It has been rumored for quite some time that Tom Loeffler plans to return to Texas and run for governor. This was confirmed here this week. Texas needs Tom in Washington, but after hearing his explanation, I can certainly understand his reasons for returning to his home state.

Tom has a growing family and he feels he needs to spend more time with them. His duties in Washington and as U.S. Congressman from this district severely restrict his family life. He plans to return to Texas to live and run for governor. If he is as effective in Austin as he is in D.C. he should make a mighty fine head of state. He will certainly get my vote.

Governor Mark White signed the mandatory seat belt law this week, a form of blackmail by the federal bureaucracy. I can understand the 55-mile per hour speed limit in congested areas but feel it's downright dangerous if you get stopped for speeding and do not have your seat belt fastened, you will get double-ticketed. If I have to drive to San Angelo at 55-mph wearing a seat belt, I'll be ready for the booby hatch.

I've always had a phobia about seat belts, even on airplanes. I can just see the top part of my body flying through air while the bottom part is safely locked to the seat by the seat belt.

I'm almost as paranoid about driving 55-mph. I just can't do it unless I use the cruise control. Then I get so bored the trip seems like a voyage through eternity. However, after a speeding ticket and several warnings, I have bowed to the inevitable. I just try to avoid trips. Maybe I should take up flying.

With a lot of news we are unable to print, it's been a frustrating week around here and we have turned to improving our grammar and brushing up on our English in general, giving a lot of thought to spelling. The most mis-used word in the English dictionary is "it's," the contraction for it is. It's just amazing how many times you see it used as a possessive pronoun. We don't know what happened to the word "who." It must have gotten lost in the evolution of the language. How many times have you seen "the man that," or "the woman that" etc. etc. when speaking of a person. And then there are the two errors that set my teeth on edge. They are "where is it at," and "I can't hardly."

Well enough of this, I'm finally at the end of the page.

Man charged in shooting incident Sun.

An incident Sunday evening near the intersection of highways 137 and 190, resulted in the arrest of a 47-year-old Houston man.

Dwayne Allen of Houston, was arrested around 6:30 p.m. after he approached a mobile home at the Permian Brine Water station at the intersection, and asked for assistance in getting gasoline. He pulled a pistol and residents of the mobile home locked themselves inside the home. The suspect circled the home, firing shots into it, but not hitting any of the family residents.

The home was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lewis, their three sons and two visitors. When the suspect went to the front door and broke the glass out, a rifle shot was fired from inside the house. Allen was not hit, but he suffered some superficial wounds from the shattering of the door facing. He was treated at Crockett County Hospital and then lodged in jail.

There is no telephone in the mobile home, located about three miles north of Ozona, but the victims managed to radio the Big Lake Sheriff's Department, who in turn notified the local law enforcement.

Allen was charged with two counts of attempted murder and Judge Raymond Davee set bond at $15,000 on each count. He was released Monday afternoon after posting bond.

Care Center Residents

show some of the ceramics and needlework they will be selling in the Care Center booth during the flea market which will be held Saturday in the downtown park. All proceeds from the sale will go toward the purchase of a van for the care center.

Chamber plans big July 4th celebration

Plans for the annual July Fourth Celebration were completed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night. This will be the annual celebration and the second year most activities have been held in the downtown park.

Several booths have already been reserved, and anyone or organization wishing to have a space needs to contact Beth Boyd at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The Ozona High School twirlers will have a face and balloon painting booth. The face-painting was very popular last year with the younger set.

Katherine Russel and Susie Childress will offer arts and crafts for sale. The Ozona Womans Forum will have a food booth, featuring real old-fashioned July 4th hotdogs.

OHS Lion Boosters will have a fajitas booth and the Crockett County 4-H Club will have the dunking tank this year, along with pony rides.

The Crockett County Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary will be selling funnel cakes, with proceeds going toward the purchase of the Care-A-Van.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will be selling cold drinks and lemonade, and the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a washer pitching tournament.

A special attraction this year will be a knife show, by John Spencer of Harper.

The Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild will have a show in the downtown park as well as the park near the Emerald House. Also, the Emerald House will be open during the day for tours.

The range cook-off will be held at the rodeo arena. Entries are now being accepted at the chamber office.

Activities will go on all day except for the cook-off. Judging will be held around 1 p.m. Plans are underway for live music during the day. The annual fireworks display is still in question at this point.

GTE to implement new equipment in Ozona

Due to the installation and implementation of new equipment within the Ozona exchange, General Telephone announces the following changes in dialing effective June 21, 1985.

To place long distance station-to-station calls, dial one plus the area code (if necessary) and the number.

To place person-to-person, collect, credit card and third-number billing calls, dial zero plus the area code (if necessary) and the number.

For local directory assistance, dial 1 plus 411.

For party line revert calls (to dial another party on your party line), dial "419" plus the 7-digit number and proceed as usual.

When using a pay telephone, it will be necessary to dial all seven digits when making local calls. Otherwise, your telephone call will not go through.

Schools announce summer program to aid in English

Ozona Public Schools announced today that "The Summer Experience", a special eight-week summer program for students who need additional help in English-speaking skills, will begin Monday, June 24, at Ozona Primary School.

Registration for "The Summer Experience" will be held Friday, June 21, from 8:00 a.m. until noon at Ozona Primary School, and the program will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday. It will end Friday, August 16.

The goal of "The Summer Experience" is to help children who are limited English proficient experience success in school. By providing early oral language instruction, a large majority of these students will be able to acquire language skills comparable to students who already have command of the English language.

The program is designed to provide learning experiences for students who will be in kindergarten or first grade next year, and who have a home language other than English.

Parents needing more information about "The Summer Experience" are urged to contact Stella Valdez at the Ozona Community Center (392-2710), Juanita Gutierrez (392-3410), or Katharine Russell (392-2153).

