Mindy has reserve champ steer at Fort Worth show

Brings record $32,000 in Saturday sale

"I'm going to miss him because I've spent so much time with him. He's like a big pet."

Mindy Ballard, 17-year-old Rochester senior, was talking about "Tiger," the 1,219-pound Limousin steer which was crowned overall reserve grand champion last Friday at the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show in Fort Worth.

But to help take the sting out of losing her "pet", Mindy pocketed $32,000 from the Saturday sale of her prize animal.

The steer was bought by a group made up of National Health Insurance, Haynes and Boone law firm and Comerica Bank of Texas. The price was the largest ever paid for a reserve champion steer at the big Fort Worth show, topping the previous record of $17,000 paid in 1978.

Joe Goynes, vice chairman of Comerica Bank of Texas, said "something worthwhile" will be done with the reserve champion steer, but declined to give details.

The big win in Fort Worth climaxed a tremendous year for Miss Ballard and her prize steer. The steer had garnered numerous honors during the current show season which began in September. It was champion Limousin at the West Texas Fair in Abilene, grand champion overall at the Haskell County Fair in September, reserve champion Limousin at the Heart of Texas Fair in Waco in October, grand champion overall at the King County Fair in October, champion Limousin at the Tarleton State Spectacular in Stephenville in November.

Mindy picked up another $2,238 in Saturday's sale when her other steer, a 1,279-pound Limousin which won fifth place in its division, sold for $1.75 per pound.

Mindy said she will use the money to finance her college education. She plans to enter Tarleton State University next fall and major in agriculture.

Mindy has been extremely active in 4-H work, as well as school activities. Last fall, she was chosen

Winner

Jesse Medford, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Medford, won a first-place trophy in form Saturday at the West Texas Taekwondo Championships in Snyder.

Paint Creek chosen for pilot program

"It's an honor, but also a challenge."

That's the way Paint Creek Superintendent Jerry Morgan sized up his school's selection as one of 82 state schools chosen for the Partnership Schools Initiative pilot program.

Under the program, the 82 schools will be able to dispense with state rules and may adopt their own criteria to impede student achievement.

Texas Education Commissioner Skip Meno called the 82 schools "pioneers" in an effort to achieve excellence and equity in student performances.

Paint Creek was one of three schools chosen from Region 14. Others are Jane Long Elementary in Abilene and the Colorado City school system.

The program's goals are to eliminate barriers to improved student achievement and to narrow performance gaps between various populations.

Terry Harlow, executive director of the Region 14 Education Service Center, explained that state regulations tend to "enclose and entrap" educators from initiating innovative change.

Examples of such rules might include the 180-day school year, the 22-1 student-teacher ratio through the fourth grade, the length of the school day or amount of time spent in each subject area, and staff development requirements, he said.

"We've opened the door to a new playing field instead of being bogged down," Harlow said. "We're almost in a web of rules and regulations sometimes."

"The sky's the limit without the constrictions. Districts can become pro-active and can look to make a difference instead of waiting for it to happen. The bottom line is student achievement."

The schools, selected from 1,600 applicants, must devise by July program plans for the next three to five years, beginning with implementation in September.

Morgan listed no specific areas at this time, but said Paint Creek will start identifying needs for student improvement, particularly among at-risk pupils.

"A new direction might help them," Morgan said. "The needs of the kids will dictate the program. It's a breath of fresh air for us to improve student performance on our own."

Smith advances in show competition

Sheree Smith, a 21-year-old Angelo State University student from Haskell, hopes to break through and conquer a $50,000 prize in the American Gladiator competition.

At least she hopes to be on the television show, which pits amateur athletes against each other, and against professional gladiators in events such as Assault, Atlas Sphere, Power Ball, and Break Through and Conquer.

Smith got a taste of the action during a San Angelo competition Wednesday night (Jan. 29), which she won by defeating Abilene aerobics instructor Paula Timm.

Timm, who trains at Abilene's Power Shack Gym, was one of three Abilenians in the competition. Rob Myers and Victor Munoz competed in the men's division, but neither advanced to the finals.

