Kitty's Korner

By
Kitty Montgomery

Things really heat up and get going around here when school gets underway with band and football practice, the principals in office and the faculty going back to school next week. A sleepy little town turns into a bee hive and although it's still summer according to the temperature, there is some promise that this too shall pass.

I don't have anything to expound on this week, so will mention a few things that do concern the town. The loss of three of our most respected citizens and their families have cast a pall on the community.

We deplore the loss of Stan Lambert. He is an energetic community worker, a great town booster, and indispensable in getting the new bank, Crockett County National, off the ground and into operation. In the short time he has lived in Ozona, he has made a lasting mark on the town and the community. He goes on to bigger and better things and we are happy for him although we regret the loss.

Ralph Anderson is leaving as minister of the Church of Christ. He will be missed by all of us as well as the church body. He is one of the kindest, most caring persons I have ever met. Any troubled soul could go to Ralph and feel better about almost anything. Full of love for his fellow man, he was balm to saint or sinner. During his years, he touched almost every family in town. He just has to be what Christianity is all about.

Then there is John Parks and the whole Parks family. They came here so long ago, the town became involved with the entire family. When John came here to assume the presidency of Ozona National Bank, the girls were just little tykes. We watched them grow up and admired Mary Helen's artistic talent through the years. John settled in at the bank and took his place in the community and we thought he would be here until retirement. We will miss the entire family along with the rest of the town.

The three will not be easy to replace, if indeed, we are lucky enough to replace one or two with someone of their stature. Most persons with their energy and expertise do not cotton to a small town. If they do, their families do not, and so it goes. It always hurts a town to lose even one good citizen, but to lose three creates a wound.

Steve Williams, West Texas Utilities manager, came in the office Tuesday and was all smiles. He knew the Ozona Stockman had gotten a substantial refund on the utility bill, and wanted his slice of gratitude.

He has been bringing news releases to that effect in for a couple of months now, and I thought it was a lot of propaganda. But "lo and behold," they really did it, and at a most opportune time I might add. The past billing period called for a very high usage in electricity, so the refund really helped. I told Steve, if I hadn't gotten that refund on the highest electric bill I have ever had, I would have been off to the poorhouse.

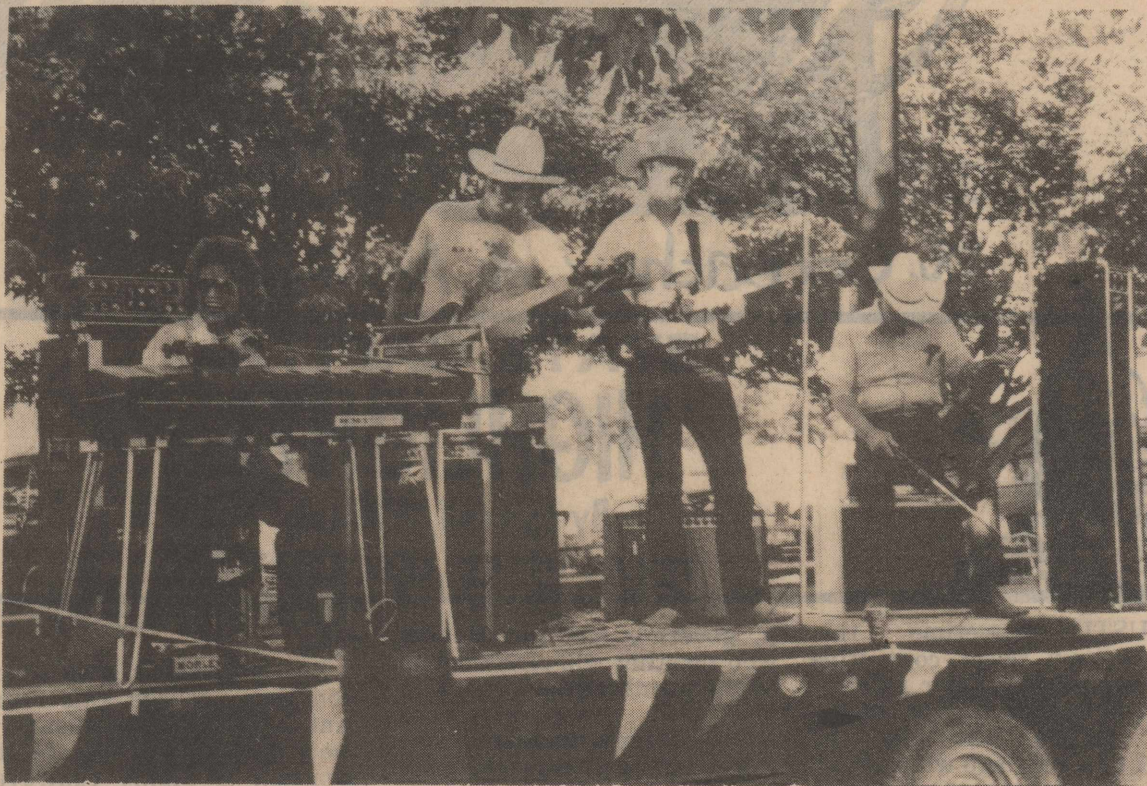

People don't realize that the managers of utilities do not make company policy and can do nothing about the rates, but they are there and it's just easier to jump on someone you can see and holler at.

