Special meeting about new clinic Thursday

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

The Crockett County Commissioners' Court will hold a special called meeting to discuss hiring an architect to prepare plans for a new health clinic.

The meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22, at the courthouse annex. The meeting is open to the public.

Also on the agenda is discussion about the new clinic.

At the Jan. 12 regular meeting, many of the commissioners had questions about the project, including the location and the design.

One concern is if the new clinic is built where the old north swimming pool was located, across the street from current clinic, then care center residents would have to be transported over by ambulance or van.

"That's something we need to consider. There are a lot of things to consider. If Shannon equips are they going to be holding that over our heads every time we want to do something? Do we want to get into a bind like that," said Commissioner Frank Tambunga at the Jan. 12 meeting. "Here's the opportunity to try and get all this together and plan it."

Shannon Medical Center

has offered to equip the new clinic if the county builds the facility.

"The main thing before we hire an architect is everyone sit down and hammer out all the issues we may or may not have," Deaton said.

The commissioners will also have another meeting at noon Thursday, Jan. 22, at the courthouse annex. The meeting is open to the public.

Items on that agenda include:

- discussion and action to move the balance of paving, equipment and equipment payments into the equipment replace fund.

- discussion and action on moving the balance of health service center into the health service center improvement fund.

- discussion and action to consider proposals received for engineering serves and for management services for the Hampton Inn project assisted by a 2014 grant from the Texas Capital Fund of the Texas Community Development Block Grant Program; select an engineering firm and a management firm, and authorize the county judge to enter into service contracts with the selected firms, in accordance with state rules and program guidelines.

Teaching, learning about King's dream

Ozona Schools honor MLK Day

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Ozona students have dreams.