Improvement of school lands vital to citizens of Texas

During the late 1960's, the University of Texas, the Soil Conservation Service, and Soil and Water Conservation Districts recognized the significant need for maintenance and improvement of the University System lands. They continue to believe this is of vital interest to the citizens of Texas.

There are approximately 110 lessees on 2,084,737 acres of U.T. lands in the state of Texas. The Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District has 36 lessees on 33 operating ranches consisting of 320,556 acres. The primary use of these leases is rangeland with wildlife as a secondary use.

The Crockett District and the local Soil Conservation Service provided assistance on these lands last year by servicing to review conservation work applied, update plans and forage inventories, and develop annual grazing plans for the oncoming year.

The following conservation practices were applied by lessees on U.T. lands in the Crockett District during 1984: Proper Grazing Use of Vegetation on 294,405 acres; Planned Grazing Systems on 106,804 acres; Deferred Grazing (resting pastures 3 months or longer during growing season) on 86,133 acres; Wildlife Upland Habitat Management on 285,421 acres; Brush Management on 7,579 acres; and 1.5 miles of constructed cross fencing.

The continued maintenance and improvement of these leases is not only vitally important to the lessee and the University of Texas as for having a productive ranch, but also to all people in the state of Texas.

Delay in library opening date

Slowly but surely, work is progressing on the Crockett County Public Library. The building renovation has been completed and the carpeting has been installed. The tables, chairs, and other assorted library furniture are on order and should be delivered by the end of the month. Shelving has been ordered but, due to manufacturing delays, will not be shipped until the end of August. Opening date for the library has been moved to September instead of the original summer date.

The Library Board announced this week the names of donors and honorees for the individual rooms in the new facility. The Reading Room will be furnished in memory and honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henderson by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cameron, Mrs. George Bunker, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. George Bunker, Jr. The Entry Hallway and Check-out Area will be furnished in memory of Myrtle Hoover Kirkpatrick Mitchell by Mayme K. Daniel, Hallie K. Black, Vonnie Womack, Ginger Womack Perner, Mike Womack, and Diane Womack. The Reference Room has been given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Madden Reed by Mr. Jimmy Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Reed. The Fiction Room has been donated in memory and honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bascomb Cox by Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Cox III and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reynolds. The Children's Room will be furnished in memory of Peggy Hagelstein Holden by the Ozona Woman's League. The Non-Fiction Room has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Montgomery. The Upstairs Foyer is to be done in memory of Wayne Wahl by friends of the deceased deputy. The Librarian's Office will be furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Perner, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Perner, and Mr. Milby Sexton.

The only room remaining to be done is the Upstairs Meeting Room. Included in the cost of this room are carpeting, window shades, stackable chairs and a speaker's podium. Landscaping plants and other assorted library equipment is still needed and a wish list is available at the Adult Room of the High School Library. County Librarian Mrs. Louise Ledoux is on duty daily to assist those who desire to help.

Several other large gifts have also been received recently. A wrought-iron sign for the front yard has been donated by Perry Ranch Company, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Perry. South Permian Inc. has given a library a Xerox 3100 copier and a Radio Shack TRS-80 Model II computer. In addition, the Crockett County Fair Association presented a large cash donation for the new library. Numerous other memorials for books have also been received in the last few months.

The Library Board wishes to thank the generous people who have aided thus far in this large endeavor. It is sincerely hoped that when the library opens, it will be a first-class facility for the citizens of Crockett County.

Flea market to benefit plans for Care-A-Van

Members of the Crockett County Care Center and Hospital Auxiliary are gearing up for the flea market which will be held in the downtown park Saturday. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of a specially equipped van for Care Center residents.

Cost of the van is $20,000. Just over $6,000 has already been raised from two previous fund raising events.

Auxiliary members decided on the flea market to give Ozonans a chance to clean out attics, closets, garages and storage room for collectible items that are cluttering up. Your white elephant might just be the treasure someone else is looking for. Auxiliary members suggest getting neighbors together, and purchasing a booth for only $20 to get rid of the objects that clutter your rooms. It is also a great way to make some spending money for summer vacations.

