Dead man found on Noelke Ranch in northwest Crockett

Suicide was ruled in the death of an Odessa man found Monday in northwestern Crockett County. The cause of death was announced Tuesday after the Crockett County Sheriff's Department received a preliminary report from the Bexar County Medical Examiner's office in San Antonio.

John Andrew Albanese, age 33, of Odessa was found dead on the E.F. Noelke Ranch in northwest Crockett County Monday morning by oil field workers. The body was discovered at approximately 11:55 a.m. by a pulling unit crew on the way to work.

An initial report was made to Pecos County Sheriff Bruce Wilson who contacted the Crockett County Sheriff's Office.

Justice of the Peace Christine Davee pronounced Albanese dead at 2:40 p.m.

Investigating officers from Upton, Pecos and Crockett counties arrived on the scene to find the body of the deceased lying face down on a blanket near a Ford stationwagon.

"The man had a knife in his lower chest cavity," said Chief Deputy Jim Wilson.

The investigation was initially conducted as a possible homicide, and an intensive search of the area was made by Wilson and Texas Ranger Danny Rhea of Ozona. A suicide note was found in the car, Wilson said Tuesday.

No information as to time of death was available in the preliminary report from the medical examiner, Wilson said, but the victim had spoken with his wife in Odessa Saturday night.

"We have talked to the rig crew who found the man, and they said that the car was not at that location Friday afternoon when they left work," said Deputy Wilson.

The body was transported to the Bexar County Medical Examiner's office in San Antonio by Freddy Funeral Home for autopsy.

A complete report from the medical examiner will be received in a few days.

TSGRA meeting held

by Michael Glaze

Ozona native Pierce Miller of San Angelo was elected president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, succeeding Pleas Childress, at the 73rd annual meeting of the association in San Angelo last week.

Miller and Childress were among the more than 500 participants in the meeting who were offered talks on items such as predator control, water and land usage, endangered species, marketing and promoting, and labor difficulties.

Childress passed on the duties of his office to Miller as the other new officers, Herman Moore of Brownwood, second vice-president; Ralph Mayer of Sonora, first vice-president; and Bill Sims of San Angelo, executive secretary, were elected.

Dr. Charles Arntzen, deputy chancellor of agriculture of Texas A&M University, was the keynote speaker for the event.

Calling the 1940's the mechanical era and the 1960's the chemical era, he told the group that the 1980's began the era of biotechnology.

Transferring of genes from totally different kinds of plants has been accomplished to make new plants that are disease or chemical resistant. Pesticide control of the future is in genetically altered plants that carry their own pesticide, he said.

Biotechnology is in its infancy, and "I am excited about the future," concluded Dr. Arntzen.

The patenting of animals was among the first items of business at the health and product development committee meeting.

The group was told that with the advent of biotechnology and the ability to manipulate living organisms, the Supreme Court has ruled that any animal but humans can be patented.

A mouse susceptible to cancer has already been patented, but according to Darrell McDonald of the Texas Department of Agriculture, "This is an ideal research animal for cancer, but we don't want that type of law on agriculture animals".

He said that the department is asking for a two year moratorium to bring the agriculture picture to the congressmen.

As the event progressed, State Senator Bill Sims of San Angelo was presented the 1988 Fred T. Earwood Memorial Award given each year to a person whose "dedication and achievements in the field of agriculture is exemplary".

In addition, the group heard information on the drought, the 1080 livestock protection collar, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, the Pesticide Department of the Texas Department of Agriculture, and the Riverside Landowners Protection Coalition.

An update on the consolidation efforts of the three major national sheep organizations was also presented. The American Sheep Producers Association, the National Wool Growers and the National Lamb Feeders have been looking into a possible merger since January.

A committee recommendation asks that the United States be divided into four regions with Texas, New Mexico and Arizona making up a three-state south central region.

A coyote control training session at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in which 25 area ranchers took part was held to coincide with the annual meeting.

Shooting hospitalizes Baytown man

Lester J. Conway Jr., 39, of Baytown remained in Shannon Medical Center early this week after being injured by a handgun Sunday morning in Ozona.

Conway was wounded in the left upper arm when a .357 magnum handgun discharged early Sunday morning in his room at Ozona Inn of the West.

The call was received at the Sheriff's Office at 1:30 a.m.

The weapon, which belonged to Conway, had been fired one time.

A young woman was in the room at the time of the shooting, said Sheriff Billy Mills. No arrests have been made.

School Board hires teachers

In the July regular board meeting of the Crockett County School District Board of Trustees, insurance and personnel decisions were the major items of discussion. The Baggett Insurance Agency was awarded the school's coverage on property, automobiles and personnel liability insurance. The board also received an update on personnel health insurance and accepted a proposal on student accident coverage from the Sikes-Wills Agency, Inc.

New personnel approved for the 1988-89 school year included: Craig Cook, junior high science/P.E. teacher and coach; Lloyd Winkley, junior high science teacher; Katreece Hale, junior high history teacher; and Norman Carroll Jr., assistant band director. The board also approved the addition of Sandy Stark to the substitute teacher list.

Other action of the board involved approvals of bids for copy machines, typewriters and gasoline. House

Athletic physicals scheduled for Aug. 3, 10

Seventh, ninth, and eleventh grade students planning to participate in any athletic event for the 1988-89 school year have the opportunity to receive a physical Aug. 3 and 10.

Dr. Marcus Simms will head the Crockett County medical and Ozona High School coaching staffs involved in the operation.

A $5 fee, a bargain compared to individual visits to the doctor, will be expected of each person for the service. If one should miss this opportunity, it will be up to him or her to get a physical in order to participate in athletics.

Boys' physicals will take place on the 3rd at Crockett County Hospital from 4 to 6 P.M. Girls' will follow on the 10th at the same time and place.

Texas Air Control Board hearing

by Jacquelyn Shacklette

Texas Air Control Board representatives tried to put local citizens' concerns to rest last Tuesday in a special meeting at the Ozona Civic Center.

SPG Exploration Inc. precipitated the meeting when the company applied for a permit to construct an amine gas sweetening plant at an existing plant two miles south of Ozona. A previous amine unit operated at the plant from 1964 to 1983.

The proposed DEA amine process unit will remove carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulfide from natural gas. A TACB study has determined that the amounts of sulphur to be emitted from the Ozona plant will be too small to be recovered feasibly.

