We've been besieged with complaints the past week, and we would like to take this opportunity to remind our readers, correspondents (those who bring articles in) and advertisers, of the newspaper's responsibility and role in getting the news out each week. We would also like to remind everyone of our policy on various matters. We are a small weekly newspaper and have a staff of three and if we are going to get this paper out each week, the rules must be followed.

First a message to correspondents. If we use the headline you have placed on your story it is purely accidental. Anyone who writes for a newspaper should know that headlines are a mechanical part of production and done by the personnel who put the paper together. Your story should tell the tale in the first paragraph, for that is where the headline is taken from. If you have a negative first paragraph, you usually wind up with a negative head. The headline writer happens to be the editor, in this case, me. Headlines must be justified by the type size, in other words, they must fit our column widths. When we are hurrying around in a frenzy on Tuesday afternoons, we do not have time to edit or re-write stories.

Ideally, the editor should edit and re-write every story that comes in. In our case, that's impossible, so if you will answer who, what, when and where in the first paragraph, you are likely to get a headline reflecting the most important part of the story. Never make your own headline which should be a part of the story, chances are it will never be seen by the editor and if it is not in the body of the story it is never read.

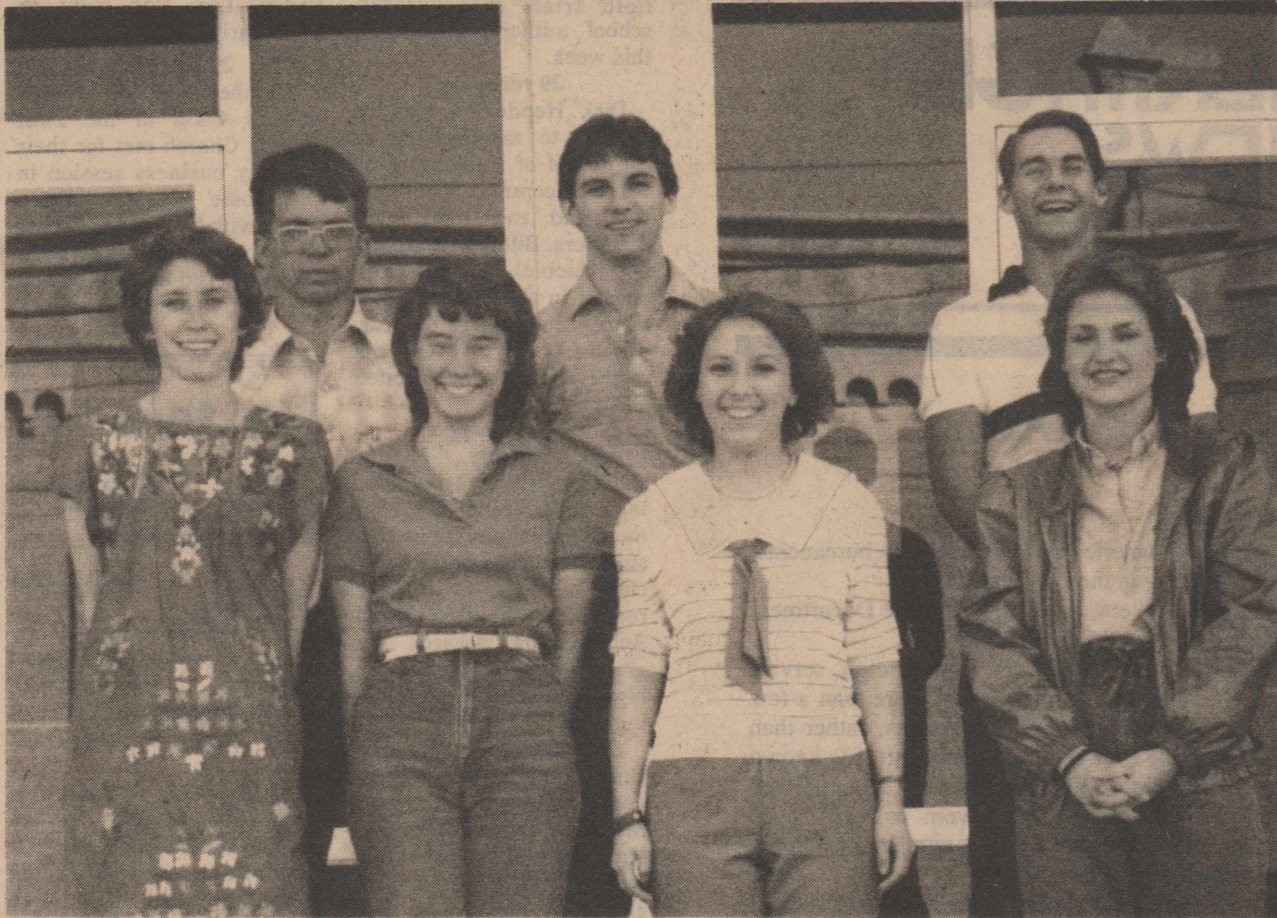

The second item concerns available space. Space (display ads) should be reserved on Monday. When we are full before noon Tuesday, it is almost impossible and certainly impractical to jump two pages to place a small ad. It is alright to get your copy in on Tuesday, but space should be reserved on Monday.

Third, concerns colored pictures and articles mailed in from out of Ozona. We cannot use colored pictures unless they have lots of contrast, so most can't be used. News stories are selected by the editor and space and importance have a great deal to do with which stories are selected. We always try to get stories in about Ozonans who are out of town, but sometimes it may be two or three weeks if it is not deemed hot copy and front page material. So if your college youngster is on the honor roll or something else which is not dated, just hang on. We'll get around to it sooner or later.

When stories are too long, they often must be cut or edited to fit the space. When this occurs we cut out what we consider redundant or of no importance to the overall article. Every newspaper does this.

When information or ads are called in on Tuesday morning, the caller must accept the responsibility for errors. We are generally writing news stories on Tuesday morning and setting type. We are just too busy to answer a continuously ringing telephone. We are considering refusing all classified ads by telephone, especially on Tuesday.

Brock Jones, Jr. named to district judgeship

Brock Jones Jr., 46, an Ozona native and a former Travis County Court-at-law judge, has been appointed to fill the vacancy of 12th District Judge, serving Crockett, Pecos, Reagan, Sutton and Upton counties.

The official announcement came from Governor Mark White's office Monday morning. Judge Jones replaces District Judge Troy D. Williams who resigned last month over controversy concerning a rape case in Rankin. Williams' term was scheduled to end Dec. 31, 1986.

Under state law, Jones can serve as an appointee only until the next general election, which will be November of this year. At that time, he or anyone else meeting constitutional requirements can be elected to the office.

Since Williams' resignation came after the February filing deadline, Democratic chairmen from the five counties must meet and name one candidate for the general election ballot. According to an article in the Tuesday edition of the Standard Time, Jones was quoted as saying "The Republicans also have that same authority."

Jones has indicated he will ask to have his name placed on the ballot. As a rule, the Democratic chairmen always choose the governor's appointee for the place on the ballot. Steve Kenley, Crockett County Democratic chairman, went on record as saying he would give the nod to the governor's appointee. That would allow Jones to serve the remainder of Williams' term, unless the Republicans or a write-in candidate should be on the ballot and win in November. The Texas Constitution requires a two-year residency in the district for candidates, but not for appointees, according to a spokesman for the governor's office. Jones moved here from Austin in the fall of 1982, and does not meet the residency requirements at the present. However, he will have met that requirement before the general election in November.

Jones is a practicing attorney here and lives with his family at the ranch 25 miles south of Ozona. His wife is the former Camille Adams of Ozona. They have two children, Hamilton Brock, 15, a sophomore in Ozona High School and Margaret Camille 11, a fifth grade student in Ozona schools. Brock is a graduate of the University of Texas Law School and is on the board of directors of the Ozona Chamber of Commerce.

He was twice elected to four-year terms as a Travis County Court-at-Law judge. He resigned that post in the fall of 1982 to join his family in Ozona.

