

By J. M. FORBES

Read elsewhere in this paper summary of the speech that Al Hall, coordinator for the Bi-State Water Commission, is making before the various civic clubs to bring members of those organizations up to date on what the Board has been doing and thinking.

If you read it, you will see that their program and continuing fight against Lubbock's pipeline project is not based solely on a "I hate Lubbock" theme. Their program is constructive and can be carried on for years if necessary to accomplish the aims of the board: To conserve our dwindling water supply for the production of crops on the High Plains.

Their program, if carried out, can benefit not only us but it will be for the ultimate welfare of the people of the city of Lubbock and the people of Lubbock country, too.

Of course, it goes without saying that the people of the irrigation belt don't hate their fellow citizens down in Lubbock; but we sure do hate and oppose what they are doing and plan to do and we shall go on with the idea of using any means, legal, moral, suasion, or appeal to reason, to lessen or even eliminate the threat to our economy posed by the announced plan to remove water from our sandhills reservoir and transport it away to a distant city, not for the use of its citizens, but to insure that big payroll industries will not shy away in the future.

I used to despise Dickens and De Quincey for using them long sentences but look what I just did, myself. But now you turn and read Al's talk dealing with aims and objectives and beliefs of the Bi-State Water Board.

Bi-State Water Program Outlined In Rotary Talk

The potential danger of increasing demands for underground water by industries and large cities were described to the Rotary Club here Tuesday by Al Hall, coordinator for the Bi-State Underground Water Commission. The speaker pointed out that since irrigation had been developed on a large scale in Bailey County the drop in the water table had become severe. In 1948 82 per cent of the wells in this county pumped water from less than 125 feet. Hall told his audience of 30 men, "Today 77 per cent are pumping water more than 125 feet and less than one in four wells have their pumps set at less than 125 feet."

The Bi-State group is seeking regulatory restrictions on heavy industrial and municipal users whose multimillion gallon a day demands will cause an even greater drop in the water table, according to the speaker.

"This group of 150 farmers and businessmen in the irrigation belt of the South Plains feels that the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District has the power to give us the regulatory protection we need," the Rotarians were told. Hall cited two provisions of the law under which the district operates.

One allowed for the spacing of wells and the regulation of production to minimize draw-down, the other specifically denied a priority for beneficial use of underground water.

"The Bi-State group simply asks the High Plains district to use the authority it has already been granted by the legislature to protect irrigation farmers and assure them equal rights to the water beneath their lands," Hall concluded. "We need your support to accomplish our goal."

SEEK TO TEST LAW'S CONSTITUTIONALITY . . . .

Muleshoe vs. Lubbock Pipeline Suit Set For Hearing At Austin Sept. 6

AUSTIN, Aug. 30 — The case of C. C. Morgan versus S. S. Forrest, Jr., et al., will be introduced in the courts for the first time Thursday, Sept. 6, when a hearing on execution will be held in 53rd District Court of Travis County.

Morgan, a Hockley County landowner, is seeking an injunction against the City of Lubbock to halt the construction of a large pipeline from the Lamb, Bailey County sand hills to the city's line that now terminates in Shallowater. Forrest is mayor of the city of Lubbock who was named in the suit that includes all of the city councilmen and the state highway commission.

Purpose of the pipeline is to carry additional water supplies for the city's consumption. In his suit Morgan alleges: 1. That laying a pipeline on highway right of way is improper use of the property; 2. That construction of the pipeline constitutes an additional taking of the property without additional compensation; 3. That the pipeline will endanger his property and constitutes a nuisance and 4. That in event the pipeline should ever break it would endanger his crops and would endanger the lives of public using the highway.

Lubbock Files Exceptions The City of Lubbock has filed exceptions to Morgan's allegations and a general denial of the charges. Before the case can be tried, the court must decide whether Morgan or the City of Lubbock is correct in the contentions.

The Morgan case is one of two suits that have been filed by interested property owners along the route of the pipeline. Both seek to stop construction of the pipeline on the grounds that it is improper use of the highway. Morgan bases his claim on the fact he did not give the state title to the land. The second case, filed by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Doss of Littlefield, contends the deed given the state says specifically the land is to be used "for highway purposes only".

The Morgan case will attempt to test the constitutionality of the 1949 state law giving municipalities permission to use highway right of way for utility lines. Morgan will be represented by the law firm of Bagby and Winters of Austin, who are joined by Atty. John Aikin of Hereford, and Jack Young, Muleshoe attorney.

