Netters swing to state

by T. C. Tucker
STOCKMAN SPORTS

"It's the first time I have ever seen 17 and 18-year-olds do cartwheels in Dairy Queen," Coach Jerry Tucker said of girls' singles player Summer Shacklette and boys' doubles Travis Burks and Tommy Tucker's state qualifying performances at last weekend's Region 1-2A Tennis Tournament.

Both Shacklette and the duo finished as runner-ups to earn their trips to Austin.

"Summer played beyond expectations," Coach Tucker said. "She had her best tournament in her high-school career."

The meet at Abilene Christian University marked Shacklette's third appearance at region, having lost in the first round her sophomore year and the second round last year.

This year, she drew into the third seed and set about upsetting her 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Shacklette followed up with a 6-1, 6-0 second-round win to place her in the semifinals.

There, she overcame San Saba's Ginger Woodruff 6-4, 6-3 and qualified for the state meet. The finals produced a match-up identical to district's final as Katie Hardy of Eldorado beat Shacklette 6-3, 6-2.

As second seeds, Burks and Tucker captured first and second-round victories over Stratford and Tahoka duos.

In the semifinals, the two Lion netters faced the fourth seeds from Canadian. Burks and Tucker took the first set 6-3 and held on in the second, 7-6, to advance to the finals and the state level.

The regional tourney's first seeds of Tahoka ended Ozona's winning streak with a 6-3, 6-4 win.

"Travis and Tommy did an excellent job getting to state for their first year at the regional meet," Coach Tucker said.

"I'm real proud for these three youngsters," he continued. "They gave a great example of the three ingredients needed to be a winner: talent, opportunity and burning desire. Plus, they added their own: they dislike losing."

"Scotty Burks was a great help as an alternate and scouting matches,"

"I do not believe this would have been possible without a great season by the team," said Tucker.

The state meet will be held May 12 and 13.

McCollum advances

by Copie Davis
STOCKMAN SPORTS

Ozona senior Gina McCollum fired rounds of 82-84 on Abilene's Maxwell Municipal Golf Course and won a two day head-to-head battle last week with Iraan's Leslie Hartman to earn a berth in the Conference AA State Golf Tournament.

McCollum, who was the District 6-AA champion, overcame a one shot deficit with only four holes to play to take second place in Region I-AA.

In the team standings, the Ozona Lady Lions knocked on the door, but for the fifth year in a row, were refused entry to the exclusive state tournament party.

The Lady Lions shot rounds of 400-390 over the two days of the tournament. Their total of 790 was good enough to place Ozona fifth out of the 16 team field. However, only the top two teams go on to state.

Besides McCollum's score of 166, Julie Carson fired rounds of 92-89 (171) to place her 10th out of more than 80 golfers in the region.

The Lady Lions' third player, Christy Cotton, shot a shaky 112 the first day, but came back with a sizzling 104 on Friday to finish at 216.

Terel Seahorn put together two very steady rounds during the tournament, posting a 114 on Thursday and a 113 on Friday.

Marandy Keith culminated her "crash to riches" season by firing her best two rounds of '89, 121 on Friday, and 126 on Saturday, at her first regional competition.

McCollum, who is making her first state tournament appearance, will travel to Austin for a practice round on May 10 while the tournament will take place May 11-12.

Sanchez claims state berth

by T. C. Tucker
STOCKMAN SPORTS

Rebounding from a disappointing sixth-place finish in the two-mile, Maria Sanchez earned a trip to the state meet by clocking a 5:40.1 second-placing mile at last weekend's Region 1-2A track meet.

"It was the best competitive performance I've seen of Maria," Coach David McWilliams said. "She came back after the two-mile and pushed herself."

Sanchez ran less than a second out of first; however, the two-mile saw her separated by over half a minute. She tallied a time of 13:02.8 while Mary Lopez of Stratford won the event with 12:31.5.

Freshman Claudia Avila almost echoed senior Sanchez' performance. Avila cruised to a third-place finish in the 400m dash. She earned the alternate spot with a personal best of 64.1.

"Our mile-relay team also had its best time ever," Coach McWilliams said. "We only missed qualifying for the finals by one-tenth of a second."

Members of the relay team include Avila, Sanchez, Tamel West and Susan Pullen.

With Sanchez and Avila's efforts, Ozona accumulated 15 points to finish 14 in overall standings.

"I thought we had an excellent meet," McWilliams noted. "It was successful both team-wise and individually."

