The plaque, held by l-r, Donna Sue Anders, Service Area Director, Dee Wilson, Executive Director of Noah, Inc., and Janis

Brzowski, Assistant Service Area Director, reads '1987-2007, 20 years of dedication and excellence, Noah Project-North, in appreciation from Noah Project Board of Directors.' The luncheon emphasized the important role that area volunteers have played in making a difference in the lives of victims of family violence.

Indians lose hard fought game to Lions

A typical Haskell-Albany football game is hard fought, close, exciting and down to the wire. That describes the football game in Albany on Friday night. The Haskell Indians fell to the ninth ranked class A team in the state by the score of 34-28.

Albany would score first on a 51 yard pass play and would add on the extra point via the kick. Haskell came right back with Jonathan Martinez's pass interception and 25 yard run back to pay dirt. Simon Rodriguez would tie the score with his successful extra point kick.

The Lions would add another 7 points as the first quarter would end. Again, Haskell would tie the score when running back Travis Adams scored on a three yard run. Rodriguez would add the extra point. Albany added another seven points before the half ended to take the intermission lead 21 to 14.

The Indians ran 19 plays in the third quarter compared to seven plays for Albany. Neither team crossed the goal line during the quarter. During the fourth and first period of play, action came bounding with both teams scoring twice. Albany seemed to have the game rapped up before Haskell's Travis Adams scored on a 34 yard run, but the extra point kick try failed. The Indians were 8 points behind with only 8:34 on the clock. Five minutes later, the Indian quarterback Weston Rutkowski scored on a 27 yard option play and also added the needed two points on a pass completion to tight end Derek Agraz. Score would stand 28 to 28 with 3:08 to play. The Lions got the last roar with a score at the 1:00 minute mark in the game. Haskell would get four more plays but the game ended on a pass interception. Time just ran out for the Indians in this non-district contest.

Haskell had 42 rushes for 258 yards and 5 yards in passing. The Indian QB, Weston Rutkowski had 1 TD on 9 carries for 49 yards. Rutkowski would also pass for a 2 point conversion. Running back Greg Guzman had 96 yards on 15 rushes. Travis Adams had 2 TDs and 105 yards on 17 rushes. James Williams had 1 carry for 8 yards. Defensive back, Jonathan Martinez had 1 TD on a 25 yard pass interception. The defensive unit for the Indians played some good football during the game. Randall Pace and Doug Moore each recovered a fumble during the critical fourth quarter to give the Indians a chance to get back into the game.

The 7th, 8th and JV Indians lost to the young Lions of Albany in Rochester on Thursday night.

Haskell will play its Homecoming game this Friday night against the Quanah Indians here at Indian Field. Kick off is 7:30 p.m.

The 7th, 8th and JV teams are open this week.

Cotton Market Weekly

By Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

September 13, 2007

December cotton futures on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at a five-week high on Wednesday after traders initially sold on a neutral to bearish crop report only to turn around and continue to push prices higher.

USDA's September crop production report raised the department's U.S. production estimate nearly three percent from last month to 17.81 million bales as higher production in Texas boosted the U.S. crop. Expected declines in the Delta and Southeast partially offset the higher production.

"Texas can take the credit for the increase in U.S. production since USDA raised the state's crop by almost 15 percent," a market observer said. "That was only partially offset by the reduction of 110,000 bales in the Delta and 296,000 bales in the Southeast. I wouldn't be surprised to see even more cotton show up in Texas with further cuts in the other major regions," he noted.

Texas is expected to produce 7.0 million bales this season. On a percentage basis, this month's production estimate indicates Texas cotton producers will account for 41 percent of total U.S. upland production.

"Seasoned crop watchers have been quietly impressed with the productive potential of the 2007 crop for quite some time," a cotton analyst said. "But, as is always the case with early season production estimates, the September number is still a long way from being made. The main thing tempering current optimism is experience and the knowledge that the ability of the 2007 crop to meet or even exceed current forecasts depends on a favorable end to the growing season," he explained.

