Mr. and Mrs. Garland Freeman Observe 25th Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. GARLAND FREEMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Freeman celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Nov. 25, in their home. Their daughter, Mrs. Rex Sanderson, and Garland's niece, Mrs. Buck Gregory, were hostesses for the occasion.

Miss Laneel Booth presided at the register table, which was decorated with a silver bell with an arrangement of red roses. The guests registered in a lovely white and silver guest book, which contained a picture of the Freemans twenty-five years ago.

The tea table, laid with pink net over pink damask, was centered with a pink and white cake that was decorated with "25th Anniversary". Pink candles and a lovely arrangement of red roses flaked with silver, complimented the table.

THIS WEEK - In Washington

Clinton Davidson

Farm organization leaders in Washington this week began putting their 1957 farm program recommendations in shape for presentation to Congress and the Secretary of Agriculture.

The two big farm organizations have held their annual conventions—the National Grange in Rochester, N.Y., and the Farm Bureau in Miami Beach, Fla.—and agreed that the "farm problem" has not been solved.

The two organizations have a combined membership of over two million farmers. On most of the things directly affecting farmers the two groups are in general agreement. On a few issues they disagree emphatically.

Resolutions and speeches at the two conventions emphasized the general farm feeling that farmers are not getting a high enough price for the things they sell, and that farm operating costs are too high. The result is the cost-price squeeze that leaves farmers with net income down one-third in five years.

Most reports you get from Washington emphasize the points of disagreement—particularly their differences over price supports. The Bureau supports the Administration variable 75%-to-90% program, but the Grange does not. The Grange wants a two-price system—one for commodities consumed in the U.S. and another for export—and the Bureau is opposed to that.

The Bureau argues that in the long run the place of agriculture in the national economy depends upon increasing efficiencies in production and marketing. The Grange agrees, in principle, but says the welfare of small, family-operated farms must be protected against unfair competition by big operators.

Both of the big farm organizations support the soil bank program, in principle. Likewise, both want changes they claim would strengthen it and make it more effective in holding down production of surplus crops until the big $8 billion CCC stockpile is reduced substantially. Neither believes that it should be operated as an "insurance program" against crop failure.

There is very little difference between the two organizations over the need for greater emphasis on research to improve production efficiencies, develop new uses for farm products and expand markets at home and abroad. About $300 million is spent each year for agricultural research, about 1/10 the amount spent on industrial research.

The Grange and Bureau are agreed upon increased emphasis on soil and water conservation—with the government and farmers sharing the cost. Both back temporary use of subsidies for moving surplus farm products into foreign markets at competitive prices with other producing nations.

Production controls and other government programs that restrict the freedom of farmers to manage their farms are regarded by both farm groups as necessary on a temporary basis, but as highly undesirable as a long-range policy. Neither believes that farmers are getting a fair share of the national income, and they differ only as to programs needed to restore "equality of income" with the remainder of the nation.

Further Appeal For Hungarian Relief Is Made

"The Bailey county quota for Red Cross Hungarian relief is only $100," Muri Wilson, county chairman announced this week. "And that amounts to only about two cents per person," he continued, urging local citizens to make their donations either through the fund containers in public places, or by sending their contributions to either of the Muleshoe banks; or to Mrs. Dorothy Barron, or to him.

Wilson also announced that although a canvass has not been made of the contents of the fund containers, at least one sizeable donation has been left at one of the banks.

"The need is great," Wilson said. "And I feel sure our people will respond at this holiday season, when the spirit of giving is so prevalent."

Mrs. A. W. Copley and son, Don, spent Sunday afternoon in Tulsa where Don attended the Plainview District Methodist Youth Council meeting. In the evening Don and mother were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foster and daughter, Betty Jean in Lockney.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.—St. Luke 2, 11.

So proclaimed "to all people" the angel of the Lord on that day those centuries ago—that we today, no matter how grievously we have stumbled and fallen, may know the love of a blessed Saviour and Redeemer, through Whom we may yet be lifted up, by the hand of God.

Dr. Green Shown Explaining Nerve Chart

CLINIC REPORT These People Are Enjoying Renewed Health And Vitality Because of Chiropractic SEVERE PAINS IN LOWER BACK

Case History: Lady; Age 56; Symptoms and Case History: Patients statement: "My lower spine and hip joints hurts me very bad. Occasionally, the pain is so bad, it is unbearable. Also, my leg gets numb and hurts very much hindering me from doing my work."

