Aug. 10 election to decide constitution, school changes

Constitutional amendments won't be the only things Haskell County voters will be voting on Aug. 10.

Patrons of the county's four school districts also will be voting in a special election in the County Education District (CED). The two elections will be held jointly.

In addition to two proposed constitutional amendments, voters in Haskell, Rule, Rochester and Paint Creek school districts will vote for or against exemptions for themselves for residence homesteads and special taxes on furniture, jewelry, boats, motor homes and other tangible personal property.

The proposed constitutional amendments read:

No. 1: "The constitutional amendment to allow the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation for residence homesteads and to provide for the taxation of certain tangible personal property."

No. 2: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans to students."

If the first proposition passes, the CEDs will have immediate authority to grant exemptions and tax tangible personal property on a local option basis as voted on in the special election. If it fails statewide, the legislature will have to come up with an implementing law and give CEDs the authority to grant exemptions and tax on a local basis.

The wording on the ballot for the special CED election will read as follows:

No. 1: "The exemption of 20 percent of the market value of the residence homestead from ad valorem taxation in Haskell County Education District."

No. 2: "The exemption of $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of an individual who is disabled and of $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of an individual who is 65 or older from ad valorem taxation in Haskell County Education District."

No. 3: "The taxation of all tangible personal property, other than manufactured homes, in Haskell County Education District that is not held or used for the production of income."

It is the general feeling in

Haskell County, and elsewhere in the state, that CED voters will approve Nos. 1 and 2 which allow for homestead exemptions, and will reject No. 3 which would allow the CED to tax boats, cars, jewelry, furniture and other tangible personal property.

The latest addition to Texas' taxing entities was created by the Texas legislature in its new school finance law.

Applicants may apply only one time, at only one of the post offices, as this is an area hiring register.

In order to be considered "qualified," applicants will be required to pass a written examination designed to test aptitude for learning and performing the duties of these positions.

JV cheerleaders take top honors

Haskell's junior varsity cheerleaders attended cheerleading school in Denton July 7-10 and emerged grand champions of the junior varsity division.

Winning this honor allows the Haskell squad to compete in the National International cheerleading Federation Dec. 27-30 in Nashville, Tenn.

In addition to winning the JV championship, the four-member squad of Micca Jordan, Heather Stewart, Shelly Stewart and Heather Hobgood won the congeniality award. This honor was voted on by the other cheerleaders at camp.

One girl in the entire camp was given the "Miss Coog" award for being the most spirited cheerleader. Shelly Stewart was named "Miss Coog." Also, two cheerleaders in the camp were named to the All-American team for displaying all-around skill in dance, tumbling, jumps and cheerleading ability. Heather Hobgood was one of the girls selected for this honor.

These girls will continue their cheerleading practice as they get ready for the first JV football game against the Munday Moguls on Sept. 5.

Voters to decide if Council can issue certificates

By Wendell Faught

Haskell citizens will vote in a special election Aug. 24 on whether the City of Haskell can issue $400,000 in certificates of obligation to finance construction of a new City Hall.

A resolution calling for the election was passed Friday morning during a special meeting of the City Council, and was in response to a petition objecting to issuance of the certificates without approval in a special election.

The petition, presented by Christine Greene, cited a state statute which denies a city the right to issue the certificates without voter approval when five percent of the qualified voters sign a petition of protest.

The petition contained 279 signatures. On Wednesday of last week, Mrs. Greene had given copies of the petition to all council members, the mayor and the city administrator. Administrator Robert Baker said that 220 signatures had been certified. (Others had signed the petition by Friday.)

After the resolution was read by Mayor Greg Melton, but before it was adopted, councilman Ronny Tanner emphasized that the election would be only on the issue of the certificates as a method of funding a new City Hall, and not on the council's decision to build a new City Hall.

Tanner then moved that the resolution be adopted. Jill Druessedow seconded the motion, and councilmen Kenny Watson, Dickie Greenwood and Tony Burson joined them in voting for passage.

The decision to call the election did little to soothe the emotions of the 15 or 20 dissidents who attended the meeting. Nine of them spoke, most voicing objections to the construction of a new City Hall, not the manner in which the building would be financed.

Mrs. Greene said, "It's stupid to spend $15,000 for an election. If we can get these names, don't you think we can get everyone to come down and vote no?" she asked.