USDA left domestic use unchanged in September at 6.4 million bales, and U.S. exports also were unchanged at 16.7 million bales despite the fact that USDA expects lowered demand from China, the world's largest cotton importer. Analysts say the figure sparks concerns that the U.S. export projection will be lowered in future reports. Additionally, the department raised its estimate for 2007-08 U.S. ending stocks to 6.2 million bales from 5.8 million projected in August.

World numbers included a one percent boost in global cotton production to 117.18 million bales due to larger crops in India, Brazil, Pakistan, and the United States. While crop production in China was left unchanged at 32.5 million bales, the USDA lowered its estimate of China's imports by one million bales to 15 million, based on lower consumption and a slower-than-anticipated pace of imports prior to the 2007 harvest.

Global 2007-08 ending stocks, however, were virtually unchanged in September at 51.56 million bales from 51.52 million in August which took some of the bearishness out of the report, traders said.

Meanwhile, USDA reported export sales for 2007-08 came in at just 100,500 bales in the week ended Sept. 6 with another 9,400 bales sold for 2008-09. Sales were down 64 percent from the previous week and 73 percent less than the four-week average. Major buyers included Indonesia, China, South Korea, and Mexico.

Export shipments of 212,300 bales were 35 percent lower than the week earlier and 34 percent less than the four-week average. Primary destinations were China, Mexico, Turkey and Thailand.

In the spot cotton market, online trading by producers in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas totaled 17,137 bales in the week ended Sept. 13 compared to 61,272 bales in the previous week. Average prices received by producers ranged from 51.38 to 54.79 cents per pound versus 52.36 to 53.23 cents per pound the previous week.

Master of Memory series to begin Tues., Sept. 25

by Jane Rowan
CEA/FCS, Haskell County

Your memory is only as good as the information that your brain takes in—if you don't learn it to begin with, you will never remember it. In the first lesson of the "Master of Memory" series, participants will explore how the brain takes in new information and processes it. The six part series is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. on Tues., Sept. 25 and continue the same time each Tuesday morning through Oct. 30. The classes will be held at the Haskell Memorial Hospital Education Building located east of the hospital in Haskell and each class will last approximately one hour. The general public is invited to participate and the series if being offered free of charge.

"Master of Memory" is being conducted by the Texas Cooperative Extension—Haskell County and more information can be obtained about the program series by contacting Jane Rowan, County Extension Agent/FCS at 101 S. Ave. D. in Haskell or by calling 940-864-2546.

Hurricane strikes 3 Texas counties

AUSTIN—Gov. Rick Perry on Sept. 13 declared Orange, Jefferson and Galveston counties a disaster area resulting from Hurricane Humberto.

Gov. Perry ordered state agency and military resources and personnel to the area before the storm hit. Relief workers delivered generators, water and ice to stricken areas.

Humberto took only 18 hours to develop from a tropical depression into a Category 1 hurricane with sustained wind speeds in excess of 85 mph and heavy rains.

No tropical cyclone on record ever reached the intensity of Humberto at a faster rate near landfall, the National Hurricane Center reported. After striking Texas, the weather system moved across Louisiana and Mississippi and into Alabama.

Entergy Texas, a major power provider in 26 counties including the three in the disaster zone, reported power outages to 118,019 customers.

Seventy-two hours after Humberto struck the coast, Entergy said power restoration to customers was almost complete. A widely reported early estimate of damages caused by the hurricane came to about $500 million.

The Texas Department of Insurance urged residents affected by the hurricane to call the consumer hotline, 1-800-252-3439 for answers to storm-related insurance questions.

Border security council is formed

Gov. Perry appointed 11 members to the newly created Texas Border Security Council to serve at his pleasure.

The council was created by Senate Bill 11 of the 80th Legislature.

The council's job will be to devise performance standards, reporting requirements, audit methods and other procedures for homeland security fund allocation and use.