Steve has had a pretty rough summer with people complaining about how high the bills are, so he is ready for a little relief. He hasn't had so much flack as the refunds are being made and is, no doubt, praying for cooler weather before the next meter reading.

Theft of sales tax indictment is returned

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday announced an Odessa grand jury has returned the state's first criminal indictment for theft of sales tax money.

In a case that could set a new precedent dealing with willfully delinquent sales taxpayers, Ector County grand jurors indicted Bill G. Overton of Odessa for theft of $68,000 Overton allegedly collected as sales tax but did not send to the State Comptroller. "Let this case be a warning to any business person who might be tempted not to send sales tax they have collected to the state," Bullock said.

Hometown talent shines at festival

We don't know if you can call it Bluegrass, but this local group put out some good old country-western over the weekend at the Bluegrass Festival. From left to right they are Willena

Holden, Lonnie Longoria, Jamie Knox, band leader, and J. D. Kilgore. Don Kilgore was a member of the group, but was taking a break when the picture was snapped.

Plans made to dedicate Ozona Heritage school

The Ozona Board of Trustees, meeting in regular session on Tuesday, August 13, discussed preliminary plans for the formal dedication of the Ozona Heritage School Sunday, September 22. Various state and local officials will be invited to participate in the event, and a tour of the building will be conducted at the conclusion of the ceremonies. Further details will be announced as soon as they are finalized.

Members approved the employment of several personnel. Brent Scott, a 1967 graduate of Sul Ross State University, was hired as art teacher in Ozona High School, and Judy Bradford, a 1968 graduate of Texas Tech University, was hired to teach mathematics in Ozona Middle School. Mrs. Gail Spence was approved for employment as secretary to the junior high school principal, Jack Probst.

The Board of Trustees also approved the district's plan for offering prekindergarten this year. In order to be eligible to attend prekindergarten, a child must be at least four years old on or before September 1 and (1) unable to speak and comprehend the English language; or (2) from a family whose income would qualify them for free or reduced-priced lunches. The prekindergarten program will operate on a half-day basis with separate classes being held in the morning and afternoon, and prekindergarten students will not be at school at lunch. Prekindergarten enrollment is optional with the parent.

They also approved the amended 1985-1986 school calendar, as well as the district's commitment to the Region XV Education Service Center for media services. Moore Oil Company's low bid for school gasoline also gained Board approval.

Superintendent Garland Davis announced that the 1985-1986 school budget will be presented for approval at the September meeting of the Board.

Grand Jury returns eight indictments

The 112th Judicial District Grand Jury handed down eight felony indictments last Wednesday in the court of District Judge Brock Jones, including two counts of attempted murder.

Billy Dale McGee of Crane was indicted on attempted murder charges resulting from a shooting incident involving Ralph Santana. McGee is charged with discharging a firearm at Santana. July 11, $7500 bond was posted and after the indictment was handed down, bond was raised to $20,000 and was posted August 15.

Dwayne Leroy Allen of Houston was also indicted Wednesday on a charge of attempted murder. He is charged with discharging a firearm at Marvin Ray Lewis. Bond was set at $15,000 and was posted by Allen.

Felony theft indictments were handed down against Ricky Dee Davis, Juan G. Rodriguez and Bill Lyttlon Black in connection with the theft of Baker Jewelers earlier this month.

Davis posted $10,000 bond. Rodriguez and Black remained in the Crockett County jail at press time.

Joel Castillo Calderon and Jose Cristoval Cardona were both indicted on charges of burglary. Calderon and Cardona are charged with entering the South Texas Lumber Company building when it was not open to the public with the intent to commit theft. Cardona, of Del Rio, posted $5,000 bond and Calderon remains in jail.

Malone Mitchell remains at large after he was indicted on a charge of theft by checks. Mitchell is charged with writing a $7,524.44 check which was returned for insufficient funds to Moore Oil Company. The check was signed by Mitchell, drawn on the account of Southwest Aircraft. Bond has been set at $5,000.

District court for the 112th Judicial District is scheduled for Thursday, September 12, at 2 p.m. in the district courtroom in Ozona.

Money for care-a-van reaches goal

The weekend Bluegrass Festival for the benefit of the Care-A-Van was not the huge success expected, however, money for the van has been raised and two more Auxiliary projects are on the planning board to get the finished product off to a good start.

The Ozona Womens League will sponsor a cake bake-a-thon over KRCT Radio, Sept. 28, and the Teacher Store and Small Fashions will hold a style show for the benefit of the van on Nov. 16.

Small crowds at the festival marked both days, and very few were on hand for the excellent Gospel program Sunday. However, the barbecue Saturday night was an unqualified success. Members of VFW Post catered the barbecue dinner with all the trimmings, and served about 160 persons. Members of the post cooked 30 briskets. Thirteen of these were served by members of the auxiliary at the fair grounds, and the remainder were sold to the general public, with profits going to the Auxiliary.

Several booths scattered around the park did not have good response either, due to the small crowd, which was limited, no doubt, due to hot weather. Both days the mercury climbed to or near to the 100-degree mark.

