Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the Principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials.

For school officials to determine eligibility, households receiving food stamps or AFDC must list the child's name, their food stamp or AFDC case number and the signature and name of an adult household member. Households not receiving food stamps or AFDC must list: names of all household members; Social Security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income and the amount and source of the income received by each household member; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. Under the provisions of the free and reduced price policy Haskell ISD will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on the informal basis. Parents wishing to make a formal appeal may make a request either orally or in writing to Haskell ISD, P. O. Box 937, Haskell, Texas, 79521 or telephone at 817-864-2602 for a hearing on the decision.

Households that list a food stamp or AFDC case number must report when the household no longer receives these benefits. Other households approved for benefits are required to report increases in household income of over $50. per month or $600. per year and decreases in household size. Also, if a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size increases the household should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for benefits if the household's income falls at or below levels shown above.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for school meal benefits. If a household wishes to apply for benefits for foster children living with them, the household should contact the school for more information.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

In the operation of child feeding program administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

TAX PLANNING

Written By James E. Rodgers, CPA

MANDATORY IRA WITHDRAWALS

Like all good things, the tax deferral opportunities of an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) eventually come to an end. Reaching age 70 1/2 is the event that triggers the beginning of the end. Mandatory withdrawals must begin no later than April 1 of the year following the year in which you reach age 70 1/2 (withdrawals may start as early as age 59 1/2). For example, if you reach age 70 1/2 in 1991, mandatory withdrawals must begin by April 1, 1992.

At age 70 1/2, you have three options: withdrawing the entire balance in your IRA, taking smaller amounts annually over the rest of your life, or taking a large sum plus annual payments. If you elect to take periodic payments from your IRA, you will be subject to the minimum distribution rules.

Calculating the amount of the minimum distribution is quite complex, but it generally works this way: Take the balance in your IRA account at December 31 and divide it by your remaining life expectancy (determined by actuarial tables provided by the IRS). The result is the minimum amount you must withdraw from your IRA each year. For example, if the actuarial tables indicate a remaining life expectancy of 16 years, and your IRA balance is $62,416, you must withdraw 1/16 or $3,901 annually. The minimum withdrawal can be adjusted annually.

Distributions must be made each year, beginning in the year you turn 70 1/2. However, the initial distribution can be deferred until April 1 of the following year. If you defer the first distribution, you will be taxed on two distributions in that year.

If you fail to withdraw the minimum distribution each year, you will be assessed a 50 percent penalty.

Call us if you'd like assistance in determining your IRA withdrawals.

Public Notice

On April 9, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to request that the optional feature "Call Transfer Disconnect" be available to all PLEXAR I customers by including the feature in Southwestern Bell's PLEXAR I tariff. Currently, this optional feature is available only on a customer requested basis.

Call Transfer Disconnect (CTD) is an optional feature that allows PLEXAR I customers the ability to transfer a call to another telephone number within or outside their PLEXAR I system, hang up, and permit the two remaining parties to continue with the call. The PLEXAR I user is then free to place or accept another call. CTD is not intended to be used to avoid toll charges. Therefore, CTD will not be available to PLEXAR I customers subscribing to optional Extended Metropolitan Service or Extended Area Calling Service.

If the company's application is approved, the monthly rate for CTD will be $4.00 for each PLEXAR I station line. Prior to the June 19, 1991, interim rate approval, Southwestern Bell was billing customers who receive the service $1.50 for each station line equipped with this feature. In addition, under Southwestern Bell's proposed tariff, every line within the PLEXAR I system must be equipped with this feature. The nonrecurring charge for the additional lines which must be equipped with CTD will be waived for existing CTD customers. The tariffed monthly rate will apply to all existing and future CTD customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

RULE NEWS

The Four Musketeers from Rule and Old Glory made another trip on their motorcycles to New Mexico this past week. They put nearly a thousand miles on their bikes and had a great time.

Texas farmers and ranchers are alarmed by what they understand are alternatives being considered in the Texas House of Representatives regarding taxes, according to S. M. True, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

"Proposals to increase the state fuel tax by 13 cents to a total of 28 cents a gallon is bad enough for all Texans," True said. "But, changing the off-road exemption for tractors and other production equipment to a once-a-year refund--as proposed--substantially increases producers' up-front production costs."

The president of the state's largest general farm organization said the damage becomes even more severe with the concept of allowing the refund to equate to only 75 percent of the charge.

"That would result in a new 7-cents-per-gallon tax on fuel used for food and fiber production," True said. "That is unacceptable and intolerable. We strongly urge that the entire concept be dropped."

The farm leader said another proposal floating in the Texas House of extending the state franchise tax to farm and ranch enterprises is no more than an "income tax in disguise."