Council members include the presiding officer Cameron County Judge Carlos Cascos of Brownville, Brewster County Judge Val Clark Beard, Hudspeth County Judge Becky Dean-Walker, Victoria County Sheriff T. Michael O'Connor, Maverick County Sheriff Tomas S. Herrera, Secretary of State Phil Wilson, Texas Commission on Environmental Quality Commissioner Buddy Garcia and Public Safety Commission member Allan Polunsky.

Three private businessmen, Fred Burton of Austin, Scott A. McLaughlin of El Paso, and Robert Braxton Holt of Midland, also were appointed to the council by Perry.

"Texans understand there can be no homeland security without border security," said Perry. "The members of the Border Security Council will play an important role in reinforcing the state's efforts to strengthen the safety and security of Texas."

More minorities take AP exams

The Texas Education Agency reported minority students represented 52 percent of all Advanced Placement test takers in Texas in 2007.

Fifty percent of those who took the test in 2006 identified themselves as minorities. In 2002, the figure was 45 percent.

High school students who score highly on AP exams can earn college credit for courses, saving their families thousands of dollars in tuition costs and giving students a head start on a college education, the TEA reported.

Wilson visits NYC for Texas

Texas' new Secretary of State Phil Wilson, on the job since July 1, took a trip east to drum up business for the Lone Star State.

He had this to say: "During the trip we visited the New York Stock Exchange and discovered that Texas has 216 companies worth $2.42 trillion that are publicly traded on the exchange—the most of any state in the nation."

"This is proof that the Lone Star State truly is 'wide open for business' and has the potential to remain an economic powerhouse for years to come."

Wilson makes trips like this for Texas One, an outreach program to promote Texas as an attractive place for businesses to relocate.

City dedicates Richards bridge

The city of Austin on Sept. 7 officially renamed and dedicated the former Congress Avenue Bridge as Ann W. Richards Congress Avenue Bridge. Richards served as governor from 1991 to 1995. She died Sept. 13, 2006.

TCEQ offers state's outdoor burning rules

The Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) has released a revision to Outdoor Burning in Texas, a guide which helps summarize and explain Title 30, Texas Administrative Code, sections 111.201-22, the state's burning regulations. The Outdoor Burning Rule prohibits outdoor burning anywhere in Texas, however it allows for exceptions in which burning is necessary.

The 19-page document provides answers to the most

Smoke and carbon monoxide detectors

Like a piercing squawk to wake you in the middle of the night? I bet you wouldn't mind if your smoke detector or carbon monoxide detector is making the racket.

Smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors are powerful and effective fire safety tools. They provide an early warning alerting individuals of a fire, often asked questions, including:

•Do I need a permit to burn my garbage?

The TCEQ does not issue burning permits. Outdoor burning, in general, is prohibited in Texas, although there are certain exceptions allowed in the rules. For instance, domestic waste may be burned when the local governmental jurisdiction does not collect trash.

•Do I have to get my neighbor's approval before I can legally burn?

allowing them precious time to escape.

Smoke and carbon monoxide detectors must operate according to the local fire code and the manufacturer's recommendations. You should check your detectors once a month and replace the batteries every six months (like when the time changes) to ensure they are in proper working order.

Written approval must be obtained beforehand, if the burning takes place less than 300 feet from any structure, including a nearby residence, or business, as well as livestock, or certain vegetation.

•How do I report someone who is illegally burning outdoors?

You may report burning to the local air pollution control office, or the nearest TCEQ regional office. The TCEQ also provides a toll free Environmental Complaint Hotline, 888-777-3186. Complaints can also be submitted by e-mail at cmplains@tceq.state.tx.us, or on the agency Web site, using the online form <http://www5.tceq.state.tx.us/occe/complaints/>.

The document is available free of charge, on the publications page http://www.tceq.state.tx.us/comm_exec/forms_pubs/pubs/rg/rg-049.html of the TCEQ Web site.

Texans urged to buy flood insurance

As Texas—and much of the Midwest—emerges from a series of major floods, federal and state officials are urging people to buy flood insurance before the next flood hits.

