The downtown park is perfectly beautiful, on one end. The rains came exactly right for the recently planted grass. I believe it took county employees longer to replace the dirt and plant the grass than it did for the grass to come up and completely cover the north side of the park. It's too bad the entire park was not done before the rains. It is a special mixture of seed obtained for the county by County Extension Agent Billy Reagor.

The trimming of the trees in the park earlier this year helped too. It's beginning to look well-kept again. If people and vehicles will stay off of it, we just might see the beautiful oasis we saw in the park some ten years ago.

A bunch of the boys were whopping it up down at Mayfield's Country Store.

Willena was giving out with the honky-tonk and the crowd was begging for more.

Folks came from miles around to dance or sit and visit.

We're all gettin' ready for the next time, 'cause we can't afford to miss it.

That pretty well describes the scene Saturday night at Jake and Savannah's jamboree. It was a real old-fashioned hoedown and we are hoping they will make it a monthly event. Anyone who hasn't been to Mayfield, Texas, just don't know what they are missing. If they keep building onto it, it's going to rival Ozona for the "biggest little town in the world."

We missed the mileage in the ad last week by about 20 miles, but the drive was well worth it. Even a blow-out near Baker's Crossing failed to dampen our spirits.

Chamber sponsors contest

In an effort to interest youngsters in the annual spring clean-up, the Ozona Chamber of Commerce is holding a trash-collecting contest for youngsters 12 years of age and under.

Two weeks of free swimming will be given to the youth who brings in the most jumbo trash bags filled with debris taken from the streets of Ozona. The contest will end May 15.

CAUGHT IN THE EYE OF THE CAMERA at the annual Ozona Garden Club Flower Show Thursday at the Civic Center were Mrs. Lee Graves and Mrs. Bailey Post. They were discussing the design of the arrangement in the background made by Mrs. Graves. Both ladies are National Flower Show judges. Mrs. Post is a longtime judge and a charter member of the Ozona Garden Club.

Incentive checks go out to wool producers

Some 114 Crockett County sheep producers have been mailed drafts amounting to $476,854 on wool and unshorn lambs. They are among the sheep producers in the nation who will receive about $36 million in federal incentive payments on the wool they sold in 1980, a U. S. Department of Agriculture official said today. This compares with $32 million paid last year on 1979 marketings.

Edward Hews, acting administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the current shorn wool support price is $1.23 per pound but the 1980 national average market price for shorn wool was 88.1 cents a pound, a difference of 34.9 cents. Dividing the difference (34.9 cents) by the average market price (88.1 cents) results in a 1980 payment rate of 39.6 percent, compared with a payment rate of 33.3 percent in 1979, Hews said. The payment rate is the amount required to bring the average market price up to the support price.

Hews said the wool program encourages the production of higher quality wool because the more producers receive from sales, the more they receive in government incentive payments. Producer payments are determined by multiplying the payment rate (39.6 percent) times the net dollar return received from wool sales.

Hews also said producers will receive $1.40 per hundredweight in federal payments for unshorn lambs they sold or slaughtered in 1980. This payment is to compensate growers for wool on live lambs they marketed, he said.

The payment is based on the shorn wool payment rate, the average weight of wool per hundredweight of lambs and the price of lamb's wool relative to the national average price for shorn wool. Incentive payment checks are prepared by USDA's

Kansas City commodity office. When payments are computed, the office withholds 2 1/2 cents a pound from wool payments and 12 1/2 cents per hundredweight from lamb payments. This money later is forwarded to the American Sheep Producers' Council to finance advertising, sales promotion and related market development activities.

These deductions were approved by a 75.3 percent favorable vote by sheep producers voting in an August 1978 referendum.

USDA will not make incentive payments on mohair sold in 1980 because the average market price of $3.50 a pound was above the announced support level of $2.903 a pound.

Ozona health fair, May 7

A Health Fair for families in Ozona will be held Thursday, May 7, 10:00 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Civic Center. Adults and children will be checked for anemia, diabetes, and high blood pressure. Public health nurses from San Angelo will be available for the screening.

Dental checks will be available during the afternoon. Dr. Logan will perform checks from 1-3 and Dr. Sessom will check from 3-5. All the screening and dental checks will be a free service to all families here in Ozona.

The Ozona Emergency Medical Technicians will be presenting demonstrations on "What to Do If Someone Chokes" and "Opening Air Passages." The Ozona Medical Technicians will also be assisting the nurses with the blood pressure checks. Information will be available on immunization programs, venereal diseases, rabies, and nursing home care.

Displays will be available from the Extension Service, Cancer Society, American Heart Association, Ozona Emergency Medical Technicians, Supplemental Social Security Income, Texas Department of Health, and Texas Department of Human Resources.

The Health Fair is sponsored by the Crockett County Family Living Committee and the Texas Department of Health. All families are urged to come and view the displays and participate in the checkups. Call the County Extension Office (2-2721) for further details.