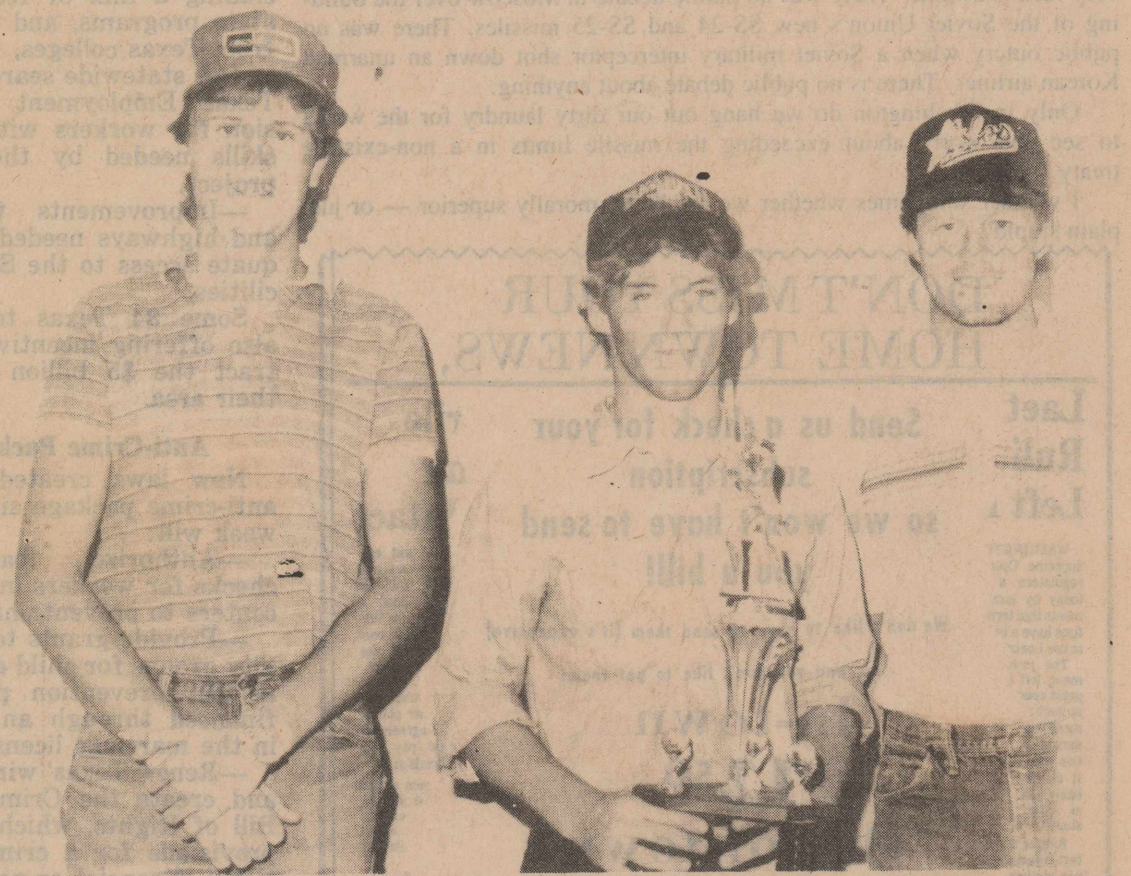

The flea market will open at 10 a.m. Saturday and close at 5 p.m. For further information or to reserve a booth, call Glenda Henderson at 392-2738 or Jo Davidson at 392-2094.

Three injured in cycle accidents

Two youngsters were injured and an Ozona man more seriously injured in motorcycle accidents here the past week.

Jimmy McCary and Keith Sessom were injured around 2 p.m. Friday when the motorcycle McCary was driving crashed into a parked vehicle. Both boys required stitches, but were not hospitalized.

Guy Glosson was transferred to a San Angelo hospital for treatment when he lost control of his motorcycle on a ranch road Monday night. His condition was undetermined at press time.

Trophy winners

Billy Wagoner, Bobby Henry and B.T. Turland show off the first place trophy won by the Wagoner-Perry Lobos at the 5th annual Ozona invitational softball tournament held over the weekend. Eleven teams participated with a Rankin team taking the championship. The Wild Bunch from San Angelo were second.

MORALITY OR STUPIDITY?

By Edwin Feulner
The Washington establishment has been publicly agonizing for weeks about the pending sea trials of the USS Alaska, the U.S. Navy's newest Trident submarine.

Ordinarily, putting a submarine to sea wouldn't draw so much as a yawn from the much-jaded Washington crowd. They have important things to worry about: such as cocktail receptions, "photo opportunities," and congressional hearings that are no less choreographed than a Balanchine ballet. But the USS Alaska is different. It is symbolic.

Putting the Alaska to sea in September will add another twenty-four ICBMs to America's missile arsenal, giving the United States fourteen more ICBMs than are allowed under the SALT II "Treaty." (This gets complicated.) The squirmers on the Left, and even some within the administration, want the United States to stay within the SALT II limits and take an existing Poseidon submarine out of active duty when the Alaska goes to sea. On June 10, President Reagan ordered the Defense Department to plan to dismantle the Poseidon's missile-firing tubes to demonstrate to Moscow that the U.S. is complying with SALT II, even though they aren't. A Poseidon carries sixteen nuclear missiles, meaning the U.S. would stay under the SALT II ceiling if a Poseidon is deactivated.

There's more. And it's probably more important. The critical element in all this is the fact that the SALT II Treaty isn't a treaty at all — because the U.S. Senate refused to approve it when it came before them.

In other words, the Washington policymaking community is sweating bullets over compliance with a "treaty" that doesn't even exist.

The public agonizing over the USS Alaska would be amusing, if national security weren't such a deadly serious issue. At a recent two-day seminar sponsored by the Hillsdale College Shavano Institute, scholars from the U.S. and Europe examined a peculiar phenomenon that continues to cloud our ability to think clearly and act decisively.

They called it, using a term coined by former U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, the doctrine of "moral equivalency."

In plain street language, this means that many otherwise apparently intelligent people think the United States and the Soviet Union are morally equal: just two overbearing superpowers jockeying for position in a grand game of international bullying.

What makes this ludicrous is that the Soviet Union has blatantly violated the SALT II ceilings on missiles and strategic bombers all along. There was no squirming and public agonizing in the Kremlin, I can assure you. They just went ahead and built more and better missiles, and more and better bombers.

There is no moral equivalency between Washington and Moscow. The very idea is asinine. There was no public debate in Moscow over the building of the Soviet Union's new SS-24 and SS-25 missiles. There was no public outcry when a Soviet military interceptor shot down an unarmed Korean airliner. There is no public debate about anything.

Only in Washington do we hang out our dirty laundry for the world to see and worry about exceeding the missile limits in a non-existing treaty.

I wonder sometimes whether we are being morally superior — or just plain stupid?

AUSTIN—The days following adjournment of the Legislature belong to the Governor, who signs bills into law alone in the spotlight because everyone else has gone home.

Last week, Gov. Mark White, among other official acts: —Revealed the Texas package to attract General Motors Corp. New Saturn plant to one of 84 towns here, —Signed a comprehensive anti-crime package, and —Filled a controversial post by naming San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros to the Texas A&M Board of Regents.

Good News, Bad News
Meanwhile, two other officials split good news and bad news. The good news for Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro is that his Texas Veterans Land Program sold a $175 million bond package to finance veteran loans, including the largest pre-sale of land bonds in Texas history.

The bad news from Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower is that his agency is threatened with up to 50 employee layoffs, casualties of budget cuts by the Legislature. A Hightower deputy commissioner said between 20 and 50 employees will be laid off by the end of August, and the agency is struggling to let them know ahead of time to prepare for job-hunting. Most of the lost jobs are expected to come from the Austin administrative headquarters, rather than field personnel, because the Legislature instructed Hightower to shift its focus to field activities.