Texas Farm Bureau has expressed support for streamlining government, increasing the state sales tax by one percent, and a voter-approved state lottery, True said. All of these actions would affect farmers and ranchers the same way as all citizens of the state, he explained.

"The fuel tax proposal and the franchise tax extension are grossly unfair, as agriculture is the only industry that cannot pass along taxes to consumers," True said. "The proposals are not the proper means to address the budget dilemma."

Pearl Harbor veterans to be honored

The Department of Defense wants to honor veterans of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor nearly 50 years ago, and has launched a nationwide search to locate them, says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

"Sailors and soldiers who served at the naval air station and at the airfields and other military facilities on the island of Oahu on Dec. 7, 1941, are eligible for a bronze medal commemorating their service," the senator said.

Under a bill approved by Congress last year, Gramm noted, Pearl Harbor veterans, including civilian employees of the Navy and other services, or their families may be awarded the medal.

An estimated 100,000 service personnel were stationed in the vicinity of Pearl Harbor when the massive air attack that pulled America into World War II occurred, killing more than 3,000.

Eligible veterans or next of kin may apply for the medal by calling the Navy Awards and special Projects office at 1-800-545-4052, or writing to the Chief of Naval Operations, Room 5E589, the Pentagon, Washington, DC 20350.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

Last week my brother-in-law and I made our annual pilgrimage to the old buffalo hunting town site of Rath City. Since Bob and I both share a passion for the buffalo history of our state we were excited about the prospects of once more retracing the steps of those wild, grizzled hunters of 1876-79. A cool breeze had kicked up when we arrived at the open field where the sod and picket buildings sat over 114 years ago. The rock monument placed on the site of Rath's store is the only object which might lead anyone to believe that the spot was anything other than open pasture and now a wheat field. Standing 300 yards from the old town site I glanced to the northeast and saw the blue forms of Double Mountain rising into the summer sky. As we neared the location of the dance hall and saloon traces of evidence lay scattered in the freshly plowed field that told of a time when men and women lived for the ecstasy of one wild night knowing not if morning would bring the hiss of a Comanche arrow and the hideous scream of dying men. Broken whiskey bottles spoke of a superficial escape from the uncertainty these men knew with the dawn of each day. A dip in the soil with the spade unearthed a huge lead slug, probably dropped from the cartridge belt of a liquor dazed hunter as he stood at the back of the crude saloon and cafe, dreading the dawn when he would point his wagons and men to the west and another month of solitude on the buffalo range. Rotten shell casings from the big killing guns known as the Sharps sometimes appear between the weed stalks, encrusted with a century of dirt and mud. As the morning wore on I retreated back to the pickup and what little shade that a lonely mesquite offered. Heat waves were now slithering into the sky above the town site, making Bob appear as a willowy choreographer reenacting the steps to a dance that died with the town in 1879.

Enjoying the camp out

Area youth enjoy camp out on river

About 20 area youth spent two days recently on the Clear Fork of the Brazos River at a special range and wildlife camp. The camp, sponsored by the Soil Conservation Services in Haskell and Jones counties, included youth from Anson, Stamford, Lueders, Haskell, Rochester and Paint Creek.

Topics such as plant identification, wildlife and soil types were covered and those attending also enjoyed traditional games such as volleyball and nontraditional games such as cow patty relays in the Clear Fork.

Haskell Ag Science teacher James Bevel explained, "These young folks seem to really enjoy our schedule of working for an hour and playing for an hour." With temperatures over 100°, the river was a welcome relief to students and teachers.

This is the second year for the camp and Soil Conservation Officials hope to continue the camp in the future. Donations to support the event may be made to either the Haskell or Jones County Soil Conservation Service.

Assisting were: Chuck Vest, Parks and Wildlife Dept., Anson; Ricky Linex, Range Conservationist, Abilene; Nathan Anderson, Co. Agent, Jones Co.; John Tate, District Conservationist, Anson; Bob Waddell, District Conservationist, Haskell; James Bevel, Ag Science Teacher, Haskell; Donnie Kiker, Ag Science Teacher, Anson; Steven Green, Ag Science Teacher, Paint Creek; John Jensen, Ag Science Teacher, Lueders; Craig Edwards, Ag Science Teacher, Stamford; Lance Sloan and Shawn Barbour, Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District employees.

License plates to feature new wording

The eyes of Texas may think they're seeing things beginning next spring. But deep in the hearts of Texans, they'll know it's true.

That really will be "The Lone Star State" written across the bottoms of Texas license plates on passenger cars.

"Texans have made their pride plain, to the point of making it the object of legislation," said Arnold Oliver, engineer-director of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. "We obviously have a lot to be proud of, and our newest license plate, with its flat and 'The Lone Star State,' couldn't trumpet that any more loudly."

