Resolution opposes pornography

A resolution passed July 11 by the Haskell City Council calls for the enforcement of the state law regarding obscenity in the community.

The resolution, signed by Mayor Greg Meltons and attested by City Secretary Ann Young reads:

Whereas, the City Council of the City of Haskell, Texas, being aware of its duty to protect the health, safety and welfare of its citizenry; and

Whereas, it is the desire of the City of Haskell to protect the psychological health and welfare of its children; and

Whereas, the City Council desires to avoid the proliferation of pornography in the community.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the City Council of the City of Haskell, Texas, that it go on record as being opposed to obscenity in the community; and that it further supports the State Statute regulating same, and encourage voluntary compliance with said State Statute regulating obscenity and support and encourage the enforcement of State Law by all local law enforcement offices and agencies.

Passed and approved this 11th day of July 1991.

City tax rebate rises 31 percent

The City of Haskell saw a 31-percent increase in its sales tax receipts reflected in the check it received this week from the state comptroller.

The check, reflecting May sales, was in the amount of $11,210.10, a healthy increase over the $8,562.74 received last year for the same period.

This month's check brought the city's receipts from its one-percent sales tax to $86,965.07 for the year, a 5.23-percent increase over the $81,789.33 received during the first seven months of 1990.

Rule's check this month was in the amount of $1,833.88, compared to $954.29 for the same period last year. For the year to date, Rule has received $12,370.14.

Rochester was the only other Haskell County city to receive a check this month. It was for $503.20, bringing total receipts for 1991 to date to $3,770.48.

In all, 960 Texas cities received $88 million this month for a 1991 total of $705 million, an increase of 12 percent over last year's rebates.

Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin and El Paso, which comprise 29.4 percent of the state's population, received sales tax rebates of $37 million, or 42 percent of all city sales taxes distributed this month.

Haskell FFA trio attends convention

Haskell FFA chapter was represented by three of its outstanding members at the 63rd annual FFA convention held last week in El Paso.

Cole Callaway, Kim Gilly and Blake Henshaw were accompanied by ag science teachers James Bevel and Duane Gilly.

Blake served on the Courtesy Corps throughout the convention.

Kim and Cole served as voting delegates and also received their Lone Star FFA degrees during special ceremonies on Tuesday, July 9.

Kim competed in the prepared public speaking contest held Thursday, July 11. She placed second in the contest and was recognized on stage the following morning when she was presented a plaque and an award check, compliments of the Production Credit Association.

Haskell man wins $500 in contest

Gene Plunkett of Haskell won $500 in a recent Payday candy bar "Totally Nuts" game.

He received a $500 check last week from Worldwide Promotion Exchange, the judging organization which administered the contest.

Actually, Plunkett said, there was "no contest" involved. He just mailed in an entry form.

Football tickets

Reserved-seat tickets for 1991 Haskell Indian football games should go on sale by mid-August. Principal Gerald McCoy said last week.

Petitioners seek to block plans for City Hall

A spokesperson for a Haskell group opposing a new City Hall said Monday that the group plans to stop the City Council from issuing certificates of obligation which would finance the construction of the building.

Christine Greene said her group is circulating a petition in Haskell and "will have no trouble" obtaining the necessary signatures to block the council from issuing the certificates.

Mrs. Greene cited a state statute which states that if a petition signed by at least five percent of the qualified voters protest the issuance of certificates, the city may not authorize the issuance of the certificates "unless the issuance is approved at an election ordered, held and conducted in the manner provided for bond elections."

The latest count of registered voters in Haskell is 2,339, which would mean that 117 signatures would be required.

Mrs. Greene said that copies of the petition would be given Wednesday to the mayor, city administrator and each council member so that signatures may be verified before a scheduled Friday morning meeting at which the council has announced it will issue the certificates.

The original petitions, which Mrs. Greene said would contain additional signatures, will be formally presented at Friday's meeting, she said.

Mrs. Greene said she has requested a spot on the agenda of Friday's meeting to make the presentation.

The petition does not specifically call for an election, but merely registers objections to the issuance of certificates of obligation to buy land and build a new city hall.

But Mrs. Greene said the petition will make it necessary for the city to hold an election before the certificates can be issued.

The City Council, at its June 27 meeting, authorized a contract with the First National Bank of Haskell to borrow $400,000 to finance construction of a new City Hall. The certificates would pledge ad valorem tax receipts as well as revenues from the water and sewer fund to repay the 10-year loan, bearing interest at 7.5 percent, with annual payments of $57,000.