IN DEFENSE OF BOYCOTTS

By Edwin Feulner

Television executives and a number of people identifying themselves as "civil libertarians" are up in arms over plans of the newly formed Coalition for Better Television to monitor prime-time programming this spring and to launch a consumer boycott against sponsors of programs promoting excessive sex or violence.

CBS, the network which most overreacted to the coalition's announcement, denounced the effort, and said an economic boycott would "amount to censorship — a concept abhorrent to the American way of life."

Officials of ABC said the boycott threat was "a totally unacceptable means of trying to influence programming." And officials of NBC maintained that "pressure tactics" go beyond the test of reasonableness.

Peter Allport, president of the Association of National Advertisers, also denounced the boycott idea, saying at a press conference that "Such means are coercive and contrary to the spirit and purpose of our free institutions."

Unfortunately, none of the people denouncing the coalition's game plan seems to have a very good understanding of what "the spirit and purpose of our free institutions" is all about.

For example, what was the rationale given by TV executives when T&A (television talk for certain parts of the female anatomy — T, up front and above the waist, and A, round back, and immediately below the waist) first became popular a few years ago with shows like "Charlie's Angels" and "Three's Company"? If that's what the public wants, they told complaining pruders, that's what the public will get.

How can we tell what the public wants? The answer, of course, is through television ratings, and through sales of the products advertised on the various shows. In other words, the "market" determines what the public wants.

Where does that lead us? That leads us back to the fact that product boycotts, as distasteful as they may seem to some people, are in fact exercises of the free market and a way for people to express their views.

Every time I buy a certain brand of pipe tobacco, I am, in effect, boycotting the others. And every time I tune in to "60 Minutes," I am boycotting the "World of Disney."

In a free society, I have the right to make these choices — for whatever reason. If members of the Coalition for Better Television are unable to mount a successful boycott, let it be because there wasn't a large enough market for their boycott, not because television and advertising executives can use their powerful advantages to create an impression that the boycott is un-American.

Boycotts are as American as apple pie. The only threat to the spirit and purpose of our free institutions comes from those who refuse to understand this.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

AUSTIN — The higher interest rate ceiling finally passed the Legislature overwhelmingly and will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Gov. Bill Clements.

The bill raises the maximum interest rate on almost all consumer loans to 24 percent, on commercial loans of over $250,000 to 28 percent, and on small loans as much as 157 percent.

The floating ceiling is tied to the rate on a six-month Treasury bill and is determined by multiplying the current Treasury bill rate by two.

Of interest to most consumers is how the new law would affect rates on credit cards. It works this way: the credit card holder will have the option to either accept the new rate or pay off his balance under the old rate. However, he won't be able to make any purchases on that card until the old balance is paid.

Judge, Governor and A.G.

Usually the Legislature puts on quite a show since it only gets one chance every two years, but this session its thunder is being stolen by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

Justice made state-wide headlines again last week by ordering school districts to begin expanding bilingual education to all 12 grades of public schools by next fall.

His court order was a rejection of a plan submitted one week earlier by Clements and a denial of a state request to wait until the end of the current legislative session.

Most Texans are now used to news of a federal judge who outrages the citizenry, but the political maneuvering between Justice, Clements and Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White is one of the most interesting plays around.

White said last week he will appeal the federal court order and is deliberating whether to seek a stay of ruling until that appeal.

'Taxpayers Burden'

The current program requires bilingual education from kindergarten to third grade, with fourth and fifth grade instruction optional.

White said the state would be safe constitutionally by requiring bilingual education up to fifth grade, but that a sweeping reform order would be a tremendous burden to the taxpayers.

The Texas Education Agency has not yet released an estimate of the cost of the court order.

The U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, addressed a joint session of the Legislature last week, and criticized President Ronald Reagan's proposed budget cuts as "too much cure."

Reagan wants to keep a campaign pledge of a 30 percent federal tax cutback, and opponents argue such over-reaction would prove harmful.

Clayton reportedly outlined to Wright at a private luncheon a plan to reduce the federal deficit by selling off public lands.

Clayton proposed the federal government relinquish two-thirds of its holdings of public lands not now included in national forests or parks, with one-third being given to the states and the other third put on the auction for sale to private enterprise.

"You would generate one heck of a lot of money to pay off the deficit and put the lands on local tax rolls," Clayton said. "It'd be the biggest boom (in Western states) you ever saw, bigger than the gold rush."

Texas Supreme Court

More than a few high school athletes, parents and coaches will be pleased with a recent Texas Supreme Court ruling as unconstitutional the University Interscholastic League's controversial one-year transfer rule.

That rule violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution, the High Court agreed.

The rule forces high school football and basketball players to sit out a year when transferring to a different school and was adopted in 1933 to curb recruitment of high school athletes.