Baker said the city election would cost about $600. "If we were voting on a bond issue, then the cost could be $10,000 or $15,000," he said.

Frances Arend said too many people in Haskell have limited income and a new City Hall would be too costly for them. Lois Richardson told the council, "Please consider the citizens of Haskell."

B. J. Bassing asked, "Are you saying if you don't get it one way, you'll build it another way?" Tanner replied that "there are other ways it can be done."

Randolph Wilson said, "We approved a half-cent sales tax increase to reduce property taxes, and now it will be taken up."

Jack Cline asked by what authority the city made the decision to issue the certificates. Councilman Dickie Greenwood and Mayor Melton told him they had been assured by legal counsel that they were acting within their authority.

Mary McCollum asked the council "what would it take to have you reconsider the decision and remodel instead of build a new building?" Melton replied that renovation had been considered but was dismissed as too costly. The mayor said an engineer had told the council that renovation costs would be in excess of $300,000. He emphasized that the council had voted unanimously for the new building, although Burson had abstained from voting on the issuance of the certificates.

Later, Mrs. McCollum asked if council members would consider dropping the idea of a new City Hall if presented with another petition calling for them to revoke their decision. Each council member responded, but none said they would do so.

Tanner said he knew of no legal way to override the council's decision. Greenwood said he made his decision based on long range needs of the city. He said he would consider a reasonable alternative if someone comes up with one.

Tom Richardson questioned the cost of the proposed City Hall, saying $80 per square foot is out of line. Tanner responded by saying the $400,000 cost is an estimate and does not mean the city will actually spend that amount. Baker said the city will draw interest on the money until it is spent, and then can redeem certificates with any unused portion of the $400,000.

Louis Wilson complained that no local contractors were consulted.

Kathleen Diggs asked, "Would you consider an injunction to stop this form of action. The mayor replied, "We would have no choice."

Several in the group complained that the decision to build a new City Hall was made without the council notifying the public of its intentions to do so. Melton explained that all council meetings are open to the public. He also stated that the meeting at which the decision was made had been publicized in advance by the local newspaper and local radio station and that notice of the meeting had been posted.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Griffith

Gilly, Griffith exchange vows

Dalyn Davon Gilly and Andrew Edward Griffith were united in marriage June 28 at the First Baptist Church in Haskell. The Rev. James Densman of Hollis, Okla., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Gilly and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Riley Griffith. The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gilly and Mrs. Faye Moon, all of Stephenville. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Griffith of Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris of San Antonio.

The altar featured a wedding arch, candelabras, and votive candles all trimmed with silk English ivy. A unity candle and green potted plants completed the platform decorations.

The church's stained glass windows were accented with long apricot tapered candles topped with a glass globe and accented with silk English ivy. Apricot pew bows marking the pews for the parents and grandparents completed the decorations. Church decorations were designed by Fishel's of Abilene.

Soloists were Patsy Blakley who sang, "God, A Woman, and A Man," and "More," and Kenny Thompson, who sang, "In This Very Room." Nelda Lane was organist and Pam Gibson was pianist.

Kim Gilly of Haskell served her sister as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Kim Cheek of Abilene, sister of the groom, Hayley Hughes of Abilene and Teresa Unger of Haskell. Candlelighters were Kaki Stapleton of Haskell and Casey Thompson, cousin of the groom.

Dan Griffith served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Mickey Dunnam and Doug Davis of Haskell and James Smith of Lubbock. Ushers were Danny Griffith, Keith Medford and Joey Thomas, all of Haskell, and Walter Fletcher of Dallas.

Wanda Thompson, aunt of the groom, and Michelle Dunnam greeted the wedding guests as they arrived. Kacye Nemir and Tiffany Moeller registered the guests at the registry table in the foyer of the church which contained a picture of the bride and groom, accented on each side by an antique bride doll belonging to the bride's mother and a handmade unity candle which was a gift for the bride and groom from the bride's parents. Brass baskets containing copies of the wedding program completed the registry table.

The groom ushered both mothers in turn into the sanctuary before the wedding ceremony. Before being seated, the parents of the bride and groom each lit an apricot tapered candle on each side of the unity candle.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a satin wedding gown, featuring a fitted, drop waist bodice with a sweetheart neckline, short large puffed sleeves and a full bouffant skirt. The bodice, sleeves and skirt were all trimmed with silk venise lace covered with pearls, sequins and drops of crystal beads and tear drops. The semi-cathedral length train was trimmed with matching silk venise lace covered with sequins and pearls and was accented with a large bow at the top.