After an examination in the Chiropractic Clinic where the Co-Called Hopeless DO Get Well! the primary cause of her condition was found. The X-ray pictures of her spine showed misalignments, distortions, and displacements of vertebrae. The nerve test analysis determined the amount of pressure on nerves in her spinal column. She decided to take a series of Chiropractic Health treatments to correct the cause of her disorders.

Ruptured Discs

Case History: Man; age 41, came to the Chiropractic Clinic

after reading an ad describing a condition similar to his. He had been confined with extreme back pain which was aggravated by a spinal tap which in turn started terrific headaches. He was medically diagnosed "ruptured discs" and was told it would take a year or more to recover. In an effort to avoid an expensive and dangerous spinal fusion operation, he consulted us. After an examination, consisting of nerve analysis and spinal X-ray at the clinic, this man began corrective spinal adjustments. His pain was lessened from the first adjustment. His condition continued to correct rapidly until in less than six months he was doing heavier mechanic work than ever before having trouble with his back. He urges everyone to TRY CHIROPRACTIC FIRST to correct the cause of their disease or ailment.

Practical Suggestions For Holiday Outdoor Lighting Decoration Ideas

Christmas lighting outdoors, like spectator sports, is more fun when you know the tricks of the game. To help you make your "Christmas Greetings in Light" more effective and easier for you this year, lighting engineers have some practical suggestions for you.

Before your Christmas lamps can put on their show of brightness and color, they must be supplied with electric current, through wires, plugs, sockets and outlets, fuses, and switches. Wires and accessory items must withstand water and weather. They should be protected from undue wear and damage. And they should be approved types, satisfactory from a safety standpoint.

The recommended way of supplying current to outdoor Christmas lighting is by using a weatherproof plug-in outlet placed outside the house. The practice of running current from indoor receptacles to outdoor lights by running wires through doors and windows, even when the wires are protected by inserted boards and other devices, is never recommended. However, you may use other existing outdoor outlets like porch fixtures, yard lights, entrance lights, and post lanterns.

Flexible extension cords used to convey current from a receptacle to a group of lights, or other lighting devices, should be types suitable for use outdoors in wet locations and should be large enough to carry the load without overheating. Plugs, current-taps, and other attachments should also be weather resistant.

By all means be sure to inspect all cords, as well as other holiday lighting equipment, before each season's use. Repair or replace if damaged.

When possible, use waterproof portable cord sets having weatherproof plugs and connectors. If you are in doubt, you can protect the plug and connector

LIGHTED PACKAGES ON YOUR DOORSTEP. Looking for a new idea for your doorway decoration this Christmas? Here's one that will delight the whole family because they'll have an opportunity to watch how it's put together. Drape evergreen festooning, entwined with colored bulbs in graceful loops above the door. Hang long sprays of greens topped with bright plastic bows at each side of the door. Buy or make a huge red and white plaid stocking and stuff with newspaper which has been rolled into hard balls. Fill the top of the stocking with inexpensive toys. Place two huge packages at one side of the entrance step. Here's a tip from General Electric holiday lighting specialists for an easy way to make these effective lighted packages. Use the end of an orange crate for the base. Fasten a porcelain socket in the center and insert a 60 or 100-watt bulb, depending on the size of the package. Now fashion a wire frame to the wooden base to form a box-like structure. Cover with plastic shower curtain-type material, available in yard goods departments, and trim with plastic "ribbon" in a contrasting color. For additional highlights on the door, hide a 150-watt spotlight behind the larger package and aim it at the Christmas stocking.

Grace Period For Filing S. S. Queries

Persons who may become entitled to old-age or survivors insurance payments during the months just ahead, because of recent change in the social security law, namely, women aged 62, disabled workers who have reached age 50, and children who were disabled before age 18, will not lose any payments if they delay filing a claim for benefits. Mr. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock Social Security Office, declared today. Payments to a woman who has reached age 62 can begin with which will be due the end of that month. However, women age 62 to 65, do not need to apply for the payments immediately. "Even if they wait a full year before filing a claim at the social security office—that is, not until November 1957—they can still get any back payments they are entitled to," Hutton assures them.

A disabled working person who has reached age 50 can't start to get monthly benefit payments until July 1957. Even if he does not file a claim until the end of December 1957, he will get back payments for all months beginning with next July. In the case of a child who became disabled before reaching 18, the first payments are for January 1958, back payments for the 12 months can be made.