"A plant must not cause or contribute to air pollution," said Steve Hagle, TACB permit division representative. "The permit applicant must use the best available control technology."

Hagle described the procedures and requirements to be met by a permit applicant before TACB issues a permit. The TACB sets screening levels for sulphur dioxide, carbon monoxide, nitric oxides, hydrogen sulfide and alkanes.

Crockett County Precinct 1 commissioner Jack Williams asked about the possibility of unpleasant odors being emitted from the gas plant.

Charley Sims, TACB Region 6 director from Odessa, assured Williams and the small group of local citizens that unpleasant odors would not be a problem.

"No sir, ordinarily you would not be able to smell the emissions from the plant," Sims said. "And we give complaints top priority. We can't guarantee same day response but often we do (respond the same day)."

Regional directors keep an information file about each complaint filed with their office. The attorney general has ruled that a complainant's identification may be held confidential if the complainant requests confidentiality.

All parties to a written complaint must be kept informed as to the status of the complaint until the matter is resolved. Violations of the Texas Clean Air Act may result in penalties of up to $10,000 for each day of violation. Court fines may be assessed for up to $25,000 a day.

TACB environmental ecologist Marcia Willhite told the Ozona citizens that the Ozona plant's emissions will be well below acceptable levels. The Ozona plant will emit 50 tons, or 2,000 parts per million, of sulphur each year.

Willhite said there should be no corrosive effects of sulphur dioxide from the Ozona plant.

Acid gas will be sent to an existing 112-foot flare for combustion. TACB requires flare stacks to be at least 60-feet in height. The flare is equipped with a pilot light and automatic ignition system.

Crockett County Judge Kathryn Mayfield asked TACB representatives if the amount of gas being processed by the plant could be substantially increased without notice being given to the public.

An increase in production would require the SPG Exploration Inc. to go through the permit process again, according to Sims.

Sims said 74 similar plants are now in operation in Region 6. A number of the plants are much larger than the proposed Ozona plant, producing 20 to 30 times the amount of gas as the local facility. Only 15 complaints regarding these plants have been made over several years.

Judge Mayfield asked Sims how often the TACB would test the local plant.

"We generally respond to complaints," Sims said. "This plant will not be large enough to warrant an annual investigation. But, if an investigation finds a problem we will do some enforcement."

SPG consultant J.P. Herrin outlined some safety measures after the meeting which are already in place. Six monitors set for a very low tolerance of hydrogen sulfide are placed around the perimeter of the plant. The plant would be automatically shutdown if the maximum allowance of the gas should be reached.

Region 6 complaints regarding any air pollution should be directed to Charley Sims at 1901 East 37th Street, Suite 101, Odessa, TX 76962. The phone number of this office is 367-3871 or 367-3872.

Pierce Miller, new TS&GRA president, presents outgoing president

bankment and overturned. The pickup had veered onto the shoulder and been over corrected before striking the embankment.

Edwards and his passenger were taken to Hudspheth Memorial Hospital in Sonora according to investigating officer Trooper Richard Barton.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN-While leading Texas Democrats in Atlanta wondered about Jesse Jackson, those roaming Capitol halls discussed who would run to replace Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, should the Democrats win the White House.

Texas Republicans, meanwhile, said their chances of winning a special election which Gov. Bill Clements would set in 1989 are much better than they were in 1961, when John Tower won a narrow victory to replace Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Some of the GOP leadership also called on Bentsen to resign his Senate seat, saying it was unethical for him to run for two offices at the same time. Not likely.

Two top Democrats from opposite wings of the party already have indicated their willingness to run: conservative Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and liberal Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

Republican hopefuls kept silent, but the Democrat's list of possibilities includes everybody.

Two-Edged Sword

The election amendment which Texas Democrats pushed through the Legislature to let LBJ run for President and U.S. senate at the same time may have been tailored more for the man than for keeping the Texas Republican Party down in the dugout.

Now it could turn out to be a two-edged sword. Should the Democrats take the White House, the momentum could also carry forth to win the special election the next year.

But it didn't work that way in 1961, when Tower won it and laid the foundation for the rise of the Texas GOP. They could wind up with two senators in 1989.

Could things go wrong for Bentsen and the Democrats if they don't take the White House? That answer lies with independent voters and how they vote for a senator in November.

Nuclear Partner Out

The majority owner of the financially troubled Comanche Peak nuclear power plant ended a court fight with one of the two remaining minority owners and increased its stake in the $9.1 billion project.

Attorneys for TU Electric and Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. last week ended five months of negotiations and announced a settlement calling for TU Electric to buy Brazos' 3.8 percent share of the plant.

TU Electric plans to assume construction debts and make cash payments totaling $229 million.

The move boosts TU Electric's share of the facility to about 98 percent and ends a two-year Dallas court battle.

The settlement will not damage the utility's vow to hold the impact of the troubled project to a 10-percent rate increase after completion of the two generating units, said Dick Ramsey, TU spokesman.

State Wins, Exxon Loses

The Texas Supreme Court ruled Exxon Corp. doesn't get any of the millions in settlement that the state won from Mobil in 1983.

The state and South Texas rancher Clinton Manges joined to sue Mobil for not developing oil and gas leases in Duval County in a case that rocked the oil industry establishment.

The Court ruled Exxon chose not to participate in the action against Mobil and was not entitled to share the proceeds.

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said the ruling makes it clear that surface owners of state oil lands have a "fiduciary responsibility" to the school fund which benefits from profits.

Former Lawmaker Indicted

A former state representative was indicted for allegedly funneling over $40,000 to the Nicaraguan Contras.

Maco Stewart, a millionaire attorney, bank director and grandson of the founder of Stewart Title Company, served in the Texas House in 1980.

Stewart now lives in France, and flew there after pleading not guilty and posting a $5 million personal bond.

State Bar Liaison Quits

Supreme Court Justice Franklin Spears resigned last week as the High Court's liaison to the State Bar of Texas after the court approved its new budget totaling over $19 million.

Spears had wanted the bar to explain expenditures on lobbyists, liquor and travel, and in resigning said he no longer had the support of the majority of the court.

Spears may have made himself a lame duck last month when he indicated he will resign from the bench in September.