The fingertip veil was accented with tiny satin roses and seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white roses accented with white ribbon, seed pearls and other white flowers. For something old, the bride wore an antique ring belonging to her mother; something new were gold and pearl earrings given to her by the groom. Something borrowed was the antique ring of her mother's; something blue was her garter.

The bride's attendants were attired in teal taffeta fabric dresses accented with black polka dots and a black satin cummerbund highlighted in the back with a large black bow. The dresses featured a close-fitting, lined bodice accented with a scooped V-shaped neckline and front princess seams, a flared skirt with side front and side back seams, and above elbow puffed sleeves. Their ensembles were completed with a handmade necklace designed by the bride and her mother. They carried bouquets of assorted spring flowers.

The groom wore a black-on-black full-dress tuxedo with satin lapels, black cummerbund and bow tie, designed by Christian Dior. Groomsmen wore black-on-black tuxedos with satin lapels, accented with teal green cummerbund and bow ties designed by Christian Dior.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church's fellowship hall immediately following the wedding ceremony. The couple's wedding table was covered by a white cloth with a white lace overlay accented in the center with a large teal satin bow.

The couple's cake was a traditional four-tier white round wedding cake accented with tiny apricot flowers. The couple chose a crystal cake topper featuring crystal swans, hearts and apricot satin bows.

Table appointments were of crystal and silver. A white lattice work screen adorned with silk greenery and teal bows formed a background for the serving table. Two large green plants on either side of the serving table completed the grouping.

Serving cake squares to the guests were Michelle Dunnam, Tiffany Moeller and Kacye Nemir of Haskell and Laurie Hester of Weinert. Serving the punch were Sheila Griffith, the couple's sister-in-law, Joy McKeever and Dala Young, all of Haskell. Also provided for the guests at the wedding table were teal mints and an assortment of nuts.

Serving coffee at the coffee table from a silver coffee service were Patricia Henry of Haskell, Mindy O'Connor of Stephenville and Julie Roewe of Arlington.

Other members of the house party were Christie Stapleton, Joetta Burnett, Nancy Toliver, Doris Mae Watson, Jane Smith, Cathy Bartley, Billie McKeever and Gwen Unger, all of Haskell, Jennifer Gilly, the bride's cousin from Stephenville, and Sue Brown, the bride's aunt from Corpus Christi.

Ellen Rieger of Haskell provided wedding music for the guests' enjoyment during the reception.

Florence Peden, Amelia Perry and Wanda Thompson were in charge of the quilt signing table. Each guest in attendance signed a quilt square that will be made into a "wedding memories" quilt by the bride's mother.

Birdseed bags were passed out by the couple's three nieces, Kourtney, Megan and Emma Cheek of Abilene.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Haskell High School and are agricultural education majors at Texas Tech University.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, they are making their home in Lubbock.

The wedding party and others were the special guests of the groom's parents for a rehearsal dinner held at the Haskell National Bank community room immediately following the wedding rehearsal June 27. The brisket buffet was served by the Ray Perry's, the Sammy Larned's, the Tim Jennings', the Brad Rowland's and the R. E. Colbert's. Red, white and blue country decorations highlighted the room.

The groom and his friends were honored with a backyard barbecue supper at the groom's future father-in-law's home on June 26.

The bride was honored with a lingerie shower June 27 in the home of Teresa Unger.

The bride and her bridal wedding party and female relatives were honored with a bridal luncheon in the home of Mrs. Max Stapleton the day of the wedding. Other hostesses for the luncheon were Sue Brown, the bride's aunt, and Nancy Toliver of Haskell.

The bride and groom were honored with a gift shower in the home of Nancy Toliver on May 18 and with an old-fashioned pounding on May 25 at Irby Hall.

Finnell supports governor's program

State Rep. Charles Finnell said Friday he supports Gov. Ann Richards' assessment that state government needs to be restrained and responsive to the public's request that legislators hold the line on spending.

