TAX PLANNING

Written By James E. Rodgers, CPA

USE THE "SAVER'S CREDIT" TO CUT YOUR 2007 TAX BILL

Would you like to shave $1,000 off your income tax bill? Would your spouse like to join in the tax savings of up to $2,000 on a joint return? This potential savings comes in the form of a tax credit called the "retirement savings contributions credit" or "saver's credit." Unlike a tax deduction, a tax credit is a dollar for dollar reduction of the taxes you owe.

How do you qualify for this credit? By contributing to a retirement plan, you could be eligible for the saver's credit. This includes contributions to both Roth and traditional IRAs. It also includes salary deferrals into SEP, SIMPLE, 401(k), 403(b), and 457 plans.

How much is the credit? The credit ranges from 10% to 50% of the first $2,000 contributed to a retirement plan. In other words, the maximum credit is $1,000 for an individual. If you and your spouse both contribute at least $2,000 to your retirement accounts, you could qualify for up to a $2,000 credit on a joint return.

Are there limitations? Like many tax breaks, this credit decreases or phases out entirely once your income reaches certain levels. The 2007 income phase-out range is $15,500 to $26,000 for individuals, $23,250 to $39,000 for heads of household, and $31,000 to $52,000 for married couples filing a joint return. (Income limits are adjusted annually for inflation.) In addition, you cannot take the credit if you are under age 18, a full-time student, or someone else's dependent.

Here's an example. Say you put $3,000 into an IRA and you qualify for the maximum $1,000 saver's credit. You can deduct your $3,000 contribution for a tax savings of $450 ($3,000 x 15% tax rate). Add this $450 tax savings to the $1,000 saver's credit, and your total tax savings equals $1,450. That's the equivalent of earning 48% on your $3,000 investment in one year.

If you haven't been contributing to a retirement plan, this tax credit adds yet another incentive to do so. You have until April 15, 2008, to make a 2007 IRA contribution that could reduce your 2007 taxes. For more information about the saver's credit or about retirement accounts, contact our office

4-H members enjoy lock-in

by Jane Rowan CEA/FCS, Haskell County

Haskell County 4-H members with an interest in Clothing & Textiles enjoyed a six hour lockin on Saturday evening, Feb. 23.

The purpose of the lock-in was to provide a variety of learning activities related to the 4-H Clothing project.

The evening began at the Rule School with a pizza party.

The first session, presented by Lynn Dodson, was "Improvement In Your Movement" which focused on modeling. Then older 4-H members worked with younger members in making "Hug Me Teddy Bears." Through this sewing project the participants made teddy bears which will be donated to Emergency Medical Services to carry on ambulances to give to children after an accident.

Everyone's senses came alive when Jenny Dudensing gave a presentation on "Aroma Therapy." The benefits of aroma therapy in relaxing the body and relieving stress were discussed. To put their new knowledge into practice, everyone tried their hand at making scented "bath bombs."

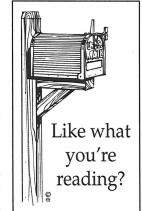

County Extension Agent– Jane Rowan shared several opportunities for the group to participate in various 4-H Clothing project contests prior to teaching the basics of sewing on a button. The 4-H'ers used their new skill in making bean bag hearts. To round out the evening, Molly Dudensing demonstrated the process of "Computer Makeovers" using the internet. This will be a fun tool for the participants to experiment with during their 4-H Clothing project.

To sweeten the evening, 4-H'ers enjoyed being the first group in Haskell County to taste the new Blue Bell Ice Cream, "Centennial Cupcake." Blue Bell Creameries has just introduced this ice cream in honor of the Texas 4-H organization's 100th birthday.

The weary but happy group concluded the full evening at midnight. 4-H members will now be working on their clothing projects in preparation for the annual 4-H Fashion Show scheduled for March 30.

RIEGER COMPETES—Jessica Rieger participated in the 30th annual Cowtown Marathon Sat., Feb. 23 in Fort Worth. A record 13,739 people ran in the event which consisted of marathon, ultra marathon, half marathon, 10k and 5k runs. Rieger, a math teacher at Albany High School, completed the half marathon which is 13.1 miles.

Record voter turnout predicted in primary

AUSTIN-Turnout for the March 4 primary elections likely will reach a record number.

Texas Secretary of State Phil Wilson, the state's chief elections officer, on Feb. 27 projected an overall turnout of 26 percent of the registered voters in Texas.

