Kitty's Korner

Kitty Montgomery

Today marks the 74th birthday of the Ozona Stockman, as you may notice by the new volume number and number one on the right side of the mast head. We do this every year and hardly notice it, but thought we would call your attention to it this year. So many have asked about the significance of the Volume and paper numbers, we thought we would give a brief explanation. The volume number denotes the number of years, and the paper number on the right denotes the issue in the year. Since there are 52 weeks in the year, we keep track by the 52 numbered papers. When we get to number 52, we return to number one and raise the volume number one number. It's almost as easy to keep track of as an annual birth date. Next year, when we are 75, we will have a party and invite you all, provided of course, we are still holding out at age 75. I think the rest of the staff will make it, but I have some doubts about yours truly.

I haven't been here for them all, but this newspaper has met 3848 deadlines as The Ozona Stockman. I have been at the helm for 15 years when July 1, of this year rolls around. I began my career in the newspaper business under the old master Evert White, who was responsible for the growth and modernization of this newspaper, more than anyone else. If I have any talent at all for it, Mr. White is directly responsible.

When I began work at the newspaper, I had no training with the exception of several years in radio and television. Writing 60-second spots for commercials and doing the nightly weather hardly qualified me as a newspaper woman. However, I thought it would be interesting and Mr. White gave me a chance.

I had been working for about six months without instruction when I decided to ask Mr. White how I was progressing. He just told me to keep doing what I was doing, however, I am sure he did a lot of blue pencil work before my copy got to the linotype. We were putting out a paper the hard way at that time. I began writing this column, just for the fun of it. It soon became a real chore, but before long I was writing it on demand with much prodding from Mr. White. He had a way of getting a lot of work out of you without your knowing it, and to this day I still depend heavily on his gentle advice.

I like to say I bought the paper so I could get out of writing a weekly column, but I still feel guilty when I skip it. A lot of really terrible things happened to me when I was a novice. The first, was when I got the wrong woman's name under a picture. The paper had hardly hit the street until I got a telephone call that almost burst my eardrum. I immediately dissolved into tears. That brought some firm advice from Mr. White. He said "Now honey, if you're going to be in the newspaper business, you've got to develop a hide like an alligator." I worked on this, and it wasn't long before I began to grow scales. In the years since, I've been threatened by phone and in person and maligned without mercy in some cases, but my hide is still intact.

To do this kind of work week after week and year in and year out, you have to love it, and I guess we all do. However, there are times when I feel I have developed a love-hate relationship with the newspaper. I just own the building which houses it; it owns me, and has a good interest in the rest of the staff.

So, today is "Happy birthday to The Ozona Stockman, and may all the deadlines be met for another 74 years."

Result of a burglary at Pepe's Restaurant during the night Wednesday. Besides taking the cash registers, meat was stolen and heavy damage was evident inside the restaurant Thursday morning. Broken glass littered the floor and plants and appliances were overturned.

Officers investigating thefts and robbery

The Crockett County Sheriff's Department has been busy investigating several burglaries and an armed robbery which took place during the past week. Also, a murder suspect was picked up by the Highway Patrol. A 45-year-old Ohio man was arrested by Texas Highway Patrolmen Thursday ten miles west of Ozona on I-10. Investigation turned up a murder charge against the suspect in Vinton County, Ohio. He was also driving a stolen vehicle. He was jailed and released to Ohio authorities Saturday.

When Alfredo Tobar came down to Pepe's Restaurant Thursday morning he discovered the place had been burglarized and almost destroyed on the inside. The thieves had attempted to enter through the roof of the building, but failing to gain entry there, broke open a back door and demolished the place. Several hundred dollars worth of meat was taken from the frozen food storage, along with the cash registers with an undetermined amount of money.

The burglars had apparently parked a car behind the Stockman office, as change was scattered from the restaurant and down the alley. Several beer cans were found along with frozen biscuits and pizza topping. While searching the area for clues, it was discovered the tool box on the television cable truck had been broken open and an electric drill and staple gun were missing. However, officers found a letter with a San Angelo man's address near the site, and it led to the arrest of a 22-year-old man who was arrested and released on bond the next day. He was also charged with making terroristic threats by telephone to Tobar.

An armed robbery at Shot's #4 is still under investigation by officers. The robbery occurred at 4:50 Saturday morning when Gloria Rivera was on duty at the store. Mrs. Rivera was talking on the telephone when a man came into the store and pointed a pistol at her. She was apparently frozen with fear, but did manage to ask the caller to call the police. The man, around 5 feet, 6 inches tall, wore orange pants and a blue jacket with a hood which concealed his face, jumped over the counter and took a bag of money and the cash register. He never said a word, according to Mrs. Rivera, just pointed the gun at her. He made his get-away down an alley by the side of the store. Officers later found the cash register with a small amount of change in it. The case was still under investigation at press time.