Vacation is over for thousands of Bailey county youngsters this week, and school begins Monday for most with the prospect of nine months of learning facing the kids. Kids day Saturday will offer the kids a chance for a final fling before school starts. The teachers have not yet been forgotten however, as the annual reception for teachers, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be held Friday night in the football stadium at 7:30.

After the usual last minute scurrying around to find teachers to replace late hour resignations, most superintendents in the county have full complement of teachers with which to begin classes Monday.

Football practice began Monday of this week in most of the schools in this area, with first games scheduled for next Friday night for many teams in the Muleshoe trade territory.

"YOU GUYS WOULDN'T HURT HER WOULD YOU?"

Dear Driver:

"Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue socks. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Scout, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the halls of learning.

"Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her - the girl with the yellow curls - and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head, and about the trees in the school yard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things - tremendously vital, unimportant things; and then we studied spelling, reading, and arithmetic - and then to bed.

"She's back there now-back in the nursery-sound asleep with Princess Elizabeth (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped I can fix it-but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

"She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time: I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive carefully. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections and please remember that children run from behind parked cars.

"Please don't run over my little girl."

We have stop signs on the public highways, and if you don't abide by them you are sometimes given a ticket or a good talking to. We also have stop signs around the school ground and they have the same meaning as the ones on the highway.

We are going to expect each and every one to cooperate this fall by observing the stop signs around the school. This is a warning. So please help save trouble and possibly a young life by observing the signs and driving carefully.

Constable J. J. Redwine.

Amarillo Wholesalers Welcome Muleshoe Men To Friday Meet

Twelve Muleshoe business men met Friday with 31 Amarillo wholesalers to discuss the encouraging of Amarillo sales in the Muleshoe trade territory. The meeting was held to further cement relations between the two towns, begun with a good will flight to Muleshoe by a group of Amarillo men two weeks ago. The tone of the meeting Friday centered around a mutual agreement of the two groups to improve trade relations and increase wholesale accounts locally.

Each member of the Muleshoe group spoke briefly explaining that the Muleshoe trade territory is a large and rich one, and inviting the Amarillo wholesalers to sell to that market on competitive prices and delivery.

The meeting ended on a note of harmony, with the Amarillo wholesalers inviting the Muleshoe group to dinner and a ball game as their guests.

Attending the meeting from Muleshoe were: Lee Pool, James

Fowler, Senn Slemmons, Harold King, Randy Johnson, Irvin St. Clair, Lloyd Alsup, Charles Alsup, Woody Lambert, Fred Johnson, Arthur Crow and Al Hall.

The Amarillo wholesalers expressed their interest in the Muleshoe market, and promised to have sales personnel calling in the area right away. Some of the Amarillo men apologized that they had not cultivated the Muleshoe area market as closely as they might have.

Fire Board Lists Changes To Get Lower Rates

Muleshoe city officials believing that the insurance key rate for the city was due to be lowered this summer received a rude shock late last week upon receipt of a letter from the Fire division of the state board of insurance commissioners.

The board's decision would be to increase, rather than lower, unless a number of specifications outlined are complied with. Penalties will be assessed, the commission said unless the city constructs a 500,000 gallon ground storage water reservoir in two sections; additional fire hydrants must be installed; fire hydrants must be repainted; the fire brigade membership must be increased to 25 men, and the city was asked to consider employing at least one full time paid fireman.

Several other requirements were outlined in the letter, which must be instituted to escape further penalties.

The City Commission announced that in spite of the danger of further penalties they believe that the overall key rate will still be reduced from its present rate due to a number of improvements made here since the last inspection by the state inspectors.

FARMER COUNTY Farm Bureau News

By RAYMOND L. J. LER

Miami, Florida will be the destination of at least half a dozen Farmer County farmers and their wives in December, the way it looks today. They will attend the American Farm Bureau Convention the second week of the month. A special train will go from Texas, and most Texas delegates and members will probably get together on that train. We hope the number increases to a dozen or more couples. The more farmers who know how Farm Bureau operates, and how large and important it is, the stronger will be our local membership. December is the ideal month for visiting Miami, too, they tell us. Until the train is full, any interested persons are eligible to ride it. We'll have more details about reservations, rates, etc. in the near future.