Jones comes from a family of judges. His father, the senior Brock Jones, served as Crockett County judge. When he died in office, his wife, Bernice, was appointed to the post and earned re-election on her own. When Williams resigned as county judge to take the district post, Brock's brother, Johnny Jones, was appointed to the judgeship and served until he resigned last year.

League to sponsor A.F. band

The Ozona Womans League will bring "Blue Thunder" an Air Force Band, to Ozona for a concert as a cultural awareness program for the club.

The band will perform April 11, at 1 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

This new group from the Air Force Band of the West plays pop, country and rock, as well as light jazz and original material.

They are seven outstanding Air Force musicians who entertain with such a variety of music that listeners are totally caught up in the musical whirlwind of "Blue Thunder."

The public is invited to attend.

March wind blows gale force here

March winds have been especially fierce the latter part of March and the first part of April. A brief rain shower early Monday morning helped settle the dust, but only measured .10 of an inch of moisture.

A wind storm Sunday, April 1, came out of the southwest with howling gusts of up to 60 miles-per-hour. Perhaps it was nature's way of playing an April Fool's joke.

Anti-drug poster contest is success

The Ozona Teens Against Drugs poster contest can certainly be called a success with three hundred twelve the final total of entries. The kindergarten and first grade students entered one hundred fifteen posters followed by the second and third grades with one hundred eight, fourth and fifth grades with forty-six. The Junior High grades, sixth, seventh, and eighth, had the lowest participation with only fourteen entries and the Senior High School presented twenty-nine posters.

Top winners receiving $20 cash prizes donated by the Ozona Lions Club were; Alonzo Quiroz, first grade; Rana Bridges, first grade; Erika Kennison, fourth grade; Lori Turner, sixth grade; and John Tom Stokes, tenth grade.

Second place winners receiving ribbons were Candie Sessom, first grade; Petra Rios, second grade; Ann Trull, fifth grade; Luis Rico, sixth grade; and Patricia Lara, tenth grade.

Third place ribbon winners were Jessie Turner, kindergarten; Sammy White, second grade; Cody Morris, fifth grade; and Alma Gutierrez, ninth grade.

The second grade teachers guided their students through a study of drug abuse using the poster contest as their final project, holding a contest among the five second grade classes where they chose a first, second, third, and fourth place poster from each class. All primary and elementary students have reviewed several films on drug abuse and prevention during the past few weeks.

DeHoyos asks for new term

Sostenes DeHoyos has authorized the Stockman to announce his candidacy for County Commissioner Precinct 1 subject to action of the Democratic Primary May 5.

SOSTENES DEHOYOS DeHoyos was initially elected County Commissioner in 1978 and re-elected to a full term in 1980. In seeking his second elected full term to the post DeHoyos states: "I feel the time I've served on the Court has given me valuable experience and insight to effectively deal with our County's needs. I realize there is a constant need for improvement and that is what I will adhere to. Continued improvements of our County's services to you the public."

Born and reared in Ozona, DeHoyos is a graduate of Ozona High School and an Army veteran with a tour of duty in Viet Nam before his discharge in 1968. He is a graduate of Sul Ross State University with a degree in history and government. De Hoyos is a lifelong member of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church. He has been employed by Lilly Construction since 1975.

Sheriff Mills in eighth race

Billy Mills, long time Crockett County sheriff, has authorized the Stockman to announce his candidacy for re-election to that office, subject to action of the Democratic primary May 5, 1984.

Sheriff Mills will be seeking his eighth term in office. He was first elected and assumed the office on January 1, 1957, the first year the elected term of the office was changed from two to four years. Before that time, he had served as deputy sheriff under the late V. O. Earnest for four and a half years. Sheriff Mills came here from the Rio Grande valley where he had served in the police department the previous four years, from 1948.

The sheriff's record of law enforcement work spans a total of approximately 36 years. In addition to his actual years of service as a peace officer, Sheriff Mills has added several law enforcement training sessions to his years of experience as a means of improving his performance.

Although he has no opponent in the Democratic primary, Sheriff Mills asks the continued support of Crockett County voters on the basis of his experience and training as qualifying for continued efficient service as the county's chief law enforcement officer.

Republicans to hold May primary

For the first time in many years the Republicans will hold a primary election in Crockett County, May 5.

Paula Bailey, Republican county chairman, said Monday, the primary will be held May 5, but a place for the election had not been selected officially.

She also reported she had received proofs of the primary ballots.

Golfers aim for title

OHS GOLF TEAM is in second place in the district and might possibly overtake Crane who stands in first place. At any rate, both first and second place finishers will qualify for the regional tournament. This is the varsity and junior varsity players grouped together. Players are back row, l. to r., Diron

Holt, third in district for medalist honors and a varsity player; Bo Aycock, varsity; Clint Perner, JV; Mark Dudley, varsity; Kent Hokit, varsity. Front row, Andy Dews, JV; Victor Newton, JV, and Ty McKlinney, varsity.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock last week estimated a $19 billion price tag over the next five years for a select committee's proposed public education reforms, setting the stage for the Legislature's expected budget trims.

The whopping cost is seven times higher than Bullock's previous estimate of $2.6 billion, driven up by projected costs in enrollment and teachers salaries, according to a Bullock aide.

Although the Select Committee on Public Education has recommended a $2.6 new appropriation for reforms beginning next year, the Legislature is expected to approve only $1 billion, if that.

New revenues would partly come from a tax increase which Gov. Mark White is expected to advocate in a special legislative session sometime after the primary elections this spring.

The Committee, appointed last year when the Legislature rejected White's efforts to raise taxes for increased teacher salaries, recently finished its study of public education in Texas and listed reforms.

Although White and the panel chairman, H. Ross Perot of Dallas, have indicated the total list of reforms is outside the Legislature's budget restraints, the new estimates put many of the proposed reforms in financial jeopardy.

Reform Costs

State and local taxes would have to be raised to fund the proposed reforms at the following costs:

- $5.4 billion for a career ladder for teachers.
- $6 billion to limit class sizes through Grade 4.
- $2.6 billion to educate 4-year-olds.
- $1.9 billion to extend the school day by two hours.
- $558 million to lengthen the school year by 10 days.
- $1.9 billion for full-day kindergarten for 5-year-olds.
- $39 million for annual testing of students.
- $117 million for adopting textbooks every six years instead of every eight years.
- $4.9 million for par-enthood education.
- $3.5 million for stipends for upgrading teachers.
- $439 million for increased funding for teacher education.
- $6.7 million for management control.

White V. Bullock

The coming special session will pit White against Bullock over an education funding issue that may decide who will be governor in '86. Two years ago, just a few days before White was to take office, Bullock astounded Democratic Party leaders by announcing that he would challenge White for governor in '86.

Since then, the two state officials have conducted subtle political warfare over the state budget, mainly on the education issue.

White has been foremost an advocate of new taxes to pay teachers an increased salary, but, so far, Bullock's conservative revenue projections have discouraged the Legislature from making new expenditures. The series of devaluations of the Mexican peso, the devastating December freeze, and the oil industry slump have all combined to jolt the jaw of state revenues, particularly in the Valley.

Valley Plan

Now months later, with oil industry and border economy slumps partially stabilized, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said last week he is drafting a legislative package to spur the Valley's economic comeback.

His package would direct federal aid to the Valley for education, for hospital care and for technical assistance to economically crippled counties.

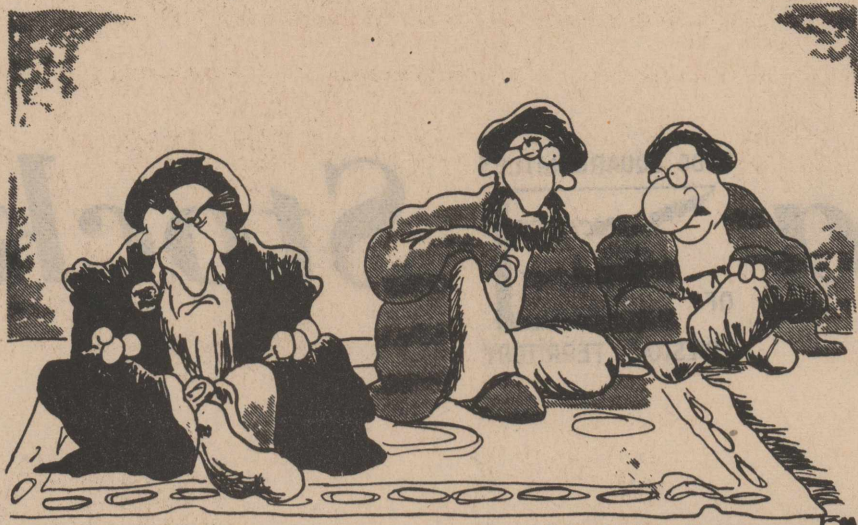

"I have walked down streets on a Saturday in some of those towns (on the border) where you used to have to elbow your way through the crowds. Now you could fire a cannon down those streets and not hit anyone. Many stores are just shut down," Bentsen said.