The out-of-town bands, some with members from out-of-state, put on a good show each day, but the local musicians were the hit of the show. A band from Big Lake on Sunday, got good reviews. Johnny Stegall, billed as the Rajun Cajun, put on the show. Stegall said it takes about three years of holding the festivals before they really catch on in this part of the country.

Auxiliary members sold tickets at the entrance under a tented canopy, which also offered sesquicentennial souvenirs.

Golf carts were used to transport festival goers from the gate to the park grounds. Those who failed to attend missed a fun, but hot Bluegrass Festival.

Thunderstorm brings rain shower

Hot days and hot nights have marked the weather for the week, but almost an inch of rain fell in these parts Wednesday night.

There was .7 of an inch in gauges on the west hill and Chandler addition, and Couch addition measured .9 of an inch.

Faculty returns to school Mon.

Court cancels meet to discuss hospital

The Crockett County Commissioners Court cancelled the meeting scheduled for Monday night, after discussing the indigent care bill recently passed by the Texas Legislature, which makes counties responsible for the medical care of indigents.

The law sets out different guidelines for counties with hospital districts, county hospitals, no hospitals, and private hospitals.

The court expects to learn just what the county's responsibilities are at a meeting next month in Austin, and will not make any decisions regarding the hospital until that time.

All small hospitals are having problems, both financially and due to the fact that they are not utilized by the people.

The Big Lake Hospital, operating under a hospital district, has sent out survey sheets to residents asking for reasons the hospital is not being used. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital in Sonora, endowed by the Hudspeth Estate, and operating with a board of directors, has elected to allow St. John's Hospital in San Angelo take over the management of the facility. The Mason hospital elected to lease the facility to West World, Inc., a California based organization which has taken over several hospitals in Texas.

Crockett County Hospital Board has heard from representatives from all the above, plus a proposal from Shannon Hospital to make the local facility an emergency operation. After carefully weighing every option, the local board recommended to the court that the hospital operate as it is presently operating, and go by the budget for 1985, while keeping its Medicare certification for as long as possible.

The board acts as a buffer for the court and is able to make recommendations, but any final decision must be made by members of the court.

Ranch home ties up traffic for some time Sunday morning. The home, which will house Wade and Jane Richardson and their brood, on the ranch near here came to a stop Saturday afternoon near the ball parks on 163 North. It had a permit to move at 7 a.m. Sunday morning. Things went pretty well until it was discovered it was too wide to move under any overpass. The rig had to travel to the overpass at Pandale Road before it could get on I-10 and reach its final destination at the ranch south of town. Here it makes the exit off I-10 to begin the journey down Hwy. 163.

FEEDING OUR SOLDIERS AMERICAN BEEF

Our American soldiers overseas contend with many hardships — low pay, bad hours, tough duty. But giving them soyburgers for six straight years may be an unfair test of their patriotism.

No offense intended to American soybean producers, but considering the problems of red meat producers in Texas and other parts of the U.S. today, the government shouldn't be adding soybeans to mess hall burgers.

Soyburgers have been served to GI's based in Europe since 1979, when President Carter responded to a national shortage of red meat by directing the military to reduce its red meat use.

The result was a 20-percent soy meal filler added to ground beef in military mess halls. The beef shortage went away, but the soyburger never did.

It's time to rescind that policy, and add in its place a couple of new ones to stimulate Uncle Sam's appetite for American-produced red meat during times of low prices and large supplies.

Uncle Sam — primarily the USDA — is already the largest food consumer in the nation because of its school lunch, family nutrition, military and other feeding programs. In my opinion, people in government-related food programs could benefit from more red meat.

Beef and lamb producers are suffering through the same farm financing and market fluctuations that crop farmers endure. But unlike a wide range of U.S. farm managers, they receive no government subsidies or supports on the meat they produce. Nor are they asking for any.

That doesn't mean the government can ignore them. Keeping U.S. red meat producers stable keeps their products available and affordable. It's just as important to consumers as the stability of other producers who now get direct help.

The "near-burger" given to more than two million GI's serves as an example of one way the federal government can use more American-grown red meat.

Increased federal purchases would allow more red meat meals in school lunch and family nutrition programs, even after we return 100-percent "meatburger" to Europe-based GI's.

U.S. military commissaries in Europe sell red meat produced in Europe near the bases, even though new shipping and packing technologies exist that would permit purchase of American red meat. An amendment to the House-passed 1986 military authorization bill would allow a six-month American red meat sales test by these commissaries using the new technologies. If the test is successful, these breakthroughs could broaden both military uses and overseas sales of red meat by bringing costs down.

In fact, the government can buy more American-produced red meat right now, under authority and appropriations that already exist. We could administratively fine-tune our buying programs to take advantage of bargain prices created by the free market's supply and demand.

In other words, we can help red meat producers without creating another perpetual government subsidy program. Nothing is added to the budget, consumer prices at the market earn new stability, and red meat producers give their business a badly needed shot in the arm.

In my opinion, it's worth a try.