The Farm Bureau Weed Committee boys have gathered and sent samples of various wheat seeds to PGC in Amarillo to have milling quality tests run. This project is for the purpose of assuring planters that the seed they plant will produce number one wheat, from the milling stand point.

Here is a brief outline of the five points American Farm Bureau spokesmen handed platform chairmen of the Democrat and Republican Conventions: 1. High employment, rising productivity, and good distribution of income. 2. Monetary and fiscal policies which will effectively contribute to the maintenance of a relatively stable general price level. 3. Policies which encourage foreign trade and investment. 4. Policies that encourage creation and use of private capital. 5. Preservation of the competitive principle. Chiropactic Has Brought Health and Happiness To These People—

There Is A "Cause" For Every Disease Chiropactic Locates And Corrects It

CHIROPRACTIC FOR CHILDREN:

Children respond very well to Chiropactic; so well in fact that many Chiropactors in larger cities limit their practice to children.

In a four state survey conducted by the research department of the International Chiropactors Association, results were as follows: of 318 children under Chiropactic care only nine cases of polio occurred of which none resulted in paralysis or other disability. Other abnormal conditions respond equally well as this case history, for example:

A boy, age six years, was brought to the Clinic by his mother, who is also a patient. The boy's entrance complaint was chronic tonsillitis, underweight, poor appetite, difficult breathing, daily nose bleed, very nervous, and lack of energy. He was examined and X-rayed and then placed under chiropactic care. His progress under chiropactic care has been so satisfactory we feel justified in repeating his case history from last week. In three weeks he has been a patient each of his symptoms have greatly improved. He will begin school next week. His parents were doubtful that he would be able to attend school because of his condition. Now they are very much encouraged. We will report on this boy's progress from time to time.

Children's response to corrective, painless Chiropactic adjustments is not limited to those diseases wherein there is a spinal curvature, or some other chronic condition which is generally associated with abnormalities of the spine. Such childhood disorders as colic, croup, bed wetting, as well as severe abnormal conditions are corrected when the cause is removed by Chiropactic. The following little girl was brought to the Clinic with severe headaches, pain in shoulders and arms, nervous indigestion, kidney weakness, and leg aches. After a spinal analysis, X-Ray adjustments were begun to correct her condition. Her return to health was a revelation! At termination of this little girl's Chiropactic health service, she was completely well child. Give your boy or girl a chance to win in his or her most important business of getting an education. Nervous conditions are responsible for inability on the part of the child to learn easily.

SWPS Employees Establish Safety Record of 3,020,404 Hours Worked

Employees of the Southwestern Public Service Company have established a new all-company safety record of working 3,020,404 man-hours without a lost-time accident, it has been reported by A. R. Watson, executive vice president and general manager of the electric light and power company.

The new record, exceeding the old company standard of 3,019,075 man-hours, set in 1954, was reached at the end of the working day last Friday. However a check of working time of all employees was necessary to verify the new accomplishment, and that check has just been completed.

"We are proud of the fact that we have set this new record, and that we are still adding to it. But records, in themselves, are merely statistics that measure the accomplishments of individuals. The important fact about safety is that our employees are enthusiastic about it, interested in it, and have made it an integral part of their work. Everyone gains from safe working habits, our customers, our employees, and their families," Mr. Watson said, in announcing the safety accomplishment.

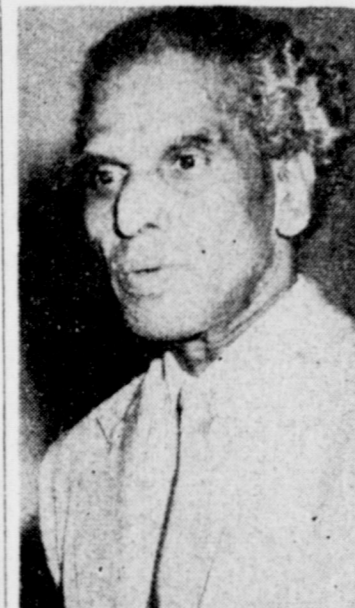

Southwestern Public Service Company employees have not had a disabling injury this year, the current accident-free period getting underway on November 3, 1955. Presently the company boasts the top safety record in the Southwest Personnel Exchange Group, made up of 14 electric light and power companies in the southwestern states.