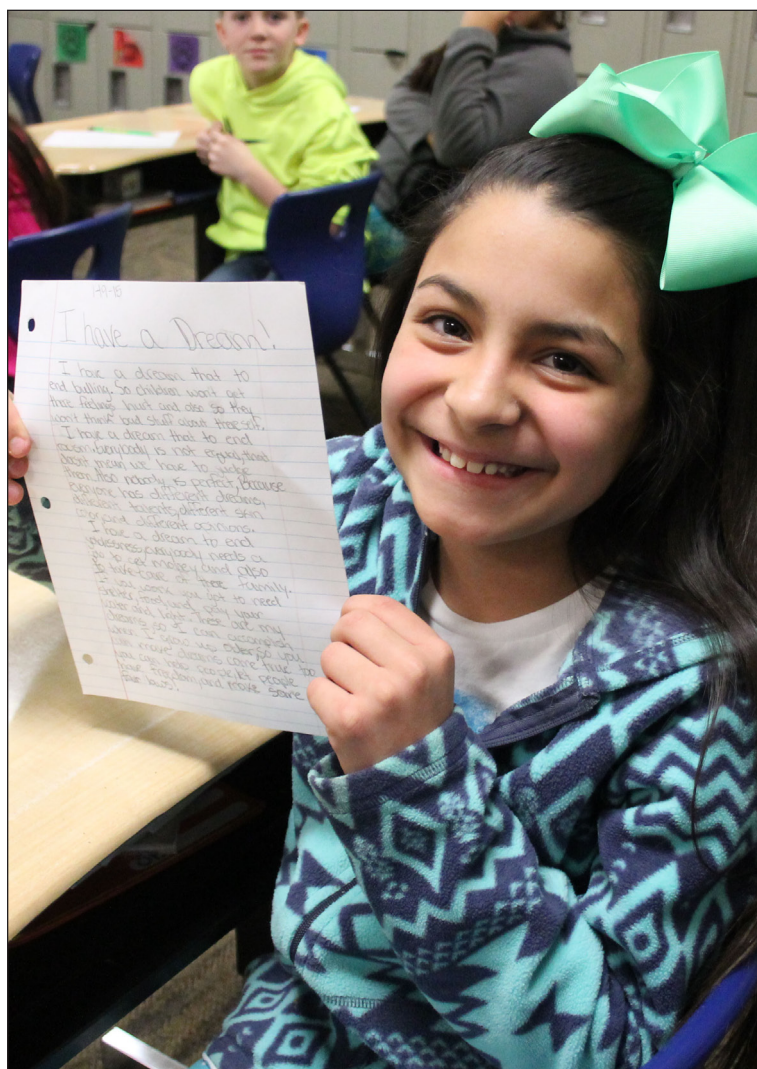

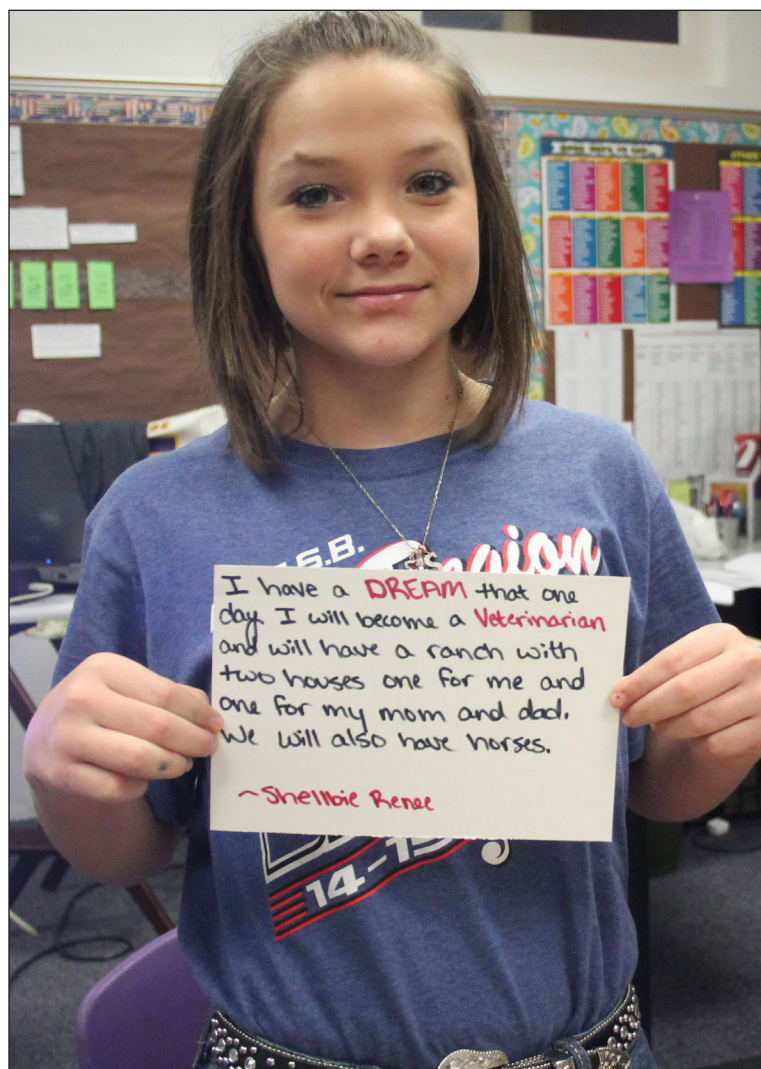

They have dreams to be veterinarians, to own a ranch, to run in the Olympics, to end bullying and to play football in the NFL.

On Monday, students in all three campuses learned about the dream of civil rights activist Martin Luther King Jr.

At Ozona Middle School, Dana Criswell had her eighth grade English class compare and contrast King with the life of Gandhi.

"This day is about all the people that helped in the civil rights movement," Criswell said. "As our generations progress, you guys have less and less of this idea of differences between races."

Criswell gave a history of the civil rights movement, starting back to the Civil War, where people like Sojourner Truth

Ozona Schools took time Monday to teach students about civil rights activist Martin Luther King Jr. Students had the opportunity to write about their own dreams and even write their own "I Have A Dream" speeches.

BY REGAN ELLMER
CHIEF OF STAFF STATE REP. MURR

JUNCTION, Texas - Yesterday, Republican Andrew Murr joined the 21 other newly elected members of the Texas House and was sworn into office on the first day of the 84th Session of the Texas Legislature. Surrounded by friends, family and supporters, Murr presented his broad policy goals for the year.

"One of my primary motivations for seeking this seat in the House stemmed from my experiences as a County Judge, dealing with unfunded mandates and overreach from both Austin and Washington," said Murr. "The people of our counties and cities and school

Taylor, Lombrana named All-West Texas

Ozona Lions Zack Taylor and Daniel "Bono" Lombrana have been chosen for the San Angelo Standard-Times 2A All-West Texas Football Team.

Taylor, a 5-10, 265-pound senior offensive lineman, was a key cog for the Lions, making all of the calls from the center position. He also chipped in 43 pancake blocks and allowed only one sack. His efforts earned him first-team all-district honors.

Lombrana, a 5-8, 210-pound senior linebacker turned into the defensive leader for the Lions. From his linebacker spot, he ended with a team-leading 105 tackles and added five forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and a blocked punt. For his efforts, he garnered District 3-2A MVP honors.

Ozona helps family in ice storm

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank the good citizens of Ozona, Texas for coming to our rescue after we hit a patch of black ice during an ice storm on Dec. 31, 2014.

Specifically we would like to thank Frank Tamburga, Jeffrey Stuart, Bobby Maness, Junior Trestos and Humber-to (apologies I didn't get your last name) and Highway Patrolman Johnson.

The Civic Center was a life saver. Cots, blankets, food, drinks and a warm place to spend the night.

Thank God for Frank and his many helpers.

By the following morning, we were able to obtain a hotel room. Frank and Jeffrey drove us, along with our belongings to the room. As Frank was helping with more stranded travelers he made the time to find someone to give us a ride to San Angelo to obtain a rental car. Thank you again Bobby Maness.

We made it home safe and sound the following Sunday. After our return home, Frank called to check on us. What a classy guy.

With Much Gratitude,

Gary, Belinda, Madeline,
and Rachel Giebel

Forming a business plan

Too many small businesses decide to write a business plan only when they have to. Unless you need to seek assistance from a lender or investor, there is no plan. Don't wait to write a business plan until you think you'll have enough time. The advisers at the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center hear small business owners say, "I can't plan. I am too busy getting things done." If you are indeed that busy, it is imperative to plan.

Writing a business plan is not the easiest thing to do and mistakes can and will be made. Let's take a look at some of the common mistakes that are made when writing a plan and try and make this easier and more understandable.

BUSINESS TIPS

Most people think in terms of profits instead of cash. When the idea of starting a business begins to take shape, think about what it costs to make or sell the product, how you will price it, and what profits per unit would be. Many potential small business owners think sales minus costs and expenses equal profits. However, we don't spend the profits in a business. We spend cash.

