Good turnout Saturday

By Ed Walling
Haskell

Business Association

The Haskell Business Association would like to thank everyone who came to town Saturday to shop with our fine Haskell merchants and the very fine food booths which were set up also.

There was a good turnout of people who participated in spite of the weather.

Special thanks go to the Haskell cheerleaders, First Assembly of God Church, the Haskell Volunteer Fire Department, St. George Catholic Church, third-, fourth- and fifth-graders from Haskell Elementary School for their excellent essays, Denise Young, all of Haskell and the Paint Creek ISD fund raiser (fifth- and sixth-grades) for their hard work and contribution for the aliveness of Haskell.

Winners for the Mother's Day essays for third grade were Samantha Freeby, first; Chris Phariss, second; and Chelsie Thane, third.

Fourth-grade winners were Timothy Robison, first; Nikki Wallace, second; Jessica Rieger, third. Fifth-grade winner was Kristi Christian, first.

Prizes came from the Sport About and The Carousel, members of the Haskell Business Association.

In the special give-away promotion, gift certificates were won by Wanda Hester, from Country Daizie, and Delight Jones, from Barbara's. These merchants also are members of the Haskell Business Association.

Our next Saturday Promotion will be June 18, for Father's Day. Make plans to come to Haskell for the Big Boyz Motor Toyz. For information, call 864-3238 or 864-3845.

Thanks for shopping Haskell.

Pre-kindergarten registration set

Haskell Elementary School will have registration Wednesday, May 18, for half-day pre-kindergarten for the upcoming school year.

Registration will be from 9 a.m. until noon in the portable building east of the elementary school.

Pre-kindergarten is for children at least 4 years old on or before Sept. 1. Screening will be at a later date.

Parents should bring their child's birth certificate, immunization record and Social Security card.

Incumbents prevail; sales tax hike OK'd

Tom Hairgrove and Tiffan Mayfield were re-elected to the Haskell School Board, Ruby Turner was re-elected to the City Council and David Davis won a seat on the City Council in the contested races in Saturday's school and city elections.

Elected without opposition were Ken Lane as mayor and Randy McLelland to the School Board, Place 3.

At the same time, Haskell city voters approved a half-cent sales tax for economic development.

Hairgrove was returned to Place

4 on the School Board by defeating Belia Abila, 514-129. Mayfield won re-election to Place 5 by edging David Middleton, 334-296.

Davis garnered 514 votes in his race for the Council and Mrs. Turner got 467. A third candidate, Nick Jimenez, polled 175 votes.

The new mayor and the newly elected Council members were sworn in during Tuesday's City Council meeting.

Lane succeeds one-term mayor Pat Henry who did not seek re-election. Davis replaces Kim Nemir who did not run for re-election to the Council.

The sales tax proposal, appearing on the ballot for the fourth consecutive year, passed by a comfortable 409-260 margin. The 149-vote margin was an exact reversal from the 1993 election when the proposal was turned down, 428-279.

Proponents of the tax attributed their victory to an organized effort in educating the public of the merits of the tax. They stressed the fact that Haskell was at a disadvantage in competing for industry with other area communities that have the tax money to work with.

The new tax will generate approximately $70,000 a year for economic development. The City Council will appoint an Economic Development Board to administer the funds. The board will answer to the City Council in the same way as the Zoning, Parks, Ambulance and other boards and will be subject to an annual audit.

Most neighboring cities of comparable and larger size already have the economic development tax, including Stamford, Knox City, Munday, Hamlin and Anson.

The new tax will increase the local sales tax rate from 1.5 cents to 2 cents. Coupled with the state sales tax rate of 6.25 cents, the overall sales tax rate in Haskell will go from 7.75 cents to 8.25 cents.

City administrator Sam Watson said Monday that it has not been determined just when the new sales tax will go into effect.

Recycling center open three days

The City of Haskell's recycling center is open three days a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.

A story in last week's Free Press stated the center is open on Monday, Thursday and Saturday.

The story also stated that there is no charge to city residents for using the new facility. City Administrator Sam Watson points out that while there is no charge for yard trash or recyclables, there is a charge for other materials.

The free service is available only to those inside the city limits. Others will be required to pay.

Sunday in Park this weekend

There will be fun, food and entertainment for all Sunday at Haskell's sixth annual "Sunday in the Park."

Activities will begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 5.

Entertainment will be provided by the Haskell County Squares square dance club at 3 p.m. Musical entertainment will be provided by Frank Summers and Clark Richardson.

Various organizations will have food and game booths.

Sunday in the Park is sponsored jointly by the Haskell Chamber of Commerce and the City of Haskell.

