TWO TIME CHAMPION-Brittany Bartley's European Steer was named Grand Champion Market Steer at last year's Haskell County

Junior Livestock Show. It marked the second year she had shown a winning steer. This year's show will be held Jan. 25-27.

The Haskell-Knox Underground Water Conservation District after a public hearing attended by citizens of the counties in the District voted to institute rules to preserve and protect the Seymour Aquifer. The Seymour Aguifer is the major provider of groundwater to Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties.

These rules provide for the spacing of new wells and the institution of pumping limits for present and future wells. The spacing provision is that all future non-exempt wells will be drilled at least fifty (50) feet from an adjacent boundary line. The pumping limitations is an annual limit of 3 acre-foot per year per acre owned or operated within the same Section.

Chapter 36 of the Texas Water Code provides that the District shall locate and register all wells in

Coach Flippen to end 38-year coaching career

After 38 years spent in coaching, nine of which were as head coach, Haskell athletic director and head football coach Don Flippin is retiring from the game on June 1. He presented his resignation to the Haskell CISD school board Thurs., Jan 18. Superintendent Billie McKeever said the board will decide how to proceed with finding a replacement during the Jan. 25 board meeting. No applications will be accepted until such decision is made.

Flippin was head coach at Ballinger and has spent two threeyear terms ast Haskell. While here he took the Indians to the playoffs in three consecutive years from 1978-80, including a trip to the semifinals. His career record as a coach is 61-33-4, including last fall's mark of 3-7.

Flippin's coaching career will conclude by serving as an assistant coach for the North team in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes' annual Big Country All-Star Football Classic at Shotwell Stadium, June 2.

Flippin said retirement had been in his mind for some time. "I made up my mind for sure over the Christmas holidays," he said. His plans at this time are to continue living in Haskell.

Chamber banquet set

Honorable David Counts, Texas House of Representative of the 70th District, will be the guest speaker at the annual Haskell Chamber of Commerce banquet set to be held Mon., Feb. 12, in the Haskell Memorial Civic Center at 6:30

During the Valentine evening, the "citizen of the year" award will be given.

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the Chamber office or from Chamber members.

exempt from spacing requirements under a "grandfather" clause. The best way to make sure that a well falls under this classification is to register it. Registration forms are available at the District office at 135 North Munday Avenue, Munday, at the county extension offices in Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties and at the county tax appraisal district offices of Haskell, Knox and Baylor counties. Wells located in the city limits can be described adequately by using your street address on the form. Wells located outside the city limits can be located by using the legal description on your tax form. The wells will be precisely located by latitude and longitude with Global Positioning Systems (GPS) operated by the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation.

All new wells will be required to have a permit issued before being drilled. These permits must be obtained from the District office in Munday. After filling out the permit application, a deposit will be required prior to drilling. This deposit will be refunded upon the return of the application marked "Abandoned" or receipt of a completed drilling log after the well has been completed.

An effort is being made to register or permit wells with the least amount of hassle and expense. Forms for registration are readily available throughout the District and will be done at no cost to the citizens of the District.

Questions can be answered at the District office at 135 North Munday Avenue, Munday, by phone at (940) 422-1095, or by fax at (940) 422-1094.

OPINION

Ask the AG

By John Cornyn, Attorney General

Q. I know that Texas Exile has been in existence for almost a year now. Is the program working?

A: Texas Exile, which seeks to take guns away from dangerous criminals without infringing on the rights of law-abiding citizens, was implemented in January 2000. During the course of the past 12 months, the crime-control initiative has been remarkably successful, and Texas is a safer place because of it.

Texas Exile, which is overseen by the Office of the Attorney General, uses existing state and federal gun laws to prosecute criminals who illegally carry and use weapons.

As of December 18, 2000, there have been 450 arrests, 419 indictments, 239 convictions, and more than 850 guns confiscated under Texas Exile.

One success story is that of James McFarland, Jr., who was sentenced to 97 1/2 years in federal prison after being convicted of committing four robberies. McFarland used a weapon in the commission of each robbery. Prior to his conviction under Texas Exile, McFarland had five felony convictions, making it illegal for him to possess a weapon.

To spread the word about Texas Exile, there is a public awareness campaign in the 10 Texas Exile cities. Billboards proclaim "Gun Crime Means Hard Time." There is evidence that the message is getting out. One criminal, when asked why he ran from officers said, "I heard about that new deal y'all have that gets you five extra years in prison if you have a gun."

