We goofed! Last week we had the wrong dates for baccalaureate and graduation. I looked at next year's school calendar instead of the current one. Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday, May 13, and graduation exercises will be held Friday, May 18. We regret this error, but we get so little high school news these days it is a small wonder. It was like pulling teeth to get a list of the graduates, which we got at noon Tuesday and will publish along with pictures of the graduates in next week's paper.

We usually get a full schedule of graduation activities which enables us to give an accurate reporting long before that momentous occasion, but we did not this year.

This has been an unusually hard week to gather the news. I did manage to find that baccalaureate services for the 58 seniors will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. at the high school auditorium. Fr. Richard Altenbaugh will give the benediction, Rev. Nelson Lanham, the sermon and Ralph Anderson the invocation.

There were a lot of disgruntled democrats Saturday. They felt they should have been allowed to vote for their presidential nominee in the primary instead of returning to their polling place to caucus.

That would seem to be the democratic thing to do. I heard so much about it, I contacted Steve Kenley, democratic county chairman. Steve had called headquarters in Austin, and was told the caucus system had been in effect since 1846, and only in recent years have the presidential nominees appeared on the primary ballot. The explanation I got is just too complicated for me to comprehend and I certainly can't explain it to our readers. Maybe someone who caucused Saturday night can enlighten me. I've heard about caucuses in smoke-filled rooms, but I have never taken part in one. I did notice that President Reagan's name was on the Republican ballot, along with several places to write-in and one "uncommitted". I don't know if the Republicans are supposed to caucus. Looking back over this, it is quite clear that I know very little about the election process. I am going to brush up on this complicated subject.

Genice Childress has asked us to remind the community of the Veterans Exhibit at the museum to honor Crockett County veterans. So far, 185 pictures of veterans have been collected and May 5, is the deadline to turn in pictures. The pictures will be reproduced and used in the exhibit which is due to open the last part of this month.

Also, I need to remind television cable users they will have no service between the hours of 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. Thursday and Friday. Some equipment needs replacing and it is necessary to turn the cable system off to do this. Oscar Kost gave me this information in more technical electronic terms, but I think this will suffice. He chose those hours in order not to interfere with anyone's soap opera.

Health Fair exhibit

Elliott Barrera and Dorris Haire show off emergency fire equipment during the health fair held here last week.

Equipment shown is the property of the Ozona Volunteer Fire Department. Haire is Fire Chief.

Large turnout of local voters in Sat. election

Over 1000 voters cast ballots Saturday in the Democratic primary. The Republican primary drew 12 voters. Crockett County democratic voters went along with the rest of the state in giving Kent Hance the nod for U.S. Senator, the post being vacated by Senator John Tower. Hance polled 448 votes here to Bob Krueger's 352. Lloyd Doggett, who will be in the June 2 run-off election with Hance, only polled 64 votes in this county. Phil Gramm lead the Republican race with 9 votes. The winner of the Democratic run-off election will face Gramm in the general election in November.

In an upset J. W. Johnson Jr. of Sonora beat Bill Mason for District Attorney, 112th District. Johnson carried all five counties in the sprawling 112th district. The vote here was 533 for Johnson and 491 for Mason.

Both county commissioners were returned to office. Sostenes DeHoyos, commissioner in precinct 1, beat his opponent, Fernando Garza 204 to 123. Jack Williams, commissioner in precinct 3, polled 199 votes to 154 for his opponent, Jack Bailey. De Hoyos will have an opponent in November for the post. Jesse Marley ran unopposed for the post in the Republican primary and will be on the ballot in the general election in November. Williams has no opponent in November.

The only other locally contested race was that of county and district clerk. In what was expected to be a close race, Debbi Puckett, beat her opponent, Jean North, by a large margin. Puckett polled 773 votes to 277 for North.

There were no contested races in the Republican primary, except that of U.S. Senator.

Running unopposed in the Democratic primary were County Judge A. O. Fields,

Men compete in Laredo relays

Only 2 people were able to travel to Laredo for the Laredo Sun Relays, the beginning of several masters track meets held in Texas. Even though it was 108° Saturday, several records were broken. All divisions had very stiff competition. The age divisions were Division I, 18-22; Division II, 23-29; Division III, 30-39; Division IV, 40-49; Division V, 50-59; Division VI, 60 and up.

Danny Sewell of Ozona set an overall record in pole vault at 13'0" breaking the old record by 1 ft. He also won first places in his age division (23-29) in the 60 yard hurdles, 7.1 seconds; first in the 50 yard dash at 5.5 seconds; first in the 100 meter dash at 11.3 seconds, and first in the long jump at 21 ft. 4 1/2 inches which was short 1 inch of the new overall record set that day by a young high school athlete from Nuevo Laredo.