A tough question: Just how 'JeSuisCharlie' to be?

A tough question has been asked: Just how "JeSuisCharlie" (I am Charlie) should we be?

At the outset, First Amendment advocates need to recognize the many layers of such a question — which originates not in reconsideration of recognition of those killed Jan. 7, but in the subsequent worldwide examination of the content of Charlie Hebdo magazine and other publications like it.

Does being critical of the magazine's biting satire, or suggesting it went beyond free speech into bigotry and deliberate provocation, offer any moral ground or comfort to the criminals who killed 12 people on at the Paris-based weekly magazine?

In many ways, the answer in the U.S. is easier — at least in the start. The 45 words of the First Amendment says the government "shall make no law" restraining our freedoms of religion, speech, press, assembly and petition. No mention of political correctness, politeness or subjects or styles that legally are out of bounds.

Of course, in the U.S., we daily debate the application of our First Amendment freedoms. But we're so sanguine about our core rights that almost none of us can even name them. Since 1997, no more than 6 percent could name all five in the annual State of the First Amendment survey done by the Newseum Institute's First Amendment Center.

Only in the extremes, such as North Korea's objections to the silly movie "The Interview," do we seem to recognize how basic, how important and even how fragile those freedoms are. And with the gut-punch of the terror killings in France, we're suddenly viewing free expression through a worldwide looking glass — examining its values, deep impact and perhaps its limits.

Should publications show those controversial cartoons of the Prophet Muhammad? Nothing in U.S. law prevents news outlets from doing so. So here, the issue is not "can" but "should." Most news outlets have chosen not to do so, by reports. In the last week, the controversy reached even to the pages (and offices) of The New York Times, which chose not to publish the images.

Times editor Dean Baquet was so angered by what he considered a particularly "nasty and arrogant" comment by a California university professor (Baquet's words) that he included an earthy obscenity in a Facebook post that also said mockingly:

"Appreciate the self righteous second guessing without even considering there might be another point of view. Hope your students are more open minded."

Let's ask the "JeSuisCharlie" question in terms closer to home: Would we have the stomach for a "I am Uncle Sam"-style campaign if the catalyst were deaths at a U.S. magazine with a cover story of the week showing a racial caricature of African Americans with the N-word in large type overhead? Or at a Neo-Nazi publication mocking the Holocaust with a cartoon based on the death camps?

There's also the pragmatic realities attendant to world reaction. The non-partisan Reporters Without Borders group applauded world support after Charlie Hebdo killings but said it was "appalled by the presence of leaders from countries where journalists and bloggers are systematically persecuted," such as Egypt, Russia, Turkey, and the United Arab Emirates.

The First Amendment rests on the concept that there is a free marketplace of ideas, where the open exchanges of views, however vile and regardless of being held by many or a few, will lead ultimately to the correct solutions for us all. There's also the theory that we need to be exposed to ideas and opinions of all kinds, even those we find repugnant, if only to be informed and motivated to argue against them.

A lasting legacy of those who died at Charlie Hebdo is a new, worldwide discussion over what we collectively find acceptable in that marketplace — hopefully, acceptable by our own judgment and not by that of either government bureaucrats or gun-toting thugs.

GENE POLCINSKI is chief operating officer of the Newseum Institute and senior vice president of its First Amendment Center. E-mail him at gpolcinski@newseum.org.

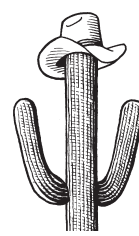

Generation Why

I don't understand these people called millennials. They are of a genus and species foreign to me. For those even more in the dark than myself, millennials are people born from 1980 to 2000. They're also known as Generation Y because they followed Generation X. Another group I've never understood. In fact, the last time I had a grip on things was in 1970 when I just got out of high school and knew everything.

These millennials are not at all like me, a baby boomer. They stare at their phones all day and half the night and type with their thumbs. To the millennials a hot rod is a Honda with a bad muffler. They like soccer, don't read books and are perfectly comfortable in a home without bookshelves, or anything to go on them. I couldn't live like that. What really bothers me is they have no need or desire for any of the things baby boomers spent our lives collecting, like my extensive motel stationery collection that was going to finance our retirement.

It also saddens me that the millennials prefer chicken to beef and like to eat raw fish. Yet they don't actually like to fish. Or hunt. They don't appear to have a working knowledge of tools like the hammer and the pipe wrench and to them the most important thing in life is the number of Facebook "friends" they've never met.

When I was a kid your 16th birthday was HUGE. It meant you could get your drivers license. Many 16 year old millennials could care less. They'll wait in line for three days to get the latest gadget from Apple but not

IT'S THE PITTS

LEE PITTS

English. Or what passes for English these days.

Generation Y in general is extremely liberal, they believe in same sex marriage, want to legalize dope, and are green, green, green. They're dead broke, aren't in any rush to get married and still speak with their parents a couple times per day while in college! Heck, I didn't do that when I was eight years old and still living at home. Speaking of home, one half of millennials move back home after graduating from college! To them their childhood bedroom will always be MySpace.

They get real excited about things that leave me cold, like social networking, video games, Tweeting and blogging! The millennials say they want their very own individual identity so they're all getting pierced and tattooed.

one hour for a driver's license.