For further information on Texas Exile, visit www.texasexile.com. To report a criminal who is in possession of a firearm, call (800) 252-TIPS.

O: Your Web site lists one of your goals as assisting prosecutors and law enforcement agencies in fighting crime. How exactly do you do this?

A: As Attorney General, I am committed to assisting law enforcement officials and local prosecutors in making Texas a safer place.

Slowing the aging process

Our most recent collaboration with local prosecutors and law enforcement officials is Texas Exile. When law enforcement officials and prosecutors believe that they have an Exile-appropriate case, our special prosecutors work with those officials to ensure that criminals get the toughest sentence possible under

In Texas, county and district attorneys have original jurisdiction to pursue alleged violations of the law. These prosecutors are granted extensive discretion in determining which cases will be prosecuted and how those cases will proceed before a grand jury. My office generally cannot prosecute a case that the local prosecutor has declined to try.

In some instances, local prosecutors do not have the resources available to try big cases, such as those involving capital murder. These prosecutors can receive assistance from my Prosecutor Assistance Division. Attorneys and investigators from the Division help the prosecutors investigate and try the case, ensuring that even small towns have access to the best possible resources.

My office also assists local prosecutors with Article 4 prosecutions, which involve Mexican nationals who have committed crimes in the United States and then fled to Mexico. Article 4 prosecutions ensure that these criminals are tried for their crimes in Mexico. Attorneys from our office assist the local prosecutors with the preparation of the paperwork necessary to request this type of prosecution from Mexican officials.

Our office also provides a number of resources to law enforcement officials - including handbooks, legal journals, conferences, and training sessions. Many of these resources, including the publications, are available on our Web site.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

Haskell native Paul Cox is a young man with a lot of potential for success, and he has dedicated it all to a calling to the mission field.

Now in the process of preparing to go and raising necessary funds, his plans include going to Madrid, Spain in July 2001.

The son of Jo and Wallace Cox of Haskell said he did not always have such a vision for his life. In 1998 he moved back to Fort Worth to open Chambers Human Resource Group, a home-based recruiting and placement business. Envisioning financial independence, mahogany desks, oak-paneled walls and luxury cars, he says he quickly began putting the pieces in place to accomplish all of that. "I was living the life that I wanted to

But it wasn't the life God wanted him to live, he said. And because God had such different plans for him than he had for himself, by June 22, 1999, after eight years as a professional recruiter locating jobs for over 400 individuals, he had a new job. The message God had first planted in his heart in 1976, to go into the world to preach the Gospel, became one he couldn't ignore, he said.

Sixty days later, with his business sold, he made application with OMS International, a centuryold mission agency headquartered in Greenwood, Indiana. OMS is an evangelical and un-denominational mission agency that exists to share the good news of Jesus Christ around the world. The organization is currently operating ministries in 18 countries on six continents. Last vear 450 missionaries recorded over 80,000 decisions for Christ, Paul said in his recent news letter to interested supporters.

taught English for ten days, as part of OMS' English evangelism outreach program to Spaniards in the OMS mission church.

Paul said his experience of sharing his personal testimony with Andres, Marisol, Javier, Isabella and Juan Luis during those classes was unbelievable. "I left Spain with a heart for the Spanish people and the certainty that my call was to reach the lost in Spain with the Gospel."

He said that over three billion people there are not Christians and over two billion of those of those are completely separated from anyone who can share the Gospel with them. Spain is the second most under evangelized country in Western Europe, he said, with over 8000 towns and villages that have no access to the Gospel

'OMS' vision and ministry in Spain includes evangelism and the forming of national believers into self-governing churches. Paul said his role in Spain will be to teach English to men, women and children as a vehicle for building personal relationships, sharing the Gospel, being a support and encouragement for other OMS missionaries in Spain, and to be involved in additional outreach ministries.

Still in Fort Worth, Paul is in the process of becoming a crosscultural missionary and the process of retiring his personal financial debt. Once the balance has been retired, he said he can go to Spain. In an effort to retire the debt, he is working as a project recruiter for a Dallas-based executive recruiting firm. He is hoping to be ready to go within the next six months.

He said the delay has been frustrating for him. "You may call into missions. But God's delays are always important and always necessary

He said that six months ago God opened a door for him to enter Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary for theological and mission training. Last fall he spent four months learning the basics of Castilian Spanish, and in addition, he spent 16 weeks on the road preaching, sharing his testimony and raising financial support in churches across the state, including Haskell.

