May sales tax receipts show small increase

Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander delivered $277.2 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,104 Texas cities and 199 counties, a 4.2 percent increase over $265.9 million allocated to cities and counties in May 1999. Year-to-date sales tax rebates are up 7.8 percent, compared to 1999.

Comptroller Rylander sent sales tax rebates totaling $256.9 million to Texas cities, 4.6 percent higher than last May's payments of $245.4 million. Rebates of $20.3 million to Texas counties were down 0.8 percent compared to allocations of $20.5 million in

In addition to city and county sales tax rebates, the state's six metropolitan transit authorities and two city transit departments received $99.2 million. Another $8.9 million went to 49 special purpose districts.

May sales tax rebates represent sales taxes collected in March and reported to the Comptroller in April.

Meeting planned for parents

Sponsored by Partners for Children, a meeting will be held Tues., May 23, designed to answer such questions as: Is your child struggling in school? Are you constantly threatening and arguing to get your child to do his work? Does your child hate school? Are you tired of tears and temper fits (yours as well as your child's)? Would you like for your child to get ahead or stay ahead? Would you like for the next year to start on a more positive note for the entire family?

With the focus on ways children can keep ahead in school, the hour and a half meeting, starting promptly at 7:00 p.m. at the Haskell Elementary School, is designed to help parents find solutions to the problems they often face in trying to help their children in school.

Parents who may be curious about ways to help older children do better in school, or ways to start their child out in a new grade, may find help from the discussion.

Organizers say anyone is free to leave early, if it does not address their problems or answer their questions. Among the topics to be covered are: Strategies for Studying for Tests, Knowing When and How to Bypass Weaknesses, How to be a Better Problem Solver, and What It's Like to Have a Language

Registration is not required. Babysitting will be provided.

GIFT TO THE LIBRARY-Members of the Friends of the Library Board and Librarian Joan Strickland, far right, gathered at the Haskell County Library Wed., May 10, as Fred Hernandez of West Texas Utilities Company boosted the building fund by presenting a $5,000.00 check from the company to Board President, Dusty Garison. The fund total has now reached $78,475.00.

Commissioners discuss burn ban regulations

At the Haskell County Commissioner's Court meeting, Mon., May 8, commissioners voted to add to the State Allowance of $1500 from County Funds in order to purchase a computer and printer which will put Haskell voters On-Line with the Secretary

During a discussion regarding the closing of County Road 206, it was pointed out that in order to legally close county roads, a petition signed by nine persons must be submitted to the Court.

After a discussion of the burn ban, it was decided that the present regulations will remain as they are. A request for exemption must be registered in the County Judge's office and a copy delivered to the County Sheriff's office and filed with the dispatch office. Copies of this exemption may be obtained from the county judge or the four commissioners.

Exemptions to the burn ban are regulated by the Texas Natural Resources and Conservation

The court pointed out that on the day of the actual burn, the Sheriff's office and local Fire Department must be notified by telephone prior to any lighting. The burn must be monitored until it is cold.

The local fire district has the authority to rescind the exemption if conditions are not met or if they deem it to be a safety hazard. Should a fire escape the control of the responsible party due to noncompliance, the party will be liable for suppressions costs as set out, and may also be liable for civil as well as penal action.

The exemption is in place for a ten day period and expires after the ten days or when the burn ban is

County Commissioners, the County Judge and County Fire Marshall all have the authority to declare a burn ban when dry, drought conditions exist.

The resolution of the Haskell County Commissioner's Court regarding the Brazos G. Regional Water Planning was discussed. This resolution represents the county's participation in Senate Bill 1, which will insure that the water needs of the State will be met into the 21st century.

Haskell is one of 37 counties within Region G which must decide within the next few months how additional water needs are going to be met for the next 50 years. Eleven members were appointed by the Governor as a decision-making body to decide how our Region will be impacted in the future.

As this issue will affect everyone, Judge David Davis and the commissioners pointed out that it is critical for citizens to keep informed. Among other sources, each town has a water authority which can be contacted for input and the latest information.

All Night party set May 26

The party will consist of three huge inflatable games sponsored by Haskell National Bank, First National Bank and Home State Bank of Rochester. These activities are new this year and hope to be a huge success.

