Physician to visit in Ozona

The Crockett County Hospital Board of Directors met Thursday evening and received a report from Hospital Administrator Glen Rumley on progress in recruiting a new physician for the hospital.

Rumley reported an excellent application had been received from a Canadian doctor. Rumley said background investigation had been conducted and he felt everything should be done to secure the doctor. Dr. Frederick Taylor will be in Ozona this week to interview for the position and look over the hospital facilities and the city.

Mrs. Steve Sessom reported on the feasibility of setting up a call schedule for staff dentists. She said her report was not complete as she had yet to contact one of the dentists. She said, however, that it was probable both dentists could be contacted on an emergency basis when patients needing their services appeared at the hospital emergency room.

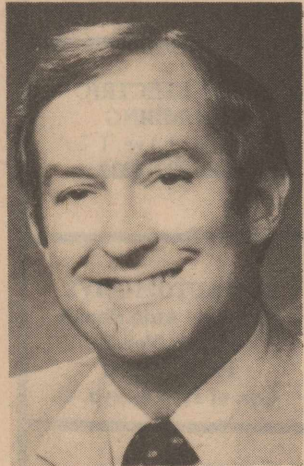

The establishment of a full service respiratory therapy service was explained by Rumley. A full time respiratory therapist is available at the hospital on a 24-hour a day schedule. The service started April 3, and has already proved beneficial to many patients. It is operated as a contract service and all expenses involved in the operation of the service are carried by the contract company.

In a general discussion, the administrator was directed to set up emergency room coverage by outside physicians if at all possible. This service should be available in the event that one of the doctors now on staff is out for any reason.

