Leads pursued in Christmas murder

Officers of Crockett County Sheriff's Department and state agencies continue to pursue leads in the Christmas night murder of Dean Phillips in Ozona.

Evidence found in Phillips' laundry where he was fatally beaten has yielded one good, legible print Sheriff Jim Wilson said Monday. Items found at the scene were sent to the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Austin for examination. The print is being further examined to isolate it from those of the victim and others frequenting the laundry.

Several local suspects were interviewed in the first few days following the murder, Wilson said.

Two individuals voluntarily will be polygraphed Friday at the Midland DPS office.

The search continues for a man wanted for questioning in the case who was the driver of a faded blue van with California plates seen in Ozona Dec. 25. Sketches are being made in Austin from video pictures taken of the man at Maness Texaco. The sketches will be sent out in bulletins in Texas and California.

License check records of a Border Patrol unit working the area Dec. 25 are also being reviewed for possible leads, Wilson said.

Lambs will be brought into the barn Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 9, with shearing beginning at 8 a.m. Jan. 10. Commercial ewe lambs and Angora goats will move into the barn on Thursday.

The judging begins Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. with the steer show, followed by the commercial ewe lamb show at 3, rabbit show at 4, first year feeder show at 6 p.m. and the Angora goat show at 8 p.m.

Activities on Saturday, Jan. 12, begin at 8 a.m. with the regular market lamb show. A barbecue lunch will be served at noon by the 4-H Parents and Leaders' Association. This group will also have a concession stand on Thursday and Friday afternoons and Saturday. The presentation of awards will be at 1:30 followed by the premium sale at 2 p.m.

At the initial meeting, approximately 25 members of the general public attended and heard discussion concerning the creation of a golf course to be directed by an association or non-profit organization. It was determined that the name of the non-profit organization will be "Ozona Golf Association" and that it will be open to the general public. Other items discussed included the financing of the operation and the location of the course.

Ladies conquer No. 5 Hawks 39-33

By Ann Trull
The mighty Ozona Lady Lions downed the No. 5 state ranked Wall Hawks Dec. 18 39-33. The Ladies went into the game 0-2 in district and emerged victorious for their first district win.

The first quarter ended 8-10 in favor of the Hawks, and would remain in their favor through the rest of the first half as it ended 15-19. Leading the Ladies this half were Haley Carson 4, Ofi Rios 3.

The Lady Lions dominated the defensive rebounds with 20, but lacked a few as they only captured 9 offensive rebounds. Rebounders were: Carson, Kim Coy 7, Myra Sanchez, Teena Tambunga 5, Sandra Fuentes 3, Leticia Dominguez, Veronica Mendoza 1.

As the second half began, the Hawks found themselves outscored by the Lions 12-9 to tie the score at 27-27 in the third quarter.

Junior post Carson stole the ball 4 times as did senior Dominguez. Teena Tambunga followed with 2 and Sanchez and Mendoza 1 each.

The fourth quarter heated up as the mighty Ladies outscored the 1990 state semi-finalist Hawks 12-6 for a result of 39-33.

Ozona players were 5 of 8 from the charity stripe for 63 percent as they held Wall to 2 of 8 for 25 percent. The Ladies launched 40 2-point field goals and landed 17 for 43 percent.

The Ladies' total shot percentage for the game was a combined 40 percent as the high was 54 percent and low 33 percent.

Scorers for the game were: Carson 12, Coy 11, Sanchez 6, Dominguez 4, Rios and Tambunga 3.

Haley Carson goes for two of her fifteen points scored in the Lady Lions heartbreaking overtime loss to Eldorado here in Ozona last Friday.

School performance report released

The annual performance report for the 1989-90 school year was approved by the Crockett County Consolidated Common School District Dec. 13. The report, which is required by state law, is divided into three parts.

The district overview section provides information on: trends in student performance, curriculum (impact of curriculum requirements and academic course offerings), special programs, staff quality, facility adequacy, financial condition of the district, impact of 1984 legislation, and paper work reduction efforts by the district.

District and campus-level information is contained in part two. This section consists of information which has been compiled by the Texas Education Agency, the state agency responsible for administering public elementary and secondary education programs in the state. Part II is an agency-developed statistical performance summary of district and campus-level information previously sent to T.E.A. by the school district.