Tight Energy

Production from domestic oil fields is expected to remain flat for a while, according to Texas oil and gas producers who convened a few days ago at a Texas Railroad Commission seminar.

Several signs indicate a tightening of energy supplies in the months and years ahead, and reliance on imported oil increasing. Some factors contributing to the decline of the surplus were the winter's cold weather which increased natural gas consumption and higher demands for petroleum products.

Also in the picture is the continuing warfare between Iraq and Iran, which threatens to shut off import oil supplies.

DABBLING IN DIPLOMACY

By Edwin Feulner

Like many other U.S. workers, America's foreign service bureaucrats want to prevent outsiders from working in their profession.

Unlike pipefitters and garment workers, however, the State Department careerists seem motivated more by power than economics.

Battles between incoming administrations and the foreign service bureaucracy are hardly new. Every administration ruffles more than a few feathers by awarding U.S. ambassadorships to party loyalists, rather than career bureaucrats. If Walter Mondale ever becomes president, it is known that House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill wants to be appointed ambassador to Ireland. (And perhaps George McGovern will ask to be ambassador to Massachusetts.) No doubt there are a number of foreign service officers who also would like the Dublin post.

What the issue boils down to is this: the foreign service careerists feel only they are qualified to serve U.S. interests abroad; others argue that those loyal to the administration in power better reflect the policies and views of the administration. Since "professional" diplomats are wedded to the notion of continuity in foreign policy, argues scholar James T. Hackett — a professional foreign service officer for over 15 years — they can often prevent a president from putting his own stamp on U.S. foreign policy.

Interestingly, we've only recently been treated to a spectacle which reinforces my view that we need more "amateur" diplomats, not fewer.

The flap involved our ambassador to France, Evan Galbraith. Don't be confused by the name; he is no relation to John Kenneth Galbraith, the liberal economist. Evan Galbraith is a true-blue Reaganite. And he is not ashamed to express the views of his boss in public.

This naturally has aroused the ire of some of the French illuminati, who consider President Reagan a bit of a yahoo. Trendy leftism has been much in vogue in France since 1945, when everyone there had to begin explaining what they'd been doing during the years of the Nazi-dominated Vichy government.

During an interview with some hostile French journalists recently, Ambassador Galbraith was asked his opinion of the French communist party. Like his boss would, he called it as he saw it. He noted that the French communist party has notoriously towed the Moscow line on foreign policy, a fact little disputed by anyone. He was then asked two questions in rapid succession — was he "implying that a French Communist was less than 100 percent French?" And did he "mean that Charles Fiterman, President Mitterand's Communist minister of transport, was less than 100 percent a Frenchman?"

Galbraith answered the first question, saying that French Communists were "poor Frenchmen, gone awry." This was then interpreted to be an attack on Fiterman, even though it was not intended as such.

Pierre Mauroy, the French premier, called in Ambassador Galbraith for a dressing-down after the French press had a field day with the misquote. But Ambassador Galbraith was able to prove, with a transcript of the interview, that he had never criticized a member of the French government, and, diplomatically, all was resolved.

But the affair brought attention to the whole issue of having Communists in the French government, something an ever-increasing number of French citizens disapprove of. (A French friend tells me that when Galbraith goes out to a restaurant now, it's not uncommon for the other patrons to give him a standing ovation.)

A career ambassador would never have rocked the boat. But a non-career emissary doesn't have to worry what his next post will be. He can say what needs to be said. And that's the real value of amateur diplomacy.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My daughter is a runaway. I have called the police but they say there is very little they can do to find her. Is there any other agency that can help with this problem?

A: The two million runaways in this country are not on any one registry, although recent changes in the law now provide that the FBI will file a runaway description in their computer. We do advise you to keep dental records and fingerprints of your children.

There is, however, a new, privately funded, nationwide organization called CHILD FIND to assist parents in locating their missing children. The toll-free number of CHILD FIND is 1-800-431-5005.

In addition, RUNAWAY HOTLINE, funded by the State of Texas, exists, mostly for the children. A child can call the toll-free number — 1-800-392-3352 —, and receive advice on shelters and counseling and can also send messages home to parents. RUNAWAY HOTLINE will not help locate the children but does offer general advice for parents whose children are gone.

Those numbers again are CHILD FIND:
1-800-431-5005
RUNAWAY HOTLINE:
1-800-392-3352.

Q: I've heard a lot lately about the insanity defense and changes in the law. What is the new law?
A: The September 1, 1983, change eliminated the definition of insanity that as a result of mental disease, the defendant could not conform his behavior to the requirements of the law.

Now the defendant must show that because of insanity, he did not know his conduct was wrong. In addition, the mental disease must be shown to be severe. These changes will limit the number of cases in which the insanity defense will apply.

Letters to the Editor

April 2, 1984

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my unhappiness with an article I submitted to the Stockman concerning the High School Girls at the Sonora Track Meet.

The heading of the article was changed and did not read as it did when I turned it in to the paper. The heading I turned in read "Girls place 5th in Sonora," and it was changed to "Girls make poor showing." The girls who participated in the meet worked very hard and did NOT make a poor showing. In fact, some of the girls won medals, and several of them turned in their best performances of the season. As you know, if you read the article, some of the girls were unable to participate due to injuries, this is why the team did not place higher.

The sports articles that appear in the paper are not only to inform the public but also a means of recognition for the students who are stand-outs in that particular sport. By putting a heading such as the one your paper put on my article, I feel that it was very unfair to the girls that did participate in the Sonora Track Meet, who did indeed make a good showing and not a poor showing. I feel that the students that were trying hard to do well and did do well deserve a better type of recognition than the heading projected. Especially when it projected something that simply was not true.

Not only were the girls on the track team offended by the heading, but some of their parents were also.

I do hope that in the future there will be no more misprints or changes that project a negative attitude concerning the students in Ozona High School or their extracurricular activities.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Even though it is April, be on the alert to protect any of your tender plants or shrubs from a late freeze until after Easter. We are still hoping for those refreshing April showers that are needed for our area.

A busy month both indoors and out will make your garden a real pleasure. Usually there is more to be done now than most any other time of the year.

All dead and diseased leaves on iris should be removed if you haven't already done so. The soil should be stirred lightly to help retain moisture, but don't disturb the roots. An insect spray now will help prevent damage to blooms later.

Don't be alarmed if evergreens such as abelia, live oaks, photinia and others are shedding their leaves as usual, or from the freeze. The mature leaves are being replaced with new ones.

April is a very critical month for spraying and keeping insects under control. Watch your roses for mildew, aphids and black spot. All purpose insecticides are very good preventatives, so use after rains.

Wait until the soil is warmer to plant caladiums, usually after Easter. They should be planted 4 to 6 inches deep depending on size of bulb. If planted too shallow, the wind may whip them up out of the soil. They are one of the most popular and attractive plants for shady or partial shady areas. Also, they do well if planted in pots to be moved where color is needed.

Perennials should be divided and planted this month to get a root system established before the summer heat—examples cannas, oxales, mums, daisies, hardy asters and others.

Another reminder to get your plants and other entries ready for the April 19 Flower Show. We hope to have many beautiful flowers in the horticulture section which the public is invited to enter specimens if properly named.