Other Highlights

• The Supreme Court ruled in favor of a doctor and five clinics which were being sued by the state for allegedly selling a toxic chemical used as a weed killer to persons wanting to lose weight.

• Gov. Clements repeated his goal to work for a constitutional amendment to allow lawmakers, not judges, to fix problems in public school financing.

• A new type radar to be installed by Texas A&M University this fall will help detect tornadoes and expand warning times by up to 10 minutes, said Dr. James Scoggins, head of meteorology.

Welfare Association

assists travelers

The Crockett County Welfare Association, established to help travelers, does a lot of good according to Ozona merchant Weldon Maness. Many travelers with problems pass through the Maness business just off I-10.

"Many people don't know about the welfare fund and what it does," said Maness.

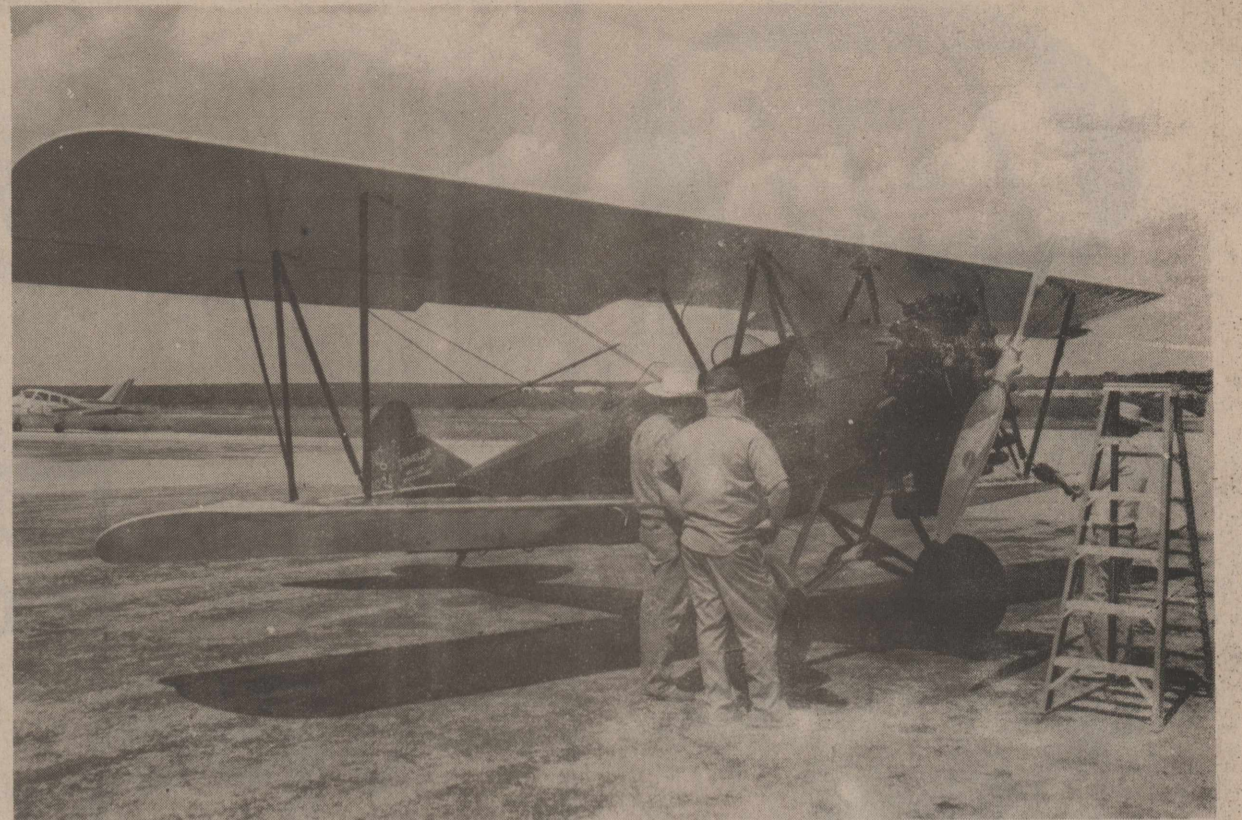

Stranded travelers have been "helped every way in the world", said Sheriff Billy Mills who administers the fund.

Because gasoline is more expensive now, marooned travelers are no longer given a full tank, but rather enough to reach the next town. Sometimes bus tickets are provided, and in dire situations, help has been given with mechanic work.

If the stranded family has small children sometimes minimal groceries are provided and or overnight lodging.

Anyone seeking assistance must apply at the office of Sheriff Billy Mills or the DPS office for approval, Mills said. He stressed that the fund is for assisting travelers only.

Donations from merchants, individuals, churches and organizations should be sent to the Crockett County Welfare Association at Box 1931 in Ozona.

Ozona was taken back several years in time Friday afternoon, July 15 when a 1928 Travel Air 4000 Wright J-5 bi-plane buzzed the town and landed at Ozona Airport. The J-5 [same as Lindbergh used] is owned by Brian Datto of San Antonio, and took him 10 years to restore. The double wing plane was on its way from Pebble Beach, CA. to San Antonio, Texas.

4-H'ers learn good citizenship

Citizenship means many things to many people and is hard to pin down. It is something like trying to define happiness.
The 4-H program, however, can help youth learn what citizenship is all about, says Billy Reagor, county 4-H program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
For some people, citizenship means participating in government, holding office, campaigning and voting. For others, it is patriotism, defending the country, displaying the flag, and singing the National Anthem.
Citizenship also may be holding a job, making money, paying taxes, owning property and obeying the law. Still others see citizenship as simply being born or naturalized as a "citizen" of the country and that's it.

Citizenship demands participation, involvement and contribution, and this is where 4-H can play a major role, says Reagor.
America will be only as great as its people, the people who occupy this land, have the vision, the will and the determination to help her be great. Unlimited opportunity awaits the young American with enough love, courage and sense of direction to rise to the challenge of good citizenship. The 4-H program can help young Americans do just that.
A community is built by close relations between citizens. The individual good of every citizen depends upon the harmonious working of all the community. The 4-H club is a functioning group that promotes community activity, Reagor points out. 4-H'ers see themselves as highly individual, but at the same time, as responsible citizens using organized action to improve this living environment.