The new safety record, the third longest accident-free period ever recorded by any electric light and power company.

There are eight safety groups within the company, made up of the five divisions, headquartered at Amarillo, Guymon, Plainview, Roswell, and Lubbock; the operating department, which includes all of the company's generating stations; the system construction department, which is responsible for transmission of line and substation construction; and the employees of the general office in Amarillo.

Each of these safety groups is recognized for its individual safety accomplishments by the National Safety Council and the Edison Electric Institute, as well as the entire company group.

Presently enjoying the longest individual unit standing within the company record is the Plains Division, headquartered at Plainview, which has gone accident-free since January 16, 1953, and has recorded 1,588,926 hours without a lost-time accident. "This is a great safety team, ever-conscious of the fact that when you are free of accidents you are free of heartbreak and suffering, and morale and work-interest are high. Each of us is determined to set new standards, not for the mere purpose of accomplishing records, but for the self-satisfaction of knowing that the job done safely is the job done well," Mr. Watson concluded.

REJECTS SUEZ CANAL PLAN— India's roving Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon rejected the Dulles plan for internationalizing the Suez Canal and said, "We are back to where we started." Menon's rejection of the western plan plunged the conference into a deadlock and momentarily erased any hope of a compromise solution to the Suez crisis. Egypt's Premier Nasser has agreed to give the London conference his full consideration so long as Egypt's sovereignty is not questioned.

Sand Hills Philosopher Pleas'd TO KNOW HE ISN'T ONLY ONE LOSING MONEY ON FARMING

Editor's note: The Sand Hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has made a strange discovery, but we doubt if his conclusions will stand up, as he's had little practice himself in standing up.

Dear editor:
The last thing I'd ever want would be to be accused of wanting to run for office, I'm not even good justice of the peace timber, not to mention congressional or presidential timber, but I have been reviewing the presidential campaign situation and have discovered that in one department Eisenhower, Stevenson and me are on the same level.

That is, all three of us have farms we're losing money on.

As I understand it, Eisenhower loses about $25,000 a year on his Gettysburg farm, Stevenson loses about $10,000 on his Libertyville farm, and while I'm not in that bracket, due to the bank's timidity, you could still classify my farm out here as on the presidential candidate level when the books are closed at the end of the year.

Understand, I'm not saying I'm as smart as Eisenhower and Stevenson, all I'm saying is that when it comes to farming, I'm right up with the best brains in the nation.

I understand one reason Ike and Stevenson give for losing money is that they don't have the time to devote to farming that they should, and I can report I qualify on that test too. That is, all three of us have 24 hours a day all right, the same as everybody else, and while I don't know what system they use, I have always managed to find something to interfere when the crops needed working the most. I recognize that in their case, they don't have to hunt for something to keep them from farming, their importance in other fields takes care of that, but in my case I'm on my own, I have to dig for mine, and it's with considerable pride that I point out that never once have I been caught short on an excuse for avoiding going up one row and down another.

You'd think that with the three of us with farms and each one losing money, one of us would come up with a solution to the problem. I know I don't have one, and if either one of them has, I don't believe he's gotten around to mentioning it yet, except in general terms. Some things you just have to learn to live with, and the farm problem must be one of them. At least, that's what Ike and Stevenson and me have concluded.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Now Let's Forget Politics!

-In Washington

Clinton Davidson

During the next couple of months you will be hearing a lot of political campaign arguments about "the farm problem," and what to do about it. This, then, might be a good time to get some facts straight.

The farm planks in both parties promise 100% of parity as the goal for farm prices. They differ only on the methods to be used in attaining that objective. Parity is determined by a formula intended to measure whether prices received by farmers are fair when compared to prices they pay.

For the past couple of years farm price averages have ranged between 80% and 85% of parity. Some commodity prices have been considerably lower than the average, and some well above.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recently completed a study of farm prices, costs and income over the past 25 years. Those figures are significant only as they provide a yardstick for measuring how farmers are doing in relation to the remainder of the nation.

The survey includes detailed reports on 27 important types and sizes of farms in all major farming areas, and covers several hundred farms. The investment per farm ranged from $10,000 to $178,000, and averaged $60,000.

Net income per farm increased from about $800 in 1940 to $2,100 in 1955. The high during that period was $3,100 in 1947. Farm purchasing power, despite the more dollars available, was only about 10% higher in 1955 than in 1940.

