Dec. 5th DeerFest comin' up

"I'm hoping we have a good turnout," said DeerFest president Tom Anderson. DeerFest officers and directors and the many volunteers who work to make the event a success are of course about to shift into high gear in preparation for the 11th annual DeerFest the ATF that DeerFest will be able to on Dec. 5.

This year's grand prize is a Polaris 250 4-wheeler. They expect to have 75 guns to give away along with many additional door prizes, Ander-

Admission tickets are $5 and include a game dinner to be served beginning at 6:30 p.m. Any ranchers whose hunters have extra does they would like to donate are asked to contact Anderson or John L. Henderson. The deer need to be properly tagged,

Anderson learned last week from give away guns this year without the anticipated background check. Winners still have to fill out ATF Form 4473, a process required of anyone who goes into a store and buys a gun, but background checks will not be required at DeerFest before the guns can be released to winners.

Caps and door prize tickets are on sale at local businesses and the chamber of commerce office.

Businesses or individuals wishing to help with the 1998 DeerFest are welcome. There will be a meeting Thursday, Nov. 19, at 5:30 p.m. at the convention center to make further plans for Deerfest.

Officers for 1998 are: Tom Anderson, president; Doug McNeely, first vice-president; Rob Whitesides, second vice-president and Laurie Hale, secretary/treasurer.

Directors are: Jason Moran, Jeff Stuart, Roger Schauttet, Susan Buchanan, Marcus Sims, Ron Cook and John L. Henderson.

Rep. Tony Goolsby, R-Dallas, filed a bill that would require the Department of Public Safety to ensure that residents age 75 or older can control the vehicles they are licensed to drive.

Rep. Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston, filed a bill that would increase classroom teacher and full-time librarian salaries by $6,000, beginning with the 1999-2000 school year.

Rep. Joe Pickett, D-El Paso, filed a bill that would make it a state jail felony to mark with graffiti a public or private school or institution of higher education.

Reps. Henry Cuellar, D-Laredo, and Bill Seibert, R-San Antonio, filed a bill that would make state and county jail inmates reimburse the state for the costs of their jail stay.

Politicos to Get Walking Papers

In a mild allusion to standing Attorney General Dan Morales, Attorney General-elect John Cornyn last week said politics will have no place in his administra-

While Cornyn did not give examples of the office's duties being compromised by politics, he said it has influenced decisions "on whether to defend or not to defend state laws."

Morales defended, however, decisions he has made in office, saying he based them on a choice to have a "strong, independent perspective."

Cornyn told the Austin American-Statesman his "standard for retention" at the attorney general's office is "pretty simple: Number 1, no political hacks, and Number 2, people who are doing their job."

He said the attorney general's office is staffed mostly by people who have been "faithful public servants. ... They're not political people, they're just doing a good job. And as I said, to the extent that they continue to do a good job and they don't play politics, I intend to ask them to stay.

"The only people I think who need to be concerned are the people who have politicized the office."

In other news, Cornyn said his transition team would be led by Larry York, who served as first assistant attorney general from 1973 to 1974 under Democrat John Hill.

Bush Denies Role in GOP Coup Gov. George W. Bush last week said he had nothing to do with the Republican Party's push to replace House Speaker Newt Gingrich.

A rumor aired on national television "credited" Bush with making a call indicating that if he was to lose the presidential election in 2000, he wanted it to be because of him, not because of Gingrich. The call purportedly resulted in swift action by the party to withdraw support for Gingrich.

Karen Hughes, spokeswoman for Bush, said the rumor is ground-

Bush said his wife and twin daughters will figure into his decision whether to run or not, and that his main priorities are child literacy and working with the 1999 Texas Legislature.

Gardening checklist for November

By Lynn Rawe District 6 Extension Program Specialist-Horticulture

1. Place orders for seeds this month so you will have them available when you are ready to plant. By ordering early, you will be more certain of getting the varieties you want.

2. Evergreen plants frequently suffer from lack of moisture during those winter dry periods that occur in West Texas. Adequate soil moisture provides the best protection you can give your lawn and plants against winter cold injury. Lawns need water during the winter in order to reduce damage that can show up in the

3. There is still time to plant pansies, if you have not already done so. If planted soon, they will be in bloom by Christmas or before and will continue to bloom for you through the winter and into spring. Plant pansies in prepared, well-drained beds in a sunny location. Try some of the solid colored pansies in masses, as well as the giant mixed colors.

4. Don't get in a hurry to prune woody plans. Late December through February is usually the best time to prune them. Remember, do not top trees. Severely pruning trees reduces the life of that tree and allows large entry points for diseases and insects.

5. Reduce or stop fertilizing indoor plants now through mid-March. An exception would be plants in an atrium or well-lighted window that are actively growing.