The UIL members had already voted to suspend the rule for a two-year trial period, but the court's decision pleased many nevertheless.

Battling Senator

Tales of courage in the Texas Legislature will get another chapter, following the recent actions of State Senator John Wilson.

Wilson is fighting a rare form of lung cancer and receives treatments periodically. Some three weeks ago, Wilson reportedly almost died during treatment.

But soon after lying semi-conscious in critical condition for three days in a hospital, Wilson returned to the Senate against doctor's orders to guide his "right to farm" bill to passage.

He does not smoke and never has.

"Folks don't think about state legislators being courageous people," said State Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur. "But then, most of them don't know John Wilson."

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: If a bank customer has evidence to prove that a bank has made an error in calculating his account, what action can the customer take?

A: As a general rule, the law provides a remedy only if there is an injury. Therefore, if the bank makes an error but you catch it before any harm is done, you have no legal remedy — you can only complain to the bank.

If, however, the error causes you loss by dishonoring your check, the Court can require the bank to compensate, including damages for an arrest or prosecution.

Sometimes a bank mistakenly honors a check which was forged or altered and reduces the customer's account accordingly. In such a situation, it is the customer's duty to exercise reasonable care to spot the error and notify the bank. The bank must then credit the amount back to your account.

Q: I have a stack of sales and utility receipts dating back several years. I'm afraid somebody will challenge as to whether or not I've paid certain bills from years ago. How long should a person keep receipts for charge purchases, promissory notes, utility bills and etc? Isn't there a statute of limitations?

A: Yes, there is a 4-year statute of limitations which applies to contracts such as those shown by your receipts. No suit to collect the debts could be brought after that time.

Some of your debts will, however, be small enough that keeping the receipts showing their payment is really unnecessary for more than a few weeks or months. During these four years, you may also offer substitute forms of proof of payment, such as canceled checks.

Q: I there any chance of restoring my rights to vote, own a handgun, or get a passport after being convicted of a felony? I've been out of prison for about eleven years and have a good job. I've kept my record clean. What can I do?

A: There is no restriction in federal law that prevents your obtaining a passport after a felony conviction.

Texas law governs the other two privileges you mentioned. Your voting rights, along with other civil rights, can be restored to you if you obtain a pardon from the Governor. If this pardon also states that you were not guilty of the crime for which you were convicted, you can possess a firearm. However, under a general pardon, you will be restricted to keeping a handgun only at your own residence.

Q: My brother and I own adjoining land. I don't want my brother's cattle grazing on my property. Do I have to build a fence to keep the cattle out or can I make him build the fence? Can I make him pay grazing fees?

A: Although your brother's cattle legally cannot graze on your land, you cannot force him to build a fence. Your brother will be responsible for any damage that his cattle do to your property, but this damage will be difficult to measure. The most practical approach is to agree to let the cattle on your land for a set grazing fee.

Q: I am considering hiring an attorney to represent me, but, before doing so, I want to find out more about her. How can I check on an attorney's credentials?

A: As a minimum, make certain that your attorney is licensed in Texas by examining her law license and permanent law card. Talk to friends and acquaintances who may have used this particular attorney and ask about the service they received. If an attorney has been publicly disciplined for some violation of the Code of Professional Ethics, a record is available from the Office of the General Counsel, State Bar of Texas. Basically, however, the choice will be based upon your personal reaction to the attorney and the services you need.

PBPA energy report

On Sunday, April 19, the Saudi Arabian Oil Minister, Sheikh Yamani, said his country would not cut back on the amount of oil being produced each day. In fact, Yamani told the news media Saudi Arabia would continue to flood world oil markets until other OPEC countries agree to lower and unify the prices they charge. Saudi light oil sells for $32 a barrel compared to between $36 and $41 by most other OPEC countries. Saudi Arabia currently produces 10.3 million barrels of oil a day. There is a glut on the world market of about 3 million barrels a day right now. Yamani indicated that once the other countries come in line and prices are stabilized, Saudi Arabia would reduce production to about six million barrels a day. An OPEC meeting is scheduled for May 25 in Geneva and the Saudis would like the OPEC price to be set at about $32 a barrel.

The OPEC countries had hoped to adopt a long-term plan for pricing based on world inflation, the value of the dollar and the rate of growth in the industrialized nations. This may not be possible until sometime in 1982 according to Yamani. The oil minister said his country might be more willing to continue higher production if the U. S. would approve the sale of some planes and other sophisticated weapons to his country. As long as there's a world glut, prices for oil products should at least level off, if not drop some.

The Permian Basin rig count last week was 423. One year ago it was 308.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Though it took courage and plenty of work to present a worthwhile flower show after a week or more of rain, members were surprisingly repaid with the effort to have the best show possible.

Visitors too, seemed to be pleased and interested in the exhibits, even though the horticulture specimens were marred from so much moisture.