Saturn Plant Package
The governor signed into law last week a bill authorizing the creation of a foreign trade zone for the GM Saturn plant, if it decides to call Texas its home. The package also includes: —$50 million in job training support over three years, including a mix of federal and state programs, and resources from Texas colleges, —A statewide search by the Texas Employment Commission for workers with special skills needed by the Saturn project, —Improvements to roads and highways needed for adequate access to the Saturn facilities.

Some 84 Texas towns are also offering incentives to attract the $5 billion plant to their area.

Anti-Crime Package
New laws created by the anti-crime package signed last week will: —Authorize background checks for workers in day care centers to prevent child abuse, —Provide grants to community groups for child abuse and neglect prevention programs, financed through an increase in the marriage license fee, —Renew Texas' wiretap law, and create the Crime Victim Bill of Rights, which includes provisions for a crime's emotional, financial or psychological effect on a victim to be considered in sentencing and parole hearings.

—Increase penalties for possession and use of toxic inhalants, prohibit child abusers from any contact with their victims as a condition of probation, parole or bail, and allow the first adult a child told about being abused to testify on the child's behalf.

Cisneros A Regent
White made his seventh pick of nine TAMU regents when he named Cisneros, a former student, to the Board of Regents. Cisneros was in Taiwan at the time, and White said he will resign from the Texas Economic Development Commission when he returns.

That particular post was made controversial during the session when Bryan-College Station state Sen. Kent Caperton was angered at White's refusal to name Bryan attorney Don Mauro as a regent, especially since he thought White had told him he would.

White said last week he had not told Caperton of the Cisneros appointment, and had not met with Caperton on the issue because of scheduling conflicts.

Campaign Hopes

Some folks are lining up early to run for new offices next spring.

State Rep. Tommy Adkisson, D-San Antonio, said he will formally announce soon his candidacy to replace retiring state Sen. Glenn Kothmann. Another San Antonio representative, Frank Tejeda, is expected to join that race. A third representative, Frank Madla, is named as Adkisson's co-chairman.

Democrat-turned-Republican, former state Sen. Bill Meier, said he may take another crack at defeating Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox. Meier said no to a governor's race, adding he had some "unfinished business" in the AG's race. Mattox beat Meier in '82.

A relatively unknown poultry industry man from Bryan is visiting around the state for support in his unannounced bid to beat Jim Hightower. Bill Powers hopes to get the GOP nomination.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

Again we had a most welcome all morning rain last Wednesday which will keep our country green for some time.

Perhaps June is your enjoyment month. The days are not too hot for outdoor activities and most of the planting has been done, so it is time to pause briefly to reflect on your accomplishments, and enjoy the flowers, vegetables and other fruits of your planning. But do not hesitate too long, for additional planting, fertilizing, spraying, watering and pruning will be waiting to be done.

It's a good time to root cuttings of your favorite plants, shrubs and trees, using mature wood of the current year's growth. Take cuttings of the oleanders while they are in bloom to get the variety you want. Cuttings may be from 8 inches to as much as 6 feet long. The 3 to 6 foot lengths are best for starting single-trunk trees and should be 2 to 3 inches in diameter. Strip off all but the top leaves and place cuttings in a non-metal container of water. Depth of water should be one-half the length of small cuttings to 10 inches for large ones. Place in shady, protected place. They should begin to send out rootlets in 10 days.

When well rooted, plant cuttings in individual pots. By fall, you may want to transplant to containers or to a permanent location. Other plants should be started now for the fall Garden Club sale. All members and anyone else may contribute to this civic project.

I notice many of you are growing tomatoes so watch for a common pest the hornworm. Just one or two of these can strip a plant. You will need to control by handpicking or spraying Bacillus thuringiensis. The advantage of this pesticide is that it won't kill the parasites or predators that also help keep hornworm populations low. There is an excellent article on growing tomatoes in the June Southern Living. Some have asked if its too late to plant caladiums this month, no, but when you plant, remember that they need shade. Set the tubers 10 to 16 inches apart, (depending on their size) and 2 to 3 inches deep.

Revitalize petunias after their first flush of bloom by pruning the plant back several inches. In fact, if this method is done after every flush of bloom, the plants should stay attractive well into the fall, provided they are well watered and fertilized.

Osteoporosis attacks bones reports Texas Medical Assn.

Cells that make up human bone are constantly breaking down old bone and replacing it with an equal amount of new bone. This balanced process renews the skeleton slowly but continuously.

Osteoporosis is a bone disorder that throws things out of kilter, says the Texas Medical Association. Breakdown occurs faster than replacement, and bones become soft and weak.

Generally occurring in older people, osteoporosis increases the chances of broken bones. It is much more common in women than men, but it can often be controlled.

One reason for the loss of bone mass is a shortage of calcium. Bones contain 99 percent of the body's calcium. The minerals is stored there and drawn upon when the daily intake is not enough to meet the body's needs. Smoking and alcohol also can contribute to osteoporosis.

In women, another factor in bone loss is declining levels of the hormone estrogen during menopause. But estrogen loss is not the only reason why four times as many women as men over 55 suffer bone fractures. Women start out with 30 percent less bone mass.

Osteoporosis also may arise in one or more bones if a person is immobile for long periods because of a fracture or slipped disc. Some hormonal problems also may cause the disorder, but the most common cause is simply the aging process.

Osteoporosis usually has no symptoms unless the disorder attacks the vertebrae. This causes back pain and makes the person shorter and more round-shouldered because of the gradual mashing together of the weakened vertebrae. In rare cases, a few vertebrae may collapse, producing a severe back pain.

These symptoms should be checked by a physician since a fracture of the spine could result in paralysis. The doctor may prescribe calcium tablets or estrogen, which the National Institutes of Health says is "highly effective" in preventing and stopping osteoporosis in women. But estrogen therapy increases the risk of uterine cancer.

