HARPER - Austin Sudreth didn't hesitate when he saw the football fall from the Harper Longhorn player's hands and onto the field.

Sudreth grabbed the pigskin and sprinted 61 yards to seal the Ozona Lions 28-20 victory over Harper Friday night. The win puts the Lions in the playoffs for the first time since 2006.

Ozona finished second in district behind Sonora, but ahead of San Saba.

"We came out and played well early, just plagued by too many penalties to put Harper away in the first half," said Coach Ray Brown.

Ozona will face the Three Rivers Bulldogs Friday for the Bi-District Championship in Boerne. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Ozona will be visiting team. Admission is $6 for adults, $4 for students.

Three Rivers is 6-3 overall and 4-2 in district play. The Bulldogs two losses in

Commissioners approve burn ban

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Crockett County is once again under a burn ban.

During their regular meeting Monday, the Crockett County Commissioners' Court approved a 30-day burn ban.

Over the past two weeks, the Ozona Volunteer Fire Department has responded to several grass fires.

The most recent fires were Nov. 6 off of U.S. Highway 190.

"I wish I knew the cause of them all. They are beginning to get a little suspicious," said Fire Chief Bob Falkner. "All of them have been started off the side of the road. It was a little bit suspicious on Saturday (Nov. 6) to have fires out on that highway."

A burn ban does not prohibit outdoor burning activities related to public health and safety that are authorized by the Texas Natural Resources Commission, such as firefighter training, public utility, natural gas pipeline or mining operations, planting or harvesting or agricultural crops or burns that are conducted by an approved Prescribed Burning Association, Natural Resource Conservation Service, the Texas A&M Agricultural Experiment

Canseco ready to represent district

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Throughout the heated campaign, Francisco "Quico" Canseco ran an efficient, focused campaign with a simple message: The federal government is too big.

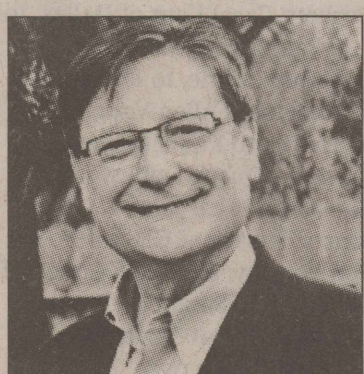

The now Republican Congressman-elect knocked off U.S. District 23 Rep. Ciro Rodriguez, D-San Antonio, last week in the Nov. 3 General Election.

Canseco, 61, said in a telephone interview last week that he is ready to represent a district that stretches from El Paso to San Antonio, including Crockett County.

"You've got to be able to not just disseminate a clear and conscience message, but you have to be able to know who your voters are and who's with you," he said. "I had a very good organization in every county and most of the precincts in order to help us with that effort."

That "clear and conscience" message was mainly pointed at Rodriguez's voting

Legislature should give thumbs up to texting while driving ban

San Antonio has now joined Austin and El Paso as the only major cities in Texas to enact a ban on texting while driving. It was a smart move to address a growing problem in our cell-phone society, but a patchwork of local rules isn't enough.

In the next session of the Legislature I intend to carry a bill that imposes a statewide ban on texting while driving.

Some two-dozen other states have passed such a law, and it's time for Texas to join them.

According to U.S. Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood, some 5,500 traffic deaths nationwide last year were caused by distracted driving, which includes texting.

And as we all know, our phones offer other distractions as well — You Tube, Internet surfing, Facebook, email and more.

STATE SENATOR'S OP ED

CARLOS I. URESTI

When a driver's attention strays from the road ahead, it only takes a moment for tragedy to strike.

In fact, studies have shown that texting while driving is comparable to driving while intoxicated.

With all of the resources we've aligned against DUI and the mayhem it causes on our streets and highways, why should drivers be allowed to engage in a practice that's just as dangerous? The simple answer is, 'we shouldn't.'

Surveys show that people are already aware of the danger presented by texting while driving, but many do it anyway.

It's not a matter of public education, but one of strict enforcement. It worked that way with seat belt usage, which nationally is up to 85 percent, and it can work with texting as well.

Cell phone technology is truly amazing. It allows virtually unlimited communication and recreational opportunities away from the confines of the office and home.

But not when we're in the driver's seat.

San Antonio should be commended for taking this step, but let's not forget that nearby Universal City beat us to the punch.

Police there began enforcing its anti-texting ordinance four days before the San Antonio City Council took its vote last Thursday.

It wasn't a hard decision for either council.

"How can you possibly text and have a hand on the wheel when you're driving?" Universal City Mayor John Williams told the San Antonio Express-News. "I'm very proud of the council for making the decision. I haven't heard a single complaint."