6. Plant pansies, snapdragons, flowering kale and dianthus for color now until spring. Plant transplants and not seed. Select short, stocky plants with good green color.

7. It's time to divide perennial flowers like iris, salvia, canna, chrysanthemums and day lilies. This not only improves the health of the plants, but allows you to expand your garden or share with friends.

8. Clean, repair and oil garden tools and equipment. A coat of linseed oil on wooden handles will help preserve the wood.

9. Drain the gasoline from power tools and run the engine until fuel in the carburetor is used.

10. The winter season is a good time to drain and replace the crankcase oil on power tools. This removes the temptation to use it one more time when you get in a hurry in the spring.

11. Prior to a freeze, drain and store garden hoses and watering equipment. This will prevent splitting and cracking of the equipment.

12. Christmas poinsettias will soon be available. Don't be misled by the scare stories abut the poisonous qualities of these beautiful plants. Plant scientists at the Ohio State University have proven through extensive testing that they are not poisonous. There is always the possibility that some individuals may be allergic to certain plants or that growers use pesticides that may be poisonous.

A tip for the town

By Rita L. Rios

On Saturday, Nov. 14, the Levis and Lace square dancers of Ozona hosted the Westerners' "Yellow Rock" dance. Joining the Ozona group were approximately 30 people from the Permian Basin. There were also many visitors and dancers from San Angelo, Sanderson, Del Rio, Mertzon and other surrounding areas.

The dance began at 7 p.m. with "round" dancing cued by Kathy Oliver from the Permian Basin. "Squares" began forming at 8 p.m. The caller, Nelson Watkins from Kerrville, was accompanied by his wife, Porsha

There were up to eight squares on the floor, four couples per square, with enough for another square watching and visitors, too. "It was neat and beautiful to watch," says Adela Rios. "It was enjoyable for all."

Apart from the dancing, the Westerners raffled off a honey "$" pot and many other prizes as well. Shannon Fleming also livened up the dance with his own version of the line dance to the "Acky Breaky Heart".

Donations were accepted at the door, and yellow rocks with the date were given to each person present as a gift in appreciation for attending the

For many parents, dropping the kids off at their Sunday school classes is a weekend ritual. While such instruction is a good thing, some parents may mistakenly believe that the spiritual education their children receive in Sunday school is sufficient for their needs. Perhaps without even realizing it, they hand off responsibility for their children's spiritual upbringing to those teaching the classes.

How To Disciple Your Own Children

Deuteronomy 6:6-7 challenges parents to remember their God-ordained responsibility for their children's spiritual growth: "These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up."

Though the word tradition has fallen upon hard times in some evangelical circles, it's critical that we distinguish between the traditions of God. Jesus rebuked the Pharisees for elevating their traditions and rules over God's commandments. The Word of God, however, repeatedly exhorts believers to faithfully pass the truth of the gospel to the next genera-

Parents need to assume full responsibility for teaching and training their children in the faith. Sunday school may augment that teaching, but should never replace it. Even if you live in a Christian home in which spiritual matters are discussed frequently, do not assume that your children will just pick it all up by osmosis. Instead, diligently teach them the truth.

Free program on MS for professionals

Healthcare professionals, espesclerosis (MS) at a free program sponplace Dec. 10 from noon to 2 p.m. at Grand Court Assisted Living Center, 6101 Grand Court in San Angelo.

This is one of 238 sites across the nation that will host the 2-hour program. It will start with a videotape of three case studies presented by Nancy J. Holland, RN, EdD, vice president, National MS Society, Clinical Programs, and June Halper, MSN, RN, CS, ANP, executive director, Consortium of Multiple Sclerosis Centers and Gimbel MS Center in New Jersey. Dr. Holland and Ms. Halper have each specialized in MS clinical work for over 20 years. This will be followed by an opportunity for members of the audiences across the country to ask questions of the presenters.

According to Rona Bowerman, Client Programs Coordinator of the National MS Soceity, "We will discuss the new recommendations for the early use of the three drugs that control multiple sclerosis, Avonex, Betaseron and Copaxone, for certain types of MS." These recommendations were made, according to Rona Bowerman, because trial data and clinical experience show that even early MS relapses that appear benign may have permanent consequences which could be avoided or diminished by the use of these drugs early after diagnosis. Because multiple sclerosis is a chronic disease usually diagnosed at the prime of life (20-40 year olds), the program will also focus on the social, psychological and family impact on MS, and its unpredictable symptoms.