In calling for the new City Hall, the council has noted the city's need for better and more modern facilities. Lack of parking, lack of handicap accessibility and inadequate record storage have been among the deficiencies stressed.

The city maintains that construction of a new City Hall will not raise property taxes. In fact, councilmen point out that property taxes should be lower due to the half-cent increase in sales taxes approved by voters last spring.

Nearing completion

The walking and jogging path around the City Park is nearing completion. The 8-foot-wide, half-mile-long track will be open to the public soon.

Absentee voting begins here Mon.

Absentee voting begins Monday for the Aug. 10 election on state constitutional amendments.

Aug. 6 will be the last day that in-person absentee ballots may be cast at the office of County Clerk Rhonda Moeller.

Two proposed amendments will appear on the Aug. 10 election ballot.

Grand opening

Mayor Greg Melton snaps the ribbon formally opening the new Merle Norman Cosmetics Studio in Haskell last Friday. Second to his right is Sandy Forehand, owner. Others in the group are well-wishers from the Haskell Chamber of Commerce who were on hand for the opening.

Mrs. Mark Barton

Patricia Mitchell weds Mark Barton

Patricia Mitchell and Mark Barton were united in marriage on Saturday, July 13, at 4 p.m. at East Side Baptist Church in Haskell. The Rev. Paul Cheatham, pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Frank Atchinson of Paradise, Texas, and Runiz Hudgens of McCamey. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barton of Comanche.

Debbie Cornelius of Givins, Texas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Kim Finley of Haskell and junior bridesmaid was Tasha Cornelius, niece of the bride.

Best man was Ted Barton, father of the groom. Groomsman was Lewis Barton of Knickerbocker, Texas, brother of the groom and junior groomsman was Kevin McSmith of Haskell.

Ushers were Rick Mathews of McCamey and George Barton of Midland. Candlelighters were Tasha Cornelius and Kevin McSmith.

The bride wore an antique white tea length dress. The bodice was embellished with pearls and lace and was accented with a princess waist line. For something borrowed, the bride wore a single string of pearls. Something blue was her blue garter. For something old, she wore her 97-year-old grandmother's ring. Something new was her dress. The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet.

The maid of honor and junior bridesmaid were dressed in white. The bridesmaid wore a pale pink dress.

The groom, best man and groomsman all wore black suits, white shirts, burgandy bow ties and cummerbunds.

Cindy Guess of Weinert sang "Forever," "Always" and "Parents Prayer."

The bride hosted a reception following the wedding in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white lace table cloth with burgandy bows. The bride's tier cake was white with little pink rossetts. The cake was topped with the traditional bride and groom.

The groom's table was covered with a burgandy table cloth. The cake was chocolate with white icing and had "Texas A&M" inscribed on top.

After a wedding trip to Mexico, the couple will reside at McCamey where the groom is employed with the West Texas Utilities Company.

Out-of-town wedding guests included friends and relatives from McCamey, Givins, Hermleigh, College Station, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Bowie and Abilene.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the First National Bank, hosted by the groom and his parents.

A lingerie shower was held in the home of Sheila McMeans.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

Recently I have noticed a marked increase in the population density of jackrabbits throughout the rolling plains. Although an increase in the number of hares in the region is not great news for us all, it is interesting that they are on a cyclic upswing after so many years of obscurity. Rabbits and hares are susceptible to these population fluctuations and, contrary to popular belief, a low density of these critters does not necessarily mean that coyotes are eating all of them. On the contrary, coyotes do not take large numbers of these fleet footed animals, especially in these hot months of summer. Population highs and lows can be attributed many times to diseases which ravage rabbits when their numbers become too high. Tularemia or rabbit fever takes a toll on them as does excessive infestations of external and internal parasites. Ticks, tapeworms, and a host of other parasites flourish in high rabbit populations. Some years ago when I used to shoot lots of rabbits for one reason or another I would often find a lump on the rabbit's side. After cutting into these pockets I found a classic plastic type bag filled with what appeared to be water. In the liquid were dozens of what appeared to be grains of rice floating about. After working with a professional parasitologist I found that these bags contained dozens of tapeworm heads, referred to as a scolex. When a dog or coyote eats one of these infested rabbits the predator ingests the bag of scolexes and is thus infested with all those tapeworms. If the bag contained 50 tapeworm heads then the coyote or dog has as many growing tapeworms. Nice!!! Did you know that it takes about a dozen rabbits to eat as much grass as one cow? Lots of neat things happen out in nature. The beauty that one sees is often rather superficial when we consider what really goes on in the wild and woolly outdoor arena.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

IRS NOTICES (Know What You're Paying)

The Internal Revenue Service sends out numerous tax deficiency notices which are incorrect. Don't pay additional amounts on your income tax return unless you are satisfied that you owe it.