Paint Creek students hear Miss Texas

By Wendell Faught

Miss Texas spoke to students at Paint Creek school last Wednesday afternoon, but she didn't say much about beauty pageants.

Bo Chandler, the reigning Miss Texas who competed in the Miss America Pageant last year in Atlantic City, is touring Texas to talk to students on alcohol and drug awareness as an ambassador for the DARE program. By the time she completes her tour in July, she will have spoken to 200,000 kids, she said.

She began her talk by stressing the importance of a college education. A person with a high school diploma in Dallas, she said, can expect to get a job making $15,000 a year. With a four-year college degree, a person can double that pay with a $30,000 job. A graduate degree is worth $50,000 or $55,000.

But she pointed out many pitfalls in the journey toward a college degree. "There's a lot of stress, and students are prone to try to relieve this stress by 'partying,'" she told the students.

Ms. Chandler said that during her four years at the University of Texas she had three friends die from "drinking themselves into comas and never waking up."

"You really need to go to only one party, they're all the same," Ms. Chandler said.

Upon questioning, she admitted that she had "partied" too much her first year at UT. Although she was an honor student after that, her first-year grades brought her overall grade average down enough that she couldn't qualify for law school at UT or the University of Houston. She was able to gain admission to a private school, but it will cost her three times as much.

She explained that this will be only the first time that she will pay for her freshman errors. "When I get ready to be considered to become a junior partner in a law firm, I'm going to lose out to someone who graduated from the UT law school," she said. "And later, I'm going to lose out for the same reason when I think I'm ready to become a senior partner."

Later Wednesday, Miss Texas addressed students in Haskell.

Paint Creek student Carri Martini poses for a photo with Miss Texas following her program for Paint Creek students Wednesday.

Hunting co-op to be organized

An organizational meeting for the Knox-Haskell County Goose Hunting Co-op will be held June 13 at Producers Grain Co-op in Rochester. It begins at 7:30 p.m.

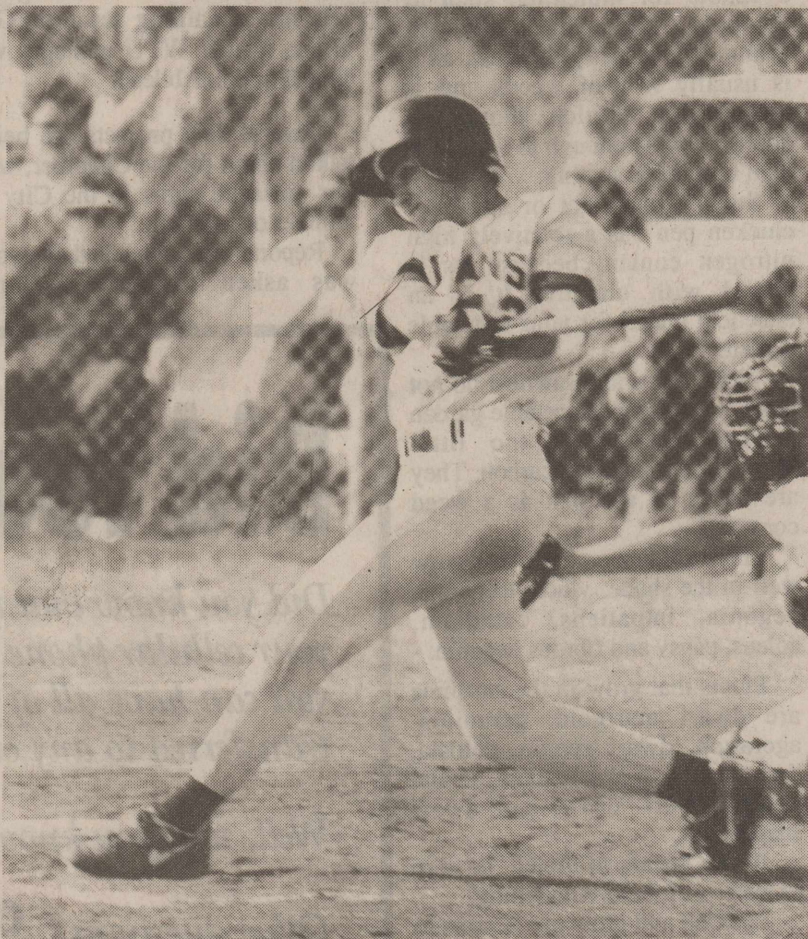

All landowners in the two counties are invited to attend.

The area has witnessed a tremendous increase in the number of geese that winter in the area and a corresponding increase in the number of goose hunters.