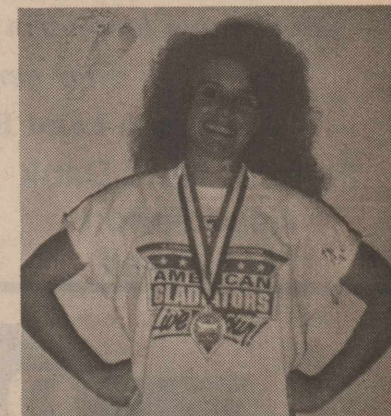

By winning, Smith might be selected as one of 48 contestants chosen for the television show. She said she understands that from the pool of competitors, 16 will be chosen for the finals in Atlantic City. The winner will receive $50,000.

"I'm a fan of the show," Smith said. "I watch it every week."

Wednesday's competition started with four men and four women.

Harlow, who has assigned a full-time professional from the center to work as a facilitator with the three Region 14 schools, stressed that the Partnership Schools Initiative schools must be successful.

"If PSI proves successful in that expectations and student performance increase, there's no question it will help us move faster in that kind of thinking statewide," Harlow said.

Sheree Smith

The women competed against gladiators Ice, Diamond, Storm, and two new ones, Jazz and Silver, Smith said.

After three events, half the contestants were eliminated. Smith and Timm competed in three more events with Smith coming out ahead on points.

"I like Joust the best because you compete one on one with a gladiator," she said.

"I enjoyed the competition. I think the gladiators are good role models for the kids. They really played up to the kids."

Smith said she heard about the tryouts and thought it would be fun. Her husband, Brady, encouraged her to participate, she

Park dedication program Saturday

A dedication program, highlighted by entertainment, will mark the completion of the Rice Springs Park project in Haskell Saturday afternoon.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend the activities, which begin at 2:45.

Entertainment will be provided by Ford Cole, Christye and Andy Gannaway and Brian Burgess.

Following the entertainment will be the dedication ceremony. Special guests will be friends and relatives of members of the Bonehead Club, the organization which founded the park.

The park project is now complete. Improvements include the new lighted jogging track, a cardio-vascular workout station, new playground equipment, the gazebo and the new soccer field.

Cost of the project was approximately $70,000 with the state providing $35,000 to match City of Haskell expenditures. Most of the city's share was in in-kind labor. The actual amount of money put up by the city was about $15,000, said city administrator Robert Baker.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers, CPA

NEW ESTIMATED TAX RULES for 1992

On November 15, 1991, President Bush signed a law extending unemployment benefits. The extension of benefits will be paid for by accelerating the estimated tax payments of certain upper-income taxpayers. The new rules apply for 1992 estimated tax payments.

In the past, taxpayers could avoid penalties for underpaying estimated taxes as long as they made current year payments at least equal to their prior year's tax liability. The new law limits the use of this safe harbor. Starting this year, prepaying 100% of last year's tax liability will no longer be adequate if:

- your 1992 adjusted gross income is more than $75,000 ($37,500 if married, filing separately), and
- your adjusted gross income for 1992 exceeds your 1991 income by more than $40,000 ($20,000 if married, filing separately), and
- you made estimated tax payments in any of the three prior years or were assessed a penalty for failing to pay estimated taxes.

If you fall into this category, your 1992 estimated tax payments must equal at least 90% of your 1992 tax liability. You are allowed to base your first quarterly estimated tax payment for 1992 (due April 15, 1992) on one-fourth of your 1991 tax liability. However, you'll have to make up any shortfall with your June 15 payment.

There are some exceptions to the new rules. If the increase in your adjusted gross income is from a home sale, an involuntary conversion, or a minor ownership interest in an S corporation or a limited partnership, the new rule can be avoided.

The bottom line is that if the new rules apply to you, you may have to do more calculating to determine the amount of each quarter's estimate. Failure to do so can subject you to significant penalties.

From the Inside Out

I appreciated all of the Haskell elementary students who tried out for the interscholastic speech events I helped judge. It takes time and effort for them to prepare to enter, and having been in their shoes several times, I empathized with each one as to what they were going through trying to remember all the coaching and helpful advice they had been given. This made me remember Betty Charles McBrady.