Some millennial youngsters show rabbits and turkeys at the county fair for gosh sakes. In my day they'd have been laughed out of FFA. And instead of placing last, or even first, they got a participatory ribbon so as to not hurt anyone's feelings. They don't mow lawns or have summer jobs because that might interfere with their summer trip to Borneo to build houses, or to teach

I suppose it's natural, these feelings of mine. My Grandpa never understood my generation either and, quite frankly, never did I. Why a bunch of them wanted to go to Woodstock, roll around in the mud, use filthy outhouses and contract venereal disease just to listen to a drug addict play a guitar with his teeth is beyond me. But at least the music was actually music and people sang, even if the lyrics were goofy and unintelligible.

I feel guilty as a baby boomer because of the country we've left Generation Y. They'll be paying our debts forever. Polls show they put lifestyle and friends above work, which is a good thing because there aren't many good jobs anyway. At least not any that would pay off the hundred thousand dollars they borrowed for college. That's why they are waiting tables part time at Olive Garden.

The 80 million millennials generally are risk averse, they abuse fewer drugs and alcohol than my generation, and they don't care for dirty politics or politicians. They are not easy to B.S. and are the best educated generation in history. The IQ of 100 of best of the millennials I'm quite sure is higher than the combined IQ of the 400,000 or so that gathered at Woodstock. They are civic minded and deeply depressed about polar bears and global warming.

Trust me on this millennials, the polar bears will be just fine. You've got bigger problems to worry about.

Perry ends tenure with final address to lawmakers

AUSTIN — Gov. Rick Perry delivered his farewell address to a joint session of the House and Senate on Jan. 15.

Before recounting various aspects of the state's performance during his record-breaking tenure as chief executive, Perry said, "I have come here to reflect on what we have done together, and to say farewell. But most of all, to tell you it has been the highest of honors to serve as your governor for the last 14 years."

Perry painted a picture of Texas "as a land of unlimited opportunity" with mentions of such items as job growth, the booming oil and gas industry, various other economic drivers, fiscal management, education and public safety. "While some still struggle in the shadows of opportunity, we have created tremendous possibilities for millions of Texans. While the rest of the nation has lost middle class jobs, Texas has created them," Perry said. He also reminded the audience of challenges recently faced, such as "the disintegration of the Space Shuttle Columbia, Hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Ike, devastating wildfires, the spread of Ebola and a humanitarian crisis at the border."

Wrapping up, Perry said, "I couldn't pick a better successor as governor than (former Texas Attorney General) Greg Abbott. And he couldn't have two better partners to lead this state than (Lieutenant Governor and former Senator) Dan Patrick and (House Speaker) Joe Straus. As I bid farewell, I know the future is in good hands."

STRAUS REELECTED AS SPEAKER

State Rep. Joe Straus, R-San Antonio, was elected to a fourth consecutive term as speaker of the Texas House of Representatives on Jan. 13, opening day of the 84th Texas Legislature.

The vote was 128-19 in favor of Straus. The 19 votes were for second-term state Rep. Scott Turner, R-Frisco, a businessman and former National Football League player.

REVENUE ESTIMATE IS GIVEN

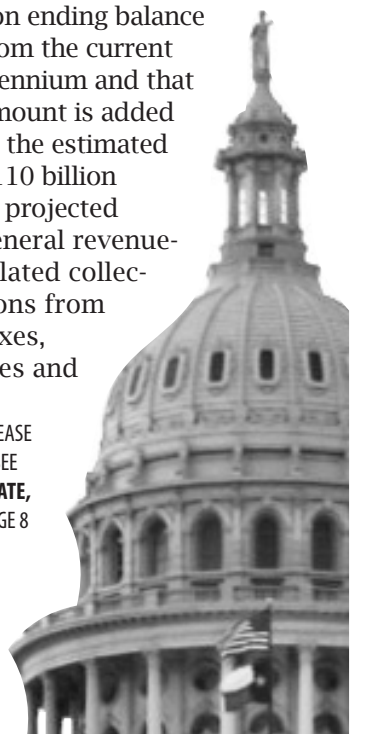

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on Jan. 12 released the state's Biennial Revenue Estimate, necessary information for Texas lawmakers to craft a state budget for fiscal years 2016 and 2017.

The 94-page document shows the state is projected to have some $113 billion in revenue available for general-purpose spending during the 2016-2017 biennium. State revenue from all sources is estimated at $221 billion for the next biennium, a total that includes $110 billion in federal receipts and other income.

State government begins with a projected $7.5 billion ending balance from the current biennium and that amount is added to the estimated $110 billion in projected general revenue-related collections from taxes, fees and MARCIA ALLSUP was reunited with her dog Sally Jane Saturday. Allsup and Sally Jane had been apart for a year.

Rescued pup reunites with distant owner

BY CHRIS CANTU
SPECIAL TO THE OZONA STOCKMAN

When a small misdemeanor sent Waco resident Marcia Allsup to jail for four months, the dog groomer never anticipated that the person she left in care of her three dogs would abandon the pooches while remodeling a nursing home in a small town. Immediately after her release, Allsup spent days searching online for her pets in surrounding areas. Of particular interest was a 13 year-old Chihuahua named Sally Jane, whom Allsup had been taking care of for a friend who went into retirement.

Two hundred fifty miles away, the cold grip of an Ozona Animal Control cat trap dutifully wrapped rigid bars around a shuddering, 15-pound critter. Yet, upon receiving the call to retrieve the animal, rescuer Joe Jurado found not a feline, but a small Chihuahua trapped within the cage. Pleading eyes, large ears, and an irresistibly friendly demeanor convinced the Animal Control team to allow the dog to live out the remainder of her already 13 year life within their facility, sustaining her out of pocket and naming her Granny. The Chihuahua quickly became a part of the family, known locally as the shelter pet.