Eating a balanced diet rich in calcium will help keep bones healthy. Milk and other dairy products, fish, oranges, leafy green vegetables, and broccoli are major sources of calcium. Exercise also keeps not only but muscles strong and healthy. Finally, loose rugs or electrical wires in walkways should be removed to prevent falls.

EXTENSION OFFICE NEWS

By Rachel Hall

Pickings are no longer slim for dieters these days. Today's supermarkets contain a variety of dieter's versions in traditional temptations such as pancake mixes, blue cheese salad dressings, pudding, cheese, ice cream, mayonnaise, gravy mixes, and chocolate toppings.

Diet foods aren't new, but the past few years have shown their increased popularity. Consumers are more calorie conscious and are eager to purchase products labeled "light" or "lite", since they contain less fat, sugar, and calories.

The Food and Drug Administration requires products claiming to be low or reduced in calories to meet specific limits on calorie content. A food can be labeled "low calorie" only if a serving supplies no more than 40 calories and contains no more than .4 calories per gram. To be labeled "reduced calorie", a food must be at least one-third lower in calorie content than a similar food in which calories are not reduced, and must not be nutritionally inferior to unmodified food. Foods that are labeled low or reduced calorie must bear nutrition labeling-including vitamins, minerals, calories, and serving size.

If a food label suggests that calories have been cut, it has to back up that claim with numbers. The label must compare the reduced calorie food with an unmodified version of the product, such as "reduced calorie fruit cocktail contains 40 calories per serving; regular fruit cocktail in heavy syrup, 90 calories per serving."

A food specifically designed for diabetics must bear the statement: "Diabetics: This product may be useful in your diet on the advice of a physician. This food is not a reduced calorie food." A food cannot be labeled "dietetic" or "diet" solely because it might be useful for diabetics, since this could be misleading to people seeking low or reduced calorie foods.

Keep in mind that the words "light" or "lite" may not always mean that a food is low in calories. Examples are: "light cream" in cream containing 18-30% milk fat; "light" salt has some or all of sodium replaced by potassium; and "light" chocolate usually contains milk or cream and is paler in color than dark chocolate.

Calories in regular carbonated beverages range from 114-160 calories or may contain up to 10 teaspoons of sugar per 12 oz. container. Calories can be substantially reduced to 1 calorie per 12 oz. container if substitute sugars are utilized in products.

Weight conscious consumers have a greater choice of calorie saving food selections. Labels tell the story and should be read by every smart dieter.

CHARMING CHAP-CHUMLEY

It's unfortunate, I say, that people have a wrong impression of Chumley. He's really a capital fellow. Friendly, agreeable, always faithful. It's just a shame that folks judge Chumley by appearances.

There is one place in our community where folks are learning to see one another and the world through honest eyes. It's the Church.

As we learn more about the power and love of God we begin to gain a deeper understanding of His creation. We behold nature with reverent appreciation of its awe and wonder. We see people as reflections — however imperfect — of their Maker.

The Church is constantly stressing our spiritual potential... helping us become the people God intends us to be!

When We're Thru... They Run Like New!

New herbicide for mesquite control is fast approaching

The time for broadcast aerial application of herbicide for control of mesquite is fast approaching. Hopefully, control in 1985 will be better than in past years due to the wet winter encountered across much of the Trans-Pecos region of Texas. Any moisture received this spring will also be helpful.

There has been a considerable amount of change in the past few years concerning the availability of certain herbicides for control of mesquite. At the present time there are four herbicides that may be used for aerial treatment. This includes three herbicides that have been used for many years and one that has only recently been labeled for use.

The three herbicides that most people associate with mesquite control and are still labeled for that use include 2,4,5-T, dicamba and picloram. The herbicide 2,4,5-T has been the most commonly used product for mesquite control in the past. While 2,4,5-T is still labeled for that use, it is no longer manufactured in this country. As such supplies are low to non-existent. Confusion has arisen as to what herbicide or combination of herbicides should now be used, since 2,4,5-T was the most commonly used product for mesquite control both by itself and in combination with picloram.

One option available to ranchers this year is to substitute dicamba for 2,4,5-T. This herbicide, sold under the tradename "Banvel" can be applied by itself or in a 1:1 combination with picloram for control of mesquite. The mixture with picloram must be tank mixed since a commercial formulation is not available. Picloram is sold under the tradename "Grazon PC". The effective rates for both dicamba alone and in combination with picloram is 0.5 to 1.0 lbs. active ingredient per acre. The lower rate is used in West Texas. Dicamba alone or in combination with picloram can be expected to give equal or slightly greater control as compared to 2,4,5-T.

Due to the recent labeling of a new herbicide, there is one additional option available for control of mesquite. That new herbicide is triclopyr sold under the tradename "Grazon ET". This herbicide will provide approximately the same level of control as 2,4,5-T both alone and in combination with picloram. Rates, timing and method of application are the same as for 2,4,5-T and dicamba. This herbicide is not labeled for basal treatment of mesquite as is 2,4,5-T.

It must be remembered that with all the herbicides listed, maximum kill is dependent on proper timing and good growing conditions. Generally, broadcast aerially applications are made 45 to 90 days following bud break. This corresponds to the time when the leaves are fully extended and have turned from a light green to a dark green color. In addition to foliage development, soil temperature is an important factor. Best control of mesquite is usually obtained when the soil temperature at 12 to 18 inches of depth at time of spraying is 75 degrees or above.

If frequent rains occur during the spray season, root kills are often reduced because the mesquite plant will continue to add new leaf growth, thus the plants have leaves in different stages of maturity. If possible, herbicide application should be delayed for 10 to 21 days after a significant rainfall to allow new growth to mature. Another factor to remember before spraying mesquite is damage to mesquite foliage by insects, disease or hail. If a significant number of mesquite plants have been defoliated by insects or hail, plant kills are usually reduced.

New drug approved for coccidiosis in sheep

The drug lasalocid, a feed additive for cattle, has been approved for preventing coccidiosis, a major disease problem in confined sheep.