Each OMS missionary is responsible for raising every dollar of support necessary to fund their ministry and to live in the host

Paul said that when he started this journey six months ago, he was asked to raise $13,000 in startup funds, and $2,800 in monthly pledge support. The start-up fund has been raised, however, he is halfway towards the monthly support needed to return to Spain. He must raise the remaining balance of $1,400 in monthly support in order for permission to be granted to enter the field.

Some local Haskell area church groups and individuals are pledged to help this dedicated young man in his ministry. However, Paul Cox welcomes any support he may receive to assist him in this endeavor. FBC plans in-home retreat Feb. 9-11

PRAYER AT THE CROSS-Haskell youth attending last year's retreat sponsored by the First Baptist Church, gathered for a devotional time led by Associate Pastor, Greg Rake. A second in-home "Disciple Now" retreat is planned for local youth in grades 7-12, the weekend of Feb. 9-11.

by Mary Kaigler

Greg. O. Rake, Associate Pastor and Minister to Students and Families at First Baptist Church, Haskell, is a young man who seriously and gladly accepts his call to that ministry.

"Our local youth have unlimited potential if they can only see the big picture," he said of their spiritual life and value system. "We need to give them something they can count on as a sure thing in their lives."

One of the programs he plans for the youth of the community is designed to do that.

Based on the format of the Global Rescue Operation program, the "Disciple Now" in-home retreat, planned for the weekend of Feb. 9-11 for students in the 7th through 12th grades, is designed to provide an opportunity for them to talk together and learn about winning their friends to Christ; making a bridge and being able to reach out to others.

During the weekend, as many as ten to fifteen students will stay in each of ten different host homes in Haskell. A guest youth ministry leader/teacher will be in attendance at each host home. Rake said that activities planned for them will include participating in team projects, hearing Bible stories, eating lots of food, staying up late and being silly, going on a scavenger hunt, and spending some intense time studying and sharing what is going on with them. "There's a lot of things going on in the lives of our young people to get their attention. This (retreat) can be the most positive thing in many of the young people's lives," he said.

On Saturday night of the retreat, a banquet meal for all the students will be held at the First Baptist Church Family Activity Center, followed by a youth concert of praise and worship, testimony and sharing of the experiences of the retreat. Everyone is welcome to attend the concert.

On Sunday morning, the youth will lead the worship service at the First Baptist Church.

The youth minister said the goal of the weekend is not only to reach any student who is not in a church, but also to strengthen those who are in a church, in their relations with each other and in working with the roles adults have in the lives of students.

"More than anything, as we look around and see all the areas of crisis in their lives today, these kids need positive role models in their lives. So this is a kind of two-fold program," Rake said. "It involves the church and involves the students as they become a part of what's going on. And the adults are drawn into the lives of the students as they reach out to them by taking them to stay in their

However, he said the relationships formed will last more than just three days. "The leaders may go back to their own towns, but the relationships that the kids form with that family lasts." He added that last year's retreat saw some good results in that area.

Rake said that the positive influence of this event for the community is that it is not just a Baptist thing. Students from all denominations from Haskell, Rule, Rochester, Weinert, Paint Creek and surrounding area are invited and welcome to come office to obtain a sign-up form. Although the cost for each participant is $20.00, no student wishing to come will be denied attendance. Eighty students attended the first retreat, held last year. Pastor Rake said he is hoping for and expects one hundred students to come this year.

During his tenure at First Baptist Church Haskell, Greg Rake has also developed the Wednesday night Youth Rock program. Each week an average of one hundred local students gather at the church Family Activity Center gym for a lively Wednesday night session of making music, shooting baskets and sharing a devotional time of praise and worship.

Before coming to Haskell, Rake served as pastor at the View Baptist Church. He is currently working toward a degree in counseling at Hardin-Simmons University. His father operates the Good News Christian Bookstore in Abilene and his mother is head of nursing at Hendrick Health Center

First Ag Credit pays dividend

The board of directors of First Ag Credit, Farm Credit Services, recently approved a $14.7 million capital and cash patronage dividend to its members. Approximately $9.9 million was in the form of a stock retirement effective Dec. 1, 2000 and the remaining $4.8 million in cash patronage will be paid in early 2001. Stock refunds will be applied automatically to outstanding loan balances or placed in funds held accounts.