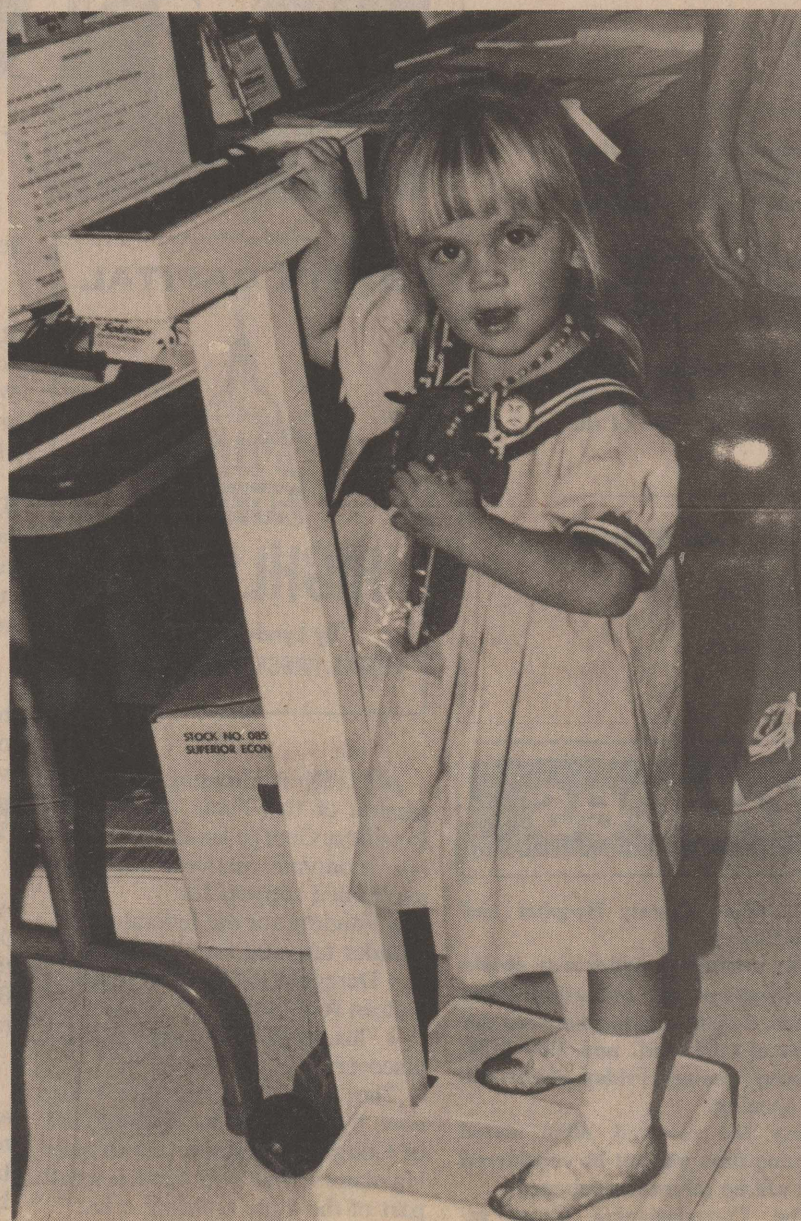

In boys' action, Luis Rico and his time of 10:43.5 finished sixth in the two-mile.

The state track meet will be held Friday and Saturday, May 12 and 13, in Austin.

Health Fair draws 600

The waiting lines were a little long at times, but 600 persons crowded the Crockett County Civic Center on Thursday for the annual Crockett County Health Fair.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Crockett Crockett County Extension Home Economics Committee, and the Texas Department of Health, the fair included educational exhibits for all ages and health testing at no charge.

"Without the many volunteers and the time and effort they put into this event, it would not be possible to have such a major event," said Tetra Ulmer, County Extension Agent-Home Economics.

"I want to particularly thank the chairmen for this year's fair, Tina Moran and Karen Huffman, for all their hard work," added Ulmer. She also noted the creativity shown by committee members Esni Barrera and Vicky Gonzales in providing a display on the importance of play to the development and growth of children.

Organizations and individuals who helped with this year's event include Rivercrest Hospital, United Blood Services, Belton, Department of Public Safety, Texas Department of Health, American Cancer Society, Crockett County's Fire Department, Water District, Sheriff's Department, Library, and Emergency Medical Services, West Texas Utilities, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Angelo Community Hospital, Planned Parenthood, Dr. Joe Logan, Dr. Steve Sessom, Helping Hands, registration volunteers Gussie Schneider, Louise Taliaferro, Jodie Barton, Maggie Carroll, Jill De La Garza, Anna Arredondo and Janis De Hoyos, and all of the volunteers who brought snacks for the Health Fair workers.

Ulmer also noted that United Blood Services collected 40 pints of blood during their blood drive, held in conjunction with the Health Fair. "We want to thank Judy Adams and the Chamber of Commerce for their cooperation in getting the word," said Ulmer.

The Home Economics Committee, noted Ulmer, will soon begin planning next year's Health Fair. "If you have any ideas, or suggestions on how we can improve the Health Fair, please let us know," she said.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Extension plans open house

An open house to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Smith-Lever Act will be held Monday, May 8 from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Crockett County Extension Office, located in the Courthouse Annex.

All residents of Crockett County are invited to come by and enjoy refreshments while they learn a little more about Extension programming in Crockett County.

Tour promotes understanding of resources

The Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District, the Crockett County Extension Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service sponsored the fifth annual conservation education field day tour for the sixth grade students of Ozona April 26. The purpose of the tour was to give the students a basic understanding of what renewable natural resources are and how they must be properly cared for to sustain the current way of life. As future leaders, another purpose was to impress upon them that they will be the ones taking care of the country's natural resources.

The morning portion of the tour consisted of taking students to the Double T Ranch where they were presented subject matter on range, wildlife and soils.

At the range stop, the students learned about the different types of range plants growing in this area, how grass grows, the need for proper grazing use, and water consumption of brush and grass.

The soils stop consisted of learning the characteristics of soil and potential erosion problems, how soil is formed and applicable conservation practices for conserving soil.

Subject matter presented at the wildlife stop included the importance of wildlife laws and regulations, forage plants utilized by wildlife, and the importance of habitat for game and non-game wildlife species.

Virgil Polocek, SCS head from Sutton County, tells sixth graders about plants while Skip Carroll of Ozona watches during the field trip April 27.