Part III contains locally developed statistical information. Topics included are achievement test results, school dropout rates and school disciplinary activities.

The report is available for staff and public inspection on each campus in the district and at the school administration building.

TEAMS TEST

The Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) program measures minimum basic skills in the subject areas of mathematics, reading and writing in grades one, three, five, seven and nine and in mathematics and English language arts in grades 11/12. The 1985-86 school year marked the beginning of the TEAMS program, which was mandated by House Bill 72 and passed during the second called session of the 68th Texas Legislature in July of 1984.

TEAMS tests are administered each February to students in grades three, five, seven and nine and have been given in April to students in grade one; however, prior to the 1989-90 school year, grade one TEAMS testing was eliminated by legislative action.

The exit level test is administered in October and May each year to all grade 11 students and those grade 11 and 12 students who have not previously mastered the TEAMS test. Eleventh and twelfth graders are required to pass both the mathematics and English language arts sections of the exit level test in order to be eligible to receive a Texas high school diploma. Students have as many as four opportunities to master the exit level TEAMS test during their junior and senior years.

Overall local student mastery performance on TEAMS during 1989-90 was higher than student mastery performance in 1988-89. At the elementary level (grades three and five), there were four increases in math, reading and writing (third grade math, third grade reading, third grade writing, and fifth grade math) and two decreases (fifth grade reading and fifth grade writing). Outstanding student mastery gains were recorded at the third grade level, as students in this grade improved over 1988-89 scores in all subject areas tested.

At the secondary level (grades seven, nine and eleven), there were five increases in student mastery levels (seventh grade math, seventh grade reading, seventh grade writing, eleventh grade math, and eleventh grade English language arts) and three decreases (ninth grade math, ninth grade reading and ninth grade writing) when a comparison was made between 1990 and 1989 test results.

A four-year comparison study of Ozona's TEAMS test results was made in August of 1990 to determine how well Ozona students were mastering the TEAMS test when compared to other students across the state.

The TEAMS scaled score shown on performance charts is a statistical conversion of the number of items correct (the raw score). The percent of students demonstrating mastery discloses how many students attain the minimum passing standard, while the scaled score reveals the entire range of student performance above and below the mastery rate.

The scaled score adjusts for slight variations in test difficulty from one administration to the other. For example, a scaled score of 660 may represent a raw score of 22 test items correct one year but a raw score of 23 items correct the next year. In this example, the second raw score indicates a slightly easier test, for which the scaled score adjusts.

Scaled scores are comparable across years but not across subject area tests or across grade levels.

Hi Scotty:

I do hope this will find you and yours doing fine and ready to usher in a new year which I hope will be a good year, and that we all will be wiser and healthy. I want to wish everyone a Happy New Year. May Peace and good will prevail. I always did and always will have a love for Ozona. The reason I left Ozona was to help our country when it was in trouble. I did what I could to make it a better place to live and to raise a family. I just hope and pray God will bless Ozona. That the leaders will look to God for directions and leadership.

I will try to name some of these friends who appear in the picture published in the Dec. 26 issue of the Stockman. Front row (l-r): Vic Montgomery, Bernice Bailey, J. B. Miller, Hop Hoover, Conley Cox, Schwalbee. Second row (l-r) _____ Williams, Powell Vaughn, _____, Marvin Rape, _____ Everett. Third row (l-r): Chester Wilson, Miss Ada Moss (Rex Russell's wife) Robinson, _____ Fussell, Pie Pierce, _____ Childress.

Scotty, I always enjoy this paper and am sending you a check so that when it runs out you will renew it. God has blessed us although we have had a lot of sickness we both are in our 76th year and God continues to bless us. My service to my country took me to a lot of places in the U.S.A. and all over Europe. Guess I have said enough. So I will close, wishing the best for Ozona.

A LIFT FOR THE WEEK

It is what we value, not what we have that makes us rich.

Bill Dudley displays work at library

Bill Dudley, born and raised in Ozona, graduated from high school here in 1978, and later graduated with a degree in computer science and mathematics from Southern Methodist University.

As a child, Bill was always drawing and sketching. His formal art training began in late elementary school and continued through his high school years. He also took several fine art classes during his years at SMU.