The disease, which has become a serious problem due to intensive productive practices, caused some $20 million in losses to the U.S. sheep industry last year, points out Billy Reagor, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The most serious outbreaks of the disease have been reported in feedlot lambs, usually within two to four weeks after confinement, notes the agent. Lambs up to two years of age are susceptible, but early weaned feedlot lambs three to five months of age are most susceptible to the disease.

Symptoms of coccidiosis in lambs include profuse diarrhea with dark, liquid, bloody feces; loss of appetite and weight; and a dull general appearance. The disease lasts up to 10 days in lambs that recover; however, they are slow to regain their normal condition and often perform poorly during the finishing period.

Lasalocid, marketed as Bovatec by Hoffman-LaRoche, has a wide margin of safety in sheep, says Reagor. However, the recommended level for confined sheep is 30 grams per ton of a complete ration. This is at the rate of 15 to 70 milligrams per head per day depending on body weight.

Tests have shown no coccidial resistance problems with lasalocid, so producers and feeders should have long and effective protection for their stock throughout the growing period.

Crockett County Care Center News

By Ann McCartney
Director of Activities & Social Care

It is so nice to have volunteers who come into our home and visit. But they aren't our only volunteers. We also have volunteers who do helpful things in other ways. One case in point is the Jack Baggett Insurance Agency who sends the San Angelo Standard each day. Another example is exhibited by a host of friends who send their newspapers to our center while they are on vacation. These have included the Oscar Kosta, Kenneth Hailey, Maurice Black, Sophie Kyle, Sonny and Glenda Henderson, Betty Jo Bullard and Allie Armentrout. We also want to thank Juanita Chipman for extending the service of delivering these at the Care Center instead of them piling up in yards and we really appreciate the extra effort of keeping us posted.

Thanks also goes to Jesus Hernandez for sharing apricots and to Bernice Phillips for the mum pot plant.

Memorials have been received from Paul Cavin and Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander of Big Lake in memory of Arthur Phillips, from Ann Mayo in memory of Arthur Phillips, from South Texas Lumber in memory of Doris Moore and Johnny Henderson from Mattie Cooper in memory of her nephew Jack Horton, and from Anna Bell Patrick in memory of Jack Horton, Lowell Littleton's sister, Mary Webster's mother, Johnny Henderson, Arthur Phillips and Beverly Preddy's sister-in-law.

This was birthday party week. Our only birthday this month was that of Carol Reed. Polly Mayes made her usual beautifully decorated cake, Maxine's Flowers sent her a corsage, and Auxiliary members Earline Jones, Clara Byrd, and Vivian Hughes served as hostesses. Clara also furnished piano music.

Jean Beardmore won the certificate for El Chato's dinner for two at bingo on Tuesday. Overall winner for the Tuesday and Friday games was Maggie Crawford. Newcomer Doris Robinson came in second. Volunteers for one or both days included: Carmen Borrego, Anthony Borrego, Deedra Tinsley, Darlene Tinsley, Sally Borrego (who brought this nice group), Prissy Martinez, Courtney Nelson, Anna Bell Patrick, Mattie Cooper, Dorothy Doll, Elodia Zapata, Amalia Lumbreras, Sophie Tijerina, and our own Alice Ross and Minnie Karr.

Dorothy Doll helped us decorate for Flag Day.

Janet Wilson came again for dominoes. Ladies playing were Pauline Clinton, Ola Mills, Hilda Dysart and Moriana Perez.

Marie Pierson led ceramics on Wednesday. Those participating included Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramoz, Pauline Clinton, Jean Beardmore, Hilda Dysart, Ola Mills, and Moriana Perez.

Katharine Russell furnished our Care Center with piano music on Wednesday afternoon.

Those who manned the beauty shop on Thursday included: Clara Byrd, Clara Babb, Vivian Hughes, and Alena Faye Hokit.

Friday afternoon Father's Day gifts were made by Juana Hernandez, Tomasa Ramoz, Pauline Clinton, Jean Beardmore, Doris Robinson, Bertha Miller, Phil Schneemann, Hilda Dysart, Ola Mills and Moriana Perez for all the men in our Care Center. Volunteers included Linda Vasquez, Elsa Ramirez, Socorro Maldonado, Dorothy Doll and Janet Wilson. Alice Ross presented them to all our Care Center men on Sunday.

We were rained out this week for sunshine hour but we don't let a little thing like the weather keep us from our afternoon snacks. This week they were furnished by Dora Ramirez, Mela Flores and Juanita Delgado.

Sadie Davidson brought flowers for use, along with the tablecloths donated by our Auxiliary, on the dinner table for Father's Day.

Terri and Patti Racher brought the Sunday afternoon worship service with songs played on their guitars.

Tick population increases with warmer weather

Tick populations increase dramatically with warmer weather, causing inconvenience and health hazards for homeowners and pets.

Ticks are biting, blood-sucking parasites, and their bites may become inflamed and infected due to toxic secretions, points out Billy Reagor, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Tick paralysis, tularemia and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever may be transmitted through tick bites.

Brown dog, American dog and Lone Star ticks are the most common in Texas home landscapes. Brown dog ticks are reddish-brown while American dog ticks are yellowish-brown when unfed and slate gray when engorged. The brown dog tick rarely occurs in rural areas; instead, it hides in crevices around buildings. American dog ticks are most often found along roads and trails. The Lone Star tick has a characteristic white spot on its back and commonly referred to as a spot backed tick.

A female tick may lay several thousand eggs, beginning a two-to four-month life cycle. Remaining stages—six legged larva (seed tick) and eight legged nymph and adult—generally develop on separate host animals. After each feeding the tick drops off the host and temporarily hides until the next developmental stage.

Regardless of the species, control is basically the same for all ticks, says the agent. Heavy infestations in the home may require treatment by professionals. Spot treatments with household sprays containing diazinon, Dursban, Baygon, resmethrin or Vapona will provide excellent control of light infestations.