Early Thursday morning Mayfield Construction reported a burglary. Taken were a boat motor, a chain saw and a vise. This case is also under investigation. At the same time an Ozona citizen reported an attempted burglary of his residence.

A good samaritan turned thief near here Sunday. A Wilmington, Del. man who broke down on I-10 reported the person who assisted him with his disabled vehicle had also stolen some of his possessions. Taken in the theft were a CB, the antenna, a Polaroid camera, a two-ton jack and some hand tools. Officers are investigating.

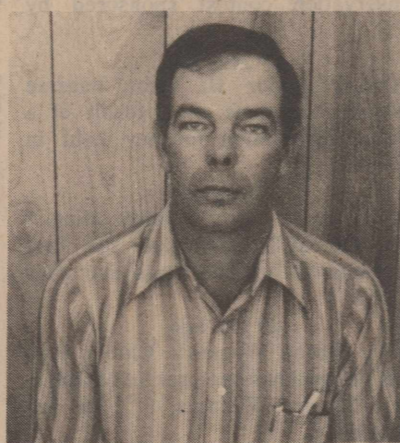

Tuesday morning officers were investigating a ranch theft. A Grapevine, Texas man reported the theft of a wood-burning stove, two Coleman lanterns and a tool box from his ranch about 43 miles southwest of Ozona, in Crockett County.

In other activity during the week, two men were arrested for DWI, one on a charge of possession of a controlled substance, and an out-of-state man for auto theft. Also, a vehicle tire slashing was reported at a local motel.

Tommy Wilson seeks school board position

Tommy Wilson has announced his candidacy for school board. Tommy was a teacher and coach in the Ozona schools for eleven years. He taught two years at the sixth grade level, four years at the eighth grade level, and five years in high school. He coached junior high girls' basketball for two years. He coached junior high boys' football, basketball, and track for four years.

His last four years were spent as head boys' basketball coach in high school, as well as varsity assistant in football and track.

Tommy believes that the wide range of experiences listed above will make him a valuable asset to the Ozona Public Schools. He wants to serve the school system and the community.

Tommy is now a contract pumper. He and his wife, Leslie, have two daughters: Adriane, 14, and Myra, 11. They live at Crockett Heights.

Tommy would greatly appreciate your vote.

Brooks Dozier buried today in Henderson

Funeral services for Brooks Dozier, 58, will be held this afternoon, Wednesday, at 4 o'clock in First Baptist Church in Henderson, with burial to follow in Lakewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Dozier died Monday at 3:55 p.m. in Henderson Memorial Hospital in Henderson. He was born Sept. 25, 1927, in Brownwood. The Doziers made their home in Ozona from 1959 until the late '60s. He was head basketball coach and his wife, Faye, taught in elementary school. They moved to Alpine from Ozona, where he coached at Sul Ross University. He recently finished his coaching career as basketball coach at Henderson High School.

Survivors include his wife, Faye, of Henderson; two daughters, Johnette Harris of Marshall, and Nanda Dozier of Henderson; a son, Brooks Dozier III, of Henderson, a foster brother and one grandchild.

The Crawford A. Crim Funeral Home in Henderson is in charge of arrangements.

Public School Week late in Ozona

Public schools across the state will be observing Texas Public Schools Week on March 3-7, but Ozona schools have something a little bit different planned. Since Ozona students will have six weeks tests that week, the local schools will be holding activities a week later.

Open houses at each of the four schools will be held on Thursday, March 13, from 7:00-8:30 p.m., and everyone is welcome to attend.

Numerous blazes keep firemen busy

The Ozona Volunteer Fire Department had a busy week beginning Tuesday, February 18.

The first call came Tuesday when a small grass fire broke out around the Community Center in Ozona. The fire was quickly extinguished.

High winds brought another call on the 18th. At 3:22 p.m. firemen were called to the Bob Oglesby Ranch to a grass fire. The fire started in Crockett County and spread into Schleicher County on Highway 190. The high winds and dry conditions gave firemen a rough time. The fire damage was 3 to 4 miles long and 1/2 mile wide. Firemen were on the scene at 3:46 p.m. and had the fire out and were back in town by 6:35. Ozona had 4 units, using 3600 gallons of water.

Sixteen men responded from Ozona. Besides Ozona's 4 units firemen from Eldorado, Sonora, Barnhart and Big Lake also were on the scene and assisted. A total of nine firetrucks fought the fire.