Sagerton News By Dorothy M. Clark

We trust that all mothers of the community had a very special day Sunday and judging from the visitors in church at Faith Lutheran, there were several family dinners. As we grow older or no longer have mothers with us, we appreciate them more and marvel at the undeserving love they gave us and the hard work they did for us in order that we might be fed and clothed properly and have a happy life to be remembered in our later

The cleanup, fixup campaign has begun in earnest in preparation for the Sagerton homecoming to be held here on Memorial Day weekend. Residents are busy making plans for the hundreds of ex-students that will be coming back home for this special reunion. Health hazards were also eliminated this past week as a vacant house and the storm demolished lumberyard was razed and lots cleaned up. Vacant buildings and premises harbor disease carrying rodents and provide residence for all kinds of unhealthy tenants as well as creating unsafe conditions in the neighborhood. Congratulations are in order for Kami Baitz, daughter of Fred and Tami, upon being selected Student of the Month for May at Rule High School. Each month a student is selected from the grade school, jr. high and high school and presented a certificate at the meeting of the school board.

The Hobby Club met last Thursday at the community center for their regular monthly meeting with Joyce LeFevre serving as hostess. She demonstrated Swedish Weaving for the special project of the day. Ev Ulmer won the door prize and Jo Brown was in charge of the program, which featured her quotable quotes. Members present included Mary Neinast, Frances Clark, Margaret Wendeborn, Yvonne Swofford, Peggy Tabor, Leona Letz, Ev Ulmer, Wilma Teichelman, Jo Brown and Margie

Roy and Judy McEwen and sons had Mother's Day dinner with her mother, Mary Neinast, Sunday and attended church with her.

Harold Bredthauer of Oklahoma was here during the weekend visiting with his father Alvin and Alice Bredthauer. He came for the birthday party for his aunt, Adela Teichelman.

The family of Adela Nierdick Teichelman hosted a birthday party for her at the Sons of Hermann Hall at Old Glory Saturday night, commemorating her 80th birthday. A large crowd of family and friends met for the festive celebration which included a reception and dance. Green and white decorations were predominant in the reception area. The beautifully decorated birthday cakes were shaped in the form of 80 and were served with nuts, mints and punch. Family members assisted at the refreshment table and with other hostess duties throughout the night. Children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Adela's who were here for the special party included Roy Nierdick, Ambra and Cambria of Kingwood, Tommy Nierdick and Sheilah Nierdick of College Station, Tommy and Joy Cook of Kingsport, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs.

Jimmy Cook and their three children of Kingswood and Dickie and Melissa Greenwood and their two children of Haskell. Her sister, Irene and Ewald Bortz of Houston, brothers Walter and Aline Bredthauer of Haskell and Alvin and Alice Bredthauer of Sagerton completed the immediate family. Adela was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bredthauer. She was born at Caldwell. The family moved to Sagerton during her early adult life and she has continued to live here and call Sagerton her home. Many more relatives and friends attended the party and wished her a Happy Birthday and healthy years to come. The Rule High School 1600 meter relay team placed third at the state meet held in Austin during the past weekend. A heavy rainstorm accompanied by frequent lightning, forced suspension of five late-night running events Friday. All were completed Saturday morning and we congratulate the Rule boys for representing our school so well. Brian Lehrmann, son of Steven and Karen, is a member of the team.

Billie Kupatt had a family dinner for her children and grandchildren Sunday after they all accompanied her to church. They included Kris and Jaydee Kay McGregor of Hamlin and Kraig, Leslie, Kortney and Kymbre Kupatt of Sagerton.

Paula, Stephanie, Leon and Mae Stegemoeller were in Mesquite Saturday to attend the marriage ceremony of Keri Lynn Olson and Kendall Perkins at the Meadowview Church of Christ. Olson is the daughter of Donald and Vickie Olson and great niece of Mae.

On Sunday night, Leon and Mee Stegemoeller were supper guests of Clifford and Teresa Stegemoeller of Hamlin.

Joe and Dorothy Clark visited in the home of their son, Ray and Nancy Clark of Stamford, Sunday night for a Mother's Day supper and movie.

Five business and professional leaders from India were in Haskell recently as part of Rotary International's 2000 Group Study Exchange program. Representing Rotary District 3030 in India, the team was in week two of a four week visit to Rotary District 5790 in Texas.