While we waited in a backstage room that night, our parents and the judges waited out front for us to begin the story-telling contest. The prize at stake was the honor of representing our school in the County Interscholastic League meet in Plainview.

This was my first taste of contest. Seven years old, I was not too wise in ways of the world or winning, but I could recall details of stories pretty well, so I really didn't think beyond trying to do that. I just waited.

But, Betty Charles, bubbly and outgoing, brought a new dimension to my perception of "vying for first."

"I'm going to win, you know," she confidently announced. "My granddaddy told me that all I have to do is go out there and show 'em how the cow ate the cabbage, and that's just what I'm going to do."

Her granddaddy was "old Doc McBrady", who, I'd heard my daddy say, had a reputation for swabbing throats (regardless of symptoms), having deaf-as-door-nail ears and feet of clay. I figured with all of that he must surely know how to "show 'em". I'd never heard the expression before, but Betty Charles repeated it several times with such unabashed assurance, she made a believer out of me. I, too, thought she'd win, and rather envied her for getting such advice.

I don't remember what the story was that we were to tell, but I can still see every detail of Betty Charles as she bounced out on stage with got-it-in-the-bag confidence popping joyfully from every little robus, blonde pore.

I did a complete mental inventory of the reasons she was going to win. Everything about her seemed to be performing just right--blonde, curls bobbed, dimples dimpled, thick lashed eyes danced, sturdy muscles rippled smoothly under white rayon, well-filled stockings, and high insteps arched in blonde leather Mary Jane slippers.

Running down a compared-to-me inventory, I was painfully aware of being skinny bones, freckles and long, flat feet inside black patent roman sandals. Besides, I hadn't received from any of my family the "how to" she'd been given. How could I possibly expect to win? It never occurred to me that the judges might be using a different set of criteria than what I'd worked up.

By the time I was called to recite I'd allowed myself to become so intimidated by the total "Betty Charles" package that I can't recall a single thing about it except that neither of us won.

I knew the story well, but had no confidence in winning. She was so confident of winning she didn't pay attention to learning the story. Two losers, each one defeating herself.

Her family moved away while we were still in grade school. I've hardly thought of her during these last 60 years.

But, bless you, Betty Charles. You were my first encounter with learning that just knowing the story well doesn't guarantee a win--that it's how you feel about yourself that leaves you free to use your abilities to their full potential.

Contrary to what I perceived about it that night, I hope you didn't get all of that self confidence from your colorful granddaddy's advice, those dimples or your little enviable, arched feet. It took a while for me to accept the fact that well-grounded confidence has to come from something inside us, and that if we have a good, healthy attitude about our capabilities, and have respect for who and what we are, then whether we win or lose, as long as we know we gave it everything we've got, we can feel good about ourselves.

So thanks, Betty Charles, wherever you are today, with insteps arching smoothly in those blonde leather SAS comfies. I hope you have, indeed, been able to show at least a few of 'em "how the cow ate the cabbage." And I'll bet you have.

Maidens regain form

The Haskell Maidens halted their tailspin in Hamlin Tuesday night by taking a 45-43 victory over the Lady Pipers.

The victory left the Maidens with a 2-2 record for the second half of the 7-2A race. They won the first half with a perfect 7-0 record.

Haskell held a narrow 25-24 cushion at halftime, but outscored the Lady Pipers 10-4 in the third period, before Hamlin rallied in the final frame to make a close contest.

Shana McKenzie topped the scoring for Haskell with 16 points.