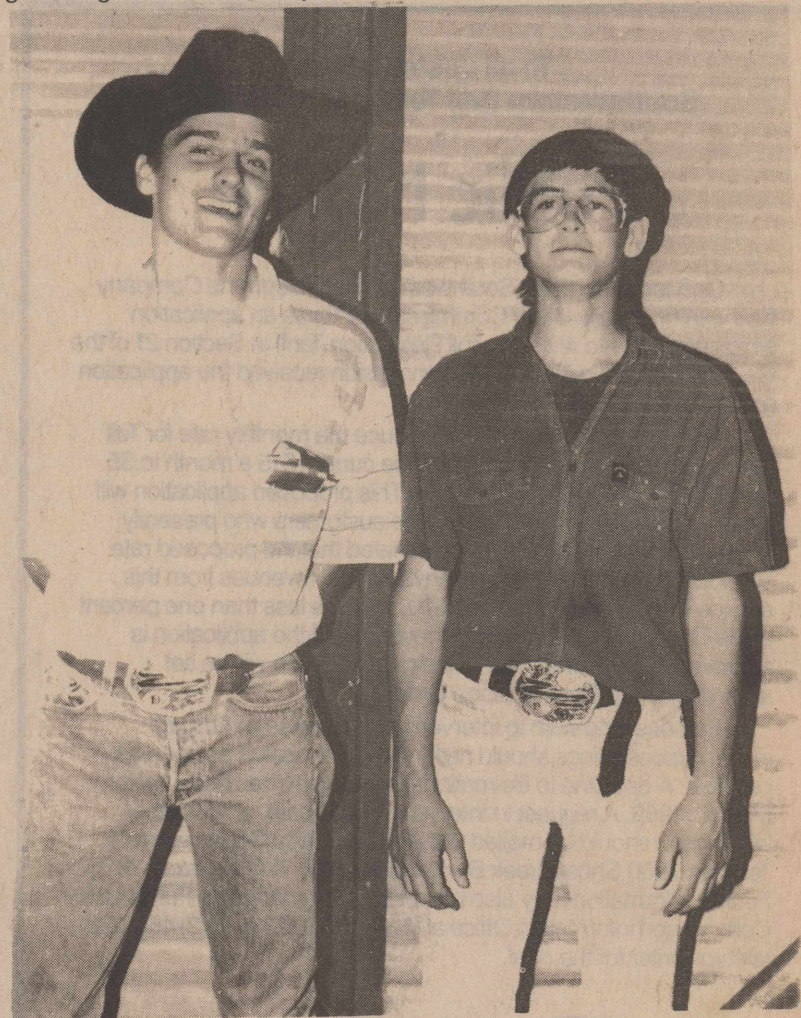

The students were taken to the Civic Center where they were fed a hamburger lunch provided by the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District and cooked by Art Roan, Herb Schwertner, Billy Reagor, Larry Williams, Laurie Hale, Diane Schwertner and Nancy Hale.

After lunch, Billy Reagor, County Extension Agent, gave the students a presentation on sheep and goat production in Crockett County including county statistics and the economic importance of it to the county and town.

The students were taken to the Demp Jones Ranch where they were able to observe a sheep shearing crew in action. They returned to Ozona Wool and Mohair Warehouse where Joe David Yates presented a talk on wool and mohair and what happens to it after it comes to the warehouse until the finished product.

Appreciation is expressed to Ozona school officials for their continued support, Art Roan, Double T Ranch, and Demp Jones for the use of their ranches, Ozona Wool and Mohair Warehouse and Joe David Yates, the personnel of the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and others who contributed to this educational activity.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Addressing a joint session of the Texas Legislature, President George Bush rejoiced in our economic recovery here and reaffirmed support for:

- Funding for the federal supercollider targeted for Waxahachie;
- Deregulation of natural gas as a clean fuel; and
- Tax credits for oil and gas discovery.

The fate of the supercollider, now fighting for its funding life in Congress, is important to state legislators who will fund a small part of the huge building cost.

Tough Bronco Ride

Bush compared the economic recession to a tough bronco ride and spoke in terms of its end, and, indeed, economic indicators underscore that point of view.

Houston, the first major city in Texas to feel recession pains, reported unemployment down to pre-recession levels while new jobs and used home sales were rising.

Bush made Texas history as the first sitting president to address a Texas Legislature.

State Budget Moving

The state budget glided into conference committee after House members approved a $46.5 billion plan by the largest margin that anyone could recall.

Senators on the conference committee are Chet Brooks, Carl Parker, John Montford and Kent Caperton, all Democrats, and Bob McFarland, a Republican.

Named from the House are Democrats Jim Rudd, Rick Perry, Richard Williamson and Orlando Garcia, and Republican Chris Harris.

AG Bill Progresses

Few have done it, but powerful House calendars committee chair Stan Schlueter won a victory over Attorney General Jim Mattox in passing a proposed amendment to limit politically ambitious attorneys general.

Mattox at first denied any interest in the bill, since it would not affect his all-but-announced race for governor in 1990, but later he was observed lobbying for the bill's defeat. Schlueter, in turn, has always denied that Mattox was the bill's target.

Unknown: The bill's chances in the senate; why Mattox fought it; and why Schlueter sponsored it.

Some say Mattox has cold feet about leaving his post and might opt for re-election next year. Fat chance, say his supporters.

The bill would limit future AGs to a single six-year term with contributions solicitation limited to the first year. It also includes a two-year waiting period before seeking another office.

Campaign Spending

Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains said his task force's efforts to cap campaign spending was thwarted by Democrats and powerful special interest groups, a charge that Democrats denied.

Rains wanted gifts capped at $25,000 per year, but instead, he said, the task force will recommend the Legislature pass a new law to strengthen disclosure requirements for big contributors.

"Ticket Scalping" Bill

The Senate last week passed a bill outlawing "ticket scalping," or resale above the ticket's face value. The misdemeanor would be punishable by a $1,000 fine and 180 days in jail.

Sen. Carl Parker, of Port Arthur, a devout Democrat, asked the sponsor if senators could scalp their two free tickets to President Bush's speech. "Some of us would rather have the money."

Other Highlights

• State Board of Insurance appointee Robert Reynolds denied testimony during a confirmation hearing that Reynolds fired one of his private firm's employees after learning he had AIDS.

The employee told senators he also lost all his health insurance benefits when the company switched insurers, and said Reynolds was insensitive to health insurance needs of AIDS victims.

• The Senate passed a bill allowing the death penalty for persons convicted of murdering a child 14 and younger.

• State Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, has a bill which calls for amputation of fingers of convicted drug dealers. Opponents say it violates constitutional bans against unusual punishment.

• A bill to allow Texans to legally carry a concealed pistol was called anti-crime legislation by its sponsor Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, who told lawmakers, "Let's blow away some of these jerks (criminals)." Law enforcement groups urged the committee to blow away Wilson's bill.