Wednesday, February 19, firemen were again called out. A Volkswagen van was on fire at the 378 mile marker, 11 miles east of Ozona on I-10. Firemen received the call at 7:17 p.m. The van was completely involved with fire. Owner was Mike Dickens of Spicewood, Texas. Ozona firemen used three vehicles and 22 men responded. 500 gallons of water were used and 5 gallons of foam. Fire Chief Dorris Haire reported the vehicle contained an aluminum alloy requiring the foam.

Time capsule delayed until San Jacinto Day

Texas will be 150 years old officially Sunday, March 2. The Crockett County Sesquicentennial committee had originally planned to collect items for a time capsule to be opened March 2, 2036, but through some mix-up in plans the date has been changed to April 21, San Jacinto Day.

Every Texan is urged to ring a bell Sunday in observance of Texas Independence day and for the Sesquicentennial. This is a statewide affair and bells will be rung here. The committee has been unable to set a time due to illness and out-of-town commitments, but before the week is over, the time for bell-ringing will be posted on the announcement board at the courthouse annex.

Plans have been made for a local wagon train to meet up with the Texas Sesquicentennial train which will be in Barnhart March 21.

Educators being assigned testing sites for TECAT

More than 200,000 educators who will take the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers (TECAT) on March 10 are now being assigned to testing sites in 253 Texas counties.

Texas Education Agency officials say efforts are being made to assign test-takers to examination sites in their own school districts if at all possible.

No educator will be required to leave his or her county to take the TECAT, except in the case of Loving County, where no schools are located and no test site is needed.

Computer errors or mistakes made by educators on TECAT registration forms may cause some teachers and administrators to inadvertently receive assignments to out-of-county testing locations.

Those who feel they have been mistakenly assigned should call the toll-free TECAT hotline at 1-800-553-5553.

AUSTIN—Governor Mark White last week unveiled the first step of his plan to solve the state's $1.3 billion budget crisis, but speculation grows about a summer special session.

White says a special session isn't necessary at this time and issued his executive order urging the heads of each state agency and state university to cut 13 percent of their budgets.

Two questions are apparent in this strategy: can the agencies find 13 percent worth of cuts, and will they?

Agency heads responded in the spirit of cooperation, even though White's executive order is not legally binding.

Nevertheless, these agencies don't want to face wrathful House and Senate budget committees next session, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis praised White's move.

Nor do they want to risk crossing Comptroller Bob Bullock, who, if history repeats itself, will quietly come up with the answer the Legislature needs to solve the crisis.

Special Session

One group representing public employees has already called on White to bring lawmakers back into a special session, but neither White nor the lawmakers want that to happen anytime before Election Day.

White tried it the summer before election '84 and was weakened when voters defeated several of the legislators who voted for his tax hike.

It's no secret that many Democrats are disgruntled with White, to say the least, and are trying to distance themselves from him politically.

Still, a scenario that some are starting to pass around has White calling a special session this summer to cut spending without a tax hike. Some contend he might limit the call to include the prohibition of a personal state income tax.

This maneuver would allow Democrats to establish themselves as fiscal conservatives, which many of them are, in spite of White.

Where's the Fat?

One problem is there may not be $1.3 billion worth of "fat" to trim from the state budget without serious limitations on services.

After all, lawmakers trimmed almost $1 billion last session—a major achievement. They also planned for a partial oil price collapse and built that consideration into the state budget.

What really upsets the applecart for Texas are the recent federal cuts of $600 million. Lawmakers hadn't foreseen that.

Still to come, perhaps, is another drop in the price of oil. When it does, Bullock will signal the leadership.

The Prince Visits

Prince Charles of Great Britain visited the Capitol last week to participate in sesquicentennial events, stopping to chat with students on The University of Texas campus and cutting a super large celebration cake.

Naturally, students taught him the "Hook 'em Horns" sign, which he quipped he should not use in Italy. The sign stands for something else in that country.

Onlookers described the prince as very friendly, but the model of decorum.

Temple Resigns

Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple resigned last week, saying he owns an interest in a company which recently bought a railroad interest.

Temple, who had already said he would not seek reelection, voluntarily stepped down explaining state law forbids such a conflict of interest.

Political Heat

The governor's race heightened in both camps last week after Republican candidates began exchanging swipes and White's Democratic campaign showed signs of leaking.

Republican-convert Kent Hance asked former GOP Gov. Bill Clements to apologize for calling him ignorant and attacked Clements' record on trimming state employees.

