Slow rain drenches much of county

While parts of West Texas received flooding rains last weekend, Crockett County's residents sat back and watched a slow, steady rain fall on parched ground.

The J. B. Parker Ranch north of Ozona got 4.5" overall with 5.5" at the house.

"In all the time we've been living here, this is the first time we ever got water in the living room," said Parker. "But that's okay, I wouldn't care if it did it again tomorrow." Rangeland had been so dry the ground was cracked, he said.

The Parker place to the west received one-half inch as did the B. B. Ingham Ranch.

"We never saw a more perfect rain," said Mrs. Alvin Harrell. "Every inch soaked in." The Harrells recorded 3.5 at their place south of Ozona.

Jane Black's ranch northwest of Ozona got a welcome 1.20" Johnny Jones reported 4.5". Sam Vandiver recorded 2.8". The Jack Williams ranch received 1.5".

Frank White got 1.80 at his Pandale ranch, and it was still raining when he left there Sunday.

Maggie and Buddy Moore had 2.70 at their place on Taylor Box. Nearer to town, the Wilkins Ranch had a reported 3.5".

Cheryl Clayton received 5.6". A 5" rain fell at the John Childress Ranch.

Buckhorn Draw was running full Sunday. Reports on Saturday afternoon indicated water two feet over the road south of Baker's Crossing in Val Verde County.

The water district office in Ozona recorded 2.70". Rainfall records at the official weather bureau station located at Ozona Gas Processing Plant showed a trace on Saturday and 1.76 for Sunday's total.

Diane Hays enjoyed the cool breeze and the slow drizzle after Sunday's 2.7" welcome rain.

Sharp given indefinite stay of execution

Michael Eugene Sharp, convicted in Ozona in May of 1983 for the death of a Kermit woman, was given his third stay of execution last week.

Senior U. S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock granted the stay July 11. Sharp had been scheduled to die July 18 by lethal injection.

In applying for the stay, Sharp's lawyer Steven James of El Paso filed 20 issues. Sharp has been on death row since 1983.

Sharp's first execution date was March 24, 1988. The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals granted a 60-day stay seven days prior to the date he was scheduled to die. An indefinite stay was granted two days before his May 10, 1989, execution date.

The U. S. Supreme Court rejected a direct appeal in Sharp's case in October of 1988, ruling that he received a fair trial.

Sharp was convicted of the murder of Brenda Kay Broadway of Kermit. He abducted Broadway and her daughters, Selena Kay and Christie Elms, from a Kermit carwash June 11, 1982.

He is serving a life sentence after being convicted by a Lubbock jury for the murder of 8-year-old Christie Elms. The older daughter, Selena, escaped after witnessing the murders. She testified against him in both trials.

Deadline July 20 for Queen's contestants and Court

The deadline for entries for either the Rodeo Queen's contest or to participate in the Queen's Court is fast approaching, and all teen girls in Crockett County are invited to take part.

Young women from the eighth grade through high school are being sought to participate in the Rodeo Week festivities, including a gala on Thursday evening with a western fashion style show, and the annual rodeo parade and events on Friday and Saturday night.

The event is sponsored by the Ozona Lions' Club. To participate, anyone interested must contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721, or go by the office, located on the second floor of the courthouse annex. The deadline to sign up is Friday, July 20.

Court members may either wear their own outfit or borrow one from a local store. The Circle Bar Truck Stop Store, Davis Boot and Saddlery, The Teacher Store, Martin's and Small Fashions have all agreed to work with the girls to select wardrobe items for the style show.

Queen's contestants are judged on poise, appearance, public speaking and horsemanship, and must model two western outfits of their choice, along with an outfit consisting of long-sleeve shirt, western-style pants or dress jeans, hat and boots for the horsemanship competition.

Court participants need not be able to ride - they will ride on a float in the parade and on a truck in the grand entry each night of the rodeo.

All-Stars win again

Ozona Little League All-Stars won their game in Pecos July 13 and went on to defeat Junction in Junction Monday night.

The team will play against San Angelo this Thursday. No information was available at presstime as to whether the game would be held in San Angelo or Ozona.

Some profits are escaping prison firms

Editor's note: The following article written by Christy Hoppe of the Dallas Morning News and re-printed in the July 16, 1990 edition of The San Antonio Light is being re-printed by The Ozona Stockman as a means of further education of the public in matters of privately owned prison systems of Texas and the problems that some of them encounter.

by Christy Hoppe

Dallas Morning News re-printed in the San Antonio Light

AUSTIN — Before the state threatened to shut the whole thing down, the Ron Carr Detention Center meant jobs, cash and answered prayers for impoverished Zavala County.