IRS offices are staffed with ordinary people that make ordinary mistakes. Add to that a computer that can make ordinary computer mistakes and you have the ingredients for improperly mailed notices. Because these notices come from a Federal agency, the average person gives them more credibility than they may deserve.

The Internal Revenue Service is attempting to match certain documents to your social security number and your tax return. If you receive interest, dividends, rents, royalties, or any number of other types of income, you will probably be issued a "1099" information slip identifying the earnings. If the IRS can't readily locate that information on your tax return, they may send you a deficiency notice even though that income may be included somewhere in your tax return.

Don't assume that you owe additional taxes to the IRS just because they send you a statement. Because of the possibilities of both mechanical and human error, it's worth checking to make sure you owe the amount requested.

If you have paid someone to prepare your tax return, give them a copy of "all" correspondence you receive from the Internal Revenue Service, even those which do not request additional taxes. Your tax return preparer needs a full track record of all aspects of your tax return if he's to do an adequate job of representing you. Most IRS notices require a response within a specified number of days; therefore, all correspondence should be given to your accountant as soon as possible.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - The state's deficit, thought possibly resolved a couple of weeks ago, appears to be on the front burner again.

Texas House Democrat budget leaders said last week the deficit, predicted to be $4.6 billion, is actually between $6 and $7 billion.

House Appropriations Committee chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, said he would not be surprised if the Legislature raised the sales tax by a half-cent in the special session beginning this week. Rep. Rick Williamson, D-Weatherford, vice chairman of the committee, estimated the shortfall at $6 billion.

Rudd also predicted lawmakers would adopt only about $3 billion worth of the $5.6 billion cost-saving measures proposed by Comptroller John Sharp.

Why such a sizeable disparity in the deficit forecast? Apparently the legislative leadership plans to raise the level of state services, kicking the $4.6 billion price tag for current levels up by maybe $2.5 billion, more than 50 percent.

GOP Challenges Deficit

Texas Republican Party leaders challenged Democrats to prove the need for a tax increase, a gauntlet which went ignored.

Meanwhile, the legislative trimvirate of Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis came out in unison on a budget plan which includes proposing a state lottery, revamping the business franchise tax and including all of Sharp's measures.

The lottery proposal immediately raised the ire of anti-gambling groups.

A spokesman for the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission, Weston Ware, said: "We regret that the speaker is supporting an activity that makes the State of Texas a bookie, a hustler and an abuser of its citizens."

Controlling Agencies

The trio also will push to expand the governor's power over state agencies, giving Richards the power to hire and fire the heads of major state agencies.

Richards said lawmakers are very frustrated working with state agencies, and might give her the powers that six governors before her wanted and failed to get.

Under one proposal, she could appoint, with Senate approval, a cabinet of directors to eight key areas of state government: education, human services, criminal justice, environment, transportation, commerce, state purchasing and licensing.

Opponents say the governor would use the new authority to keep her campaign promise to appoint women and minorities to higher power positions in state government.

Ethics Funding Cut

The House Appropriations Committee last week voted to cut off state funding for a special prosecutions unit that has been investigating Lewis and other lawmakers.

Lewis faces two criminal misdemeanor ethics charges this fall as a result of that investigation.

Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle, who heads the probe, refused to speculate on whether it was revenge on the part of certain House members, but months ago predicted to reporters that the targets would pull the funding.

Borrowing A&M Name?

Texas A&M University System regents are wondering whether the institution's name should be "borrowed" by a private, non-profit corporation seeking to market $40 million in bonds.

The private firm is Texas A&M University System, Research Technologies Corp., created by former regents chairman David Eller and chaired by former House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The firm seeks to use most of the bond issue to buy assets from Houston-based Granada Bio-Sciences, chaired by Eller, and then contract to pay Texas A&M $10 million to $70 million over the next ten years for research services.

Even though the university would not be liable for any default on the bonds, regents are concerned with a potential bad reflection on A&M's name and its status with investors.

Other Highlights

State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison has been appointed by the National Association of State Treasurers to serve as co-chairman of a newly formed task force on debt management.

Texas joined five other states to sue TRW, Inc., one of the nation's largest credit-rating bureaus, charging it masquerades as a mere library of credit histories, but secretly rates creditworthiness and damages individual credit standings.