Hagelstein named to presidency

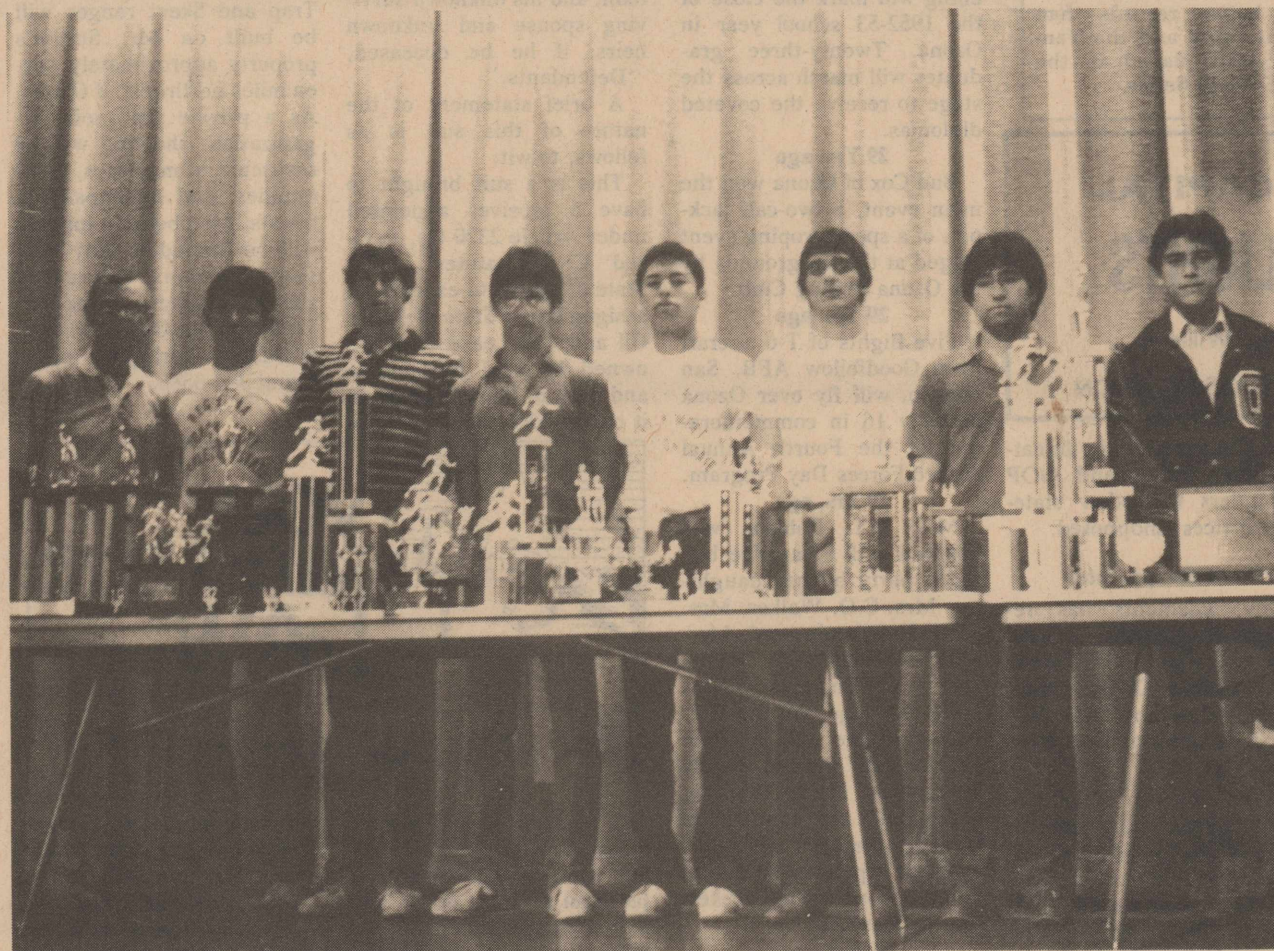

Rick R. Hagelstein, an Ozona native, has been named president of Westview National Bank in Waco. He is a former executive vice president and director of First National Bank of Waco.

Hagelstein, a graduate of Ozona High School, is a 1969 honor graduate of Abilene Christian College. His Business Career began as a national bank examiner for comptroller of the currency and as examiner in charge of Wichita Falls.

From 1976 to 1978 Hagelstein served as vice president and senior loan officer at State National Bank of El Paso, prior to his move to First National in Waco.

He is the recipient of two merit awards from the comptroller of the currency and Outstanding Young Men of America.

And head for state—

Lions win crown at Regional AA

The Ozona Lions won the regional track championship at Stephenville Saturday and qualified both relay teams and two individuals for the state meet which will be held Saturday in Austin.

The Lions battled high winds, injuries and disappointments to capture the meet and keep the Lions' hopes alive for a state championship. The victory was the ninth in a row for an undefeated 1982 season and the 19th for the last three seasons.

Ozona came in first with a total of 72 points. Cooper was second with 54, Moody, third with 40; Celica, fourth with 39; Junction, fifth with 38; Cisco, sixth with 32, and Menard, seventh with 30. There were 53 schools represented at the meet.

The Lions will run Saturday at 12:30 in Memorial Stadium on the UT campus. The State Meet is the ultimate for high school athletes and Coach Sewell said Ozona can be very proud of the young men who will represent them at the meet. They have been excellent ambassadors of Crockett County and Ozona High School all year and will show their pride again Saturday in Austin.

At the regional meet Richard Garza came in second with 10.14.2 to qualify for the 3200 meter run at state. He came in fourth in the 1600 meter.

Both relay teams came in second and qualified for state. The 400 meter relay team of Felix Flores, Larry Payne, David Badillo and Robert Flores, qualified at 43.8. The 1600 meter team of Payne, Badillo, Mark Vallejo and Marcelo Hernandez got their second place with 3:25.6.

Participating with injuries, Larry Payne placed fourth in the 400 meter dash and third in the long jump. Marcelo Hernandez won the only first place, in the 800 meter dash with a time of 2:01.49. Vallejo placed fourth in both hurdle events. Greg Fierro will be an alternate in both relay races.

Arrests made in oil field theft

Three men were arrested on May 7, near midnight, as a result of an undercover investigation involving the District Attorney of the 112th Judicial District and The Texas Rangers.

Bill Freeman, Investigator for the 112th Judicial District Attorney's office posed as an undercover operative in the purchase of what turned out to be stolen oil field equipment. Those arrested were Jamie Lee Bonner, 22; Robbie Don Cornelius, 20, and Jimmy R. Barnett, 21. The investigations commenced in Crockett County on or about April 18, with the report of the theft of oil field equipment.

The investigation continued through Irion County with the arrest of Bonner in a motel in San Angelo and the arrest of the other two defendants approximately a mile outside the San Angelo city limits.

Seized in the arrest were two vehicles, a 1978 and a 1979 pickup truck, one shotgun, one pistol, and various pieces of oil field equipment stolen from the Pool Company, including one set of Foster Tongs, one set of BJ Elevators, including the backup attachment, and one set of Cavins Air Strips. One of the pickup trucks later was found to be stolen.

The District Attorney indicated that there is a continuing investigation into oil field theft in conjunction with both state and federal agencies.