Hutton said that many people who have read about or have been told about the recent changes in the social security law feel that they stand to lose some benefit payments to which they may be entitled if they do not get to the social security office right away. He wants to assure them that this is not the case. "Remember," he says, "women age 62 have a full year after reaching that age to file an application without losing a single month's payment; a worker disabled before 50 has until the end of 1957 to file without losing any month's payment to which he may become entitled after next June, and an application for a child who became disabled before 18 can be made at any time before the end of January 1958 and back payments will be made for all 12 months of 1957.

Funeral Services for Mrs. Belle Terrell, Aunt of Carl Pollard and Mrs. Marvin Holt were held at the First Baptist Church of Morton Singelton Funeral Home of Morton was in charge.

Rev. Robinson and Rev. A. R. Coleman conducted the services. Interment was in Morton Cemetery.

Hutton has a word of caution in the case of the disabled worker, however. While he has until the end of next year to make his claim without losing any payments, it may be advisable for him to get in touch with the social security office before that time. While delay would not affect his own benefit payments, it might mean lower benefit payments to his survivors in case of his death before he makes application to establish his disability.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Muleshoe on December 20, 1956 at 10:00 a.m. at the Court Room, Courthouse, and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to Social Security.

The exciting Ford Fairlane 500 Club Victoria (above)—over 17 feet long—is one of two new, bigger Ford sizes this year.

wait till you drive it!

...For there's where Ford's newness really pays off
...in melting mountains...in smoothing the bumps
...in straightening the curves

You can see that Ford's longer, lower Sculptured Look makes other cars look downright old-fashioned. But the part you can't see—the new "Inner Ford"—is what shows its stuff when you drive a Ford. It's revolutionary from the wheels up! And it feels it.

Ford's wider frame lets you sit sweet and low. And Ford's new front suspension, rear springs and new easy handling are part of the scheme to make you think every road is cloud-smooth.

The magic touch of the new Ford power plants makes mountains disappear. What looks like uphill feels like downhill. You get this surging power in a wide choice of Silver Anniversary V-8 engines. Or choose Ford's Mileage Maker Six, the most powerful Six in the low-price field.

There's magic in Ford's price tag, too! You won't believe this big new Ford is still priced Ford-low. But it is. Come in and test its magic. It's a real "W-o-o-d of Ah-h-h-h's!"

A LETTER TO SANTA
(Note: This letter was first published in the San Antonio Express during the Christmas season of 1952. The writer was Miss Lois Weekes, then Society Editor, and now an office housewife. It was a universal appeal and is especially fitting in these days when we sometimes tend to forget the real meaning of Christmas.)

Dear Mr. Claus:
I hope you will remember Santa. It's been a long time, but I'd like to blow the dust off your name in my files!

The last time I wrote you, I called Bicycle with a "k"—and you've been singing "Jingle Bells" for several seasons now. My stocking size and Christmas lists have changed considerably—and I recognize the value of a little mistletoe in decor.

It isn't that I've underestimated you through the years, Mr. C., but I've forgotten our relationship. I've been giving your letters to my mother to mail and it worked beautifully since the Christmas Eve. There is still room for the manger and the sleighbells in this age of automobiles and atoms. So don't ever go mechanized, Mr. Claus.

Sincerely yours,

belong to you. Annually, you crowd out the day-by-day boys who fade from year to year.

Although this is more a delayed "thank you" for the other Christmases than a suggested shopping list, there are a few things I'd like when you rein in the reindeer at my house this year.

Could you put the light from the children's faces, pressed against countless frosted window panes, into the hearts of the world? Could you transplant a little of the feeling of holly, the glistening of tinsel, the angels atop the Christmas trees, the off-key Noels and the hushed hymns, to those who are spending their first Christmas away from all that? And especially, to those who never noticed it before.

Could you remind us all that it is a birthday we are celebrating. Not just an expense respite from the rest of the year? Could you put in our Christmas cards and our packages, the messages and the warmth we really mean instead of the shopworn sentiment and the same old gifts?

Most of all, Mr. Claus, could you make sure that we'll never outgrow you—that Christmas will always be a way of life and that you'll be staging it always?

I think you will because, though you've seen central heating replace the chimney you've learned that America's front door is left unlocked each Christmas Eve. There is still room for the manger and the sleighbells in this age of automobiles and atoms. So don't ever go mechanized, Mr. Claus.