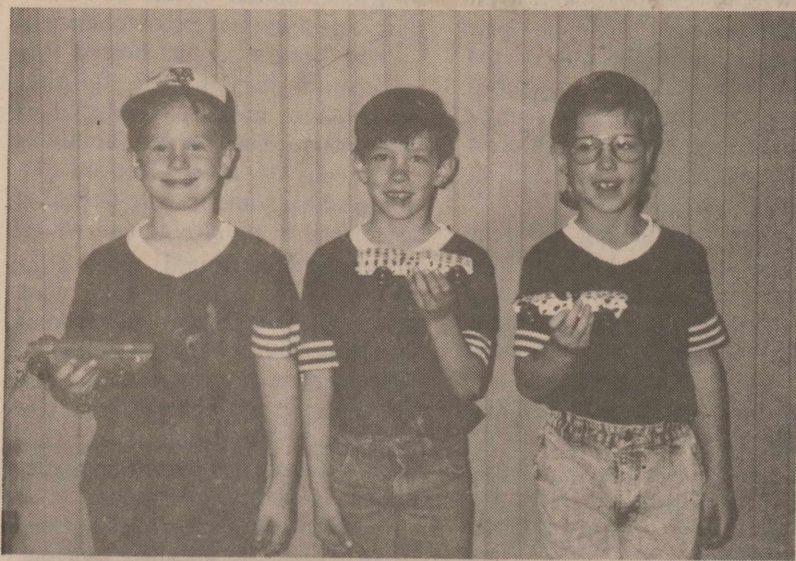

The Indians saw their district record drop to 2-2 as they bowed to the host Pied Pipers, 63-61.

The Indians overcame a 35-29 halftime deficit to move out front, 46-45, at the three-quarter mark, but the Pipers rallied for 18 points in the fourth period while the Indians were getting 15.

Tommie Isbell scored 27 points for the Indians and Chris Tanner added 18.

Last Friday night at Hawley, the Indians took a 57-53 victory over the Bearcats as Tanner scored 19 points and Isbell added 14.

Beat the boring February blahs. That is what we all would like to do. When it's mid-February, spring can seem centuries away. I'm going to give you and me a few suggestions that may help us:

1. Let your housework slide, (imagine us doing that), tune in your favorite record or tape.
2. Bake a surprise present for a neighbor, lonely widow or young mother. It will warm your heart as well as your kitchen.
3. Read a good book, or take a trip.
4. Volunteer to read to someone, or help with a worthwhile service project.
5. Go to the florist or plant store and buy some potted hyacinths and fill your room with sight and scent. (I've already done this and it really helps.)
6. Offer to shop for an elderly relative or neighbor.
7. Write a long, chatty letter to a friend. Reading it might be enough to cure her February "blahs".

Now this is for the birds! Nandina makes an excellent winter food source because it holds its berries all the way to spring. It will attract mockingbirds, cardinals, sparrows, catbirds and juncos, if they're around.

If you have a four-cup heart mold, make the birds a valentine. Take one and one-fourth pounds of suet in a sauce pan and melt in the oven. It will make about two cups of liquid fat. Stir in one half cup of crushed peanuts, sunflower seeds, and cracked corn kernels into the fat. Spoon into a mold, it doesn't have to be heart shaped, any shape will do. Place a drinking straw into the top for a hole. Cool in the refrigerator until solid. Un-mold, remove the straw, thread with a string, and tie to a shaded tree branch.

As trees, shrubs and flowers sprout new growth, keep an eye open for aphids. These are small, soft-bodied insects that may be yellow, green, black or other colors. They bite the plants and suck their sap, causing foliage to become distorted. Spray with Malathion, Diazinon, Orthene, or an insecticidal soap, applied according to label directions.

Now is time to start seeds of warm-weather annuals, such as coleus, impatiens, marigold, petunias, zinnias and begonias indoors. You can save money by starting from seed instead of buying bedding plants.

"Yards of ivy frame the scene, An emerald necklace for a queen, While glowing on the windowsill, A touch of spring . . . a daffodil."

Child Welfare Board

The Haskell County Child Welfare Board met in regular session Jan. 21 in the DHS office.

Six members, along with Cindy Ashbury, Haskell County caseworker, and Linda Haynes, CPS supervisor, were present.

In the absence of Tom Long, chairman, the secretary, Mary Martin, called the meeting to order and Floyd Chenault led in prayer.

The secretary read the minutes of the Dec. 10 meeting and they were approved after corrections were made. Sue Miller, treasurer, reported on funds received from pictures with Santa Claus. Brian Burgess has furnished the camera and film. She listed other donations from various sources. Nancy Toliver received wrapping paper from the Mayflower Paper Co.

Mrs. Haynes presented the complete list of those donating money, toys, food, clothing, wrapping paper, boxes and gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Weinert, Dr. Bill McSmith, Hazel Weaver Bible Class, Pauline Couch, Trinity Baptist Church, Bobby and Kathryn Medford, Hortense Lees, Jerrene Couch, Progressive Study Club.