Varied agenda keeps commissioners busy

A varied agenda kept the Crockett County Commissioners Court in session all day Monday, as they met in regular session to attend to county business.

County Agent Billy Reager met with the court to report on plans to enlarge the 4-H barn. He said the land had been acquired and he would probably be asking the court for some financial assistance in the near future. Plans are to have the facility finished for the January 4-H Livestock Show.

Elizabeth Upham, member of the Civic Center board of directors, brought the monthly report and explained the items necessary to bring the china and flatware up to service for 400 as was originally planned for the center. The court approved the purchase and approved a contract for extermination of the building on a continuing basis. Some discussion was held on the new dishwasher. Mrs. Upham said the board had discussed either the purchase of a sterilizer or an additional hot water heater to sanitize the dishes as they are being washed. The court discussed the matter, but took no action.

Glen Rumley, hospital administrator, gave the hospital report and for the first time this year reported the picture gloomy. He said collections for April were down sharply, 68%, and the hospital census was also down. The only explanation seemed to be patients paying their income tax instead of their hospital bills.

Rumley said the hospital was again operating with only one physician, and the continued search for another physician was of primary importance. He reported setting up a visit from a Canadian physician, Dr. Frederick Taylor, this coming weekend. Dr. Taylor will be here Sunday to meet with the board and continue his visit through Monday. Rumley said Dr. Taylor's credentials were excellent and if Ozona meets with the doctor's approval, he feels the search is over.

The court spent some time kicking an old football around, the leak in the care center roof. Rumley said during last week's rain, the facility leaked in places where it had not leaked before. A bid for repair of the roof was submitted by Probst Roofing. After some discussion, the court decided to secure other bids, in view of the fact the annex roof has recently been redone by the firm, and leaked in all the old places during the rain last week. A great deal of money has been spent on the care center roof, which has leaked since it was built and the problem seems to be beyond solution. Some members of the court expressed this opinion, but they decided to keep trying.

Armando Villarreal, Blue Cross-Blue Shield representative of San Angelo, met with the court to discuss increases in health care premiums. Villarreal first told the court there would be no increase in the dental and life plans carried by the county for its employees. However, he said a sharp increase in premiums for health care had become a necessity due to tremendous increases in hospital care and doctors' office calls. He also pointed out the company had paid out claims in the amount of $110,988, while collecting $116,345 in premium for last year in the county.

Since the county began providing its employees with insurance, the employee has paid a standard $20 per month while the county has picked up the bill for the remainder. Several increases in premium have come about. The plan now in effect would cost the county an additional $50,000 per year, providing there is no raise in the part of the premium the employee pays. Some discussion was held on raising the employees' contributions, since all county employees have received healthy salary increases in the past six years. Also discussed at length was an increase in the deductible. At present the deductible is set at $100. Villarreal discussed the various plans.

Finally, the court decided to take the proposed $200 deductible and keep the employee contribution at $20. Even at this rate, the county will be in for a sharp increase in cost.

At 11:00 a.m. bids were opened for a woodchipper machine and a roller for the road department. The woodchipper is supposed to help with wood clippings, tree limbs, etc. now being picked up by the water department. Bids on the woodchipper ranged in cost from $9,481 to $11,084, and came from eleven firms located around the nation. Since the water district will be operating the machine, a purchase was deferred until Bill Cooper could be on hand to give his input.

A bid of $22,500 from Nichols Machinery of Odessa, was accepted for the roller purchase.

After adjourning for lunch, the court reconvened in one of the rooms vacated by the abstract company in the courthouse, as court was being held in the district courtroom and the welfare people were using the law library.

In the afternoon session, the court voted to open both public pools May 23, the day after schools dismiss.

Discussion on dump ground problems continued with the court deciding not to lock the facility, but to attempt to control dumping by designation. The county is fast running out of space at the dump, and some solution must be found to keep in compliance with state regulations.

The court voted to develop the area behind the ball park on I-10, by planting trees and grass, installing two basketball courts and paving the area. They also discussed an overall parks policy, but came to no decision. They want to talk to members of the park board before making a set of rules to be followed by the county. They do not plan a complex set of rules for use of county facilities, but a non-drinking clause will cut out drinking of alcoholic beverages on county-owned facilities and the court expects this to be strictly enforced. Public complaints have created pressure for the county government to take action in this matter. However, the rodeo park will be closed and locked during the evening and night hours.

The court considered a request for funds for the Emerald House, but decided it preferred to wait and see what kind of financial assistance would be needed to enlarge the 4-H barn, before making a commitment.