Clements buckled to neither tactic, but later urged that some experienced teachers should be exempt from the new state competency test. Even though Clements treated teachers shabbily, by their standards, in his term, they are so angered with White that Clements could make inroads.

Meanwhile, West Texas teachers posted a list of grievances on the governor's door, but he never saw them there. His staff tore them down, saying if teachers want to say something to White, they should have handed the list to someone in his reception room.

Yeah, that's the trouble, Democrats are saying. White won't communicate with anyone, nor will his campaign. Unmistakeably, the Democratic disenchantment with White is growing, but who would have believed it?

by local artist Celia West are being exhibited at the Crockett County Museum this week. This is the first in a series of works by Ozonans to be shown.

Pruning West Texas shrubs & trees

Pruning is one horticultural activity that is poorly understood. It seems confusing but need not be so. The natural growth characteristics of the plant determine how and to what extent we manipulate shape and size by stem and limb removal. Pruning and training of ornamental plants begins with their initial placement in the landscape and must be carried out periodically as the need arises. This may be on an annual basis with some shrubs (tea roses) or seldom done on trees such as live oak.

Shrubs are generally pruned to dwarf them; we want to control plant size in this case. Severe hedging and very formal training are seen less and less in today's more natural landscapes. This not only gives a more informal presence to the landscape, but also reduces maintenance requirements. Specimen shrubs and small trees (pittosporum, redbud, mimosa, desert willow, etc.) are mainly pruned to increase attractiveness. Lower limbs may be removed to expose interesting bark or the trunk. Corrective pruning may be done to encourage growth in a certain direction, hide flaws or invigorate growth at a certain point. Remember that removing the tip portion of a shoot often causes increased new growth or invigoration along the stem below the cut.

In all cases, directing the growth of young trees is essential if the tree is to perform properly in the landscape at maturity. Young trees are trained during years 1-4 after planting. Older trees are pruned. If a young tree is properly trained there will be little need for major pruning during its life. Of course, this assumes that the tree has been properly placed in the landscape, i.e. not crowded with other trees, not too close to the roof and not in a position to interfere with power lines and street traffic.

The fruitless mulberry is a very large tree at maturity. Unfortunately, mulberries are often overcrowded and poorly placed on small city lots. Training a young tree consists of selecting main or scaffold branches at suitable locations along the main trunk of the tree. These should be considered as permanent branches throughout the tree's life. Select scaffold branches that grow at a wide angle to the main trunk. A narrow angled connection to the main trunk is weak and more likely to break during ice, snow and wind storms. The scaffold branches you select will not get any higher off the ground as the tree grows. They will increase in diameter each year and actually get closer to the ground.

Five to seven well spaced and oriented permanent scaffold branches are about all that any medium to large deciduous tree needs to have. The branches can and should be selected during the first two years of the tree's growth in the landscape. If you leave a scaffold branch on a young shade tree 3 feet off the ground and pointed directly at the picture window or carport you will have a nuisance situation within a few years that will definitely require some form of pruning.

This brings us to the two most important types of pruning—thinning out and topping. Thinning out is entire branch removal; no stumps, stubs or nubs remain. Topping removes the outer portion of every major limb and destroys major limb structure. The latter practice leaves stumps, stubs and nubs. In almost every case, topping is a poor pruning practice for trees. Regardless of being improper, topping is a common practice in West Texas.

The results of topping are less than desirable in the landscape. Many of the limb stubs on most tree species die and leave an ideal location for insect and disease entry. This is unhealthy for the tree. Overall tree appearance is ruined by numerous dead stubs. The unhealthy tree may eventually die and cause the dollar worth of the landscape to decline.

Topping mulberries causes extreme invigoration near the cut portion of the limb. Multiple new branches arise from this area and grow 3-6 feet in a single season. In subsequent growing years these shoots criss-cross and form dense canopies. The shade produced by this canopy is often dense enough to prohibit turf grass growth below the tree. Topped fruitless mulberries are notorious for this.

Thinning out instead of heading back eliminates these problems, particularly with the mulberry. If limb length must be reduced because of power line interference, make a cut adjacent to an existing lateral limb on the branch that is acceptable in length.

Proper tree and shrub pruning requires proper tools. Investments in pruning shears, lopping shears, bow saws and pole saws should be based on frequency and degree of pruning necessary to maintain the landscape. Generally, a good set of shears and bow saw are adequate for the average home landscape. Pruning cuts should be smooth; surrounding bark is left intact. Make cuts flush with a lateral remaining branch to avoid leaving stubs. Pruning paint is purely cosmetic.