Citizenship education through 4-H provides for three-fold learning:
Understanding: Using our heads for clearer thinking, getting information and understanding issues.
Attitudes: Using our hearts to appreciate our rights and feel our responsibilities.
Skills: Using our hands and healthy bodies and minds to put into practice what we understand and feel we should do.
Through 4-H, youth can learn to become more active citizens working toward a better America, says Reagor.

Ann Richards speaks to the Democrats

by Michael Glaze

"We can do better!" Texas State Treasurer Ann Richards told the Democratic National Convention Monday night in her keynote address.
Richards, a probable candidate in the next Texas gubernatorial election, captured the hearts of many Democrats as she gave what was referred to by many party members as one of the best keynote addresses ever.
"I am delighted to be here with you this evening, because after listening to George Bush all these years, I figured you needed to know what a real Texas accent sounds like," she said in her unmistakable Texas drawl.

Citing a letter from a Texas mother of three who claims her family income of $50,000 a year makes life a constant fiscal struggle and who feels people like her have been forgotten in America, Richards said, "Of course you believe you've been forgotten, because you have been."
"This Republican administration treats us as if we were pieces of a puzzle that can't fit together."
She then proceeded to criticize the Reagan Administration and, most notably, probable GOP presidential nominee George Bush.
"Poor George," Richards said. "He can't help it. He was born with a silver foot in his mouth."
Claiming that for eight straight years Bush hasn't displayed any interest in any of the Democrat's concerns, she said, "...now that he's after a job he can't get appointed to, he's like Columbus discovering America. He's found child care. He's found education."

Richards then praised Michael Dukakis, runner-up Jesse Jackson and vice-presidential nominee Texas Senator Lloyd Bentsen.
"I want to announce to this nation that in a little more than 100 days, the Reagan-Meese-Deaver-Nofziger-Poindexter-North-Weinberger-Watt-Gorsuch-Lavelle-Stockman-Haig-Bork-Noriega-George Bush-era will be over," she proclaimed as the delegates roared approval.

Lion band rehearsals to begin

The 1988 edition of the Ozona Lion Marching Band will begin summer rehearsals Monday, Aug. 8, at 7 P.M. in the high school band hall.
Coming off its most successful year in history, the directors, Kelly Glaze and new assistant Norman Carroll, formerly of Coleman, are looking forward to another season of exciting performances and continued achievements.

Rehearsals, with instruments, for all high school musicians planning to join the band, will continue each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday night thereafter until school starts.
In addition, on the mornings of Aug. 15 and 16, special marching practices will be conducted for freshmen and new students to the program.

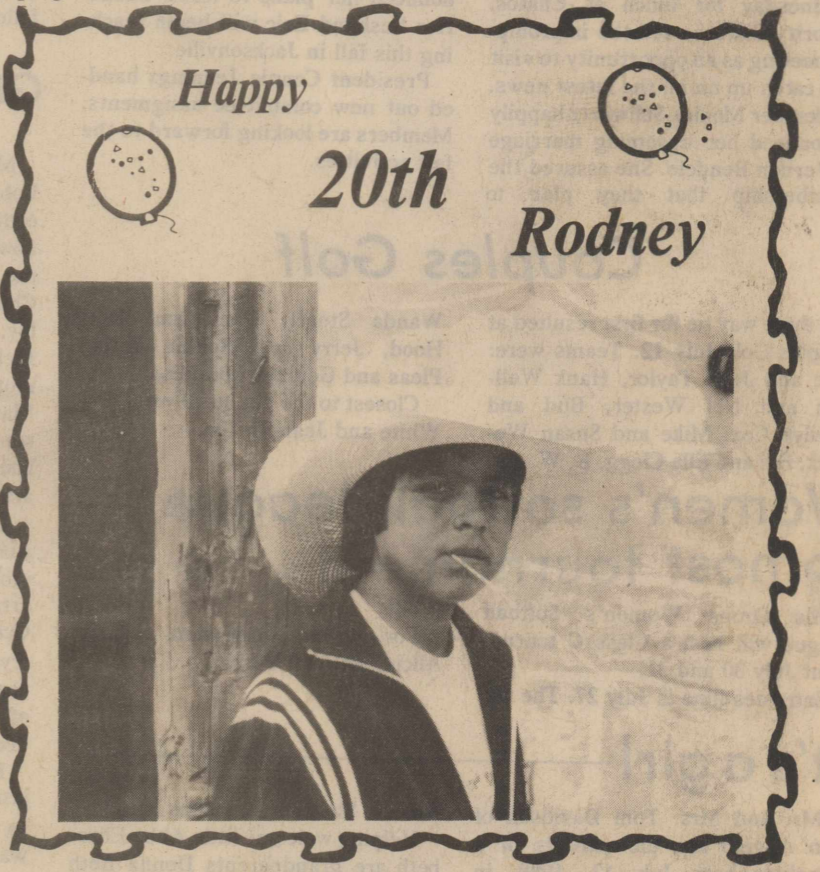

School resumes on Thursday, Sept. 1, and the first halftime performance is on Friday, Sept. 2. Therefore, those persons who intend to march with the organization must attend all summer rehearsals, said Glaze.
"Let's all start the new school year with the kind of attitude and dedication that will help us break even more records!" he concluded.

Fuel Company of Ozona was chosen to supply gasoline for the 1988-89 school year. Copiers will be purchased from Cactus Copy Systems, and typewriters will be purchased from Allen young Office Machines, both of San Angelo.
The board also approved continuing participation in the media component of the Region XV Education Service Center.
Other personnel replacements include: Ninfa Cervantez, accounting clerk; Doris Hood, secretary; and Jesus Martinez Jr., custodian.
Resignations were received from Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wharton and Judy Sims.

James N. Fields, father of former Crockett County Judge A. O. Fields, died Sunday in Fort Worth.
Graveside services were held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at Mt. Olivet Funeral Home in Fort Worth.

Medical coverage limits

Under the law, Medicare cannot cover custodial care of a patient or care that is not considered reasonable and necessary for the diagnosis and treatment of an illness or injury. Care is considered to be custodial when its primary purpose is to meet a patient's personal needs and when it could be provided by people who do not have professional skills or training.
For example, helping a patient eat, bathe, or dress can be extremely important to the person's well-being, but these services do not require professional skill.
Even if the patient is in a participating hospital or skilled nursing facility, or is receiving care from a participating home health agency, Medicare would not cover care that is primarily custodial in nature.