“Even if you weren’t flooded recently, you may still be vulnerable to rising water,” said Federal Coordinating Officer Kenneth Clark of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

“The risk of flooding is almost three times greater than the risk of fire over the period of a 30-year mortgage, yet most people are insured against fire but not floods,” Clark noted. “Obviously it makes good sense to insure for both.”

In 1968, Congress created the National Flood Insurance

Program (NFIP) to help individuals insure themselves for a reasonable cost against flooding. Local governments must first agree to participate in the NFIP before its residents can purchase the insurance. Almost 40 years after its creation, NFIP oversees 5.4 million policies throughout the country.

Most people who live in NFIP participating communities, including business owners, homeowners and renters, are eligible to purchase Federally-backed flood insurance. A residential building can be insured up to $250,000 and its contents up to $100,000. Renters can cover belongings up to $100,000, and non-residential property owners can insure their buildings up to $500,000 and contents up to $500,000. The premiums for an NFIP policy, averaging about $500 a year, can be less expensive than the monthly payments on a federal disaster loan.

The National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) maintains its Floodsmart Web site (www.floodsmart.gov) so people can assess their vulnerability to flooding, calculate their costs for structure and contents insurance, and find nearby agents who sell NFIP policies.

All areas are susceptible to flooding, although to varying degrees. It is advisable to have flood insurance in high risk areas and even in low-to-moderate flood risk areas; between 20 and 25 percent of the NFIP’s claims come from outside high-flood-risk areas.

Flood insurance policies do not take effect until 30 days after purchase, so it is important to buy coverage now, before the next flood. There is no waiting period if a policy is purchased at a mortgage closing.

He has won numerous awards for his writing and community service, including the Will Rogers Humanitarian Award from the National Society of Newspaper Columnists.

In the afternoon, delegates attended educational workshops: “Cultivating your Landscape with Kindness,” “After 72 Hours, What?” and “Nip Clutter in the Bud.” Thursday morning, members attended a workshop entitled “Be the Master of Your Memory,” presented by Andrew Crocker, Extension Program Specialist. He described the two types of intelligence, how memory works, types of learners, things that affect memory, and strategies to help remember.

The conference was adjourned after a final business session. Members attending from Haskell were Joetta Burnett, Lena Tidwell, Sue McGee and Jane Rowan, County Agent, FCS.

Three Rochester exes celebrate friendships

Three members of the Rochester High School graduating class of 1961 met in Haskell at a local restaurant on Labor Day to celebrate their lifelong friendships.

Sammie Williams Clay of Richardson, Sandra Grinstead Fry of Rochester and Sue Cox Miller of Haskell did not only graduate together, but they also started first grade at Rochester Elementary School in 1949.

Clay and Miller were suite mates at McMurry College in Abilene and graduated with teaching degrees in 1965. They both retired in 2006.

Fry graduates in 1964 from HSU with a teaching degree. She teaches computer classes at Rochester Junior High.

The trio have a combined total of 111 years in the teaching profession.

They were joined by David Miller of Haskell, Sue's husband; and Dan Burson of Haskell, "adopted" brother of Sammie. Keith Fry was busy baling hay.

Transition Fair to be held Oct. 5

The Region 14 Education Service Center is holding its first ever Roadside Assistance Transition Fair for high school juniors and seniors with disabilities on Oct. 5, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Service Center on Highway 351.

The purpose of the event is to offer information to special needs students from the forty-two school districts surrounding the Abilene Area on a variety of subjects including: employment, going to college, transportation, housing and recreation. Parents are also invited to attend special sessions on benefits planning. Lunch will be provided with early registration.

According to Norma Whitis, Educational Consultant with Region 14, "The Roadside Assistance Transition Fair is a great place for high school junior and seniors with disabilities to learn about a variety of things that will be important to them after graduation." Students interested in attending should register no later than Sept. 24, with Whitis by calling 325-675-8610 or contacting their campus counselor.

Education Service Centers assist school districts in improving student performance, enabling school districts to operate more efficiently and economically and implementing initiatives assigned by the legislature or the commissioner.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Rick Rodgers, CPA

THE "KIDDIE TAX" RULES ARE CHANGING — YES, AGAIN!