Farm efficiency—the production per worker—increased by about 40% from 1940 to 1955, largely due to increased farm mechanization. The number of tractors and other farm machinery more than doubled during the 15-year period.

Perhaps the best yardstick for measuring how farmers have fared in relation to urban factory employees is the per-hour return for labor. Farmers worked an average of 8 hours a day, about the same as city workers.

Averages can be misleading because incomes even on adjoining farms, vary so widely. They do, however, provide a reasonable guide as to how farmers have been faring generally. Here are some USDA figures on average net incomes per hour of work in different parts of the country for 1955.

Northeastern dairy farmers earned an average of 81¢ an hour, but in Wisconsin the average was 35¢ an hour. In the Corn Belt hog-dairy farmers averaged 52¢, and hog-beef raisers averaged 37¢, but farmers who specialized in fattening hogs and beef cattle earned only 24¢ an hour.

Corn Belt farmers who grew grain for cash sale averaged 74¢ an hour. In Kentucky tobacco-livestock farmers earned 60¢ an hour, and in North Carolina tobacco-cotton growers averaged 73¢. Cotton farmers in the southern Piedmont averaged 51¢, but on the black prairie of Texas the average was 30¢.

In the High Plains of Texas cotton growers on non-irrigated farms earned 39¢, but on irrigated farms the average was $1.77 an hour. In the Mississippi Delta the average for cotton growers ranged from 54¢ on small farms to $4.99 on large farms.

Wheat-corn-livestock farmers in the Northern Great Plains averaged 3¢ an hour, but wheat growers in the Southern Great Plains averaged 67¢ an hour, and in the Pacific Northwest $1.37.

Babson Discusses TOLL ROADS AND NEW FREEWAYS

Babson Park, Mass., August 30 — The recent passage of the Federal Highway Bill has centered a great deal of attention on toll roads and the numerous problems they face.

COMPETITION OF FREEWAYS
During the debate on the Federal Highway Program, weakness began to develop in the prices of many toll bonds. Finally, when this bill was passed, many holders of these bonds became alarmed and sold out for fear that the proposed new freeways would successfully compete with existing toll roads. Many investors felt that the government highway program would shelve practically all plans for new toll roads.

But I feel that too much stress has been put on the probable competitive effect of freeways. Remember that state highway departments will control the expenditure of funds allotted by the Federal Government. In the past, states have encouraged the building of toll roads. Therefore, it seems quite certain that states would not lay out new freeway routes that would clearly divert much traffic from existing toll roads.

POSSIBILITIES FOR NEW TOLL ROADS
Fear of competition from new freeways may well be only a temporary retardant in the planning of new toll roads. This would be true if such roads considerably reduced travel time between heavily populated centers. Certainly where current studies show heavy traffic possibilities, it is likely that new toll roads will be built in the future.

But I forecast there will be fewer offerings of toll road bonds, so that eventually we may well see higher prices for good existing toll road issues. There is also the strong possibility that eventually some states may take over toll bonds, issuing state bond for existing toll road bonds, thus improving their credit position.

RISKS IN TOLL ROAD BONDS
While some states have directly or indirectly guaranteed interest and principal payments on toll road bonds, most issues are secured solely by revenues collected from users. Investors should carefully check the security of issues offered.

them. Be especially cautious when buying bonds on projected toll roads.

Now that the Federal Government has agreed to furnish up to 90% of the cost of the construction of approved freeways, it is less likely that state legislators would promise to even partially support a new toll road. No doubt big bond houses will try to put pressure on state legislators to guarantee a portion of the cost of toll roads. But I predict that little state support will be forthcoming, except in cases where such roads can very clearly be shown to be self-supporting.

COST OF TOLL ROADS A STUMBLING BLOCK
Rising interest rates and a tight money supply have also caused a price decline for outstanding toll road bonds. Furthermore, these factors add heavily to the cost of building. Existing toll roads were favored a few years ago with rising bond prices and easy money.

Besides higher interest rates, materials and wage costs have risen 70% within the past few years. In 1953 and 1954 the average cost was $380,000 a mile. Now it is claimed that the cost for most toll roads is about $1,670,000 a mile. Logically this means that much higher toll rates must be charged, adding greatly to the competitive position of freeways.