Outside the home where vegetation is thin, use 5 percent carbaryl (Sevin) dust at 20-25 pounds per acre. Increase the rate as vegetation thickens. If using a spray, mix five tablespoons of 25 percent diazinon emulsifiable concentrate (EC) in one gallon of water. Apply one gallon of spray per 1,000 square feet.

Chlorpyrifos (Dursban) is also suggested for tick control. Apply 1.3 ounces of material per 1,000 square feet of treated area. When spraying, pay particular attention to roadsides, animal trails, paths and pet resting areas. Retreatment may be required if tick populations continue to be observed. Always read the label on the insecticide container for application instructions. Properly store any unused portion of the insecticide under lock and key to prevent accidental child poisoning.

Most species of ticks can't survive in cleared areas where they are exposed to excessive sunlight and predators. Keeping areas clear of debris is important in tick control.

Hikers and campers may want to use repellent materials on their jacket cuffs or the bottoms of their trousers. Also, Reagor recommends tucking trousers into the tops of socks or boots. Sleeves buttoned tight will also aid in protection.

The agent advises pet owners to examine their animals frequently. Light infestations can be controlled by rubbing carbaryl dust into the pet's hair. Also, treat the animal's sleeping quarters every week.

If a tick becomes attached to the skin, remove it with a slow, steady pull. Be careful not to break off its mouthparts. A drop of chloroform, isopropyl alcohol, ether, acetone or fingernail polish rubbed over the tick may help remove it. It can be removed a half-hour later with less damage to the skin because its oxygen supply is reduced.

Always apply an antiseptic to tick bites. If your hands touched the tick, wash them thoroughly with soap and water to reduce the risk of spreading disease.

Generous rain falls in June

Generous rainfall and stifling heat has marked the June weather here.

A total of 1.25 inches of rain fell the first week in June. 1.12 inches of this during a morning thunderstorm June 5. The following Wednesday, June 12, during the early morning hours, another .56 of an inch of rain was recorded.

At midafternoon Tuesday, clouds had gathered and the weather was hot and humid.

'85 International Ranchers Roundup to begin July 29

The Laredo Civic Center will be the site of the 1985 International Ranchers Roundup, to be held July 29-August 2, according to Billy Reagor, Crockett County Extension Agent.

"The Basics of Successful Ranching" will be the theme of the fifth annual IRR, the agent said. This year's program will include keynote luncheon speakers, and in-depth sessions on cow/calf production, stocker cattle operations, wildlife management, range management, the ranch family, ranch business management, and water, a critical ranch resource. Concurrent tours of progressive ranches will be held in Texas and Mexico on Friday, August 2.

"This program has received excellent input from ranchers, county agricultural Extension agents and others from the South Texas area, in addition to the comments from past participants," Reagor explained.

Social activities during the week-long activity will include a free hospitality hour on Monday, July 29; a "Night in Mexico" on Tuesday, July 30; and a banquet and western dance on Wednesday, July 31.

Tour participants must pre-register by July 1 so meals and tour buses can be arranged. Tour stops in Southwest Texas will include the Callaghan Ranch, north of Laredo; Zachry Ranch, south of Laredo; and Espuela Beefmasters, south of Laredo.

The Mexico ranch tour will include the Rancho Las Mujeres, Rancho Chavarría, and the Rancho La Heradura.

In order to pre-register for the tour and the program, and receive the $60 discount, interested persons may contact their local county Extension office.

Bohannons enjoy tour of England

Mr. and Mrs. John Bohannon recently returned from a tour of London and surrounding areas. The tour was in celebration of their 55th wedding anniversary. They left Dallas June 4, and returned June 13.

They toured London, Shakespeare country, Stonehenge, Bath. They also went to Windsor Castle, Castle Ardenel, and to Brighton.

While in London they had the privilege of seeing the "Trooping Of The Colors." This parade was a rehearsal of the Queen's birthday celebration to be held later. It is held annually in her honor. Tickets for the real event had been sold out for a year. In London, the Bohannons also attended the theatre.

On the last night, a special dinner was held for the Bohannons 55th anniversary by relatives in Texas and tour members. Cards and gifts were presented.

The Bohannons wish to thank all who helped them plan and prepare for this occasion. Special thanks go to Clayton at the Village Drug. He found the folding walking cane. Mrs. Bohannon says it helped her tremendously, going up steps in castles, cathedrals and museums.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hufstедler were in Ozona last week visiting his mother, Mrs. Ross Hufstедler, and friends.

The Scientists Tell Me . . . Capital Deterioration In Agriculture Can Have Long-Term Consequences

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Lower levels of farm output and higher food prices, by the late 1980s and early 1990s, are just two of the potential longrun effects of current low levels of investment in the United States farm sector, warns an agricultural economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University.

Capital deterioration is an overlooked cost of current farm financial distress and will have long-range major consequences, according to research by Drs. John B. Penson, Jr. and Dean W. Hughes, professor and associate professor in Agricultural Economics at Texas A&M and Texas Tech, respectively.

"There has been little reaction on the part of the general public to the financial distress currently being experienced by many farmers," Penson says, "and this is not surprising because these problems, as yet, have not significantly affected the availability and price of food and fiber products."

"However, in the long run, all consumers will be affected by the deterioration of the farming industry. Farm suppliers have already felt the pinch and numerous banking institutions are endangered or have failed."

"Since farming is a source of 'renewable wealth', when it feels the pinch, many small merchants and political entities experience a severe lessening of cash flow and taxes."

"We're witnessing the reversal of the 1960's and 1970's, when a seemingly endless growth of equity in land values financed heavy investments in bigger and better irrigation equipment, farm machinery, and farming methods designed to enable fewer farmers to farm more acres."

"Now, with a decline in land values, and farm products often in surplus quantities, farm returns when not negative, certainly don't justify replacing worn- or worn-out equipment. Total interest payments on production capital and other loans are now higher than net returns, on many farms."