Sincerely yours,
LOIS WEEKES

Walter Hennig, Jr., 16, of Victoria and Jack Hewlett, 17, of Cleburne, two Texas 4-H'ers, were chosen as state winners in their projects.

Walter Hennig, Jr. and Jack Hewlett, 4-H Entomology winners.

Walter studied entomology for four years and his rewards are many. While identifying and arranging his specimens, he classified them as harmful, non-harmful, beneficial, chewing, and sucking.

This year Walter assisted his 4-H Club leaders, D. B. McComb and Frank Prochaska.

For best performance in the 4-H Boys' Agricultural program, Jack won a $150 bond given by International Harvester, which has supported 4-H work for more than 35 years.

In addition to gaining a broad knowledge of agricultural practices, Jack instilled in others a pride and respect for agriculture. During seven years in 4-H, he completed several projects including swine, beef, garden, poultry, dairy, cotton, oats and corn. As a result he earned a considerable amount of money.

Jack made 34 exhibits, winning a number of ribbons, awards, and prizes. He was president and junior leader of his local 4-H Club, whose adult leaders are John B. Manning, and J. C. Flynt.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

JET CRASHES — PILOT "BLOWS" TO SAFETY — An Air Force jet suffered a flame-out while approaching the Los Angeles International Airport near Inglewood, Calif. The pilot managed to put the plane between two houses and then "blew" himself from the cockpit by means of the release mechanism usually used for emergency bailouts. He ran to safety only seconds before the plane's jet fuel tank exploded and set fire to the homes. No one was reported injured.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

As harvest approaches completion it is evident there are several thousand acres of cotton land which has very poor cover little cloddiness and very little roughness; and of course, these are the only means by which soils may be kept from being damaged by wind erosion.

There are different circumstances of these conditions you may try to prevent your land from being damaged by wind.

If you have a heavy soil (High in clay) you may find chiseling will give you good results and in many instances you will also find cloddiness and the roughness obtained with chisels to be effective against present wind damage. Even on Sandy Soils which have been deep plowed to develop a higher clay content on the surface may be chiseled with relatively good results.

Of course the soil that gives most trouble from the standpoint of wind damage is the course textured soils (sandy soils). The most effective method of controlling soil movement of these Sandy Soils is to maintain a good cover. This cover might be a growing cover of small grain, winter legume or a dead cover of Sorghum stubble, Sudan stubble, Millet stubble or some other type of high residue producing crop residue.

On some occasions you may have insufficient cover to prevent the soil moving and you may wish to employ two principles of wind erosion control; poor cover may be supplemented by chiseling or listing.

The only place where cloddiness could be used very effectively on Sandy Soils is when the Sandy layers are underlain by a heavy subsoil. By deep plowing stubble clods may be brought to the surface which will be more resistant to the action of high winds.

However, you need to be aware of some of the other effects of deep plowing and be prepared to meet these effects with necessary actions to maintain high production and to prevent water erosion caused by slower water intake.

You are urged to consider these principles of wind erosion control if your land is blowing. If you are in doubt your local Soil Conservation Service Technicians will be happy to advise you on the different procedures which may prove to be most effective on your farm.

FARMER-COUNTY Farm Bureau News

By RAYMOND EJLER

Historically, farmers and farm organizations have taken the lead in securing anti-trust laws to regulate the monopoly power of big business. We think it is quite obvious to all farmers now that we should work aggressively to apply similar regulations to the giant labor monopolies that have secured control of many vital industries affecting the net income of farm people. It is in the light of this situation that we quote the following of one labor leader who has been working with some splinter dairy groups: "The only thing in this world that the farmer has is his labor. He has relatively little

Hi Plains Farmers Add 710 Miles of Underground Pipe

Irrigation farmers in the High Plains area of Texas, from September 1, 1955 to September 1, 1956, added 710 miles of underground concrete pipe to their irrigation facilities. This makes a total of 2,532 miles of pipe now in use says George L. Black, Jr., associate agent in irrigation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with headquarters at Lubbock.

Black reports that the first installation was made in 1948 and that last year's additions amounted to 28 per cent of the nine year total. "It is a demonstration which shows that farmers are doing something on their own to conserve and get the most efficient use from the wa-capital invested." Any man who should pretend to speak in the interest of a farmer should have more knowledge and common sense than to make a statement like that.