It's never that easy in the Texas Legislature, but I anticipate widespread support for such a common-sense approach to traffic safety.

I believe most of my colleagues will agree it's time for a state law that will encourage Texas drivers to keep their eyes on the road and their thumbs on the wheel.

SENATOR URESTI represents Senate District 19, which includes Crockett County. It is the largest legislative district in the nation, spanning 23 Texas counties.

Honoring our veterans

Day is done, gone the sun, From the lake, from the hills, from the sky; All is well, safely rest, God is nigh. Fading light, dims the sight, And a star gems the sky, gleaming bright. From afar, drawing nigh, falls the night. Thanks and praise, for our days, 'Neath the sun, 'neath the stars, 'neath the sky; As we go, this we know, God is nigh. Sun has set, shadows come, Time has fled, Scouts must go to their beds Always true to the promise that they made. While the light fades from sight, And the stars gleaming rays softly send, To thy hands we our souls, Lord, commend.

WHAT'S ON MY MIND

in harm's way on a daily basis, occasionally, tragically even on domestic bases, which is exactly why we should dutifully and frequently pause to reflect not just on their contributions and sacrifices, but also on the physical and emotional toll their service can exact in combat stress and repeat deployments.

These men and women chose to leave the comfort and safety of their hometown to go off and fight in order that we all may remain safe.

Since 1919, Americans have gathered on Nov. 11 to honor those who have fought for our country, including ones who defending freedom on American grounds.

The purpose of Veterans Day is a celebration to honor America's veterans for their patriotism, love of country and willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good.

Whether you support the U.S. presence in Iraq and Afghanistan or you vehemently oppose the reasons we are over there, supporting American troops should be a patriotic duty.

We may not understand why events like Pearl Harbor, Sept. 11 and the 2009 Fort Hood shooting happen. We may not agree with fighting in wars like Vietnam and the War in Iraq.

We may not be able to see both sides of what all is going on, but one thing we can do is thank the men and women who dedicated, and those who are still dedicating, their lives so that we may all have the freedom to watch our football team on Friday nights.

God Bless You and God Bless America.

MELISSA PERNER is the editor and publisher of The Ozona Stockman. Remember Veterans Day.

As a cattleman I hate to admit this but I like pigs. There, I've said it. So sue me.

In fact, I like almost everything about pigs, from how smart they are to how good their pork chops taste. But there is one thing I don't like about pigs: they stink.

During my college career, when the kids would go home for Christmas break, I worked at the swine unit where the unique fragrance worked its way into every cell of my body and every thread of my clothing, which made it kind of hard to meet coeds. I had to burn my clothes just to attend classes when school started up again.

I've never used smelly colognes. In fact, I still have 20 bottles of Old Spice Cologne and toilet water that a favorite aunt gave me for Christmas every year. She gave me an Old Spice gift set that contained deodorant, cologne and a beaker of toilet water. The last thing I'm going to wipe on my mug is water from the toilet and me, being a cattleman, I don't need cologne because as we all know, cattle and cowboys don't smell. I hardly even needed the deodorant. I take that back, cattlemen smell but we smell good. Why else would there be a Stetson cologne if other people weren't trying to smell like cows and cowboys? Cattle smell so good that I'll often roll down my car window if I'm driving past a feedlot because, as we all know, there's nothing quite like the smell of wet cow chips after a rain.

One Christmas break I buddied around with a friend who worked at the sheep unit.

IT'S THE PITTS

LEE PITTS

Now, sheep also have their own unique aroma also but I've found that if you stay away from sheep for a year or two, or smoke cigars, the sheep smell will eventually be overcome with other scents. We got into a debate over which one of us smelled worse, placed a wager and decided to have an expert determine who reeked the worst.

Who better to judge than one of the pretty women in the department store downtown who manned the fragrance booths? We drove to the store with me in the back of the sheepherder's truck because he didn't want my piggy smell getting into his air conditioning ducts. We waltzed through the store in our knee high rubber boots like a couple of drunk boars and, using my body smell as a weapon, I cleared out the holiday crowds in our path. As we approached the stools at a cologne counter several women customers were kind enough to hastily vacate their chairs. We explained to the lady behind the counter, at least I think it was a lady, that we wanted her expert opinion as to which one of us smelled worse and if there was anything she could do to make us more attractive to the opposite sex? I explained that, as hard as this was to believe, some women didn't find me all that attractive. And I blamed the pigs.