Mrs. David North, Katy and Daniel, are in Arlington, spending their spring break with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Travis White.

Weekly Update

The 4-H clothing projects began Monday, February 17, with two sessions. Donna Sanders discussed numerous textile-craft projects which 4-Hers could enter in local project show. Cathy Henry demonstrated how to use "puff paint" products. Each 4-Her designed their own T-Shirts with the puff paints. Twenty 4-H members were present to indicate their interest in the spring sewing projects. Several other 4-H members notified the County Extension Office of their interest in sewing during the past week.

The Fit For Life Class is continuing on February 27 and March 3. The week's topic includes the major food groups, serving sizes, and flexibility exercises.

Many individuals try to lose weight by skipping meals, fasting on water and juices for a day or two every week, or fall into the habit of eating next to nothing during the week in order to eat excessively on the weekends.

All of the effort invested in these starvation diets actually produces the opposite effect that is intended. Research has proven that skipping meals and resorting to starvation diets will propel the body into a "starvation-shutdown" metabolism. The American Medical Association classifies starvation diets as any diet under 900 calories.

The main responsibility of our bodies is to keep us alive and to maintain a supply of standby energy for emergencies. In general, people need 1000 calories daily in order to function normally, even if they are sedentary. Many people need twice that number of calories depending on age, body type, and activity level. The body can't switch from a 1500-2000 calorie diet to 500 calories without a pretty good jolt to the system.

A diet less than 900 calories causes the body to think that it is faced with a life threatening starvation situation. The body's energy producing system starts shutting down. The body starts converting any food into fat in order to build up an emergency energy source. Fat, ounce for ounce, contains more calories to burn than muscle or other energy stores. The body's metabolic rate, oxygen consumption, and body temperature decreases. The slow down can cause fatigue, a light head, weakness, occasional nausea, and lack of enthusiasm. These diets can deplete the body of water, salt and mineral supplies and create stress on the liver and heart.

Starvation diets are disastrous in the long run, since one actually gains back more fat than they had before the diet. Once the body goes into a starvation metabolism, it takes about six weeks to return to normal. Thus, for six weeks after you go off the diet, you'll essentially store back all the fat you lost and more.

Another approach to dieting which can throw the body into a shutdown metabolism is skipping meals or eating one large meal a day. If you skip breakfast for instance, about 17-18 hours pass without food introduced into the body. This easily corresponds to the beginning of a fast.

By midmorning the body is craving nourishment and many people ward off hunger with a pastry or donut. This stresses the body system by producing a sharp rise in blood sugar rather than a gradual increase from a more nutritious snack. Sweets tend to cause you to become more hungry one or two hours later due to the sharp increase and decrease in blood sugar levels.

When lunchtime rolls around, one is ravenous, and it's even harder to stick to a sensible meal than if a proper breakfast was eaten to begin with. If a very low (like grapefruit and egg) calorie lunch is ingested, the blood sugar continues to drop.

At last, dinner arrives—the meal which most Americans eat to their heart's content. This meal usually is higher in fats and sugars than other meals, too, and is often accompanied by an alcoholic drink and dessert. Numerous scientific studies tell us that people gain weight more readily by eating large meals later in the day when sedentary.

A recommended pattern for sustaining weight loss includes a variety of fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals, milk products, and meats. Limiting the number of sweets, fats, and alcoholic beverages is recommended. An active aerobic program (walking, jogging, sports, swimming, cycling, etc.) is recommended for losing or maintaining weight loss.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

"The February sunshine steeps your boughs and tints the buds and swells the leaves within"

William Cullen Bryant

This is the month for preparation for outdoor planting. Since this month and next will be peak planting time, a list of shrubs and trees may be helpful in your selection. Maybe some of you may have missed these that I have mentioned before.

Shade Trees-Live Oak, Spanish Oak, Pecan, Non-bearing Mulberry, American Elm and Mesquite.

Smaller Native Trees-Desert Willow, Retama, Spanish Walnut, Buckeye, Wild Plum, Persimmon, Redbud.

Ornamental Trees-For dignity, attractive screening, pictorial-privacy, Box Elder, Cherry Laurel, Flowering Almond, Flowering Crab, Flowering Peach, Flowering Plum, Green Ash, Loquat, Silver Maple, Youpon, Pomegranate.

Evergreen Hedges or Groups-Abelia, Amur River Privet, American Arborvitae, Cherry Laurel, Pyracantha, American Holly, Japanese Ligustrum, Mountain Laurel, Nandina, Photinia, Pittosporum, Hawthorn (Raphiolepis), Beauty Bush, Bridal Wreath, Chinese Lilac, Crepe Myrtle, Grandiflora Roses, Japanese Quince, Rosa Rugosa, Spirea.

