The Haskell Indians moved their season record to 3 and 0 with a big win over the Ranger Bulldogs.

Using their entire backfield throughout the game, Haskell mustered 8 touchdowns on 459 yards rushing to roll to a 52 to 14 victory over the "Dogs" of Ranger.

On the opening kickoff, Josh Rodriquez recovered a Ranger fumble on the 25 yard line, and 4 plays later, Josh Barbee got the first of his 3 TDs on a 2-yard run. The PAT try was no good as the ball sailed wide right and low. On their next possession of the football, the Indians moved 55 yards in 8 plays, and quarterback Matt Brown got the 10 yard run to the end zone. Haskell's try for a 2-point conversion via the air fell incomplete.

Barbee would scamper some 34 yards to give Haskell its 3rd TD in 3 tries. The Indians would go 43 yards in 4 plays. Barbee ran the 2-point conversion to make the score 20 to 0 early in the second quarter of play. Justin Rodriquez would complete the Indian scoring for the first half with a 21-yard TD run. Again, the Indians used their rushing game to move the football some 55 yard in 10 plays.

Friday's game to benefit Red Cross

The PAT kick failed. At the intermission, the score was Haskell 26, Ranger 0.

On the first play of the second half, Haskell lost possession of the football on a fumble, but the Indian defense held on the 8 yard line. Along with the help of a Ranger 15-yard penalty, Haskell would score again on a 51yard run by running back Josh Barbee. The try for the PAT failed.

On the Indians' next possession, Matt Brown, Haskell's QB, would tack on his second TD of the evening with a 5-yard run. The PAT was blocked and no good. With the next possession for the Indians, they would fumble, and Ranger's linebacker, Dustin Stewart,

Local committee to aid lake's flood victims

The Big Country Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster (BC VOAD) has activated the Haskell County Steering Committee to oversee the coordination of recovery for the August 2005 flooding of Lake Stamford.

The mission of the BC VOAD is to bring together relief organizations, government entities, faith-based groups and concerned citizens to help victims of area disasters return to their pre-disaster condition by efficiently and equitably distributing all available resources. Another primary objective is to prevent duplication of services and to streamline procedures for donations management.

Haskell County Judge, David Davis, was instrumental in the initial discussions that led to the formation of this committee. "We wanted to make sure that everyone was represented who has been effected by this disaster," the judge said. "We want to see all parties, Haskell County, the City of Stamford, flood victims and relief organizations, brought to the table to solve this problem.'

The Haskell County Steering Committee held its first meeting on Thurs., Sept. 8. The group discussed the scope of recovery efforts, and began considering various resources that could be brought to bear to help the residents of the Lake Stamford

Officers of the Committee are Dusty Garison, chair; Linda Beshirs, vice-chair; Wyatt Oakley, vice-chair; Gwen Baker and Pat Grand, members at large. This committee will continue to meet on a regular basis to be ready to address future disasters.

The Committee continues to receive cash contributions at P.O. Box 441, Haskell, Texas 79521. They are seeking matching grants and corporate donations on behalf of the Big Country Disaster Recovery Fund.

At the present time, donations of clothing and used furnishings are not needed.

Volunteers from across the Big Country will meet at Paint Creek Baptist Church at 9:00 a.m., to set out for all five of the camps on both sides of Lake Stamford.

Volunteers will be going house to house, doing a Recovery Survey with all permanent residents to determine what assistance has been received and what additional needs remain.

Other volunteers will be helping with clean up and debris removal, and others will be taking an inventory of donations already received and stored in the recently-established Recovery Warehouse.

Any person or group interested in helping should contact the United Way of Abilene at 325-677-1841.

Advice about lowering cholesterol.

•Avoid foods that are high in cholesterol and limit your cholesterol consumption to less than 300 mg. daily.

•Avoid foods containing tropical oils (palm, palm kernel or coconut). These are highly saturated, and with the exception of milk fat, have been shown to raise serum cholesterol levels more than any other fat.

•Reduce consumption of fat, particularly saturated fats. Saturated fats are hard at room temperature and are found mainly (but not exclusively) in animal products. The total daily intake of fat should be less than 30 percent of total calories, and 10 percent or less should come from saturated fat

•Reduce intake of animal protein. Limit total intake of meat, fish or poultry to 6 ounces or less. Buy lean cuts of red meat, and remove the skin from chicken, turkey and other poultry.

•Trim visible fat from meat and poultry before cooking. Before serving foods, drain off as much fat as possible. Chill soups and stews after cooking and them skim off the congealed fat that forms on the top before reheating.

•When cooking, emphasize low-fat preparation methods such as steaming, baking, broiling, boiling or grilling rather than frying. Use a microwave oven or a nonstick pan without added fat.

•Substitute skim of 1 percent-fat milk such as salmon, halibut or cod high in omega 3 fatty acids, which may help lower cholesterol.