New changes to the kiddie tax rules will seriously impact the ways in which you can help your child save for college. Shifting income from higher bracket parents to children to take advantage of their lower bracket will soon become virtually impossible.

Under the kiddie tax rules in effect for 2006 and 2007, children under the age of 18 could receive as much as $850 in tax-free investment income. The child didn't have to pay taxes on interest, dividends, or capital gains up to this amount. Additionally, the child would have to pay taxes on the next $850, but at a lower tax rate than the parents. Once investment income exceeded $1,700, the child's tax was assessed at the parents' rate.

However, under the new rules, the age limit increases to 19 and to 24 for full-time students. The kiddie tax doesn't apply if the child provides more than half of his support from earned income (i.e., wages). Essentially, very few children will be able to prove that they are providing more than half of their support from earned income if they are living at home, since support includes the fair rental value of lodging, clothing, education, medical, etc.

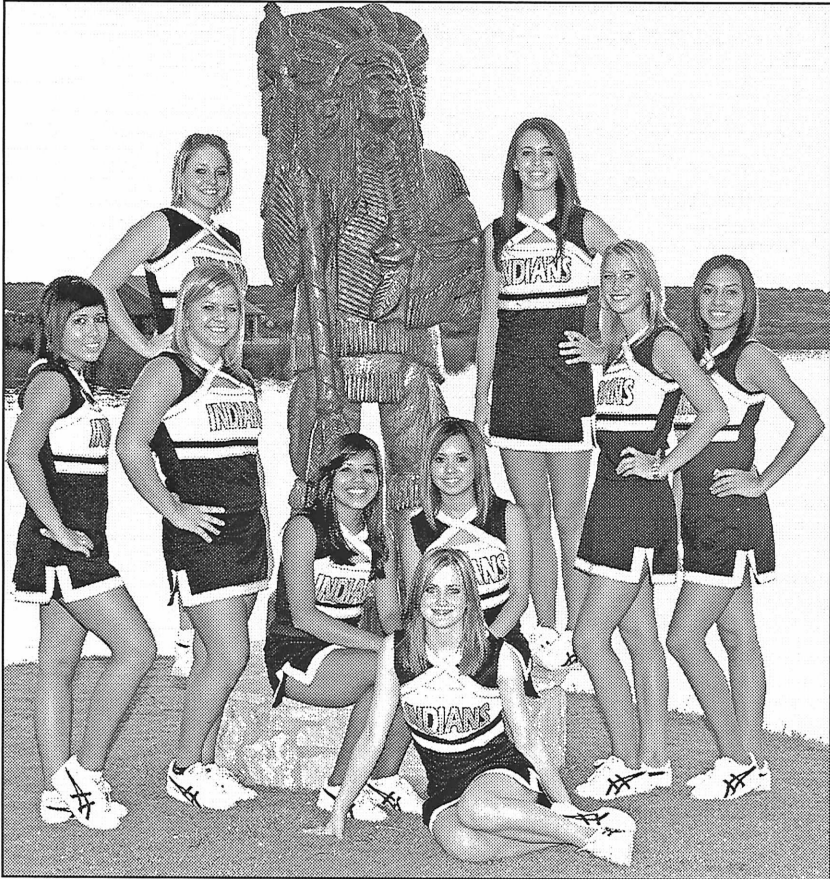

Note, too, that the kiddie tax doesn't come into play if your child is married and files a joint return.

But you still have time to act, since the new rules don't take effect until January 1, 2008. If your child will be over age 17 by the end of this year and he or she holds appreciated property, it might make sense to sell that property now in order to avoid the new rules. Additionally, the new rules make investing in a Coverdell Education Savings Account or a College Saving 529 Plan even more valuable since neither of these investment plans throw off unearned income to the child.

Take the time now to review your child's current investments and make plans for future investment strategies before it's too late.