Letters to the Editor

August 15, 1985
 Dear Kitty,
 I met you last fall in Ozona but I am sure you don't remember me. I was there with Congressman Loeffler. I am his Office Manager here in the San Angelo District Office. I read the Ozona Stockman each week and I want you to know I sincerely appreciated your comments regarding the bomb. I have just finished reading "Kitty's Korner"-August 14th edition.
 Thank you for such a beautiful article. You spoke my sentiments to the letter and I assure you you were speaking what so many others were thinking as well. I, also, remember that infamous Sunday even though I was only ten years old. The continuous coverage of the 40th anniversary of the bomb was very upsetting due to the fact that Pearl Harbor and other events were never mentioned.
 Again, thank you.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Sometime this fall, a new select committee will begin to consider reforms for the state's higher education system—just like the panel of a year ago which came up with "no pass, no play" and other public school reforms.

The Legislature took those proposed reforms and made many of them law in a controversial special session which produced the state's largest tax legislation.

While educators are wondering whether their pet issues will even make it out of committee, some legislators are more concerned with the price tag.

Will the higher education reforms necessitate another tax bill? Or could they actually result in getting rid of some moneywasters? Can higher education become more efficient?

The members haven't been named yet by the governor, the governor and the speaker, who together will pick the bulk of the membership.

Money, Quality

The battle to draw the agenda may include some of the following issues:

—Should college admissions standards be made more difficult across the board?

—Should some institutions be closed down or merged with other schools?

—Should colleges go back to holding classes on Saturdays and include more evening classes?

—Should students be required to pass exit exams, similar to the exam which graduating high school seniors will be taking this year.

Tough Politics

If you enjoy watching complicated politics, you'll love the careers-on-the-line decisions that promise to plague lawmakers in this drama.

Many a seasoned politico will tell you that local school politics are the toughest around, mainly because emotions are stronger when you're dealing with children and their futures.

But with the higher education issue, college kids represent a voting constituency of their own, and if the reform program is highly controversial it might turn into a hot campaign issue.

Legal Winner

On the subject of hot campaigns, the Justice Department last week quietly approved the special election in the First Congressional District.

Specifically, the feds found nothing amiss in the manner in which the governor and Texas secretary of state set the election date. The agency insisted it must approve the date to prevent violations of the Voting Rights Act.

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said the state will continue its appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court to prevent further infringements on state law.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

This is a critical time after so many hot, dry days so watering will likely be your most constant chore until we have some moisture.

Though this will be a low point for many gardeners, there is still much life and beauty left in rows of vegetables and beds of flowers. Its just a matter of rejuvenation, yours and the gardens. What we do now does show quick results. Newly planted grass soon greens up barren places, cleanly cultivated and re-fertilized tomatoes produce new crops, and freshly seeded hardy flowers come up quickly and may soon be potted if you wish.

Now is the time to take stock of how your garden grew this summer. If you were not satisfied, first take a look at your soil. Probably the greatest number of failures come from poor soil preparation. Hard baked ground indicates a lack of humus and fertility.

The abuse of our soil is avoidable. Too often we add no humus and the soil becomes lifeless and hard to work, poorly drained and generally non productive. In such instances, it might be wise to avoid trying a fall crop and concentrate on a rebuilding program. Turn the area deeply, fertilize lightly, and seed crimson clover late this month. It produces excellent top growth for turning under next spring. Even flower beds and old lawns respond extremely well to this program. Work the soil right and it will work for you, producing more beautiful flowers and a more abundant harvest of vegetables. In the early mornings or late afternoons try to enjoy your garden by just being there to get some pleasure out of all the hard work over the past months. This is the time for putting and not have to hurry.

I thought I would be writing you about the beautiful country of Ruidosa this week, but had to miss my trip due to my illness. Hope to be home soon to see all of you again.

Lady golfers meet for regular play

Every Man's Home Is ...

Sure, once it was comforting to think that your home was your castle. Castles don't provide the security they once did.

Better to view our homes as moral and spiritual fortresses. Here we can live our beliefs and principles, and provide example to our children. Here we shelter those we love from ideas and influences that would harm them.

Except that today only a fraction of life is lived at home. The individual must gain a strength and integrity to carry to the street!

It is gained—and shared with those we love—as families worship God.

At home and at church we build our castle!

Crockett County Care Center News

By Ann McCartney
Director of Activities & Social Care

Our Bluegrass Festival is a thing of the past. All I can say is that if you missed it you missed some very good music. If you heard it you know what I mean and we thank you for coming! There were so many who helped in so many ways with the festival that I am glad someone else has the chore of writing all the thank yous and submitting the names to the news media. I would forget someone for sure!

Last week was the week for our monthly birthday celebration for all residents having an August birthday. Those honored included Trinidad Alvarado, Granny Carter, and Ola Mills. Hospital and Care Center Auxiliary members Mattie Cooper, Dorothy Doll, Clara Byrd, and Vivian Hughes served cake, furnished by Polly Mayes, punch, pinned flowers, donated by Maxine's Flowers, and gave a musical program.

On Tuesday our residents were given a very informative program on the raising of bees and honey by Lane Scott. He even gave us a sample of his good honey and honeycomb.

Wednesday I ventured over to Big Lake for our quarterly Activities Director's meeting but ceramic class was conducted as usual thanks to volunteers like Janet Wilson, Doris Karr, and Marie Pierson.