By Mary Kaigler

The Group Study Exchange Program is designed to develop relationships between people that will create lasting awareness and understanding of other countries. In the program, each of 516 districts worldwide selects four or five non-Rotarians, between the ages of 25 to 40, who have excelled in their business or profession, and can best represent their country's culture and values. Each group is led by one Rotarian from the district.

Through the exchange, each year 2800 non-Rotarians go abroad, with expenses paid by the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International. They stay with families of Rotarians in their host country district. While there they visit various Rotary clubs to interact and promote world understanding, and to reach for peaceful co-existence through the exchange.

The leader of the team visiting here was Dr. Shamkant Deshpande of Jalgaon, India. A practicing chartered accountant and director of a post-graduate management school. he holds a master of law degree and did his doctoral research in business administration. He is a pastpresident of the Rotary Club of Jalgaon Midtown, and has received many Rotary awards. His wife Sunita is a post-graduate student of commerce. The couple has a son, Kaustubh, and a daughter, Sneha.

First on the non-Rotarian team was Shibashish Mukherjee, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Nasik West. Twenty-seven years old, the young professional has degrees in finance, mechanical engineering and computer applications. His professional interests are developing quality systems and business systems. While in America he hopes to visit business schools, public libraries and study our system of higher Vidya Deshpande, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Nasik, is a classical dancer who has mastered both the pedagogic and performance aspect of dance. With a flair for choreography and imaginative compositions, she has received many awards and has performed extensively in major festivals. As a dancer she has toured six East European countries. As a teacher she runs a Nritya Natya Sangeet Academy, with student performers winning accolades from dance critics. She and her husband, Hari, have a twelve-year-old daughter,

Dr. Manisha Albal, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Nagpur Downtown, is a pediatric and neonatal surgeon and runs her own hospital in Nagpur. She is active in various professional and social organizations. She and her husband, Dr. Hemant, have two young daughters, Asawari and Vedvati. While on the tour she would like to visit and study health care systems and bring back new ideas to benefit the people in her city. Dr. Vijay Malpathak, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Nasik, is a general surgeon and endoscopist. He and his wife, Manisha, a physical therapist, have a daughter, Shruti and a son Shreyas. They live in a joint family with Vijay's parents and brother. Traveling, reading and listening to old Hindi music are his favorite pastimes. While in the US he would like to visit hospitals with specialized work connected with gastro-intestinal endoscopy and surgery, and laparoscopic surgery. He also hopes to visit a specialty burns center.

After a lunch with Haskell Rotarians Ken and Nelda Lane and Abe and Ruby Turner, three of the visiting team members traveled on to Hamlin and Abilene. Dr. Deshpande and Shibashish Mukherjee stayed over to spend the night in Haskell as guests of the

During an interview with the two men, Dr. Deshpande spoke at length about Rotary's 3-H Program (Health, Hunger, and Humanity), and the world-wide program to eradicate polio, which he said are helping so many, especially the children, in his country of India.

Speaking of the conflict with Pakistan, he stressed the need for all countries to seek means of peace. "We have a saying in our country," he said, "that the elders start the wars, the youth fight the wars, and the children suffer the wars."

"Our world is so close now," Dr. Deshpande said. "More than ever before, it is important that we find ways of mutual co-existence in our diversities. We need to teach history and instill into the minds of our young people moral and ethical values, behavioral aspects and respect for one another.'

The two men said they are thankful for the wonderful opportunity this trip has given them to see a part of Texas. Dr. Deshpande said, "I appreciate the gracious politeness and sensitiveness of the people who live here, not only to us, but also amongst themselves when they interact with each other. This is a nice way of behaving with each other. It's fantastic and an eyeopening experience."

Shibashish Mukherjee said, 'Texas is a large state; large highways, large automobiles, large houses, and large hearts."

HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Figures by the Texas Education Agency show decreases in the number of incidents of campus violence and firearms and other weapons confiscated.

School-violence figures from the 1998-99 school year showed there were nearly 51,000 incidents of assaults against students in Texas schools. There were nearly 3,800 cases of assaults against teachers or staff members, and about 500 guns were confiscated from students statewide.

Meanwhile, awareness of violence on Texas school campuses is on the increase, spurred in part by the shootings at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colo., on April 20, 1999.

Last week, Texas Attorney General John Cornyn and Education Commissioner Jim Nelson hailed the release of a new report suggesting ways to curb violence in Texas schools.