This Week's Devotional Message:

We do many things on impulse, in haste and often in anger, and we may live to regret those actions after we've had time to cool off and think it over. We may quit a job because of one unfortunate incident. We might terminate a friendship because of some real or imaginary hurt. We occasionally contemplate a divorce. In any case, if some situation should bring you to a major moment of decision, give it a lot of thought. Would you really be better off as a result of this action, or would you be sorry perhaps for the rest of your life? If you need help in deciding this, go to your house of worship and tell your clergyman about it. That is one of the most vital functions of your faith: to point you in the right direction and to help you straighten out your life, once and for all.

Turn off computer to save energy costs

Personal computers currently waste about half of the power they consume. A computer left on can draw as much as 134 watts overnight, contributing about 2,000 pounds of CO2 to the atmosphere annually. But a coalition of technology companies called the Climate Savers Computing Initiative recently announced a plan to increase energy efficiency in computer equipment over the next four years. The initiative hopes to cut in half the amount of energy computers use by 2010 using existing technology.

But there are steps you can take now to help curb your computer's energy usage while the technology catches up.

"Just being aware of energy usage and paying attention to the appliances in your home can lead you in the right direction to save energy," said Fredda Buckner, general manager of Big Country Electric Cooperative. "Computers draw lots of energy when we aren't looking—but they don't have to."

One simple solution is to turn off your computer when you aren't using it. Even when computers go into a low-power mode, they still draw electricity. And turning your home computer off at night or while you're at work won't harm the system. It'll just save you money on your electric bill.

You can also set your computer to save energy while it's in use. Consider having the system go into a sleep or standby mode after 10 minutes of inactivity, allowing it to save energy while you make a phone call or take a quick lunch. And avoid graphic-intensive screen savers—they waste more power than energy-saving sleep modes.

When shopping for a new computer, look for a model with the Energy Star label. Consider buying an LCD monitor—they can be up to 66 percent more energy efficient than CRT models. Using a notebook computer will also save you energy over a desktop model. Since notebooks run on batteries, they are built to consume less power.

"As a member-owned co-op, we are happy to give our member-customers tips on how they can save energy," said Fredda Buckner.

Walking is good for you

How would you like to burn the same amount of fat and calories by walking rather than running?

Walking can burn just as much as running, but it takes a lot longer to cover the same distance. Burning the same amount of calories and fat in a shorter period of time seems like the better solution—particularly for the busy lifestyle most people lead.

However, according to Jerome Congleton, Ph.D., professor at the Texas A&M Health Science Center School of Rural Public Health, high impact running is too much for the knees, ankles, hips and low back to handle on a regular basis. Like furniture, your body has a limited lifetime warranty.

To get the high aerobic, low impact exercise that will burn the most calories and fat but have the least negative effects on your body, Dr. Congleton recommends walking or using an elliptical machine, which produces smooth strides and no impact on the joints. Lifting weights without resting in between is another low-impact aerobic exercise. And, swimming can be one of the most aerobic exercises and offers no impact at all.

Consult your doctor before starting an exercise regimen.

Squaws, Papooses play football

Haskell Free Press, 1947

The first girls' football game ever to be played in Haskell was held November 11 between the Squaws and Papooses.

Fans of the Haskell Pep Squad all girls game Tuesday night saw proof that the girls have the "spunk" and sportsmanship necessary in football. The girls' efforts to appear as the "real McCoy's" were amusing but the laughs were as much a part of the game as the sport itself. Joyce Matthews seemed to be the star of the game, making two touchdowns for the Papooses and running for one extra point. The Squaws were unable to score, but evident on their team was the fight spirit.

The only injuries were sprains and pulled ligaments. However, Nancy Burton was unable to play because of an injury to her collar bone during practice.

The line up for the Squaws:

Captain Freddie Frierson, Co-Captain Rose Ann Johnson, Doris Nell Camp, Evelyn Linville, Ozella Skains, Paula Decker, Nancy Furrh, Anita Jo Pittman, LaVada Reese, Geneva Wheeler and Jean Bird.