Bobby Aycock (in Division IV) entered 6 events with a third place in the shot put with a throw of 33 feet 10 inches; a third in the discus with 91 ft. 5 inches; second place in the 60 yard hurdles with 8.5 seconds, and a second in the long jump of 17 feet 2 inches; two fifth places, one in the hundred meters with 12.4 seconds and a 6.1 second in the 50 yard dash.

Danny Sewell won the trophy for high point man in his age division.

The Laredo Sun Relays was a warm up meet for the West Texas Masters Track Meet to be held here in Ozona July 14, 1984. The 1983 meet had over 160 participants, the largest meet in Texas that year. This July officials are expecting a larger meet with more local participation. There will be 10 divisions for men and 3 for women with first, second and third place medals given in all events in all divisions. This year the West Texas Masters will feature a 10 kilometer cross country run for men and women. Also a handsome team trophy will be given to the team scoring the most points in this meet.

Annual History Fair held

The twelfth annual Texas History Fair was held Friday, May 4, at the Ozona Junior High School. Seventh grade students of Sherry Scott presented their end-of-the-year projects.

Some of the exhibits this year included a Tribute to Texas Ranger Clay Bednar, a model of Judge Roy Bean's saloon, display of antique telephones, a miniature adobe house, a miniature of the Alamo, wooden covered wagon, model of the Gonzales cannon, a display telling about the last Indian battle in Texas, models of the Crockett County courtroom, courthouse, and roping arena, and a replica of Memorial Stadium in Austin.

Other projects too numerous to mention made up the sixty exhibits. Approximately 450 people viewed the fair throughout the day.

Sims to visit Care Center

Elvira Caldwell, Administrator of Crockett County Care Center is pleased to announce that word has been received from State Senator Bill Sims he will attend Open House at the Care Center Saturday, May 19, from 2 to 4 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Golfers in regional meet

The Ozona High School golf team failed to qualify for the state tournament after finishing in ninth place at the regional tournament held last week in Midland.

Diron Holt tied for eighth place medalist in the regional meet.

Health Roundup is great success

The May 2 Health Roundup was a great success with 394 attending. The Texas Department of Health Nurses were busy all day screening and counseling individuals about anemia, diabetes, skin abnormalities, and cancer precautions. Jonsey Williams and Emergency Medical Technicians were present all day to take blood pressures, while Dr. Sessom checked teeth during the latter part of the afternoon. Larry Clontz, Bel Tone Hearing specialist gave numerous hearing tests during the day. Dub O'Bryant and other Emergency Medical Technicians demonstrated artificial respiration, and safety procedures while Doris Haire and local firemen attracted much attention with their emergency and fire equipment.

Representatives from the San Angelo Crime Prevention division displayed drugs and answered numerous questions about drug abuse. Participants could view the drug abuse movie "Epidemic" and have convenient access to the West Texas Utilities "Nutritional Snacks" exhibit.

High school students were available during the day to assist with computer exhibit. Programs available included: fitness, nutrient analysis, and sugar intake. The Myrtle Post Garden Club had an excellent display of poisonous plants which almost everyone has in their yards, houses or gardens. Also, the American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, Helping Hands, and Planned Parent Organizations had excellent exhibits about their services for the community. All of the organizations and individuals assisting during Health Roundup deserve special appreciation for contributing one day of their time towards health improvement for the Ozona community.

AUSTIN—Last week, as the primary election neared the first "cull," other business at the State Capitol took a back seat.

Political watchers predicted a low voter turnout, and the large percentage of uncommitted voters had professional pollsters in fits. In both parties, the outcomes of several races depended on the voters who hadn't yet made up their minds . . . who, in fact, just might stay away from the balloting on Election Day.

Some speculation had it that the Republican Party might attract more voters than usual, moving towards primary strength parity in a Democrat-dominated state.

While Republican campaigning remained low-key, Democrats fired salvos at one another, even raising publicly the dangerous question of whether its party delegate selection method was fair.

Some rank and file Democrats were surprised to find the names of the Democrats running for president were not on the ballot. To make their voices heard for that race, they had to attend their precinct conventions the evening of Election Day.

Criticism, Defense
The situation brought a burst of criticism from Democratic Gov. Mark White and a protest of defense from Texas party chairman Bob Slagle.

White believes the precinct caucus method is outdated and a burden on average voters. He urged a switch to the primary method, where delegates are elected on the party's primary ballot.

Slagle defended the process as fair, and said it was actually set into motion 18 months ago before anyone knew who the challengers would be.

The precinct caucus, Slagle explained, ensures as much as possible that those taking part are party loyalists. It is a protection against cross-over voting by Republicans who vote in the spring Democratic primary, then vote straight Republican in the fall general election.

But White said the system not only discriminates against the poor and elderly, but against "rich and busy people" as well.

Limited Contributions?
Another item of legislation which will probably appear in the next regular legislative session is a bill to limit the amount which political action committees—"pacs"—may contribute to candidates for state offices.

The director of Common Cause, John Hildreth, reported that 73 percent of the over $5 million in 1983 contributions in Texas came from pacs and a few wealthy persons.