Some planning tips for roses: The Hybrid Tea is the most popular for cutting, showing and just enjoying. The plant is of moderate height.

Grandiflora has fine flower form and size, some smaller bloom than hybrid tea and the plant itself tends to be taller. So if the garden has a front and back, place the grandifloras at the back and hybrid teas in the middle. The Floribunda is grown more for landscape color than cutting. The small individual flowers are in large clusters on usually bushy low plants. They are more winter hardy and need less winter protection. Plant these along the front in a mixed planting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Freeman will be honored from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, March 2, with a reception at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. The event will mark their 50th wedding anniversary.

Children of the couple are Robert and Melba Freeman of Odessa; Lt. Col. James D. and Billie Jo Freeman of Grand Forks A.F.B., North Dakota, and two granddaughters, Karen Marie and Robbie Jo Freeman of Odessa.

The couple have been residents of Crockett County since 1945 when they moved to the Todd Oil Field. Since retirement in January 1976 they have made their home in Ozona. Their children will host the anniversary reception.

League holds annual party at Carsons

The Ozona Woman's League met February 12, in the home of Mrs. Bill Carson Jr. for their annual Valentine party. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Bob Childress and Mrs. Brock Jones.

League members celebrated Valentines by hearing an inspirational reading on Saint Valentine given by Shawn Mitchell and with a demonstration on Italian cooking by league member, Camille Jones. Members also enjoyed an Italian meal served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Jeffrey Sutton conducted the business meeting. The club voted to begin plans on compiling a cookbook that will be sold locally as well as state-wide. Mrs. Frank McMullan gave the federation report and emphasized the importance of reading to our children everyday. A thank you note from the Care Center Auxiliary was read by Mrs. Sutton. The auxiliary thanked league members for donating cakes and pies to their cake auction held last month. Funds will be used to purchase a whirlpool for the Care Center. After the meeting league members exchanged Secret Pal gifts.

Those attending were Mrs. Jack Baggett Jr., Mrs. David Bean, Mrs. Douglas Bean, Mrs. Bill Carson Jr., Mrs. Fred Chandler, Mrs. Bob Childress, Mrs. Duane Childress, Mrs. Dwight Childress, Mrs. Johnny Childress, Mrs. Pleas Childress III, Mrs. Dennis Clark, Mrs. John L. Mrs. Cox presents annual Forum guest day program

The Ozona Woman's Forum met February 18, in the Crockett County Library for the annual guest day program.

Refreshments were served to guests and club members in the Reference Room. The table was appointed in keeping with the Texas Sesquicentennial celebration, with a centerpiece of red, white and blue flowers on a white table cover. Petits fours, nuts and punch were in keeping with the color scheme.

The program was presented in the reading room to an overflowing crowd. Mrs. Huey Ingram, club president, artfully and cleverly introduced Mrs. L. B. Cox III who presented the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Cox, a guest, though a former club member, is a talented story teller. She reviewed the book "Texas Tears and Texas Sunshine" by Jo Ella Exley to the delight of the group.

This book takes its name from the quilts that the women of Texas have always made. But the women of Texas created more than quilts, they helped create Texas. This book allows them to tell their own stories. They are stories of a patchwork of happiness and sadness, pleasure and pain, health and sickness, and birth and death. Pioneer women helped mold Texas. Their lives were filled with tears and sunshine.

A large group of guests were present along with the following club members:

Mrs. Charlie Black, Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Mrs. Mike Clayton, Mrs. W. R. Medicare B payments approved says administrator

Our hospital received a long-awaited letter January 20, from Mr. Ronald S. Eggers, Chief Survey and Certification Operations Branch, Health Care Finance Administration, the Department of Health and Human Services. This letter stated, in part, "your hospital also meets Medicare health and safety standards relative to laboratory and radiology services. Therefore, medically necessary laboratory and radiology services performed in non-emergency situation on an inpatient or outpatient basis are reimbursable under Medicare Part B".

What this means is that a percentage of the cost of all radiology and laboratory procedures and tests, not just emergency/life-threatening procedures and tests, will be reimbursed to the patient by Medicare Part B.

We were very relieved and excited to finally get an answer to the question of whether or not Medicare Part B would pay for non-emergency laboratory and radiology procedures. Medicare patients will still have to pay the hospital for the tests and procedures at the time they are done, however, your hospital will assist you in filing for reimbursement under Medicare Part B. Medicare Part B will pay approximately 80% of laboratory and radiology charges. Our laboratory and radiology departments are very, very good and we encourage all citizens of Crockett County to continue to patronize these departments as well as our fine hospital.

