your Life" (in Federation), skit. Louise is a fine lady.

The small Kittley children have recently been visited by chicken pox, also, their cousins: Luke, Jonathon and Christopher Kittley of Abilene.

Lawrence and Daisy Camp have

The sunshiny days are certainly a welcome change, are they not?

Word was received this past Monday by your writer of the death of her great-aunt Minnie Vanderberg, age 102, of Austin. Burial was in Terral, Okla. next to her husband, Jody Vanderberg. Mrs. Vanderberg was born in Kentucky and came to Texas as a baby.

Butch and Sue Hertel have been in Lubbock where Butch has undergone tests at Methodist Hospital. Good luck on the outcome, Butch.

Practice on their One Act Play has begun by Rule students. It is entitled: "The Secret Ways of Mildred Wild". More information will be found elsewhere in the paper.

It was good to see the following people out on Sunday: Audrey Westmoreland, Jason Halliburton, Lola Sharp and Lawrence and Daisy Camp.

Sorry to read that Faye Dunnam is hospitalized in Haskell Memorial Hospital. Hope that she will be home by this time, and that she is on the road to recovery.

Stamford Memorial Hospital will not be the same since RN Bobbie Connally has resigned. Good luck with your retirement, Bobbie.

Wendell Faught's "Plain Talk" in the Haskell Free Press was quite amusing last week. If you haven't read it, all Texans should certainly do so. He was quoting from the Dallas Morning News with a list of Texas sayings.

As everyone will agree, I feel sure, our prayers are with our troops in Saudi Arabia during these days of conflict.

Congratulations to Cheryl and Mike Hertel upon the arrival of Andrew Kyle on Jan. 1, 1991. What a nice New Year's gift!

Our deepest sympathy is extended to former Stamford minister, Howard Swinney of Anchorage, Alaska, whose mother died recently. Also to the families of Merle Weaver of Stamford, the Ed Sorrell family; and Edith and Annette upon the loss of Leonard Sanders. And, sympathy to the family of J. C. Turner of Hamlin.

Get well wishes are sent, too, to Novis Ousley of Las Vegas, Nevada who has recently been hospitalized.

Visiting the Coy Keaheys last week were her daughter, Lisa Justice and husband, Mark of Dallas.

Happy birthday is wished for Claire Halliburton, Orheana Greeson, Buford Westmoreland and Jo Ruth Lisle, who all have birthdays this week and to Tori Jenkins on the 12th. Anniversary greetings to Bobby and Cheryl Robinson and Bobby and Jerri Kittley.

Here is hoping fervently that the rest of 1991 will be better for yours truly than January was, so perhaps last month won't be a harbinger of the future! Until next week, "adios" would be at the ACU Lectureship next week. It is amazing how much those two ladies sound alike on the telephone, and in fact, they look like sisters. John and Orehana Greeson were in Stephenville on Sat. to visit their son, Leon and family. Best of luck is wished Jackie Wilson in his new endeavor: Jack's Place in Haskell. I would highly recommend the food! Wes Pierce made the Dean's List for the first semester at McMurry University. He is the son of Glen and Helen Pierce of Old Glory. week of February 7 It's good to be back on the job. Finally, my doctor has adjusted my medication, so hopefully, I will remain "on track". Thanks to the nice people who told me they had missed reading the Rule News, especially Lila Boedeker of Brownwood; and two Rule ladies" Charlene Murray and Beth Kittley of Rule.

A nice thought: "An apology is a good way to have the last word." (Borrowed from last week's Rule Reminder.)

Get-well wishes are sent to Velma Gann, who is recuperating from surgery following a fractured hip and shoulder, and has been returned to Rice Springs Nursing Home. Also, best wishes are sent to Tom Whittemore, who has been critically ill at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Temple.