He intends to revive his bill killed last year which would limit donations to $2,000 from pacs and $1,000 from individuals to a candidate. Federal law places ceilings of $5,000 and $1,000 on donations to national races.

Economic Signs

Several polls and studies on various economic factors reported their Texas findings last week.

A survey of 250 Houston-area bankers showed most of them expect the prime rate will rise to between 12 and 13 percent by late 1984. Home mortgage rates, most said, would remain in the 13 to 14 percent range.

Texas was predicted to be among the nation's top states in home building activity this year, according to a New York bank's economists.

Texas now ranks number one in production and sale of manufactured housing, about 14 percent of the nation's sales.

Industry leaders credited government codes and approval with lending institutions as the key advantages here.

According to the Commerce Department, Texas is among those states with the smallest percentage gains in per capita income, ranking 17th overall. Decline in oil drilling was a major factor.

More Taxes?

Capitol observers are predicting June 4 as the date the governor will call legislators into a special session to raise taxes for teacher salaries.

Meanwhile, Comptroller Bob Bullock said the tax bill would be "only a dress rehearsal for the grand finale" next January when lawmakers meet again in regular session, possibly to raise $2 billion more.

Bullock noted that months ago he estimated the state surplus would be a mere $15 million at the end of the fiscal year, and that, so far, his estimate is only .4 percent off.

AG Rulings

In official opinions issued last week, Attorney General Jim Mattox ruled: —Gregg County commissioners may set the amount of travel expense, so long as it applies to county business.

—A community college may set up a "cafeteria plan" for employee insurance and fringe benefits.

WHO REALLY PAYS TAXES?

By Edwin Feulner

With April behind us, the IRS is sorting through the last of the estimated 96-million income tax returns Americans filed for 1983. The take for the U.S. treasury is an estimated $300 billion — hardly what you'd call pocket change.

And contrary to what the liberal champions of the "oppressed" repeatedly tell us, the wealthy — with all their so-called tax avoidance schemes — were stuck with the lion's share of the tax bill.

Recent analyses by U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT and Boston economic analyst Warren Brookes show that the relatively few wealthy people in the United States pay the bulk of all taxes — both as a percentage of income and in real dollars. And, Brookes has shown, cuts in the tax rate actually increase the amount paid by those in the upper-income brackets.

For instance, last year, some 1.5-million taxpayers who earned over $75,000 filed tax returns for 1982. Yet, those 1.5-million taxpayers paid 23 percent of the total revenue collected by the IRS. In the middle-income brackets, those earning $20,000 to $75,000, 34-million taxpayers, paid 62 percent of the revenue collected.

The dollar figures are even more revealing. In real terms, the one-and-a-half million upper-income taxpayers paid $63.8 billion in taxes. The approximately 59-million taxpayers earning less than $20,000 a year, on the other hand, paid less than $42 billion in taxes. Moreover, the roughly 8,200 millionaires who filed in 1983 handed over as much to the feds as did the 34-million wage earners who earned less than $10,000. Is that catering to the rich?

The effective tax rates for those returns filed in 1983 show that those earning over $1 million gave up, on the average, almost 40 percent of their income to the tax man, despite the "tax schemes" that we have been led to believe enable the wealthy to get away without paying any taxes. A person who made $20,000 to $25,000 gave the federal treasury 12.3 percent of his or her income. Some would argue that since a millionaire makes 50 times more than a $20,000 wage earner, he should pay 50 times more in taxes. But if that were the case you'd find yourself living in a country where no one has any reason to work any harder or take any more chances than the next fellow. Why would anyone bother?

Tax-and-spend liberals like to cite data showing that the U.S. has the second lowest tax rate of any industrial nation in the world, second only to Japan. With a 31-percent average tax burden (as a share of total domestic output), the U.S. looks pretty attractive to those paying 44 percent in France, 40 percent in Britain, and 37 percent in West Germany.

Unfortunately, these figures only take federal taxes into consideration. When one includes city, county, and state income taxes, as well as sales and excise taxes, we find that U.S. working people face one of the highest tax-burdens in the world. And the wealthier one is the more one pays.

Those self-proclaimed "champions of the poor" had better do their homework before they get on the "sock it to the rich" bandwagon. They obviously don't know what they're talking about.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Recently, my husband and I went to a major department store and purchased some clothing . . . two suits, in fact . . . a suit for him and a suit for me. Both suits, quite naturally, needed some alterations. However, alterations on his suit were free, while I was charged a fee for alteration on mine! Isn't this blatant sex discrimination?

A: I understand your dismay, but the difference is not actionable as a discrimination. The store instead practices "variable pricing", building into the price of a garment the alteration cost — or not including it in the price — but the difference applies whether a man or a woman actually buys the garment. A charge of sex discriminatory practice based on sex cannot be brought here; the price affects the buyer of either sex.