WARNING! Some people have a serious inherited disease called familial hypercholesterolemia, which causes extraordinarily high levels of serum cholesterol (usually more than 300 mg/Di). People with this disease often have a heart attack at an early age, even in childhood. If there is a history of early heart attacks (before the age of 50), testing for familial hypercholesterolemia is indicated. Anyone with this disease should be put on an intensive cholesterol-lowering regimen.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling

Texas welcomes thousands in aftermath of hurricane

AUSTIN-Hurricane Katrina ripped into the middle Gulf Coast Aug. 29 and is turning out to be one of the worst natural disasters in U.S. history, if not the worst.

In advance of the storm, many people managed to leave the Mississippi delta, low-lying coastal areas and a swath reaching 100 miles inland and traversing three states. But a large number failed to reach safety and were caught when the storm surge and floodwaters crushed dwellings, swamped roads and downed powerlines.

The number of people displaced has been estimated at more than 1 million.

By the afternoon of Sept. 5, the Lone Star State had taken in more than 230,000 survivors from Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

Emergency shelters in Austin Corpus Christi, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, a long list of other cities large and small, and private organizations, launched unprecedented efforts to feed, clothe, see to medical needs, house, school and employ evacuees.

Gov. Rick Perry said Texas was nearing shelter capacity and directed emergency management officials to airlift Hurricane Katrina evacuees to other states.

After learning that the federal government expects Texas to absorb costs of Medicaid and other services for evacuees, the governor on Sept. 7 fired off a letter to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, requesting full reimbursement of those costs. Texas normally pays 39 cents of every Medicaid dollar.

By Sept. 8, the number of evacuees housed at shelters had decreased to fewer than 100,000 from a peak of 139,000 over Labor Day weekend, the governor's office reported.

An early estimate of recovery costs to the stricken area exceeded $100 billion.

On Sept. 10, Vice President Dick Cheney visited the Austin convention center, one of many sites serving as temporary homes to hurricane survivors.

President Bush proclaimed Sept.

16 a day of remembrance for the victims of the storm.

Governor signs telecom bill On Sept. 7, Gov. Perry signed telecommunications reform legislation that clears the way for more competition for video, cable and telephone services.

Sen. Troy Fraser, R-Marble Falls, author of Senate Bill 5, said, "This is a huge step forward for the Texas consumer.

The bill's coauthor, Rep. Phil King, R-Weatherford, added, "This legislation will ensure that Texas is the forefront of the telecommunications industry, bringing thousands of new jobs and billions of economic investment to our state."

San Antonio-based SBC and New York-based Verizon, two telecom giants that lobbied in favor of the legislation, will be able to obtain state-issued, statewide cable and video franchises instead of requiring franchises from individual municipalities.

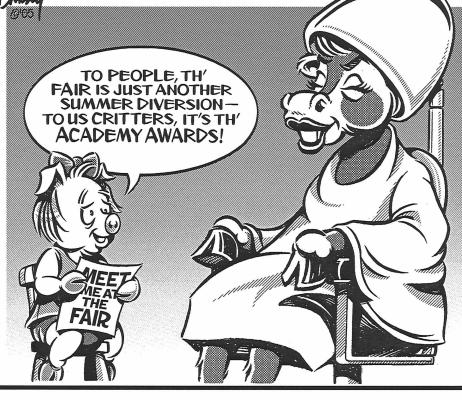

The legislation, which took effect as soon as signed, also makes Texas the first state to offer broadband over power lines, the governor's office said.

Beware of Hurricane Relief Scams

The catastrophic damage caused by Hurricane Katrina has inspired many Texans to give generously in an effort to help desperate victims. Unfortunately, in times like these, scam artists and thieves will try to take advantage of your kindness. Be very cautious in responding to solicitations for aid.

Be particularly cautious about websites and unsolicited emails seeking donations. Many of these "charities" are bogus. I commend you for your desire to give, but I urge you to make sure your donation reaches the people you intend to help. Many legitimate and well known charitable organizations such as the American Red Cross and The Salvation Army are focusing their efforts on hurricane relief at this time. Note that reputable organizations do not directly solicit individual consumers for donations by telephone, door-to-door or by email. Do not use links that you find in unsolicited emails to access the websites of these organizations.

If you have any questions about the legitimacy or authenticity of a charitable effort, contact www.give. org for information. Give.org is a website maintained by the Council of Better Business Bureaus to promote wise charitable giving. Also, remember to confirm the tax-exempt status of any organization to which you choose to make a donation.

Straight shooting on hunting safety

Texans love to hunt. Nature beckons. There's suspense, excitement and escape from the daily routine, as hunting season starts.