That is 3.3 million voters. The previous record came 20 years ago in the 1988 presidential primaries, with 2.7 million Texas voters casting ballots. To predict turnout, the secretary of state's office factors in early voting from Texas' 15 most populous counties: Harris, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, Travis, Collin, El Paso, Denton, Hidalgo, Fort Bend, Montgomery, Williamson, Nueces, Galveston and Cameron. About 60 percent of all voters in Texas are registered in those counties.

Candidates push hard

for Texas

Texas continued to prove itself a battleground state for presidential candidates in the last few days leading up to the March 4 primaries.

Polls pointed toward a close finish in the race between U.S. Sens. Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama for the Democratic presidential nomination

U.S. Sen. John McCain of Arizona and former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee, vying for the Republican presidential nomination, spent time and energy in delegate-rich Texas.

Candidates seesawed back and forth between Texas and Ohio, a state sharing the March 4 date for its primaries.

Senate panel hears 'Gaps' update

The Senate Education Committee met Feb. 27 to hear from state education officials about the implementation of reforms passed by the Legislature last session.

Texas Commissioner of Higher Education Raymund Paredes reported on the "Closing the Gaps" initiative, a program to increase college enrollment and graduation rates for all Texas high school students.

Paredes said the state is on track to meet its enrollment goals by 2015, adding 235,000 more college enrollees as of 2007. Also, he said, minority enrollment is up since 2000, with an increase of 49 percent for Hispanics and 38 percent for African-Americans.

College completion rates were also up, said Paredes, increasing by 152,000 degrees in the last seven years. Again, the largest percentages of growth were among minorities, with a 67 percent increase in college graduation for Hispanics, and 44

On the job injury report released

The Texas Department of Insurance on Feb. 26 released statistics for on-the-job injuries in

According to the report, the number of nonfatal occupational injuries and illnesses involving days away from work in private industry in Texas increased by nearly 5 percent compared to

Although 3,230 more of these types of injuries and illnesses were reported in 2006 compared to 2005, the 2006 total is less than the numbers reported in 2004 and

2003, the agency said. Plenty of flu to go around

The Texas Department of State Health Services' latest flu report, for the week ending Feb. 23, classifies flu activity in Texas as 'widespread."

The classification applies when there are increases in flulike illnesses and recent labconfirmed flu cases in at least half of the state's regions.

Cotton Market Weekly

By Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

February 28, 2008

Cotton futures on the New York Board of Trade closed at a four-year high Tuesday for the second consecutive day on continued fund buying and support from the surging U.S.

grain market. "Ten years from now, someone looking at the cotton trading charts will ask, 'What happened?' and expect to blame a flood somewhere, or a freeze, or some huge business," a trader said. "Of course, none of that took place this week; it was simply the influence of corn, soybeans and wheat, in alphabetical order."

The market was completely unimpressed this week by U.S. cotton use data as there were no surprises. The National Cotton Council (NCC) reported U.S. textile mills used cotton at a seasonally adjusted annualized rate of 4.68 million bales in January, down from 4.96 million one year ago. January cotton consumption was down from the new December 2007 figure of 4.74 million bales, an upward revision from the 4.70 million bale figure contained in last month's report.

A report from a USDA attaché showed Turkish domestic consumption is expected to decline to 6.5 million bales in the upcoming year due to adverse effects of the strong Turkish Lira on exports. While Turkish exporters are facing difficulties exporting goods, cheap yarn and textile imports from CIS and Asian countries are hurting the domestic consumption of cotton. The end of Chinese textile export quotas in 2008 is expected to have an adverse effect on Turkish textile exports as well. Approximately 35 Turkish mills are reported to be closed or have ceased operations until conditions become favorable.

Turkey still is expected to import 3.3 million bales of cotton during the 2007 marketing year, down from previous estimates of 4 million, according to USDA sources. Imports of U.S. cotton should remain at about 2.3 million bales due to short supplies in other cotton producing countries such as Syria and

In other news, USDA reported et export sales of 196,300 bales in the week ended Feb. 21 were down 59 percent from the previous week and 36 percent from the four-week average. Primary buyers were Mexico, China, Indonesia and Turkey. Net sales of 11,500 bales for delivery in 2008-09 were for Turkey, Mexico and Indonesia.