Q: I applied for a loan recently and since all the credit I have was in my husband's name, the bank said I would have to have a co-signer unless I wanted it to be a joint loan with my husband. Otherwise, they would not give me a loan on my own name. Is this legal?

A: The bank must look at your assets, your ability to re-pay, before they can lend money. If most family money is made and controlled by your husband and spent or invested in exempt property (such as your home), the Bank would have nothing to collect on in case you default. Your husband's agreement to repay — that is, his "name on the loan" — gives the Bank his separate property and the half of community he controls to look to for repayment. Alternatively, another person's signature would bring his assets in reach of the lender.

Q: Recently, my husband and I were refused admission to a restaurant and bar because our children, who were with us, were under 19. I have always thought that minor children could enter an establishment serving alcoholic beverages if they were accompanied by their own parent. Am I wrong?

A: No, you were correct. A child under 19 may enter an establishment serving liquor, beer, or wine if he is accompanied by his adult parent. The law even permits a minor to consume alcohol if the adult parent, guardian, or spouse observes.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

S. Security beneficiaries to receive increase

Starting in 1985, the recent Social Security Amendments change the method under which cost-of-living increases for Social Security beneficiaries will be computed.

Under the old law, increases were tied to increases in the Consumer Price Index (CPI). Whenever the CPI monthly average for the first 3 months of a year exceeded the CPI monthly average for the first 3 months of the previous year by at least 3 percent, benefits were increased to reflect that change. Since prices rose faster than average wages, benefits increased faster than did the Social Security taxes being collected. This resulted in a serious drain on the Social Security trust funds.

Under the new law, future increases will be computed on the basis of the smaller of two items:

The increase in the CPI, or Average wages when the assets in the Social Security (OASDI) trust funds are less than a given percentage of estimated benefit payments for the year.

This percentage is 15 percent for increases payable from January 1985 through 1989, and 20 percent for increases payable January 1990 and later.

The new legislation also provides a way to help make up for any increases that were based on wage increases. When the trust fund ratio reaches 32 percent, any funds available above the 32 percent ratio will be used to provide additional benefit increases.

This provision serves to protect the trust funds without unnecessarily penalizing beneficiaries.

Tips for Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

After several drives with friends over our city, we have commented about the beautiful roses blooming in almost every yard. Some had very little care, but still covered in blooms. Don't forget after the climbing once a year bloomer, to do any necessary pruning of too many or dead stems on the plant.

Pinch back annuals to stop terminal growth, making bushier plants and encourage formation of more flower heads. This also extends the flowering period.

Coleus is one of the favorite foliage plants grown for their colorful leaves. Pinching out the bloom spike just above the first two leaves promotes stockiness and prevents the plant from going to seed.

Annuals that respond to pinching back tips are, petunia, zinnia, colendula, phlox, pinks, snapdragons, verbena and ageratum. Don't pinch back main stem of cockscomb, poppy or strawflower. Seedling dahlias, may be pinched back until August first to induce fall blooming.

I notice a new flower to me, that grows well in full sun and hot, dry conditions, called Treasure flower (Gazania rigens). It looks something like the daisy. Sow the seeds outdoors where you want them to grow in a sunny, well-prepared bed. Make sure you lightly cover the seeds with soil and keep the seedbed moist. Germination should occur in about two weeks. When two leaves appear, thin seedlings to 8 inches apart. Care for them as you would other annuals.

Perhaps you would like to grow some old fashioned plants, the perennial pinks. They are actually small, hardy cousins of the carnation. You can tell by the fragrance and delicate petals. They are smaller and maybe either single or double. A few will grow into a carpet of foliage for the front edges of a flower border or in a window box where they can fall over the edge. They prefer a sunny, well-drained location and grow until dry August weather. Most seeds will produce several colors of flowers as well as both single and double types. Propagate the ones you like best.

NEW ARRIVAL MOTHER

The arrival of a baby is a miracle—it is creation! Birth brings into the world a new personality, alive with the promise for a full and useful life. Babies! Each one is unique! Each one is divinely different! Even identical twins have different personalities, despite their same physical looks. Yet each mother is also unique in her own special way.

The same infinite power that provides the spark of life for a new child also created you. Like every baby who grows into an adult, you too have the stamp of your own individuality. There is nobody else in the world quite like Mom.

In fact, you yourself are a walking, breathing miracle. And every day an all-wise and loving Heavenly Father brings you yet another great and unique miracle... a fresh, new, untouched day.

God's Church stands ready and anxious to help you begin these days with new hope—new promise.

This week, lets all of us pay homage to our mothers. Attend the church or synagogue of your choice.

Marilyn Haggard, Foods and Nutrition Specialist of College Station, will be presenting two programs, Monday, May 14, 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. at the Crockett County National Bank Community Room. In each program she will concentrate on fad dieting, weight control and exercise.

Many myths, fallacies and misconceptions concerning the processing, preparations, storage, and value of various foods exist. The various myths related to food have many origins; folk medicine gave value to certain foods and many of the handling and preparation methods used prior to modern techniques. Today's consumer is interested in nutrition and safety aspects of food handling, preparation and processing. The following are brief answers to commonly asked questions.