Growing up in West Texas, he liked to believe that he learned its many nuances and flavors. Bills paintings reflect both the bleakness and the beauty of the arid regions of Texas, and he has been called a "Southwestern artist" by many. Bill feels that his paintings reflect a more "Western" image, with many of his paintings of real places in West Texas. "This is the country I know and feel the best about capturing on canvas. Wildlife, people, horses, and livestock are all part of the environment, and I try to fit them in to a scene rather than make them the central subject," Bill said.

Bill's most difficult challenge creating a new work was the planning and decisions for subject matter and not the painting. He tries to incorporate what he calls "artistic realism" into his paintings so that when viewing a work, one can see the detailed subjects up close, yet experience the vastness of the landscape from afar.

Skulls are one of Bill's most recent endeavors. Contrary to popular belief, Native Americans did not use brightly painted skulls in religious rituals. This type of "bone art" became popular over the last few years as a result of the boom in Southwestern decor and art. Bill uses skulls as an art medium to imply images of "the West," while combining aspects of Native American arts and traditional western art.

Bill was inspired by other artists' works with a variety of styles such as Bev Doolittle, G. Harvey, Bonny, Dalhart Windbert, W. A. Slaughter

Bill currently resides in Addison and works as a computer software consultant.

Card of Thanks

This has been quite an experience

And I know there is more to come.

But I just want to say a special "thank you"

To each and to everyone

Who has shown an interest in my "crazy" state of health

And made me realize it is not money that constitutes one's wealth.

I've been given so many pamphlets that I know I will never read.

And having admitted that I have cancer there is only one to help me succeed.

So I am placing my hand in His in the hope that He will see me through.

(Why do we wait until we can't stand alone before asking Him what to do?)

So thank you so very much for each card, call, thought and lovely flower.

Just knowing your thoughts are with me will see me through each hour.

With much love—

Sandy Stark

A Preacher's Pondering

Greatness

I don't know anyone who aspires to fail in life. Most of us desire greatness in one degree or another. Everyone wants to achieve a measure of success in some manner; nobody wants to fail.

While there are variations of aspirations, the basic need and drive for recognition resides in all people. In a nut-shell, we all desire greatness.

But, just what is greatness? It finds some identification with dignity, prominence, or nobility. Perhaps fame. But I think that the yearning for success might be the best description of the one seeking greatness. It doesn't matter what field or vocation is pursued, great people are successful people.

What leads one to greatness? F. W. Robertson said, "The greatest men have been those who cut their way to success through difficulties."

The character of greatness is not generally raised in the chamber of ease. Much more likely, greatness is the result of sacrificial service. When one walks upon the treadmill of difficulty and decision, he or she develops traits that bring out recognition and respect.

Greatness, mistakenly I believe, is often associated with wealth or power. There have been many great people who had neither money or domination. There has been a host of people who were poor and oppressed that has been etched in history as great.

It was Emerson who said, "Great men are they who see that the spiritual is stronger than material forces." The reasoning behind that statement surely comes from the belief that spiritual traits endure forever while material things perish.

The biblical paradox concerning greatness is that it is obtained through downward service rather than upward mobility. Jesus said, "Whoever wants to become great among you must be your servant" (Mt. 20:26). Service and humility lead to greatness? So said the Son of God!

The Apostle Paul gave up his accomplishments, which were many, for the sake of obtaining "the surpassing greatness of knowing Christ" (Phil. 3:8). Yes, the way up is down. The greatest thing that any person might do on this earth is to know Christ and serve Him.

Truly great people affirm that they have constant need of Christ. Wealth and power can stand in the way of that affirmation, but humility and service shout it loudly. The strength of true greatness is supplied only through the Lord of All.

If you are searching for greatness, as I believe we all are, the quest will lead you to Christ. He had no material possessions, received few plaudits from men, held no office or military might - but, He, by His life, made it possible for all of us to succeed. In Christ there are no failures. We can never fail if we seek Christ first. Greatness comes to those who walk in His footsteps and claim His blood as shelter. Want greatness? Fall before Him.

Think about it.

Maria and Raul De La Rosa enjoyed a New Year's Day visit in Odessa with their daughter and family, Rita and Patrick Rodriguez and children. Jan. 1 was also Maria's birthday.

Shorty Spurgers and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. (Dub) Reeves of Ozona spent the Christmas holidays visiting with their children Tommy and Diz Reeves and family of Boerne.