Many thought the design division the most interesting and colorful we have ever presented. Both traditional and new modern trends were exhibited to please all likes and dislikes, which makes it more interesting to all.

We are grateful for all the non-members who exhibited their best specimens or helped in anyway in presenting the show.

May is not too late to start planting glad bulbs every two weeks for late blooming. Potted plants may be taken outside now to become hardened before the sun gets too hot. Place in the shade for a few days, out of direct wind.

When setting out petunias or other small plants, protect them for several days from the sun and wind until they are well established. Uncover before night if pill bugs are bothering or sprinkle insect powder nearby. If not controlled, insects can take over this month.

Now that roses are about over their first blooming, cut off old bloom stems and apply a balanced rose fertilizer throughout their growing season. One-fourth cup of 8-8-8 per rose should be sufficient. Be sure the soil is moist at the time. Spread fertilizer over the surface, work into the top inch of soil, and water thoroughly. Repeat every six to eight weeks until summer. Frequency of watering depends upon type of soil, climate condition and growth stage of plants. A good mulch will protect the roots from extreme heat.

For abundant summer

Debra Says

There's "hope" for solving today's mildew problems, plaguing energy-tight houses where moisture has become trapped.

"Prepare ahead of time" to avoid mildew problems is the best rule of thumb. To prepare, remember the key is a well-ventilated house.

Most mildew problems will focus on the bathroom and closets.

These areas need more ventilation and more heat.

As a general prevention step, you can use dehumidifiers or ventilate the house more thoroughly and frequently.

For a more concentrated airing—in the bathroom, for example, install a small ventilating fan.

In closets, install an incandescent (conventional or ordinary) light, and keep it burning during warm, humid weather. One 75-watt bulb should generate enough heat for a closet as large as six-foot square.

Even the best ahead-of-time steps can't always prevent mildew, although certainly they will help reduce its possible damaging effects. So if after all, you're face-to-face with prolonged humidity, be ready to fight! mildew!

Start by even more ventilating of the house, and use heat to dry out the house. If mildew does start growing on walls and ceilings, wash them with a strong solution of chlorine bleach.

Be careful with the cloth you use and change cloths often so you don't spread the mildew to uncontaminated areas.

For mildew-stained ceilings and walls, you can try washing them with ½ cup trisodium phosphate, one quart chlorine bleach and three quarts warm water. If the stains aren't too bad, this will help in some cases.

Remember, though, washing the walls and ceilings with chlorine bleach will help remove mildew, but it does not keep mildew from returning. Again, only enough ventilation and heat can really stop mildew.

If you plan to repaint walls or ceilings, use a paint that has a mildew retardant.

Do not paint a mildewed wall until you remove the mildew and dry the wall well. Otherwise, the mildew will come back again.

To get mildew stains and odors out of upholstered furniture, take it outside and sweep it with a broom to remove as many mildew spores as possible. Then vacuum to remove embedded spores. Discard the vacuum bag so spores don't spread.

Then air furniture in the sun for several days. Be sure to bring furniture inside at night to keep it out of damp night air.

After airing in the sun, remove stains with a mild detergent solution.

If that doesn't work, mix lemon juice with non-iodized salt, rub it on the stains, and allow them to bleach in the sun with the solution still on them.

Use the same steps on mattresses. Be sure to expose the mattress to hot air

Calling All Homemakers

Brought To You By Brown Furniture

Pictures used to be thought of as something for the living room and bedroom walls only. Now they are widely used in dining rooms, dens, kitchens, bathrooms, family rooms, and every other room. Used with good taste, they will improve any room. The right picture or pictures can make dull rooms come alive.

Is there a right and wrong way to arrange pictures? Definitely not. Several years ago there was a contest offered to professional decorators to see which one could make the most attractive picture arrangement on a wall eight feet by nine feet.

More than a hundred decorators entered the contest. The judges found it almost impossible to make a decision. They finally gave prizes for the different arrangements. One prize went to a decorator who used one huge oil painting that almost covered the entire wall. Another prize was given for an arrangement where four pictures 36 inches square, were placed symmetrically in each corner of the wall. The third prize went to a decorator who used an assortment of 22 different sized and shaped pictures, brilliantly spaced and grouped all over the wall.

For pictures and everything else for homemakers, a visit to us is always a good investment. Come into Brown Furniture.

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

Juvenile delinquency is the aftermath of fence-sitting!

The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Lives — growing or mature — gain direction only with commitment.

Join the FAMILIES who worship and grow together in church.

Experiment station sets research program

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will show its research programs at the Winters-Wall Ranch to the public on April 30.

Since September 1975 at the ranch, the Station has evaluated numerous practices in its search for ways to increase livestock profits in the Hill Country and the Edwards Plateau.