Attorney General Dan Morales is ready to file suit against the federal government for $1 billion unless feds adjust the 1990 census by an additional 500,000 citizens, largely minority.

The weekly Manhattan Pennysaver offers readers the chance to go after those people who really tick them off through its "anti-personals."

The opposite of "cards of thanks" or Valentine Day classifieds, the Pennysaver's free anti-personals are for readers who want to "slay a rotten neighbor" or "bad mouth the public figure of your choice."

A few examples:

"To all men who ride the train: Please do us women a favor and keep your legs together. You're taking up two seats. Thanks."

"To My Ex-Husband BJ---You have nerve going around telling people that I won't let you see MY children. Do you also tell them that you quit your job on the day after you left us, so you didn't have to pay alimony or child support or that you never acknowledged their birthdays or any holiday? Did you? Did you? I think not."

"To all those who stink on the train: There is a lot of water and soap in the USA."

"To that girl with the glasses who thinks she can take my man, please wise up and get a life."

"Spaced-out lady. The next time you are rude to me I'm going to slap your face."

"Mr. A---The next time you want to announce that you're going to the men's room, you don't have to. We already know where you're going with that newspaper."

"RS---You are a joke for a boss. Everyone wants you to get out A.S.A.P. You're not fit to be a dog's boss. You look like PeeWee Herman with those cheap suspenders you wear. We all know how wastefully you spend Blue Cross money."

Among the responses:

"Do the dreaded job first, so you'll have the rest of the day to look forward to."

"People who mind don't matter, and people who matter won't mind."

--Letters to the Editor--

Cancer

By Linda Bartley
Lubbock, TX

Dear Clint: You asked me in several of our conversations to write a letter and publish it in the Haskell Free Press. I have been delinquent in doing so but as my last gift to you, I am doing as you requested.

Dear Friends and Foes of Haskell:

Writing a letter of this nature is not an easy thing to do. Many of you are unaware, I'm sure, of the many young people from Haskell who have been diagnosed in the last couple of years with several different forms of cancer.

There may be some that Clint and I were unaware of, but we have heard about several that were from the 1973 to 1975 graduating classes. Names will not be mentioned as I have not contacted the five that I know of for permission.

I, being one of the most fortunate, was diagnosed in June 1989 and underwent chemotherapy and radiation. These are very powerful treatments and are given even more aggressively with young people. Due to the power of these drugs, I am fortunate enough to be in remission and am doing very well.

Unfortunately, we all lost a very dear friend last week---Clint Melton. Clint maintained a very good attitude all through his struggle. I visited with him several times and he would always say, "It's getting better." He appreciated and loved his family so much and loved all the phone calls and visits from friends.

Clint received his treatments in Dallas and mine were in Lubbock. I had told Clint that my oncologist had advised me that Haskell was the No. 1 rated town in Texas in comparison with population for cancer victims. He discussed this with his oncologist and was advised the same. There is no answer as to why.

Clint and I have asked each other several times: "Is there something the community could do to help address this issue?" We are concerned about family and friends who were raised in Haskell and some who still reside there.

Our doctors have advised us there are no answers at this time, but maybe there are some Haskell citizens who could really help address this issue before we lose some more or our long time Haskell friends.

We're searching for answers.

Opposes city hall

Editor: I have had a business in Haskell for the past 13 years and I would like to express my thanks to the people of Haskell for their acceptance and patronage of me and Kids Duds.

But I would like to express my concern pertaining to the building of a new city hall and its consequences to the citizens of Haskell for the following reason:

No. 1: Failure of the citizens to have a vote on the matter,

No. 2: No consideration of the economy when most businesses are struggling to survive and so many vacant buildings.

No. 3: The failure to allow local contractors a chance to submit ideas, plans and bids,

No. 4: The very obvious overestimate as per the renovation of the present city hall and the cost of a new city hall,

No. 5: Since my business is located across the street from the city hall in a building (built in 1906), I feel that a ramp and a marked handicapped parking spot would solve the problem of the few disabled who enter the premises that I have observed. Also on Highway 380 is the Lone Star Gas Co. where people also have to pay monthly payments, and do we hear of these problems there, or at WTU?

Many people have expressed opposition as I have but are hesitant to express their feelings for fear it will hurt their business, or for lack of knowing what to do.

Retail business is an important part of any city, particularly Haskell, and always has been.