The Animal Control center even posted pictures of their beloved Granny on their Facebook page, to which Allsup was eventually referred to by a friend after a long period of searching. Upon seeing the face of her long lost dog reflected on the screen, Allsup was instantly struck with an overwhelming flurry of emotions. The Animal Control center in Ozona had been taking care of her dog, Sally Jane, for nearly a year under the name of Granny.

"When I saw my dog on the computer screen, I instantly recognized her, and I started shaking my roommate until she woke up because I was so happy," Allsup said.

Allsup called the shelter the next day, where she was informed that the Animal Control center had also rescued another one of her dogs, Skeeter. The dog was removed from an unfit home on north side of town earlier that year and renamed Chico before being admitted the shelter. Unfortunately, Skeeter's failing health lead to the ultimate decision to put the dog to sleep the day of Allsup's call, and after a tearful goodbye over speakerphone with his former owner, Skeeter was laid to rest.

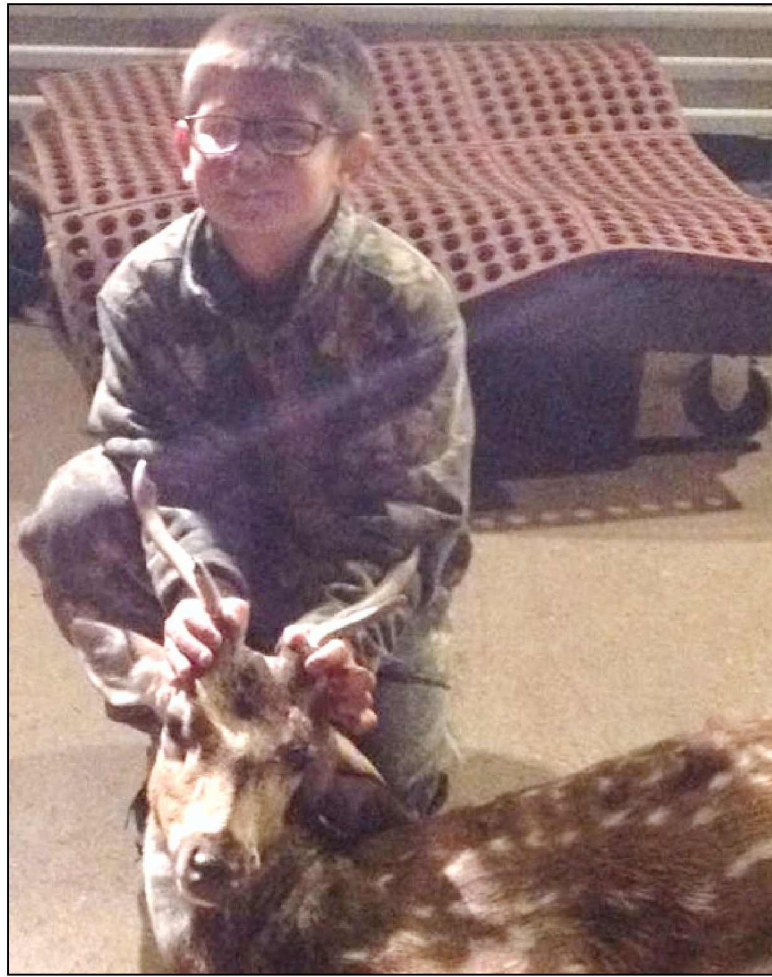

"Of course, it was tough to say goodbye to my baby right after I had found him after all this time," Allsup said. "But I got closure out of it as well. I could tell that he had been cared for, and that his last days were spent happily."

Allsup, who spent 20 years as an animal rescue worker, felt elated to see the system work so well despite the distance and drove down to Ozona that same weekend to be reunited with her dog. After an emotional goodbye, the shelter signed over Sally Jane, who returned to Waco with her owner.

"Letting go of Granny was difficult because she really had become a part of us in this past year. When we found her, she was just such a good dog that had already lived for so long. We couldn't bear to put her down," Jurado said. "It is never a dog's fault that they end up at the shelter. Our ultimate mission, when we receive a good dog like Granny, is to find the dog a home. So, in that sense, we're happy that Granny found a home where she will be loved."

Allsup's third dog, a six-year old named Chica, has yet to be found. For information regarding Chica or any other missing animals within the Ozona area, contact the Animal Control Center at (325) 392-3676.

CANYON MORAN got this nice Axis buck at his friends near Robert Lee, Texas. His parents are Jason and Gina Miran. His grandparents are Tina and Joe Moran of Ozona.

Flu prevention

BY SUSAN BILANO
FAMILY HEALTH CENTER OF OZONA

With the Flu Season in full force and cases being detected daily at the clinic, we at The Family Health Center understand any apprehension and hesitation about sitting in our lobby with people who are very sick.

Although it is impossible to implement a "virus free" environment, your health is important to us too. Therefore we have implemented the following protocols in order to make your visit at the clinic as "germ free" as we possibly can:

- Masks are available upon your arrival. If you wish to wear one during your visit with us, please ask the front office staff or any nursing staff, and they will provide you one.
- Our housekeeper is wiping down chairs and surfaces several times a day, both in the lobby, patient exam rooms, lab, x-ray and bathrooms with a disinfecting solution. Floors in these areas are mopped twice daily with the same type of solution.
- Exam Rooms, Lab and x-ray are routinely sprayed with EndBac II after patients leave the rooms.