In 1988, the South Texas county agreed to help private investors seeking to build a 225-bed county jail, Zavala County then leased the facility to Detention Services Inc. for about $400,000 annually. DSI intended to make its money by renting space to nearby county jails and immigration facilities, which were overflowing with low-security, non-violent inmates.

The plan, which is being followed by almost a dozen other counties, has made Texas a new frontier for an enterprise that places government's responsibilities in the hands of profit-minded companies.

"I think (Texas) is out there where no man has gone before," said Ed Meacham of the Justice Department's National Institute of Corrections.

With 39,000 inmates crammed into over-burdened county jails, prison space is some of the most precious real estate in Texas.

But in the uncharted territory of private prisons, Zavala County has become a prime example of what can go wrong in security, in officer training and in putting profit first.

As the industry of making crime pay grows in Texas, so do concerns about the private operation of jails:

*There are not enough minimum security inmates to go around, even though seven privately run facilities under construction are geared for low-risk prisoners. Companies already managing jails in the state had to turn to out-of-state and federal prisoners to fill their beds.

*Oversight could fall between the cracks, as it did in Zavala County, where significant deficiencies went undiscovered for a year.

*Some criminal justice experts question the merits of using county-issued bonds to build many of the jails - creating long-term debt for what even operators call a "risky" business.

*The state criminal justice board has threatened to cancel the contracts at four privately run state facilities after a state audit cited shortcomings in education, job training and other rehabilitation programs for the inmates.

Operators of the facilities say the problems reflect small stumbling blocks that occur in any new industry.

"When the audit was given, we were C-minus or D, and we're A students," said Pat Cannan, director of corporate relations for Wackenhut Corrections, which operates two state-owned prisons. "Those facilities have been open only a year. We feel our progress has been good and satisfactory."

By the end of the year, at least 14 detention facilities in Texas - owned by federal, state and county governments - will be operated by private, for-stock companies.

The four state-owned jails are believed to be the first privately operated projects in the country. Bexar, Reeves and Zavala counties own three jails run by detention firms. Seven facilities, which will be paid for with bonds issued by the counties, will be opened by fall.

Operators said they hope to learn from Zavala County, where the sweet hope of success has turned sour.

It was three months after the center opened before operators found a sufficient number of inmates.

"We went to people who had overcrowded conditions in Texas, and they were not interested," said DSI Vice President Phil Packer.

Costs were a concern to many counties, and most were not having problems with minimum-security prisoners, he said. Finally, the center contracted with the prison system in Washington, D.C., which sent 224 inmates in February 1989.

In May 1989, a riot erupted involving more than 200 inmates. Four months later, a jailer was arrested by immigration officials on charges of bringing back two inmates from a bordello in Mexico.

By December, an inspection by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards found that more than half the prisoners were "high-risk inmates" - including murderers and rapists with life sentences - who should have been in a more secure prison.

In March, the commission issued a new order: Get rid of those inmates or close the jail.

Packer said the previous definition of low risk was "not dangerous and not likely to escape," and never referred to what the inmate had been convicted for.

But because "the jail commission disagreed with the rendering of how that classification was being carried out," a new system was established that defines more specifically low-risk inmates, he said.

Centennial plans move forward

A centennial planning meeting held July 10 resulted in numerous good ideas being put forth by the 15 persons present.

Several persons took responsibility for portions of the event, said Judge Kathryn Mayfield who conducted the meeting.

A Miss Firecracker beauty pageant kicks off the official celebration next July. This year's pageant sponsored by the Women's League, served as a trial run for the centennial.

Ozona Chamber of Commerce will sponsor Fourth of July events. New additions currently planned for the centennial year are sunbonnet and beard contests.

Sheriff Jim Wilson agreed to head up a July 5 trail ride. Totsy Hagelstein and Lucile Harrell are in charge of organizing a settlers' reunion.

Geniece Childress volunteered the Historical Society to be responsible for a play or pageant.

Music for a Sunday afternoon in the park will be coordinated by Joyce Young. The event will follow a community religious service and picnic lunch.

An all-school reunion is in the works, and chamber of commerce personnel are looking into possibilities for commemorative souvenirs.

T. K. O'Bryant, president of the Crockett County Arts and Crafts Guild, announced that the guild's annual November sale will feature a centennial theme in 1990. Booth operators will be encouraged to participate in a decorating contest.

All local organizations are encouraged to put the centennial theme to work now to generate interest for the 1991 celebration.

Ozona Garden Club plans to use the centennial theme for its April 1991 show.