Every purpose is established by counsel; and with good advice make war.

Proverbs 20:18

And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars; see that ye be not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

St. Matthew 24:6

He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the Earth; He breaketh the bow and cutteth the spear in sunder; He burneth the chariot in the fire.

Bestill, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the Earth.

The Lord of Hosts is with us; The God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

Psalm 46: 9-11

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made Heaven and Earth.

He will not suffer thy foot to be moved; He that keepeth thee will not slumber.

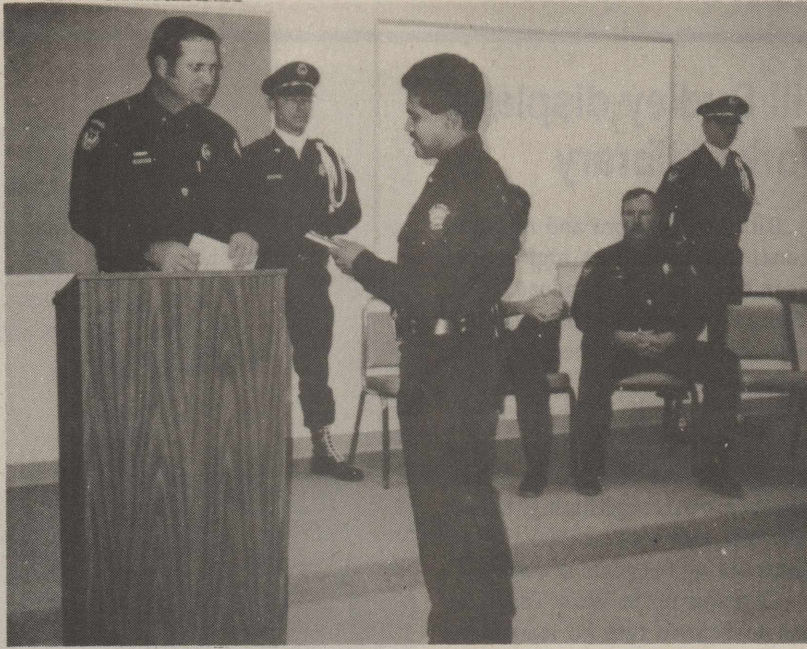

Behold, He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber or sleep.

The Lord is thy keeper; the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night.

The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil; He shall preserve thy soul.

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and for evermore.

Psalm 121

Enduring Light

Charles Huffman, Pastor
Faith Lutheran Church, Ozona
Hope Lutheran Church, Sonora

"Then God said: 'Let there be light', and there was light. God saw that the light was good. And God separated the light from the darkness." Genesis 1:3-4 (AAT)

There was no tangle of wires, no giant circuit boards, and no panels of switches. The Creator simply uttered a Word and the Universe was filled with light! Like a carpenter turns the lights on in his workshop filled with creative tools, God illuminated His workplace with glorious light before fashioning a place for human beings to live. He literally 'turned on the lights', that we might see His power at work for us. And this was truly a glorious light, for it wasn't until three days later that He created the sun, moon and stars.

Through His written Word, we can watch His work appear during the six days of Creation - and marvel at all He prepared for us. Then when Adam sprang to life with God's own breath, the Creator gave it all to His last and best creation. Among our inheritance from Adam and Eve, our first ancestors who brought a new darkness into the world when they disobeyed God, is sin and death. We also live with the knowledge gained when they ate of the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden. We know, and live, in the midst of evil's darkness. It was more than physical darkness that came this Christmas when an 83-year-old man was beaten to death in Ozona for a few dollars worth of quarters! Yet in His infinite grace, God provided enlightenment by promising a Savior (Genesis 3:15). Centuries later, God's Prophet Isaiah points to the coming of the promised One, as he says in chapter 60: "Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the Lord's glory is shining on you. Darkness still covers the earth and thick darkness the people, but the Lord will rise over you, and His glory will appear over you. Gentiles will come to your light, and as you shine, kings will come near."