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission approved the new design in its July meeting. The new tags will begin appearing when all the current plates are issued, probably by early spring, said Lawrence Smith of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Two years ago, the slogan surfaced as an alternative to using the proposed "The Friendship State," rejected by the commission after Texans said they didn't like the idea. ("Friendship" is the state's official motto.) The commission opted not to mess with Texas plates except to add the Texas flag on the upper left.

This spring, the Texas Legislature passed a resolution suggesting the department consider adding "The Lone Star State" to redesigned plates.

"Though the resolution conveyed a suggestion, we agreed it was time to put Texas' unofficial but best-loved label on the plates, Oliver said.

Mistakes are simply invitation to try again.

Absentee voting underway

Absentee balloting for the Aug. 24 city election began Monday and will continue through Aug. 20.

The special election will determine if the city can issue certificates of obligation to finance construction of a new city hall.

Voters are reminded that the election is to determine if the city may issue the bonds. They will not be voting on whether to build a new city hall.

City Administrator Bob Baker said the city chose to use the certificates for two reasons. "First, they are the least expensive way," said Baker. "Second, they will keep the money local."

"If the voters turn down this method, the council will be forced to use a more expensive method to finance the project and it will take the money out of town," said Baker.

Baker also said that other methods of financing do not require voter approval.

Tanner heads Booster club

Ronny Tanner was elected president of the Haskell Booster Club when the organization held its first meeting of the year Monday.

Danny Josselet was elected vice president, Debi Burson is secretary, Phyllis Coleman is treasurer and Kathleen Tanner is reporter.

Coach Walter Hargrove told club members that the new football stands and new scoreboard should be in place in time for the first home game Sept. 13.

Boosters voted to sell caps and T-shirts at football games.

Next meeting of the club will be Tuesday, Sept. 3, in the ag building, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Coaches will be introduced at that time.

What is election about?

There has been much confusion about the Aug. 10 election(s). The following information has been prepared by John Hannah Jr., Secretary of State:

During the last session of the legislature, a school finance bill passed which radically alters the way school property taxes are collected and distributed.

The bill created 188 county education districts (CEDs) composed of the school districts in each county. Those county education districts will levy a property tax which will be distributed equally among school districts within the county education district.

The election to be held Aug. 10 will enable taxpayers in the county education districts to avail themselves of certain exemptions on their homesteads as well as open up the possibility of taxing certain tangible personal property.

What is on the Aug. 10 ballot?

There will be two elections held that day--a state constitutional amendment election and a school district election.

The state election involves two constitutional amendments: (1) Proposition 1 to allow certain property tax homestead exemptions and taxation of certain tangible personal property by the county education district; and (2) Proposition 2 which allows the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to issue up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to fund student loans.

The school districts will conduct a local option election on behalf of the county education district concerning the issues addressed by Proposition 1. The school ballot will be in three parts: (1) Whether to adopt a homestead exemption of 20 percent of market value; (2) Whether to adopt an additional exemption of $10,000 for the elderly and disabled; and (3) Whether to tax non-income producing tangible personal property.

What happens if Proposition 1 fails?

If this constitutional amendment fails statewide, the school district election whereby the voters authorize the exemptions will be disregarded. However, the governing body of the CED might adopt these exemptions under existing provisions of the constitution.

Does each school district have to approve the three ballot propositions for them to pass?

The results of each question will be added together for the county education district as a whole. If the question fails in one district, but passes the CED as a whole, it is still adopted by the CED.

Is a vote against Proposition 1 a vote against taxing tangible personal property by the CED?

Yes, but it is also a vote against voter-authorization for the CED to use homestead exemptions and elderly and disabled exemptions. As stated previously, the CED governing body might adopt these provisions following procedures set up under current law.

What items would be taxed as tangible personal property?

Perhaps tangible personal property can best be described by what it is not: It is not real property; it is not household goods, which are exempt from taxation by the Texas Constitution; it is not intangible property, such as stocks or bonds; and it is not income-producing property. The most obvious targets are cars, boats, airplanes and RVs.

Where do I vote?

Haskell County voters will cast their ballots on the constitutional amendments in their regular voting precincts. On the school questions, residents of Rule, Rochester and Paint Creek school districts will vote at the schools. Those in the Haskell school district will vote at the Haskell National Bank community room and the Weinert school.

Anson to host arts, crafts show

The Anson Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Harvest Arts and Craft Show" on Nov. 2 in the extension homemakers building in the City Park.

Those desiring to reserve booths should contact the Anson Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 351, Anson, TX 79501, or phone (915) 823-3259 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Congenital syphilis increase reported

Texas health officials have announced that the number of Texas babies reported born with syphilis more than doubled in 1990. Congenital syphilis, in infants younger than one year, increased in 1990 by 123 percent.

