before halftime to break a scoreless tie and he and his Rochester Steer teammates went on to defeat the Moran Bulldogs, 37-8, in Haskell Friday night to advance to the second round of the state playoffs.

Brown's extra point kick gave the unbeaten Steers an 8-0 lead they nourished through halftime.

Brown scored twice more in the third period, first on a 1-yard run and then on a 78-yard scamper as the Steers stretched their margin to 22-0 by the end of the quarter.

Kyle Hollingsworth ran 18 yards for another Rochester touchdown in the fourth period and then the Steers scored again on a 1-yard pass from Shannon King to Matt Cisneros to stretch their lead to 37-0.

Moran's lone score came in the final 30 seconds when Benji Sanders ran 5 yards for a touchdown.

Brown wound up the night with 235 rushing yards on 21 carries. He also was credited with 14 tackles. Cisneros was the top Rochester tackler, however, with 15 tackles. He also intercepted a Moran pass and recovered a Moran fumble.

Sanders was top ground-gainer for the Bulldogs with 190 yards in 24 carries. Paul Kunkel had 15 tackles for the Bulldogs.

39th District Attorney John Fouts said his office never has been contacted about Swink's release and probably won't be. In most mandatory release cases, the inmate is just taken to his release site with no notification, he said.

The effect of the petitions on Swink's release site is hard to determine, Fouts said. However, the 2,900 signatures from six counties can't hurt.

"It does show there's definitely an interest and not just in Stonewall County," he said.

The people affected the most by Swink's actions don't mince words about his possibly coming back.

"I just don't want him here to ruin the rest of our kids' lives," said Jacquelyn Wall.

Troy Swink had even stronger words: "In my opinion he should have got the death penalty when he done it."

Night watchman hired by City

Robert Yeldell was hired Monday night as city night watchman.

He will replace Fred Draper, who has served as night watchman since Nov. 15, 1975. Draper will retire Nov. 21.

Cotton program provisions revealed

A preliminary 17.5-percent Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) requirement for the 1994 upland cotton program has been announced by the USDA.

The Agriculture Act of 1949, as amended, requires the upland cotton ARP to be announced by Nov. 1. It also requires that the program lead to a supply/use situation in which ending stocks approximate as closely as possible 30 percent of the projected total of domestic mill use and exports for the 1994 marketing year.

Based on USDA's October supply and use estimates, the 17.5-percent ARP level is believed most likely to achieve ending stocks meeting this ratio. A final ARP requirement, which may be different from today's preliminary announcement, must be announced by Jan. 1.

Other 1994 crop upland cotton program provisions announced this month include:

--The established target price will be the statutory minimum of 72.9 cents per pound.

--A 50-cents-per-pound price support loan level, the statutory minimum, is established for the base quality. The base quality for the 1994 crop will be color grade 41, leaf grade 4, staple length 1 1/16 inches, micronaire 3.5--3.6 and 4.3--4.9, strength 24-25 grams per tex.

--No paid land diversion will be offered.

--No set-aside on oats, barley, wheat and sorghum. Corn has a 5-percent reduction.