"The capital strength of the association built through the hard work and performance of our members and their loans allows for this reduction while still maintaining the necessary capital to provide for the organization's continued growth and stability," said Terry Dane, the association's chief executive officer. "Just as important is an effort to reduce our members' cost of borrowing money, by returning the fruits of their efforts in cash."

"For example, the cash patronage amount represents between a half to one percent reduction in rate," said Dane.

The agricultural lender provided the stock refund by lowering the amount of stock that borrowers purchase when they obtain their loans. The directors voted to lower the stock requirement to the lesser of 2 percent or $1,000 of the original loan balance. This stock rate is the lowest allowed by law.

The refund is one benefit of the stockholder-approved merger between First Ag Credit, FLCA; Ag Credit of Texas PCA; Wichita Falls PCA; and El Campo PCA. This consolidation was effective Jan. 1.

The lowered stock requirement will apply to members of First Ag Credit, FLCA, Wichita Falls PCA and El Campo PCA. Members of Ag Credit of Texas, PCA, previously had their stock rate lowered to the minimum amount.

Julie Goodenough leads winning team

Julie Roewe Goodenough, former Haskell all-Big Country basketball star, has coached the Hardin-Simmons University women's basketball team to the American Southwest Conference title, and doesn't plan to relinquish it.

The defending conference champion Cowgirls defeated the Mary Hardin-Baylor Lady Crusaders last week to tie with them for the ASC West lead at 6-2. "We're exactly where we want to be-tied for first," Goodenough said after the game. Their win over Concordia-Austin later in the week made Goodenough's 151st win.

The daughter of Betty and Conrad Roewe of Haskell, Goodenough was named HSU's head women's basketball coach in 1993. She had only two years prior coaching experience. She played as a student at Western Texas College

Of her success in recruiting great players, Goodenough said, "I can relate to small-town players since I grew up in Haskell. We get a whole team of Class A, 2A and 3A players who come from small towns." She said the program has been fortunate to recruit good players from within 200 miles of Abilene.

In addition to recruiting outstanding players, Goodenough has also managed to recruit outstanding students.

It was the sixth consecutive year that her team has been rated in the top 20 academically. Proud of the record. Goodenough said, "We have smart, wonderfully Christian young ladies who are a lot of fun to be around."

Local church group plans mission trip to Romania

by Mary Kaigler

Dr. David Page, pastor of East Side Baptist Church in Haskell for the last eight years, has a deeplyheld belief about Christian mission: Don't just talk about it--

A week ago he returned from Romania, where he went on a two week trip for the purpose of preparing the way and working out logistical details for a staff of people from his congregation to go back later for a mission to orphanages there. After getting a feel for the conditions there he spent 26 hours on the return trip back to Haskell.

In June the local group is going to Romania in two teams. One team will serve in orphanages housing only babies from birth to five years old, and the other team will provide and manage a summer camp opportunity for children age six to twelve years.

Planning for the mission trip began about a year ago. Fifteen to twenty people from the local church will be going, including the pastor and his wife, Karla. Although the East Side Baptist Church will do some contributing, by and large, each one going will be responsible for paying their own cost of $2,300.00 required for the trip. Three hundred of that will go to pay the cost for one Romanian child to attend the camp

Speaking of the need for helping the orphans, Dr. Page said that when Romania became a democracy after being under communism, the economy was not very good. The people were not prepared for that and many Romanian children were just given to the state because the parents could not afford to raise them. "Their value system has been destroyed by communism," he said.

All of the orphanages are run by the state, but Buckner International, the organization the local group is working in partnership with, works closely and has a good working relationship with the Romanian state.

The camp the local group will manage will be held during the last week in June. About 50 kids will be in the camp. The program there will be almost like a vacation Bible school, with recreation, crafts, worship, games and Bible stories. "It's the only thing these kids have to look forward to," the pastor said. "Going to camp may be the only time many of them will ever leave the orphanage."

At the baby orphanages, the team will give the regular workers time to take a break. The ratio of babies to orphanage workers is about one to ten. Many of the babies do not have the human interaction they need. They are never held and are not touched except when they are being changed. For the team going there, it will be holding and loving babies and giving them that individual physical attention they just don't have. The Romanian state requires that each child in the orphanages be visited by their parents once every six months. But, most get only the minimum contact, Page said.