The chamber of commerce expects to have two murals by Jack Feagan in place on Ozona walls by October, Judge Mayfield said. The murals are being paid for by donations to the chamber.

Response from prospective donors has been good according to Nancy Moore, but more is needed to pay for these two murals.

Another chamber project under consideration for some time is the placement of old fashioned lights around the downtown park. The proposed lighting would be similar to that which once lighted the area.

Twelve large cast iron supports with globes are planned.

Much needed new electrical wiring will have to be installed before the lights can be placed.

A third centennial planning meeting will be held in August.

The First Baptist Church Vacation Bible School participants collected food items to benefit the Helping Hands for the Elderly. Letter to the Editor

Dear Linda and Scotty:
With summertime the traffic has definitely increased on I-10 as well as throughout the whole state. I just wanted to take a minute to thank a really great group of people who make up the Department of Public Safety. They often-times receive a bad "rap" because we are so human that we don't want to admit that we really were speeding, etc. I would appreciate your letting me use your publication as a means to express my appreciation for their diligence EVERY day. It's comforting to know that they are "out-there". Thanks to all of you for making this area a safer one in which to live and travel.

Sincerely,
Sandy Stark

Reflections on the Fourth of July

To me the Ozona Fourth of July celebration was a big success.

Well, of course I ate too much. I wandered all over the park, especially to the eating booths.

First, two barbecue burgers, two big fat fajitas, half a watermelon, plate of curly fries, and a tub of banana nut ice cream.

From a Mikie who wouldn't eat anything up to 12 years old to a Mikie that will eat anything and everything you put in front of him - My, I was sick.

I enjoyed doing my part in the festivities by entering the Miss Firecracker Pageant. It was a lot of fun, but not without the help from experts like Brendy McCollum, Gloria Wilson and Glenda Crowover who put me all together.

A special thanks to Janet Hill who worked day and night to hand-make four costumes.

Thanks, girls, see you next year.
Mike Clayton

Garden wedding June 30 unites Amy Jones, Victor Newton

Amy Lea Jones and Victor Lyle Newton were united in marriage in an early evening garden ceremony at the bride's home east of Ozona on June 30. Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Jones, and parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Newton, hosted family and friends of the couple at a celebration uniting their children.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Dr. Tim Brewer of Ozona United Methodist Church. Brenda Newton, mother of the bridegroom, honored the couple and entertained guests with vocal and musical selections chosen as favorites by the couple.

The vows were exchanged in front of a white trellis archway covered with white tulle and English ivy intertwined with pale pink gossamer ribbon. The archway stood under a large oak, and was encircled with a white picket fence and decorated with baskets of Boston fern, English ivy, white begonias and white daisies. A large moss basket of white begonias, pink impatiens and trailing English ivy hung beside the archway.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian style gown of white linen with neckline and front insets of Battenberg lace. A slightly puffed sleeve trimmed in the same lace completed the bodice. The teal-length gown, accented at the waist with a double bias yoke, fell in soft pleats to the hem. An upswept hairstyle intertwined with baby's breath completed the Victorian garden style.

The bride wore antique earrings given to her by her late grandmother, a pearl ring from a friend, a gold bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a blue handkerchief belonging to a great-grandmother, which completed the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue. A nosegay of pink and yellow roses, white stephanotis and baby's breath trimmed with pearls, Battenberg lace, and pink gossamer ribbon was carried by the bride.

The bride was attended by Melody Stark of Temple as maid of honor. Melody carried a nosegay of pink roses, white daisies and baby's breath accented with matching lace and ribbon. Her dress of light blue and rose print with a Battenberg lace collar carried out the atmosphere of days gone by.

Andy Dews of San Angelo served as best man to the bridegroom. Honor attendants assisting during the reception included Todd Jones of San Angelo, brother of the bride, and Shawna Newton of San Angelo, sister of the bridegroom.

Suzy King of San Angelo greeted guests at the gate at the wedding book table. The table was covered with a white antique cloth and was accented with two needlework wedding swans made by the bride's grandmother. A silver water pitcher filled with yellow and pink roses completed the table.

After congratulations and best wishes to the couple, guests were treated to a buffet dinner in the garden. The buffet table was covered with white and pink damask cloths and decorated with white handcarved swans and crystal candleholders with pink tapers.

The head table was laid with an Individual tables for guests carried out the theme of antique quilts and embroidered linens. White wicker baskets of roses and daisies centered the tables.

Following the buffet, the couple carried out the traditional cake cutting ceremony. The white three-tiered wedding cake was trimmed with fresh roses, baby's breath and accented with trailing English ivy. Champagne toasts to the couple were offered by Andy Dews, the best man, and Johnny Jones, father of the bride.