Allowances of $400 each for up to nine firemen were approved for room and tuition at the annual fire school. Votes for the Democratic Primary were not canvassed in the absence of the Democratic chairman.

Remodeling of the courthouse and the building of some kind of new facility were discussed at length. The court appointed Judge Jones to get information on a new building and some projected costs. The court is still leaning toward a new building in the downtown park, but Judge Jones said they would see how public sentiment ran before drawing up a bond election to place it in the park. So far, the majority of those expressing opinions seem to be against such action, and the court plans to explore public opinion further before coming to a final decision.

Ozona gets two inches of rain

April showers came late to Ozona, but a thunderstorm Thursday night dumped 2.15 inches of rain on Ozona, bringing the May total of rainfall to 2.88 inches of moisture. April showers only amounted to a scant .52 of an inch.

COURTING THE COURTS

By Edwin Feulner

What does Ralph Nader's "Public Citizen" lobby have in common with The Formaldehyde Institute?

Answer: they are both interested in the Consumer Product Safety Commission's recent decision banning a form of formaldehyde foam insulation, and on April 12 they both filed lawsuits asking the federal courts to overturn the decision.

That's where the similarity ends. The Naderites filed their lawsuit in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, and want the CPSC action overruled because they claim CPSC didn't go far enough with its actions. The industry group — which filed on behalf of its members, an insulation installer, and one of the 500,000 people whose homes are insulated with the foam — filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, and wants the ban overturned, claiming the CPSC decision was "not supported by substantial evidence."

I bring up these lawsuits not to argue their merits, but because they illustrate a growing and complex legal problem known as "venue shopping." What this legalese means is that when special-interest groups have a complaint about the way the federal government is conducting itself, they shop around for the federal court in which they think they will get the most favorable treatment, and file their lawsuits there.

A recent study by the Capital Legal Foundation, a Washington-based public interest law group, shows the practice is especially commonplace in the area of environmental law. And where do the environmental groups take most of their cases? The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Senator Paul Laxalt (R-Nevada), in a study published recently by the National Legal Center for the Public Interest, a Washington-based umbrella organization of regional law centers, notes these examples:

"A suit to review the Colorado river basin salinity control and water quality plans was brought in the District of Columbia, as was a suit challenging the conditions placed on a water supply facility . . . in the eleven western states . . . a landmark case to determine the ownership of all waters arising on federal reserved property in Arizona and Utah . . . (and) an action to establish the water rights of the Pyramid Lake Paiute Tribe of Indians to water from a river in northern Nevada."

Each of these was an important case involving decisions about the disposition of land and water rights in certain states, each would have a profound impact on people living in those states, and each was tried hundreds of miles away in the District of Columbia.

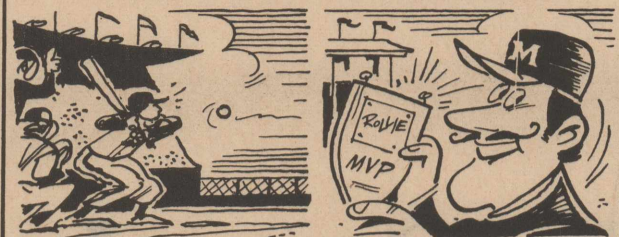

"The real parties in interest," Senator Laxalt noted, "those who would drink the water in Denver, or graze their cattle and sheep in Wyoming, or use the down river flow to farm," ended up having little part to play in the litigation, as the special-interests conducted their battle of the legal briefs more than half a continent away.

Federal venue laws, which determine where a case can be tried, were intended for the convenience of the little guy with a big gripe. Instead, they have become a mechanism making things more convenient for law firms and lawyers.

Several senators — Democrats Dennis DeConcini of Arizona and Edward Zorinsky of Nebraska, and Republicans Alan Simpson of Wyoming and Orrin Hatch of Utah — are proposing modifications in the existing statutes to curtail the current trend. The change would appear to be a healthy one.

DIAMOND DOINGS

Pete Rose of the Phillies is the only switch-hitter among the 15 major leaguers who have 3,000 or more hits in their career.

Milwaukee's Rollie Fingers was the first relief pitcher in American League history to win the Most Valuable Player award. He won it in 1981.

The Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela is the first pitcher to win the Cy Young award and Rookie of the Year in the same year. He won them in 1981.