• Rep. David Hudson, D-Tyler, reported 45 co-authors for a proposed constitutional amendment to raise legislators' salaries to one-fourth of the governor's salary.

• Former Gov. John Connally is campaign manager for Fred Hofheinz's bid to upset Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire.

• The State Bar of Texas will co-sponsor free legal clinics for more than 3,000 Central American refugees detained in immigration camps in the Rio Grande Valley.

• Texas, with 300, now leads the nation in the number of prison inmates on death row.

• Senators passed a bill allowing police to tape oral confessions.

Hospital sponsors cancer clinic

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every 10 women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year more than 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from the regional breast care center at Women's and Children's Hospital in Odessa, "The death rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art x-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt.

A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has a 90-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast cancer detection unit will be made available to local women.

The mobile unit will be parked at Crockett County Hospital on Thursday, May 18. Appointments may be made by calling 392-2671.

For more information you may call the regional breast care center at Women's and Children's Hospital at 915 334-8888/561-999.

Tribute to one who is gone

Editor's Note:
 The following tribute was written several years ago by Melinda Hokit following the death of a college friend. It is printed here as a tribute to her grandfather, the late Tom Powers.

As the shadow of death hath overcome me
 I can see the beam of light above me.
 I no longer need the material things of life
 For I have sought and found the eternal life.

I watch my friends gather for the sorrowful time
 I wish that they would not show grief, but happiness and cheer
 For I have found the happy times.

The Lord is my shepherd and has shown me the greener pastures
 I have found the life that I had to be rich experience as rich as the color of green pastures.

As a word of comfort to my friends
 Thank you for being my friends.
 I have found I had a rich life on earth.
 My death has a purpose for us all.
 It is time to take heed of this event.
 I have found truly a life equal to that on earth.
 You have to have faith that the life up here is really a better place to live.

There are no signs of war.
 There are only signs of peace and joy.
 Feel not sorrow in your heart for me.
 Feel only love and joy toward the memories of me.
 I leave you with these few words to only lighten your heart.
 Remember the good times and take the lightness to your heart.

Those blooming Christians!!!

By Charles Huffman, Pastor
 Faith Lutheran Church
 Hope Lutheran Church

"You were born again, not by a seed perishes but one that cannot perish, God's ever-living Word. All people are like grass, and all their glory like the flower in the grass. The grass withers, and the flower drops off, but the Lord's Word lives forever. This Word is the good news you have been told". 1 Peter 1:23-25

As you've probably noticed, Spring is blooming all over! Flowers of different shapes and colors are opening up and witnessing to the beauty of their Creator. The showers and sunshine of springtime bring forth all kinds of new life and growth, refreshing and renewing us with the wonder of it all.

A story is told about Lord Alfred Tennyson, famous poet of the last century. Accompanied by a friend, he was walking in a beautiful garden one day. As they walked, the friend said: "Mr. Tennyson, you often speak of Jesus. Would you tell me what Christ really means to you?" Tennyson stopped, thought for a moment, and then pointing down to a beautiful flower, replied, "What the sun is to that flower, Jesus Christ is to my soul!"

And who of us that claim Christ's name should not say the same! What the sun is to the flowers, Christ is to our souls! There isn't a blessing in our life - if we trace it back to the hand which gave it, that doesn't lead us to the creative power and the redeeming love of the Son of God. No matter where we turn, no matter where we look - if there's anything good, anything true, anything that's brought lasting joy and gladness into our life - we must recognize it as a gift that has come to us through faith in Jesus Christ, our Savior.

Through the prophet Malachi, God the Father promised in chapter 4: "But for you who respect My name there will rise the Sun of Righteousness with healing in His wings". In days of gloom Jesus is our Light of life. In days of sorrow or despondency, it is the warmth of His love that lifts our drooping spirits. In days of temptation it is the magnetism of His Cross which holds us from the paths of evil and draws us to His outstretched arms. Yes, in a very real and special sense, Christ is to our souls what the sun is to the flowers!

In preparation for the coming of God's Son to share our humanity and bring the message from the throne of the Father, John the Baptizer was born in order to get people ready for the appearance of the promised Savior. At John's birth, his father Zacharias was filled with God's Holy Spirit and prophesied: "And you, child, will be called a Prophet of the Most High God. You will go ahead of the Lord to prepare the ways for Him, to tell His people they can be saved by the forgiveness of their sins, because our God is merciful and will let a heavenly Sun rise among us, to shine on those who sit in the dark and in the shadow of death and to guide our feet into the way of peace". (Luke 1:76-79)

 As we live in the light of the Resurrection of Him who loved us and gave Himself for us - even into death of Calvary's Cross - we can truly sing with blooming gladness the words of the hymn, "Beautiful Savior":
 Fair are the meadows, Fair are the woodlands,
 Robed in flowers of blooming spring,
 Jesus is fairer, Jesus is purer;

He makes our sorrowing spirit sing!
 So, remember, when the pressures of life begin to wither your blooming Christian spirit, to again do what the verse of another song urges:
 Turn your eyes upon Jesus, Look fully into His wonderful face,
 And the things of earth will grow
 In the light of His glory and grace!

Letter to the Editor

Editor's Note:

The following letter from a former resident is shared by Red Greer.

Hi, Red:

Congratulations on the fine article in the April 12 issue of The Ozona Stockman. It sounds like you are still going strong at age 90. Keep it up!

I have lunch real often with a golfing friend. I showed him the article today and said, "Here's a real challenge for you." He was interested in the article and said he believed he had read something about you in another newspaper or magazine.

At age 75 (almost 76) I am still going strong. I retired from full time work on December 31, 1988. I am working half time now because I don't see how I can fully retire and be satisfied. I walk and jog 3 miles 5 mornings per week. I will run competitively in a 2 mile fund run on May 6. I have participated in it for the last 7 years and have won first or second except for one year when I won third. It looks like us old men are still hanging in there.