Also Stamford Electric Co-op, Debbie Earles, Sharie Dunnam, Haskell County Retired Teachers Doris Jones, Irene Hudson, Church of Christ, Rochester Boy Scouts, Lane-Felker, Boggs and Johnson, Haskell 4-H Club, Pauline De Shazo, GA's from East Side Baptist Church, Ben McGee, First United Methodist Church, Haskell Elementary School, Kids' Duds, Mary Lou Gilliland, Faith Lutheran Church of Sagerton, Haskell Young

Lona Mae Phelps, Janie Villa and Elsie Ruiz helped with wrapping gifts. Philip Martin and Randy McLelland helped with Santa photos of 140 children in 52 families. The board expressed appreciation to all who aided.

Plans for Child Abuse Prevention Month in April were discussed. Mrs. Haynes passed out bookmarkers which had been prepared by Archer County Child Welfare Board. "Words can hit a child as hard as a fist," a picture of a crying child and a list of "helping words" were on one side and a list of seven members to call for help if there is abuse in the family on the other side. Several other ideas will be investigated.

Mrs. Martin had attended Region 04 Advisory Council in Abilene on Jan. 20 and Foster/Adoptive Parent Council on Jan. 21. New contracts for funds had been received from the state by both groups and both reported on what had been done for children for Christmas. A variety of ideas was presented for fund-raising. One county board received funds from donated jurors' fees.

Mrs. Haynes presented the Children's Protective Services report. There were 35 referrals. Four children have been placed with other families.

Haskell Soil & Water Conservation District

If you get your water from a public water system it is already checked for most contaminants. But if you live in one of the 10.5 million rural households with a private well, you are responsible for testing and maintaining your drinking water quality.

Annual testing of household wells is a relatively inexpensive and good idea. You should be concerned if any fecal bacteria are detected in the well. Bacteria of this type are commonly found in older, shallow wells in porous soil near faulty septic systems or animal feedlots.

Nitrate testing is also important and is relatively inexpensive. In a recently conducted survey of well water, nitrates were the most common contaminants. It has been estimated that over 50 percent of the wells nationwide contain nitrates. About 1.2 percent of community wells and 2.4 percent of rural wells have nitrate concentrations that might pose a risk to public health. Nitrates in concentrations above health standards of 45 MG/L are associated with health problems in infants and young farm animals.

Testing wells for pesticide contamination can be important also, but testing for pesticides can be expensive and may require special sampling procedures. The decision to conduct these tests will probably depend on your level of concern or indications that a problem may be developing. An elevated nitrate concentration in the well could indicate that you want to test for pesticides too.

Preventative measures should be the main concern in keeping your well free of contaminants. Make sure the well is properly cased and a concrete pad is installed around the casing at the soil surface. Abandoned wells should be plugged. Septic systems, livestock yards, gas storage tanks, chemical storage areas or other concentrated sources of contamination should be located at least 150 feet from the well.

For more information on well testing, call Danny Lamberth at the Seymour Water Quality Project Office, SCS, (817) 864-3334.

Have you had enough rain? Our tank is plumb full, and the creek looks like a lake. We can't get hay to some of the cows because the roads are a boggy mess. The school bus has changed its route, and comes around on the pavement and down our muddy, muddy road to pick up the Medfords and Overtons, and back to the pavement. People who have cotton in the field have had it washed and dried, and washed and dried. I feel sorry for the poor old cows who have to bog around in the mud. But let's not complain. Next summer we'll be wishing for a good rain on our baby cotton.

On Jan. 2nd, Bob Earles had orthoscopic knee surgery. He was on crutches for several weeks, but now he is off the crutches, and walking.

Miss Maxie Speer was my mother's oldest sister. She taught school for over fifty years, and taught at Georgetown, Rule, Plainview and Arlington. Her sweetheart died of pneumonia just two weeks before their wedding, and she never married. After she retired, there was a new school being built in Arlington, and when the school board was trying to decide what to name it, they found that Aunt Mackey had taught every man on that board to read. So they named it "Maxie Speer Elementary." Every year on her birthday, the school children invite her to visit school, and for two or three years they gave her a gift. She put a stop to that, and suggested that they buy something for the school. So they did. Every year on Aunt Mackey's birthday, they brought their nickles and dimes and bought something the school needed.