Seven hundred years later, a special star shone brightly over the tiny village of Bethlehem in Judea, as the shining glory of the Lord encompassed some shepherds in the hills nearby, and an Angel announced the birth of the long-awaited Savior. The Word, which first said "Let there be light", became flesh and was laid in a manger. John says: "In Him was life, and the Life was the Light of men. The Light is shining in the dark, and the darkness has not put it out... We saw His glory, the glory of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth" (John 1:4-5, 14). Thank God that in the midst of a sin-darkened world we can also see the light of Jesus Christ, which overcomes the eclipse of evil. His coming revealed that some loved darkness instead of the Light, because they had been doing wrong. While Wise Men came from the East, led by the light of the Star, to worship this newborn King - King Herod, led by the Prince of darkness, sought to kill Jesus as he had those innocent babes slaughtered in and around Bethlehem (the equivalent of modern-day Abortion!). But the glory of Christ continues to shine and overcomes the darkness, as Jesus escapes Herod's wrath - so He could later suffer God's wrath against our sins. He endured the darkness of the Cross so that we might have light, and He brought that light to the world as He conquered death itself for us in His glorious Resurrection!

The Creator's light and glory find their fulfillment in His Son, and seemingly blinds God to our sins - as for Christ's sake the Father counts us as sinless. The consumption of this light and glory will be in the "new heavens and earth", as John again tells us in Revelation 21, where there will be no sun or moon to give it light - because God's glory is its light, and the Lamb ("of God who takes away the sin of the world" - John 1:29) is its Lamp.

For those who trust Jesus Christ and His work of salvation for them, He's preparing a new place for us (John 14:1-3), where we will see His glory as freshly as it dawned upon God's first creation in that paradise cultivated to give Him glory. May we all, by faith, live in Christ's ENDURING LIGHT during this New Year - and by God's grace, forever!

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

The Crockett County Consolidated Common School District offers a variety of special educational programs which are designed to provide assistance to students who are limited-English proficient, who have identifiable learning disabilities which require special education services, who have been diagnosed as having dyslexia or a related disorder, or who have been identified as gifted and talented in the area of general intellectual abilities.

Ozona Public Schools served 58 limited-English proficient students in a state-approved English-as-a-Second Language program last year. Of these students, 14 were in Ozona Primary School, 21 in Ozona Intermediate School, 21 in Ozona Junior High School, and two in Ozona High School.

The district served 76 students in its special education program during the 1989-90 school year. Of the 76, 28 students were in Ozona Primary School, 25 in Ozona Intermediate School, 12 in Ozona Junior High and 11 in Ozona High School. Twenty-three of the students had a speech-only handicapping condition.

In the summers of 1988 and 1989, the campus dyslexia teacher at Ozona Primary School and the campus dyslexia teacher at Ozona Intermediate School attended workshops conducted by personnel at the Region XV Service Center in San Angelo to receive dyslexia training.

In August of 1988, these two teachers provided inservice training to other classroom teachers in these two schools in order to increase dyslexia awareness in grades prekindergarten through five.

During the 1989-90 school year, two students were served in the dyslexia program in the Ozona Primary School. Ozona Intermediate School began the year with five students in the dyslexia program, but two withdrew. Four students were tested for the dyslexia program at the Ozona Junior High School during the 1989-90 school year. These four will be served in the dyslexia program during the 1990-91 school year.

The gifted and talented program began in Ozona schools in the 1989-90 with 26 participants from grades three through eight. The district identified a total of 11 students in kindergarten, first grade, ninth grade, tenth grade and eleventh grade in 1989-90 for participation in the program during the 1990-91 school year.