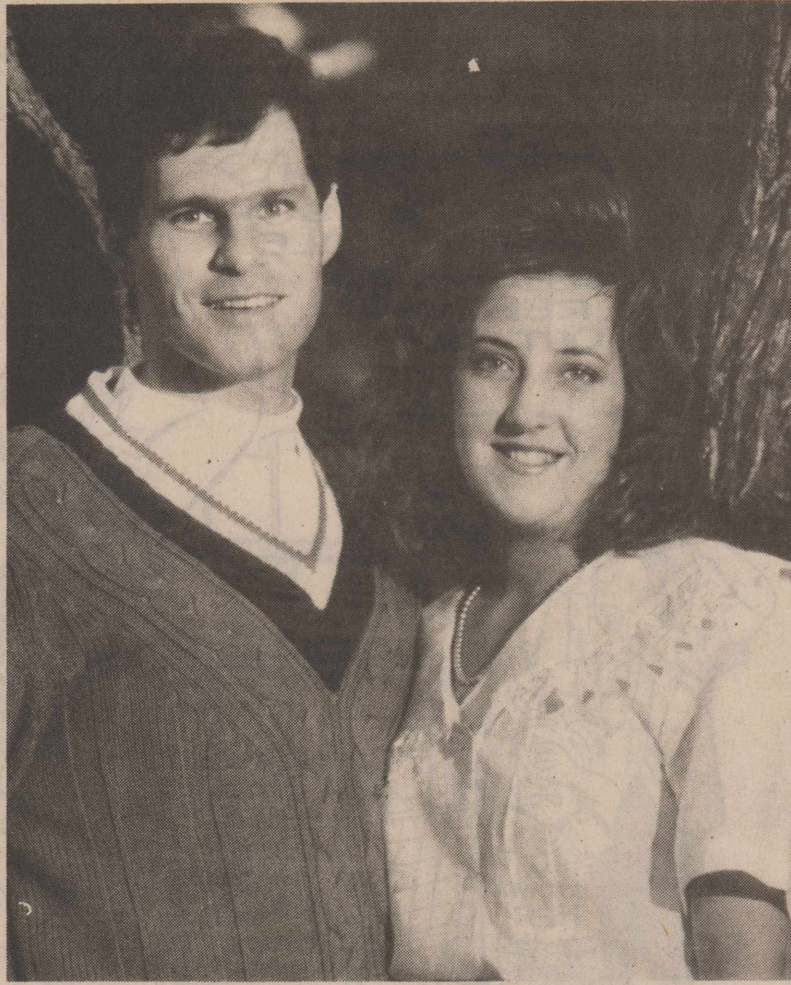

"I want to see our state agencies better utilizing current resources and led into a new direction of learning to do more with less," Finnell stated.

Besides preparing a new state budget, as a member of the House Redistricting Committee, Finnell will be actively reshaping the boundaries that comprise Texas congressional districts for the next decade. His other duties include work on the governmental reorganization committee, whose jurisdiction has been expanded to encompass transportation, matters concerning the State Board of Insurance and environmental affairs.

Finnell, whose expanded district now includes Haskell County, said he agreed with most of Comptroller John Sharp's recommendations that many of the state's fragmented agencies should be streamlined "with the customer in mind."

"By consolidating agencies, we can eliminate much of the duplication of services that currently plague our government," Finnell continued.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

I read yesterday where the Federal Government was planning on a control program to relieve the country of several thousand if not millions of cowbirds in the near future. Seems the bird is a threat to the black-capped vireo by way of the more aggressive cowbird having the tendency to lay its eggs in the nest of the vireo. When the smaller bird realizes something other than herself has been in the nest then the vireo sometimes abandons the nest entirely. Even if she decides to stay on the nest the young cowbirds are so overpowering they will consume all the food brought to the nest and subsequently starve the young vireos to death. I feel that a program of this nature has merit in that whenever a species of critters is found to be harmful to other wildlife species, especially when the species is as prolific as the cowbird, then measures should be taken to reduce the potential risk to those animals which are most beneficial. Some classic cases which have cropped up in the past is the habit of lots of ranches in Texas bringing in exotic animals for hunting purposes. What most of these people do not realize is that many of these non-native creatures are significantly more aggressive than many of our native animals and that given the opportunity to proliferate, these introduced species will drive the native animals out of the area. Introduced species such as the aoudad sheep, fallow deer, blackbuck antelope, and axis deer are known to be aggressive to many native species. They can disrupt populations of whitetail deer once the exotic gains even the slightest foothold in the region. Take note of the now abundant grackles, those noisy large black birds that flutter about during the summer seasons here in the rolling plains. When I was a child I never saw one of these birds. They appeared in the mid 1970's and, without a doubt, are here to stay. Although I have not actually caught one doing it, I have noted flocks of them around a nesting dove, acting as if they would perhaps rob the nest of the eggs once the adult dove happened to leave for one reason or another. Yes, I am for reducing the numbers of brown headed cowbirds and, for that matter, the numbers of exotic animals that seem to be continually creeping into the rolling plains to the detriment of our already struggling native species.