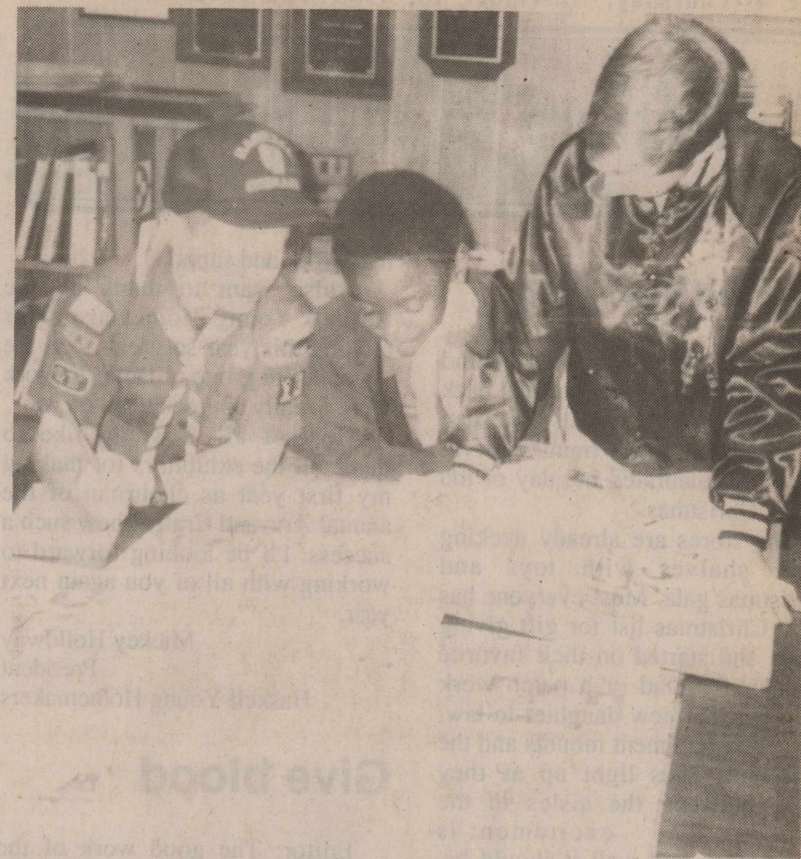

No walk-ins at Vet Center

Effective Nov. 15, the VA Medical Center in Big Spring will no longer see walk-in patients at the outpatient clinic, except in emergencies.

All veterans now must make appointments before receiving service at the Big Spring facility.

D. E. Livengood, Haskell County Veterans Service officer, said help in making appointments is available through his office.

The county office is open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Phone number is 864-8943.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

UNCLE SAM IS UNROMANTIC ABOUT INCOME TAXES

Can a married couple live more cheaply than two singles? In many cases, the answer is yes. But when it comes to income taxes, you may find that it costs more than ever to tie the marital knot.

A "marriage penalty" has been part of the tax law for many years. As a result, some married couples pay more tax than two singles earning the same amount of income. The reason for the marriage penalty is buried in the structure of the tax rates. When Congress changes rates and tax brackets, the marriage penalty is likely to be affected, as for 1993.

Example: The Browns are a two-income couple with no children. One spouse earns $50,000, the other earns $150,000, and they have $40,000 of itemized deductions. Under the new tax law, which is effective for all of 1993, the Browns will pay a marriage penalty of about $3,000, up from about $1,700 under previous law.

As a married couple, the Browns are in the 36% tax bracket for 1993. If they were single, one spouse would be in a lower tax bracket. That's the main reason the Browns are subject to the marriage penalty. Last year, with the same income, the Browns would have been in the joint 31% tax bracket, which is why they were subject to a smaller marriage penalty under previous law.

The marriage penalty can also hit lower-income couples and retirees on social security with fairly modest incomes. Divorce is one way to eliminate the marriage penalty. Another, less drastic solution is to give us a call. With proper planning, we may be able to help you lessen the sting of the marriage penalty.

--Letters to the Editor--

Thanksgiving

Editor: With Halloween behind us, and with the clocks turned back one hour, everyone feels refreshed and ready to start the frantic rush for the most celebrated holiday of the year, "Christmas."

The stores are already decking their shelves with toys and Christmas gala. Most everyone has their Christmas list for gift giving made and started on their favorite sweater for Dad or a patch work quilt for that new daughter-in-law, etc. The excitement mounts and the children's eyes light up as they walk between the aisles in the stores. The excitement is contagious, and well it should be, because Christmas is the time we celebrate the birth of Christ.

Somewhere along the way we have tread in the fast lane so long we have almost by-passed Thanksgiving. It would almost seem fitting to put the Thanksgiving holiday in say "August," since August seems to be the only month without a holiday. During the month of August we all seem to be at a standstill with the temperature soaring, tempers short, vacations over, or not yet begun. That would be an appropriate time to stop and give thanks, and reflect on all the good things we have in the land of plenty, vacation times could mean family gatherings and counting our many blessings.

The first Thanksgiving Day was set aside for special purpose and prayer in July 1623, in News England. It has varied in the United States until 1941 when Congress ruled the 4th Thursday of November as the legal Thanksgiving holiday.

I'm not suggesting we change the holiday. It would not be the same any other time of the year. I would like to urge everyone to give some thought to what we're doing, and keep Thanksgiving in its proper perspective. Let's open our eyes to see that we have cause to give thanks, and praise, not only in good times, but when economic crisis hit, by slowing down we have a greater chance to learn the repentance for waste, skills in thrift and utilization, and be more content with simpler styles. So this Thanksgiving holiday let's let it be what it was originally set aside for. Let's look forward to it with as much anticipation and excitement as we do Christmas. Let's don't squeeze it out on the way the way to Christmas.

Young Homemakers

Editor: I would like to take this time to thank a very special group of ladies---the Haskell Young Homemakers.

On Nov. 13, the annual Arts and Crafts Show was held at the Haskell Civic Center and with it being my first year to chair this event, it was definitely an experience, but being that we have such a wonderful group of ladies in our organization this year, they helped make this event a success.

I want to give a very special "Thank You" to Bonita Tatum for being my right hand through this event. I really do appreciate all her hard work and support.