I still have opportunities to preach and enjoy it very much. When you have been at one thing for 58 years you can't get it out of your blood.

Best wishes for all the future. Hang tough!

Sincerely yours,
Clyde J. Childers
Senior Development Officer
Baptist Memorial Hospital System

P.S. They did not give your address in the article mentioned above. I hope you get this letter.

Chamber notes.....

Chamber secretary

Have I told you lately what a wonderful job I have? The latest blessing came this last week when a middle aged couple came in the office for info on the Big Bend Park. After talking for a solid 2 minutes (you know me) they smiled and then spoke the most beautiful French I'd ever heard. I didn't understand a word they said, but it didn't matter, I'd have listened all day. We finally communicated on a level everyone understood, had signs and laughter. It was great! As they headed on over to our museum they conveyed to me that I had a beautiful accent and please not stop talking. Well, talk about finding my niche in life, this has got to be it! I talked as long as they wanted me to. But later, as they were leaving town, they came by and said good-bye. I tried my best to explain that it wasn't that I had the accent. Oh well, Merci bou cu my new friends.

Then there was this gentleman from Oklahoma who after reading an article about Crockett County some years back found himself passing through Wednesday. He ran in all flustered and in a hurry, said "you're not going to believe this, but I'm a writer and couldn't wait to see some material on this county. I've written on Texas forts and Texas parks, but now I want to write about some famous counties in Texas." When he remembered the article on Crockett County (county line), he had to stop. I've promised him a copy of our history book and all the material I can find. It sure was great to be called famous. Thank you, Mr. Ray Kay for making me feel special.

And on Monday the bicycles came through, did you see them? There was a group of California friends traveling from San Diego to Jacksonville, Florida. You know what the really amazing part is? They paid a tour company to escort them. I would never have thought someone would come up with an idea like that, but as it helps in case of emergencies and strange country to ride in they all really appreciated having a van following behind. Everyone looked so healthy and tanned. I felt like a lazy old woman in comparison. Yes, I went home and rode my bicycle (around the block, twice). They did say one thing I'll always remember, how beautiful Ozona is when you come up on it from the interstate, green trees, pretty homes, and everyone waved to them in town. And finally, "it was nice to see a horizon without the golden arches sticking up." Thanks.

I could go on and on but someone has pulled up outside in a Pinto pulling a U-Haul with 4, no 5, no 6 kids in the back and a flat tire. Gotta go....

Surprises in Austin

A trip to Austin last week for a hearing of the Crockett County Water District bill before the House Natural Resources Committee didn't turn out exactly as expected for Pleas Childress III. The meeting happened to coincide with a visit by President Bush, and things soon got topsy turvy for Pleas and Dwight Childress who accompanied him. "We got there and found out the committee meeting had been canceled because of the President's visit," Pleas explained.

Never one to waste time, Childress went to see Sen. Bill Sims and told him he needed to see the President.

Soon the two Ozonans had tickets to hear President Bush address the House of Representatives.

Not only did the two hear the President, they entered the chambers in procession with Speaker of the House Gib Lewis and found themselves seated on the House floor about six rows behind the President.

The hearing on the legislation for the proposed district was rescheduled for this week. Pleas said.

Peter Kapatak of Dellingham, Alaska, was a recent visitor of Rev. and Mrs. Bekie Diaz in Ozona. Peter is a student at TSTI in Waco where Humberto Diaz, grandson of the Diaz's is also a student. Peter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Les Kapatak.

Will Hoover and Mike Tomlinson enjoyed a short trip to Abilene last weekend.

Janet Henry of San Angelo, formerly of Ozona, was here Sunday visiting family and friends. She now works in the transcription department at Shannon Hospital and says she really enjoys it.

Cruz Garza will be having a birthday this week. If you should see him, give him a smile and a birthday wish.

Recent visitors in the Lloyd Winkley home were Russell Winkley and friend Mark Pelletier and Mrs. Winkley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Moore of Andrews.

Get well soon wishes go out to Alma Bedner. Friends will be glad to know she is steadily improving.

Carol Lee Monroe of Fort Stockton has been here for a visit with her daughter, Stephanie Chapman. The two enjoyed a trip to Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sutton and Mrs. Maudie Montgomery were in San Angelo to attend the Tim Scoggins murder trial April 19-29.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moore last weekend were their daughter, Michelle Gray, son-in-law David, grandchildren Shawn and Amber, and David's mother, Sue Gray. The Grays are from Lorenzo.

Scoggins was found guilty of attempting to murder Mr. Sutton's sister, Leta Nobles, and of the murder of her husband, Olgie Nobles.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nicks of Brownwood were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Tomlinson last week. They are the parents of Marsha Tomlinson.

COLLEGE STATION — Scientists have developed a catalyst to directly convert the main component of natural gas into ethylene, a chemical currently in short supply but widely used in a number of everyday products from plastic bags to milk jugs.

The process, developed at Texas A&M University, could lead to more plentiful supplies of ethylene by transforming methane from natural gas into ethylene currently derived from petroleum.

Ethylene, now in short supply, is an important basic ingredient for a number of industrial products, particularly the plastics that go into items ranging from polyethylene wrappers and milk jugs to running-shoe soles and chemical products such as ethyl glycol antifreeze.

District salutes Drinking Water Week

Crockett County Water Control and Improvement District #1 plans to participate in National Drinking Water Week, a nationwide observance designed to increase public understanding of water issues during the week of May 1-7.

"Most people take water pretty much for granted," said Dee Keilers, manager of the district, "and during National Drinking Water Week we'd like to promote a better understanding of all the things that happen to water between the time we get it from nature and the time the consumer runs it from the faucet at home."

"As new federal drinking water regulations go into effect this year, the public needs to know more about the changes that will be made in such areas as the monitoring and testing of drinking water, higher drinking water standards, treatment requirements, and public education," he said.