A hunting co-op is organized when local landowners, ranch managers or grain producers pool their land and form a cooperative through which land is available for day leasing. A director is in charge of all licensing, record keeping, insurance, placement of hunters and collection fees which are distributed back to co-op members.

This releases landowners from the harassment and responsibility of hunters while providing a hunting opportunity for responsible hunters.

Hits double

Cody Cypert hammers out a 2-run double for the Indians in the district 5-2A game against Jim Ned Friday.

Indians suffer first 5-2A loss

Jim Ned handed Haskell a 5-3 setback Friday afternoon as the Indians suffered their first loss in the second half of the district 5-2-A baseball season.

With one game to go, Jim Ned sits alone atop the district standings with a 6-0 record. Haskell's record is 5-1.

Jim Ned took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first which held up until the Indian's half of the third when Cody Cypert's 2-run double tied the score. Each team scored a run in the fourth to make it 3-3, but Jim Ned was able to push across a run in both the fifth and sixth innings while holding the Indians scoreless.

Shannon Meeks pitched for the Indians, giving up 9 hits and striking out 4.

Cypert got three of the Indians' 6 hits. Chuckie Castillo got the other RBI for the Indians.

"It was a good game. The kids gave it their all and never gave up. We still have a shot at the playoffs and that was one of our goals when the season started," said Coach

Balloons, Balloons

Haskell sixth-graders had their annual balloon lift-off Friday afternoon. Students received a helium-filled balloon for every 300 pages they read in a reading contest. In previous years the students have received letters from people who found their balloons from as far away as Branson, Mo. One letter was from a prisoner who found a balloon while riding horseback at a correctional facility in Stringtown, Okla.

Green Thumb

By Gladys O'Neal
Haskell Garden Club

If you really care about your plants, mulching in your garden is a must.

A mulch is any substance spread upon the ground to protect the roots of plants from heat, cold or drought, or to keep fruit clean. It is a long established horticultural practice.

Mulches may be organic or inorganic. Organic mulches might include straw, compost, sawdust, whereas, inorganic includes plastic, rocks and other non-plant materials. A layer of mulch on your soil will increase water intake by preventing runoff.

Maintenance labor can be reduced as good mulching eliminates the need for weeding. Mulched vegetables are cleaner when they are harvested. Fruits of tomato, melon and squash never touch the soil.

Many materials are readily available for mulching, such as compost, straw and sawdust. Compost is usually the best, as it is usually free of weeds and is inexpensive. Mulch should be applied thickly enough to leave a 3-inch layer after settling.

Straw from a lot or stable or chicken pen has a relatively high nitrogen content because it is mixed with manure. It is an excellent mulch for your vegetable garden.

Wood chips and sawdust do not work well in your vegetable garden because they have too little nitrogen in relation to carbon. They are better to use just as a weed control.

There are some plants that grow well in the shade: vinca, teberous begonia, impatiens, caladium, coleus, pansy and fibrous begonia.

Plants that grow in the sunshine are dwarf marigold, geranium, ageratum, dwarf zinnia, celosia, dwarf dahlia, pinks, petunia, annual phlox, dwarf salvia and dwarf snapdragon.

If you decide to mulch, be sure to water well before mulching.

I garden and grow my flowers to enrich my spirit. When I see my flowers and watch them grow, they inspire me to do more with my life.

Nothing is nicer than opening a dresser drawer or closet in the winter and smelling summer. I save my flower petals for their fragrance. In Cleopatra's time, she covered her palace floors 18 inches deep with rose petals.

To remove garden stains and keep hands soft, try this formula which has been recommended by English gardeners: Wash hands in cold water, then rub thoroughly with a mixture of 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon oil (olive or cooking).

MEDICARE COVERS HOME HEALTH CARE

Home Health Care is a covered service available to Medicare beneficiaries that often allows a comfortable and welcome alternative to treatment in a hospital or nursing home. Medicare pays for a comprehensive range of health services at home if the patient is eligible for care.

In order for care to be covered, the patient:

- Must be homebound
- Must require either nursing, physical therapy, or speech therapy
- Must need part-time and intermittent care rather than continuous or custodial services
- Must be under the care of a physician
- Must have the care certified by the physician as being medically necessary

Once those conditions are met, the patient may also receive social services, home health aide services, occupational therapy, and needed medical supplies. A home health agency certified to provide Medicare home health services will be able to determine whether the home health services requested by a physician are covered by the program and must inform the patient of this determination prior to beginning care.

In the event that Medicare does not agree to pay for care, the agency is not allowed to bill the patient if the care has been represented as covered.