The April 30 field day at Winters-Wall, 4 miles southwest of Brady on Nine Road, will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a program at the headquarters that will include a Dutch-treat lunch.

An afternoon tour to several areas of the ranch will let the visitors inspect at first hand diverse and long-range research aimed at improving: Sheep and goat production; nutrition, which includes supplemental feeding.

Brush control; management of improved pastures. Dr. Carl S. Menzies of San Angelo, ranch superintendent, said the morning part of the field day will include talks and demonstration of controlling mesquite seedlings as well as external parasites on beef cattle.

The visitors will also see equipment that is new but of potential value to the sheep and goat industries.

A morning speaker will be Dr. O. D. Butler of College Station, associate deputy chancellor for agriculture in The Texas A&M University System, who will discuss the university's role in discovering, developing and distributing agricultural information.

Cosponsors of the field day with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Section of the Society for Range Management.

The program will end about midafternoon. Others speaking April 30 will be Dr. Darrell N. Ueckert and Dr. Maurice Shelton of the Experiment Station; Ken Bales, Phil Thompson and John Broadway of the Winters-Wall Ranch.

Also McCulloch County Extension Agent Jerry D. DeBord; Gary Snowder and Barron Rector of the Experiment Station, and Dr. Tom Fuchs, Dr. Jake Landers and Dr. Willis Gass of the Extension Service.

Roadside shrimp

said often better

Shrimp purchased from roadside vendors is often of higher quality than frozen shrimp carried in major supermarkets, concludes a Texas A&M University survey. "Tailgate" shrimp met industry quality standards—a small percentage of "black spot" and low overall bacterial count—68 percent of the time compared to 40 percent for conventionally sold shrimp.

The superior freshness of the roadside shrimp is a result of less handling and adequate to results of the study funded by Texas Sea Grant Program.

Although black spot does not make shrimp unfit for eating, it is a sign of age, improper handling and low quality, the researchers note. High quality shrimp are those with less than 10 percent black spot on the shell and under 3 percent on the meat.

Job seekers urged to skip Alaska

The Alaska Department of Labor has issued a warning urging job seekers not to look to Alaska for work this summer season. Commissioner of Labor, Edmund N. Orbeck, says "there are few jobs available in Alaska. The Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project has not begun construction in the state. Based on the most recent information from the project sponsor and governmental agencies, no significant Gas Line hiring will take place until at least 1983."

Alaska's unemployment rate averaged 10 percent for the year which is higher than the national average of 7 percent according to Orbeck. Alaska continues to have a high cost of living.

"This year the federal hiring situation, the cuts in public service jobs and high interest rates continue to impact Alaska jobs to a greater degree than nationally due to Alaska's limited employment base," the Commissioner said.

There remains an excessive pool of unskilled labor throughout the state. Semi-skilled and skilled workers are available for the foreseeable future from those workers now residing in Alaska. Job seekers should be warned of bogus advertisements offering high jobs or selling Alaska Kits for a certain dollar amount. This information is available for the cost of a postage stamp from the State of Alaska. Job seekers should not venture to Alaska looking for work unless they have a minimum of $2,000 and a return ticket home. Seek additional information before leaving home.

Emotion and asthma

People used to think asthma was an emotional—not a real physical—disease. Such beliefs are wrong, says the American Lung Association of Texas, the Christmas Seal people.

Although emotions and our reaction to them can spur a wheezing episode, asthma is definitely a physically-based disease.

A child's embarrassment over asthma, totally unnecessary, may cause him or her to hide and forget medicines, thus bringing on wheezing. Or a parent's expressed fear of the breathlessness that asthma brings may communicate itself to the child, and wheezing may start.

Allergy, infection, environmental pollution, cold and exercise may cause asthma in different children. What spurs wheezing in one child may not affect another youngster.

Children and their parents should learn each child's wheezing threshold and how to avoid it. With the help of a physician, the differing causes of asthma can probably be pin-pointed. And the physician can select the correct medication. Today there are even drugs that can prevent wheezing before breathlessness begins. Knowledge and lack of fear can help vanquish asthma.

Nutrition key to yearling calving

Herd nutrition is essential for cattlemen wanting to produce one calf per cow each year.

"A cow's reproductive performance is directly related to her plane of nutrition," says Dr. Larry Boleman, beef cattle specialist.

"As the plane of nutrition decreases, reproductive performance is the first affected," Boleman explains.

Supplying supplemental feed to the range beef cow corrects nutritional deficiencies as needed.

"Dry winter forage generally will not meet the higher nutrient demands of the lactating cow, lactating first-calf heifer or the growing calf," says the specialist.

"This supplemental feeding is necessary."

Often beef producers have problems deciding on the amount and choice of supplement, which varies because of ranch location, management systems, rainfall and other factors.

"Nutrient requirements of the beef animal depend on age, condition, weight, stage of production and milking ability during lactation," Boleman notes.