I also want to thank all the Haskell Young Homemakers for making this year so great. You are a wonderful group of ladies to work with. I really appreciate all of you.

Most of all, I would like to thank all the exhibitors for making my first year as chairman of the annual Arts and Crafts Show such a success. I'll be looking forward to working with all of you again next year.

Give blood

Editor: The good work of the American Red Cross depends upon the contributions of many people: volunteers, financial supporters, blood donors and others throughout the community.

This support does not come easily, however. Every American family is faced with many choices in how it spends its money and time. And, with the advent of the "Me Generation" it's becoming harder to recruit people to give of themselves and their resources to help others. We are losing long time blood donors due to age, illness, or moves, but we are replacing very few with new donors. Our list of donors in Haskell County is 25 percent smaller than it was just five years ago.

Our next Haskell County Red Cross Bloodmobile is scheduled for next Tuesday, Nov. 23, from 3 to 6:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church Family Activity Center.

The Bible says if you want to give something to God, help one that He loves, a person in need. David said he would not offer something to God that cost him nothing. If you are truly thankful this Thanksgiving season that you are well, that your children don't need blood, that your mate is not clinging to life by a heartbeat, giving blood can be a true expression of thanksgiving and love to God (greatest commandment) and of help and blessing to your neighbor (what the Bible calls true religion and equal to the greatest commandment). It will cost you in time and some minor discomfort, but it will be a sweet sacrifice in the eyes of God.

My children wince at the thought of giving blood and ask why I do it. I tell them that because God loved me and shed his blood that I might have eternal life, his love in me makes me want to give my blood so that others can live. And we have donors who have given many gallons of blood over the years. And yet there are healthy people who have never once given blood. Come and bring a friend.

If you can't but would like to help, we need a couple of folks who can give about an hour four times a year to call our donor list the day of the bloodmobile to remind regular donors that the bloodmobile is in town. We also need some Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts who need to do a community project to put bloodmobile posters up the weekends before the bloodmobile comes to Haskell. If you can help with either of these jobs, call me at State Farm Insurance office, 864-3250. Happy Thanksgiving.

Paint Creek club has meeting

Five members and one guest of the Paint Creek Family Community Education Club met Nov. 1 at the Haskell County Community Education office.

The meeting was called to order by Dorthay Wells, club chairman. She gave a devotion on "A Day At A Time."

Every club member answered roll call with "What I do to relax." The minutes were read and approved. The treasury report was given. The club paid their dues for the coming year. They also discussed the 4-H committee recommendation.

The club discussed its cookie exchange for Dec. 6 at 10 a.m. in the office of the Haskell County Family Community Education. Everyone is to bake each club member a dozen cookies and two extra dozen for gifts.

Information Day was discussed as what each club member would bring for a covered dish lunch and the club's duty for Nov. 20.

The program was "Fashion Roundup--Restyle, Remake, Recycle," by the county agent, Lou Gilly. She gave a very interesting program on an old quilt jacket recycle, a man suit restyle, vests, pot holders, collars, garment bag, purse, placemats made from old denim jeans.

Refreshments were served by several of the ladies. A Thanksgiving theme was carried out on the refreshment table. Those present were Frances Fischer, Lena Petrick, Peggy Burnett, Dolores Medford, Dorthay Wells and Lou Gilly.

Next meeting will be a cookie exchange Dec. 6.

--Marriage Licenses--

Only one marriage license was issued in October by County Clerk Rhonda Moeller.

It went to Troy Eugene Wilcox and Wilma Masters Watts, both of Haskell.

--Library Notes--

By Joan Strickland

Hopefully by the time you read this I will have an order placed for some new reading material. It has been a while since we've received any new books and it has been almost that long since any of the better writers have completed any new works.

Our new hours are working out nicely. For those of you who don't know, we have new hours. They are Monday-Friday 9:30 to 5:30. Being open during the noon hour has seemed to really benefit a lot of working people and that was the whole idea.

We are struggling along with our fund raising. A "Feed the Kitty" is now at the library for you to make donations for recycled books, copies, or to just drop in your loose change, etc. We still have the memorial fund and in honor of fund if you choose to take advantage of this service.

Something new has been talked about at the library. The Haskell Genealogical Society is newly organized and they are planning to have a place at the library for those working on their family histories. This will bring many new patrons into our library and will benefit the society and our library as well.

Last week I received a $200 donation from the class of 1961. It was a delightful surprise and the letter that accompanied it from Carol Macon was very encouraging

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

Merchants up in Decatur are all shook up over a rumor that Wal-Mart is planning a 200,000-square-foot "Super Center" in their town.