After having three outstanding flower arrangers for the yearly programs the Design section should be most interesting.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Carson host Forum

The Womans Forum of Ozona met March 27 at the Civic Center. Mrs. J. D. Brown and Mrs. Bill Carson acted as hostesses.

During the business meeting, Mrs. J. McCartney, Activities Director at the Crockett County Care Center reported on the success of the Heart Fund Raiser held March 13 at the Care Center. Mrs. McCartney gave Heart Association Certificates of Appreciation to the Forum and to individual members who had helped in the Fund Raiser.

Mrs. Bonnie Warth announced that the Womans Forum had been selected as sponsors for the current food redistribution program conducted by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Mrs. Buddy Russell asked that Forum members promote and help with the Early Childhood Screening Clinic to be held at the Primary School April 25 and 26 from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. Children will be given eye examinations, hearing will be checked, as well as motor development and concepts and communications. In addition a free shot clinic will be held.

A special effort is being made to reach Spanish speaking children during this clinic to determine if these children need some summer help before entering kindergarten in the Fall.

Plans for the Forum's spring trip to Kerrville and the Hill Country in April were announced by Mrs. James Childress. Members were also reminded of the upcoming Arts and Crafts Fair to be held on April 24. The Fair is open to all persons in Crockett County.

Mrs. P.L. Childress announced plans for a photographic veterans day exhibit to be held at the Crockett County Museum.

Mrs. Bonnie Warth and Mrs. Dempster Jones moderated an open discussion program concerning regional and state political races.

Other members present were Mmes. George Bunker, Mike Clayton, Roger Dudley, Huey Ingram, Brock Jones, Ralph Jones, Arthur Kyle, Allie Lock, Lowell Littleton, Jess Marley, Gene Perry, Dub Stokes, Rufus Ward and W. H. Whitaker.

Houseguests of Mrs. Bailey Post this week are her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bryan of Houston.

ENTERTAINING IDEAS

From Western New York Apple Country

Dramatic is one word to describe Apple Juice Fluff. Versatile is the other. You'll receive plenty of "oohs and ahs" whether it's served as a salad or a dessert. It can even double as a pretty centerpiece on the buffet table.

As a salad, this apple-studded mold makes a natural complement to beef or pork. The fruity flavor blossoms from the combination of juice and fresh apples. For best results, use one of the many apples recommended for salads such as Ida Reds, Jonathans or Cortlands. Dice them unpeeled to show off their bright red skins. Serve right at the table by spooning onto crisp lettuce leaves arranged on individual dishes.

For a welcome light ending to a heavy meal, Apple Juice Fluff is a natural. Serve with Eggnog Sauce, delicately laced with rum (or vanilla if you prefer). Let each guest spoon on the sauce or, for a truly elegant presentation, surround the mold with sauce for a "floating" effect.

For more apple recipes, write Western New York Apple Growers, Dept. NR, Box 350, Fishers, N.Y. 14453 for the free recipe leaflet, "Applesauce Temptations: A Garden of Appetizing Ideas."

APPLE JUICE FLUFF

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 4 cups apple juice or cider
- 2 egg whites
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups diced, unpeeled red apples

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup juice for 5 minutes. Bring 2 cups juice to a boil in medium saucepan; add to gelatin; stir until dissolved. Add 1/4 cup sugar; stir to dissolve. Add remaining 1-1/2 cups juice; chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks; beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar. Beat gelatin mixture until thick and foamy; fold in apples and egg whites. Spoon into 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Serve with Eggnog Sauce. Makes 8 servings.

EGGNOG SAUCE

- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 1/4 cup sugar
- pinch of salt
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon rum or vanilla extract
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine hot milk, sugar and salt; stir until sugar dissolves. Beat egg yolks slightly; add milk mixture. Cook over hot water or on very low heat, stirring, just until mixture coats spoon. Do not boil! Add flavoring and nutmeg. Chill. Makes 8 (1/4 cup) servings.

Sorority to sponsor egg hunt

The Alpha Alpha Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will sponsor the annual Easter Egg Hunt. This year's event is scheduled for Sunday, April 15th in the Fairgrounds park at 3:00 p.m. The Easter Bunny will be on hand to visit local youths and a photographer will be there for pictures.

The hunt has been made possible by donations from local merchants.

Maintain ideal weight
Avoid too much fat, saturated fat, and cholesterol
Eat foods with adequate starch and fiber

Avoid too much sugar
Avoid too much sodium
Drink alcohol in moderation

Following these guidelines will allow you to go beyond the many common myths about foods today. Focusing on specific nutrients, their function on specific organs, and creating unnecessary anxiety about nutrient losses in food preparation may be counterproductive. Nutrition must be considered with the total health picture of physical, mental, social and environmental concerns.

Putting Things In Order

In this age of medicare, social security and homes for the aged, sometimes people forget an important part of growing old — tranquility!

Yes, tranquility and peace are just as important in growing old gracefully as is sufficient insurance or all the other means with which we show our concern for the elderly.

Have you ever noticed that old people have a knack of putting things in order? In fact, they need everything tidy, neat and sure. Certainly their greatest need is for peace and security — but this can come only when they are at peace with God!

If we want to reap the harvest of friendship with God in our old age, then we must cultivate our relation with Him — when we are young and able. Regular church attendance and worship is your assurance of peace and tranquility during your own gentle lengthening years. It will be a heaven-sent reward and one which you cannot, will not, want to miss.

Museum needs pictures and momentos for scheduled veteran's exhibit in May Geniece Childress, museum director, said this week pictures and information on veterans are needed at the museum immediately for the veterans exhibit which will open near Memorial Day next month. She plans to exhibit pictures, branch of service, years served with that unit and medals earned.

Anyone having such information needs to take it to the museum or call the museum at 392-2837, as soon as possible.

The Stockman has been publishing the names of veterans in alphabetical order whose discharge is on file in the clerk's office. This week we start with the letter "H" and will continue as space permits. The museum committee wishes to honor all veterans in this exhibit.

Veterans:

OHS golf team is in contention for title

The Ozona High School golf team won the Sonora tournament Monday and pulled within nine points of Crane who is leading the district. There are two remaining tournaments in the season, Crane -April 7, and Coahoma on April 17.

Diron Holt, Ozona team member is standing third for medalist in the district. Until the Colorado City tournament, he was in second place, but dusty, gusty winds hurt his score, and he only managed to shoot an 80 in the Sonora tournament. However, he is only 9 points behind the second placer and with two tournaments to go,

Albert North, Theron Leonce Nelson Jr., James A. Nettleton.

he could catch up.

District standings at the present time are Crane on top with a three-tournament total of 1008, Ozona second with a total of 1017, Sonora third with a 1046. The other teams in the district are far behind. It seems likely it will be between Crane and Ozona for the top spot. Both first and second teams will play in the regional tournament.

Ozona won the Sonora tournament with a team total of 326. Kent Hokit was low scorer for Ozona with a 79, followed by Holt with an 80. Bo Aycock shot an 84, Mark Dudley an 84, and Ty McKinney, 88.

Registration deadline

Tomorrow, April 5, is the deadline to register to vote in the May primary elections.

Anyone who wishes to cast a ballot in these elections must be registered in the county where he plans to vote to be eligible. Registration is being conducted in the Crockett County Tax office, in the courthouse annex.

Cancer crusade set for April

"Many of the 180,000 deaths from lung and colorectal cancer predicted for 1984 could have been prevented through early detection," said Sharman West, Crusade Chairman of the Crockett County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

"Nowadays we know what a person can do to protect against cancer, especially these two most deadly forms," she said. The American Cancer Society is focusing on lung and colorectal cancer during its annual April education and fundraising crusade.

Members of Beta Sigma Phi will be distributing the new folder, "A Quick Test on Cancer Risks for Lung, Colon, and Rectum," on Monday, April 9. The test has questions which are designed to measure a person's built-in risk, such as personal and family medical history, age and lifestyle. It also includes a section that explains the significance of the answers and describes measures to guard against these cancers. The funds raised in the crusade will be used to support programs in the Ozona area for the prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer, and to provide assistance to cancer patients. In addition, funds collected will help support hundreds of research grants which are coming closer every year to finding more answers about what cancer is and the best ways to treat it. Contributions are vital to help find these answers... and to make sure the answers reach every community in the country.