For the second time in as many years the public and private sectors will join in the nationwide celebration of National Drinking Water Week to pay tribute to that often taken for granted but nonetheless precious commodity, safe drinking water.

"Drinking Water: On Tap For The Future" is the theme for the drinking water industry, the public sector and the government in promoting National Drinking Water Week.

"National Drinking Water Week was established to enhance public awareness of drinking water issues and increase public recognition of the difference that drinking water makes to the health, safety and quality of life we enjoy," explained Doug Meador, water and waste water superintendent for the district. "Safe drinking water is a resource beyond price. Yet we take water for granted because, generally, it is abundant, cheap, and of good quality. It is easy to forget the complex process that brings this water to our taps," Meador said.

With the adoption of the original Safe Drinking Water Act in 1974 and the subsequent passage of the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1986, drinking water has come to the forefront as an issue of national concern. More is now known about the quality of drinking water in the United States than ever before. Although there is a high level of compliance with drinking water standards, there is still a challenge to be met in ensuring that the American public receive drinking water of the highest possible quality.

The Federal Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974 and 1986 provides a national framework for preserving and improving drinking water. Because this law requires monitoring and controlling of many contaminants not previously regulated, dramatic change in public water systems will affect every community in the United States.

Because the Safe Drinking Water

Act Amendments will effect changes in the drinking water industry, particularly in the areas of monitoring, water quality standards, and treatment requirements, the public must become better informed about this critical resource.

The success in meeting the requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act will depend in a large part on the understanding, education and support of the public about the service provided by their local utility.

"Protecting your water supply probably means paying more for it, but we know our supply of good drinking water is neither endless nor free," said Meador. "We must invest now to ensure that drinking water remains on tap for the future."

Locally, water is supplied to Ozona by the Crockett County Water Control and Improvement District #1. The district is governed by a board of directors. Serving on this board are Dan Davidson, Gene Perry, Harold Shaw, Dennis Clark and Pon Seahorn. Crockett County WCID#1 has 17 employees.

Ozona is served by nine wells producing 452,208,600 gallons in 1988. High pumpage was in August when 60,703,300 gallons were pumped. Low was in October with 22,586,100 being produced.

On a national average, 168 gallons per day (gpd) is consumed per person. Ozona's average is 281 gpd per person, which includes water for

WTU program assists elderly

West Texas Utilities Co. has announced its participation in the Gatekeeper Program. The program is designed to assist vulnerable older people who need help but may be unable to get it for themselves.

"We have long been active supporters of programs like the United Way, volunteer fire departments, and other community programs," said Glen Churchill, president and chief executive officer of the electric utility. "Our employees also participate in the Neighborhood Crime Watch in our communities. The Gatekeeper Program offers us an opportunity to further serve West Texans."

Each year the elderly population grows. In fact, statistics show that people over 85 make up the fastest growing segment of the U. S. population. Many of them are healthy, active people involved with family and friends, church or community groups.

But many others are not that fortunate. They live alone and have little contact with others. If they become ill or unable to function independently, they can easily go unnoticed and unattended. According to Churchill, the Gatekeeper Program seeks to help remedy the problem by using meter readers and other customer service representatives who may have contact with the elderly in the normal course of their jobs.

Nancy Johnson, WTU supervisor of residential audit services, recently conducted training sessions for those employees throughout the company's 52 county service area. The training taught the Gatekeepers to recognize certain signals in the elderly such as a change in appearance or behavior, or signs of confusion or disability.

When the employee sees a warning sign, the local agency for the aging is contacted. The agency takes it from there.

They contact the elderly person, assess their needs, and get whatever help is required from the appropriate health or social service organization. This may include medical care, food preparation or delivery, help with household chores, transportation or other services.

In discussing the company's reasons for participating in this nationally recognized program, Churchill pointed out that it is a logical extension of what company employees do in their normal line of work.

Artist loves life

Johnnye Hoover, Crockett County Public Library's Artist of the Month for May, loves the outdoors and the indoors. In fact, Johnnye loves life. "I enjoy being alive. I enjoy exploring this life," said Johnnye.

Her artistic ability comes naturally. Her mother was an artist and her father a musician, Johnnye explains. Her parents owned and operated a general merchandise store carrying everything from silk stockings to cheese, but the family gatherings at Evant with nine children and their assorted friends were often of a musical nature.

Johnnye can't remember when she did not sketch or paint. "I started sketching the faces of kids in school when I was little," she said.

A lull in her painting career after the death of husband Hop Hoover nine years ago recently came to an end. "I don't know what got me started again," she said of her painting. Her interest was rekindled six months ago, and the busy lady has been painting frequently since.

Her love of the land is evident in several of the paintings on exhibit at the library. An oil titled Big Canyon on the Pecos was done from a photograph of the ranch taken by Ginger Perner. Ginger and husband Paul are the subjects of a sketch displayed at the library. The pencil drawing shows cowboy Paul looking upward at a plane being flown by Ginger.

Mountain Man and Dog, a pastel and acrylic, attracts the lover of western art as does her Texas bluebonnet scene.

Especially dear to Johnnye are two oils she did of her late husband's hat and boots.

"Everyone of them has a history," she says of her works. A stillife placed on the mantel has just been repaired for the exhibit. The picture of a bowl of zinnias Hop had planted was done early in her marriage. They are arranged in a pottery container given to the artist by her mother and displayed on a dining table given to her by Hop. The wool sack drapes in the background were made by Johnnye.

In progress is a painting of the old Hoover headquarters. "I have no sense of time when I start painting," said the enthusiastic lady.

Johnnye West came to Ozona from San Saba after buying a beauty shop from the Blalocks. Later she married Hoover, and the couple made their home and reared their two sons, James Brock and John Temple, at the ranch. "I taught the children until James Brock was in the fifth grade," she said. Using the Calvert teaching program, she guided the boys' early education. They were not allowed to advance until school teachers approved their progress.