Your president, Gilbert Kaitwasser has written a letter supporting the idea that conservation practice payments should be the last thing to be cut for agricultural people. He stated that the land must be handed down to generation after generation, regardless of the income a forefather may have made on it. The cut in payments for underground irrigation pipe is the immediate subject of interest.

Mexican National agricultural help is growing harder to get than in the past. This has resulted from many factors, some of them from organized labor's insistence that they not be employed at less than the local payment for resident labor, and partly from abuse of the privilege of using them. It is, nevertheless, important that you make application soon for the number of nationals you think you may need next year, if you expect to be able to get them.

This information was given to the directors last Monday night by J. T. Jones who had been looking into the situation. Kaitwasser appointed Jones and Harry Hamilton to make further efforts to expedite availability of farm hands in the future.

We hope you have paid attention to the coverage given the Miami Convention of American Farm Bureau this week.

Small Appliances Make Nice Gifts,

Small electric appliances, such as fryers, mixers, waffle irons and coffee makers, make useful, interesting gifts. Extension home management specialist points out that such gifts are appreciated the year round by homemakers.

Before you buy, however, make sure the person you have in mind really has good use for such a gift. Next, consider storage space. Only when such pieces of equipment can be placed on counters, movable tables, or open shelves will they get frequent use.

Make certain every piece of equipment you buy has the Underwriters' Laboratories seal of approval. Remember that electrical housewares give best performance when plugged into convenient outlets connected to circuits not already loaded to capacity with other equipment or lights. Many with heating elements pull 1200 to 1500 watts in full operation. This means that only the homemaker whose home has adequate wiring in the kitchen and dining areas will get full use of such equipment.

BAND ALTERNATE
David Mathis of Muleshoe has been chosen as an alternate All-State Band Representative from Region I. He was chosen at the annual Texas Tech Band and Choral Clinic.

The All-State high school band will meet in Dallas Feb. 13-16.

SUNDAY GUESTS
Guests in the B. H. Bickel home Sunday included Stanley Bickel of Muleshoe, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Patton of Morton, Mrs. Peyton Dunham and children of Muleshoe, and Mr. and Mrs. Millard Moore, of Amarillo.

The cost of installing an underground irrigation system is high, points out Black, but since its lasting qualities are very good, the savings made in water, labor and better water distribution make it a paying proposition.

Quite often I'm teased about my home town, because I'm so proud of it. They call it Mule-shoe; Donkey Bootle; Jenny Slipper; and some call it Mule-shoe.
Muleshoe truly has one unique feature—it's name. Once a person hears it, they don't forget it.
So, dear Santa, if I have been a good little girl, please let me have a trip home—back to dear old MULESHOE, TEXAS, where I can be with my parents and friends and let them know how much I've missed them every one.

SOLUTION: fit SAVINGS into family financing

It's wise to plan your family financing with an eye to saving a specific sum every payday. Families who "pay themselves first" find that funds are readily available in times of emergency... or when some special luxury is wanted. Resolve now to revise your budget and place savings at the head of the list. Then bring those savings here where they earn liberal dividends twice each year... are safe and ready when needed.

Sprinklered Warehouses

In the past few years this company has built sprinklered warehouses to serve this area with more than 55,000 bale capacity storage.

These warehouses, approved by the commodity credit corporation, offer the farmer the best and most efficient cotton storage facilities.

Such warehouses reduce holding costs until such time as the owner may sell the cotton or place it under the government loan program.

The savings in insurance costs, paid by the farmer, as a result of these modern facilities will average in excess of $5.00 per bale.

THIS WEEK -In Washington

Clinton Davidson

The professional crystal-ball gazers, some 200 of them, have now taken a close-range look at 1957 and arrived at a sort of Farmers' Almanac forecast on prices and income for the year ahead.

The consensus of the experts at the annual Agricultural Outlook Conference of farm economists from all over the country is that 1957 will be very little different from 1956 for most farmers.

This is the 34th year that the Outlook Conference has been held, and the record of accuracy of predictions has been amazingly good.

Odds are 10 to 1 that the 1957 forecast will prove to be very close to accurate.

Predictions for next year are qualified by the assumption that there will be no big shooting war, that business activity and employment will be at a high level, and that crop weather will be somewhere near normal.

With those things in mind, here are some of the most reliable predictions for 1957 that we know about:

Some improvement in the general level of farm product prices is likely in 1957. The increase over this year may be about 2%, when averaged out among all commodities.