According to Figgie International's Rawlings Sporting Goods Company, a total of seven teams had better records than the Dodgers and the Yankees who played in the 1981 World Series.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

AUSTIN—Attorney General Mark White will be taking on Gov. Bill Clements in the November general election, but not because White got the majority of votes in the May 1 Democratic primary.

White won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by default when Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple bowed out of the race in the name of party unity.

Temple, who won a spot in the June 5 runoff by gaining some 30 percent of the vote to White's 45 percent, said he was handing White the nomination to prevent a divisive runoff campaign that might hurt the whole Democratic ticket.

Temple also said his departure from the race will leave Democrats free to take on Clements, the only Republican governor in Texas in more than a century.

State Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle said that as much as $2 million in campaign funds will be saved for the fall because of Temple's action.

White obviously was pleased with his fellow Democrat's decision, but so was Clements, who said White is the candidate he most wanted to face in November.

Clements said he has a "history" of taking on Democratic attorneys general. The governor defeated then Attorney General John Hill in the 1978 gubernatorial contest.

However, Clements charged that Temple's withdrawal was the result of secret dealings carried out behind closed doors that has the effect of "disfranchising" Democratic voters by denying them the chance to choose the Democratic nominee in the runoff election.

Harding Withdrawal
And Temple wasn't the only Democrat to drop out of a runoff bid.

State Treasurer Warren G. Harding put an end to his re-election effort saying that to continue the campaign would "subject my family and my friends to further hurt and grief."

Harding finished second in the balloting for the Democratic nomination to former Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards.

Harding, who was first appointed treasurer by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe, has two indictments pending against him for allegedly using state employees to perform campaign work and has been the subject of allegations that he sexually harassed female employees in his office.

The departure of Harding and Temple from the campaigns leaves nominations in only two major statewide races to be determined.

Dallas Congressman Jim Mattox will take on former U.S. attorney John Hannah for the Democratic bid for attorney general and Garry Mauro will face off with Midland Sen. Pete Snelson in the land commissioner's race.

The Republicans escaped the need for a runoff, with

Gov. Clements easily defeating Duke Embs and GOP contenders for other statewide offices unopposed.

Perot Reappointed
Gov. Clements has re-named 16 persons to one-year terms on the "Texans War Against Drugs" committee, including its controversial chairman H. Ross Perot.

Perot, a multi-millionaire from Dallas, will continue to head the panel that is instrumental in pushing several law enforcement bills through the 1981 Legislature, including the hotly debated wiretap bill.

That legislation allows law enforcement officers to use wiretaps in carrying out investigations of drug cases.

Perot also gained notoriety when he got the Texas Board of Human Resources to reconsider a decision not to renew a multi-million dollar Medicaid contract with his company.

Special Session
Gov. Bill Clements has signed the proclamation calling the special legislative session to repeal the state property tax.

Lawmakers are to return to Austin May 24 to pass a constitutional amendment to repeal the tax, forgive any back taxes owed since 1978 and provide a one-time appropriation to finance construction at colleges that used to depend on the property tax for construction funds.

The tax has not been collected since the Legislature virtually eliminated it by reducing the assessment rate to 0.0001 percent in 1979. Midwestern University is challenging that action as unconstitutional, and Gov. Clements says Texans may owe up to $1 billion in back taxes if Midwestern wins its suit.

However, at least one lawmaker says the Legislature may not be able to forgive those back taxes.

Austin Rep. Wilhelmina Delco is seeking an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of forgiving back taxes, but Attorney General White has refused to comment on the matter because of the pending Midwestern suit.

So, if the amendment is passed, there could be one more suit before the issue is finally resolved.

Prison Suit

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice has ordered the Texas Department of Corrections to show by May 14 that it is abiding by his order to provide adequate living space for inmates.

Attorneys for the state say they will show that TDC is providing more than the 40 square feet per prisoner that Justice ordered, but attorneys for the inmates say that is physically impossible because of the current prison population.

Justice imposed the space requirements in his 1980 order for extensive improvements at Texas prisons, which he declared dangerously overcrowded.

you and the LAW
PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My husband and I ordered an abstract to sell our property, but it wrongfully included a judgment against a person with part of my husband's name. The abstract company says they place every judgment in the abstract if the names are similar and they won't remove it without another fee. This put a lien on the property, and we cannot sell without paying someone else's debts. Doesn't the state of Texas have a law against wrongful records such as this?

A: The abstract or title company merely researches title to the property and reports its information to buyers or insurers. Discovering a debtor with a similar name does not put a lien on property; instead it points up situations and problems to solve before title is cleared.