- Gallon pump bottles of hand sanitizer are located within view throughout the clinic, as well as units that are wall mounted. These are not only to be utilized by the staff, but are for the patients use as well.

Aside from your visits at the clinic, please remember to do the following, on a personal basis in order to protect yourself and those around you:

- Wash hands frequently with soap and water
- Avoid touching your nose, face, and eyes
- Avoid large crowds and people that are sick
- Cough or sneeze into a Kleenex, and toss it immediately
- Do not eat or drink after others

- If you have a fever, stay home for 24 hours after the fever is gone
- If you begin showing sign of the flu, seek medical care quickly so that you may be placed on the proper medications.

For more information on the flu and how to protect yourself, please visit the CDC website at www.cdc.gov/flu.

Rehab telethon nets $1.3 million

BY RONALD W. ERDRICH
ABILENE REPORTER-NEWS

There were more people than ever Saturday night at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center's 45th annual telethon. "We had a huge crowd all night," said Dan Huggins, director of donor relations for the Rehab Center. "Probably the biggest crowd we've ever had at the telethon."

Some of those people visiting the Abilene Civic Center found themselves taking creative measures when it came to parking their cars.

"I had some reports today that there were some parking issues because there were no parking places," Huggins said. "People were parking in some places maybe they shouldn't have."

The telethon's popularity was reflected in the final totals for the night. Huggins said the event brought in just over $1.3 million.

That was their third-highest total, 2012 being the record-setter at just over $1.33 million. Ozona's phone bank raised $14,005, which is the best year yet, said Colbey Bunker with Ozona Woman's League.

The telecast raised money to support patients in Abilene, Ozona and San Angelo and was broadcast in nine television markets. Featured along with the auction was country music singer Neal McCoy, as well as host Charlie Chase, Red Steagall, Bill and Susan Hayes, Brad Maule, and Twyla Foreman.

The telethon broke for the evening news at 10 p.m., then resumed at 10:30. Huggins called it very successful and said there were still more than 250 people in the building after midnight.

THE GIANT TREE

While walking in the woods I spotted a giant tree but it was dead. It was old and over three feet in diameter. What an example as it stood way taller than the surrounding trees. That tree reminded me of a phone call I received last week. The voice on the other end said, "Daddy passed away this morning" I knew the caller and knew my lifelong friend had passed away. He had been in the hospital for a while and was not expected to live. It is a miracle that he has lived this long as he had his first major heart attack at age forty. Then over the years followed more heart problems bypasses, stints, pacemakers and finally a defibrillator. He had accepted Christ as His Savior at fourteen but he did not totally surrender to God's will until after his first heart attack. He was a different person after that, (Matthew 6:10, 7:21, and 10:39). He became faithful in Church, quit smoking and worked around the church on his days off. There is probably not an electrical wire, sewer pipe, ac vent or roof shingle that he did not put up or on at our little Church. He also helped lots of people. I cannot help but think God says of him, "well done my good and faithful servant", (Matthew 25:21). He finished the race God had for Him, (2 Timothy 4:6-8).

See you in Church next Sunday.

OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

Movies every Thursday

BY BRENDA NEWTON
SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

We had a crazy thing happen this weekend. Thank heavens for the ones that come here at night on the weekends. They called Saturday night and said there was water in the hall next to the kitchen. We went to the center and found that the ice machine had sprung a leak and had already made a puddle that was running down the hall in both directions. We called the company and they are coming out Monday morning. We cut the water off to the machine and mopped the floor and all was well. I just keep thinking what a mess it would have been if no one had gone to the center until Monday. Thank you girls for being there and giving me a call.

This week's movie will be "The Blind Side" starring Sandra Bullock, Tim McGraw, Quinton Aaron and Kathy Bates. Come on out and enjoy yourself with popcorn puffs and drinks at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Remember that you can come to the center at night if you let me know when you want to.

Exercise - 9 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday
Bridge - 1:30 p.m. Monday

Mexican Train - 1:30 p.m. Wednesday spoke for African-American and women's rights.

"Civil rights is the rights everybody has because we are all equal," said student Addie Nehus.

Criswell talked about how King and Gandhi both used peaceful protests.

"He did it non-violently, which is completely different than what's going on in Ferguson," said student Shellbie Rust, referring to the recent protests in Ferguson, Mo.

"It takes more strength to put your hands down and not fight back," Criswell added.

In Ashlee Allen's eighth grade social studies class, students watched King's "I Have A Dream" speech, talked about the speech and then wrote their own dreams.

Some students wanted to be doctors, run in the Olympics, play in the NFL, own a ranch or be President of the United States.

At OMS lessons about King were incorporated into English, social studies and technology classes.

At OES, teachers incorporated lessons throughout the day.

In Lynn Curry's fifth grade class, she also tied the civil rights movement with the Civil War and asked students about what they wanted to see change in today's world.

Their answers were end homelessness, start a shelter program, end joblessness, end racism, end bullying, end violence and make pay more equal.

Students also watched part of King's speech and were then asked to write their own "I Have A Dream" speech. Many of them stressed the importance of ending bullying in schools.