GOVERNOR'S REPORT

Ann D. Richards

Setting priorities for government

As the Legislature begins the special called session faced with the difficult task of making significant cuts in state spending, it is important to understand how we arrived at this point.

Texas boards and commissions allowed their agencies to submit budget requests for $13 billion more than available revenue for the upcoming biennium. Their requests would have burdened the taxpayers of Texas with a new tax bill totalling $750 for every man, woman and child in the state.

Even after cutting these requests to a level that would only maintain the "current level" of services and still meet federal and judicial mandates, Texas taxpayers would still be facing a bill for a $4.8 billion shortfall.

I believe it is irresponsible to saddle the people of Texas with that kind of tax burden without first doing our best to cut waste, inefficiency and needless duplication. For that reason, the first bill I signed into law in 1991 charged State Comptroller John Sharp with re-evaluating how Texas spends its money.

It makes little sense that budget writers pull out their pencils every two years to write a budget, only to consider state agency budgets that automatically add to whatever they spent the year before. We must cultivate the habit of looking first at what we spent last year to see whether we need to spend that amount again.

Comptroller Sharp performed that vital task for us this time. He delivered on his promise to "break the mold" of inefficient state government. His multi-agency task force of talented auditors, including several from my office, identified opportunities to cut $4.0 billion from the shortfall that faces us.

We now have an obligation to the people of Texas to enact the cuts recommended by Sharp's Texas Performance Review.

Wheat acreage reduction announced

Haskell County ASCS executive director Glenn R. Brzozowski has just been informed that the U.S. Department of Agriculture is requiring a 5-percent acreage reduction for the 1992 wheat program.

This compares to the 15-percent acreage reduction required for the current wheat crop.

"This level was chosen to maintain competitiveness in world markets while balancing the risks of excessive supplies or possible shortages," Brzozowski said.

Wheat producers who comply with the acreage reduction requirement will be eligible for target price protection at $4 per bushel, the same as this year. The program will not have a paid land diversion.

The 1991-92 wheat crop is projected at 2 billion bushels, down 26 percent from last year's 2.7 billion bushel harvest. The decline reflects an 8-million acre reduction in planted area and lower yields.

This year, decisions to plant fewer acres were based on higher acreage reduction requirements, new flexibility provisions in the 1990 farm legislation and lower wheat prices.

Just about everyone knows hundreds of former small towners who now live in the big city, and few of them would be interested in returning to the place of their roots. But, odds are that nearly every one of them is glad that he/she grew up in the boonies.

Many of the outstanding citizens of any large city are those with small-town origins.

Tragically, fewer and fewer people these days are growing up the small towns. That's too bad for the small towns. And the large cities.

"It's a dream market," says the president of an advertising agency.

He's talking about gay households: Two in a family, good jobs, no dependents.

Simmons Market Research Bureau, Inc. reports the average annual household income for gays is $55,430, compared to a national average of $32,144.

Most gay households (59.6 percent) are headed by college graduates and nearly half of those who work (49 percent) hold professional or managerial positions. In the nation as a whole, 18 percent are college graduates and 15.9 percent have professional or managerial positions.

Other comparisons between gays and the general public:

Master Card users: 45 percent to 23.3 percent; Visa users, 53.6 to 31.4; vodka drinkers, 49.7 to 22.7; domestic wine drinkers, 57.8 to 21.5; overseas travelers, 65.8 to 14; frequent fliers, 26.5 to 1.9.

I'm not sure what all of this means, but it's a bit interesting.

California merchants---and consumers---are confused about a new tax which went into effect there last week.

As part of plan to bail the state out of a multi-billion deficit, the state began taxing candy, bottled water, newspapers and snack foods.

But it's hard to tell what the new tax covers. Most crackers, for instance, are subject to the tax, but soda crackers, saltines, graham crackers, animal crackers and Arrowroot crackers are exempt.