Raising sons was no big challenge for a girl who grew up with six brothers. "They called me Crip until I was half-grown because I was always skinned up," she said with a grin.

Somewhat more sedate now, most of her outside activities center around the yard and garden she loves.

"But I'm in the business," she says of her paintings. You will know she does well in the grandmother line, too, when you visit the library and see the portrait made of a very young granddaughter, Lori Hoover, now 15.

Johnnye's artistic abilities spill over into the written word as well. She has begun writing a book which will be as interesting as she is.

"I'm an original. I'm sure there wasn't room for two," said Johnnye of herself.

Young authors display works

Young authors from the 8th grade literature classes at Ozona Junior High were challenged to research their favorite type of literature, find examples to collect, and then write some of their own. They have worked hard and produced some wonderful books, said teacher Joyce Maness. Some of the students chose to review special honor books.

"Thanks to all who assisted in typing and supplying materials to work with," said Mrs. Maness. The books will be on display in Crockett County Public Library until May 19.

Students writing novels were: Leanne Taylor, Davina Rogers, Lisa Herring, Jennifer Lee, Melanie Tomlinson, Kathryn Durham, Terry House, Billy Tramel, Justin Southern and Jason Yeager.

Jennifer Davidson chose to do a personal narrative.

Leesa Haire wrote for the holiday story collection and Norma Quiroz elected to do a story for the ghost and mystery short story category.

Martha Mayfield, Chandra McKinney, Myra Wilson and Cassie Montgomery wrote for the short story collection.

Concentrating on the research category were: Mike Kenison, Chad Upham, Aaron Carroll, Rudy Ramirez and Robert Gentry.

Elena Dominguez participated in the category Drama - Adaptation of Children's Stories.

Poetry collections were compiled by Christy Porras, Jennifer Jones, Hollie Williams, Bonnie Martin, Belia Vasquez, Nikki McCarley, Whitney Vannoy, Julie Childress, Sylvia Pena-Alfaro, Tess Worthington, Jennifer Payne and Stacey Grendahl.

Preparing book reviews were: Amy Goshen, Kristal Cervantez, Keno Avila, Elsa Rodriguez, Eric Vargas, Selma Galindo, Tonya Daniels and James Talamantez.

College courses at Iraan

Two college courses will be offered in Iraan at the high school this summer if there is sufficient interest, according to Dr. Deana L. Lusk, Dean of Community Services for Midland College.

English 1302, Composition and Literature, and History 2302, U.S. History from 1877, will be taught by Sam Vandiver.

"The scheduling of the class hours will have to be worked out with the students," Dr. Lusk said. "We will have to know that the enrollment is assured and then work out the details."

Midland College requires 45 50-minute classes for a course offering three hours of college credit. This will mean that two-hour classes will meet three times a week for seven weeks beginning May 22 and ending the week of July 3. The schedule could be arranged with meetings at 6-8 p.m. and 8-10 p.m. on Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday, or Monday-Wednesday-Friday, or Monday-Tuesday-Thursday.

Tuition for courses from Midland College is:

3 credit hours -- $80
6 credit hours -- $108

Persons interested in the college-credit courses should call Dan Stacy, Iraan High School counselor, at 639-2722, or leave a message on the Vandiver answering machine at 639-2012.

Deadline for registering is May 19, with classes beginning May 22 and being held in classrooms at the Iraan High School.

Local judgements win ribbons

The Crockett County wool and mohair and range and grass judging contests drew 150 contestants Saturday. There were 19 teams in the wool and mohair judging contest that morning and 17 teams competing in the range and grass judging contest Saturday afternoon.

This year a wool and mohair judging contest was held in conjunction with the annual range and grass contest. According to Billy Reagor, County Extension Agent, this proved to be a good choice with excellent participation in both contests in spite of a conflicting range contest in Eldorado which the range teams also participated in.

The contests are sponsored annually by the Crockett County Extension Service and the Soil and Water Conservation District.

Dr. Alan McGinty, district range specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Fort Stockton, set up the range and grass contests and was the official judge. Dr. Rick Machen, district livestock specialist, also with Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Fort Stockton, set up the wool and mohair contests and served as the official judge.

These contests also serve as district elimination contests for District 6 in which winners advance to State 4-H Roundup.

Hamburgers cooked by Debbie and Jimmy Arrott and Terry Dickerson were served to contestants and coaches at noon.

Shacklette and Julie Childress on the team.

Range Judging Contest - Novice Division - 1 Sutton County #1; 2 Crockett County; 3 Sutton County #2. Jason Hignight was third high individual. Other team members were T. J. Young, Rusty and Dana Bishop.

It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mamm.ography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $50.00. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Extension Connection

by Tedra Ulmer, County Extension Agent
"Texas Agricultural Extension Service"

Help families cope

Informal educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service address issues impacting the personal, family and economic well-being of citizens.

The aim of these programs is to develop life skills so that individuals and families are better equipped to prevent the negative impact of issues and to make informal decisions for optimum benefits not only for themselves but to their communities and society overall.

Nowhere is that aim more evident than in the Extension Service's home economics programs. Below are a number of issues that the Extension Service has addressed for some time, with figures relating to the past year.

--Feeding the poor: In the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program, almost 20,000 low-income homemakers and more than 12,000 youths were taught how to cut food bills while improving their diets. A series of video tapes were prepared to teach basic family nutrition to families with limited incomes.

--Housing costs: Programs have focused on helping families with marketing techniques to get the most value from their homes in a depressed housing market. Some 4,600 homeowners and 2,000 realtors plus lenders and real estate inspectors have been involved. Cooperative programs with the Farmers Home Administration have addressed the rural housing delinquency problem.

--Water quality: Teaching resources on water quality, including a video tape, were prepared to inform consumers about cost-effective water quality management and water quality issues.