If you feel the abstract company has abused its duty, you may complain to the State Board of Insurance which regulates these businesses.

Q: My husband and I split up several years ago and later divorced. He died shortly after that and I applied for survivor insurance for our children who now live with me, but I can't collect because the agency doesn't believe they are his children. My late husband's mother said the kids were his, an attorney who knew us well said the same. What legally can I do to collect for them?

A: Children born during a marriage are presumed the legitimate children of the husband. If the benefits are awarded by the Social Security Administration, the requirements for proving survivorship can be met by presenting a birth certificate for each child.

The Decree of Divorce should also state that these two children were born to the marriage. It should not be necessary to rely on the memory or goodwill of your mother-in-law or other witnesses to prove a fact that exists in county records.

Q: The lady from whom I recently bought some property agreed to transfer the driveway that leads in, after the sale was completed. Now that the land is mine, the realtor tells me the mortgage company won't let her transfer the driveway to me. I feel I've been ripped off. What can I do?

A: If the promise was written in the sale contract, I recommend you make a formal demand upon the seller that she transfer the driveway to you. Her response will determine your next action. You may even be able to void the contract if the driveway is essential to your enjoyment of the land.

If the agreement was not in writing, you could request an easement or license from the seller. Most important, however, would be a trip to the mortgage company to learn—and, perhaps, satisfy—its objections.

Q: I've been married six years. I have a son by another marriage who uses my present husband's last name. Since we haven't taken formal steps to change the boy's name, is my husband required to adopt my son to make the name change legal?

A: You could ask the boy's father to agree to a name change, and in an uncontested hearing the Court would so rule.

For your new husband to adopt the child, however, you would have to file to terminate your first husband's parental rights and then seek adoption by your new spouse.

If you take neither of these steps, your son's name remains legally as it was on his birth certificate.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Thank You!
I would like to express my thanks and gratitude to those voters of Precinct 4 who supported me in my campaign for Commissioner.
Your vote and support was deeply appreciated.

A Sign of Spring . . .

Spring always seems to be a fact when fresh asparagus is plentiful. Since the season for this tender treat is short, enjoy it often. Here's one more idea.

Au Gratin Asparagus

2 lb. fresh asparagus 1 (10 1/4 oz.) can Condensed Mushroom Soup
 3 hard cooked eggs, sliced 1/4 c. milk
 3/4 c. butter bread crumbs 1/2 c. grated Cheddar cheese

Break off butt end of asparagus to remove woody portion. Remove scales where sand may hide. Wash carefully and cook with small amount of water until barely tender, about 10 minutes. Drain and layer in 2 1/2 quart casserole with egg and bread crumbs. Combine soup and milk. Pour over asparagus and top with cheese. Bake in 350°F. oven for 15 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Serves 6.

Add a touch of creativity to brown-bag lunches by packing lunchtime treats on a stick. These alternatives to sandwiches stress nutrition and taste good too.

Try meat and vegetable kabobs to make good use of leftovers. Salad on a stick will please dieters and other nutrition-conscious eaters. Pineapple yummies end a brown-bag lunch or meal with a sweet touch. Cheese fun snacks provide a novel treat for brown-bag toters of all ages.

Meat and vegetable Kabobs-Leftover meat such as beef or pork roast, ham, chicken or turkey can be cut in one-inch cubes to use for a tasty lunch treat.

Thread the meat on small, disposable skewers alternating with olives, cherry tomatoes, and/or chunks of celery, cucumber, carrot, green pepper, or other fresh vegetable favorites. Slip the kabobs in a sandwich bag to keep the food fresh, and pack with a spillproof container of your favorite salad dressing. Dip meat and vegetables in the dressing to eat.

Salad on a skewer-If you want to pack a surprise to add flavor and variety to your favorite sandwich, try these salads on a stick.

Slide chunks of two or more of your favorite fresh vegetables-anything from avocado to zucchini-onto a small bamboo or wooden skewer. Wrap in a damp paper towel, then place in a sandwich bag to keep vegetables fresh. Pack with a spill-proof container of drip made by combining one to two tablespoons (according to taste) of your favorite powdered ranch style dressing with a carton of low-fat, plain yogurt for low-calorie goodness.

Fruit on a skewer provides a sweet, nutritious treat at lunch time. Soak one-inch chunks of banana, apple, or fresh peach in orange or pineapple juice 10 to 15 minutes. Drain and slide on a small skewer, alternating fruits with pineapple chunks, slices of orange or other fresh fruits. You may want to add large marshmallows or maraschino cherries as well. Pack in sandwich bags to keep fruit fresh.