In the afternoon on Wednesday Ninfa Cervantez played the piano while volunteers Dorothy Doll and Janet Wilson served watermelon to our residents. Thanks goes to Edmundo Vargas for bringing this big melon and to Jose Arredondo for donating watermelons earlier in the week.

Our beauty shop was manned this week by Clara Byrd, Vivian Hughes, and Mary Jo Lipham. Thanks, friends! Bible study Thursday was led by Ted Turnley. Glenda Henderson played the piano. This was followed by Spanish Hour of Praise led by Maria Vitela, Mariana Hernandez, Norma Flores, Yolanda Martinez, Isabel Molina, Beatriz Galvan, and Blanco Castro.

Tuesday and Friday bingo winners included Tomasa Ramoz, winner of the El Chato dinner for two and overall winner of the week of the gift certificate from Watson's Department Store. Gracie Cotter was second place winner. Volunteers included Lelia Tambunga, Elodia Zapata, Alice Ross, Minnie Karr, Jodie Barton, Teresa Sanchez, Sister Elena Sanchez, Dorothy Doll, Mattie Cooper, Anna Bell Patrick, Sophia Tijerina, and Courtney Nelson.

Last Friday we had a fun activity out on the front porch. Volunteers Dorothy Doll and Marie Pierson helped our residents with Kick-the-Can ice cream. A mix was placed in a one pound coffee can, wrapped, then put in a three pound coffee can. Ice, ice cream salt, and more wrapping was applied and then the cans (we made two) were kicked from one end of the porch to another. Friends, this really will work if we stick with the kicking long enough. It is a real fun activity and I will be glad to share the recipe.

Saturday afternoon our residents were treated to Bluegrass music by festival volunteers Gene Pyeatt, Joe Kits, David Hickman, Kevin Craig, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fitzgerald. Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald and Bill Burns returned for another performance. We really appreciate all these people giving of their time to entertain our residents.

Sunday afternoon church services were brought by Jim Gray, Patti Racher, and Terry Racher, of the First Baptist Church.

Arthritis related conditions should be taken seriously

If you have "clergyman's knee," "tailor's seat," "tennis elbow" or "trigger finger," what you really have is a form of bursitis or tendinitis, reports the Arthritis Foundation.

"These and other slang expressions are often used to describe inflammatory conditions which affect structures around the joints in various parts of the body," said Nancy Lathrop, Field Representative of the Texas Gulf Coast Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. "These bursitis or tendinitis conditions may result from sudden stress to the affected area or repetition of movements in sports or as part of a person's work."

Clergyman's knee is an inflammation of the bursa (a small cushion-like structure over the kneecap) just in front of the knee. Tailor's seat or Weaver's bottom describes inflammation over the bone in someone's "seat", caused by too much sitting down. Tennis elbow is an inflammation of the ligaments just below the elbow. It can happen to anyone who uses the muscles in the hand and forearm frequently. Trigger finger is due to an inflammation of the tendons which bend the fingers.

These forms of inflammation often start suddenly, but usually last only a short time and rarely cause permanent damage. The main symptom is pain, which may become so severe that any movement is very difficult. Sometimes, swelling may occur in the affected area.

"Treatment for these conditions usually involves resting the joint, using some form of heat or cold on the affected area, taking medication and gradually exercising the area to regain strength," said Lathrop.

For more information on these arthritis-related conditions, contact the Texas Gulf Coast Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation and request a copy of the brochure titled, "Bursitis, Tendinitis and Related Conditions." Call (713) 468-6572 or write 9111 Katy Freeway, Ste. 210, Houston, Texas 77024.

Crockett County Library Notes

By Louise Ledoux

I have just recently returned from a Library Workshop in Abilene. The workshop covered the basic principles of Intellectual Freedom, Collection Development, and Censorship. Linda Webster, Co-Author of Censorship: A Guide for Successful Workshop Planning, and Beatrice Takacs of the Big Country Library System were instructors. The workshop was very informative.

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that certain basic policies should guide their services. These are the Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read statement.

Librarians have a professional responsibility to be inclusive, not exclusive, in collection development and in the provision of interlibrary loan. Collection development and the selection of materials should be done according to professional standards and established selection and review procedures.

Intellectual freedom, the essence of equitable library services, promotes no causes, furthers no movements, and favors no viewpoints. It only provides for free access to all expressions of ideas through which any and all sides of a question, cause, or movement may be explored. Librarians cannot justly permit their own preferences to limit their degree of tolerance in collection development, because freedom is indivisible.

It is the responsibility of librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large. Librarians believe that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

Friends of the Library group have contributed $2950 with 18 life members, 45 active members and 34 associate members for a total of 97 members.

BOATER'S BEWARE

It is estimated that one-quarter of all Texans will be involved in some kind of boating activity this year. Drowning is the third overall cause of accidental death and claims almost 500 lives in Texas each year.

Factors related to drowning: Three out of four boating-related drownings happen very quickly after the victim enters the water. Non-swimming victims often disappear within 20 to 60 seconds after entering deep water. Why do they drown so quickly? Coast Guard research has shown that such drownings usually involve three factors: an inability to swim or stay afloat, alcohol or drug use, and cold water.