Chocolate chips aren't taxed unless they're in a cookie. Glazed fruit is exempt if it's sold for baking, but not if it's sold as candy. Granola bars are taxed, but granola isn't. Peanuts aren't taxed, unless they're in Cracker Jacks. A banana isn't taxed, unless you dip it in chocolate and put it on a stick.

"Nobody understands it 100 percent," said the compliance supervisor for the Board of Equalization in San Francisco. "It's literally enough to drive you to drink."

That can also be taxing. The tax on a gallon of spirits went up $1.30 last week.

-LETTERS-

Editor: I have been in Haskell all my life. Many years I have paid taxes.

As a minister, I have been accused falsely. The only perfect man that was ever in the world was. He went into the temple and overturned tables and said you have made my father's house a den of thieves.

Some people would say he was a violent man; not me. He did what he had to do. (His father's will.) He has made this nation a free one. Let us keep it that way.

The only way to do this is together. Don't let this city government divide us. Let us all get to the polls and vote (the way you want to).

This man was Jesus.

Bikers pass through Haskell

Twenty young men biked through Haskell last Wednesday on one leg of a cross country awareness campaign for disabled Americans.

They are members of Pi Kappa Phi national fraternity and all are college students, or just-graduated students.

They are participating in PUSH America '91 in an effort to raise money and awareness for the disabled. (PUSH is an acronym for People Understanding Severely Handicapped.)

PUSH is the national service project of Pi Kappa Phi. Headquartered in Charlotte, N.C., the non-profit organization works to create a greater understanding of people with disabilities. It works through 140 collegiate fraternity chapters nationwide.

In addition to the obvious physical challenge, the PUSH America '91 team members engage in educational presentations in many of the towns they visit. They assist many local organizations serving the disabled by lending a hand for fund-raisers and other events.

"PUSH America gives us a chance to make our summer count for something," said Bob Nicolai, a senior from College of Charleston in Charleston, S. C. "We want people to understand that those with disabilities don't need our sympathy, they need our understanding. There's a big difference."

The cyclists and crew members represent 16 colleges in eight states. Each man raised at least $4,000 from local sponsors to earn a place on the national team.

The group left the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco on June 17 and will arrive in Charleston, S. C., Aug. 14, covering a distance of more than 4,000 miles.

Actually, two teams left San Francisco at the same time, explained Brian Clancy, a recent graduate of State University of New York's Courtland College. He said the team coming through Haskell was the "Southern" team. The "Northern" team, which has 24 members, took a northern route.

Clancy said the group normally travels 75 to 80 miles a day. Wednesday was to be an abnormal day, he said, as the team spent Tuesday night in Aspermont and was due to spend Wednesday night in Graham, 120 miles away.

PUSH America '91 has many sponsors. Oldsmobile is the primary sponsor.

Son-in-law gets medical degree

Doug Hodde received the doctor of medicine degree May 18 from Texas Tech University of Medicine.

The Department of Family Medicine honored him as an outstanding student.

Dr. Hodde, his wife, Shelly, and their two daughters live in Lubbock where he has begun a three-year residency in family medicine.

He is the son-in-law of Gene and Jo Iva Long of Haskell.

Before the Spanish explorers arrived in the American Southwest they had never seen the American buffalo, which they called, the "cattle of the plains."

Pre-kindergarten class scheduled

Haskell Elementary School will offer a half-day pre-kindergarten class for the 1991-92 school year.

A child who is at least 4 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1990, is eligible for pre-kindergarten if she/he is unable to comprehend the English language or is from a family whose income is at or below subsistence level.

Registration for pre-kindergarten will be from 9 a.m. to noon on Aug. 14 in the elementary office. Children will need a birth certificate, immunization record and Social Security number.

Questions concerning the program may be answered by calling the principal's office at 864-2891.

School to offer special class

Haskell ISD and the Haskell-Knox Consortium will offer a half-day early childhood class for students who are 3, 4 and 5 years old for the 1991-92 school year.

To be eligible for early childhood, a child must be 3 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1990, and must be screened by the Haskell-Knox diagnostician. The screening will take place at the beginning of the school year.

Parents interested in the program should contact the elementary principal's office, 864-2891, between Aug. 5-16 and leave their name and number. They will be notified at the beginning of the school year when their child's screening will take place.