"For instance, thin cows may need to gain 100 to 150 pounds by calving time while those in average shape need to gain only 60 to 80 pounds. After calving for three or four months, a cow needs 60 percent more energy and more than twice as much protein per day as at other times."

Once cattle requirements have been determined, the herd should be separated according to these needs, and the approximate nutrient composition and availability of forage should be determined.

"Once a cattleman knows the nutrient needs of his cattle and nutrients available through hay or forage, it's easy to determine the amount of protein supplement, if any, that is needed to meet nutritional requirements," Boleman concludes.

Job prospects good in electronics

An average starting salary of $17,500 after only 18 months of training and a handful of job offers to choose from may sound like a dream to most recent high school graduates.

But at the Texas Engineering Extension Service's Institute of Electronic Science it is a reality. More than 600 students have completed the comprehensive electronics program in the institute's 18 year history and demand for graduates by industry has never been better, said Dr. Loyd E. Fite, division head.

"We're not suggesting that anyone pass up an opportunity to go to college, but we see this program as an excellent alternative for someone who chooses not to pursue a more traditional formal education," notes Fite, who has served the past seven years with the Texas A&M University System public service agency.

"The growth of the micro-computer industry alone accounts for a great deal of the increased job offers," Fite said. "But our students have always done well."

The program offers no degree, but a certificate of completion. This spring's graduating class of 26 students was interviewed by 22 different companies that visited the school.

By graduation day, Fite said, 58 jobs had been offered and most students had received outside proposals as well. He said most graduates get at least five job offers. One student received an offer to start at $26,000, he said.

"Several companies have said they don't need to give our graduates an entrance test because they have observed us over the years and know what we teach," he said.

With all its glowing possibilities, however, the institute is not easy. Fite pointed out. The drop-out rate is at least 50 percent for first term students.

The students attend classes for six hours a day, five days a week and there's lots of homework. They must complete three six-month terms which include courses in mathematics, digital circuits and microprocessors.

Tuition is $500 per term (to go up to $750 in September) and a dorm room at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Bryan, formerly Bryan Air Force Base, costs $1,100 per six-month term.

The institute works with students who need financial aid. It also operates its own placement service.

Satellite programs in San Antonio and Arlington offer students a chance to complete the first term without relocating to Bryan. These terms, however, offer only half-day classes and last one full year.

Once a student receives a certificate, three types of job offers usually are made, Fite said. Students become field service technicians for major companies repairing items ranging from typewriters to microcomputers. They may also work on production lines performing product testing or in the research and development areas.

Fite proudly tells of one graduate who is working on a troubleshooting hotline with four electrical engineering graduates answering calls from field service personnel.

The United States has about one-fourth of the world's estimated recoverable coal reserves.

Crockett County Care Center News

By Mary Wilton-Director of Activities & Social Care

This week in crafts Virginia Russell joined us as we made pretty pictures from paper plates and shell macaroni. These will be used to decorate the lobby and dining room. We would like to thank Dorothy Doll for helping us.

Of course, it just wouldn't be Tuesday without a few games of bingo and by 3:00 p.m. the dining room was filled with residents ready to play. We play for about an hour and everyone always has a good time.

Our volunteer of the week is Georgia Kirby. Georgia has lived in Ozona for 40 years and has worked as a volunteer for over 4 years. She is a big help to me and to all the residents. It really takes someone special to come and work with the handicapped the way she does. She helps with bingo, birthday parties and entertains us by playing the organ. Georgia, all of us love and appreciate you, thanks for everything you do to help us.

We would like to welcome three new members to the staff, they are Sally Hart, Vonda Mahr and Arnold Rios, they will be working as nurse's aides.

Ramona Luga was the winner of the $5.00 gift certificate which was purchased from the activities fund and Gertrude Daniels was winner of the second prize as the week of bingo ended. Leona Harris won the $10.00 gift certificate for the "loser of the month game". Thanks to Baker's Jewelry for donating this certificate each month.

Vera Miller is in the hospital and we would like to wish her a speedy recovery. Blanche Fortune has returned to the Care Center after a short stay in the hospital, it's nice to have her back.

Wednesday afternoon the staff members honored Mrs. Farris with a lingerie shower

Junior 4-H teams participate

Two Junior 4-H method demonstration teams participated in the District 6 4-H Eliminations Contest in Alpine on April 22. Amy Jones, Bonnie Cameron, Kathleen Justiss, Vickie Reagor, Julie Reagor, and Jena Allen entered the Share the Fun Contest with a twirling routine. The girls were coached and trained by Molly Womack. The team received a second place ribbon with their routine.

John Williams entered a demonstration on Tying Knots in the Hand Skills Contest. He received a second place ribbon. Larry Williams was coach.