The couple departed later in a flurry of well-wishes and birdseed to their new home in Burleson where the bridegroom is employed by the Mountain Valley Country Club.

Family members and friends were entertained on Friday night, June 29, at a Texas style barbecue at the bridegroom's family home hosted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Newton of Ozona.

A banker went on a diet because he had too much "collateral" in his blood.

Trouble defies the law of gravity. It's easier to pick up than drop.

A father's biggest difficulty at Christmas is convincing the children that he is Santa Claus and his wife that he isn't.

There is a lot of trouble in this country nowadays, and it seems everybody is trying to fix the blame instead of the trouble.

"The Ozona Knights of Columbus Council is one of the largest non-profit organizations in Ozona, and as the new officers of our order, we are going to do our best to get more involved in helping our local community," said Frank Tambunga, grand knight. "We would also like to thank everybody in Ozona for all the support we have gotten when we have our functions."

If you are an artist and would like to exhibit your work, or if you know someone who has artistic talent you think should be exhibited, please call the library and let us know. We have so many talented local people and the monthly art exhibits have been so very popular in the past. We want to make this centennial celebration an exciting time for everyone. Let's celebrate 100 years of art in Crockett County at the library!

GARDEN CLUB EXHIBITS

The Ozona Garden Club is continuing its monthly flower arrangement exhibits at the library this fall, and we're so excited! The arrangements add so much to the beauty of the seasons at the library and are enjoyed by everyone who comes in for a book. We want to thank the members of Ozona Garden Club for their interest in the library and for sharing their beautiful flowers with us.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER PROGRAMS

Monday, July 23, will be the last story hour for the children this summer. We have enjoyed an exciting summer of programs about secret codes and messages, mysteries and adventure, pirates and hidden treasure and fingerprinting and crimetoppers. Children's chairman Jeannine Henderson and her volunteers have kept the kids busy at the library this summer reading lots of great books. A great big thank you goes out to all of the summer volunteers for a job well done.

In The Line Of Duty

(A Public "Thank You" to the D.P.S.)

We hurry about throughout each day
Driving near and driving far,
And mutter underneath our breath
When we see a certain black and white car.

But just let your engine spit and sputter;
Let steam pour from beneath the hood.
When stranded between NOTHING and NOWHERE
Those cars look awfully good.

We flash our lights to signal others
That they must surely slow down.
We hold up two-antennae fingers
When a patrolman is close around.

We think they are trying to "catch" us.
(Like kids we play such silly games!)
But, friend, without them out there
Those highways would not be the same.

And I've had my share of tickets...
Like most folk who live in a flurry...
As I drive to and from my workplace.
On I-10 I find I sometimes hurry.

But when I see some of the folks
Who pass me along the way,
I thank the Big-Man Upstairs the troopers
Are out there EVERY day.

We can pick up any newspaper
And check out who ELSE they stop
While risking both life and limb.
I value those persons we label "cop".

Contrary to the thoughts of a few,
Those D.P.S. cars are a thing of beauty,
Along with that special person inside
Who is out there just—

DOING HIS DUTY.

Carson earns best player recognition

Haley Carson, 16-year-old Ozona High School junior, was named Best Offensive Player last week at the University of Texas Lady Longhorn basketball camp.

"I gained a lot of experience and learned a lot," said Haley of the July 7-12 camp.

More than 300 girls from across the state were placed in groups of three for the camp. Haley, who was in the highest group, was selected for the award by a large number of coaches.

Queen photos on exhibit

A collection of photographs of former Ozona Youth Rodeo Queens will be on exhibit beginning at mid-week at Crockett County National Bank.

The photos are exhibited at different locations each year at this time by Crockett County Museum.

Almost 100 inmates were returned to Washington. Among them were inmates whose records from Washington indicate they had been convicted of violent crimes.

These problems, coupled with big contract disputes that led to a lawsuit, have DSI and Zavala County officials saying their agreement will end in September and that the facility's future is in question.

Oversight for most of the state's jails is the job of the jail standards commission.

The commission annually inspects more than 250 county jails and is responsible for the private facilities being built in cooperation with counties.

Some counties are expanding their jails beyond their needs, hoping to lease some of the space for profit. Other counties are issuing tax-free bonds to build jails that are being turned over to private companies to operate.

But as the market becomes more competitive, some people fear these jails will not find enough prisoners to fill them, and the bonds will not be paid.