The line up for the Papooses:

Captain Joyce Matthews, Co-Captain Margaret Dendy, Jane Gentry, Nabeela Hassen, Nancy Ratliff, Freddie Kendrick, Betty Connally, Anita Robison, Jackie Treadwell, Frances Yancey and Frankie Robison.

Mustangs defeat Pirates

Haskell Free Press, 1957

Mattson will and accumulation

Mattson's seniors left the following will and 'accumulations' to their following classmates.

Friends: During our four years sojourn in Mattson high school, the member of this graduating class have acquired, through the natural processes of accumulation and otherwise, some very valuable and priceless possessions. Consequently we feel that it would be unwise for us to pass on without making definite disposition of these treasures. Then, too, we do not want to cause our friends any undue anxiety of unnecessary expense. Therefore, we want at this time, in the presence of our friends here assembled, and without the aid of legal documents, to give to our successors all that we possess.

Opal Faye leaves her love letters and private diary to Rada hoping that she will get a few pointers on 'gettin' her man.

Bob leave his ability to drive the old Chevy bus to Lindo hoping that he will learn to drive someday.

Betty Ann leaves her ability to study to Barbara.

Lois leaves her ability to get along with Mrs. Roberts to Bobby.

Curtis leaves his ability to chew paper and throw spitwads to Verlean.

Joyce leaves her curly hair to Billie Reed.

Herbert leaves his quietness to Billy Couch hoping that he will use it.

Ernestine leaves her weakness for army and navy uniforms to Emmie.

Price leaves his ability to keep a daily record in school to J.R.

Our sponsors, Mr. Homsley, the man that stands out like a crowd, is leaving his out grown suits to Mr. Auten.

Finally to our sponsor, who has so patiently worked with us and directed our activities through the last 3 years. We leave our never ending thanks and appreciation.

Welcome Exes!

We hope you enjoy all the activities at Homecoming Sept. 21-22!

Class takes Spanish trip

Haskell Free Press, 1966

Viva la Mexico! This is hardly what the Spanish II students of Haskell High said as they began their journey to the "Land of the Sun."

February 25, twenty-eight students and the following twelve sponsors left Haskell for their much-looked forward to trip: Bennie Sessums, Hooper T.

Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wiseman, Dr. and Mrs. R.E. Colbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hester and Mr. and Mrs. H.E. (Buck) Bland.

First stop for the day was at Garner City for dinner and a tour of Garner City museum. From there they went through customs to Nuevo Laredo. They spent that night at the El Rio Motel and the next day started for Monterrey, where they stayed for two fun-filled days. Among the events included a tour around Monterrey and a late trip to Horsetail Falls.

On Monday morning, the students waved good-bye to Monterrey and set out for San Antonio. Things brightened eyes upon reaching San Antonio and after settling in their rooms at the hotel many of the students went to the show, or to the Alamo.

On Tuesday, March 1, the group left San Antonio to arrive in Haskell, thus ending a wonderful trip which none shall ever forget.

Students making the trip were Tommy Perry, Pam Reeves, Gene Hester, Dana Bland, Tim Everett, Paula Terrell, Ray Herren, Jo Nell Anderson, Derrell Davis, Maryjane McAdoo, Jack Melton, Margaret Cook, Brian Dulaney, Gerre Colbert, Randy Wiseman, Betsy Fouts, David Galvan, Belinda McKelvain, Patrick Pace, Linda Riley, Harold Ivey, Anita Powell, Theresa Abbott, Lucy Kennedy, Patricia Hillard, Sandra Lees, Theresa Galvan and Johnny Love.

In a community meeting held at Mattson. It was the opinion of those in attendance that Mattson school was getting too small to continue to operate.

"The school has excellent teachers and facilities but enrollment is too small and the tax too high to continue operation," a

Mattson will finish this school year, but beginning with the new school term this fall will consolidate with Haskell and Weinert.

Henry Smith, Mattson School Board president, said, "We are trying to handle this matter in such a way as to make Mattson, Weinert and Haskell people happy."