Are foods made with mayonnaise or salad dressing more likely to cause food poisoning than those made without?

Not necessarily. Because mayonnaise is an acid food, it will not support the growth of food poisoning bacteria. Problems with foods made with mayonnaise or salad dressings are probably caused by other ingredients, preparation or handling. Salads normally using mayonnaise or salad dressing may also contain ingredients subject to contamination, such as chopped meat, meat products, eggs, potatoes, raw vegetables or spices. Proper food handling of these products reduces the possibility of food poisoning.

Can certain foods prevent, cure, relieve or treat certain diseases or symptoms?

No single food is a cure-all for the many causes of disease, nor does any single food prevent disease. When food is a factor in treatment, it is only a part of the total strategy. A balanced diet is one of the most important factors in maintaining your health. Eat a variety of foods from the major food groups (meats, poultry and fish products, dairy products, cereal products, and fruits and vegetables).

Are our daily diets lacking nutrients because many foods undergo prolonged storage, transportation, processing and cooking?

No. Refrigeration, rapid shipment and modern storage and processing methods protect the nutritional quality of foods and make it possible to have a wide variety of food throughout the U.S. year-round. In cooking, some nutrients may be lost, but these losses are generally minimized by using proper times and temperatures. These losses are not sufficient to affect the quality of the daily diet.

Is cheese safe to eat if it becomes moldy?

Cheese often develops mold in a home refrigerator after the cheese has been opened. Some molds can produce aflatoxins which are carcinogenic and hallucinogenic. Most of the molds that grow on cheese in the refrigerator do not produce aflatoxins. Remove mold from cheese by slicing at least 1/4" off the surface of the cheese where the mold has grown. Cheeses such as Camembert, Brie, and blue cheese are made using a mold, and these molds can be eaten.

Are fertile eggs more nutritious than nonfertile eggs?

There is no evidence to support this belief. Fifteen to 20 years ago, many educational programs were held to convince farmers to remove roosters from hens producing table eggs. Possible blood-ring development in fertile eggs was the major reason for this suggestion. Today no fertile eggs are sold as table eggs.

Clean, sound shelled, graded eggs maintained under refrigeration and purchased from a store where stock moves quickly are still the best choice.

Garden club visits grape farm

The Ozona Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Bill Mason Monday, to end the club year with a field trip to the University of Texas grape farm near Fort Stockton.

Following the educational and fun tour of the grape farm, the group enjoyed a sack lunch at a roadside park.

Attending were Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Boyd Baker, Mrs. Joe Bean, Mrs. Douglas Bean, Mrs. J. W. Howell, Mrs. Dee Keilers, Mrs. Beecher Montgomery, Mrs. Tom Stokes, Mrs. Charles Williams and Mrs. Mike Clayton.

Pandale Study Club ends club year

Members of the Pandale Study Club met for the last meeting of the club year at the Pandale Community Center, May 3. Hostesses for the salad luncheon preceding the business meeting were Lara Sue Baggett and Jessie White.

President Lou Deaton presided over the business meeting. Yearbooks for the 1984-85 club year were presented and discussed by the Vice President Lara Sue Baggett. The resume which was prepared for Lela Bunger and submitted to the AAUW in Del Rio for consideration for the Notable Woman Award was read with the unanimous agreement that Lela is indeed a Notable Woman at Pandale.

Members answering roll call were Bill Arledge, Sue Arledge, Lara Sue Baggett and Leana, Lela Bunger, Lou Deaton, Opal Everett, Barbara Malone, Josephine Mills, Ginger Perner and Jessie White. Eva Arledge of Del Rio was a guest.

Contests are often too good to be true

That official-looking letter announcing you have won an expensive prize which can be claimed by attending a resort area sales meeting may seem too good to be true.

Unfortunately, these offers—typically used to promote land sales or timesharing a vacation home—often are too good to be true, says Dr. Marjorie Smith, a resource management specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

Many of the prizes are less expensive imitations of luxury items, she says. To collect these prizes, consumers may be subjected to high-pressure sales tactics used during sales meetings.

Consumers who sign contracts at these sales meetings may also find it difficult to cancel without losing some money, says the specialist. That's why it's important to carefully consider any purchase before signing a contract.

Due to a growing number of complaints from consumers, the Federal Trade Commission has issued the following warnings about these promotions:

Do not be swayed by official-looking letters. Some contest promoters use an official-looking name or envelope that looks like it contains an important telegram. Read the letter carefully, especially the fine print. Sometimes the letter may tell you the cash value of each prize or that you are required to attend a sales meeting as part of the contest.

Carefully consider attending a sale meeting simply to win an expensive prize. It is unlikely that you will win a truly valuable prize. If you are interested in finding out more about the vacation property being promoted, however, you may want to attend.