Although good swimmers can get into trouble in the water, most drowning victims can't swim. Two-thirds of them did not intend to enter the water, but somehow trip, slip or fall in. And people who don't plan to go into the water are less likely to be wearing a personal flotation device (PFD) beforehand.

Middle Aged Men Especially Susceptible:

Boating accident victims often are middle-aged, out-of-shape men who are poor or non-swimmers. They are most likely standing or walking in a small boat when they fall overboard or the boat capsizes. At their age and condition, they simply can't handle sudden immersion into cold water. Many panic, some may even suffer a heart attack. Further, quick depletion of body heat results in hypothermia and additional helplessness. The result is rapid drowning unless someone is able to rescue them fast. Alcohol and drugs often contribute to a victim's demise. In some cases, companions are also intoxicated and unable to perform a rescue.

Falls From Non-Moving Small Craft: About half of all boating-related fatalities involve falls from non-moving small craft in calm water. A sudden splash into cold water multiplies the body's heat loss rate by 25 times, leading to immersion hypothermia (dangerous lowering of body temperature), a common killer of those participating in outdoor recreation. And the water doesn't have to be very cold for hypothermia to set in, although hypothermia is more likely during the cooler portions of the recreational season such as spring. Prevention:

How can people protect themselves from drowning? First and most important, LEARN TO SWIM!! People should also wear a PFD anytime they are in a boat and observe all other rules of boating safety. They should avoid excessive alcohol whenever they are boating alone. They should choose their swimming place with care, especially in the country where there are no lifeguards nor sure indicators of water quality. If they do not swim well, they should stay out of deep or rough water.

Also, people should learn what to do if they should suddenly find themselves in the water. Many believe they should immediately take off their clothing, that clothes will drag them down. Water safety experts disagree, saying that light clothing can help save you. It traps air, which will help insulate against the cold water and slow the onset of hypothermia, and also help you to float. Try to relax and float horizontally on your back.

If others are nearby, stay with a capsized boat until rescued. If alone and the water is cold, put on a PFD if not wearing one, or secure something that will float and swim steadily toward the shore without panic or delay. More often than not, immersion accidents happen near a dock, shore or shallow water, close enough so that most people could paddle themselves to safety. It is wise to practice these maneuvers while fully clothed in a safe pool or place of shallow water.

Care Center Auxiliary reaches goal for van in four months

We did it!! Thank you Ozona for supporting our cause. In four short months you have helped us raise the $20,000 necessary to purchase our van for the Care Center residents.

We still have two projects left we had already planned before we knew our goal would be met so quickly, so our next two projects will go to the Van Activities that will enable the Auxiliary to have dinners out, picnics and San Angelo, Big Lake and Sonora trips all ready to start when our van arrives.

To the guys at the VFW who spent many hours preparing our barbecue Saturday night, we want to thank you from the bottom of our hearts. This is a super bunch who did a lot of hard work. Although our turnout for the Festival was light, those who enjoyed the music were very pleased. Our booths suffered somewhat from the lack of a crowd but all admitted it was worth a try and hope to have another next year. To Ty McKinney, Will Seahorn, Julie Childress and Jennifer Davidson many thanks for the golf cart drivers and Coke workers, along with young legs to run errands.

Also thanks to the Lions Club workers who helped man the gates, especially Dorris Haire and Jim Caldwell. We do greatly appreciate your suffering the heat.

Of course, without the bands, Johnny Stegall, Jamie Knox and Willena Holden for the sound system, and local music group, it would never have come off. To the Ozona Stockman and WTU and KCTV for all the advertising help, our local law, ambulance personnel, and Charlie Sizemore for his tent and chairs....you all made it so much easier for us all.

We had a great weekend and appreciate all who weathered the heat to enjoy Bluegrass Music.

Microwave ovens are time savers

Microwave ovens are one of today's biggest time-savers, but Baylor College of Medicine doctors warn that using one to heat a baby's bottle can result in serious injuries and less nutritious milk.

"Milk heated in a microwave oven can reach temperatures high enough to actually burn a baby's mouth, throat or stomach," said Peter Andrus, M.D., assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor. "Since microwaves heat liquids, but not containers, parents and baby sitters are often unaware of how hot the milk becomes."

Enough heat can be generated by a microwave to build up steam and cause the milk container to explode, which could result in mother and baby suffering cuts or serious burns from the milk.

The uneven heat distribution of microwaves creates small pockets of intense heat in different parts of the bottle, said Judy Hopkinson, Ph.D., a researcher at Baylor's Children's Nutrition Research Center. The high temperatures destroy the vitamins in formulas and break down the disease-fighting antibodies in human milk.

"If a mother is providing breast milk with the intention of giving her baby these substances that assist in preserving health and promoting wellness, then it is pointless to defeat that purpose by using a microwave," Hopkinson said.

The best way to heat formula or human milk is to place the bottle in a bowl of warm running water or shake it gently under warm running water. Test the temperature of the milk by sprinkling a few drops on the back of the hand. If the milk feels too warm on the back of the hand, it will be too warm for the baby.