Based on a year-long study by Cornyn's 22-member School Violence Prevention Task Force, the report contains recom-mendations such as:

- A way for students to anonymously report threats of violence;
- Implementation of conflict resolution techniques;
- Zero tolerance of bullying; ■ Zero tolerance for actions motivated by prejudice;
- Increased use of student uniforms and dress codes; and

■ Increased efforts to stop tru-

Cornyn and Nelson joined in saying school districts should coordinate anti-violence efforts with local law enforcement and fire and emergency management to be able to respond to gunfire or explosive devices on campus.

"Sadly, we know that we are not immune here in Texas from school violence," Cornyn said.

"We know there are far too many assaults against students and teachers, and far too many weapons seized in places of learning, no less."

Enrollment Deadline June 5

Current enrollment period for Texas Tomorrow Fund, the state's pre-paid college tuition program, ends June 5.

The fund, administered by the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, works like an investment plan allowing parents to lock in tomorrow's tuition at today's prices.

A Texas Tomorrow Fund account started for a newborn child today would require a monthly installment of $26 to pay for one year's tuition and fees at a public university when the child comes of age to attend.

Texas college tuition and fees have risen 460 percent since 1985.

"If current cost trends continue, and you are not enrolled in the Texas Tomorrow Fund, if your child is in kindergarten right now, his or her college tuition and required fees for four years at a state university will cost $36,391, compared to $13,472 today," Rylander

"If you have a newborn, you should plan on paying $52,244 for four years of tuition and required fees at a state university by the time your child goes to college in 2018."

Other Highlights

Randall Riley, director of the Texas Department of Economic Development's Smart Jobs program, said lawmakers forced him to resign after he told them about problems in the program. The state auditor's office found evidence of gross fiscal mismanagement in the program and the Texas Sunset Commission has recommended the program be transferred to the Texas Workforce Commission.

Fortis Benefits Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Mo., has filed suit against Elton Bomer, former Texas Insurance Commissioner and present Secretary of State. The suit accuses Bomer, while insurance commissioner in 1998, of improperly intervening in a policy coverage dispute between Fortis and Charles Terrell, a former Texas prison board member. Terrell is namesake of the state's new deathrow prison unit in Huntsville.

■ A report released last week by the state comptroller's office estimates that Texas spent $4.7 billion on health care for uninsured people in 1998, or about $1,000 per uninsured person. The report said the federal government paid about $200 million of the sum.

■ The University of Texas System Board of Regents last week considered increasing the cost of staff health insurance premiums. Costs could go up from 20 to 30 percent next fall.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

As a skinny, shy kid growing up in the 30's, living vicariously in my imagination through the pages of books about other places, people and ways of life, I was happiest when I had a new story to read.

One of the things I remember most about the summer months vacation from school is the frustration of not having anything new to read. Our little Panhandle town didn't have a library, and the school's only library was in the high school which was closed in the summer.

Outside of the daily Lubbock Avalanche Journal newspaper which I devoured in its entirety each afternoon, Daddy's Bible commentaries, my family's small assortment of books, Mother's Hollands and McCalls magazines and our neighbor's copies of Life and Esquire magazines that I read (with great interest) when I sat with their two little children, I had no reading material.

It was with interest this week that I read a just-completed survey of kindergarten through sixth grade teachers around the country, in which 77 percent said students return to school after the summer break reading at levels that are either worse or the same as when they left for break. Many said they spend more than a month getting kids back up to speed.

The consensus of the teachers was that getting parents and kids together to work on reading skills over the summer would greatly assist teachers starting a new school year. "If parents did dedicate time every day to reading with their child, teachers could jump start their school year and work on new learning right away," one teacher

More than half of the teachers surveyed said that kids in kindergarten should read 11 books or more during the summer months. Thirty percent said they should read more than 20 books.

A majority of the teachers said parents are the most influential for getting their children to read. Most suggested bedtime was the most popular time for kids to read books. followed by rainy days (which might pose a problem for us here in West Texas).

They also offered parents the following tips on how to encourage their children to read this summer. 1. Be a positive role model by reading.