Do not immediately sign a contract or give the salesperson a deposit if you attend a sales meeting. Resist offers that are supposedly for a "limited time" or efforts to make you buy on the spot. You cannot count on being able to cancel and get your money back unless the contract clearly spells out your right to do so. Take a few days to consider your decision and get additional information. You can call the Better Business Bureau or other consumer agencies to inquire about the seller's reputation.

Make sure you read the contract carefully before signing. A salesperson may make many claims that are not in the contract, but it's the contract that counts.

A&M press publishes first novel

The 10-year-old Texas A&M University Press has broken tradition by publishing its first novel. However, it's not just a normal novel: it's a reprint of "The Wonderful Country," a western classic by Tom Lea.

"The Wonderful Country," originally released in 1952, is set along the Texas-New Mexico-Mexico border area with the central character a young man who kills his father's killer.

"This is a story that is at least as much about a region, its color and its life, as it is about the characters' difficulties," noted one reviewer when the book was released more than 30 years ago.

The 387-page book includes numerous drawings by the author, who is perhaps equally respected for his writing, paintings and other forms of art.

Lea, who resides in El Paso, designed the Texas A&M University Press' logo at the request of Frank Wardlaw, the publishing house's first director.

"The reappearance of this much-loved classic will entice a new generation of readers—Southwesterners, cowboy and western addicts, students of the borderlands cultures, observers of Hispanic-American relations and will inspire renewed respect for Lea's devotion to his country," predicts Lloyd Lyman, who succeeded Wardlaw.

Chelation therapy is of no proven benefit

Chelation therapy is of "no proven benefit" in treating hardening of the arteries or other heart diseases, says an article in Texas Medicine.

And side effects of chelation therapy such as kidney damage can be lethal, writes Dr. Antonio M. Gotto Jr., president of the American Heart Association.

Gotto, chairman of the department of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, notes that the primary acceptable use for chelation drugs is for treating heavy metal poisoning. The main drug administered, ethylenediaminetetraacetic acid (EDTA), is used particularly for lead poisoning, he writes in the February issue of the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal.

EDTA and other chelation drugs "are of no proven benefit for the treatment of arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), atherosclerosis (a form of arteriosclerosis), or other forms of cardiovascular disease," Gotto says.

He also notes that the American Heart Association, the National Institutes of Health, the Food and Drug Administration, the American Medical Association, and the American College of Physicians agree that EDTA has not been proven effective for treating hardening of the arteries. The drug "should not be widely used for this purpose" until clinical trials prove it beneficial, he says.

Chelation therapy involves injecting EDTA intravenously for an hour or two. A few days' rest follows, and the treatment is repeated from five to up to 50 times. The total cost is generally about $3,000.

Gotto notes one uncontrolled trial when EDTA was given for five straight days followed by two days off.

The rationale behind chelation therapy for treating arteriosclerosis is that EDTA grabs calcium and removes it from the bloodstream. Because plaque that builds up in arteries contains calcium, chelation supporters say removing calcium from the blood allows calcium to dissolve from the plaque, helping to clear the artery.

Gotto says that this does not happen and that drugs like EDTA instead "pull calcium from tissues, including the bone." Evidence that chelation therapy is effective in treating arteriosclerosis "comes entirely from uncontrolled studies."

The Food and Drug Administration has approved EDTA only for treating heavy metal poisoning and has noted the absence of controlled studies to prove the drug's effectiveness for treating hardening of the arteries.

"Instead," the FDA said, "we have been handed unorganized data from patients without any attempt to describe a formal study. Under the circumstances, we have had no choice but to attempt to prevent improper promotion of the drug and to point out its unproven status" for treating hardening of the arteries.

Gotto cautions against the "widespread and indiscriminate use" of chelation therapy for treating not only hardening of the arteries but a variety of other illnesses. They include arthritis, scleroderma (hardening of the skin), and dementia (a mental disorder).

Yours in Good Health

By Steve Sessom

By Steve Sessom

The benefits of exercise for human health are numerous and varied. Improved cardiovascular function is probably the most well known; the reduction of the resting pulse rate, reduction of high blood pressure and increased ability to deal with stress are all well documented physiological responses to prudent exercise. There are many other interesting physiological benefits of exercise, but perhaps one of the most important aspects of exercise is its psychological effect. There is little doubt that our overall attitude and happiness are closely related to our self-esteem. Anytime we do something we know is good for us, it elevates how we feel about ourselves. That is the key to why so many of us are "hooked" on exercise. It just so happens that running or walking is probably the simplest, most economical and least time consuming activity in which we can engage and reap the physiological benefits of exercise. There are plenty of harmful things we can become addicted to—wouldn't it be wonderful if more of us could have "positive addictions" like prudent exercise?

We make 188 billion telephone calls per year in the United States.

Nugent calls for lower home gas rates

Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent said today that he believes it is high time consumers benefited from more abundant natural gas supplies and lower prices.