Care would not be considered reasonable or necessary if the patient is admitted to a hospital or skilled nursing facility when the kind of care required could be provided elsewhere. Furthermore, care would not be considered reasonable or necessary if the patient remained in a hospital or skilled nursing facility longer than his or her medical condition required. Medicare payments would end when further in-patient care was not longer considered necessary.

Similarly, visits by a physician to a patient that are more frequent than is the usual medical practice in a given area would not be considered reasonable or necessary unless there were medical complications.

Control white grubs in lawns

White grub control in lawns is important during the summer season.

May or June beetles are emerging from the soil now and are starting to swarm in late evenings. Females are laying eggs and white grub worms that hatch will soon be feeding on the roots of bermudagrass and St. Augustinegrass in home lawns.

Treatment time varies with the particular area of the state and ranges from early July in South Texas to mid-August in the Panhandle. Homeowners in Crockett County will need to treat between now and August! Timing of application is critical for adequate control.

second treatment around the middle of August may be necessary.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns, said Reagor. Check for white grubs by cutting the roots and soil to a depth of four inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for 1,000 square feet of lawn area.

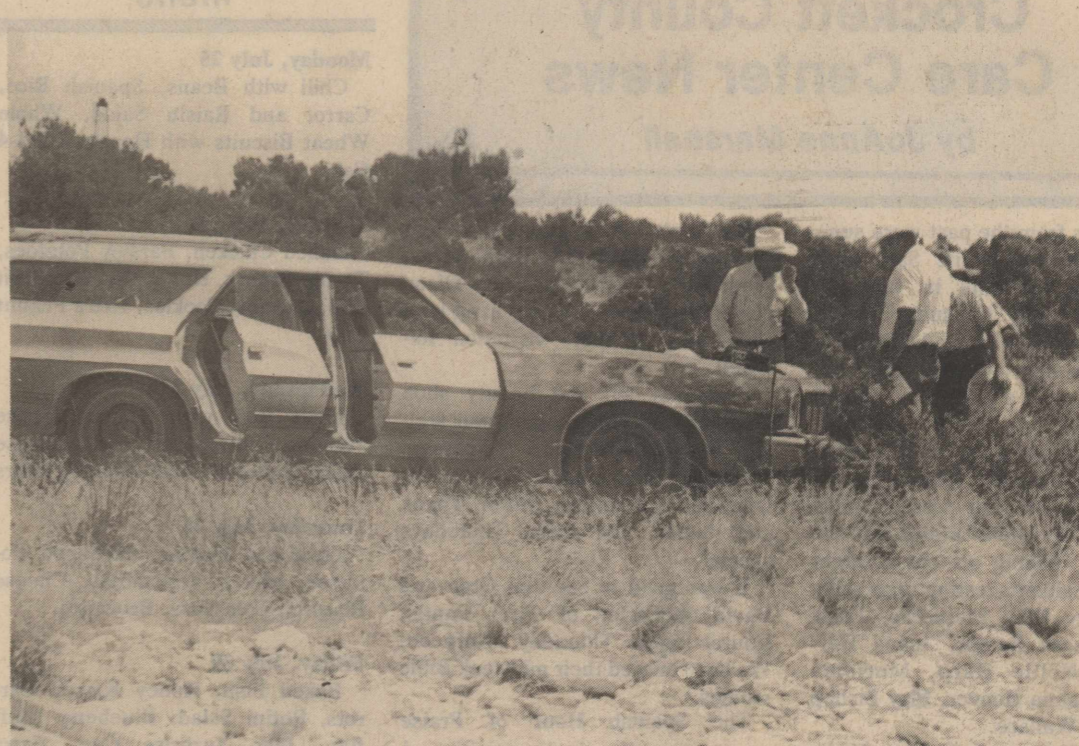

Diazinon, Dursban or Dylox provide adequate control and should be used at recommended rates given on the chemical container label.

water to soak the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where grubs are feeding, said Reagor.

Further information is provided in the publication, White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass, available at the county Extension office.

Range weed populations vary across Texas

Generally, Texas ranchers can expect weed populations on range-lands in 1988 to be less than they saw in 1987. However, some areas with favorable moisture may produce a heavy weed crop.

Dr. Tommy Welch with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says that recent rainfall in some areas of the state will provide moisture for continued growth of weeds that may result in a heavy weed infestation in these areas.

Although some weeds are a blessing for sheep and goat raisers, Welch points out that controlling weeds with herbicides is a practice that will produce substantial returns for cattlemen because dense weeds will significantly reduce forage production.

A heavy weed infestation also will keep grass cover from improving, Welch emphasizes. In addition, some weedy plants are poisonous and cause considerable livestock losses.

Data from result demonstrations conducted in the Central Texas Extension District as part of "Operation: Ranch Management" showed an average increase of 2,250 pounds of grass per acre due to weed control.

"This increase was equivalent to growing an extra pound of grass for every pound of weeds controlled," Welch says. "An increase in grass production of 750 pounds per acre will pay for a herbicide application."

If a weed problem is identified early in the season, herbicides may be applied to provide efficient and economical control. Welch emphasizes.

"Most troublesome annual weeds and western ragweed are easy to control if a herbicide is applied at the proper time and growth conditions. Weeds such as annual or common broomweed, camphorweed, bitter sneezeweed and western ragweed are easily controlled with 2, 4-D when plants are small and growth conditions are good," Welch says.

Herbicide mixtures are available for plants that are more difficult to control, especially many of the perennial poisonous plants, he adds. These mixtures include the commercial formulations Weedmaster (1:3 mixture of dicamba and 2,4-D) and Grazon P+D (1:4 mixture of picloram and 2,4-D). Banvel (dicamba) and Grazon PC (picloram) may be tank mixed with 2,4-D at the same 1:3 and 1:4 ratios, respectively.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Scotty and Linda,

Came in from yard work a couple of weekends ago, picked up the evening paper, skipped thru the pages, when suddenly, an old familiar name jumped right off the paper, hit me in the eyes, screaming OZONA!

I thought: Very doubtful: It's too unusual a name: But - there it was! - in BIG letters across the top of the front page of the entertainment section of my Pittsburg paper!