--Child safety: Teaching parents of young children how to prevent life-threatening injuries in automobile accidents is a major educational effort. Programs and resource materials deal with selection and correct use of a child restraint seat.

Programs also have focused on creating an awareness of the effects of alcohol and drug abuse through Project Celebration, in which alternatives to drugs and alcohol are provided during such celebration times as graduations and homecomings. More than 166,000 elementary school-aged children have been involved in this project, and another 84,000 have increased their awareness of ways to prevent drunk and impaired driving.

Special parenting effectiveness programs are being conducted with parents and children in cooperation with juvenile probation officers.

--Latchkey children: Efforts have been under way to help the increasing number of school-aged children responsible for their own after-school care. More than 50,000 youths have taken part in the Extension Service's self-care program.

--Alternatives to institutional care of elderly: More than 4,000 Texas families have availed themselves of programs on managing caregiver stress, understanding care alternatives in local communities, understanding aging and forming Alzheimer's support groups.

--Unemployment: Workshops on home-based businesses have been conducted as a means of family economic survival and community economic development.

--Wellness, diet quality and disease prevention: Educational efforts have focused on employee wellness programs, including a computerized health risk appraisal, food borne illnesses, and heart-healthy dietary guidelines.

--Child care: Some 400 child care providers took part in a 30-hour self-instruction program the past year. In addition, about 1,000 providers annually are learning more about quality child care through an intensive six-hour training program.

--Leadership: Efforts focus on developing leadership and public policy decision-making skills of women and other family members to resolve important family-related public issues.

--Economic disadvantage of young adults: This new program is addressing the financial needs of young couples and what it costs to manage a household.

Director commends students

Ozona High School has qualified three students for the University Interscholastic League Academic State Meet May 4-6 at the University of Texas at Austin. Qualifiers include: Copie Davis, first place in persuasive speaking; Margaret Jones, second place in persuasive speaking; and Dottie Gonzalez, third place in journalism headline writing.

The students earned eligibility by placing first, second or third at the regional meet held in Abilene April 22.

"Reaching the state level of academic competition shows determination and preparation on the part of the contestant and sponsor," Dr. Bailey Marshall, UIL director, said. "Students who compete at the UIL will benefit the contestant far beyond their field. The development of the skills to handle the intense competition and the attainment of knowledge required to achieve this honor will benefit the contestant far beyond the high school years."

Contests range from headline writing to Lincoln-Douglas debate, calculator applications to accounting. Of the million and a half students who participated in UIL activities in 1987-88, more than one million students competed in one or more of the 19 general academic contests.

In participating at the state meet, students qualify for Texas Interscholastic League Foundation scholarships. During 1988-89, the TILF awarded more than $437,000 in scholarship grants to 336 college students who competed at the UIL State Academic Meet. In 1989-90, the TILF expects to award an estimated 350 new and renewed grants, valued at approximately $460,000. The TILF funds are made possible through grants from foundations, individuals and families. The TILF has over $1,800,000 in endowed funds.

"We are extremely proud of the Ozona High School students that will be participating in this year's state meet as we are of the many students from Ozona that have participated in previous state meets," said Ozona High School Principal Jim Payne.

Texas Agricultural Extension Service

From the County Agent's desk

by Billy Reagor County Extension Agent

The county extension agent is many things to many Texans. To the farmer, he's an adviser on crop production. To the rancher, he's one who helps improve the livestock. To the homemakers, she is the person who helps stretch the family budget. To the agribusinessman, the agent is a pulse of the county's agricultural needs and potentials. To the youth in 4-H, the agent is a person willing to share dreams and experiences. To the urban dweller, the agent is a source of help on everything from lawn care to home repair.

To the world, the county extension agent is an example of educational resources meeting local needs on a personal basis.

Whatever else they may be, county agents are a gift from Texas to better life on the farm and in the home. For it was in Texas that the county agent came into being in 1906.

The local agent was the key link in the Extension teaching technique of "learning by doing" which took root in 1903 on the Walter C. Porter farm at Terrell, Texas. It was there that Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, educator and special agent of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, introduced to farmers around the world the cooperative demonstration farm. With Porter following Knapp's instruction, scientific research was applied to local field conditions by a volunteer local producer.

The success of the Porter Farm demonstration impressed farmers, educators and government officials across the land. The development of similar cooperative demonstration work was rapid. By 1904, Knapp opened an office for the "Farmers Cooperative Demonstration Work" in Houston and employed 33 agents to work directly with the farmers and farm families.

The county became the unit of work, and in 1906, the first county agent, W.C. Stallings, was employed by Smith County, Texas. His appointment was at the request of businessmen in Tyler, the county seat.

Members of the Tyler Commercial Club, recognizing the importance of Knapp's work and desiring a capable man to work exclusively in Smith County, arranged to provide $750 toward salary and expenses of a qualified man. The club recommended and secured the appointment of Stallings, recognized in Smith County as an educated and successful farmer.

During his tenure, Stallings enlisted 500 farmers into the demonstration work. At least 350 of these continued using modern farming methods as a direct result of the efforts and teachings of the first county agent. During this time, corn yields increased from 30 to 60 bushels per acre under methods taught by Stallings. Cotton yields increased over 50 percent.

In 1911, the first law was passed by the Texas Legislature authorizing county commissioner's courts to appropriate money for agents' salaries. Eight years after the first county agricultural agents were appointed, the first county home demonstration agent in Texas, Mrs. Edna W. Trigg, was appointed for Milam County.

The federal Smith-Lever Act of 1914 was accepted by a joint resolution of the Texas Legislature in 1915. Thus, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service was established and Texas A&M College--now Texas A&M University--became a partner in the program with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Now the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System, employs a professional staff of about 950 persons, most of whom are county personnel. The Extension Service is supported by a partnership of county, state and federal governments.

Demonstrations, such as those first developed on the Porter farm and spread across the state and the world by agents such as Stallings, continue to be a major method in developing the economic and human resources on the farm and in the home and community.