Export shipments of 162,000 bales were down 22 percent from the previous week and 16 percent lower than the four-week average. Major destinations were China, Mexico, Indonesia and Turkey.

In spot cotton news, online trading by producers in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas totaled 87,807 bales in the week ended Feb. 28 compared to 67,852 bales the previous week. Average prices received by producers ranged from 63.34 to 69.14 cents per pound versus 49.39 to 65.13 cents per pound one week earlier.

Despite the fact that some Texas cotton gins have not yet completed ginning, planting of the 2008-09 cotton crop will begin soon in the southern portion of the state. Planting of grain and corn crops in the Lower Rio Grande Valley (LRGV) have begun, and farmers are expected to start planting cotton as soon as they finish with grains.

Only between 80,000 and 90,000 acres are expected to be planted in the LRGV to cotton in the region, and mostly all of the acres dedicated to cotton will be dryland. At the moment, drought conditions prevail, and timely rains will be needed throughout the growing season to ensure optimal plant development.

IRS stimulus payment facts

Stimulus payments start in May, and that's a fact. There's no need to wonder about answers to stimulus payment questions when you can visit the official Internal Revenue Service Web site. The IRS has placed a special link there devoted to stimulus payment information.

"IRS.gov is the best source to separate stimulus payment fact from fiction," said Clay Sanford, an IRS spokesman in Dallas. "The Web site has answers to frequently-asked questions, fact sheets and examples. It's updated as soon as new information becomes available."

FICTION: The Stimulus Payment will reduce next year's refund.

FACT: The payment will NOT reduce refunds or increase the amount owed when a 2008 return

FICTION: The Stimulus Payment is taxable.

FACT: It is NOT taxable, but taxpayers are encouraged to keep a copy of the IRS notice they will receive later this year listing the amount of payment. In the event a taxpayer does not qualify to receive the full amount this year but does next year, the notice will be a record of the previous do anything in order to receive a Stimulus Payment.

FACT: Taxpayers must file a 2007 tax return in order to be eligible for a payment. After filing a 2007 return, however, the taxpayer is set and the IRS will do the rest.

FICTION: Everybody is eligible for a check.

FACT: At the minimum, a taxpayer must have at least $3,000 of "qualifying income" to receive either $300 (Single) or $600 (Married Filing Joint). Oualifying income includes Social Security benefits, certain Railroad Retirement benefits, certain veterans' benefits and earned income, such as income from wages, salaries, tips and self-employment. For taxpayers filing joint tax returns, only a total of $3,000 of qualifying income from both spouses is required to be eligible. Also, for those who don't normally file, a tax return (Form 1040A) will be needed this year to get a check. People with incomes above the phase-out amounts (Payments to higher income taxpayers will be reduced by 5 percent of the amount of adjusted gross income above $75,000 for individuals and $150,000 for those filing jointly.),

FICTION: Taxpayers needn't required to file a 2007 tax return with less than $3,000 in qualifying income, nonresident aliens, persons who do not have a valid Social Security number, individuals who can be claimed as dependents on someone else's return, and individuals who file Form 1040NR, Form 1040PR or Form 1040SS are not eligible for the stimulus payments.

FICTION: Only paper checks will be issued.

FACT: Direct Deposit is the best way to receive the payment. Eligible taxpayers who choose direct deposit for their 2007 tax year refund will receive their Stimulus Payment the same way.

FICTION: The IRS will contact taxpayers either by phone or e-mail about their payments.

FACT: Watch for scams! IRS will not contact taxpayers by phone or e-mail about Stimulus Payments or refunds.

The IRS reminds those who don't have any other requirement to file a tax return that submitting a tax return to qualify for the economic stimulus payments does not create any additional tax or trigger a tax bill. In addition, the stimulus payments will not have any effect on eligibility for federal benefits. Complete details are available at www.irs.gov.

Law Enforcement Update Keeping The Pressure On MySpace

Earlier this year, nearly every state attorney general entered into a cyber safety agreement with MySpace.com, a well-known social networking Web site. Under the agreement, MySpace and the signing states promised to protect children from online predators by working together. Forty-nine states entered into the agreement. Texas was the lone state to abstain.