She held her nose with one hand and spritzed us, but I didn't need a spritzing, I needed a dipping! She tried a variety of man perfumes like English Leather, Aramis and one called Polo but switching from the smell of a pig to that of a horse wasn't much improvement, so she poured a container of Musk on my arms. Great, now I was going to smell like a water buffalo! I may have even received a touch of Passion, Fantasy, and Tabu, which I believe are women's perfumes. It all created the worst stench I've ever smelled, not bad really. But even all that couldn't get rid of the cologne de Duroc. For some reason the employees didn't want us to linger and we were asked to leave without a clear cut winner being decided.

It was on our way out of the mall that we made a startling discovery. My advice to any student faced with trying to find a wife or husband while working with swine or sheep is to pass on the $50 bottles of perfume and treat yourself to a mall cinnamon bun. Even better than an automobile air freshener tied to your belt or spritzing yourself with a can of Glade every morning, I found that the smell of cinnamon buns attracts women like buzzards to a carcass. (Not a great analogy, but you get the idea.)

Republicans enjoy swath of victories on Election Day

AUSTIN — Republican candidates in the Nov. 2 election picked up 21 seats in the Texas House of Representatives and voters "rehired" incumbent Gov. Rick Perry for a third consecutive four-year term.

Perry outpaced former Houston Mayor Bill White, a Democrat, with a 13-point margin of victory, claiming 55 percent of the nearly 5 million ballots cast to White's 42 percent.

Now, the GOP claims 99 seats in the 150-seat Texas House to the Democrats' 51. No incumbent Republican House member lost their seat. Here is the list of incumbent Democrats who lost theirs to Republican challengers, as follows:

Stephen Frost of New Boston, to George Lavender; Mark Homer of Paris, to Erwin Cain; Jim McReynolds of Lufkin, to James White; Solomon Ortiz Jr. of Corpus Christi, to Raul Torres; Abel Herrero of Robstown, to Connie Scott; Yvonne Gonzalez-Tourelles of Alice, to Jose Aliseda; Patrick Rose of Dripping Springs, to Jason Isaac; Valinda Bolton of Austin, to Paul Workman; Donna

In the 31-seat Texas Senate, the GOP's edge over Democrats in the Senate remains at 19-12. No incumbent lost to a challenger, and Democrat Jose R. Rodriguez of El Paso won the Senate District 29 race to succeed a retiring Democrat, Sen. Eliot Shapleigh.

SPEAKER RECEIVES ENOUGH PLEDGES

State Rep. Joe Straus, R-San Antonio, who was first elected speaker of the Texas House in January 2009, has been collecting pledges in support of his candidacy to serve a second term as speaker. So far, he said, he's received pledges from all but about 20 members.

ELEVENTH DAY, ELEVENTH HOUR, ELEVENTH MONTH

The fighting finally stopped when an armistice went into affect between the Allied Nations and Germany on the 11 day, 11 hour, 11 month, in 1928. The next year President Wilson designated November 11 as a day to remember our victory and to honor those who gave their lives and served in the armed forces. At first it was celebrated as Armistice Day but later became known as Veterans Day. It has been celebrated with parades, public meetings, speeches and a brief suspension of business. Flags are flown on all government buildings and homes, churches and schools are encouraged to display our National Flag. These events start at 11 a.m. This Thursday let us honor those that have served and are serving so bravely. I am also reminded of those who were called and have served God to take the message or Gospel of Jesus Christ in to all the world, (Romans 1:9). We will never know them until we get to Heaven and yes, there are many unmarked graves, (Acts 7:59-8:2). Not only have others served God in times past but there are those who are serving today. We may not know who they are but rest assured God knows and His eyes are upon them, (Colossians 3:23&24). I am also reminded of Jesus Christ who gave His life for us that we could be free from the penalty of sin, (John 3:16, Romans 6:22&23). See you in Church next Sunday. Brother J roll it back. We need to make sure we keep more of our hard-earned dollars."

Born in Laredo, Canseco and his family moved to San Antonio in 2006. This race was the banker-attorney's third attempt at a congressional seat. In his previous two bids, he failed to win the Republican nomination both times.

In 2008, he spent nearly a million dollars of his own money but lost the Republican primary to then-County Commissioner Lyle Larson.

"I had never run in a General Election. The first time I ran (in 2004) I was a political novice," he said. "Even though I didn't win, I stayed very politically active. I jumped into the same race in 2008 and didn't make through the primary, but I did such a good job during that race, it raised some good attention."