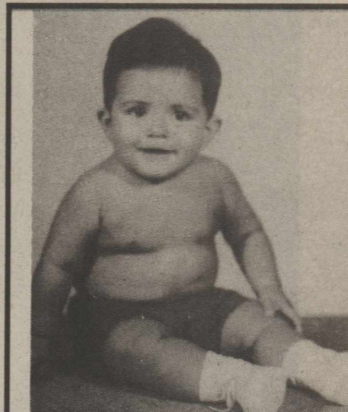

Fort Lancaster and Fort McKavett began charging fees for tourists January 1

Acceptance

Plunging into the depths...
the darkness...
the void.
There is no light within my soul to show me the way.
And my body?
Unwhole!
I curse that which lets this happen.
(Vanity... vanity...)
Why me?
Why not me?
Who am I to feel immunity to life's adversities?
Who am I to be separated from this?
Looking about I feel the shame.
The small child just beginning to live,
But who may not live...
Who may not celebrate his next birthday...
Yet, he holds on to the moment of THIS DAY.
He dreams of Santa Claus and Mutant Ninja Turtles, pizza; and will not let go.
How can I ask for more?
Or the quadriplegic who faithfully reports to work in his reconstructed van perhaps feeling less a man him self,
But is more a man to those who see him daily
Lifting leaden legs in to his "Chair" each day,
Smiling amiably and self-confidently.
Coping with the physical and mental stresses
Of just getting through each moment one at a time.
So I pray for guidance and ask for strength
That I may smile as do others along this way.
For surely God holds me as close
And will help me throughout each day.

Mingo Perez sails above the Eldorado Eagle defense to score two points for the Lions in the district game held here in Ozona last Friday.

Eagles slip by Ladies 47-46 in overtime action

By Ann Trull

The Eldorado Eagles left Ozona with a victory Jan. 4 after defeating the Lady Lions 47-46 in exciting overtime play.

The game see-sawed each way as the lead kept changing hands through all four quarters.

At the end of the first quarter, the

J.V. Ladies downed 27-28 by Lady Hawks

By Ann Trull

On Dec. 18 the junior varsity Lady Lions traveled to Wall to battle the Hawks. The hard-fought battle ended with the Ladies coming up short 27-28.

In the first quarter, both teams could only find the basket for a combined 6 points, as Wall then led 4-2.

The second proved to be no better as the Ladies tossed in 4 compared to the Hawks' 8. As the buzzer sounded signaling the end of the first half of play, Jennifer Davidson and Monica Solis led Ozona with 2 each for an end of 6-12.

The Ladies emerged from their shooting slump to outscore Wall 7-4 in the third for a score of 13-16.

In the fourth quarter they put on their game faces and outscored Wall again 14-11, but this was not to be enough for the win as they were defeated 28-27.

The Ladies stepped up to the line for 7 of 19 charity tosses while Wall was 7 of 22. Both teams received 20 points each as they both dropped in 10 2-point field goals.

Scorers for the game were: Myra Wilson 9, Davidson 4, Krystal Cervantez, Karlee Fuller 3, Julie Childress, Solis, Valerie Perez, Hollie Williams, Belia Vasquez 2.

Junction outscores Lady Lions 60-63

By Ann Trull

On Dec. 31 in their last game of 1990, the Lady Lions dropped the game 53-60 to Junction.

The Ladies dropped lower than their average of rebounds, only collecting 19, 11 offensive and 8 defensive.

Rebounders were: Haley Carson 5, Tricia Hartnett 4, Myra Sanchez 3, Kim Coy, Ofi Rios 2, Letty Dominguez, Sandra Fuentes, Teena Tambunga 1.

The game never strayed farther than a six point lead as the first quarter ended 10-12 Junction and the first half 24-30 Junction.

In the third quarter the lead increased to 38-45 for Junction, and the fourth saw both teams score 15 to end the contest 53-60.

Scorers were: Coy 23, Sanchez 13, Carson 6, Dominguez 5, Rios 4 and Fuentes 2.

Ladies trailed 10-12, but this was not concrete as they rallied in the second to lead 21-16 at the half.

The Ladies hit the boards with 15 offensive and 21 defensive for a total of 36.

Rebounders were: Haley Carson 14, Myra Sanchez 7, Kim Coy 6, Veronica Mendoza, Letty Dominguez 3, Teena Tambunga 2 and Ofi Rios 1.

In the third quarter the Ladies kept the lead, scoring 11 points to Eldorado's 10. The Ladies burned up the court with 13 steals and 10 assists.

In the fourth and supposedly final quarter, the Eagles outscored the Lady Lions 15-9 to make their comeback and tie the game at 41 to force an overtime.

When the final buzzer sounded, the Eagles outscored the Ladies in overtime 6-5 for a final of 47-46.

Middle East news stories frightening to children

The crisis in the Middle East is exposing children to something that this country hasn't seen in a long time—military conflict.

The nightly news offers children a view into the dark world of war: soldiers, tanks, machine guns, and gas masks. Adults then accept it as a necessary evil, but it can be frightening for children.

"Parents need to discuss the crisis with their children," said Dr. Florence Eddins, a child psychiatrist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Children hear rumors and if not reassured, they may think the situation is too terrible to discuss."