Sue Ellen Black, Larry Williams, Billy Reagor and Debra Price accompanied the contestants to the district contest.

held in the dining room at the care center. The table was covered with a lace cloth and a beautiful arrangement of spring flowers was placed in the middle. Cake and punch was served to all the guests. Mrs. Farris became the bride of James Caldwell Friday night in a ceremony held in Midland. The staff would like to extend congratulations and wish them many years of happiness.

Saturday morning we all had a good time at a cheese and cracker party held in the dining room. This is the first time we have had a party like this but it will not be the last. A large silver tray was filled with four kinds of cheese and six kinds of crackers, apple slices and cherries and placed on a long table in the dining room. Pretzels and mints were put in small silver bowls and placed on the table. Everyone enjoyed visiting and trying the different kinds of cheeses. Maude Pettit seemed to be the only one who thought the Jalapeno cheese was too hot, Leona Harris, Frances Borrego and Juana Hernandez and Bertha Miller seemed to like it more than any others. All of the residents had a good time and ask if we could do this again real soon. Maybe next time we will have a watermelon party.

Evelyn Bryant has sure been lucky playing dominoes, she has won first place two weeks in a row. Maybe it's skill instead of luck, congratulations Evelyn.

Thanks goes to Dorothy Doll, Liz Mary Pipes, Georgia Kirby, Alice Ross, Annabell Patrick, Maria Vitela, Hazel Storms, Doris Karr, Orphella Enriquez for the time they gave to help us. This is the best group of volunteers you could find anywhere.

Rifle teams place

The Crockett County 4-H Rifle teams (Jr. and Sr.) took third places at the District 6 Rifle Match held at Kermit Saturday.

The senior team was composed of Cindy Reavis, Robert Hearne, and Kelly Sinclair. They were coached by Susie Everett.

The Jr. team was composed of Jody Searcy, Jody Everett, Randi Thompson, and Carl Vandiver. Alternates were Paul Shacklette and Scott Denman.

A county match was held early in the week to determine the junior team members to compete at district. Also competing but not qualifying were Keith Fowler, Renee DeLa Rosa, Chris Dunn, and Todd Foster. Gene Fowler and Paul Shacklette also coached junior teams.

The group was accompanied to the district contest by Susie Everett and Agent Billy Reagor.

Energy conscious lawn care

Energy-conscious homeowners can take steps to reduce the energy demands of lawn care without lowering lawn standards.

"While lawns offer many aesthetic and recreational benefits, these may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care," says Dr. Richard Duple, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Mowing, watering, fertilizing, controlling pests and disposing of leaf clippings are all energy-consuming requirements of lawn care. During spring and summer months, watering the lawn and collecting and disposing of grass clippings place a heavy burden on cities for these services. Grass clippings account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in some cities during spring and early summer," notes Duple.

He offers several lawn maintenance practices to help homeowners reduce these energy demands. Reducing fertilizer applications to maintenance levels—2 to 3 pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year—will go a long way toward reducing energy demands. (That's 20 pounds of a fertilizer containing 10 percent nitrogen.) Applying only maintenance levels of nitrogen to lawns can reduce mowing requirements, water use, insect and disease problems, and grass clippings.

"Excessive fertilization is the single most important factor contributing to high energy demands for lawn care," contends Duple.

Other lawn care practices to reduce energy demands include returning or composting grass clippings. Using a mulching mower can be beneficial if grass clippings are not composted, says the specialist.

Also, adopting proper watering practices to reduce water use can save energy.

Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice.

Duple advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted, low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands. Centipedegrass is ideally suited to East Texas while buffalograss is adapted to much of West and North Texas. Both of these grasses have low maintenance requirements, yet provide a satisfactory turf cover for lawns.

In some situations ground covers such as Asiatic jasmine, English ivy or Liriodendron can reduce maintenance requirements effectively without sacrificing the benefits of a plant cover. In heavily shaded areas and on steep slopes, use these ground covers in place of grasses, suggests the specialist.

"It is possible to enjoy the luxury of an attractive lawn and landscape," contends Duple, "without excessive energy requirements."

Flower show a riot of color

The Civic Center auditorium was a riot of color Thursday afternoon when the 26th annual flower show opened its doors to the public.

The heavy rains dented the horticulture display somewhat, but the artistic design classes more than made up for the fewer horticulture specimens.

One of the show's highlights was a display of miniature arrangements made by Celia West. Mrs. West used fresh and dried materials in putting her tiny display together, for a really outstanding artistic endeavor.

Mrs. Steve Kenley and Mrs. Lee Graves swept the show in both the horticulture and design divisions. Mrs. Kenley was awarded the coveted Aboreal Award for her Japanese black pine. She won the Sweepstakes Award in the horticulture division and the Award of Merit for her Iris.

Mrs. Graves won the Sweepstakes Award in the design division, also the Creativity, Distinction and the Tri-Color awards in the same category.