An art project of drawing a picture of King involved the students cooperating and working together.

At OHS students also watched King's speech in their social studies classes.

"Martin Luther King Jr. didn't start out to be a civil rights leader. He was a preacher. He believed everyone is equal," Criswell said.

ADDIE NEHUS writes her dream during eighth grade social studies Monday as part of the MLK Day lesson.

districts should be free to govern themselves and to control their property and natural resources.

Murr continued, "Water has been, and will remain, a vital issue in our district, so I will be intimately involved in the debate over any legislation relating to the management, use and conservation of surface and ground water. I will also be on the front lines in the battle to protect our property rights and water rights from federal overreach."

Murr outlined several other key items on his legislative agenda, including pushing for increased transparency in state budgeting, strengthening Second Amendment protections while making open carry available to Texans, and enhancing border security. He also spoke of the importance of constituent service and his commitment to ensuring the 15,000-square mile district receives excellent service from his office.

"Constituent service is one of the primary obligations of a state representative, and it will be a top priority of mine this year," Murr said. "I want to make sure people from every corner of our 12-county district have easy access to my office, and I will be announcing policies to that end in the coming weeks. Regardless of where a person lives, it should be convenient for all citizens to interact with their representative."

Murr's capitol office in Austin, staffed by two veterans of the legislature, Regan Ellmer and Debbie Van Bibber, will be located on the first floor of the extension in room E1.412. Ellmer, who will serve as Chief of Staff, is entering his third legislative session with experience on both the House and Senate sides of the capitol. In addition to working with members, he also has extensive experience working on legislative committees with an emphasis on transportation issues. Van Bibber will serve as Administrative Assistant with more than two decades of experience on Rep. Harvey Hilderbran's staff, her institutional knowledge of the District 53 office, existing casework load and other holdover issues will allow for a smooth transition between Rep. Hilderbran and Rep. Murr.

Murr concluded on a personal note, "86 years ago, my grandfather was sworn in as a member of the Texas House for the very first time. I am ready for the challenges ahead and honored to serve many of the same hard-working communities my grandfather served nearly a century ago. My pledge is that I will go to work every day and do my dead-level best to represent the interests of the families of our district. They deserve, and should expect, no less."

Murr can be reached at (512) 463-1449 or at www.house.state.tx.us.

OHS BASEBALL

The Ozona Lions Baseball Program would like to bring back former baseball players by putting on an Alumni baseball game this year.

The Alumni game will take place on Friday, Feb. 20, at the high school field followed by a home run derby.

The cost will be $25 per individual for the alumni game. To participate in only the home run derby it will be $15. To participate in both the alumni game and home run derby the cost will be $35. Start time will be at 7 p.m. and there will be a 90 minute time limit.

If you are interested, feel free to contact me by e-mail at ray.talamantes@ozonahschools.net.

Soil and Water Stewardship Speaking Contest

The Soil and Water Stewardship Public Speaking Contest is open to high school ag science students interested in conservation. The contest is aimed at broadening students' interest and knowledge of conservation and how people must depend on and take care of the world around them for survival.

The contest is conducted through the Texas FFA, with contests at the local, area and state level. Students must be a member of the FFA. To prepare for the contest, students are to consult with their ag science teacher and work with their local soil and water conservation district. Students are encouraged to visit with their local SWCD to find out more about conservation practices in their area.

This project is a partnership between the Texas FFA, the Vocational Agriculture Teacher's Association of Texas, The Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, and the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Kelsey Kubala, Ozona High School Ag Science Department, can be contacted for more information regarding this.

A VEHICLE ACCIDENT near Barnhart last week killed two people. Roads were wet and icy during the collision.

Two people killed in vehicle accident

Two people were killed Jan. 13 after a two vehicle accident two miles west of Barnhart.

Martin Vivian Flores, 51, and Simon Hernandez Escobedo Jr., 33, were both pronounced dead at the scene by Irion County Justice of the Peace Donna Smith. Flores is from Edinburg, Texas and Escobedo is from Alamo, Texas.

Flores was driving a 2008 Chevy Silverado east on US 67 when he hit an icy spot and lost control.

His vehicle entered into a counterclockwise spin before being struck broadside by a 2015 Chevy Silverado driven by Donald Keith Arp III, 24 of San Angelo.

Arp suffered non-incapacitating injuries and was transported to Shannon Medical Center by private vehicle.

Neither Flores or Escobedo were wearing seat belts. Arp was wearing his seat belt.

Conditions were cloudy, wet and icy at the time of the accident.

Trooper Robert Aldrete of San Angelo investigated the accident.

Officers in prisoner transport bus had seatbelts

BY JON VANDERLAAN
ODESSA AMERICAN

Three seatbelts were available for officers on a prisoner transport bus that skidded off I-20 and crashed into a train, killing 10 and injuring five others on the bus.

Sgt. Elizabeth Barney, spokeswoman for the Texas Department of Public Safety, said they are not sure who was wearing seatbelts nor who was driving the bus. Seat belts were not installed on the bus for prisoners, who were handcuffed to each other in pairs.

It could take up to 45 days or longer for DPS officers to complete the investigation, she said.

The bus was driving at 7:40 a.m. Jan. 14 from the John Middleton Transfer Unit near Abilene to the Rogelio Sanchez State Jail in El Paso when it reportedly hit a patch of ice on Interstate 20 near Penwell, went off the road and down an embankment, and collided with a passing train.