Income Tax Anniversary

August 5 marks the anniversary of the federal income tax. Signed into law by Abraham Lincoln in 1862, the tax was levied as an emergency war-time measure only. Persons with yearly incomes over $600 paid a 3 percent income tax, and those with yearly incomes over $5,000 paid 5 percent. The first tax went into effect Jan. 1, 1862, and was repealed in 1872.

An income tax again was enacted in 1894 by President Grover Cleveland. However, the Supreme Court declared it unconstitutional because it was a direct tax, levying a 2 percent income tax on all persons with yearly incomes over $4,000. This forced income tax supporters to seek a constitutional amendment that would give Congress the right to impose income taxes without apportionment among the states. In 1913, the Sixteenth Amendment was ratified by the states, and a new personal income tax was approved by Congress.

Today, federal income taxes consist of individual income taxes, taxes on corporations, social insurance or payroll taxes, excise taxes and customs duties.

Your tax dollars at work

We often hear about "federal government dollars," but where do they come from and where do they go?

According to the budget prepared by the Office of Management and Budget for the current 1990 fiscal year, each dollar is comprised of individual income taxes (41 cents), social insurance receipts (34 cents), corporation income taxes (10 cents), borrowing (8 cents), other sources (4 cents) and excise taxes (3 cents).

As to how it is spent, 43 cents of every dollar goes to direct benefit payments for individuals, 26 cents goes to national defense, 15 cents pays net interest on the deficit, 11 cents funds grants to states and localities, and 5 cents is spent on other federal operations.

Turland races to state track meet Aug. 3-4

Kayla Turland, 8-year-old daughter of Carla and B. T. Turland, finished in the gold at the summer track program July 7 in Odessa. A first place in the 400m relay qualified the young runner for the state meet Aug. 3-4 in Carrollton.

Third in the 50m dash earned Kayla a bronze medal. She received a ribbon for placing fourth in the 100m dash.

The 1990 summer program began with a June 8 competition in Iraan. Kayla garnered first places in the 50m and 100m dashes and the 400m relay, then took second place in long jump with a leap of 8'9".

Competition leading to the regional meet continued in Monahans June 16 with more than 500 athletes participating. Kayla again earned first places in the 500m and 100m dashes. She placed fifth in the high jump and seventh in the 400m relay.

Children from Pecos, Odessa, Iraan, Ozona, Monahans and Big Lake entered the program. Kayla is in her second year of competition.

Celebrating in Odessa with Sara R. Rios for her 89th birthday were her children: Elvira Higginbottom, Armenta Sanchez and husband of Ozona, S. R. Garcia and wife of Lubbock; eight of her 14 grandchildren, 19 of her 41 great-grandchildren, nine of her 32 great-great-grandchildren and other relatives and friends from Ozona, Odessa, Alpine, Lubbock and San Angelo. Although Mrs. Rios' birthday is June 21, the celebration was held on the 30th at the home of Elva and Jim Navarro.

European jaunt memorable for Ozonans

A two-week trip to Europe last month is like a dream to Catherine Russell and Lu Ingram. "It seems like it didn't really happen," said Catherine when describing the adventure.

An itinerary that took the 43-person tour group through parts of Germany, Austria, Italy and Switzerland provided breath-taking scenery and tours of magnificent cathedrals and museums.

Highlight of the trip for both women was the passion play at Obramergau. Performed only every 10 years, the 300th anniversary of the play was observed with an extra performance in 1984. The production originated as an expression of thanksgiving by those who had escaped the plague.

Lu had longed to see the play since first hearing about it from Wilma Carson many years ago. "I never thought I'd get to see it," she said.

While in Obramergau, tour participants stayed in private homes. The wife of the household where Catherine and Lu stayed was a member of the play cast. Her husband and daughter were members of the orchestra.

The entire community participates in some way in the production which plays to an audience of 4,000 four days a week from May through September.

The group of West Texans flew from Chicago to Munich, Germany, where they traveled by Mercedes taxis and buses. They spent no time in Germany, but traveled on with stops in Austria, Italy and Switzerland.

After three days and nights in Salzburg, Austria, the group traveled seven hours to Montecatini-Terme, Italy. From there they took excursions in every direction. Pisa, where they viewed the leaning Tower, San Gimignano and the walled city of Siena were some of the stops. Many famous painters went to Siena for instruction, Lu informed.

In Siena, Catherine was photographed in front of the Church of St. Katherine.

Included in a tour of Florence was a stop to see Michelangelo's David and the Pieta.

Como and its lakes, villas and gardens made for other beautiful stops.

Italy's ice cream is supposed to be the best in the world, Ozona's travelers aren't ready to dispute that claim. The cookies there aren't bad there, either.