PINEAPPLE YUMMIES
Slide chunk pineapple on small skewer, then coat or dip in honey mixed with a little water to spread more easily. Dip in toasted coconut flakes or shreds. This yummy dessert will highlight any brown-bag lunch.

CHEESE FUN SNACKS
Cut any firm cheese such as Cheddar or Swiss, into 1/2 inch cubes. Skewer one or two cubes onto a pretzel stick, then slip your snacks in to a sandwich bag. Pack your favorite pickles in a separate sandwich bag. These snacks make a scrumptious pick-me-up at break or lunchtime.

DIXIE DOODLE CAKE
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 # 2 can of crushed pineapple
1 tsp. soda
1/4 tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
Mix and put in 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees. When done, ice with the following:
ICING
1 1/2 cup sugar
1 stick margarine
3/4 cup evaporated milk
Boil five minutes and add 1 can coconut and 1 cup pecans. Spread over cake.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

After our bountiful rain over this area last week we should see a fresh green-up very soon. Add to that many welcome smiles from everyone. Maybe the rain will encourage many to plant more vegetable gardens which have been so popular and useful for several years.

Watch your violets, columbine and other plants for red spider. Dust leaves with sulfur, and allow some to fall on the ground around the plants. Violets can be dug, divided and reset now. Keeping seed pods cut from columbine will prolong their blooming period. There are many beautiful colors in these plants.

May is a good month to visit plant collections in your own neighborhood and view new or uncommon varieties that may fit into your garden plan. Too, when visiting other cities plan to visit their parks and botanical gardens for new ideas of planting.

The popular gloriosa daisies are tough, easy to grow plants that thrive in any except soggy soils. They prefer full sun, but will tolerate part shade. Their showy flowers are especially good for cutting, and their lively color will brighten any summer garden or autumn border. Being a perennial, they usually will become dormant during the winter.

but put on new growth after the soil gets warm. They should live several seasons. Reset iris now if crowded and need dividing. This will give them time to form new growth and roots before the weather gets too hot.

All flowers, fruits, shrubs, herbs, vegetables, and plants must be free of weeds or grass. Competition to do well and to look well kept. Cultivation helps plants grow by cracking the crust to allow moisture to soak in, and air to go into the soil.

Black spot on rose foliage can be controlled by the use of an insecticide and a fungicide, or another of isotox and benomyl. Both of these will be good and can be bought locally. Ask your dealer, there may be a new one available.

COUPLES GOLF

Team winners in couples golf play at the Country Club last week were Geniece and Pleas Childress and Betty and Winston Koerth. In second place were Darolyn and Rick Webster and Wanda and Byron Stuart.

Closest to the pin on number nine were Marilyn Cox and Rick Webster.

The couples enjoyed chocolate cake after the golf play, served by Marilyn and Bud Cox, who were celebrating their wedding anniversary.

Surveys show that many people would like an outline of the major furniture periods in history, so we're happy to present this column.

The major periods can be arranged into broad categories: Gothic, Renaissance, French, Oriental, English, Spanish, Early American and Modern-and bear in mind that there are different styles within each period.

Gothic, the first major period, was influenced by church architecture and was heavy and massive. Renaissance came about when people grew tired of Gothic and turned to ancient Greek and Roman classic designs. French represented the magnificent court styles of Louis XIV, XV and XVI.

Oriental featured understatement and simple lines. English ranged from the Middle Ages through Tudor, Georgian and Victorian styles. Spanish, with geometric inlays and carved surfaces, was influenced by Mediterranean peoples. Early American combined features of European styles and was later influenced by America's first great designer Duncan Phyfe. Modern evolved from the theory of "form follows function" and was developed in many different countries.

And, in brief, when you want to see a good selection of furniture and talk over decorating ideas, stop in.

JOY IN THE MORNING

There is something thrilling about a new day! Another dawn of hope and promise to live and dream and love.

Frustrations of yesterday are gone and like the earth on which we live, we stand refreshed, renewed and hopeful in the shimmering rays of the morning sun.

How wonderful that we have been given the power to make a new beginning—if we trust and have faith in our Creator.

Worship in church each week and find the faith that renews your life—that brings "joy in the morning."