"Last year, the Commission granted a net of almost $92 million in lower rates for natural gas transportation," Nugent said. "Based on this and other declines in the price of producing natural gas, I think it's high time we began to see some of these decreases reflected in home heating bills."

"For the past year or so, purchasers and users of natural gas in Texas have seen the halt in the escalation of wellhead prices and in many cases those prices have actually lowered," Nugent noted.

"I find this a significant and encouraging trend," he said. "What we must do now is see that the ultimate consumer also receives the benefit of generally lower rates."

Gain for home sale not taxable for some

Certain taxpayers who sell their home can exclude up to $125,000 of the sale's gain from taxable income.

Taxpayers who are 55 or older or married to someone 55 or older can make this election when they sell a home. The home must have served as the principal residence for three or more years during the five-year period immediately preceding the sale.

"This option for taxpayers is a provision of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981," points out Dr. Don Stebbins, real estate specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "The intent of the provision is to allow older citizens to liquidate the equity in their home and enjoy a higher income during retirement without incurring an excessive tax burden."

One of the important restrictions in the provision is that a taxpayer can use the election only once, notes Stebbins. Once selected, it is binding upon both spouses regardless of any future transsaction or remarriage. "Also, taxpayers should be aware that if they exclude less than $125,000 gain, the difference is forever forfeited," the specialist points out.

Another consideration concerns buying or building a replacement home. If this is done within two years of the original sale, older citizens also reduce their tax liability by the normal rollover provision applicable to everyone. Thus, 55 or older taxpayers can use both the rollover provision and the special $125,000 exclusion for the same transaction, Stebbins says.

"Older taxpayers should become completely familiar with their options on home sales and should seek professional assistance as they make their decisions," recommends Stebbins. "It's especially important for farmers, ranchers and others who use property partly as a home and partly for business to obtain professional guidance."

Crockett County Care Center News

BY ANN McCARTNEY
DIRECTOR OF ACTIVITIES & SOCIAL CARE

Plans are now in full swing for our Texas Nursing Home Week beginning Mother's Day, April 13, and going through the next Sunday, April 20.

One of our projects for this special event was started this Monday afternoon with our residents making gifts to present to our fifth grade "adopted grandchildren," a project that Vicki Stokes has helped with this year, and a very successful project it has been.

This month of May began with a residents council meeting. Our residents gave good input as to what kind of activities they would like during the month.

A "Down Memory Lane" jam session was held this week with all residents in attendance telling about their life's work.

Doris Karr and Ruth Hester led ceramics on Wednesday morning. Wednesday afternoon Billie Whatley, Bertha Miller, Nina Mayfield, Nila Turnell and Tomasa Ramos all went on a field trip to the Civic Center to see the Health Fair. Nina also went with yours truly on a field trip to vote Saturday.

Wednesday night Nina Mayfield, Hilda Dysart, Billie Whatley, Paul Cavin, Johnny Henderson and Maggie Crawford all went on the Baptist bus, driven by Ted Turnley, to hear the performance of the Continental Singers in the park. We all had fun on this trip!

Thursday morning beauty shop was manned by Lola Rios and Clara Byrd. In the afternoon Ted Turnley led Bible study followed by Spanish Hour of Praise led by Maria Vitela, Paulita Leal, Carmen Vargas, Felipa Munoz and Mariana Hernandez.

First place bingo winner of a certificate from Westernman Drug was Alice Ross. Ola Mills won second place and Inez Biggs won the El Chato dinner for two certificate. Volunteers included Dorothy Doll, Mattie Cooper and Anna Bell Patrick.

Dominoes were played by Maude Pettit, Ola Mills and Paul Cavin.

Seven members of the United Methodist Church conducted the Sunday afternoon church services. Songs were led and the sermon given by Rev. Chuck Camp. Bernice Jones played the piano.

Special thanks goes this week to Katherine Russell for laminating new Care Center name plates for our R.O. board, to Sophie Kyle for having the Standard Times delivered to the Care Center while she was away, and to Joyce Young for bringing over the flowers from the All-Sports Banquet to be shared with our residents.

Special thanks also goes to Edith Owens for coming all the way from Barnhart to give us a piano concert on Friday afternoon. Many thanks, Edith.

Do come and visit us during Texas Nursing Home Week!

Cheaper fuel is paying off for utilities

Efforts to obtain cheaper boiler fuel for its power plants are paying off for West Texas Utilities Co. and its customers.

Through an agreement reached earlier this year, WTU is receiving 20 million cubic feet of lower cost natural gas daily for use at its Fort Phantom Hill Power Station near Abilene.

The savings in WTU's fuel bill this year will amount to about $7.7 million, which will be passed along to the customers. The only hitch is that the customers will have to wait until the Company's fuel cost factor is adjusted by the Public Utility Commission of Texas. Under new PUC rules, the fuel factor, which is the amount WTU is allowed to charge its customers for fuel, is set for a 12-month period, or until the utility's next rate case. Under the old system, the fuel factor was automatically adjusted each month to reflect the current cost of fuel.