We as merchants each collect 1 cent for every dollar and it will soon be 1 1/2 cents in support of the city of Haskell. We do it without pay and without thanks. But I can personally say if the City Council proceeds to build a $400,000 plant in this economy and without the approval of its citizens, then I am one merchant that refuses to remain open and collect sales tax.

Our only hope is the city officials will review their initial plans and consider the opinions of the people they represent.

Lois Richardson

Not needed

Editor: The first three reasons that were presented for a new city hall deal with handicapped people.

In the city of Haskell, outside of rest homes, I can only find three wheel chair people.

In making a survey of how many people needed to use the bath room when paying the water bill, I did not find one person.

When asked about parking, very few had a hard time finding a place and none for some.

No one has to wait in line very long to pay, thanks to the very efficient secretaries.

I have paid a bill for 31 years. When I could not go to the office I mailed my bills in.

I was in business in downtown Haskell for several years. The weather never bothered our water pipes. The walls on most of Haskell's buildings are from 12 to 15 inches thick. That takes care of cooling and heating. There are several buildings that do not have refrigerated air and it does not affect their businesses.

Please print the letter from the government that talks about handicapped accessibility. Print the building codes.

Since Haskell does not have a charter, where did we get the building codes? Are all of the towns such as Rule, Stamford, Rochester and all that collect water and sewer bills going to have to build $400,000 buildings.

You can buy a real good vault large enough to hold city records for less than $30,000.

If at some time we do decide to build, why not give our local contractors a bid? They are the ones that will help pay in the long run.

The meeting that was held, so you say that you would have cherished citizen input, is such a laugh. The last meeting that I went to there was no minutes read, no reports, no bills mentioned, no business except what took place after everyone left.

A paper was passed from council member to council member. When it was passed around the question was asked, "do you approve this?" and the answer was yes. Was this an open meeting? The answer is no. Do we really need a $400,000 building. Again I say no.

Let us vote on this issue.

By Vicky Anderson

Our sympathy is sent to the family of Ora Russell of Stamford: Norris, Nancy, Robbie and Russell. Condolences are extended, too, to the family of Zada Garrett of Hamlin.

Those of us who are senior citizens recall the story of "Old Rip", the horned toad who was found in the cornerstone of the Eastland County courthouse after 31 years. A daughter had given Mr. Anderson a book for Father's Day entitled, "Unsolved Mysteries of Texas," and the above was one of the stories. Of interest, mention was made of a young reporter covering the story by the name of Dan Rather. Too, mention was made of some local ministers in Eastland at that time, one of whom was H. W. Wrye. If my memory serves me correctly, he was a preacher at Hamlin during my early teens. He was quite an eloquent and devout man, and I am sure he is remembered fondly by many in this area.

Sincere sympathy is sent to the family of Elsie Pyron of Hamlin. There are many happy memories about Jack and Elsie when we were neighbors in the Flat Top community back in the 30s. Along with Gertrude and Andrew Malone, Jack and Elsie Pyron spent many enjoyable hours playing "42" with my parents, the late Earl and Ida Crow.

This seems to be turning out to be a nostalgic article. Please forgive the personal references. Perhaps I should write a book about those "good old days" during the "Great Depression" (just joking).

Feel certain that all of you readers enjoy reading "Shooter" Dabney's articles as do my husband and I. In this book about the unsolved mysteries of Texas, the name is also mentioned of James Dabney, from the Abilene Reporter News, which made me wonder if perhaps he was the father (or a relative) of "our" Mr. Dabney.

Get-well wishes are sent to Lucy Fulbright, who has just been released from Haskell Memorial Hospital.

Bill DeLoach of Wheaton, Ill., was a visitor of his cousin, Nikki Kittley, and family of Abilene. Then, the next day they were in Rule to visit his aunts, cousins and grandparents there. In Abilene on Tuesday the group had a cookout at Will Hair Park; then, on Wednesday they had a taco meal at the home of his aunt.

Bill is the son of the former Diane Anderson and Jim DeLoach, and the grandson of the Parnell Andersons. Bill is scheduled to leave at the end of the summer for a two-year mission duty with his base of operations being Ogden, Utah. He has just completed a year at the University of Texas in Austin.

Our deepest sympathy is sent to the family of Mrs. Chalmers (Christine) Graham of Aspermont. Travis and Lorene Boyd attended the services on Friday morning at the First Baptist Church in Aspermont. Your writer accompanied them as the Grahams were long-time acquaintances. While there we saw Norma Grusendorf of Anson; also Alice and Alvin Bredthauer of Sagerton.