MRS. KOHLS FIFTH GRADE ESL CLASS recently completed a unit on Aztec history. The study of the Hispanic culture was honored in October, and the students concluded their studies by creating ancient Aztec Ceremonial masks. The project was done with salt dough that was allowed to air dry as the Aztec did long ago. Problems such as cracking, pieces falling off and shrinkage were problems discussed. Research was done through their texts, National Geographic and the different encyclopedias. Members of the class are: (not in order) Gloria Onate, Gilbert Sanchez, Lupita Victorino, Hemona Patel, Ricky Ortiz, Juan Valdez, Filemon Garza and David Esparza

WEEKLY REPORT

Congressman

Henry Bonilla

23rd District, Texas

Agriculture Producers Get Squeezed on All Fronts

Texas farmers and ranchers, as well as agriculture producers across a good part of America, are struggling to survive from two very destructive, but very different, problems. I am hearing first-hand from South and West Texas about their concerns so Congress can better address this very trying

The first and most immediate problem taunting producers is the drought. The lack of rain hit producers extremely hard. Some producers are teetering on the brink of bankruptcy because crops were scorched to the point that they were not worth anything. Corn, wheat, cotton and many other crops were left withering in dry fields because they were too damaged to sell.

On a completely different front is an equally damaging problem that producers have had to face for far too long now. Foreign-produced commodities are flooding the markets, driving down commodity prices. These commodities are heavily subsidized by these foreign governments, and often these governments make it difficult to sell our products in their countries. Free trade should mean fair trade, but as we have seen, that hasn't always been the case for America's agriculture producers.

American agriculture producers are the best in the world. We have the best in science, technology, equipment and infrastructure. When given the chance to operate on a level playing field, there is no argument that American producers far out-shine their foreign counterparts. We need to press the case against foreign governments that don't play by the rules.

In the United States, we enjoy the world's safest, most plentiful and cheapest food supply. We owe a debt of gratitude to producers in Texas and all across this country for those luxuries. But our producers are not getting a fair shake. They are not getting the economic returns they so deserve - economic returns that open global markets would provide.

Texas producers know that opening foreign markets would help stabilize Longhorn tested the integrity of the prices. We must diversify our trade with foreign markets and lower the risk to our producers. We need to do everything we can to level the playing field for our producers so they can prosper in a fairer world marketplace. We owe them that.

Pipeline adopts stringent safety procedures

A new refined petroleum pipeline that crosses Texas from Houston to El Paso has adopted stringent safety and environmental standards to ensure that the pipeline operates safely, according to company offi-

The Longhorn Pipeline, currently under construction, will link the large oil refineries on the Texas Gulf Coast with El Paso and surrounding West Texas communities. The new pipeline, which has shipped crude oil for more than 40 years, will now transport 72,000 barrels a day of refined petroleum products to West

The pipeline crosses the northeast corner of Crockett County.

"It is in our best interests that we take every precaution to make certain that this is the safest pipeline in the state," said Carter Montgomery, resident of Longhorn Partners, which is building the pipeline. "We are taking exceptional steps to test and enhance the safety of this pipeline. We will be good neighbors."

Among the measures taken was a so-called "Smart Pig" test, which electronically measures wall thickness and other structural conditions. pipeline with a hydrostatic test that pressurizes the line to 125 percent of its maximum operating pressure. The integrity of the entire line was confirmed.

The entire pipeline will be monitored 24 hours a day from a central control room with readings taken every seven seconds. Longhorn has also added remotely operated block valves on both sides of the Edwards Aquifer and at all river crossings, allowing the operator to shut down these sections of the pipeline within seconds. Each valve operates independently so the operator can take the specific course of action that will best protect the environment.

Additionally, Longhorn will in-Aquifer, resulting in operating pres-build the pipeline.

sures over the aquifer being lower than in the past. More pipeline identification signs will be posted along the route in order to decrease the risk of accidental or deliberate damage to the line. Longhorn will visually inspect the entire line once a week, twice as often as the law requires. Longhorn added features and improved measures to ensure the safety of the environment and natural re-

The pipeline is controversial and is opposed by a New Mexico refinery, the City of Austin and others. Navajo Refinery is funding the fight against the pipeline in hopes of stopping its operation. The refinery, which serves the West Texas area, would also like to eliminate any new competition in El Paso and other West Texas markets according to the pipe-

The opponents contend that Longhorn should conduct an extensive federal environmental study to determine if the pipeline is safe to operate. A federal judge in Austin has ruled in their favor, but the case is being appealed.

Longhorn has already conducted extensive testing on the line and has refurbished any sections that needed repair. It was one of these tests that recently caused a fire on the pipeline near Houston; the fire was quickly extinguished.

"This pipeline has operated across sensitive environmental areas for almost half a century. There is no reason to believe it is no longer safe," said Carter Montgomery. "We've taken extensive actions to improve the line's safety measurers. Our tests, which have been reviewed by several federal and state agencies, have shown that it is safe.

"The economic benefits to Texans of operating this pipeline far outweighed any dangers that opponents claim it might cause," Montgomery