The Haskell Free Press assumes no liability for the safe custody of unsolicited photos, articles, manuscripts, etc.

Harrell family meets Saturday

Descendants of Will, Ike, Nathan and Charlie Harrell will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday at Haskell Country Club.

Lunch will be served at noon. Each one is to bring a salad, vegetable and dessert. Meat and drinks will be furnished.

There will be an auction at 2 p.m. to help pay for use of the building and other expenses.

Relatives and friends are invited.

Noah Project to meet Thursday

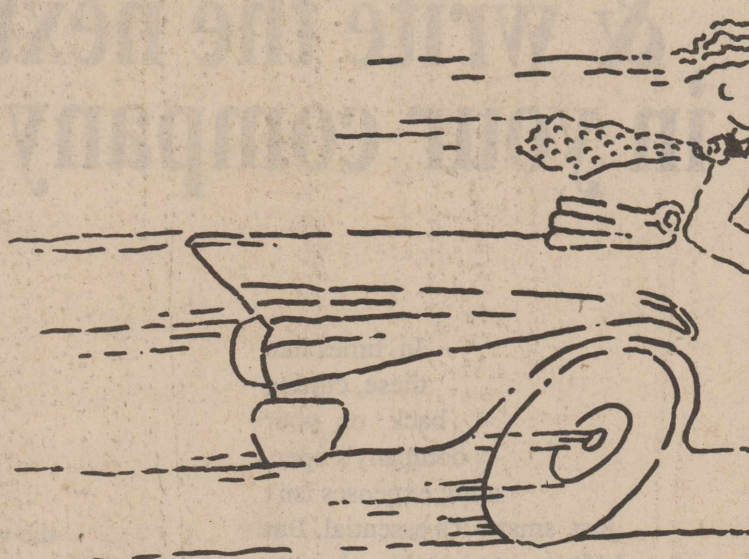

Noah Project North will have its monthly volunteer meeting at noon today (Thursday) in the Haskell County courthouse.

Cut your ad budget & write the next chapter in your company's history.

In times like these, cutting back on your company's operating expenses isn't just smart. It's essential. But before you make changes across the board, think of the effect some of those savings may have. Like your ad budget, for instance. Reducing the amount you spend on advertising may look like a good idea. You may even convince yourself that ad dollars come straight off the bottom line. But don't look for support of that idea from the facts. Published research, which proves that regular, sustained advertising increases profits, would make the Dallas phone book read like a short story. Fact is, if you were to trace the relationship between share-of-mind and return on investment you'd find there's a ratio right around 1:1. Again, research has proven it time, and time again. And contrary to conventional wisdom, the words in your ads speak louder than your actions. Because in a business as competitive as yours, long-term exposure to your ads speaks volumes to your customers about your company's commitment and resourcefulness. So consider the consequences before you reduce your company's ad budget. Because advertising builds sales and profits. Give us a call, we'll be happy to spell it out for you. Chapter and verse. This message has been brought to you in the interest of increasing your market share in the greater Rolling Plains business community by the Haskell Free Press. Call us for help. 817-864-2686

Belated birthday greetings to James A. Lisle. Happy birthday is wished to Danny Kreger, David Halliburton, and Jim DeLoach. Anniversary greetings to Jackie and Paula Wilcox. Get-well wishes are sent to Ruth Moore, who at this writing is a patient in Haskell Memorial Hospital.

On July 28th the Church of Christ members and visitors will have lunch following morning services to honor Jewel Ousley, former member, who will be visiting from Las Vegas, Nevada.

While in Abilene at the new Medical Mall near Humana on Thursday, it was nice to see former Stamfordite Linda Rasco Edwards; and at Radiologist Associates on 19th we visited briefly with Joyce Barbee Cozart, also, formerly of Stamford.

It was good to see Faye Dunnam out following her recent hospitalization.

Our most sincere sympathy is sent to the family of Beatrice Free.

It was good to learn that Leon Hargrove of Stamford has been dismissed from Hendrick Medical Center on Thursday, the 18th.

Get well wishes are sent to Paula Wilcox, who is now hospitalized in Hendrick Medical Center.

Ask Jasper Wilson about his "Go-cart" ride while on vacation.