Susan Kenley won the Best In Section Award in the Youth Division for her dried arrangement. Jennifer Probst won Best in Section for her fresh arrangement in the Youth Division.

Mrs. J. W. Howell received the Award of Merit for her peony.

Judges for the show were Mrs. Melvin Burner, Mrs. Lawrence Head, Mrs. M. H. Sibilsy and Mrs. J. T. Holley, all of San Angelo, and Mrs. Cumbie Ivy of Robert Lee.

Mrs. Kenley and Mrs. Graves won three blue ribbons each in the Design division. Others winning blue ribbons were Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Larry Braden, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Bill Mason and Mrs. Jack Probst.

Mrs. Kenley led the blue ribbon winners in the Horticulture division with six. Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Graves had four first place specimens each, while Mrs. J. B. Miller had three. Mrs. Earl Berry, Mrs. Tom Stokes and Mrs. Mike Ledoux captured two blue ribbons for their specimens. Other blue ribbon winners were Denna Beth Phillips, Joyce Maness, Mrs. Ralph Jones, Mrs. Beecher Montgomery, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Larry Braden, Mrs. Cap West, Mrs. Bill Black, Mrs. Bill Mason, Mrs. Bailey Post, Mrs. J. S. Pierce V, and Mrs. Fred Hagelstein.

Blue ribbons in the Youth Division for Terrariums went to Jennifer Probst, Jennifer Parks, Mendy Clay, Susan Kenley, and Shawna Newton. Blue ribbons for Design in the Youth Division went to Jennifer Probst, Mendy Clay and Susan Kenley.

Dozens of second place and third place ribbons were presented in all divisions.

Survivors include a son, Bascom Lynn of Dallas; a brother, T. A. Kincaid Jr. of San Antonio; three sisters, Mrs. W. E. Friend, Mrs. V.I. Pierce and Mrs. S. M. Harvick, all of Ozona; two grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Calvary Baptist to show new film

Reflections of His Love, a new film highlighting the life and ministry of Joni Eareckson, will be shown Wednesday, April 29, at the Calvary Baptist. The color feature, produced by World Wide Pictures, the film ministry of the Billy Graham Association, will be shown once, beginning at 7 p.m.

Miss Eareckson is the star of a recent theatrical motion picture, Joni, which relates the story of her diving accident, as a young girl, which left her paralyzed from the neck down. It chronicles her struggles to piece together her life and her faith in God, in spite of the devastating circumstances.

In Reflections of His Love, Miss Eareckson, who is also the author of two best-selling books, Joni and A Step Further, tells of the great transformations that have taken place in her life because of her willingness to accept all of the things that have happened to her.

A remarkably talented young woman, Miss Eareckson is an artist of great merit, as well as an author, actress, and singer. She has learned to draw and paint with a brush held in her mouth. Her works have been displayed in major exhibitions, as well as on a number of network television programs. More recently, her illustrations and paintings have become the basis for a major line of greeting cards, plaques, and framed prints.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
By Jerry Lay

Did you know that if George Brett had made just 5 more hits in the 1980 baseball season, he would have batted .400, and become the first .400 hitter in the majors since 1941. Brett finished with 175 hits in 449 at bats for an average of .390. If he had made 180 hits in those 449 at bats, his average would have been .400.

The longest golf course in the world is in Kansas. It's the Dub's Dread course in Piper, Kansas, which measures 8,101 yards and has a par of 78.

Here's a surprising fact. In all the years that the Kentucky Derby has been run, the favorite has won less than half the time! In the 106 runnings of the Kentucky Derby up to 1981, the favorite has won only 47 times.

I bet you didn't know... L-B Motor Co. has a big selection of cars and pickups so come by and see our Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs, Buicks, Cadillacs, and Chevrolets.

THAT SWEET BUY MAY BE A RIP-OFF!
SAVE $14.00 OUT OF EVERY $50
By Shopping In Your Ozona Community

Did you ever drive 60 miles or more to take advantage of a super special? An item that costs you $50 locally would have to save you $14.40 if you drove 60 miles round-trip to get it and just wanted to break even.

The American Automobile Association certifies that 24.0 cents is what it costs to drive your car one mile. So if you've driven 120 miles round-trip to pick up that special, you'll have to add $28.80 to the cost of your purchase. That sweet buy can suddenly turn quite sour.

And each 120 miles takes 6 to 12 gallons of gasoline which the potential shortage of oil-derived fuels would encourage us to save.

Local merchants, whether they sell groceries, clothing, drugs, hardware, appliances or whatever, feature top line nationally advertised products at competitive prices. These same merchants support your schools, churches and civic groups. They help us all pay for the improvements that make this a better place to live.

So save yourself some money, help fight the energy crisis and support local merchants. And save the drive to faraway communities. Shopping at home is a wonderfully simple way to do yourself several favors at once.