ENGINEERING ESTIMATES IN QUESTION
The continued failure of West Virginia Turnpike revenues to come up to the estimates made when the bonds were first offered causes buyers to hesitate before committing themselves to such issues. But this and other experiences no doubt should lead to much more conservative estimates of traffic and revenues.

However, recent traffic experiences in West Virginia and Ohio, and with the extensions of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, will certainly put a damper on new issues for some time. But in the long run, where existing toll roads serve a real economic need at a fair level of charges, there need be no fear of bonds based on them. In the meantime, I predict that some bargains are likely to develop in existing toll road Tax-exempt Revenue Bonds.

TODAYS MEDITATION

Read I Corinthians 10:12-17. Wherefore let him that thinketh

he standeth take heed lest he fall. (I Corinthians 10:12.)

Long, long ago a friend asked an old man why he complained so much.

"Oh," he said, "I have every day so much to do. I have two falcons to tame, two hares to keep from running away, two hawks to manage, a serpent to control, a lion to chain, and a sick man to tend and wait upon."

Then said the friend, "But no man has all these things to do at once."

"Ah," corrected the old man, "but it is with me as I have said. The two falcons are my two eyes, the two hares are my feet, the two hawks are my hands, the serpent is my tongue, the lion is my heart, the sick man is my own body."

How true this complaining attitude is of too many of us today! Life is meant to be a loom where we weave the texture of our characters, a forge where we temper our wills, and a mart where we ourselves are best able to sell what we have made of ourselves.

PRAYER
O Father, we have no greater guide than Thee. Thou art the Creator of all life of all law, of all love. Guide and bless us this day as we go forth to live. Help us to do so to the honor and glory of Thy name; though Christ. Amen.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO AGRICULTURE?

Many people today are puzzling over the "programming" of farming by the government. They wonder why we have controls and quotas and price supports. More clearly, they want to know why the farmer can't just "take his chances" in growing and selling with no holds barred.

They wonder, without realizing that the well-being of agriculture is an absolute essential to the economic health of our nation, just how the farmer became such a governmental concern.

Quite a few years ago, when the entire national economy was on wobbly legs, first efforts for restoration were aimed at agriculture. Farm programs and adjustments and allotments were set to work.

Since that time when the age-old barometer for farm success—supply and demand—became top-heavy, new programs and new words began showing up on the agriculture front. Controls were born of necessity; allotments, restrictions and subsidies became their expression.

There are those who cling to the hope that eventually food and fiber demands will catch up close enough to supply that every man can be for himself as in any competitive business.

Others more realistically expect controls to be permanent. And if so, then it's time to be thinking about how to live with them and to face their long-time effects.

Guidance and regulation of agriculture by the government can go in several directions: The government can allow itself to become the "market" with most areas of trade and disposition covered by regulations; controls can be slackened to such a degree that the "big business" farmer could easily enroach on and swallow up the small farmer; or, through careful selection of leaders in policy making posts, farmers will have personal agents to see that their interests are protected, not overrun.

This latter ideal is that which we work toward: To keep our farmers both free and prosperous, with proper alignment in the national economic picture. There will be little danger from government controls so long as they are tempered with concern. And this concern will prevent our farm people from becoming a peasantry working under rationed opportunity.

PUBLIC RELATIONS
Mention public relations to agriculture and you can get a confusion of answers as to how.

It's amazing how many people think public relations for agriculture must involve a "brambling-plated," high pressure campaign which costs a lot of money. The most logical discussion to follow that assumption is how can we pay for it.

That's the trouble with a lot of the solutions to problems these days. We see a problem, we get excited, we rush at the problem hammer and tongs, splashing sweat and lather in forty directions, coming up with complicated solutions. All the time, in most cases the real answers lie close to home and they're relatively simple. That's the trouble with a lot of "experts" advice on agriculture's public relations, too. They're advising complicated solutions.

What is Public Relations?

People getting along with people. Public relations is making friends. You do not buy good will, YOU EARN IT.

Public relations is your business and mine as farmers. And public relations is simply getting along with people and giving them a chance to know us and the business we represent—agriculture.

This same thing is true in your home community. Your local Farm Bureau organization is judged by the officers of your county and community organizations and by the type of farmers who joins. People in town judge farmers by the people they know who are farmers.

Join the townsman in his civic clubs and lodges and churches. Be a leader in the activities of the organizations where farmer and townsman meet. Let him see with his own eyes that farmers are alert, intelligent businessmen, sound in their contributions of services and leadership.