Canseco built a solid early-voting lead in Bexar County, which makes up two-thirds of the district's electorate, with Rodriguez, 63, making a small dent in that margin as Election Day results rolled in. In Crockett County, Canseco won with 570 votes to Rodriguez's 300. Five months ago, Canseco campaign manager Scott Yeldell told campaign volunteers at the Texas Republican Convention that the District 23 race was "about taking the gavel out of (U.S. House Speaker) Nancy Pelosi's hand."

Republicans succeeded in that national effort on Nov. 3. The district, which has a 65 percent Latino population, is nearly evenly split between Democrats and Republicans.

"Anyone that does their job right, or does it correctly, there is a certain degree of nervousness that goes with that. This is not a gamble, if done systemically and correctly. If you've done all of that, you hope your methods pay off," Canseco said. "We are elated our efforts paid off and that things worked out well."

Making reference on picking up three new state congressional seats, Canseco said "it's a new day for Texans and a great day for the U.S.A."

"Texas has the strongest Republican delegation going to Washington. We are going to fight for the state that is the example of how we should run the rest of our country," he said.

Rodriguez was seeking his seventh term on Capitol Hill, and his third representing District 23.

Many political experts believe Rodriguez lost the race in July when a video of the Congressman losing his temper at a San Antonio restaurant made its way across the Internet.

According to a San Antonio Express-News article, in early July, Rodriguez, dropped by a North Side restaurant for an informal get-together with his constituents. By his own admission, the San Antonio Democrat broke one of his cardinal rules for such gatherings by delivering a speech before allowing the audience to ask questions.

Rodriguez was attempting to defend his controversial vote in favor of health-care-reform legislation when a woman urged him to "tell the truth." An angry Rodriguez confronted her, swatted his newspaper against a table and told her, "Don't accuse me of not saying the truth."

Within days, the video of the exchange went viral, and Rodriguez found himself ridiculed by Rush Limbaugh and Fox News.

"That video was the death blow," said Colin Strother, an Austin-based Democratic consultant, in the Express-News article. "Losing his temper, acting out like that, you just can't do it. It cost him a lot of votes."

Rodriguez lost his temper in front of a Crockett County audience in November 2009 when he was asked about his voting record, specifically following Pelosi.

"I grew up on the south side of San Antonio and fought the political machine. I'm not anybody's little puppet. I don't care about the Washington Post. That has nothing to do with my character. I respond to the needs of the community. I do not agree on everything," Rodriguez said during that November meeting. "On the stimulus - that I feel strongly about. That money helped us out. You're not going to get out of this. If we collapse as a country, the whole world collapses."

"When people tell us 'no,' we're not going to tell them that we know better than them and we're going to shove this down their throat," Canseco said to the Express-News. "We need to make sure that we're in contact with our constituents and listen to them."

Rodriguez's 35-year political career has been marked by heart-breaking defeats and tenacious comebacks.

He failed in his first bids at school board and state legislative seats, and was bounced from Congress in 2004 when he lost the District 28 Democratic primary by 58 votes to challenger Henry Cuellar, after a recount overturned an apparent Rodriguez victory.

Rodriguez lost again to Cuellar in the 2006 primary, but months later he successfully challenged District 23 incumbent Henry Bonilla after a U.S. Supreme Court decision resulted in the redrawing of that district's map.

Rodriguez, who conceded the election on Nov. 4 in a phone call that Canseco described as "gracious," insists that he was simply a casualty of an unstoppable Republican tsunami.

"The voters have spoken and chosen to elect a new leader to represent them in Congress. I respect their decision and wish Congressman-elect Canseco the best. I want to thank all my supporters, staff and volunteers who gave tirelessly to this campaign. We let our principles guide us and I have no regrets. I believe I worked hard with our constituents to leave this District better than we found it," Rodriguez said in a press release. "I delivered for the District, maintained an independent voting record and made myself available to all the constituents. Most of all, we helped men, women and families be heard and helped in very real ways. That is what government is about. And I am so proud to have been a part of that."

For his part, Rodriguez indicated that he's open to a future political run, if the state's redistricting effort next year creates a favorable district map for him.

"I'm either going to be supporting candidates or being a candidate myself," he said. "No one is going to retire me. I'll do that on my own."

district play came against Poth and last week's game against Karnes City.

Three Rivers is located on near I-37 south between San Antonio and Corpus Christi.

The game would start out well for the Lions.

Suddreth would recover a fumble caused by Jerrod duBois in the first quarter. This would set up the Lions on the Harper 15-yardline.

Quarterback Abey Lara would get the ball to the one and Kyle Dean then punched it into the end zone. Nathan De Hoyos would kick the extra-point for the 7-0 lead.

Toward the end of the first, the Lions would begin their next scoring drive with Mark Gallardo, Lara, Blake Morrow and Dean moving the ball.