Letters to the Editor

Editor
Ozona Stockman
Ozona, Texas 76943

I wish to write a letter of commendation for a fine young man and a good citizen of your town.

On Tuesday, March 13, my wife and I were on a trip to Odessa. Passing through Ozona, we decided to continue west on IH 10, since we had never gone that way enroute to Odessa.

We left Highway 10 and turned north toward Iraan. In a short time, we had what seemed to be a serious car problem. We pulled over to the side of the road, and a pickup truck passed us, and immediately turned around and came back.

The driver asked if we needed help. I am not a "backyard" mechanic and was helpless. The young man lifted the hood, saw the difficulty, and went back to his pickup for some tools. He worked several minutes, repaired the car to such an extent that we could continue on our trip.

He gathered up his tools and returned to his pickup. I followed him with my billfold open. I asked him how much I owed him, and he said, "Nothing." I took a bill from my pocketbook, but he would not accept it. I was very grateful for his help, but was ashamed that I could not pay him in some manner.

I did get him to give me his name and address. I learned that he is Oscar James, Jr., P.O. Box 1932, Ozona, Texas.

There can be no advertisement greater than what Mr. James did. He reinforced the idea that we had about the "friendliness of West Texas" and especially of your town. This man deserves a lot of credit, not just for what he did for us, but to enhance the image of your city.

We are an elderly couple and were practically helpless. We will be eternally grateful, and will always respect the good people of Ozona.

I hope you have the space to print this in one of your issues so that the citizens of Ozona will know of our appreciation, and of the kind of man Mr. James is. We shall never forget him.

Very truly yours,
Mr. and Mrs.

OHS literary team to compete in regional

The Ozona High School UIL literary team qualified eight students in eight events to compete at the regional meet April 13-14 in Odessa. The district meet was held here March 30-31.

Ozona's Gary Davis and Catressa Zak got the only first places in the contest with a top in Headline Writing for Davis and Type-writing for Zak. Davis placed second in Ready Writing.

Another Ozona student, Capp Couch, got a second place in Informative Speaking and Amy Scoggins placed third in Prose Interpretation.

Other OHS students placing were Jennifer Justiss, alternate in feature writing; Haley Anderson, alternate in editorial writing. Miss Justiss also got the alternate position in headline.

Katrina Burger placed as alternate in number sense and Peery Holmsley placed third in ready writing.

School board election is Saturday

Polls will open at 8 a.m. for the school board election Saturday, and close at 7 p.m. With only the two incumbents on the ballot, voting is expected to be light.

All voting will be conducted at the courthouse. Hank Sellers and Jeffrey Sutton are asking for additional 4 year terms.

OZONAN'S BROTHER DIES

Robert Saunders, brother of Mrs. Ivy Smith died at his home in Livingston, March 28. He was buried there Friday, March 30.

BETTY WARD AT 115 1/2 lbs.

I love tennis but was not able to play for years because I was so overweight and short of breath.

I was fat and forty, I was even fat and 30 but I will not be fat and 50, thanks to Pat Walker's!

With 50 just around the corner I now look and feel better and I do more now than I ever could in my fat 30s and 40s.

My inch loss has been tremendous! I've lost 6" in my arms, 10 inches in my waist, 8 1/2" in my abdomen, 6 1/2" in my hips and 11 1/2" in my thighs along with all the other inches for a total of 68". That is 5'8" of fat - over 6" more than my height!

We did it together! Thank you Pat Walker's.

FFA plant judging teams compete

Thursday, March 29, the Ozona FFA Range, Plant I.D. and Wool teams competed in Alpine at the Sul Ross Invitational Judging Contest. The Plant I.D. and Range teams placed fourth overall in each event.

J. R. Garcia received third high individual honors in range judging. Other members on the Plant I.D. and Range team included Capp Couch and Peggy Skains. In the wool judging division Ira Childress placed seventh high individual and George Guerra placed 11th high individual.

Laura Zuehlke of San Angelo was here last weekend visiting her sister, Janet Stuart.

Local 4-Hers compete in Dist. food show

Five local 4-Hers competed in the District 6 4-H Food Show, March 31, at the Odessa-Permian Mall. Susan Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lane Scott, took top honors in Senior Snacks and Desserts by placing third. The top three winners of each food category entered by 19 counties were recognized during the awards presentation.

Terrie Willmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Willmon, competed in Junior Breads and Cereals; Jason Montgomery, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Scottie Houston, competed in Junior Snacks and Desserts; Robin Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Myers, competed in Junior Fruits and Vegetables; and Trebie West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley West, competed in Junior Main Dish. Each of these junior competitors placed in the upper third of their food divisions.

Ozonans viewing the District Food Show included: Mr. and Mrs. Lane Scott, Mrs. Burl Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Scottie Houston, Mr. and Mrs. James Willmon, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley West, Tami West, Mrs. Clayton Robinson, Danette and Kelly Robinson, and Louis Hall.

Lions fail to place

In the San Angelo Relays held last weekend in San Angelo, the Lions did not win their division, but several members of the team placed in various events.

Robert Flores placed second in the 100-meter dash with the very good time of 10:97. Also a second place went to the 1600 meter relay team (Flores, M. Hernandez, Shannon Southern and David Delgado.) Flores also placed fourth in the 200 meter dash.

Others placing for the Lions were David Delgado, fourth in the 400-meter dash, and Marcelo Hernandez, fifth in the 800-meter run.

The team will be in Brady this weekend.

Another important fact to remember, when you place a classified ad and ask us to run it until you call to take it out, please call when you want it struck. Please don't call when you get a bill at the end of the month and tell us you sold that car last month. We are not mind readers.

We do close on Tuesday afternoon to get the paper out. If things continue like this past Tuesday, we will consider closing all day on Tuesday. We have considered charging 20% more for office supplies purchased on Tuesday, or give 20% off when purchased on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. I could go on forever, but am out of space.

Jr. High math and science teams compete

March 24, the Ozona Jr. High Math and Science Team traveled to Crane for a UIL Practice Meet. The team members were eighth graders, Bret Hood, Stan Winkley, Mark Sanchez, Scott Denman, Isabel Benitez, Todd Jones, Sylvia Flores, and seventh graders Travis Burks and Rita Rios.

Members competed against seven schools including Ft. Stockton and Monahans in the fields of Number Sense, Mathematics, and Science. Out of a field of 30.

Bret Hood placed second in Math and fourth in Number Sense. Stan Winkley took 7th in Math and 8th in Number Sense. Mark Sanchez placed 10th in Number Sense.

UIL District will come up April 28, and sponsors and students alike are optimistic that Ozona will make a good showing.

Gender changes in social security laws

Somewhat unnoticed in the public discussion over the broad changes made by the 1983 Social Security Amendments were a number of provisions which eliminated gender-based distinctions in the law. The provisions are considered relatively minor because relatively few people are affected and the cost is negligible.

Historically, the Social Security law treated men as workers and women as both workers and dependents. Changes made over the years reflect women's greater participation in the workforce. The new provisions sought to eliminate the remaining sex-based distinctions in the law and also conform the law to changes brought about by court decisions.

I believe it would be of interest to most readers to view the changes, if for no other reason than to become aware of some of the lesser known Social Security benefits. Briefly, the changes are:

Provide benefits for divorced husbands 62 or older and surviving divorced husbands 60 or older or 50-59, if disabled, based on their former wives' earnings records on the same basis as such benefits are available to women. The provision conforms the statute to court decisions under which benefits were already being paid.

Provide benefits to fathers who care for children under age 16 or disabled of their retired, disabled or deceased divorced wives on the same basis as such benefits are now paid to women. This provision also conforms the law to court decisions under which benefits are being paid.

Provides benefits for a widower who remarried before attaining age 60 but is unmarried at the time he

Library week observed

April 8 through April 14 is National Library Week. School librarians in the Ozona Public Schools are celebrating this week in a variety of ways.

Ozona High School librarian Sherry York has announced that there will be no fines for overdue books returned during this week. Free book bags or litter bags and bookmarks are being given to students who check out books.