Public relations for agriculture is simply farm people getting along with their neighbors in town, so that each understand the other a little more.

Public relations is a "hundred dollar word" for friendliness.

Reduction of Wheat Surplus, Better Quality Predicted By A & M Economist

Wheat producers in Texas must soon make a decision on whether or not they will reduce their allotments further under the Soil Bank program. Weather conditions, especially from the moisture standpoint, haven't been too favorable for the past several years for most Texas producers and this, according to John G. McHaney, extension economist, could be a big factor in the final decision.

But regardless of the weather, wheat surpluses continue to build up and stocks of wheat in the nation were estimated at 1,070,000,000 bushels on July 1 last. McHaney points out that wheat carryovers have increased from 307 million bushels in 1949 to more than a billion bushels on July 1, 1956 — an increase of 236 percent.

The nation's first billion bushel wheat crop was produced in 1915-16 and the next one didn't come until 1944-45 but for the next nine years, except 1951-52, the annual harvest exceeded the one billion bushel mark. Since the 1953-54 season, production has declined but continued to exceed 900 million bushels annually. Since 1951 harvested acreage has declined 23 percent in the nation but production by only 4 percent. In Texas, during this same period, harvested acreage has dropped 25 percent with a similar drop in production. Drouth has been the big factor here. Texas normally produces only 7 percent of the nation's wheat crop and hence has only a slight effect upon the total production of the nation.

Production per acre in the nation has climbed steadily and coupled with falling exports, surpluses have climbed. Foreign wheat production is on the increase and this has cut exports, says McHaney. The decline in domestic per capita consumption has about offset the increase in population, therefore, total consumption has remained fairly stable.

There is hope, points out the economist, that surplus stocks by 1960 can be brought in line with domestic and export demands. He also predicts further improvements in production technology, the introduction of improved varieties and strains, continued increased yields and an expansion in the use of fertilizers, moisture conserving practices along with new irrigation methods. Diet changes from starch to protein foods is expected to continue so long as income remain high but McHaney believes wheat consumption is approaching a minimum consumption level. He also believes the 1956 agricultural act and other government programs will help reduce the present supply.

Plan Pastures In Hope of Rain, Say A & M Agronomists

Prospects right now are slim for winter pastures, but, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, plans, seed and fertilizer should be ready if and when it rains.

The need for winter forage is critical in most areas of the state and winter pastures, if conditions become favorable, can be used to cut wintering costs for livestock and up the output of meat and milk from the farm.

When planting time comes, Trew advises dusting in oats and barley if there is subsoil moisture. Dry planted crops will be up and growing before planting could be done after a rain and the result is much more earlier grazing. Don't fail to use fertilizer, emphasizes Trew. If it doesn't rain, the plant food will not be lost for it can be used by a succeeding crop.

The specialist says if possible plant legume with the grass. The combination often gives greater yields; the forage is higher in protein and minerals and the grazing season is extended. For early grazing, Trew suggests using an upright type of barley or oats such as Gollad or Alamo in areas where these varieties are adapted. Upright types will give grazing weeks ahead of the prostrate types but don't hold up for mid-winter grazing. The specialist suggests planting about 20 percent of the acreage to the upright types and 80 percent to intermediate types in order to get maximum winter grazing.

Generally, the small grains, oats, barley and rye and in some areas wheat, are the best for winter grazing. Pallas ryegrass does well in east Texas, the Gulf Coast region and in the Blacklands and Grand Prairie areas. Vetch, crimson clover, Hubam and Madrid sweetclover are among the legumes which can be grown in combination with the grasses.

For detailed information on varieties and seeding rates for different areas, Trew suggests that the local county agent be contacted. When the visit is made ask for a copy of L-258, Winter Temporary Pastures.

Feeding Problems Brought On By Extended Drouth

Roughage is a scarce item these days on most Texas farms and ranches. The prolonged drouth has cut deep into supplies of all roughages and forced stockmen to turn to substitutes, says Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

He reports that numerous calls and letters to his office indicate the widespread shortage of roughage and the intentions to use substitutes whenever possible. A frequent question has to do with the use of cotton trash and gin trash as a maintenance ration and whether or not there is danger of poison from cotton insecticides. The veterinarian says burs and gin trash can be fed and there is little or no danger from poison especially if no insecticides were applied to the cotton plants three to four weeks prior to harvest.