By-Wendy Hood

Tuesday night the seniors were honored with a banana split party. The Church of Christ sponsored this event, and it was held in Granny Miller Hall. There was a very large attendance and it was a big success. The ice cream was homemade and everyone designed his own banana split. After every one finished eating, we were entertained by a film. The film was a play we had done in the third grade. Everyone got a good laugh out of the film and the party was very enjoyable. HAMBURGER SUPPER FOR SENIORS

Co. range tour planned

A county range tour will be held Tuesday, May 18. The tour was planned by the Livestock and Range Committee. It should be of interest to ranchers in controlling mesquite and prickly pear.

The mesquite control plots on Buck Owens' ranch have some of the new herbicides that look more promising for control than the ones presently on the market.

The prescribed burning on the Texas Range Station looks very good for control of prickly pear. Different treatments compare fire, fire plus herbicide, and just herbicide to control prickly pear.

The group will meet at 1:45 at the Buck Owens Ranch Headquarters, where evaluation of Chemical Control of Mesquite Plots sprayed in 1979 and 1980 by Dr. Pete Jacoby, Jr. will be discussed between 2 and 3 p.m.

Following will be at the Texas Range Station-a discussion and evaluation of prescribed burning on prickly pear. Plots were burned in 1979, 1981 and 1982. Dr.

Darrell Ueckert will be in charge of this discussion. At 4:15 the tour will move to the Bob Bissett ranch where Allan McGinty will be in charge of a discussion of burning techniques.

High blood pressure; the silent disease

Blood is moving through your vessels, performing its vital function without complaint. You probably feel fine. But, unknown to you, the blood may be pushing against the walls of the vessels with excessive pressure.

Doctors call this disease hypertension. Most people refer to it by its common name—high blood pressure.

About 20 percent of adult Americans have it, according to the Texas Medical Association. But only half know they do.

The reason is that hypertension is a "silent" disease.

It has no symptoms, and the person does not feel sick. But it is the major cause of strokes, heart failure and kidney failure. Each year in the U.S., high blood pressure is the primary cause of about 60,000 deaths and plays a role in the more than 1.5 million heart attacks and strokes. It also can lead to vision loss.

Most cases of high blood pressure are related in some way to the improper functioning of arterioles, muscular tubes that connect arteries and capillaries. (Arteries carry blood away from the heart to body organs, and capillaries then deliver the blood directly to the tissues.)

The arterioles regulate the blood pressure. When an arteriole contracts, the pressure of the blood against the vessel walls increases behind it. The higher the pressure, the harder the heart must work.

High blood pressure usually is detected during a routine examination by a physician. To control the disorder, the doctor may prescribe medication and urge the patient to lose weight, reduce salt consumption, cut back on smoking and alcohol, and adjust his lifestyle to reduce emotional strain.

High blood pressure usually begins in people about age 30 and becomes increasingly more common in higher age groups. Nonetheless, it can occur at any age and in anyone.

Screwworm alert for ranchers

Nine confirmed cases of screwworms have been reported south of Comstock just across the Rio Grande River in Old Mexico. The present weather conditions are ideal for screwworms so ranchers should be on the lookout. With southerly winds and these weather conditions, we could easily have a screwworm outbreak if we aren't on the alert. Ranchers are reminded to inspect livestock regularly and submit all samples for identification. Sample bottles may be picked up at feed stores, wool houses or county agent's office. Ranchers still shearing sheep should spray fresh shorn animals with recommended pesticide to repel flies until minor cuts dry and heal.

Don't default on a loan. It can be costly. For example, if a bank customer accepts--or co-signs--a loan under an agreement that has a "right of offset" provision and if the loan becomes delinquent, the bank can possess funds in the customer's checking or savings account to recover the unpaid part of the loan.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

Unbelievably, a big league baseball batter once refused a base hit. It happened in 1942 when Hall-of-Famer Paul Waner hit a grounder that went off the shortstop's glove. Waner got to first base, and the official scorer called it a hit. But Waner at that time had 2,999 hits and he wanted his 3,000th hit to be a clean one—so he waved to the press box asking the hit to be changed to an error. The scorer complied, and that hit was taken away from Waner. That's probably the only time any baseball batter ever refused a hit.

Did you know that there are so many golf courses in America that if you put them all together, you'd have an area bigger than the entire state of Rhode Island!

An amazing number of men past 40 years of age are playing big league baseball this season. Pete Rose at age 41, Willie Stargell at 41, Carl Yastrzemski at 42, Woodie Fryman at 42, Gaylord Perry at 43, Jim Katt at 43 and Phil Niekro at 43. That may be an all-time record for most players over 40 at any one time in major league history.