Test dates scheduled for teachers to remain eligible

Test dates have been scheduled for individuals who are not currently employed in public education, but who want to remain eligible to teach in Texas schools after June 30, 1986. The first four test dates--April 12, June 28, July 12, and October 4--are part of a statewide program to continue certification of all holders of valid Texas teacher certificates. Because only a limited number of individuals can be accommodated during each of the examination sessions, assignments to test sites will be filled on a first-come, first-serve basis. State education officials estimate that 300,000 individuals throughout the state hold valid teacher certificates but are not working in public schools this school year. Approximately 210,000 Texas teachers and administrators who are currently employed in public schools will take the Texas Examination of Current Teachers and Administrators (TECAT) on Monday, March 10. Following the March 10 administration, test sessions will be open to all individuals holding Texas teacher certificates issued prior to February 1, 1986. The tests will be administered at 125 sites across the state, and most test sites will be within 75 miles of an individual's residence. A $30 fee for the test will be charged, and registration packets may be obtained from Assistant Superintendent Ted Cotton. Individuals who plan to register for the April 12 administration of the TECAT should contact Mr. Cotton by Friday, February 28.

Letters to the Editor

February 24, 1986

I would like to address this letter to all the people who thought the robbery at Shots #4 was so funny especially those who came in and said, "This is a stick-up."

They don't realize how nerve-racking this has been for all the employees especially the lady who was working. It's kinda hard to sleep when all you can see is someone holding a gun on you.

I hope everyone can understand our feelings and refrain from such remarks because the next time it could be them and it might not be so funny then.

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to thank Tom Cameron and Becky Sizemore for their diligent and tireless assistance in helping me deal with all the many agencies and Insurance Co. upon my husband, Wayne Wahl's death.

It was such a difficult and confusing time for me that without their help I would have been lost. They both went above and beyond the call and never once considered payment of any kind.

Thank you again Tom Cameron and Becky Sizemore.

Sincerely,
Pat Wahl

February 19, 1986

Madam:

For years I have read your disturbing comments on life according to Kitty and wondered how you would top your previous ridiculous observations. Your last column about the ills of education has firmly convinced me that you have been sitting in front of your precious "roaring fire" too long. You need to wake up and smell the coffee.

If you are so interested in breaking the cycle of welfare dependence why don't you advocate education for the children of these households? It is obvious that they are the ones who need schooling the most. No one lays the welfare blame on the teacher's doorstep. But teachers should encourage these children even more by showing them that a good education is the key to free them from the shackles of ignorance and poverty. Instead of preaching that these kids "don't have a chance from birth", you should advocate more education for them instead of giving up on them so quickly. Teachers cannot do it alone nor should they. But as role models they should provide quality education for all. After the teachers do their part, the rest is up to the individual.

Yes, in the past twenty years public education has changed. And how overdue this change was. The key word here is PUBLIC. This means open to all, not just a few gifted, rich individuals. You would have us believe that the education system is in such a shambles because "colleges have been forced to lower standards in order to get more minority students in". This arrogant statement is just a poor attempt to disguise your deep resentment that colleges now accept a record number of blacks and other minorities and you fear that we would become your equal in some way. Keep us ignorant and we pose no threat to people like you, right? Perhaps these so called not educable students could always be your maid or gardener right? I can see why you are disturbed. I am sure you were very much more comfortable fifteen years ago when the color of our skin determined whether we would attend the north or south elementary. I am very sorry that we could not continue this practice for you. You should get together with Governor George Wallace for tea and crumpets and then go out to a university and see how many minority students you can turn away from knowledge and enlightenment. The ones you miss will surely be kept out by your beloved President Reagan's cut in student loans.

And now I dispute your most stupid statement that "we are unable to educate the mass of children of illiterates and illegals who swell our school systems today". You wish! There are many children of illiterates and illegals who go to school and do very well, thank you. More importantly, these children have as much right to a good education as do the children and grandchildren of your friends in the country club bridge society.

There is a place in this world where you would fit in perfectly Ms. Editor. It is called South Africa. I am sure that I will have no problem finding educated children of illiterates and illegals to help me pack your printing press and Republican credentials should you find life unbearable in this great country we proudly call the melting pot.

Robert Longoria

[Ed. note--We would suggest, if our editorial comments offend you, you call the sheriff and have that person arrested who is twisting your arm and forcing you to read the paper. You missed the point completely. I fear you cannot see the forest for the trees.]