Farm income from the sale of products will be slightly below 1956 because of more acres that will be put in the soil bank, but government payments will more than make up that loss.

Farm operating costs—the goods and services farmers buy, including taxes and interest—will average somewhat higher in 1957 than in 1956.

Livestock production will decline slightly from the 1956 record high. Hog slaughter will be down and prices will be higher. Beef cattle, sheep & lambs will average slightly higher.

Cash receipts from the sale of milk will rise to another new record in 1957. Prices will remain near present levels, allowing for seasonal variations, and production will be up slightly.

following from Isaiah (55:8-11): "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but I shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following will be read (507:24-25): "Infinite Mind creates and governs all from the mental molecule to infinity."

Scriptural readings include the following:

Production of eggs, broilers and turkeys is likely to exceed record 1956 levels.

With the possible exception of broilers, prices for these commodities will average a little lower next year.

Prices for vegetable oils, mainly soybean and cottonseed, probably will average higher than a year earlier.

Feed grain prices will average higher than a year earlier through next spring, although total supplies will be about as large as for this year.

Increased exports will reduce the total supply of wheat, but prices next summer may be little different from this year. The total supply will continue in excess of demand.

With market supplies of fruits generally smaller this fall, grower prices probably will continue above a year earlier.

Most fresh vegetables will continue in more plentiful supply than a year earlier and prices will be slightly lower.

There'll be no big increase next spring in potato prices, because Florida and California growers plan to plant 1/3rd more acres for harvest in early 1957 than a year earlier.

Exports of farm products, up 17% in volume this year over last, will continue increasing in 1957, but the percentage gain may be smaller.

Babson Discusses DOCTORS, DENTISTS AND LAWYERS

Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 13 After returning from Florida this spring, I felt I would like some new reading glasses and called up an optometrist. I was told that I could not get an appointment for a month. After waiting a month for an appointment, and then eventually finding a parking space, I had a half hour with him. Thereupon he gave me a prescription for the glasses, which caused me to go to the next village and hunt again for another parking space. Certainly the time is coming when one call will complete such a transaction. Furthermore, there is no more reason why we should have to make an appointment in advance to have our eyes tested than to get a shampoo.

ADVANCE APPOINTMENTS UNNECESSARY

During the summer I had trouble with one of my ears. I again was required to wait a week for an appointment. Although the ear doctor felt that the trouble was perhaps due to low blood pressure, he would not take my blood pressure but sent me instead to a local doctor. Again I had to wait a week for an appointment to have my blood pressure taken. I finally was advised to buy a hearing aid of some kind.

I am able to get a manicure without an appointment, but to have a corn cut I must get an advance appointment, and perhaps wait several days! The whole performance seems irrational to me. Doctors are now setting up offices in the same building, but this will not solve my problem. I want to be able to find all these simple personal services in one building, and some day I will be able to do it. And, furthermore, without advance appointment!

EXPERIENCE WITH DENTISTS

For many years I have believed in the importance of having one's teeth cleaned every month, but this could not be done without an advance appointment. When talking to my associate workers of the importance of preventing decay by monthly cleaning, I found they were troubled by the same advance appointment difficulties. Thereupon, I decided to have a dental nurse in my own building to do this work, unattached to any dentist. To my great surprise I found this was against the law and I was obliged to go to the Massachusetts Legislature to get a special act to permit it. Yet we are allowed to teach our servants or members of our family to inoculate us with insulin.

Recently I bought a new home through a local real estate agent. Within a few days I had telephone calls from other agents stating that they could get the property for less money. It would seem that in a town the size of Wellesley there could be some central clearing house where all houses for sale could be listed. The difficulty seems to be that people dare not list the house, or even consult two or three agencies, for fear of getting into a conflict as to who should have the commission.

THE LEGAL GRAFT

In the little town of New Boston, N. H., there is no bank or lawyer, but a very intelligent woman has been helping local people in various ways, including providing forms for very simple wills. She has recently been notified by the attorney of the N. H. Lawyers Association that she will be prosecuted if she continues this. I personally went to see this attorney to plead for her and she said that the law applies not only to her but also to banks, real estate agents, brokers, and all others. I later found that my own local bank, who advertises for Trust Funds, must send you a lawyer to make the Trust for you to use.