At a meeting of retail merchants, several business owners suggested such a store would spell the end of many small businesses.

The Super Center is a relatively new concept that features a greatly expanded inventory in areas not covered by regular Wal-Mart stores.

Most common aspect of a Super Center is the inclusion of a grocery store. But Super Centers also have featured restaurants, beauty salons, automotive centers, insurance offices, photo processors and even travel agencies, stated an article last week in the Wise County Messenger.

There's also talk that the Super Center in Decatur would sell western wear, farm and feed supplies and other items.

The manager of the Wal-Mart store in Decatur told the group he could not confirm the rumors, but said he would keep merchants informed.

A Wal-Mart spokesman in the company's Arkansas headquarters said that an official decision has not been made about the rumored store in Decatur.

But one merchants said she talked to the owner of the land adjacent to the present store and was told the land had been sold to Wal-Mart.

The city secretary said the city has not been contacted, although he said appraisers did come by to look at some parcels of land but did not identify who they represented.

Local merchants said they did not have a problem with the current Wal-Mart and its operations. But they said a Super Center would be a different story.

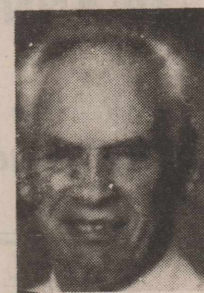

"I think it would be a disaster to a small community," said one merchant. "I foresee that it would ruin a lot of small businesses."

Merchants also argued that the county could lose businesses that have contributed heavily toward community and civic causes.

"I don't think Wal-Mart has that same community concept," said Susan Williams, president of the Decatur Retail Merchants Association. "It scares me because the people around here have worked so hard for so long, and this could come in and totally ruin us."

Wal-Mart has recently located Super Centers in several Texas cities, including Weatherford, Stephenville, Mesquite.

PHARMACY NEWS

Scratching That Itch: Itches can be caused by fungal infections, sweating, scabies, scratching, allergy, or dry skin. Depending on the cause, it can be helped with antifungal creams or powders, hydrocortisone cream, wearing clothes made of less-irritating fabrics, or using ice-cold compresses. To protect dry skin, shower or bathe for shorter times less frequently, apply bath oil to moist skin, dry with a towel rather than just air, and use a mild laundry detergent.

--Haskell Nursing Center--

We have two new residents, Hope Josselet and Raymond Van Meter. They are taking advantage of our 20-day Medicare wing. Both were in the hospital but needed therapy and a little more care.

Callie Robison also came home from Hendrick Medical Center and is doing a lot better. We are happy she's back with us.

Our re-decorating is over and we are looking for our new furniture. Come by and visit with us and see how nice it looks.

The Haskell FHA girls and Wanda Thompson came by last week and brought everyone a Halloween treat. Thank you for the nice thoughts. Our residents enjoy having the young people visit with them.

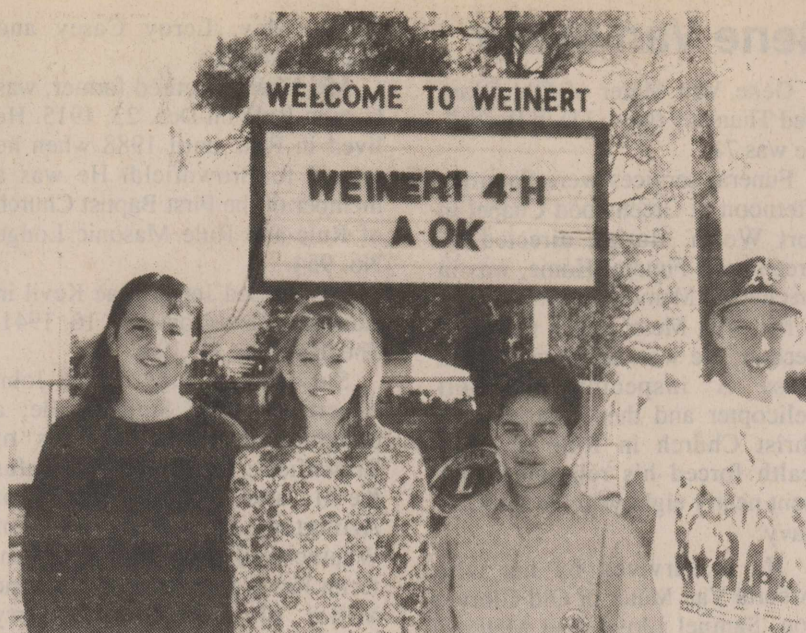

A. C. Jeter's sister, Nita Baccus, visited with him last week and bought him a new scanner. Now he can keep us up on all the area news.