Isn't it strange how many times our town has been written about in so many different ways, by publications that have, sometimes, U.S.-wide circulation, I thought! Wonder how the founders of Ozona knew Ozona would truly become "the biggest little town in the world"!

Though you'd enjoy reading what a reviewer in Pittsburg, PA has to say after reading about us! (I'm going right out to buy the book!) Love to all family and friends in Ozona.

Kay Kirby Farrar

Editor's Note:

The article sent to us by Kay Farrar is a review of the book Dogleg Madness by Mike Bryan.

Former Golf magazine editor Bryan wrote an account of the four-day U.S. Open in New York and the Ozona Country Club Invitational, circa 1986.

Pon Seahorn was the only Ozonan mentioned in the review. Thanks, Kay, for sharing!

Dogs are considered man's best friend. Dogs have learned to serve one master.

God's Glory

I beseech thee shew me thy glory. And he said, thou canst see my face: for there shall no man see me, and live. No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

Every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him, but not nigh.

I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: and though after my skin worms destroy the body, yet in my flesh shall I see God. I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. We shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. The Lord himself shall descend from heaven...the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

Newspaper offers look into past

by T. C. Tucker

"Democratic Grassroots Meets Friday To Start Party Setup", "Eight Men Drowned As Minesweeper Sinks", "Judgements Entered In District Court".

Sound like yesterday's headlines? Well, in a sense they are, though instead of heading a recent Standard-Times, these proclaimers came from the Thursday, Jan. 8, 1942, issue of The Chickasha (OK) Daily Express.

The four-page section (pages three through six) was loaned to The Stockman by Mildred Standridge and sports news on the ongoing Second World War, social and church news and public notices, among other things.

One of the "other things" is the numerous advertisements, including a full-page drug store ad hawking everything from hair oil at $0.08 to Pabst Blue Ribbon beer for $1.15 a bottle of six for $8.99.

And obesity caused worries then just as it does today. One section of the drug store ad boldly states, "I LOST 52 LBS.!", a pitch for weight-loss pills costing only $1.25.

Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penny's (which was spelled Penney's in those days) competed against each other with large ads each claiming to be the store to shop during their annual "white sales".

Dotted throughout the paper were notices to buy defense stamps. The Dixie, a clothing fabrics store, urged women to make their own spring dress and "Buy Defense Stamps with the Saving". Even the movie theaters, heralding Humphrey Bogart and Mary Astor in The Maltese Falcon and up and coming comedian "Red" Skelton, found room for a "Save! Buy Defense Bonds" insertion.

The Democrats and Republicans echoed this evident push for national unity as they readied for the presidential election of '42. Both sides expressed a steadfast desire to maintain the two-party system and together fight the one-party plan controlling Europe.

While several stories centered around the war and war efforts, one Associated Press article told of the Hudson River pier fire in New York and the cold situations surrounding it. Fire hoses spewed icy mush while firefighters themselves were coated in ice. Even New York mayor, F.H. LaGuardia, suffered a frost-bitten face while at the fire's scene.

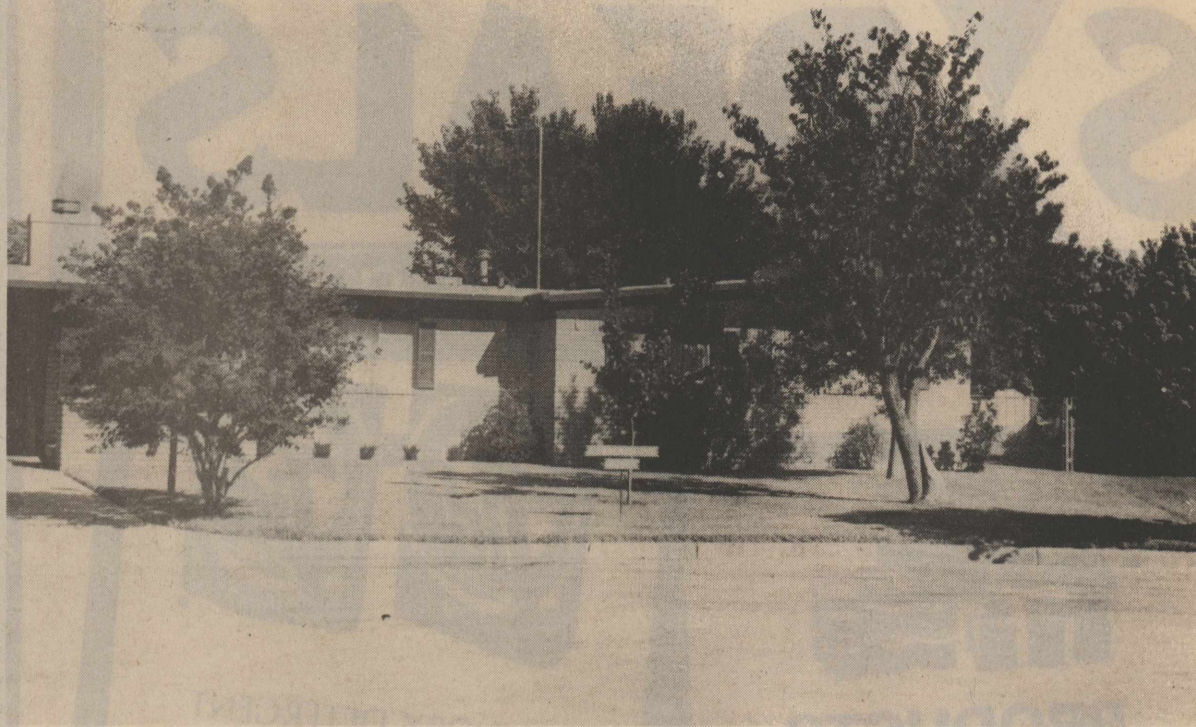

On the lighter side of the news, the club and social page spotlighted on local activities such as the church choir party and the latest weekly meeting of the Ace Hi bridge club.

Page six took a look at the status of area churches, which gave way to more than 10 public notices, followed by two sports stories investigating a legality case for a transfer student. His being a basketball hoops star gave the argument its national publicity.

Common to newspapers of that time, a serial story, Tambay Gold by Samuel Hopkins Adams, occupied a quarter of the final page and provided a break from the hard news for readers.