For a safe season, Ron Acosta, Member Service Representative of Big Country Electric Cooperative, Inc. reminds everyone of the 'ten commandments' of shooting safety. ·Always point the muzzle of your gun in a safe direction.

•Treat every firearm or bow with the same respect you would show a loaded gun or nocked arrow.

• Be sure of your target.

· Unload firearms and unstring conventional bows when not in use · Handle firearms, arrows and ammunition with care.

. Know your safe zone-of-fire and stick to it.

· Control your emotions when using weapons.

· Wear hearing and eye protection. · Don't consume alcohol or drugs before or while handling firearms or bows

· Be aware of circumstances that require added caution or safety awareness.

Peanuts are piling up by Wesley Utley CEA-Ag/NR, Haskell Co.

The state's peanut crop is stockpiled from last year, and there's more to come. With harvest just around the corner, peanut growers are concerned about market price.

It's too early to predict how the price will change, but production remains strong. Average yield should jump an estimated 17.6 percent from last year.

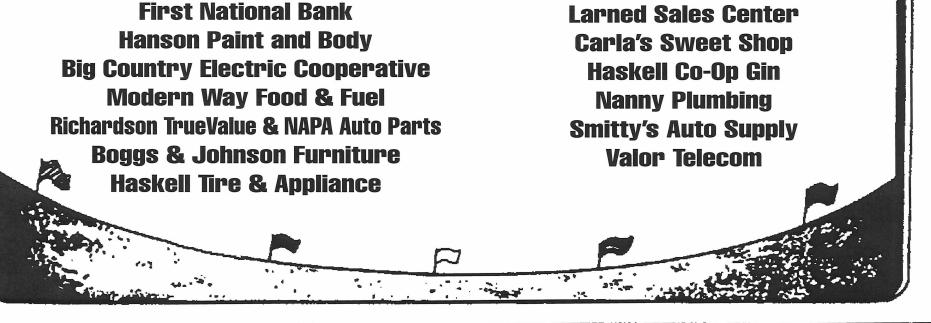

Experts predict quality will be excellent as well. This year's crop has experienced ideal weather. Light rain in July has increased growth potential by providing cool, moist conditions.

Harvest will begin in mid-October and last through November.

This Week's Devotional Message:

FAITH TEACHES THE VALUE OF BEING HONEST ABOUT YOURSELF

At various times in our lives we are all-tempted to 'put on an act' for someone's benefit; to create a false image of ourselves for the purpose of social or material gain. Nonetheless, however valid our reasons for doing this, it is always a terrible mistake; for aside from its being dishonest, it is nearly impossible to sustain this illusion for very long. Moreover, even if we could, it would lead us down some paths that we would surely regret later on when the truth begins to surface, as it always does eventually; and we must then pay a high price for our decision. The lessons of faith teach us to be honest about ourselves at all times; and that the job, friend, date, club membership or whatever that we cannot obtain by being truthful is not worth having. So follow your faith, attend your house of worship and above all, be yourself. You will even like yourself better, just as you are.

LOOK FOR THE SILVER (TAX) LINING IN A DISASTER

When natural disasters occur, they often leave many people with severely damaged or destroyed homes and businesses. Some lose everything they own. If you are affected by a disaster that is declared by the President to qualify for federal assistance, there are several provisions in the tax law that may provide relief.

Extended tax deadline and interest abatement. The IRS is authorized to postpone the deadlines for filling returns and paying taxes for up to 120 days in a Presidentially declared disaster area. Also, the IRS will not charge interest that would otherwise accrue for the extension period.

Faster refund. Taxpayers suffering losses in a federal disaster area have a choice of which tax year to deduct the casualty loss. You may deduct it on the return for the year the loss occurs, or it can be claimed on your prior year's tax return. Amending your prior year's return may give you a refund of much-needed cash sooner than waiting to deduct the loss on your current year's tax return. Tax-free gain. If the insurance payments you receive exceed the tax basis of your property, you will end up with a casualty gain. Casualty gains in federal disaster areas receive special tax treatment. For example: •Individuals may qualify for up to a $250,000 gain exclusion ($500,000 for married couples) on their principal residence. That's because the destruction of the residence is treated as a "sale" for tax purposes. •No gain is recognized on the insurance reimbursement for the contents of a building as long as those contents were not separately listed on the insurance policy.

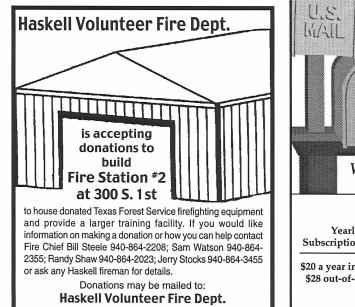

• If you replace your property with similar property within four years, you may be able to avoid or postpone paying tax on any gain from your involuntary conversion.

If you suffer a casualty loss, give us a call to discuss the best tax course of action in your situation.