"Babies are not nearly as worried about the temperature of milk as parents are," Andrus said. "Once it reaches room temperature, the baby's main concern is eating."

1 qt. of milk
 1/2 cup of Crisco
 1 cup sugar

Sald these ingredients, do not bring to a boil, remove from heat and cool to just warm. Then add 1 yeast cake dissolved in 1/4 cup cold water. Sift in enough flour, about 5 cups, to make a waffle-like batter, mix well and place in a warm place to rise. Then sift in 1 tablespoon of salt, 1 rounded teaspoon soda, 1 heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Work in enough flour to make a soft dough (about 4 cups) and place in refrigerator to chill, covered. Pinch off dough and place in greased pans, let rise and bake at 400-degrees.

Vignettes . . . . .

Remembering some stories heard over the years in Ozona

BY EVART WHITE

END OF AN ERA

I read in last week's 29-Years Ago column where the General Telephone Co. notified County Judge Houston Smith that it planned to install an unattended dial system (no operators) in its Ozona telephone system. The system was to have been installed in mid 1957.

That announcement heralded the end of an era.

For Ozonans of the time it meant no Claude. Ozonans were thrilled at the announcement of progress but at the same time sad that it meant that no longer could they pick up the telephone and hear that melodious "Number, please?" which everybody recognized as the voice of Claude Butler, long time "hello girl" at the Ozona Telephone Co. exchange. The charming smile that greeted visitors to the phone office was somehow transmitted over the phone lines when you took down the receiver and waited for Claude to inquire the number you wanted.

It was not always just a number to give her. Maybe old George or Tom was somewhere in town, you didn't know where. But chances were that Claude did know where he was and you had only to ask her if she could find George for you. And very soon, she'd report somebody had talked with him a few minutes ago at such and such a place and she'd call there for him. And before you could have looked up a number in the book, Claude had your party on the line.

World wide telephone service today is one of the wonders of the age. Almost instant connection with London, Paris, Tokyo or any place on the globe. But never again will we enjoy the personal, friendly charming, accommodating home town service so captivantly sent over the telephone lines in the smiling voice of our Claude.

Frank Mills-- West Texas Lawman

[Ed. note: Third in a series written by Sue Bradley Burroughs for a Texas History course at Angelo State University in 1969.]

Although the following case did not develop in Coleman County, Sheriff Mills was called in to help solve it. This case, known as the "Hanging Skeleton" Case developed in Eastland County May 1, 1933 when H. L. McBee disappeared from his home. About a year and a half later his skeleton was found hanging in a tree near Rising Star. After careful investigations and later admissions, it was found that Raymond Henry, Mrs. McBee's suitor and later husband, had killed McBee by stabbing him with an ice pick. Henry, Mrs. McBee, and five others then buried McBee on May 2, 1933. About three weeks later they disinterred the body and hanged it in a tree in hopes it would be found soon and the act of suicide would be presumed.

However, as a result of the excellent work of lawman Mills, it was proved that murder and not suicide had taken place. Mills had gone to the scene of the hanging. Here the sheriff had measured carefully the wire by which the body hanged. He found that a slip knot, which was essential in a hanging, could not have been made with that length of wire. He then concluded that suicide was out of the question. By using a piece of quilt which was found near by Sheriff Mills built up a case piece by piece which eventually sent Henry to prison for fifty years. Another accomplice committed suicide.

Because of his work on the McBee case, Sheriff Mills again received a lot of praise. Special Investigators Joe Thompson and John T. Cope of the Texas Public Safety Commission were very high in the praise for the Coleman County Sheriff. These men said they sought the aid of Mills in this and another murder case about the same time because he was the "best sheriff in Texas." Sheriff Mills also received further praise from the criminal district attorney Grady Owen and the special attorney for the prosecution Allen D. Dabney. They wrote Mills:

Please permit us to extend our thanks and grateful appreciation for your excellent work in connection with the solution of the H. L. McBee murder case in which your assistance was recently requested.

...you have given unstintingly of your time and efforts in this connection, and the highly satisfactory results obtained in your efforts speak well indeed for your energy and capabilities as a man, an officer and an investigator.

If the state of Texas had more sheriffs and peace officers of your calibre, energy and ability, we certainly would have greater efficiency in solving crimes, and in bringing about more law abiding conditions in our great state.

Therefore, we again desire to extend to you our very great appreciation, and assure you that if there is anything we can do that will partially repay our debt of gratitude we will be very happy to favor you.

By far the most famous case that Frank Mills had dealings in was the George (Machine Gun) Kelly-Urschel kidnapping case. Kelly was one in a gang who had kidnapped Charles F. Urschel, a wealthy Oklahoma City oilman in 1936. The gang was able to secure a $200,000 ransom from the family. Kelly's part of the ransom money was $73,250.

After learning that Kelly was involved in Urschel's kidnapping, Frank Mills decided to keep a look out on Cass Coleman's farm in Coleman County. Said Mills:

We knew Coleman was Kathryn Kelly's uncle...We knew Kathryn had visited here a number of times since she moved away in 1928, and we figured she or Kelly, and likely both, would come into this country for a hideout on familiar ground. We kept watch on Coleman's place, and once barely missed getting Kelly. He ought to have been our meat.