The second annual Great Easter Egg contest for high school students started Monday and will continue through Wednesday, April 18, when the winner will be announced.

Donnie York, librarian at Ozona Junior High, is conducting a book fair. A wide selection of inexpensive paperback books will be available in the junior high library. Junior high students will have the opportunity to browse through the books and purchase any that they choose.

Mrs. Ellen Sewell, librarian at Ozona Intermediate School, coordinated a balloon launch with the fifth grade classes last week. The colorful balloons, bearing the message "Look to Your Library," were released with cheers from the students who observed. Also, many new books were on display in the library and all students were encouraged to check them out and to read them.

At Ozona Primary School, students will be receiving special library week bookmarks.

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
 DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

Another month has rolled around. It is good-bye March and hello April. We hope most everyone who helped with the Home of Heart fundraising has received their certificate and those who might have been overlooked will forgive us. That was our "biggie" for March but that is behind us and now there is much to do in April. So, if you have any volunteer time, please ask for the April calendar and tell us when you can help.

Clayton's Village Drug gave us our monthly treat last week. Those going out to receive their milkshake were Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramos, Virginia Russell, Alice Ross, Bertha Miller, Nina Mayfield, Pearl Morris, Maude Pettit, Inez Biggs, Billie Whatley, Minnie Karr, Johnny Henderson, and Paul Cavin along with volunteers Lola Rios, Myra Jones and Sammy Patino.

Ceramic class was led by Doris Karr this week. She also made a return trip to clean some pieces.

"Down Memory Lane" included a discussion on State parks from a book shared by Minnie Karr, "Ideals" shared by Helen Owensby, and the book "Fragile Moments" shared by Hilda Dysart.

It was a real treat when on Wednesday afternoon twenty-one seventh and eighth grade F.H.A. students, led by Kristi Copeland, came from Big Lake and gave a program, served fruit and cookies, and then did some good one to one visiting. Thanks for coming group!

Thursday morning Lola Rios was glad to have Glenda Henderson help her man the beauty shop.

Ted Turnley brought with him a guest speaker, complete with a slide presentation, for Bible study Thursday.

Spanish Hour of Praise found several volunteers giving a very lovely communion service in the day room.

Thursday night we were once again delighted to have the Beard Band from Big Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Smitty Smith all gave their usual fine performance.

Tuesday and Friday's bingo winners included: Maude Pettit, winner of the El Chato dinner for two certificate, Moriama Perez, winner of $5 donated by fifth Friday sponsor Perry Brothers, Ola Mills and Maggie Crawford, winners of Avon products donated by Anna Bell Patrick. Volunteers included Patrick, Sue Linthicum, Amalia Lumberas, Elodia Zapata, Mattie Cooper, Elisa Talamtez, and resident volunteers Alice Ross and Maude Pettit.

We had a real good residents council meeting on Friday afternoon. All the April calendar of events were previewed, how to decorate both the center and the Easter cards for our "adopted" grandchildren was decided as well as when to work on our Easter parade hats. Ola Mills submitted an idea for making special party favors and Minnie Karr volunteered to do a "Down Memory Lane" program on music. The arts and crafts fair on April 24 was discussed as well as planting some spring flowers. Residents present included: Tomasa Ramos, Bertha Miller, Minnie Karr, Hilda Dysart, Alice Ross, Billie Whatley, Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Moriama Perez, Juana Hernandez, Inez Biggs, and volunteers Jo Davidson and Lola Rios.

Special thanks goes to Maude Couch for sending a years subscription to "Guideposts," to Pat Wood for sharing yet another Afghan, and to the Faith Lutheran Church for sharing "Portals of Prayer."

Dominos were played by Maude Pettit, Ola Mills, Paul Cavin, Nina Mayfield, and Bertha Miller as well as guest Hillery Phillips.

Seven members of the United Methodist Church, led by Rev. Chuck Camp, led a meaningful worship service on Sunday which included songs, communion, and a devotional. The piano was played by Katherine Russell. Everyone enjoyed the service.

Thanks goes to Alice Ross and Billie Whatley for posting the April calendars in all the resident's rooms. They are great volunteers!

Volunteers, keep coming!

Coy Miles is campus favorite at Cisco Jr.

Coy Miles, a sophomore from Ozona, and Pam Lykins, a sophomore from Breckenridge, were recently selected Campus Favorites at Cisco Junior College. Coy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Miles and a graduate of Ozona High School. Pam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lykins and a graduate of Breckenridge High School. Runners-up were Jim Means, Abilene; John Blankenship, Sonora; Julia Florence, Blanket, and Eloise Torres, Cisco.

Get ready for roses this spring in Ozona

With a little "tender loving care," rose plants will provide plenty of beautiful blooms in Ozona yards during 1984.

Set out new varieties of bare-root plants no later than four weeks before the area's average last frost date. However, container plants can be set out at any time.

Prune roses in early spring, just as leaf buds begin to swell but before active growth starts. Because of the severe December freeze over Texas, pruning may have to be delayed until actual growth starts. Cut off all winter-killed growth and remove any broken or diseased canes.

Prune most bush roses to leave about five vigorous canes 18 to 24-inches tall. Hybrid tea varieties may be cut back one-fourth to produce an abundance of small blooms, one-half to produce a moderate number of medium-sized flowers, and three-fourths to provide a smaller number of exhibition-sized roses.

J. Harris attends convention

Jana Harris of Ozona was among the students from Western Texas College attending the national convention of Phi Theta Kappa held March 21-25 in Washington, D.C. Miss Harris also attended the PTK state convention in Austin March 1-4.

The WTC chapter of Phi Theta Kappa brought home a trio of honors. Phi Theta Kappa, founded in 1918, is the only nationally recognized honor fraternity for students in junior/community colleges. There are more than 700 chapters throughout the nation with more than 35,000 active members.

Doctors ask equal care for the poor

The poor should have access to the same medical services as other Texans, the president of the Texas Medical Association said recently in calling for a statewide approach to indigent health care.

"We believe that there should be one system of medical care for all persons," said Dr. Milton V. Davis, a Dallas surgeon. "To segregate the poor into a separate system would neither be good medicine nor social justice."

Davis and three other TMA officials presented the 23,000-member association's recommendations to the Task Force on Indigent Health Care on Feb. 23 in Austin. Also attending were Dr. Grover L. Bynum Jr. of Austin, Dr. Charles E. Gibbs of San Antonio, and Dr. Leonard M. Riggs Jr. of Dallas.

The 75-member task force was appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the Texas House to present a legislative package on indigent health care in 1985.

Davis said access to an adequate scope of quality medical services is uneven over the state and incomplete for many of the indigent. "In our judgment, a statewide approach is needed...the poor should be cared for within the mainstream of the delivery system."

He urged a reimbursement system that would "contribute to the payment of medical costs but will not purport to pay all of them." This plan should neither determine charges nor set "maximum allowable fees," Davis said. Instead, he proposed a schedule of set reimbursement amounts, leaving determination of the total fee to the patient and the doctor.

Noting that the Texas-Mexico border creates "special problems" in providing medical care, Davis suggested a joint task force between the two neighbors to address the situation.

Gibbs, chairman of TMA's Committee on Maternal and Child Health, said the association recommends that maternity care and the medical needs of indigent women, infants and adolescents be given high priority.

He noted that providing preventive care for pregnant mothers and newborns not only helps ensure normal deliveries and babies but also is much less expensive than the alternative of therapeutic, rehabilitative and custodial care.

Riggs, chairman of TMA's Committee on Emergency Medical Services and Trauma, noted that the indigent patient's most common access to health care is through the hospital emergency room. Because some hospitals do not have the capacity to treat certain illness or injuries, he urged the task force to deal with the problem of transferring indigents between medical facilities.

Bynum, chairman of TMA's Council on Socioeconomics, noted that the nine recommendations by TMA to the task force had been adopted as association policy.

Lowering cholesterol in body prevents heart disease

Since a recent national study proved that lowering cholesterol in the body prevents heart disease, many Americans may be asking: how do I do it?