Lu's attempt to purchase two each of four kinds of cookies using the Spanish word dos resulted in a bag of about 20 cookies, she said.

English was spoken in all the banks where the visitors stopped.

"We ate the cuisine of the country," Catherine said of the trip. "We had lots of pork, but never saw any pigs. Sheep and cows were in evidence throughout the trip, but no pigs.

At one stop in Switzerland, the sound of cowbells was heard early in the mornings. Herdsmen move the cattle to the higher regions during the summer, bringing them back to the lowlands in the fall.

Luzern, Interlaken and Bern attractions filled the days in Switzerland. A ride on the steepest cog-wheel railway in the world took tourists up Mt. Pilatus, Landmark of Luzern.

Lu and Catherine stand before a memorial to a war hero carved into a rock in Luzern.

Innsbruck, Austria, home of the 1964 and 1976 Olympic Winter Games, is also the location of the tomb of Emperor Maximilian. There in the Great Hall of the Imperial Palace, over-life-size bronze statues surround the tomb where he lies.

Innsbruck is also famed as having the prettiest street in the world.

A trip along the Brenner Autobahn impressed the travelers. A portion of the road includes the Europa Bridge which spans a valley at a height of 624 feet. This highest bridge of Europe is built on concrete pillars. The greatest span is 650 feet and the roadway is 72 feet wide. Construction took from April of 1959 until November of 1963.

The cleanliness of Europe was in marked contrast to litter visible once back on the ground in Chicago said the two. Austria was the cleanest country, although all were clean, on their trip. Beautiful flowers, lakes and rivers everywhere were a delight to the eye.

The travelers were amazed that so many historic structures, some from the 12th and 13th centuries, survived the war in Europe. Although the Allies were instructed to try to avoid bombing the cathedrals, it is amazing that more were not damaged, the ladies said.

A poem written by Lu to commemorate the journey and its participants serves as a souvenir for all to tuck away with photos and memories of an inspiring two weeks.

Ozona Girl Scouts have active spring, summer

Mothers of Girl Scout Troop #95 were honored with a mystery dinner at the Scout Hut in late May. The girls decorated the party room with festive posters and balloons.

Menus with all food and utensils coded as nature items were given to the mothers. They were surprised and resourceful as they chose such items as boulders, grass and tree sap only to discover they had ordered a salad without silverware. The fun ended with Mother-Daughter balloon races.

Mothers and daughters present were: Cherrie Fielder and Connie, Della Moore and Kelli, Phyllis Tucker and J.L., Jackie Weddle and Jarrett, Peggy Phillips and Debbi Bachman.

Troop members honored their fathers at the Scout Hut in early June. Special Father's Day posters were made. A wrap your father contest was held. The fathers resembled from modern day mummies to something from the walking wounded. A variety of home-made ice cream was served.

A swim party, hosted by Troop #24, helped kick-off summer activities. The water offered relief from the heat and an enjoyable time for all.

Work was the order of the day June 28. Troop members went to the Girl Scout Council Office in San Angelo. There the girls addressed SCAT information fliers for all council cadette and senior scouts. Ozona Troop #95 will host the first El Camino Council Senior-Cadette Action Team Meeting July 28.

This will be the first time local Scouts have hosted a council event. Activity plans include shopping, putt-putt golf and swimming.

The girls ended their San Angelo trip with a stop at Pinocchio's Pizza.

Members of Troops #95 and #24 spent July 3 making posters and decorating a truck for the Fourth of July parade. Both troops enjoyed the parade and are looking forward to next year. Special thanks go to Mike Miller for the use of his pickup truck.

Water can be conserved even with proper lawn care

Lawn care and water conservation do not have to be at odds with each other. Nice, healthy lawns can be maintained even with water conservation and without depleting the Edwards aquifer, says Dr. Noble Kearney, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"We are well into the summer, our hottest months, and as homeowners and lawn managers, we should take steps to get the most out of our watering and mowing," Kearney says.

Extremely hot, dry days and very warm nights combined with low humidity and a persistent wind, creates a lot of stress on lawns and ornamentals. This calls for a change of strategy in maintaining healthy yards, he says.

Proper watering and mowing are the keys to managing drought stress, and conserving water, Kearney says.

Correct watering is critical in July, August and September, he says.

"Many people water their yards every three or four days, but only put on 1/4 to 1/2 inch of water at a time. This shallow watering promotes shallow roots, a condition that leads to drought stress," Kearney says. He suggests using at least 1 1/2 (1.5") inches of water at a time and to re-water when the grass begins to wilt at noon (usually in about 10 days) again with 1.5 inches of water.