The local group is just one of the many groups going there this summer, serving a total of 1,500 children. Buckner International, whose president is the father of Kevin Hall, pastor of First Baptist Church of Haskell, is loosely affiliated with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. It has done this mission for the last four years and already has the system in place. "We wanted to do this sort of thing and it seemed that the best fit for us is to go with the Buckner organization," Pastor Page said.

On his recent trip to Romania he went with a group of fifteen Buckner people to locate sites for the camps. These camps are not what we are used to here, such as Lueders or Buttman, Page said. They are held in old, abandoned logging or oil camps; just making do with makeshift. He spent two days, traveling thirteen hours by van on mountain roads, trying to find suitable locations. "By their standards, the ones we secured are very nice," he said. "But, not by our standards for a camp.'

While they are there, the teams will provide donations to the Romanian Buckner International Administration, and let them decide how best to use the funds. "The kitchen in one orphanage in Targus Mures is in deplorable condition. You wouldn't dare cook or eat there," Page said. With the donations, the kitchen will be refurbished with tiles and stainless steel pipes, etc., so that the food is safe to eat. The pastor said his local church is going to raise some money to do some of these things. Local people who wish to give to these benevolent work projects or to a general fund that will be divided up among the team at the end, to help defray their cost of going, may contact the East Side Baptist Church office. "But, we feel that God is faithful to provide, if we are willing to be obedient. To this point, God has been remarkable in providing," Dr. Page said.

The long trip for the team will include a ten hour flight from Dallas to Frankfurt, Germany, an hour and a half connecting flight to Budapest, Hungary, and a thirteen hour drive by bus the next morning to Targus Mures in the middle part of Romania.

Before their pastor left to go on the recent trip to Romania, several women of the East Side congregation hand made eight baby blankets, which he took with him. "They didn't have many blankets at the orphanage, and the children were very appreciative. It was a great outlet for us to minister and we just prayed that it would be a witness to the people there that Christians in America love the orphans in Romania."

He added, "As a pastor I want mission to be more than just something to read about or a check you write. I want it to be something we can become actively involved with. I think this is a good way to do it."

Fiber guidelines for kids

"Age + 5," is a dietitian's rule of thumb for the daily fiber needs of children ages 3 to 18, say nutritionists at the USDA/ARA Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"To calculate a child's daily fiber requirements, add the child's age to the number five," said Dr. Karen Cullen. For example, an 8year-old needs 13 grams of fiber a

Eating the recommended minimum five or more servings of fruits and vegetables and one or more servings of whole-grain food each day is a healthy way for kids to get all the fiber they need.

Other fiber-filled tips include: ·Look for the word "whole" before the name of the grain on food labels and ingredient lists. Some brown-hued breads are simply white bread with coloring.

·Leave the peeler in the drawer when preparing potatoes.

·Serve blended fresh, canned or frozen fruit as smoothies.

•Keep ready-to-eat "dip-able" vegetables on child-accessible shelves in the refrigerator.

•Toss extra vegetables into soups. Sprinkle beans or lentils on

NOTICE CUTE LITTLE To the Citizens of Weinert: The Texas Natural Resource HOUSE Very affordable. Call

Conservation Commission (TNRCC) sets drinking water standards and has determined that nitrate poses an acute health concern at certain levels of exposure. Nitrate is used in fertilizer and is found in sewage and wastes from human and/or farm animals and generally gets into drinking water from those activities.

Excessive levels of nitrate in drinking water have caused serious illness and sometimes death in infants under six months of age. The serious illness in infants is caused because nitrate is converted to nitrite in the body. Nitrite interferes with the oxygen carrying capacity of the child's blood. This is an acute disease in that symptoms can develop rapidly in infants. In most cases, health deteriorates over a period of days.

Symptoms include shortness of breath and blueness of the skin. Clearly, expert medical advice should be sought immediately if these symptoms occur. The purpose of this notice is to encourage parents and other responsible parties to provide infants with an alternate source of drinking water. Local and State health authorities are the best source for information concerning alternate sources of drinking water for infants. TNRCC has set the drinking water standard at 10 parts per million (ppm) for nitrate to protect against the risk of these adverse effects. TNRCC has also set a drinking water standard for nitrite at 1 ppm. To allow for the fact that the toxicity of nitrate and nitrite are additive, TNRCC has also established a standard for the sum of nitrate and nitrite at 10 ppm. Drinking water that meets the TNRCC standard is associated with little to none of this risk and is considered safe with respect to nitrate. 4c'