As Attorney General, I declined to join the agreement with MySpace because we believe it inadequately protects Texas children. Although the agreement marks a step in the right direction, merely promising to work together is not enough. After spending five years investigating, arresting, and prosecuting cyber criminals, we believe that certain concrete measures are necessary to ensure young Texans are protected Protecting Texas children is our top priority. With help from state, federal and local law enforcement officials, we have arrested hundreds of sex offenders. Many of these cases involved criminals who used the Internet to prey on children. Over the last six years, as social networking websites have grown in popularity, dangerous sexual predators have increasingly utilized these sites to pursue their victims.

With more and more young users establishing identifying online profiles on MySpace.com and similar Web sites, we grew concerned that their safety might be at risk. As a result, we pressured Myspace.com and its competitors to employ measures that would protect children from online predators. Those efforts yielded results provided our Cyber Crimes Unit a list of Texas sex offenders who established profiles on the social networking Web site. Thanks to valuable assistance from local police and sheriff's departments. we have arrested 23 convicted sex offenders who violated their parole by using MySpace.com.

MySpace.com undoubtedly aided our cyber predator crackdown by providing their data to our Cyber Crimes Unit. But that alone is not enough. Nor, in our view, are the remedial measures outlined in the states' agreement with MySpace.com. The agreement merely memorializes the social networking site's obligation to work cooperatively with law enforcement, but does not delineate any specific steps that MySpace.com must take to protect children.

We do not believe that MySpace.com-or any other social networking site-can adequately protect minors until an age verification system is effectively developed and implemented. While the agreement calls for the creation of an Internet Safety Technical Task Force to explore and develop age and identity verification tools, it does require that MySpace.com institute real age verification. Children can still falsify their profiles, input an inaccurate age and easily become youngest generation.

To understand the danger these cyber predators pose to our children, consider John David Payne, a former City of Brenham Water Department employee who was recently the subject of two Crimes Cyber investigations. In the first instance, Payne chatted online with someone he thought was a 13-year-old girl he met on MySpace.com, engaging in graphic sexual conversations with what turned out to be an undercover Cyber Crimes investigator. After Payne's arrest, while out on bond awaiting trial, he used another Internet chat room to sexually proposition yet another undercover investigator posing as an underage girl. And Payne is just one of many sex offenders we have arrested for using the Internet to prey on children. Fortunately, parents need not worry about John David sentence for his crimes. Law enforcement must continue pressuring MySpace.com and other social networking sites to improve safeguards that protect children from dangerous predators and inappropriate sexual content online. As Attorney General, and as a parent, I am committed to a Texas that promises a safe, just, and prosperous future for our

Indians end season

The stunning, fast paced Haskell Indians season came to an end slowed by Jim Ned Tues., Feb. 26 in Abilene

Jim Ned claimed a 57-45 victory over the District 5-2A Champs in the Region I quarterfinal game played at Abilene Christian University's Moody Coliseum.

D.J. McCulloch scored 15 points and Travis Adams added

Haskell managed only ten steals during the competition.

Haskell will lose nine seniors with the May graduation including McCulloch, Adams, Derek Agraz, Weston Rutkowski, A.J. Alvarez, Greg Guzman, Stephen Guevara, Aaron Rodriguez and Samuel Bitner.

Haskell posted 30 wins, three loses and tied the best record the school has ever had. Haskell drops to Class A next year.

McCulloch to play with All-Stars

Haskell High School, has been selected as one of the top basketball players in Texas and invited to participate in the 9th Texas Roundup All-Star game to be held March 22 in Maypearl.

Texas Roundup, considered one of the state's most prestigious events, selects the state's top 24 boys and 24 girls from Class 1A, 2A and 3A schools. Players selected are

D.J. McCulloch, a senior at chosen from hundreds of nominations statewide. Recruiters across the state participate as advisors in the texas Roundup selection process.

The girls game is scheduled for 3 p.m. followed by the boys game at 5 p.m. Admission to the organizations involved currently accreditation across the nation.

The accreditation program is a professional peer review process based on national standards that have evolved since the founding of the Association in 1870. The standards were developed by national leaders from the field of corrections, law, architecture, health care, and other groups who are interested sound correctional management.

ACA standards address services, programs, and operations essential to effective correctional management. Through accreditation, an agency is able to maintain a balance between protecting the public and providing an environment that safeguards the life, health and safety of staff and offenders. Standards set by ACA reflect practical up-to-date policies and procedures and function as a management tool for agencies and facilities throughout the

The three-year accreditation award granted to the Rolling Plains Jail and Detention Center does not signal the end of their involvement in the accreditation progress. During the award compliance with the standards.