All-in-all, the four pages provided an insight into how Americans lived during the early war years. Certain items that were eventually rationed were still evident such as objects containing rubber.

The four pages, or rather the lack of four pages (#s 1, 2, 7 & 8), stir the curiosity. What news did the front page contain? Who owned and ran the paper? Were there editorials dealing with the war? What was for sale in the classifieds? Any garage sales? Or had garages been invented yet?...

Beef is a microwave favorite

Microwaves are here to stay. In fact, trend-setters predict that in the 1990's, microwave ovens will become as indispensable to U.S. households as television sets. Today, 64% of the homes in the country have a microwave. Some families have purchased their second oven for the den or playroom, and microwaves are frequently found at the workplace as well.

Can microwaves be used to prepare your favorite stew, meatloaf, or even steak? You bet. Microwaves are convenient and time-saving for popular beef cuts, but more importantly, the results are just as tender and flavorful as conventional beef cookery. The major point to remember about cooking most beef cuts in the microwave is to use a lower power setting such as MEDIUM-LOW. The exceptions are ground beef and reheating cooked meat which are cooked on HIGH. Medium-low 30% power 200 watts Medium 50% power 300-325 watts High 100% power 600-650 watts

"The best cuts of beef for the microwave are cuts without a bone and symmetrical in shape to insure a uniform degree of doneness," says Dr. Dan Hale, Extension Meat Specialist at Texas A&M University. Lean cubed steaks, top round, tip roast, eye-of-round, top sirloin, flank steak, or ground beef are all good choices.

"I use my microwave on a daily basis," said Marilyn Haggard, Nutrition Specialist with the Texas A&M Extension Services. "Mainly, I use the microwave for defrosting meat, cooking ground beef, chili, or stew meat. I hate to think of life without one!"

A few additions to your kitchen can make a microwave owner's life much easier. Microwave-safe cookware is easy to find, and items such as a rack or colander (elevates meat for even cooking and keeps the meat separated from its drippings), browning dishes (to sear meat for a more pleasing appearance), and probes or thermometers are helpful in producing an ideal meal. If you are unsure if a container is safe to use with your microwave oven, perform the simple dish test. Fill a 1-cup glass measuring cup with water and place it in the oven along with the container to be tested. Heat 2 minutes at HIGH. If the container is microwave-safe, it should remain cool and the water should be hot. If the container is warm, it has absorbed some microwave energy and should not be used.

Some people are hesitant about trying their favorite beef recipe in the microwave because there's a chance that it may not look as good. Meat with a liberal amount of fat will brown just as well in a microwave as it does in a conventional oven. Thin steaks or other cuts that require a shorter cooking time may need a little help to promote browning. Use a brown sauce like soy or Worcestershire or a gravy mix for even color. Butter will facilitate a "grilled" look.

Here are some hints for microwave beef cooking:

- In preparing beef strips for appetizers, snacks, or main dishes, partially freeze the fresh beef 30 minutes for easier slicing.
- Arrange uniform meat shapes like hamburgers or meatballs in a circle on the plate for cooking; leave the center empty.
- Shield irregularly-shaped edges of roasts with small pieces of foil to avoid overcooking.
- For microwave hamburgers, shape one pound ground beef into four 1/2-inch thick patties. Make a 1/4-inch hole in the center of each patty; then season to taste.
- Place ground beef in colander over a microwave-safe bowl so drippings will collect underneath.

Use sauces to keep meat moist and enhance color.

Try an Herb Seasoning Mix to spice up roasts and burgers. Herb Seasoning Mix: 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon dried Italian dressing (crushed), 1 tablespoon salt, 1/4 teaspoons paprika and 3/4 teaspoon pepper. Combine thoroughly and store in a shaker. Yield: seasoning for 14 pounds of beef roasts or burgers.

When cooking a roast in liquid, use an oven cooking bag (loosely tied with a nylon string) or a covered casserole dish. Place the more tender cuts directly on a rack in a microwave-safe dish, and insert a special microwave meat thermometer horizontally into the roast. Remember, the roast will continue to cook after it is removed from the oven, so allow 10-15 minutes standing time. The internal temperature will rise 5 to 15 degrees Fahrenheit during this time.

A delicious and almost effortless microwave dish to cook is "Tracy's Microwave Chili." The main ingredient, ground beef, can be purchased in varying degrees of leanness--from 70 to 95 percent. Use the technique to remove drippings by placing the beef on a small sieve or colander with a microwave-safe dish underneath. Stir the ground beef at least once midway through the cooking period to separate it into individual pieces.

TRACY'S MICROWAVE CHILI

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 20 minutes

- 1 pound ground beef
 - 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1 tablespoon chili powder
 - 1 teaspoon ground cumin
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 dash liquid hot pepper sauce, if desired
 - 1 can (8 ounces) kidney beans, drained
- Condiments: Shredded cheese, ripe olives and dairy sour cream
1 can (28 ounces) whole tomatoes, coarsely chopped

Combine ground beef, onion and garlic powder; arrange in a ring in a all-plastic sieve or small colander. Place sieve in bowl; microwave at HIGH 3 minutes. Stir to break up beef. Continue cooking at HIGH 3 minutes; stir after removing from microwave. Pour out drippings. Place beef in 2-quart microwave-safe dish; sprinkle chili powder, cumin, salt and hot pepper sauce, if desired, over beef, stirring to combine. Stir in tomatoes and kidney beans. Cover with waxed paper and microwave at HIGH 12 to 14 minutes, stirring every 4 minutes. Serve with shredded cheese, ripe olives, and sour cream if desired. 4 servings.

Note: Cooking times are based upon a full power output of approximately 650 watts.

Crockett County Public Library

New Summer Hours

Monday through Friday
9 a.m. - 12 p.m.
1 p.m. - 6 p.m.

CCPL is announcing new summer hours for the library through July and August. The library will not be open during the lunch hour or at night during this period. Our library aide, Mrs. Ninfa Fierro, is going to a new job with the Ozona Public Schools, so Librarian Louise Ledoux will be operating the library alone until a new aide can be hired.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER PROGRAMS

The public library is the perfect answer for that age old question, "What can I do, Mother? There's nothing to do in the summer!" The library has Story Hour every Monday morning for 6-10 year olds from 9 to 10 a.m. and for the little 3-5 year olds from 10 to 11 a.m. Friends chairman, Lisa Wagoner, has a wonderful line-up of fun programs for the kids. Last week we studied the planets in our solar system and coming up a program on art with lots of fun things to make, and then we may wind up with a puppet show and a party for all the Story Hour kids. Don't miss a minute of the fun! Visit your library and check out some of the new books arriving all the time.