The rise in reports partly results from changes in national reporting methods. However, it appears that more Texans had syphilis in 1990 than in any other year for decades, according to the Texas Department of Health.

Ask VA

Q: I recently heard that the VA home loan guarantee fee increased. What are the new amounts.

A: The Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 increased loan funding fees for veterans making no down payment from 1.25 percent to 1.865 percent of the loan amount. For those veterans making a down payment of 5 percent, but less than 10 percent, the loan funding fee went from .75 percent to 1.375 percent of the loan amount. Veterans making a down payment of 10 percent or more saw the loan funding fee go from .5 percent to 1.125 percent of the loan amount. These increases are effective for loans closed between Nov. 1, 1990, and Sept. 30, 1991.

Free markers for veterans

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is still providing government headstones and markers to identify the graves of veterans at no cost to them or their survivors.

Although Congress has recently changed some monetary reimbursement benefits available to veterans, there was no change in the program that authorizes the headstones and grave markers.

Approximately 465,000 veterans died between Oct. 1, 1989, and Sept. 30, 1990. The families of about half of them requested VA headstones or markers.

Recycling and reusing the material in tin cans reduces related energy use by 74 percent, air pollution by 85 percent, solid waste by 95 percent and water pollution by 76 percent--yet only five percent of tin cans are recycled.

Firemen attend training school

Three Haskell firemen were among 5,000 firefighters from 25 countries and across Texas who attended the 62nd annual Texas Firemen's Training School on the campus of Texas A&M University.

The school, hosted by the Texas Engineering Extension Service and sponsored by the State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association was held July 15 to Aug. 2.

The Haskell group, consisting of Eddie Klose, Bill Steele and Scott Alves attended the classes held July 22-26.

Students practiced battling real fires on mock-ups of warehouses, automobiles, trucks, heater-treaters, rail cars and loading terminals. Firefighters attended basic and advanced courses depending on their level of expertise and previous training. Classes were conducted for Spanish-speaking firefighters as well as firefighters from industry, municipalities and those who work with hazardous materials.

Suppressing fires isn't the only concern of Texas firefighters who attended the municipal school. "There is a growing interest in agro-rescue," said Roger Fields, director of emergency services for the City of Friona. Fields was the instructor-in-charge of the "agro-rescue" course.

An accident on a farm outside of Bryan recently claimed the life of a well-known Texas A&M professor. According to Fields, these accidents make it necessary for firefighters to be trained in agricultural rescue.

Students practiced on a grain elevated storage tank, combine, hay swather, hay baler, brush cutter, tractor and auger trailer. Fields said the 30-hour course, which is designed to save lives, drew many volunteer firefighters from rural communities.

Other rescue courses also were taught. One involved high-rise rescue where participants rappelled from a five-story building.

Home prices to go higher

Higher home prices are imminent across Texas, says a researcher for the Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University.

"A declining supply of homes, coupled with a rising demand, will precipitate the higher prices," said Senior Research Economist Ted C. Jones.

Religious pageant now in progress

Summer productions of The Kendrick Religious Pageant, "The Life of Christ," began July 11 and will be presented each Thursday and Friday at 9 p.m. through Aug. 9. The production is two hours in length.

The pageant, described by Texas Monthly as the best outdoor drama in Texas, is staged off US 80, half way between Cisco and Eastland.

Bids sought from local contractors

Local contractors will have an opportunity to bid on the new city hall construction if they choose to participate in the bid process, City Administrator Bob Baker explained this week.

Baker said that state law requires that any renovation or new construction project of a public building costing more than $35,000 be by a bonded contractor.

"This should not be a problem for our local contractors," Baker said. "A bond runs about one or one-and-a-half percent of a project. Contractors simply include that cost in their bids, which enables them to more than recover the cost of the bond. The law also allows the council to give preference to local contractors and it is not required to take the low bid."

Baker said the city will advertise for bids and no one can be barred for reasons other than a poor performance record or bad credit.

"Local contractors are encouraged to bid on the construction and the council will give preference to them," Baker said.

The law also requires that all public building plans be drawn and supervised by an architect or an engineer. "We do not have anyone in Haskell; therefore we have had to go outside the city to secure this type of service," Baker said.

City taxes due to drop by 4%

City ad valorem taxes (property taxes) will be reduced next year, even with the construction of a new city hall, City Administrator Bob Baker said Tuesday.

Baker said taxes will be decreased 4 percent.

He said a home owner with a house appraised at $40,000 will see his city property taxes reduced from $114.52 to $110.

Baker said records at the Haskell County Appraisal District office reveal that the average home in Haskell is appraised at $23,000. Taxes on an average home last year were $65.84. These will decrease to $63.25 next year.

Cheerleader camp