2. Set aside regular reading time. 3. Take kids to the library.

4. Limit the time kids spend watching TV.

5. Have books available throughout

6. Help kids choose good books.

The top ten books for summer reading, chosen by the teachers surveyed are: Ages 6-8

1. Dr. Seuss, by Dr. Seuss. 2. Arthur Books, by Marc

3. The Very Hungry Caterpillar, by Eric Carle.

4. Ramona Books, by Beverly 5. Berenstain Bears, by Stan and

Jan Berenstain. Ages 9-12

6. Harry Potter books, by J. K.

7. Ramona and Dear Mr. Henshaw books, by Beverly Cleary. 8. Box Car Books, by Gertrude and Chandler Warner.

9. Laura Ingalls Wilder Books, by Laura Ingalls Wilder.

10. Charlotte's Web, by E. B. White.

How very fortunate we are here in Haskell to have excellent libraries for our children, both in the school and in our county library. The summer reading program available at the Haskell County Library is great, and there is no reason for any child to have to be frustrated by a lack of having something of interest to read during the summer vacation. Nor is there any good reason for any parent not to encourage a child in learning to

Q: I have heard lots of talk about the Texas Exile Program. Is this an attempt to take guns away from lawabiding citizens?

A: The Office of the Attorney General is overseeing Texas Exile. which is funded by a $1.6 million grant from the Office of the Governor.

I want to stress, first and foremost, that the goal of Exile is to remove guns from the hands of criminals, not law-abiding citizens. In fact, Texas Exile has been endorsed by both the National Rifle Association and Hand Gun Control, Exile uses federal sentencing guidelines to ensure that offenders who commit crimes with illegal guns receive tougher, longer sentences with no possibility of parole. And those convicted through the Exile program will serve their time in federal prisons, far away from their criminal associates.

Targeting Criminals

Those eligible for conviction under Texas Exile include convicted felons, drug traffickers, fugitives, previous domestic violence offenders or persons subject to a protective who are caught with a weapon. If a convicted felon is involved in an illegal act when arrested, the sentence will increase automatically.

By using and enforcing these standards, habitual criminals will be kept off the streets and potential offenders will be discouraged from committing weapons-related crimes.

Special Prosecutors

The cornerstones of Texas Exile are the special prosecutors who will work with the four assistant U.S. attorneys in the state, as well as several district attorneys, to prosecute these cases. The special prosecutors have been cross designated as assistant U.S. attorneys, which allows them to try cases in both state and federal court.

When law enforcement officials catch a criminal using a gun while committing a crime, the case will be referred to the appropriate special prosecutor. The prosecutor will then use federal gun laws to obtain the longest possible sentence for the

Public Awareness

While the bulk of the grant from the Governor's office is being used to fund the special prosecutors, a portion is allocated to a statewide public awareness campaign.

Texas Exile is being advertised across the state with billboards bearing the slogan "Gun Crime Means Hard Time." Ads on the radio and on public transportation also help spread the word. The Cinemark movie theater chain in Dallas is displaying the Exile message before each movie.

All of the billboards, ads and posters include a toll-free number for citizens to report illegal weap-

Federal Program

Congress is currently considering enacting Project Exile on a national level. The bill has already passed in the U.S. House of Representatives. As Attorney General, I strongly support this effort to encourage tough enforcement of existing gun laws.

Texas Indictments

The program has an impressive record after only a few months. To date, there have been 197 arrests, 118 indictments and 10 convictions through Texas Exile. In addition, 632 illegal weapons have been removed from the streets of Texas.

Each arrest, indictment and conviction under the Texas Exile program sends a clear message to criminals in this sate. Those who commit crimes with a gun will face tough jail time. We will make the streets of our state safe for lawabiding citizens.

Water saving strategies given for lawns

by Brandon Anderson Haskell Co. Extension Agent

On a summertime stroll through almost any Texas neighborhood, one is likely to see soggy overwatered lawns, sprinklers spraying in the heat of the day or showering onto sidewalks. Cutting back on such conspicuous consumption and finding new ways to save water on lawns could conserve a generous portion of one of Texas' most valuable resources: water.

Dr. Gene R. Taylor, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, said Texans can save a significant amount of water by watering their lawns properly and by selecting lawn grasses adapted to their area.

"In a state where we know we are going to be at least 15 percent short of all our water needs by 2035," Taylor said, "and we know the population is going to double in the next 50 years, we've got to

Taylor said that 94 percent of homeowners water their lawns. Many homeowners water their lawns too frequently and too long.