Home health care has been a covered benefit under Medicare since the beginning of the program in 1965. It has steadily increased in popularity as both physicians and patients have come to recognize the commonsense benefits of home treatment. Patients tend to recover more quickly and are less prone to complications when they receive care at home and, since home care currently has no deductions or copayments, the patients usually have no out-of-pocket expenses for covered care.

To request more information about the home health service benefit available under Medicare, call Outreach Health Services at the number below.

--Letters to the Editor--

Editor: I want to thank all citizens who took the time to vote in Saturday's school and city elections.

The privilege of voting is not only a sacred right, but a duty.

I urge all eligible citizens who are not registered to vote to do so. Only by voting can a person be a participant in our cherished Democratic process.

Sales tax

Editor: It is very pleasing to see the people of Haskell take charge of their future.

I want to express my gratitude to everyone who took part in Saturday's passage of the half-cent sales tax for industrial development. The City has made the first step in the journey to change our destiny. If we are to truly change our destiny it will take all of us working for the common good.

From time to time the City will need your help. It is much harder to work for progress than it is to live on what has been done in the past. But we will feel better about ourselves.

Haskell is a great place to live. Now, let's make it better.

Haskell is alive!

Opposes gun bill

Editor: Every night on the evening news we are forced to face the blight of violent crime infecting our nation. Even closer to home than the television, more and more Americans find themselves touched in some way by crime, whether the victim is a relative, a neighbor, a co-worker or even themselves.

I am alarmed by violent crime involving any gun. Unfortunately, the so-called Schumer/Feinstein "assault weapon" ban being considered by the House of Representatives is misdirected.

The first problem is that it attempts to control certain semi-automatic weapons and not the criminals who use them. The second problem is that this effort has focused on these undefined "assault weapons" which account for less than 1 percent of recorded violent crime, while handguns or other means of violence continue to be the preferred tools of most gang members, drive-by shooters, muggers and other criminals.

Thirdly, and perhaps of greatest concern to me, is that this bill is just one more example of legislation which goes beyond the rhetoric used to advertise it. For example, there may be 19 weapons identified in the Schumer/Feinstein ban, but BAFT already has identified 26 weapons which it will add to the list of prohibited guns. Opening the door further to this sort of "government by unelected bureaucrat" shatters my confidence that the second Constitutional amendment actually will be protected in the future.

Unfortunately, sensationalism from both sides of this issue has crowded out the central issues at the crux of our crime problem. I must vote "no" in this instance, while continuing my commitment to addressing the crime problems which trouble us all.

Charles W. Stenholm

U.S Representative

(Note: HR 42968 passed the House of Representatives on May 5 by a vote of 216-214 with Stenholm voting against it. The legislation will now be considered by the Senate.)

The bridegroom wore a black tuxedo with alstromeria boutonniere.

Ushers were Ricky Huckabee and Bobby Myers. Shannon Myers registered guests.

The reception was held in the First National Bank community room. The bride's table was covered with a white floor length cloth accented with satin bows. The centerpiece was a large cut glass vase with magnolias surrounded by candles in crystal holders entwined with English ivy and tiny white flowers.

The bride's tiered cake was decorated with live alstromeria, hearts and tiny white dove. Crystal appointments were used to serve cake, punch, strawberries and spiced pecans. Shelly Judd and Shannon Myers attended the bride's table.

Haying, grazing to be allowed

Emergency haying and grazing on ACR and CU for Payment acreage has been approved for Haskell County.

Glenn Brzozowski of the ASCS said approval was granted because of drought conditions over the past several months. The abnormal weather conditions have caused a critical shortage of hay and forage in Haskell County, he said.

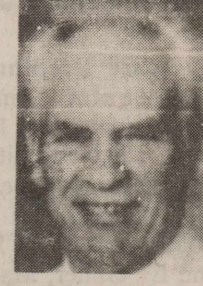

The county ASCS committee requested the emergency measure earlier than regulation permits to give producers an opportunity to plant a crop on ACR or CU for Payment acreage as soon as possible.

Interested producers are required to make a request and sign the register at the ASCS office before haying or grazing the acreage during the non-grazing period of June 1 through Oct. 31.

Contact the Haskell County ASCS office for additional information.

PHARMACY NEWS

Prescription Drugs from Nonprescribers: Beyond distribution of illegal performance-enhancing drugs, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has uncovered the practice of athletic departments distributing prescription drugs without physician or pharmacist intervention. In addition to being illegal, this practice puts athletes at risk because no one is monitoring potential drug interactions or side effects, the drugs often are stored incorrectly, and often they are distributed without labels to delineate the drug or the administration schedule.