The cheaper gas is being purchased from Central Energy Transportation Co. and pipelined from Erath County by Lone Star Gas Co., which is WTU's principal fuel supplier.

"This is only a small amount of gas, considering the total volume used at our eight power stations, but we try to take advantage of every opportunity to reduce our fuel costs," said Walter Meller of Abilene, WTU's manager of System Production.

"Deals like this help offset the higher price we must pay under our major contract for a dependable, long-range supply of natural gas," Meller explained.

The Central Energy contract runs to September 1985. Total savings to WTU through the term of the contract will be approximately $13.7 million.

For the past two years WTU has been buying a quantity of cheaper low BTU gas and blending it with pipeline quality gas for use at its Paint Creek Power Station.

Fuel costs have risen sharply every year since the Arab oil embargo of 1983 started the world energy crisis. In recent years, fuel expenses have accounted for at least half of WTU's total annual revenue and for a major portion of customer bills.

All of WTU's existing power plants burn natural gas as a boiler fuel. The Oklahoma Power Station, now under construction near Vernon, will be the Company's first coal-burning plant and also will be the largest plant in the WTU system.

Night flying moths create nuisance

Night-flying moths, primarily cutworm moths, often become a nuisance to homeowners in the spring time of the year in Far West Texas. This is especially true for homes located in rural areas or near populated areas. The moths are attracted to light and are sometimes referred to as "candle-moths."

Control of night-flying moths attracted to light is a very difficult matter, and is not accomplished by following a simple set of rules. However a number of steps can be taken and any one of the steps, alone or in combination with others, may provide relief under favorable conditions.

Step 1. Reduce the attraction of the site

Step 2. Intercept the moths before they reach the site

Step 3. Exclude the moths from the house

Step 4. Destroy the moths which gain entrance into the house

Reduce attraction of house or buildings through proper light management. This step often provides substantial relief. Indirect lighting should be used where practical so that the source of light is shielded from the areas from which the moths may come. Light fixtures inside buildings should be placed so that moths outside cannot see the lamp itself.

There is little evidence that any light is repellent to insects, but yellow is the least-attractive to most insects.

During periods of heavy moth flights, outside lighting should be maintained at a minimum level.

Interception of insects before they become a nuisance has some possibilities for success. Placement of insect light traps at least 100 feet away from house, or building will aid on attraction and capture of moths.

Exclusion of insects from houses or buildings involves proper screening of windows and doors. Screens should fit tightly. Air vents and ventilating ducts also require screening.

Some degree of control can be obtained with sprays of household insecticides applied to places where the moths collect and rest outside, such as door frames, window sills, carports, porches and garages. Since the moths do not feed on anything where they are resting and they are protected by a heavy coating of scales, sprays will not provide any immediate or spectacular results. Ready-to-use household spray formulations of Diazinon and Baygon may be applied to resting sites and cracks and crevices where the moths may enter buildings. Follow label instructions for "nuisance pest" control on applying the sprays. Adding a commercial wetting agent or a teaspoon of liquid detergent per gallon of mixed spray will increase the effectiveness of the spray.

Destruction of moths inside the house or building is often accomplished best with the use of a vacuum cleaner. A household pyrethrin aerosol spray will provide control of moths inside a room.

Please check the label on the insecticide container for instructions on dosage rates, on mixing and on applying the material.

RULES — There are three parts to THE WORD CAGE: (1) clues and (2) quiz, which lead to (3) the final answer, the MYSTERY WORD. The clues and quiz are hidden in the grid — up, down, across, backward or diagonally. First circle the clue words (we've found the first word for you). You may find the same letter in more than one word, so circle each letter clearly. Next, circle the quiz words; the first letter and number of letters are given for each. When you have circled all the clue and quiz words, the remaining uncircled letters will spell out the answer to this week's WORD CAGE.

Representatives attend food-water conference

Representatives from the United Nations and other global and hemispheric organizations—some 70 persons in all—came from as far away as Brazil and Canada and went away feeling as though they had attended a productive conference.

What they attended, however, was a planning session for a food and water conference which will be held at Texas A&M University May 26-30, 1985, with implementative workshops set for The Woodlands near Houston the following two days. The conference is officially entitled "Water and Water Policy in World Food Supplies."

Texas A&M President Frank E. Vandiver set in motion the mechanism for the conference as the first step in establishing Texas A&M as a "world university." Shortly after assuming the presidency of Texas A&M in the fall of 1981, Dr. Vandiver had published an article outlining his "world university" concept under which approximately 25 universities capable of "making a difference in coping with 'four horsemen' type problems" would link themselves together on at least an informal basis.

Vandiver envisions the universities gaining "world university" designation by their deeds, and he sees Texas A&M's sponsorship of the 1985 food and water conference as the first such major step for the Texas land-grant and sea-grant institution.