Our hearts were saddened on Sunday morning to read in the paper of the death of John Teichelman of Sagerton in Temple. The Teichelmans were the first to introduce me to a Zentner's steak way back when our daughters were in a volleyball tournament in San Angelo in 1965 or '66. Their daughter, Vickie, was a frequent visitor in our home during that time, and has always seemed almost like a daughter. Our deepest sympathy is extended to the family. John was really a nice and friendly man.

A belated birthday greeting to Keith Wilcox, son of Jackie and Paula Wilcox, who was three on Sunday, July 21.

Wes, Linda, Jonathon and Christopher Kittley of Abilene visited their parents on the weekend.

The John Greensons were in Stephenville on Saturday to help their granddaughter, Lacey, celebrate her first birthday.

Since beginning this article, have talked with Charlene Murray, and her father, Leon Hargrove of Stamford, will be entering Baylor Medical Center in Dallas for further treatment next week. Our prayers and best wishes are sent to him during the difficult period. Ann Lindsey of Stamford is also a daughter to Leon.

Get well wishes are sent to Walter Rinehart of Rule who is in an Abilene hospital.

John and Orheana Greeson, Faye Webb and Jeanne Burselson attended a program for people 55 and older at Lubbock Christian University, July 14-18. The seminar, known as Impact, is designed to give people of this age bracket a time for spiritual and physical refreshment. There were 189 campers from 6 states that assembled together to hear 20 different speakers talk about God's Family. The program was meant to help people be aware of their spiritual family. That goal was reached by the speakers. Important things such as how to deal with grief, how to forgive, how to love, how to grow old in God's way was discussed. Campers were encouraged to accept the past, live confidently now and look with faith to the future. Important time was spent singing. Most of the singing was to praise God and some was fun singing to add zest to living. On Tuesday night some of the group was taken to Palo Duro Canyon to see Texas, the rest to Post to see the Harley Sadler Show in the Garza Theatre. There was also a fun time on Sunday night and a talent show Wednesday night. The group from Rule stayed with about 1/2 of the campers at the Paragon Hotel and drove to the University for the classes and lectures. The rest of the group stayed in dorms on campus. Everyone left refreshed in body and spirit.

A message from the ABILENE EYE INSTITUTE & CATARACT SURGERY CENTER DEDICATED TO EXCELLENCE

We specialize in cataract surgery with intraocular lens implant and routinely use the small incision phacoemulsification technique. We have 2 modern, fully equipped operating rooms each with its own Zeiss operating microscope and Phacoemulsifier. We also have an observation room so that family and friends may view the surgery while it is happening. Our ambulatory surgery center is State licensed and Medicare approved. We have performed over 3,000 cataract implant operations since 1987. Our doctors accept Medicare Assignment and we think you will find our fees very competitive with most hospitals. Our friendly, dedicated staff is available to answer any of your questions. If you need transportation, we can help.

Breast cancer strikes 1 in 10

The American Cancer Society estimates that one out of every 10 women in the United States will develop breast cancer some time during her life. Every year, more than 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

"The death rate from breast cancer could be reduced drastically if women would have mammograms before a problem exists," said a spokesman from the regional breast care center at Women's and Children's Hospital in Odessa.

The institution will have a mobile breast cancer detection unit at the Haskell Memorial Hospital on Saturday.

Public Notice

On April 9, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to request that the optional feature "Call Transfer Disconnect" be available to all PLEXAR I customers by including the feature in Southwestern Bell's PLEXAR I tariff. Currently, this optional feature is available only on a customer requested basis.

Call Transfer Disconnect (CTD) is an optional feature that allows PLEXAR I customers the ability to transfer a call to another telephone number within or outside their PLEXAR I system, hang up, and permit the two remaining parties to continue with the call. The PLEXAR I user is then free to place or accept another call. CTD is not intended to be used to avoid toll charges. Therefore, CTD will not be available to PLEXAR I customers subscribing to optional Extended Metropolitan Service or Extended Area Calling Service.

If the company's application is approved, the monthly rate for CTD will be $4.00 for each PLEXAR I station line. Prior to the June 19, 1991, interim rate approval, Southwestern Bell was billing customers who receive the service $1.50 for each station line equipped with this feature. In addition, under Southwestern Bell's proposed tariff, every line within the PLEXAR I system must be equipped with this feature. The nonrecurring charge for the additional lines which must be equipped with CTD will be waived for existing CTD customers. The tariffed monthly rate will apply to all existing and future CTD customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78751. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.