Lara would then connect with Freshman Saul Vargas on a 22-yard pass to set up Dean's second touchdown two plays later as the second quarter began. De Hoyos, who kicked perfectly all night through an injury, would make it 14-0.

However, the Longhorns would make a come back in the third quarter.

On their first series in the second half, Harper's Jake Whitten took off down the field for a 35-yard scoring run. The Lions would block the extra-point attempt to make it 14-6.

Dean would sprint down the field to the Harper 20-yardline on the kickoff return, but the Lions would not be able to get anything going, forcing a turnover on the fourth down.

That would lead to Har-er's second scoring drive, as the Longhorns moved the ball to the two. Taylor Brands drove the ball in and Whitten scored the two-point conversion to tie up the game 14-14 with four minutes left in the third.

An interception on the next series by Harper allowed them to set up a third scoring drive. This time Reagan Randle found Jordan Green for the 17-yard pass. The extra-point kick would hit the goal post to make it 20-14 at the end of the third.

"They came out in the third quarter and got after us. I was proud of the kids for not going into panic mode when Harper had the momentum going into the fourth quarter," Brown said. "That was Harper's first home loss, they are tough at home."

The Lions would get the last quarter started off well as Gallardo, Lara and Dean, who rushed for 143 yards on 24 carries, would get the ball deep into Longhorn territory.

Gallardo squeezed the ball into the end zone. With De Hoyos' kick, the Lions were up 21-20 with 11:36 left in the game.

Penalties plagued both teams all night, but the Lions were able to capitalize on Harper's mistakes in the fourth.

As Harper was aiming to make a move on their 39-yardline, when the Lions defense pressured Dylan Myers. This knocked the ball loose and gave Suddreth the chance to score his second defensive touchdown of the year.

Ozona finishes 7-3 overall and 4-1 in district play for the regular season.

Seventh Grade Lions shutout 'Horns

The Seventh Grade football team traveled to Harper on Nov. 4 for their last game of the 2010 football season.

The Lions would score early in the initial period when Dakota Lee busted through for a touchdown. Bryce Martin ran in for the two-point conversion making the score 8-0.

The Lions put up six more when Martin found pay dirt. The two-point conversion failed leaving the score at 14-0 in favor of the Lions.

In the second quarter the Lions would put together a long drive before Lee would dive in from the five-yard line. Javier Barrera, behind excellent blocking from Michael Graham, Jacob Talamendez, Jeremy Munoz, Jose Ojeda, Juan Venegas, and Alan Landa, would run in the two-point conversion, making the halftime score 22-0, in favor of the Lions.

The second half would start with a bang as the Lions kicked off to the Longhorns but Martin would go down and strip the ball and Jose Ojeda would score his first touchdown of the season. The extra point was successful when Ben Badillo would make a reception in the end zone making the score 30-0.

The Lions would not score again until midway through the fourth quarter when Barrera, behind some excellent blocking from Kalen Perez, John Gomez, Anthony Garza, Ricardo Damien, Kevin Villareal, Noe Medina, Erbey Blanco, Alex Hopper and Rafael Diaz, would score from ten yards out making the final score 36-0.

The seventh-graders finished the season with a winning record of 5-3.

Coach Lunn, Coach Elguea, and the entire Seventh Grade football team would like to express their appreciation to all the parents for their support during this 2010 Football season.

Eighth Grade Lions claw 'Horns

The Eighth Grade Lions went out with a bang winning 44-8 over the Harper Longhorns last week.

The Lions would score first when Jayton Rodriguez would go 45 yards down the side line for the touchdown. Dylan Perez would add the two-point conversion.

Harper would tie the game and the Lions would then get on a roll.

Rodriguez would score three more touchdowns he would score on a 40-yard run behind great blocks from the line and the receivers.

After a defensive stand, Rodriguez would return the punt 53 yards and on Harpers next position Rodriguez would intercept a pass and return it for the score.

Daniel Lombrana would add a two-point conversion and Chase De Hoyos would hit two extra-points.

Lombrana would also get on the scoring action with a 45-yard touchdown run De Hoyos would again add the extra-point and the Lions would have a 37-8 halftime lead.

On the opening play of the second half Ricky Porras would run 63 yards to the end zone and De Hoyos would again make the extra-point.

"We came out tough and made some great plays on both sides of the ball. Our defense only gave up four first downs and our line did a great job of making blocks," said Coach John Esparza. "This was a great way to end the year. Coach Villarreal and myself would like to thank the guys for all their hard work this season and look forward to great things from these young men in the future. The whole team would like to thank the family, friends, and fans for all of their support."