Commissioner appeals to U.S. to aid Texians in struggle

By Michele Raymond
New York, N.Y., April 26, 1836-- Declaring that "Mexico can never conquer Texas!" Commissioner William Wharton delivered an impassioned plea to the people of New York last night to aid Texians in their struggle against the tyranny of Mexico.

The Anglo settlers of Mexico have been involved in several losing battles against a reported 6,000 Mexican troops and their dictator Santa Anna, who stormed into Texas in February. Two months later, most of Texas' leading citizens have been killed at two battles: San Antonio and Goliad.

General Sam Houston has kept his troops in retreat and there have been unconfirmed reports that he captured Santa Anna at San Jacinto three days past. Wharton and Stephen Austin, known to be the most powerful empresario in Texas, report that Texas has declared itself independent from Mexico and they implore recognition and support from the U.S. government here.

Wharton spoke eloquently of the plight of his people and he illuminated some history: "Because of the dread of Indians, Texas held no interest for Mexican immigrants. They were accustomed to a lazy pastoral or mining life in a healthy country," he said.

The Anglo settlers earned their rights to the Mexican land through bloodshed and hard work, he explained. "Under smiles of benignant heaven, however, the untiring perseverance of the colonists triumphed over all natural obstacles and expelled these savages by whom the country was infested, reduced the forest into cultivation and made the desert smile."

He described the long succession of presidents and dictators Mexico has had since allowing immigration in 1822, then asked: "Can the same amount of crime and carnage be culled and collected from 100 years in the history of any other Christian people? No...I put it to your candor and republicanism, gentlemen," he implored, the Mexicans are "incapable of self-government...the Mexicans never afforded the colony a shadow of protection!"

Wharton decried the Mexican prohibition against additional immigration in 1830, stamping the government with the "foul blot of ingratitude."

"They imprison our citizens without cause, detain without trial and in every respect trampled upon our rights and privileges," he said.

Of Santa Anna, Wharton said: "While laying this flattering unctious (sic) for our souls and indulging dreams of fancied felicity never to be realized, the military despot Santa Anna developed his tyrannical intention to reduce us to absolute slavery or to involve all who refused to be slaves in an undistinguished massacre."

"The Anglo-American race is destined to be forever proprietors of this land of promise and fulfillment. Their laws will govern it, their learning will enlighten it..."

In conclusion, Wharton asked the people to help Texas defend the principals upon which the nation was founded. "I invoke you by every principal honor, by every feeling of humanity, by every obligation of blood, by your devotion to liberty..."

U.S. government sources say Congress will not recognize Texas unless it receives "official" and regular dispatches from the new government

The family will attend the Houston Fat Stock Show, attend church services in Rosenberg and lunch at Nina's.

Guests will be brothers and sisters of the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Malone of Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Braselton of Corpus Christi, and Mr. and Mrs. James D. Vaughn of San Antonio.

Oop's we goofed!

In last week's edition of the Stockman, a line was inadvertently left out of the school board report in giving contract extensions for personnel. In listing contract extensions for the 1987-88 school year, the article should have read as follows: and high school counselor Jim Williams. The contracts of Jim Green, head football coach and Rhonda Yarborough, head girls basketball coach, were extended through the 1986-87 school year.

The line was left out by the typesetter, missed by the proof reader, and discovered by our subscribers when the paper hit the streets Wednesday. We are sorry for any inconveniences or embarrassment this might have caused.

there. Colonel Austin is reportedly attempting to borrow money from eastern banks to help the effort.

The committee passed a resolution advocating Congress assist Texas in its war. It is uncertain what the government will do at this time.

Following is a book review by Ninfa Cervantez.

"Tough-Minded Faith for Tender-Hearted People" by Robert Schuller

This book contains 366 messages, each with a Bible verse, and a motivational commentary, to get from self-doubt to self-fulfillment through faith by taking one step at a time. Starting each day with a positive step up the tower of faith will lead you to successful living. Faith is all about the self-motivation to get up and get going without having someone else keep you away from making yourself a better person. This book takes you on a walk where tough-minded faith will make it possible for you to go through rough times with surviving power. Robert Schuller defines Faith as wanting more out of life. He says that in order to get more out of life, one needs to give his life to the Lord, trust in Him, and just stand up for your convictions. Other ways of defining Faith are disciplining yourself to succeed, educating your mind, praising and thanking God always, and praying for guidance. Mr. Schuller asks the question, "What is Faith?". He explains Faith as being the confident assurance that something we want is going to happen and it is the certainty that what we hope for is waiting for us even though we cannot see it up ahead.