Coming up in August, the public library will be presenting a series of programs for teens on babysitting, grooming, and wildlife. Times and specifics on these programs will be provided later as we get everything worked out. The new extension agent, Tedra Ulmer, will be coordinating the programs for the girls and game warden Rod Chalmers will be presenting the wildlife program. Watch your newspaper for dates and times!

Western art show in San Angelo

West Texas Boys Ranch and the Tom Green National Bank in San Angelo will host a special showing of limited edition, signed and numbered western art collector's prints July 27-30, 1988. The prints will show in the lobby of the bank, located at 2302 Pulliam.

Featured artists will be Tom Ryan of Midland, Wayne Baize of Fort Davis, and Bill Owen of Flagstaff, AZ. Ryan and Baize will be on hand Saturday, July 30, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at a reception. Several framed and unframed prints from each artist will be available for purchase.

Tom Ryan is originally from Springfield, IL. He gained notice doing western illustrations and book covers for such companies as Brown and Bigelow. He moved to Texas in 1967. He has been called the artist of the American cowboy. He presents in his art the contemporary cowboy who still rides the ranches of the West—those men who represent the spirit and individuality, the values and traditions of our country.

Wayne Baize captures the serenity and peace of the West and the working cowboy. The beauty and majesty of his works blend with the dedication he shows to the life of the cowboy. Baize lives, paints and ranches in the beautiful Davis Mountains of West Texas.

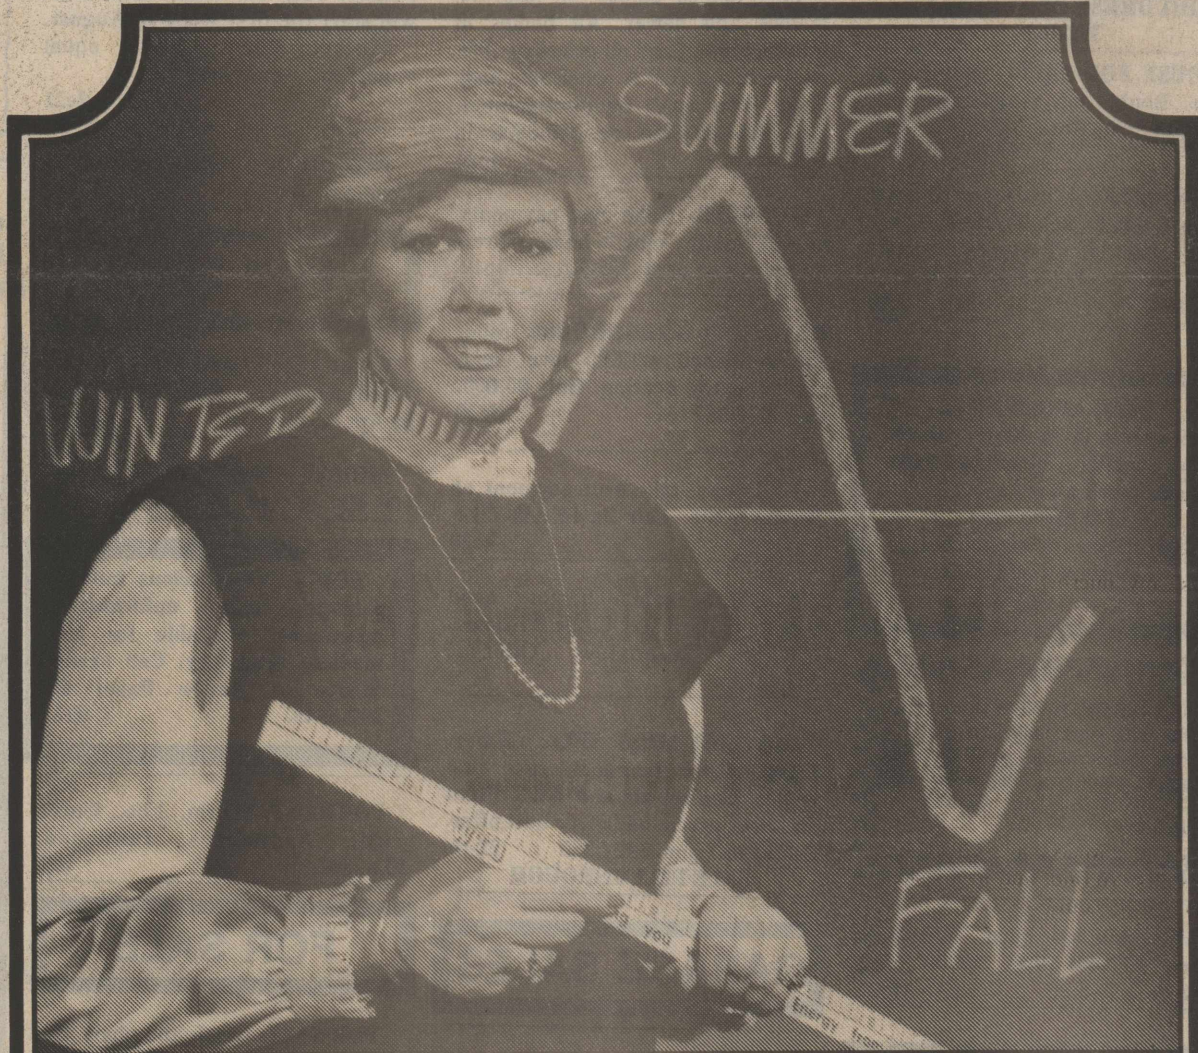

Bill Owen has gained recognition and prominence as an artist who accurately portrays the history and lifestyle of a vanishing breed—the artistic talents and knowledge of the subject matter combined with a sharp eye and willingness to work long, hard hours has endeared him to the cowboys he portrays.

The public is invited to come out, meet the artists, and enjoy some of the works of three of the finest Western artists in the country today.

Lola Mae Daniel, former teacher in the Ozona school system, is visiting the Harold Shaws and will return to Austin this week.