Often people rely too much on automated sprinkler systems, Taylor said. Grasses don't grow according to a time schedule. Factors like rainfall, humidity, length of daylight and temperature cause variations in the amount of watering a lawn needs. And he stressed that no lawn needs to be watered every day

Many people water for too long, Taylor said, because they don't know how much water their sprinklers are putting out. Taylor recommends setting coffee cans or pie plates out in the yard and turning on the sprinkler. After 15 minutes, measure the amount of water caught. Use this measurement to calculate how long to water. If there is a one-fourth of an inch in the containers after 15 minutes, sprinklers need to be left on for 30 minutes to apply a half inch to the lawn. Choosing lawn grasses adapted for the climate can reduce the amount of watering needed. "In areas where we know that we are going to get some summer and it is the most shade-tolerant of the Texas grasses. A St. Augustine lawn needs about one-half inch of water every four to five days. It should not be allowed to turn yellow. St. Augustine needs to be watered when it starts to show signs of drought stress. If if shows footprints, the leaves start to curl or it turns bluish-gray, it is time to

Most arid areas such as El Paso, Midland-Odessa, Austin and San Antonio should look toward the Bermuda grasses, buffalo grasses and zoysia grasses, Taylor said.

Bermuda grass is well adapted to the Texas climate. It thrives in full sun and will survive for 8 to 10 weeks without water. A yellow or brown Bermuda grass lawn may not be dead.

"We have to change our mindset in how we view the landscape. Is it OK to have a brown yard during the summer? Sure, there is nothing wrong with that" Taylor said. "We can live with brown yards every once in a while and we can manage grasses so they look

Buffalo grass, Texas' only native grass, is by far the most water efficient grass of the warm season grasses. Taylor recommends Buffalo grass for all areas in Texas west of Interstate 35. It makes an attractive lawn, Taylor said, even though it is less dense than St. Augustine grass. Buffalo grass needs watering about every 7 to 12 days in the summer; it doesn't like excessive watering.

Zoysia grass can grow anywhere in Texas. Different varieties require different amounts of water, some need water every 4 to 5 days and others every 7 to 10 days. Like Bermuda grass and Buffalo grass, it is drought resistant, turning brown and going dormant during a drought.

Tall Fescue grows well in the area of Texas north of Lubbock. It is a water-efficient cool season

TAX PLANNING

Written By Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

TAXES AND ONLINE INVESTING

If you've ever used the Internet to trade a stock, bond or mutual fund, you are already an "online investor." But there are different kinds of online investors, and the tax rules governing them can

Most investors use the Internet as an occasional tool-for example, you might make a few trades per year or go online to do some research. At the opposite extreme are online day traders, who might make 1,000 or more trades each year.

If you're an occasional online investor, you are subject to the same tax rules that would apply even if you never used the Internet. In other words, all of your short-term gains are taxed at your regular rate, long-term gains are subject to a more favorable tax rate, and you can deduct up to $3,000 of investment losses per year in excess of your gains. Your investment expenses can be written off only if you itemize deductions, and even then they are subject to income limitations.

Active online investors who are classified as "traders" have one big tax advantage over occasional investors. Traders are considered to be in the business of trading stocks and, therefore, they are allowed to deduct their investment expenses as business expenses. What does it take to become a trader? Unfortunately, there are no hard-and-fast rules. In general, however, you won't be considered a trader unless you regularly make a large number of stock transactions, and a significant percentage of those transactions are short-term. Traders also have the option of making a "mark-to market" election. This is a complex decision, with some potential drawbacks, but traders who mark to market can write off all of their investment losses, and they aren't subject to the wash sale rules.

For details or assistance with the tax aspects of your online investing, contact our office.

This Week's Devotional Message:

It's almost graduation time. Whether you are a young adult just starting out in life or a more mature person who returned to the halls of learning either for pleasure or to acquire new skills, the joy of accomplishment is the same. However, it should be remembered that graduation is not the end of something, but the beginning. Every day of our lives is spent in learning something new, wherever we are, and we are constantly adding to our store of knowledge; if only by observing the world around us with an open mind during our daily travels. We also learn about life and the Creator who gave us this world in which to live, by our regular attendance at our House of Worship. There is no graduation from this kind of learning, and that is the way it should be, for as long as we live.