"But continued postponement of investment in depreciable assets could create substantial problems in the economy later in the decade. To understand this, recall that productive value of depreciable assets, and the service flows they provide to production, fall off rapidly in the last few years of the asset's service life in the sector."

"Thus, the impact of a surge in investment in farm tractors back in 1970, for example, could result in a rapid decline in productive capacity of tractors on farms by the mid 1980s, as these machines reach the end of their service lives."

"Only a level of replacement investment in the mid-1980's large enough to offset this deterioration would prevent declines in raw food and fiber production."

"To assess the implications of recent low levels of investment in depreciable assets, our research sought to determine the long run impact on the capital stock, farm output, and food prices paid by consumers."

"We calculated the productive value of year-end stocks of depreciable assets through 1995. These values reflect our assumption of future annual real gross investment flows remaining at their 1983 level."

"Each asset category echoes the surge in investment which took place in the 1970's, that has not been offset by replacement investment. Our computations show this will cause declines in productive capacity that will begin showing up in the late-1980's and early-1990's."

"Tractors peak in 1981 and then decrease by 35 percent by 1995. Trucks and automobiles decline by 10 percent and 44 percent, respectively, from their peak values. Other depreciable assets decline by 34 percent, from a peak level in 1981."

"The stock of all machinery and equipment peaks in 1981 and then declines by 33 percent by 1995. Only real estate improvements show little deterioration by 1995. This can be attributed to the length of their service lives assumed in this study (40 years)."

"The 19 percent decline in the stock of total depreciable assets by 1995, coupled with the partial elasticity of production of 0.20 estimated in our study, translated into a four percent decline in aggregate farm output."

"This means that if replacement investment does not increase to offset this decline and if no substitutions take place among inputs, farm output will be four percent lower in 1995 than it was in the early-1980's. While surplus quantities, farm returns when not negative, certainly don't justify reduction in farm output, it must be remembered that domestic demand for farm commodities is highly inelastic."

"Estimates of price elasticity of demand for farm commodities range from -0.15 to -0.34. Thus, a four percent decline in farm output could cause anywhere from a 12 to 27 percent increase in the price of these commodities."

"Since farm commodities account for about one-third of the value of retail sales of food, an increase in farm commodity prices of about 20 percent could raise food prices to consumers by as much as seven percent."

"This partial analysis is not meant to be interpreted as a prediction of what will actually happen. Continued declines in depreciable farm assets could lead to an increase in the use of substitute inputs such as labor, which might keep farm output from falling as much as this partial analysis suggests," Penson cautions, "but it does explain why farm output has yet to decline and illustrates the extent to which food prices could increase, if current low levels of investment continue into the foreseeable future."

"Even if policies are changed quickly and interest rates decline, there will be echoes of recent low levels of farm investment over the next decade. Without substantial increases in investment by 1986, past low levels of investment may lead to a farm sector characterized by declining productivity."

"If this occurs, farm production would no longer help control inflation through low food prices, hold down negative trade balances, and sustain real economic growth, by producing more output with fewer inputs," Penson concluded.

"To assess the implications of recent low levels of investment in depreciable assets, our research sought to determine the long run impact on the capital stock, farm output, and food prices paid by consumers."

"We calculated the productive value of year-end stocks of depreciable assets through 1995. These values reflect our assumption of future annual real gross investment flows remaining at their 1983 level."

Rural electrification in its fiftieth year in 1985

This year is the 50th since electric lines began an unrelenting spread through rural Texas. With power available to less than 3 percent of Texas' farms and ranches in 1935, and the nation otherwise greatly depressed, some perceptive and influential leaders envisioned rural electrification as a doubly beneficial undertaking. Construction of electric facilities in rural areas would provide stimulus to industry and employment while it brought improved living conditions and greater productive capacity to rural people.

The national leader in position to get this under way was the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was interested not only in restoring prosperity to the nation generally, he was also interested in bringing rural America into the 20th Century socially and economically. And on May 11, 1935, he signed an Executive Order establishing the Rural Electrification Administration. The agency would lend money to utilities that would extend electric service throughout rural areas.

When existing utilities failed to take advantage of the opportunity, rural people began organizing cooperatively owned corporations to borrow the available funds and build lines. At the time, less than 3 percent of Texas' farms and ranches had electricity. So interest in this improvement was widespread. And during the years since, more than 80 electric cooperatives have been formed and today serve more than 99 percent of the state's rural areas.

The other beneficiary of this activity-business, from Main Street to Wall Street-has participated in the market the co-ops created as they invested more than $1.5 billion in system construction, and co-op members invested an estimated $4 in appliances and electric equipment for every dollar the co-op invested.

"The record is one co-op officials and their 5,100 employees and their member consumers can point to with understandable pride," observes the executive vice-president of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives, Jim Morris of Austin adds, "Rural electrification has been beset with obstacles from the very beginning. But the determination and hard work of local people and an adequate REA loan program have resulted in construction of more than 238,000 miles of line and electric service at more than a million meters...in all but 9 of Texas' 254 counties."

To mark the 50th Anniversary, the Texas Senate and House of Representatives adopted a joint resolution in March citing Texas' electric co-ops on their record. In mid April, Governor Mark White proclaimed May 11 as "Rural Electrification Day in Texas." Citing Bartlett Electric Cooperative for its pioneer role as the first REA-financed system in Texas to be energized, in 1936, the Texas Historical Commission installed an historical medallion May 11 at the site of the Co-Op's first office in Bartlett.

Monthly Bills Making You CRAZY?
Relax. There is a better way!
Is it a case of too much month left at the end of your money? If it is, maybe the answer is easier than you think.
Add up all of your bills. Then subtract that amount from your income. If the answer you get is not one you can live with, try another way.
Add up all of your bills. Then take out one of our easy, convenient consolidation loans. The monthly amount you pay back will be much less than the amounts you are paying each month for all of your bills.
Consolidation loans make life a lot easier — and calmer at the end of the month!