He also reports that complaints have been received that livestock have suffered from prussic acid when fed baled sudan, Johnsongrass, hegari, or other sorghum hays. He says considerable of these crops were cut at an immature stage and baled before the plants had thoroughly dried and that the excessive moisture inside the bales was causing the trouble. The trouble can be remedied by breaking open the bales and letting the plants dry before feeding them.

Patterson also warns against using urea as a protein supplement where cattle are getting a very small intake of roughage or the forage is of poor quality. He says the animals cannot utilize the urea because of the low intake of carbohydrates, and urea poisoning will result. The veterinarian suggests that the local county agent be consulted for more detailed information on feeding and animal health problems brought on by the drouth.

Dodson best-seller, filmed in VistaVision and Technicolor, with Chandler, Nader, Julie Adams and Lex Barker as its stars. ### New Child Labor Laws Affect Many Farmers Employing Migrant Labor

Every commercial farmer and grower whose products move in interstate commerce directly or indirectly will become subject to the child-labor provisions of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act when the autumn school term opens, a Federal spokesman said here today.

This complete change in the legal status of employment of children in agriculture the day local schools open was explained by Regional Director William J. Rogers of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division in Dallas.

"This law," he said, "exempts growers of agricultural and horticultural products from its $1 minimum wage and overtime provisions, but it specifically prohibits employment of children under 16 years of age in agricultural occupations during school hours in session in the school district in which they live while working."

"In other words, children of any age may be employed on the farm by the grower in the planting, cultivating, harvesting, or handling of agricultural products during vacation periods, on weekends and before and after school. The grower may use his own children in agricultural work at any time and at any age on his own farm."

But he noted that these are federal restrictions. Each of the 48 states has a child-labor law of its own. So he advised growers to consult with state officers, local school attendance officials or study State laws to determine their provisions. When the State child-labor standards are higher than those of the Federal law, the State law should be observed.

"The federal regulation requires that each grower subject to it have on file for each employee under 18 a record showing his full name, date of birth, the home address and the local address if the minors are employed on days when school is in session," he said.

Primary purposes of both federal and state child-labor laws, according to Rogers, are to protect children from exploitation,

Wheat Soil Bank Program For 1957 Is Now Available

The Acreage Reserve program now available for participation by farmers for their 1957 winter wheat crop is the second of four such programs authorized for wheat and other "basic" crops, according to Robert G. Schrauner, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Winter wheat growers who wish to take part in the 1957 program should call at the County ASC office and sign an agreement. Applications are expected to be available toward the end of August.

The Soil Bank legislation, enacted late this spring, authorizes such a program for basic crops over a 4-year period, that is, thru 1959. Each Acreage Reserve agreement, however, covers the particular crop for only one year at a time. For 1957, the program is being made available early enough so that most farmers should be able to make their plans before planting.

Chairman Schrauner explains that the whole purpose of the Soil Bank's wheat Acreage Reserve is to help farmers reduce the acreage of wheat below acreage allotments, thereby, reducing their acreage of general crops and carry out an approved conservation practice on the designated land.

To participate in the Acreage Reserve, the farmer will remove part or all of his basic crop acreage from production, harvesting no crop from it and not grazing it.

To participate in the Conservation Reserve, the farmer will designate a certain acreage of cropland other than the acreage for the Acreage Reserve and carry out an approved conservation practice. To reduce the regular annual payment, there must be a reduction in the acreage of crops which are generally called "depleting crops". The farmer may receive a Conservation Reserve payment for the conservation practice covering up to 80 percent of the cost, and also annual payments for each acre in conservation reserve.

excessive supplies of the crop. Land "reserved" under the Acreage Reserve may not be cropped or grazed for the period of the contract. For this reduction in his wheat acreage, the farmer receives a payment to offset the income he would otherwise have received from the diverted acres.

The Chairman emphasized that placing wheat in the Acreage Reserve will not reduce future wheat acreage allotments.

Farmers who wish to divert land from the production of tillied crops to a conservation use may also designate acreage for inclusion in the Conservation Reserve for periods of up to 10 years, or up to 15 years for tree practices. For this, they may receive two types of payments: An annual payment for "reserving" the land from production, and a payment for the first year of the contract covering a substantial part of the cost of carrying out an approved conservation practice on the land.