We were sorry to lose one of our residents, Mr. Snooks Townsend of Rule. We will miss him.

Our two newest employees are Sue Valimont of Knox City and Rusty Meeks of Haskell.

Laela Martin and Wilma Watts are recipients of THCA scholarships which will be awarded in Austin Nov. 16.

Haskell Nursing Center's Twenty-four Karat Team had a Halloween carnival for the residents and employees on Oct. 29. Several came dressed for the occasion.

Weinert project

Weinert 4-H club members who re-painted the "Welcome to Weinert" sign were Margaret Hannon, Charisse Felty, Lane Murphy and Tiffany Loving. Also helping was T. Nichols, not shown.

Weinert 4-H Club having busy year

Weinert 4-H Club has started off its club year with a busy fall.

In September, Coach Dan Sloan of Munday presented a program on trading cards. It was well attended and enjoyed by all.

In October, several members celebrated National 4-H Week by painting the "Welcome to Weinert" sign that stands downtown. Painters were Margaret Hannon, Charisse Felty, Lane Murphy, T. Nichols and Tiffany Loving.

Adults helping with the project were Dale Carroll, Toby Yates, Jonita Felty, Alice Yates and Mary Murphy.

All 4-H members and leaders were honored at a community ice cream supper given at the Weinert School by the Extension Homemakers.

A Nov. 16 meeting was held to work on the Weinert Library project.

We would like to express our appreciation for all the prayers that were said on our behalf while our baby was in the hospital. We know the power of prayer and we thank God for all the answers to all the wonderful prayers. We thank you for the donations, cards, flowers, and all the visits we received from all of you.

Haskell Soil & Water Conservation District

Are you, as manager of native rangelands, dedicated to improving its productivity? The Soil Conservation Service is most definitely dedicated to this purpose and can provide the technical assistance to do so.

One way to improve the productivity of the rangeland is through Planned Grazing Systems. A planned grazing system is managing rangeland so it is grazed and then rested in a planned sequence.

Livestock are selective in the plants they graze. They tend to repeatedly graze the desirable plants and leave the less desired plants. This weakens the more desirable plants and allows unwanted plants to thrive and multiply. You can't tell livestock what to eat, but you can limit the length of time and when they eat using a rotation between as few as two pastures.

Grazing and resting plants on rangeland in a planned sequence gives the better plants a chance to regrow, compete and multiply, thus gradually increasing the amount of high quality plants available per acre. This improved range condition increases livestock production, improves the habitat for wildlife, reduces erosion, and conserves water. By resting pastures in a grazing system, the overgrazed areas are allowed to become productive again.

By combining livestock from several pastures into one herd and grazing one pasture at a time, there is a tendency for them to disperse and improve the grazing distribution over the entire pasture.

Planned grazing systems vary somewhat from one ranch to the next and the kind of system or systems used may depend on present pasture layout, available water supplies, long range goals for rangeland improvement and the time necessary to supervise the operation. The point is, rangeland greatly benefits from the grazing-rest sequence provided through properly managed planned grazing systems.

Contact your local Soil Conservation Service office for more information on planned grazing systems. Assistance is provided through all programs administered by the Soil Conservation Service regardless of race, color, sex, age, handicap, religion or national origin.

TIPS ON STAYING SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

For more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

- Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.
- Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.
- Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

IF YOU SMELL GAS

in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:

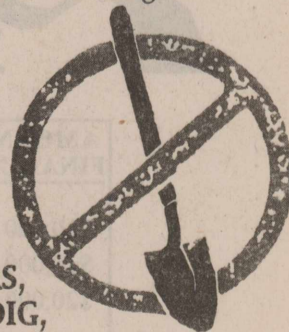

- 1 Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.
- 2 Do not switch anything electrical on or off.
- 3 Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).

- 4 Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.
- 5 Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

CONTRACTORS, BEFORE YOU DIG, call your local Lone Star Gas Office, and we'll help you avoid any potential problems.

SAFETY TIPS. We've put together a brochure that includes safety tips designed to educate your whole family about the proper usage of natural gas. For a copy, or if you have any questions, call us at 1-800-545-3427.

Missy Davis near record at Sul Ross

Missy Davis of Haskell has returned for her senior season with the Sul Ross State University Lobos basketball team and is expected to become the school's all-time scoring leader.

A three-year starter, Davis is No. 4 on the all-time scoring list, but is only 191 points away from the No. 1 spot.

As the only senior on the Lady Lobo team, her experience is expected to provide the leadership for the young team.

Coach Chet Samples said Davis, who has played both point guard and second guard, will be moved to forward some this season to take advantage of her shooting.