As a result of these experiences, I forecast that simple professional and other special services will some day be obtainable at one central ground-floor "store" under the charge of competent nurses or other trained persons. Certain simple services which we can now get only from doctors, lawyers, optometrists, opticians, real estate agents we will then be able to secure without making an advance appointment, and at fees of less than one dollar. When the nurse or her assistant locates any dangerous symptoms, the "customer" will be urged to visit a doctor, dentist, lawyer, or other professional official at once and will make an appointment therefor. In the end, the public and all the professions will benefit from such a procedure.

Advantages of Natural Grasses Are Explained By Soil Conservation

Editor's Note: With the advent of the soil bank and the newest trend to soil improvement, the following article, prepared by the Muleshoe office of the Soil Conservation Service, is particularly timely. The ASC will pay for putting land into grasses, and this article gives some pertinent information for any landowner considering such a plan.

"All flesh is grass" cannot be disputed, for man and his animals subsist largely upon plants of the grass family. The grains of barley, corn, oats, millet, rice and wheat furnish the staple foods of mankind, and grasses are the most important forage for livestock for two reasons. They predominate over large areas as native vegetation and they are highly palatable and nutritious. Barlett, in 1954, glowingly described the present-day lands of Texas and the adjoining territory. But soon after the coming of the railroad, in 1883, these lands were overrun with livestock, and within a few years extensive grass stands yielded to mesquite bush and prickly pear. Drought the past six years also has taken its toll of native grass stands. Now in 1956, these native grasses (Bailey County has 182,000 acres of the 285 million acres of the Short-Grass Plains) are estimated by the Forest Service to be reduced in carrying capacity by 52 per cent from its virgin condition.

Grazing animals, when permitted to go about freely on the range, feed cafeteria style. They selected the plants that smell and taste best and may shift from one plant group to another as the season advances. These are the reasons that our best plants under heavy grazing disappear and less desirable plants appear in. Good range management must come into the picture in order to improve our depleted ranges and protect them. The grasses pictured above are found on sandy land and mixed land sites. Each grass is described below and if they are grazed moderately to leave half of their annual growth, they will produce the greatest pounds of calf per acre far above the less desirable grasses such as threeawn, sand dropseed, and red lovegrass.

Sand Bluestem is a native, warm-season, perennial, tall grass that spreads by seed and elongated creeping scaly rhizomes. It is fine tall-growing grass produces seed in August to October on seed stems three to eight feet tall. It grows best on loam to sandy soils. It is one of the most important grasses on sand land ranges, and is relished by all classes of livestock.

Little Bluestem is a native, warm-season, perennial midgrass with a dense root system that may reach five to eight feet in depth. This lush grass spreads by seed, tillers, and short underground root stocks. Growth begins in early April with seed stalks two to five feet tall appearing from late August to October. This native grass provides nutritious grazing during the growing season and has been used for hay since the first days of settlement. It grows well on deep, shallow, fine-textured, sandy and rocky soils.

Indiangrass is a native, warm-season, perennial, tall grass which reproduces from seed and short scaly underground stems. The beautiful, golden, plume-like seed heads are on stems from four to eight feet tall. It is very nutritious and readily eaten by all classes of livestock. It is found on bottom land, sandy land, and mixed lands sites.

Switchgrass is a native, warm-season, perennial, sod-forming tall grass with vigorous roots which reproduces from underground stems and seed. Switchgrass has rather large seed with a sprangled-type seed head, on stalks three to six feet tall. It is very nutritious and readily eaten by all classes of livestock. Switchgrass is best adapted to lower areas of moist soil, but is winter-hardy and drought-resistant, thus found growing under a wide range of soils and climatic conditions.

Sideoats Gramma is a native, warm-season, perennial midgrass with short, scaly, underground stems. Growth begins in early April and the seed stalks which appear from July to September are from 18 to 36 inches in height. Sideoats is the most widely distributed of the grama grasses and is found throughout the United States east of the Rocky Mountains. It is found on all range sites. This grass produces high-quality, nutritious, green forage that is readily eaten by all classes of livestock.

Blue Grama is a native, warm-season, perennial short grass with narrow leaves three to six inches long that form a curly mass of bunchy sod. Seed stalks vary from ten to twenty inches high. This short grass is the most important grama and is found growing throughout the Great Plains. It will stand extreme drought, reviving and making rapid growth when favorable conditions return. Like buffalograss, its weak point is its low forage productivity.