The Jasper Wilson family have just returned from vacationing in Estes Park, Colo. Sure do envy them getting to go to the "cool" country, and seeing those lovely mountains.

During the 4th of July holidays, it was nice to see old friends: Pauline McKinley of Stamford along with her granddaughter, Nikki Powell, of Seymour; Erma and Irvin Smith of Decatur; Pat and Jesse Locke of Dallas; all at Mrs. McKinley's home in Stamford. Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Smith are sisters and Jesse is their brother. The Lockes lived across the street from your writer in Hamlin when we were growing up. Then, on the last night of the Stamford Cowboy Reunion, Mrs. McKinley and Nikki met Mrs. Anderson, a granddaughter and her friend.

Welcome home to Bill and Faye Dunnam, who have returned home after a two weeks visit with their son and family. While they were there, a grandson, who is stationed in Michigan, came home on leave.

This month's issue of Texas Highways has a good article about the Texas Cowboy Reunion; also one about Graham, Texas. Each month there are always interesting articles and pictures of Texas cities and events. Hope that the three homesick Texans to whom I sent the magazine for Christmas enjoy it as much as we do.

Following services this past Sunday night, the members and guests of the Church of Christ had an ice cream supper at Slim Sorrells' Park. Had looked forward to going to it, but misunderstood where it would be, so went to Stamford to services and missed it. However, the night wasn't a total loss as guest speaker, John Greeson, delivered an inspiring sermon on "Hope." Too, it was wonderful seeing many old friends, among them Jean and James Wilson. Mr. Wilson, the science teacher at Stamford High School, taught my daughters and a son-in-law. Visited with Aline and Lynn Carlton, Virginia and L. G. Moore, Eddie and Gerald Proctor, Beverly Bryan, Mrs. Carman, Mary Goree, the Cliff Cobbs, also Beverly Leon Hargrove and many others.

Livestock sales increase in Texas

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry has announced that Texas livestock sales for the first five months of 1991 exceeded $32.9 million--almost double the value of exports during the same period last year.

In all, 338,412 head of Texas livestock were processed through Texas Department of Agriculture export pens from Jan. 1 through May 31.

"Texans produce the best livestock anywhere," Perry said, "and demand for good Texas livestock is skyrocketing. We have calls daily from foreign buyers, mostly Latin American ranchers, who are interested in quality livestock."

From Jan. 1 through May 31, 1990, Texas exported 183,662 head of Texas livestock valued at $17.2 million.

"We produce more cattle than any other state," Perry said. "We are home to 90 percent of the nation's Angora goat population. And our sheep, hogs and dairy goats are of the finest quality. That is why we are seeing our Latin American neighbors look to Texas as the 'livestock supermarket'."

Many of these sales are facilitated by Texas Department of Agriculture livestock marketing specialists.

Perry said Texas livestock producers are not the sole beneficiaries of these sales.

"Not only do Texas livestock producers benefit, but the people who transport the livestock--truckers, shippers and commercial aircraft businesses--see a significant economic boost," Perry said. "In addition, when these foreign cattle raisers attend a livestock show or simply visit Texas ranches, hotels, restaurants and other local service industries are impacted."

Livestock sales alone generated $400 million for the Texas economy last year, Perry said.

Around town

Visitors in the home of Henry and Meta Rueffer and Carl over the July 4 weekend were Verlenc and Richard Whiteley, their daughter and son-in-law; also granddaughter and husband, Emilie and Robby Hughes, all of Alvin. Other visitors included another daughter and son-in-law, Erna and Helmut Quiram of Duncanville. The group enjoyed visiting and attended the Cowboy Reunion.

Cotton referendum conducted

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) is conducting a cotton referendum July 17-26, in cooperation with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Cotton producers and importers are voting on amendments to the Cotton Research Promotion Order.

The USDA amendments call for the importer representation on the Cotton Board; assessing imported cotton and cotton products, as is done with domestic cotton; increasing from $200,000 to $300,000 the amount the Cotton Board can reimburse the Secretary of Agriculture for expenses incurred in conducting the referendum; reimbursing government agencies which assist in collecting fees on imported cotton and cotton products; and terminating the right of producers to demand a refund of assessments.

"Voters may hand-deliver ballots to our polling places," said Glenn R. Brzozowski, Haskell County executive director of the ASCS, "or mail them, postmarked by midnight July 26." Eligible producers not receiving ballots should contact their local ASCS office.

Did you know?

One of the most important foods contributed to modern agriculture by the Indians through the early European explorers and traders was corn, which was domesticated by New World Indians about 5,000 years ago.