Of the over 2000 schools in Texas, two of the 50 schools chosen to try the new method of teaching were Paint Creek and Maxie Speer Elementary in Arlington. Aunt Mackey would be so pleased. Haskell friends will remember that Mrs. Fitzgerald taught at Maxie Speer until she retired.

They made over $300.00, and Wal-Mart contributed some more. The money is for the Gifted and Talented group to visit the Space Center at NASA.

Our senior boys basketball team won District. They are the best team we have had in a long time. Keep your fingers crossed that they win more.

Immunosuppression Stows Some Diabetes Progression: Immunosuppressant drugs, like cyclosporine, which are given to transplant patients, also may slow the progression of insulin-dependent diabetes (type 1). In a 5-year study of more than 600 patients, French doctors showed that 30% to 50% of patients had remission of diabetes that lasted 2 to 4 years, and they needed less insulin upon relapse than those taking only insulin.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

- I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

PHARMACY NEWS

By Elbert Johnson, Registered Pharmacist
Immunosuppression Stows Some Diabetes Progression: Immunosuppressant drugs, like cyclosporine, which are given to transplant patients, also may slow the progression of insulin-dependent diabetes (type 1). In a 5-year study of more than 600 patients, French doctors showed that 30% to 50% of patients had remission of diabetes that lasted 2 to 4 years, and they needed less insulin upon relapse than those taking only insulin.

"DECISIONS MADE EARLY"

Many people plan for what might happen—fire, burglary, injury, and accidents. Now more and more people are planning for what will inevitably happen. It simply makes good sense to prepare for that which we can not avoid.

Pre-need funeral arranging allows one to control the type of service they would prefer, select a means of financing it, freeze the prices at today's price, and save loved ones the anguish of deciding these matters at a later date. Really it is the loving thing to do for your family.

Ondie Brum

Ex-con leads revival

A man who served a prison sentence on a drug charge will be guest evangelist Sunday at a one-day revival at East Side Baptist Church.

Ondie Brum, whose family came to America from Austria after World War II, will speak at both services, 10:55 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Brum said he was arrested the first time when he was 14, began using drugs when he was 16 and was in prison when he was 20.

Brum graduated from Southwestern Baptist Seminary in 1989 and is now minister of evangelism at Cedar Bayou Baptist Church in Baytown.

President Bush has called Brum's personal testimony on drug use "a power tool in the battle we must all fight together if we hope to win."

The public is invited to attend the services. A nursery will be provided.

FmHA now taking loan applications

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by thunderstorms and flooding are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office in Haskell, FmHA Supervisor Larry McDaniel said Monday.

Haskell County is one of 30 counties in Texas recently named by the secretary of agriculture as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the severe thunderstorms and flooding.

McDaniel said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30-percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," McDaniel said. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their losses.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until Sept. 17, but farmers should apply as soon as possible," McDaniel said. "Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season," McDaniel said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Haskell is located at 1203B S. Ave. E, and is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

WTU files suit to protect rights

West Texas Utilities Company has filed a lawsuit in Travis County to protect rights to property taxes it will pay to the state's new county education districts (CEDs). WTU said it would pay its $9.8 million in taxes, including $4 million to CEDs, by the Jan. 31 deadline.

"The lawsuit was not filed to deny necessary funds to the school districts, but to protect the rights of the company and its customers if the tax is declared unconstitutional," said Gene Rhoads, Haskell division manager. "Property taxes are an expense that goes into the cost of the product or service for any business and eventually are paid by customers."

"Because payments made without filing this suit would be considered voluntary payments by the Texas courts we have been forced to file a protective suit to reduce the risk of paying double taxes," Rhoads said. "We realize that the schools need the funds. That's why we do not want to withhold the tax spending a court decision."

WTU joined a number of other Texas companies in the action.

Cases now are pending before the Supreme Court, raising questions about the legality of the Texas school property tax law passed in 1991. The court is expected to decide the issue in early February.