A Baylor College of Medicine researcher says it's simple: avoid red meats, eggs, whole milk and cheeses high in fats; and, if cholesterol levels stay especially high after the diet, take a drug called cholestyramine.

William Insull, Jr., M.D.,

associate professor of medicine at Baylor, directed a program in Houston that was part of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) study, which found that a one percent drop of cholesterol in the blood causes a two percent drop in the chance of developing heart disease.

Americans can get this result, Insull said, if they eat more fruits, vegetables, lean meats and low-fat dairy foods.

He said many guides are available on cholesterol levels in different foods and on preparing low-cholesterol meals.

He also said that before starting such a diet, people should find out their cholesterol level by having an inexpensive blood test.

Results of the 10-year NIH study, which involved 3,806 men in North America who had high cholesterol levels, were announced Jan. 12. The men were all kept on a low-cholesterol diet. Half were also given cholestyramine, a cholesterol-lowering drug that has been on the market for 10 years. The men who received the drug had a 19 percent reduction in heart disease compared to those who did not get the medication. While the drug is expensive—about $150 a month—it is effective.

"What we determined," Insull said of the study, "is that if many Americans reduced their cholesterol intake by 25 percent, we would expect a 50 percent reduction in their chance of having heart disease."

Cholesterol is a wax-like chemical made by the liver. Adults don't need all of the cholesterol in many foods, and the excess can result in blocked arteries that lead to heart attacks and strokes.

Cholesterol is measured in milligrams (.00004 ounce) per deciliter (3.4 ounces) of blood. The average American has 220 milligrams of cholesterol per deciliter of blood.

"The amount Americans should strive for is 180 milligrams per deciliter, which is the average for the Japanese, who have a low risk of developing heart disease," Insull said.

He has these suggestions for lowering cholesterol in the diet:

--Reduce total fats and especially saturated fats, which raise blood cholesterol levels and are highest in red meats and whole dairy products.

--Substitute polyunsaturated fats, which lower cholesterol levels and are found in many vegetable oils.

--Avoid foods naturally high cholesterol, which besides red meats and dairy products, includes organ meats such as liver and sweetbreads, eggs, high-fat baked goods, sweets, fried foods and cream sauces.

Several cookbooks feature low-fat, low-cholesterol recipes. Information on lowering cholesterol in the diet is also available from the American Heart Association.

MAKE RAIN DAYS SHINE

While April showers may bring May flowers, for kids those showers can mean boredom. Spring is the time they want to be out-of-doors. But all too often, wet weather interrupts plans.

To brighten their days, tuck away some inexpensive surprises. Maybe new clay or a new coloring book. A new crossword puzzle book or card game. And to make it even more exciting, bake up a homemade treat.

These fruit-filled Blueberry-Banana Muffins are sure to please kids. And who could resist the chocolaty goodness of these Brownie Meltaways? With a new game and a special treat, kids will be wearing big smiles even on the wettest spring afternoon.

BLUEBERRY-BANANA MUFFINS

- 1 package Betty Crocker wild blueberry muffin mix
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup mashed ripe banana (about 1 medium)
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Heat oven to 400°. Grease bottoms of about 12 medium muffin cups, 2-1/2 x 1-1/4 inches, or use paper baking cups. Drain blueberries; rinse and set aside. Blend egg and milk with fork; stir in banana. Stir in muffin mix just until moistened. (Batter will be lumpy.) Fold blueberries into batter. Fill muffin cups 1/2 full. Mix remaining

BROWNIE MELTAWAYS

- 1 package (21.5 ounces) Betty Crocker fudge brownie mix
- 1/2 cup flaked coconut
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 3 cups powdered sugar
- 1/3 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

About 2 tablespoons milk
2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
2 teaspoons margarine or butter

Heat oven to 350°. Prepare brownies as directed on package except—stir coconut and nuts into dough. Bake as directed; cool.

Mix powdered sugar, 1/3 cup margarine and the vanilla. Stir in milk, 1 teaspoon at a time, until spreading consistency; spread over brownies. Refrigerate until topping is firm, about 30 minutes. Heat chocolate and 2 teaspoons margarine until melted. Drizzle evenly over topping; spread evenly. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm, about 15 minutes. Cut as directed on package. Store in refrigerator.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Stir 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour into brownie mix (dry).

The Scientists Tell Me...

Texans Concerned About Effects Of Developing Natural Resources

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Texans are concerned about the environment but have mixed opinions about the economic and social effects from developing the State's natural resources, according to a survey by researchers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University.

Changes must be reported

People in the San Angelo area who receive supplemental security income (SSI) checks should know that they must report changes in their situation that can affect the amount of their check, Frank Upp, Social Security Manager in San Angelo, said recently.

Failure to report a change can cause an overpayment which must be repaid or may cause the person to miss out on money he or she could get, Upp said.

A change should be reported within 10 days after the month it happened. People should report:

- Starting, or any change in checking or savings account, a Christmas club, certificates of deposit, or money set aside for burial.
- If their name is on a joint bank account with someone else, even if the person getting SSI does not use the account. Also report any change in this account.
- Any change in earnings from a job.
- Any change in any other income.
- If a person gets help with living expenses.
- If a person enters or leaves an institution.
- Any change in address.
- If the person leaves the U.S.
- If someone moves into or out of the person's house, or a baby is born, or someone dies.
- If the person buys or sells real estate or personal property.
- Marriage or divorce.
- A disabled or blind person's condition improves.

Changes can be reported by telephone, in writing, or in person. The San Angelo Social Security Office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way, and the telephone number is 949-7426

Charitable deductions allowed

Last year nationwide, about 20.8 million or 22 percent of the total, federal income tax returns were filed by taxpayers who took advantage of a new law which allowed them to deduct a portion of their charitable contributions without itemizing their deductions, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

On the 1983 form, taxpayers will again be able to take advantage of the law which allows them to take 25 percent of their first $100 in contributions, or a maximum of $25, without itemizing deductions.

State's natural resources, according to a survey by researchers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University.

Texas has been a national leader in developing its extensive natural resources and as a result has experienced rapid economic and population growth, during the last decade.

Because of the importance of natural resources for the State's continued prosperity, this survey asked the general public a series of questions about the state's natural resources and the effects their development might be having on communities and their environment.

When asked about several potential problems in the State, a majority of the public considered industrial disposal of chemical waste (62%), loss of Texas farmland to residential developments (58%), loss of wildlife habitat (54%), city growth (51%) and pollution of underground water (50%) to be moderate or serious problems, according to Drs. John K. Thomas and Don E. Albrecht, TAES research scientists, who were involved in this study of Texans' concerns and attitudes.

Respondents were also asked if they had observed any particular environmental problems in the counties where they lived. Although most people said they had not, 43 percent had observed industrial air pollution; 38 percent had noticed polluted streams, lakes, or rivers; but only 23 percent reported observing unsuitable drinking water.

While many thought chemical waste disposal was a major problem in Texas, less than a quarter of the respondents had seen chemical waste dumping sites in their counties.

Finally, in response to a question regarding soil erosion on farms, 29 percent said it was occurring in their counties. Thus, while most Texans perceived the existence of several environmental problems, the majority thought these were problems mainly in areas outside their home counties.

It's recognized that the development of Texas' natural resources, particularly energy and land related resources, has played an important part in the State's growth and that continued development of our resources will have both advantages and disadvantages.

In this survey of the Texas Public, researchers asked respondents to consider whether or not they would favor development of our natural resources when given both a benefit and a possible disadvantage of doing so. Responses favoring and opposing development were generally mixed.

The public was almost equally divided in its support when more businesses would be established and local roads improved versus those opposing development, if it also meant a higher cost of living and more traffic.

Concern for the environment surfaced again as 63 percent of those surveyed said they opposed natural resource development where it would pollute air and water, despite its creation of more jobs and businesses.

If development created better community services but also led to higher taxes to pay for such services, 47 percent favored it compared to 38 percent who opposed.

Finally, almost half of those responding opposed (vs. 36% favored, 15% undecided) development, if population growth caused changes in their community's way of life. This was particularly evident when 81 percent said they opposed the growth if it meant more crime and delinquency.