Two correctional officers, 53-year-old Christopher Davis and 45-year-old Eligio Garcia, were killed in the accident, along with prisoners 34-year-old Byron Wilson, 29-year-old Tyler Townsend, 44-year-old Jesus Reyna, 22-year-old Kaleb Wise, 32-year-old Adolfo Ruiz, 25-year-old Michael Stewart, 31-year-old Angel Vasquez and 35-year-old Jeremiah Rodriguez.

The five survivors have all improved in condition status but one, as Officer Jason Self is still in critical condition.

Jason Clark, spokesman with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, said though Self is in critical condition, he has improved during his stay at a Lubbock hospital.

According to a fundraising website for Self, he was on a breathing tube that has since been removed and he has written a note to his wife.

The friend of the family who started the fundraiser said she has known Self's wife for about a year, and said she was someone who is always helping others and is a hard worker.

The fundraiser has already collected more than $14,000 in donations.

As a result of the accident, Self suffered a fracture to his C2 vertebrae, the second vertebrae in the neck.

Self is scheduled to have a four- to five-hour surgery on his neck today, and will still need surgery on his arm, which the friend said was broken.

According to the website, Self is awake and allowed to eat ice chips. Self and his wife have five children, according to the website.

Meanwhile, the friend said Self's wife is spending her days and nights at his side while their children are being taken care of by family.

While the friend said she's not sure how much medical expenses the family will incur, Self will be out of work and his wife isn't working as long as she needs to be with him, the friend said, meaning their need is even greater.

"It's just overwhelming, even for me not to be the one that's had a family member critically injured, to see people come together like that," the friend said.

Of the injured prisoners, 22-year-old Terry Johnson and 37-year-old Hector Rivera were in serious condition while 22-year-old Damien Rodriguez and 34-year-old Remigio Pineda were in fair condition.

Still unknown is the exact position of everyone on the bus, although DPS officials have said they believe survivors were riding at the rear of the bus.

Self began the trip from Abilene as the driver, Clark said, but the officers changed seats near Midland, with Self going to the back of the bus and one of the other two taking over as driver.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators on Monday were still in Odessa completing their investigation, spokesman Peter Knudson said, and they should have a preliminary report out by next week.

Regarding the UPS packages in the train hit by the bus, UPS spokesman Dan McMackin said in an email that all of the destroyed packages were sent to the landfill, but most of the packages were delayed and eventually continued on to their original destination.

Mackin said in the email that the packages were going from California to Florida, and that those who sent packages that were destroyed would be "made whole" with a check from UPS to re-purchase whatever was sent.

other income over the course of the 2016-17 biennium. And, about $5 billion will be set aside for transfers to the Rainy Day Fund and State Highway Fund. The resulting $113 billion represents the estimated revenue available to the Legislature for general purpose spending in the next biennium, according to the comptroller's office.

Hegar noted, "The significant drop in oil prices in recent months will likely lead to a marked slowdown in oil exploration and production. This slowdown will dampen overall economic growth in Texas. However," he added, "in addition to the economic boost felt by Texas motorists as a result of lower gasoline prices, there are industries in Texas' diverse economy such as transportation and some manufacturing that will benefit from lower energy prices. This, coupled with continued strength in construction, professional services and other sectors of the broader economy, should somewhat counterbalance a slowdown in the energy sector."

Understanding cash flow is critical.

Be realistic and don't overestimate the successes of your business venture. You don't necessarily need a great idea to start a business. You do need time, money, perseverance and common sense. Few small businesses are based on a new idea. A new idea could be harder to sell than an existing one, because potential customers don't understand a new idea and are often unsure if it will work.

Leave out vague and meaningless information such as "being the best." Remember the objective of the business plan is to help guide you. Include specific dates, management responsibilities, goals and objectives and cash flow projections.

DONATE LIFE PROGRAM GROWS

Texas Department of Public Safety on Jan. 14 announced that in 2014 nearly 1.4 million people added their names to the Glenda P. Dawson Donate Life Texas Registry, the database "of individuals who have officially indicated their decisions to donate organs and tissue to benefit thousands of people currently awaiting transplants."

DPS Director Steven McCraw said, "Every person who selflessly elects to register as a donor has the potential to save another individual's life."

In 2014 a record 226 registered donors made nearly 800 transplants possible and currently, more than 13,600 individuals are awaiting organ or tissue transplants in Texas alone, according to the group Donate Life Texas.

Three organ and tissue recovery agencies: LifeGift, Southwest Transplant Alliance and Texas Organ Sharing Alliance participate in the registry along with the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles

Tailor your plan to its real business purpose. Business plans are often documents that are presented to lenders or investors. They can be detailed action plans, financial plans, marketing plans and even personnel plans. They can be used to start a business, or just run a business more efficiently and successfully.

When working on the financials use conservative numbers so you can defend them. When in doubt, be less optimistic.

A business plan doesn't need to be a doctoral thesis or a novel. The SBDC has a library full of books to assist you with the process. Our advisers are here to help you along the way.

Which IRA is right for you?

Your mechanic may think he knows. But you may want a second opinion.

Whether you are an individual investor or a business owner, recent tax law changes have increased contribution limits for your qualified retirement plans, making it easier for you and your heirs to keep more of the money you've earned. There are even catch-up provisions for those over age 50.

Call me.
Together, we'll make sure you're maximizing your retirement plan potential with enhanced IRA opportunities.