Sheriff Mills kept a stake out on the Coleman farm for several weeks before anything broke.

According to him:

We began working on Coleman urging him to confirm our suspicion that some of the ransom money was hidden on his farm. Finally, Tuesday morning, he sent word he wanted to talk to me. I went to his place, but he backed off and told me nothing of value. Winstead and I then arrested him, and put him in jail here in Coleman.

Tuesday morning we carried him back to the farm, and guarded him all day in his own home, urging him to come across with the story. Along in the afternoon one of our men came out to the farm with a copy of the Abilene Reporter announcing Kelly's arrest in Memphis.

We showed that to Cass, and he began to weaken. About dark he announced he was ready to lead the way to the money. We decided though to wait until the other federal officers got here. They got out to the farm around 11:30, and we went at once to the cotton patch and well, Cass Coleman leading the way. He showed us right where the stuff was buried, about 18" deep, in the thermos jug and bucket.

The location was near an abandoned well in the center of a one hundred acre cotton patch. Ten feet from the well was a clump of four small willow trees growing close together. This served as the landmark for Kelly.

Cass Coleman then proceeded to walk off three yards from the willow tree. "You'll find the thermos jug down there," he said pointing at his feet. He then stepped off four yards from the bucket. "The syrup bucket is down there," he declared. According to the Brownwood Bulletin $43,000 was in the one gallon thermos jug and $30,250 in the syrup bucket.

Sheriff Mills told of a futile wait for Kelly to arrive at the Coleman farmhouse by describing how each window in the Coleman house was covered by himself, a deputy or a "G-Man" with the farmer and his wife hoyered in one room, and the officers tense whenever a car was heard. Of this time, Mills said, "I was scared to death."

With Kelly captured in Memphis and Coleman charged in Coleman, another exciting chapter closed in the life of Frank Mills. He later played himself in a movie about the Urschel kidnapping.

Myths concerning seat belts

It is indeed strange thinking about seat belts that permits so much death and suffering in the name of personal convenience and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

Most of this "strange thinking" is based on a number of common myths about seat belts, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A and M University System.

--Myth: Seat belts are unnecessary for short trips.

Fact: More than 70 percent of injury-causing traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of home, according to the National Safety Council. More than 80 percent of all collisions happen at speeds of under 40 mph. People who were not wearing seat belts have been killed in accidents that occurred at speeds as low as 12 mph--about the speed you would be driving in a parking lot.

--Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and I'd rather be thrown clear.

Fact: "Thrown clear" is a misnomer. Being thrown from a vehicle usually means flying through the windshield or catapulting out a door. The force of a collision can fling you as much as 150 feet onto a roadside object, into the path of oncoming traffic or scraping along the pavement. For these reasons, if you are thrown from a vehicle in an accident, your chances of being killed are 25 percent greater. What's more, instead of being trapped, belted occupants are likely to be conscious and unhurt, and therefore better able to escape in the rare situation where fire or submersions are added dangers.

--Myth: Seat belts cause injuries.

Fact: study after study in the United States and abroad show a substantial decrease in the number of serious injuries in actual auto accidents among those who are belted versus those who aren't. In the rare instances where injuries due to belts have been reported, either the belt was inappropriately worn or the crash was so severe that the occupants would have been killed or seriously injured if they had been unbelted.

--Myth: I don't need belts since I'm a careful driver.

Fact: No matter how good a driver you are, you can't control the other car. There's no way to protect yourself against someone else's bad driving, poor judgements or mechanical failures. Even good drivers can be killed or injured in a crash.

--Myth: I don't need seat belts; I can brace myself.

Fact: The force of an impact at just 10 mph is equivalent to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window, according to the National Safety Council. At 35 mph, the force of an impact is even more brutal. There's no way your arms and legs can brace you against that kind of force--even if you could react in time.

Oil and gas activities for first half of year

Oil and gas operators in Texas reported 8,527 oil and 2,576 gas completions in the first half of 1985, according to Railroad Commission Chairman Buddy Temple. During the same period last year, 9,226 oil and 2,622 gas completions were reported.

However, the number of oil discoveries increased from 353 in the first six months of 1984 to 390 in the first half of this year. During the same period, gas discoveries dropped from 701 to 639. A discovery is an exploratory well that is completed in a previously untapped reservoir.

In June, a total of 86 oil and 105 gas discoveries were filed.

Oil discoveries in June included two in the Refugio area (District 2), 16 in deep South Texas (District 4), one in East Central Texas (District 5), 52 in West Central Texas (District 7B), seven in the San Angelo area (District 9), and three in the Panhandle (District 10).

Gas discoveries included six in the San Antonio area (District 1), 23 in the Refugio area (District 2), 21 in Southeast Texas (District 3), 60 in deep South Texas (District 4), six in East Central Texas (District 5), four in East Texas (District 6), four in West Central Texas (District 7B), one in the San Angelo area (District 7C), and three in North Texas (District 9).

The total number of completions reported in June included 1,335 oil wells, 442 gas wells, and 60 service (non-producing) wells. That compares with 1,453 oil, 410 gas, and 81 service completions in May.

A total of 499 dry holes were reported in June, compared to 518 in May.