"Overall, the Texas public seemed to take a cautious position regarding natural resource development and its possible environmental and social consequences for their communities," concluded Thomas and Albrecht.

Migraines are still a puzzle for physicians

Migraine headaches have been immortalized in television commercials showing an anguished face with lightning bolts radiating from a pounding head.

Unfortunately that picture often becomes reality for many people between ages 10 and 30, when migraines commonly begin, according to the Texas Medical Association. These periodic headaches are accompanied by other symptoms such as nausea and vision problems, and all of this can incapacitate a person temporarily.

First attacks rarely occur after age 40, and in some cases migraines will end when middle age begins. More women than men have them.

Despite extensive research, no one knows exactly why certain people get this disorder or what triggers it, but some factors are commonly present. Migraines run in families in over half of the cases, suggesting a possible genetic connection.

In addition, attacks can result from foods and beverages such as cheese, chocolate, red wine, and coffee. The recurring headaches also can be related to menstruation, birth-control pills, stress, the anticipation of relief following stress, or psychological problems. Then again, none of these may be involved.

Whatever these triggering factors are, they somehow affect the arteries leading to the brain. The arteries first become smaller and then swell, which disrupts blood flow.

Warning signs of an approaching migraine can include unusual tiredness, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and visual distortion in one eye. Bright lights may become intolerable.

These signs tend to disappear in several minutes or hours, when the throbbing headache arrives. It also can include bloodshot eyes, a pale appearance, numbness or tingling in an arm or the side, dizziness, ringing ears, and temporary mental confusion. When and how long these attacks occur varies, but they can be predicted based on past experience.

Quick action when warning signs appear can prevent a migraine. Splashing water on one's face, taking two aspirin, and lying down in a dark room for two or three hours can be effective. The person should relax, not worry about the migraine, and avoid reading.

Migraines cannot be cured, but a doctor can prescribe drugs for relief. In severe cases, the relaxation therapy called biofeedback is often used.

Childhood poisonings continue to increase

Your child comes running to you coughing and spitting a red, cherry-smelling liquid out of his mouth—he has been under the kitchen sink—and has gotten into the scented lamp oil. What do you do? "This type of call comes to us daily," said Michael Ellis, Director of the Texas State Poison Center. "And some of these cases can lead to fatalities. This lamp oil looks like strawberry soda, smells good, and if swallowed and gotten into the lungs can cause disastrous results. Products like liquid furniture polish, kerosene, gasoline, and lighter fluid—are all derived from petroleum. As little as a few drops, gotten into the lungs, can cause the child to suffocate because he can't get oxygen through the oil coating," noted Ellis.

During 1983 over 29,000 poisoning cases were handled by the Texas State Poison Center—over 25,000 of them involving children under the age of 5 years. "Prescription and over-the-counter medicines, plants, perfumes, and petroleum products—make up about 60% of the poisoning cases handled by the Poison Center," Ellis stated, "that is why it is so important that adults use and store household products and medicines very carefully."

March 18-24 is National Poison Prevention Week, and provides an excellent opportunity for parents, grandparents, and everyone who has small children in the house to survey their surroundings and see that potential poisons are stored carefully. "The common practice of storing cleaning and polishing agents under the sink and keeping medications in medicine cabinets with sliding doors—begs for problems," commented Ellis. "cleaning products and medicines should be stored on high shelves and out of sight."

But even the most careful parents can still run into poisoning problems. "Children have nothing but time, and are quite inventive when it comes to getting into things," Ellis noted, "the vast majority of these emergencies can be handled at home, but some do require medical attention." Should a poisoning emergency occur, call the Texas State Poison Center at (409)765-1420. Remember—children act fast—so do poisons.

Some facts on poisonings are:

There are some 150,000 poisonings that occur each year in Texas. 75-85% of all poisoning episodes occur in children under 5 years old. The Texas State Poison Center handled 29,109 poisoning emergencies during 1983. And answered some 19,000 general information inquiries. Nearly 10% of the ingestions by children—involved their eating household and garden plants. Medicines are involved in poisoning episodes some 40% of the time.

Even if you do not live with small children—you should store cleaning products and medications safely—because small children visit everyone.

Syrup of ipecac, a substance for inducing vomiting, should be in every home where small children live or visit. It should never be given before calling the Poison Center or your family physician.

Never take medicine in the presence of small children because they like to imitate adults.

392-5000

Gardeners, beware of springtime propaganda

Homeowners and gardeners should prepare for a deluge of springtime propaganda.

Every spring brings ads depicting fabulous plants of untold beauty and rapid growth, miracle topsoils or magic growth-promoting substances, and the wondrous potential of rather common and nondescript plants, bulbs and seeds.

"Untold thousands are being gyped out of millions of dollars annually by these shysters with their nationwide advertisements," says Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"By its very nature, the nursery industry often provides an open invitation to the unscrupulous," Janne says.

"And, after a particularly severe winter such as we have had this year, people are anxious to repair the damaged landscapes, making them even more susceptible to promoters with hit-and-run items or services."

While the majority of nurserymen and garden center operators are honest, reliable businessmen who give full value for money received, there are always a few who are out for a fast buck, Janne says. To help separate the legitimate businessman from the fast-buck artist, the horticulturist offers these suggestions:

Give consideration to local businessmen who have a reputation to uphold and have addresses you can control operators as well as those installing landscape materials or doing landscape maintenance.

Never pay cash in advance; pay only when the job is completed to your satisfaction.

Be skeptical of ads that make extravagant claims of plant materials. Such words as "amazing," "gigantic," "spectacular," "new scientific development," "prize blooms" and "free" are often used to hook the unsuspecting reader.

Get a good reference book on cultivated plants so that you can look up the real meaning of Latin names frequently printed in small type. That exotic bloom or fast-growing tree may actually be a common variety flower or a weed-type tree.

Read the fine print in mail order brochures and catalogs, especially if you have never ordered from the companies before. Often the small size of the plant is a reason why the price looks so attractive. You may want to check with the local nurseryman for the price on a similar item before you put your check in the mail.

"Always be skeptical of anything that seems too good to be true," says Janne. "Usually you will find that it isn't true."

Withholding on pension income

The Internal Revenue Service notes that last year more than 166,000 federal income tax returns were filed by north Texas area taxpayers claiming pension and annuity income. The tax agency reminds these pensioners of changes in withholding rules for pension income that went into effect in 1983.

Payers of pensions are now required to withhold tax on all pension income unless the recipient tells them not to do so. The payer is required to notify all pension recipients of this option. Whether or not the pensioner chooses withholding, the payer must provide a statement to both the IRS and the recipient telling them how much was paid during the year.

Form W-4P is used to request nonwithholding or to tell the payer how many withholding exemptions are claimed. Pensioners can request Form W-4P from the payer or the IRS. When pensioners do not provide a W-4P to the payer, the payer will automatically treat the recipient as married claiming three exemptions.

The IRS points out that there are three separate rules for withholding on "lump sum" pension payments. For more information about the lump sum rules or pension withholdings in general, contact the payer or call the IRS Federal Tax Information number listed in the phone book.

Spring fling camps for elderly

Older Texans looking for a change of pace can take a three-day "Spring Fling" this year to stretch their minds and their dollars.

Each spring, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service sponsors a three-day camp filled with activities and learning opportunities for people over 55.

The cost, including lodging and meals, is $69.50 for each camper.

Camping sessions will be held April 10-13, 17-20, 24-27, May 1-4 and 8-11 at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood in Brownwood, Texas where campers can enjoy natural surroundings with all the modern conveniences. Each camp is limited to 100 participants.

Campers will have the opportunity to hear feature presentations on gardening, lamb cuts and cookery, health in the later years, estate planning and improving your memory.

At camp "learning centers" participants can learn how to do miniature oil painting, stained glass and woodworking through "hands-on" experiences. Some of the camp sessions will offer additional learning centers on wind chimes, chair-caning, homemade games and picture framing.

Card and table games, tennis, horseshoes and volleyball will be available at all times. Campers will also enjoy social activities such as sing-alongs and dances, omelets by the lake and a 1908 box social.

For more information or registration details, contact your county Extension office.