"Check your progress by placing several pans under the sprinkler, and see how long it takes to catch 1.5 inches of water," he says.

Sprinklers that put out a good volume of water in a short period of time, with a large droplet size, and are low to the ground should be used, he says.

This deep watering will wet most soils to a depth of 12 inches, and will drive the roots deeper into the soil as they reach for moisture.

Homeowners should water at night or between the suggested 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. time frame. The result will be a healthy lawn that is more drought tolerant.

"Trees and ornamentals also will benefit from this program," he says.

Helping your child with better language skills

It's hard to believe that our summer is half over, and that school bells will be ringing again before long. But no matter how far away school may seem right now, parents can be helping their children develop and improve oral language skills - important "predecessors" to reading and writing.

Did you know the way you talk to your child about everyday experiences can influence the amount and kind of knowledge they gain from that experience? When children begin to read, they draw upon the experiences they've had and the knowledge they've gained from those experiences to help them understand what they're seeing on the page.

There are a number of ways you can help your children with literacy skills:

- Talk about the things that interest them.
- Patiently answer their questions in ways they can understand.
- Encourage your children to develop their own interests - then talk about them.
- Do things together and then talk about them - like going to the store, museum or a movie; watching television and then discussing the show you've just seen; checking out books at the library and discussing how many different kinds of books there are; participating in sporting events or watching them together; and engaging in hobbies together.

-Allow the child to direct the conversation; don't tell them they're stupid or what they're saying is wrong.

-Listen to children so you can learn about them, show you care, and are interested in what they have to say.

-Provide them with a play telephone; let them talk to friends and relatives on the phone.

-Encourage children to describe the objects or things they see.

-Look at a picture together and talk about the objects in it. Then hide the picture and see how many objects the child can recall.

-Sing to and with children.

-Make up games using language such as rhyming or silly words or phrases. Take advantage of the current fad - "Rapping" - and use rhythm to play your word games.

Talking with children and having fun with language will help them develop language skills and an understanding of words to help them read, write and talk more effectively - and help them when school bells ring in the fall.

For more information about children and their development, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Rabbit club has monthly meeting

Members of the Crockett County Rabbit Club held their July meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Don Myers.

President John Hignight called the meeting to order. Everyone was pleased with the results of the booth on the city park July 4 and the second place ribbon for the float.

Members were advised by the secretary, Mrs. Myers, about the charter and affiliation with the National Rabbit Association.

Plans and details were again worked on for the West Texas Blowout Triple Rabbit Show.

Mrs. Charles Beasley, Bryon and Midnight were welcomed as new members.

Miss Ashley Farris was the honoree judge in the Monthly Show for Best Rabbit. Miss Amanda Hignight won with a white, ruby-eyed senior doe Mini Lop.

Others attending were: Susan and Shane Hester, Jadie, Tiffini and Brent Morris, Weldon, Cindy, Michael and Casey Nicks, Ray Don, Bayler and Chad Myers, Buddy and Tripp Farris, Matthew Marshall, John, Sara and Jason Hignight.

The Crockett County Rabbit Club meets on the second Sunday of each month.

All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Performance test sale set

About 75 bucks will sell in the annual Angora goat performance test field day and sale July 26 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station near here.

Almost 300 goats were on the 112-day test at the station, located on Hwy. 55, about five miles east of Hwy. 277.

Lunch will be held at noon. A program explaining the results of the test begins at 1 p.m. The British Mohair Spinners award will be given during the program.

For the first time, awards for certified bucks will be presented. The top 30 percent of the bucks are eligible for certification, providing they have passed minimum indexing requirements and are approved by a shifting committee.

Indexing requirements measure weight gain, hair yield, staple length and fineness. The sifting committee judges the animals on structural qualities.

The test is sponsored by the producers who place goats on the test.

Collection days set for chlordimeform, refunds to be paid

The Texas Department of Agriculture and two chemical manufacturers will collect leftover supplies of the banned pesticide chlordimeform at eight sites in late July, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower announced recently.

"This is a free, no-strings-attached collection program to get rid of a banned chemical," Hightower said. "We won't even ask for names and addresses. And if farmers have unopened containers of the pesticide, the manufacturers will pay for them."

Chlordimeform, known by the trade names Galecron and Fundal, was banned by the Environmental Protection Agency in 1989 at the request of its manufacturers. EPA considers it a probable carcinogen. Its use, which was for control of budworms and bollworms in cotton, is no longer legal.