It is important to consider the child's age and developmental level when explaining the crisis. One way to determine this level, is to have the child ask questions. Parents will be better informed about the child's fears and can alleviate them without creating new ones.

Eddins says that ignoring children's fears may cause them to surface in other ways.

A change in behavior is the first sign that something is wrong. If the pattern continues for more than one week, parents should consider professional counseling for their child.

If a family member is overseas, then a good support system is critical. Support can come from a number of places including family, community, teachers and counselors. Maintaining contact with that family member prevents the child from feeling forgotten. Encourage them to write letters or send packages. Older children may keep a scrapbook of newspaper accounts.

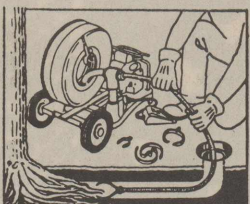

"The child may ask if the family member is in danger," Eddins said. "Parents must be honest with the child and not make any promises that cannot be kept."

To help a child through the separation period, relate the homecoming to a major event or make a calendar and mark off the days until the family member returns. Children are also comforted by routine. Keep changes minimal during the separation.

"I strongly encourage parents to make an effort to communicate with their children," said Eddins. "Honesty builds trust which can dispel fear."

Working teens - good or bad?

The image of the lazy teenager sitting on the sofa watching MTV may be less common than we think. More teens are working today than at any other time during the last 25 years. Current estimates indicate that 30 percent of high school freshmen and sophomores, and 50 percent of juniors and seniors work...and more might work if jobs were available to them.

Although most of us would agree that holding a job is of value during adolescence, recent research tends to contradict that idea.

Think about the jobs teenagers hold. Generally, they get little on-the-job training or skills which would be useful in later life because the jobs they hold require little training-or else call for skills the teens already know.

Teenagers who work are no more independent in decision-making - about financial matters or anything else - than those who do not have jobs. Furthermore, research reveals that those who work during their high school years are not more likely to earn money in later years. Although a job may offer a chance to explore career opportunities in a certain field, few teenagers take or can find such opportunities.

Another myth is that working will help teens to improve their rapport with adults. Actually, teens usually have little contact with adults on the job - except for taking orders - and they are frequently exposed to sex-stereotyped roles.

There also appear to be a number of "hidden costs" for teens who work - especially those who work more than 15 to 20 hours a week. These youngsters have lower grade point averages than their non-working peers, are more likely to report disliking school, are absent from school more frequently and feel less involved in school.

Teens who work spend less time with their families and feel less close to them. They must often give up family outings and time with friends, as well as athletics, school and church, 4-H or scouting in order to hold down a job.

There are obvious benefits when an adolescent works in society and contributes to it. There are times when the money an adolescent brings into a household is desperately needed, or may mean the difference between having the money to continue their education or quitting school upon graduation. But there are also drawbacks. So it appears that encouraging teenagers to stay in school and related activities and do their best, rather than encouraging after-school jobs, may be the best route to helping them prepare for the future.

Planned grazing systems key to successful livestock operations

by Vaden Aldridge

Livestock producers are caught in a very precarious position with today's agricultural economy as it is. Rising operational costs and reduced livestock commodity prices brings to attention the fact that a very efficient operation is needed to survive in the livestock industry. More detailed planned grazing systems can be a very effective tool for increasing operational efficiency.

Let's face facts; the key to ranching is forage production. How efficiently forage is harvested with appropriate numbers of livestock determines the success of the operation. The advantages of planned grazing systems are that they can be tailor made to meet the objectives of the individual rancher. These systems can be designed so that better livestock distribution and plant utilization can be attained. Rest periods and deferrals can be planned for individual pastures to allow the more desirable grasses to increase in vigor and produce mature, viable seed to insure propagation.

There are various types of systems currently being used, most of which are used for a common goal of maximizing livestock and forage production but ultimately for increasing net profit. The most common are the switchback system, one herd and multiple herd deferred rotation systems and the multiple pastures rapid rotation systems. The rapid rotation systems are the most flexible and intensive grazing systems. In these systems, grazing periods and rest periods are based on grass growth. Periodic evaluation of available forage production is necessary to regulate grazing time in pastures and grazing cycle lengths in the rotation.

It is very important to note that before the installation of any grazing system, a detailed forage inventory should be made to set an appropriate stocking rate for that particular system. Further evaluations should be made throughout the year to show changes in forage production and availability.

Planned grazing systems can be a tremendous asset to livestock producers. The Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District can assist you with the design and installation of these systems. More information on the various types of systems can be obtained at the SCS office on 401 First Street.

Effect of environmental movement on ranching subject of conference

The Davis Mountains Trans-Pecos Heritage Association has announced plans for a conference to be held in Alpine Jan. 26. The topic will be The Effect of the Environmental Movement on Ranching and Rural Communities. The one-day conference is designed to inform landowners, businessmen and members of rural communities of the impacts of environmental regulatory actions.

Nationally recognized experts will discuss such issues as endangered species, wetlands in the Trans-Pecos, Earth First and The Nature Conservancy, eco-terrorism and sabotage, and condemnation and regulatory takings of private property. The speakers include Rob Ribett with the Pacific Legal Foundation in Sacramento, A. Grant Gerber with the Wilderness Research Impact Foundation in Elko, NV, Dick Manning of the New Mexico Coalition of Counties, Brewster County Judge Tom Connor, and condemnation authority Ben Wallis from San Antonio.

According to association president Ben Love of Marathon, "The Trans-Pecos is a unique and beautiful region. Because of that, it has become a target for numerous governmental agencies that seek to increase their presence here. Millions of acres of land have been set aside in the Trans-Pecos for recreation and preservation at the expense of the taxpayers. A balance must be reached in terms of impacts to agriculture, the local citizens, counties and schools. This conference will define the problems and offer some solutions."

The Davis Mountains Trans-Pecos Heritage Association is dedicated to the private preservation of lands. The grassroots organization opposes and challenges unnecessary governmental land use controls and regulations and defends private property rights while supporting free enterprise, quality public education and balanced community values.

The conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Alpine Community Center. Information and pre-registration materials may be obtained by writing DMTPHA, Box 536, Marfa, TX 79843, or by calling 915 467-2902. Since seating is limited, the association urges pre-registration.

Mohair Council annual membership meeting Jan. 24

The Mohair Council of America will hold its annual membership meeting on Jan. 24, at the Plaza San Antonio Hotel in San Antonio. 1991 marks the 25th anniversary of the council.

Their products are available in fine specialty stores and department stores throughout the United States, Japan, Germany, Canada, and England.

Mark McLaughlin, president of the Mohair Council, urges all mohair producers and person with an interest in the U.S. mohair industry to attend. In addition to the regular business of the council, reports on domestic and foreign market surveys and past and future council activity reports, growers will have the opportunity to elect directors for 1991.

On Thursday evening, January 24th, a banquet will be held honoring Dolph Briscoe, the late Noel Fry, Walter Pfluger, and Sid Harkins, founders of the council. Doc Blakely will be the featured speaker. He writes a weekly syndicated humor column entitled "Pokin' Fun", and has written and co-authored several books, the latest of which is "How the Platform Professionals Keep 'Em Laughin'".

1991 International Stockmen's School scheduled February 14-16 in Houston

The 1991 International Stockmen's School will offer cost-effective approaches on five topics at meetings Feb. 14-16 in Houston.

Dr. W. M. "Bill" Warren of Texas A&M University's animal science department, school director, said the sessions will be in beef cattle, dairy cattle, total ranch management, horse production and tropical beef cattle, with the latter two being presented in Spanish as well. The meetings will be in the Sheraton Astrodome Hotel.

Least-cost production may well be the key word of the decade of the 1990s, Warren said. Speakers at the various sections will describe ways to help hold expenses down in light of escalating costs of animal agriculture production.

"Producers who attend the Tropical Beef Cattle Seminar will hear the latest about herd health, parasite and disease control," Warren said. "They also will get research updates on beef cattle nutrition and assess the importance of reproductive performance."

Another highlight for this group, Warren said, will be visits to commercial and purebred ranches to study their management, breeding and nutrition programs.

Warren said the International Stockmen's School comes just ahead of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, which begins Feb. 17. School sponsors include the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the rodeo and the Agri-services Foundation.

For more information, contact the local county office of the Extension Service or Dr. Bill Warren at 409 845-3808.