TDA, in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has picked collection sites in Pecos, Lamesa, Veribest, Taylor, Burleson County, El Campo, Robstown and Weslaco.

Hightower said that all chlordimeform should be kept in its original container. If the original container has deteriorated, producers should call John Stone of Ciba-Geigy at 800-334-9481 at least two weeks prior to the collection date. Producers who bring chlordimeform in unopened containers will be immediately reimbursed by the manufacturers.

Addresses and operating hours of the collection sites near our area are:

July 18 - 8 a.m. - 1 p.m. in Lamesa at Hughes Fertilizer Inc. on North 22nd, 1/8 mile west of intersection off U.S. Hwy. 87 and 22nd Street

July 20 - 8 a.m. - 1 p.m. - Veribest at Veribest Ag Supply located 8 miles east of San Angelo on FM 380.

Persons who deliver unopened containers of Galecron or Fundal to an authorized collection site on the designated day for that site will be reimbursed for the product by Ciba-Geigy or Nor-am. Reimbursement rates are: $75.00 per gal. for Galecron 4E or Fundal 4E, and $18.75 per lb. for Galecron SP or Fundal SP.

No reimbursement will be made for partially full or opened chlordimeform containers. However, Ciba-Geigy and Nor-am will bear all responsibility and expense associated with disposal of such product.

If additional information is needed concerning the matter, call the Extension Service at 915-392-2721.

Beef producers checkoff compliance explained in new free brochure

Questions on how the beef checkoff program operates are answered in a newly released brochure available from the Texas Beef Industry Council.

The easy-to-read brochure entitled "Understanding the Beef Checkoff" helps beef producers meet their legal responsibilities under the Beef Promotion and Research act of 1985. This act authorizes TBIC to collect $1 per head every time bovines are sold.

The pocket-sized, eight-page brochure explains the buyer's and the seller's responsibilities whenever any bovine animal is sold. It provides step-by-step information on how checkoff dollar collectors can complete the monthly report and remittance form for TBIC.

The brochure discusses who qualifies for non-producer status and many other important details that may confuse veal, dairy and beef cattle producers.

For your free copy of "Understanding the Beef Checkoff," write TBIC at 8310 Capital of Texas Hwy. N., Ste. 440, Austin, Texas 78731. Or call Greg Perrin, TBIC director of collections, at 512/345-3531.

TBIC will also provide bulk copies for field days, purebred or club calf sales or other group events.

Crockett 4-H record books take blue ribbons

All five 4-H recordbooks entered by Crockett County contestants in last week's district judging received blue ribbons, says County 4-H coordinator Tedra Ulmer.

Even more exciting, according to Ulmer, is the fact that three of those books will advance to state competition in August, giving their owners a chance to win scholarships and a trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago in November.

The three seniors advancing to state are Tamie Reagor in the sheep and goat division, Katharine Durham in home economics achievement and Martha Mayfield in range management.

Terry House received a blue ribbon for his agriculture record book. "This is exciting, because it's the first time his book has been entered in competition, and we know he faced some tough people in district judging," said Ulmer. House placed second in competition.

Senior 4-H'ers were not the only winners, as Sara Mayfield won first place with her home economics achievement record. This is also her first time to enter a book, as she competed in the junior division.

Ulmer urged more Crockett County 4-H members to consider beginning a record book. "This is not a program for everyone, but if you're a highly involved 4-H'er it could pay off well in trips and scholarships," she noted.

For more information about record books or any other aspect of the 4-H program, contact the Crockett County Extension Office at 392-2721. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Controlling breeding season key beef cattle management decision

The only way to prevent late calves is to take the bulls out of the pasture and gain control of the breeding and calving seasons, says a livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Calves born late in the season weigh less at weaning and reduce profits dramatically," said Dr. Randall Grooms, livestock specialist at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Service at Overton. "Well managed, profitable herds get calves on the ground early in the season and control the breeding program to increase profits."

"By limiting the breeding season, the calves are born in a shorter period of time, are more uniform in age and size, and can be marketed for more dollars," Grooms said. "The efficiency of labor and managerial time is also improved."

For those producers who do not have a controlled breeding program,

Grooms suggests that now is the best time to start.

"Shortening the calving season is a relatively simple process," Grooms said. "The ideal calving season is 60 to 90 days ahead of a lush forage season in either the fall, winter or early spring. This gives cows maximum nutrition for milk production and rebreeding, and the calves will be old enough to handle the mother's milk when the lush forage season begins."

"By separating the bulls from the cows an additional month each year, the producer can gradually reduce the breeding season to the desired 60- to 90-day period," Grooms said.
